XI. But the exiles were not to be dissuaded from molesting those who were in possession of their property, and the city was in danger of an upheaval. Aratus saw that his only hope was in the generosity of Ptolemy, and therefore determined to sail to

to

\ a A / 7 b ~ cat Kat den@nvat tod Bactriéws Orws avT@ 4 Ypnuata cupPdadyntat pos Tas Stadvaels. ay-
, \ a ’ ‘ M @ id € \ M / e fal WVOn pev ody ato Mofwrvns vrép Manréas, ws TO
, ie
61a Topov Spopw xXpynoopevos. mpos b€ péya
(a) 4 b] ?
TVEDLA Kal TOAANY Oadagoay EK TENAYOUS KaTt-
aA fal ,
odaav évdovtos Tov KuBepyntou, Tapaepopevos
, fod a > S _/ / ” b
LoALs Mato THS Adpias TroNEeulas oVaNS. €exkpa-“ A e ‘3 , x a 9S A tetTo yap uo Avtiyovov Kai dvrakny eiyev: tv pOdcas améBn, Kai THY vady KaTadiTwY aT-
\ \ A

EXwopyoe paxpav ato Oadacons éywov Eva tov dirtwv ovv avtTe TiudvOnv. Kai xataBadovtes
e ’ , a EAUTOUS El$ TLVA TOTTOY VANS Ye“ovTAa YareTas b , xy 7 \ ef e , évuxtépevov. oriywm b€ Baotepoy o povpapxos 9 \ \ A . bla e \ A éemendav xat nrav tov’ Apatov vo tav Oepa-
3 , a movtwy é€EnmratijO) tov éxeivov, dedtdaypmevwv ANéyetv ws EvOUS a7rodpas eis EvBotav éFéwXevce.
\ f fa)
TA MEVTOL KopLComeva Kal THY vabv Kal ToUs Oepa-TOvTas aTegpnve Torkeua Kal KaTéoyXe.
Mera 6€ 1)€pas ov TroAdas ev Atropols bvTL TA
’ , 4 £ ¢ Lf - ~ ApatT@ yivetar Tis evTvxia, “Pwpaixns vews
, \ e TapaBaXrovens Kata Tov ToTOV év WTA bev eT \ ‘ \ \ i A
TKOTHY AVLOY, TA SE KOUTTOMEVOS SiAyev. Eardet ‘ 5 e@ a“ > Ss / 3 f be , \ fev OVY N VaAUS Els Yuplav, éTEBN O€ TELGAaS TOV
4 ¥ a , “ XN
vavkrnpov aypt Kapias d:axopicO rar: Kal Stexotd i piaOn xivduvots avOis ovk éXaTTOGL YpNoameEVos ‘: f > \ rie iA id n kava Ouarattav. é€« 6€ Kapias ypovm Torro @ \ bd At bg a a a mepalwleis es Atyurrroy avtobev te T@ Ractrel 4 OLAKELLEV@ TPOS AUTOV OiKElLws eveTUYXE, Kal TEOEPA-26
ARATUS x11. 1-5

Egypt and beg the king to furnish him with money for the settlement of these disputes. So he put to sea from Mothone above Malea, intending to make the shortest passage. But the steersman could not make head against a strong wind and high waves that came in from the open sea, and being carried out of his course got with difficulty to Adria,? which was a hostile place. For it was in the power of Antigonus, and held a garrison of his. Aratus an- ticipated arrest by landing, and forsaking the ship withdrew a long way from the sea, having with him one of his friends, Timanthes. They threw them- selves into a place that was thickly covered with woods, and had a grievous night of it. A little later the commander of the garrison came to the ship in search of Aratus, and was deceived by his servants, who had been instructed to say that he had run aw ay at once and had sailed off to Euboea. The ship, however, with its cargo and the servants of Aratus, was declared a prize of war and detained.

After a few days, while still in this helpless plight, Aratus met with a rare piece of good fortune, for a Roman ship put in at the place where he was staying, sometimes on a lookout-place, and sometimes hiding himself. The ship was bound for Syria, but after going on board Aratus persuaded the master of the vessel to convey him as far as Caria. Thither he was conveyed, encountering fresh perils by sea and perils as great as before. From Caria, after a long time, he made his way across to Egypt, and found the king both naturally well disposed towards him, and much grati-

1 The text is probably corrupt. Bergk suggested Hydrea, an island off the N.E. coast of Peloponnesus. Others think of Andros, an island 8.E. of Euboea.

ou

PLUTARCH'S LIVES

Teupevep ypapais Kat wivakiw amo THs 'EXXabos, év ols xptow eXov OvK dpovcov o "Apatos aet TL TOV TEXVLKOY Kal TEPLTTOY, pada re or ap-pidrov Kat MeXavOov, cuvaywv Kal KT@MEVOS améotennev.
XIII. "HvOer yap ert bo€a THs Lexvwvias pov-ons Kat xpnotoypadias, os peovns ab.apPopov eyovons TO Kadov, WaTE Kal "Ameddiy ex eLVvOL!
76n avpatoperor abies Bat Kal auryyeverbat TOUS avdpacwv érit Taravtw, THs SoFns HaXQov
y THS TEXINS d€opevor per rara Bei. 610 Tas [ev addas elKovas T@Y TUpdvywy «avelrev evdus 0
"Apatos, 6 OTe THV TONY prevdepase, wept b€ THS
Apiotpatou Karta Dirurmov UK LAT AVTOS | €Bou-
NeVT ATO Toy Xpovov. eypagpn pev yap UTO TdV-TOV TOV mept TOV MédavOor dippate viknpopw TAPETTMS O "Apia Tpatos, Arerov cuvefawapeevou THS ypadns, QS Tlonepov) TEPLNYNTHS (OTOPNKED. yy bé 70 epyov ak :oBeator, OTE yvapTtTecOae Tov" Apatov ume THS TEXVYNS, ALES
Te plcel TH TpOs TOUS TUpavvous é£aryouevoY Kerevety KaGatpetv. Tov ody Cwypadhov Neddxn dhirov dvta tov Apdatou tmapaitetcbat gaci Kai Saxpvev, ws O ovK EvrecOev, etveiv OTL TOLs TUPAv-VOLS TONELYTEVY, OV TOls TAY TUpavvwDV. " Kaowpev ovv TO apa Kat THY Neixnv, avtov Oé aot mapéEw tov Aplotpatov éyw Tapaywpovvta Tov Twivakos. émitpéwavtos ody tov 'Apatou 6:-
—_—

1 Philip IL, 382-336 n.c.

28

103:

ARATUS xm. 5-x1. 3

fied because Aratus had sent him drawings and paintings from Greece. In these matters Aratus had a refined judgement, and was continually collecting and acquiring works of artistic skill and excellence, especially those of Pamphilus and Melanthus. These he would send to Ptolemy.

XIII. For the fame of Sicyon's refined and beautiful paintings was still in full bloom, and they alone were thought to have a beauty that was indestruct- ible. Therefore even the great Apelles, when he was already admired, came to Sicyon and gave a talent that he might be admitted into the society of its artists, desiring to share their fame rather than their art. Hence it was that Aratus, although he at once destroyed the other portraits of the tyrants when he had given the city its freedom, de- liberated a long time about that of Aristratus (who flourished in the time of Philip of Macedon). For it was the work of Melanthus and all his pupils, and Aristratus was painted standing bya chariot in which was a Victory; Apelles also had a hand in the painting, as we are told by Polemon the Topographer. And the work was a marvellous one, so that Aratus was moved by the artistic skill therein; but after- wards, such was his hatred of the tyrants, that he ordered it to be removed and destroyed. Accord- ingly, the painter Nealces, who was a friend of Aratus, interceded with him for the picture, as we are told, and with tears, and when he could not persuade him, said that war should be waged against the tyrants, but not against the treasures of the tyrants. "Let us therefore leave the chariot and the Victory, but Aristratus himself I will undertake to remove from the picture." Aratus nrerev o Neadxns tov "Aptatpatoy, eis b& THY yopav gotvika povov évéyparev, ado bé ovddév éroApnoe wapaBaretv. tors b€ modas éEare- dhouévov tod Apiotpatou diadalety bird To appa A€éyoua ty.

29

PLUTARCH'S LIVES

"Ke te 6 ToUTwY oO" Apatos nyaTraTo, Kal dLO0vs Teipay éTl warrov Hyaro tov Baciréws, Kal Swpeav EXaBe TH TWOAEL TEVTIKOVTA Kal ExaTOV TaXavTa. Kal TovTwY TeccapdKoyvTa pev EevOus pe?" éEavtod Koutfwy els IleXomovyvncov KaTipe, Ta O€ NoLTrA CrEedwY Els SogEts 0 Baatreds VaTEpo

KATA [Epos UTETTELNED.
XIV. °Hy peév otv péya nat to Xpypata To-gavTa Topicat Tois ToNtTaLs, OowY puLKpOY pépos dAXot atpatnyot Kat Snparywyol NapBdvovtes Tapa Bacitéwy ndixovy Kai KatedovrodvTo Kai Tpoémwov avtois Tas maTtpioas, peiCwv Oe 1) dca TOV YPHUATwY TOUTwWY KaTacKEvadbetca TOLS jEV aTOpols Mpos TOUS TAOvaLoUs didAvatS Kal Opovolta, T@ 66 Onuw TavtTl owTnpia Kat dodarea, Javuactn b€ 1) Tod avdpos év duvaper tocauTy perploTyns. amroceryGels yap avtoxpdtwp dan-AaKTIS KAaL KUPLOS GrAwS eT TAS huyadiKasS CiKOVOpias povos ovyY Uméwenvev, GAA TevTEKaideca TOV TOMTOY TpogKaTéArckEV EavT@, MEO wv Trove
TOAN@ KAL weyarats Tpaypatetats KaTELpyadoaTo Kal cuvyppoce hiriav Kal elpiyny tots mwodtTaLs.
ef’ ols ov povoy KoWwh ovpTavTEes OL TodiTaL
Tyas aTébocav a’T@ TpEeTTaVaas, GAAA Kal KaT
3°

ARATUS xu. 3-XxIv. 2

therefore yielded, and Nealces erased the figure of Aristratus, and in its place painted a palm-tree merely, not daring to introduce anything else. We are told, however, that the feet of the erased figure of Aristratus were left by an oversight beneath the chariot.

In consequence of this love of art Aratus was already beloved by the king, and in personal inter- course grew yet more upon him, and received for his city a gift of a hundred and fifty talents. Forty of these Aratus took with him at once and sailed to Peloponnesus; the rest the king divided into instal- ments, and sent them to him afterwards one by one.

XIV. Now it was a great achievement to procure so large a sum of money for his fellow-citizens ; other generals and leaders of the people had taken but a fraction of this sum from kings in payment for wronging, enslaving, and betraying to them their native cities. But it was a far greater achievement by means of this money to have effected a harmonious adjustment of the disputes between rich and poor, and safety and security for the entire people. Moreover, we must admire the moderation of the man in the exercise of so great power. For when he was ap- pointed independent arbiter, with absolute powers for settling the money affairs of the exiles, he would not accept the office alone, but associated with himself fifteen of his fellow-citizens, by whose aid, after much toil and great trouble, he established peace and friendship among his fellow-citizens.1_ For these services not only did the entire body of citizens bestow fitting public honours upon him, but the exiles also on their own account erected a bronze

1 Cf. Cicero, De Of. ii. 23, 81ff.

31

3

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

IN? ¢ f 3 / A) t2

idiay ot duyades etKova yadknv avactycartes
/ “
érréypawrav TOE TO éXeryeELor:

Bovrai pev Kal dcOXa Kat a epi “EXAd6os aXKa Tovd avopos oTarats TAGOeTAaL Hpakdréousdyes O eixoy’, “Apate, TEAv VOoTOLO TUXOVTES oTdcapev avt apeTas nde Sxarocvvas gwTHpos cwTHnpot Geots, Ste TaTpior Ta CA daimovioyv! Oetay 7 dmracas evvopiav.
6 a“ f ¢ Sf a \ XV. Tatra dtarpakdpevos 0 “Apatos Tov pep a , / bd f \ AS i TontTiKod POovou peiCwy éyeryover bia TAS KaptTas, ay: , » ¢ \ ’ , >» 2 A \ Aptiyovos 5 0 Baciiets avimpevos eT avT@ Kal BovrOopevos 7) peTayety OAS TH HiALa TPOs aUTOV Bovnoyevos i) werdvyew Bos 78 idle pis
7) OcaBarrew pos tov IIToNepaiov, adXas TE 4 piravOpwrias évedeixvuTo pun Tavu mpocepéevo, \ 4 n“ > / i > la)
kat Ovav Oeois ev KopivOw pepidas eis Yexvava
TO Apdtw dueTepe. Kal Tapa TO Seimvov, éote-
/ a WLLEVOV TOAAWY, ELS WETOV POEeyEdmEVos, “”"OQupuny,” > \ Sy , A Eby, “ Tov LKU@VLOV TODTOY Veavioxoy EhEevOépLov
s a 7 f \ / e \ \ elvat TH pvoe povov Kal dedoToNITHY: oO Oé Kat f , la \ Biwv éorxe Kai mpaypatayv Baciiikav (Kavos clval KPLTYS. TWPOTEPOY yap Nuas VIrEepewpa Tals
f \ ertricow é&w Br(éTTwv Kat Tov Atyurtoy €Oavpa€e a“ xy 7 \ t \ by \

mAovUTOV, éNehavTas Kat aTONOUS Kat auras akouUwY, vuvi dé Uiro oKNYNV EWPAKOS TavTa Ta éxel Tpayyata Tpaywoiay évta Kal oxnvoypadiay OAOS HuLY TPOTKEYMPNKEVY. AUTOS TE Ov AaTO-Séyouat TO pelpaKtoy eyvwKws els ATavTa Yph-1 Sa:udviov Sint.? and Ziegler, after Zeitz: d5aluovr' toov.

statue of him, and inscribed thereon the following elegiac verses :—

"The counsels, valorous deeds, and prowess in behalf of Hellas, which this man has displayed, are known as far as the Pillars of Heracles; but we who achieved our return through thee, Aratus, for thy virtue and justice, have erected to the Saviour Gods this statue of our saviour, because to thy native city thou hast brought a sacred and heavenly reign of law."

XV. These successful achievements placed Aratus beyond the jealousy of his fellow-citizens, owing to the gratitude which he inspired; but Antigonus, the king, was annoyed by the policy of Aratus, and wished either to bring him over into complete friend- ship with himself or to alienate him from Ptolemy. He therefore showed him many kindnesses which were not at all welcome, and especially this, that as he was sacrificing to the gods at Corinth, he sent portions of the victims to Aratus at Sicyon. And at the banquet which followed, where many guests were present, he said, so that all could hear: " I thought this Sicyonian youth was merely free-spirited and a lover of his fellow-citizens ; but he would seem to be a capable judge also of the lives and actions of kings. For formerly he was inclined to overlook us, fixing his hopes elsewhere, and he admired the wealth of Egypt, hearing tales of its elephants, and fleets, and palaces ; but now that he has been behind the scenes and seen that everything in Egypt is play-acting and painted scenery, he has come over entirely to us. Therefore I both welcome the young man myself, having determined to make every possible use of

Xx ce. an b A f. , 33 , \
oat, cat vas aki Pirov voutCerv.. TovTOVS TOUS Aoyous UTOGeow AaBovTes ot hOovepot KQAL KAKOnOers SinuthA@vTO Tais émiaToAais AAX)XOLS, TONAG Kat duayeph kata Tou Aputov T@ [I ToXepalm ypudhovrTes, MOTE KAKEWOY éyKadodDYTAa Tépu-
Wat. Tals pev ovv TepipayryTos Kal dtaTrUpols

4 by 4 ga , \ a tofevopevats Epwat didrdtats Sacidéwy Kal Tupay-vwov TocovToV Tpoaiy PUovou Kal KaxonOetas.
XVI. ‘O é€”Apatos aipeets otpatnyos TO Tpa-Tov vTo TaV AxXatov THY per avtitrépas Aoxpisa kat Kadvdwviav érop@noe, Botwrois 6é peta pv-plwv otpatiwtayv Bonbav totépnoe THS pwaxns, iv vmo Attw\@y rept Xaipwveray ntTnOncav, 1034
v, ¢ a , ¢ \ ABotwxpitou te ToD Botwrapxov Kal xiAiwy avy
2 avT@ TEcOvTMY. EviavT@ 5€é UaTepoyv avOts oTpa-THYOV éevicTaTo THY TEpt TOY AKpoKxoptvOov Tpa-E.v, ov Luxvwviwy ovd "Ayar@v xnddopuevos, AXA Ko.vijy tiva THS “EXAdSos SANS TUpavrida, THY 4 wn
Maxedovwy dpovpav, éxeiev éFeAdaat Stavoov-ene 2 \ \ C79 a v tA
3 wevos. Napyns pev yap o ‘A@nvaios év tive wayn
N A / mTpos tovs Bacthé€ws otparnyous EUTUXNTAS éypawe TO Onuw tov AOnvaiwy ws vevixnkol Ths
>] a na ev Mapadau payns aderpyy: tautny oe THY mTpakiv ovx av agaptoe Tis adeAhHY TpoTELT@V THs IleXomidov tod OnBaiov cai OpacvBovrov a 9? v4 , \ ef A A tov AO@nratov Tupavvoxtovias, TANV OTL TO py
. Ch x 5] \ 9 oY , N , mpos KiXXyvas, ada eraKTOY upxnV yEeyovevat
4 Kal ddrOpvrsy avTyn Sinveyxev. 0 pev yap Io8-
34
ARATUS xv. 3-xvI. 4

him, and 1 ask you to consider him a friend.”” These words were seized upon by the envious and malevolent, who vied with one another in writing to Ptolemy many grievous charges agaist Aratus, so that the king sent an envoy and upbraided him. So great malice and envy attend upon the friendships of kings and tyrants, for which men strive and at which they aim with ardent passion.

XVI. Aratus now, having been chosen general of the Achaean League for the first time, ravaged the opposite territories of Locris and Calydonia, and went to the assistance of the Boeotians with an army of ten thousand men. He came too late, however, tor the battle at Chaeroneia, in which the Boeotians were defeated by the Aetolians, with the loss of Aboeocritus, their Boeotarch, and a thousand men. A year later, being general again, he set on foot the enterprise for the recovery of Acrocorinthus,? not in the interests of Sicyonians or Achaeans merely, but purposing to drive from that stronghold what held all Hellas in a common subjection,—the Macedonian garrison. Chares the Athenian, having been suc- cessful in a battle with the king's generals, wrote to the people of Athens that he had won a battle which was "sister to that at Marathon''; and this enter- prise of Aratus may be rightly called a sister of those of Pelopidas the Theban and Thrasybulus the Athenian, in which they slew tyrants, except that it surpassed them in being undertaken, not against Greeks, but against a foreign and alien power. For

1 In 243 B.c., two years later. The office of general in the League could not be held by the same person in successive years. Cf. chap. xxiv. 4.
2 The citadel of Corinth,

HOS euhpucowy TAS. Jaraccas, ELS TAUTO ouvaryet
T@® toTw) Kal cuvaTrrel THY i) Tet pov near, o 6€
'AxpoxoptvOos, Uwnrov dpos, éx péons dva-TEPUKWS TAS 'Edd dbos, 6 éTav AaB ppovpav, évi-CTATAL KAL GT OKOT TEL THD evTos 'Ia Opob maoay em iprEl@v TE Kal Tapoowy Kal oTparecay épyacias TE Kata vay Kal KaTa Odharrav, Kal éva xUpLov Tovel Tov dp xovra Kal KatTéyovta ppoupa TO Xwpior, MOTE pn) matCovra, doxely Tov VEWTEPOV Pirurroy, Grn' Bie, EXACT TOTE medas Ths' EA-Ad6os THY Kopu dev TOMY Tpocaryopevery.
AVH. Ilaot peév oby TEplwaynTos my 0 TOTFOS ael Kal Bacthevor cal dvvactais, 7 bé "AvTLyOvOU o7movd!) TEP AVTOV OvdeV UTéALTIE TADEL TaV épupaver taT@y epworor, GX' OAOS avipTITO Tats ppovriow é OT WS adaipnoetar Ookw TOUS éxovras, érrel pavepas AVENTLTOS 7 MV 7) emexelpnars. "AXeEavdpov yap, vd ov To Xwptov Ys amodavovtos
(@s NEyeTat) happaxots vr avTov, Nixaias 6é TS éxetvou yuvatkos érrl TOY T pay LaTov yevouévns Kal pudatrovens Tov "Ax poxopwOov, evOvs Uronéumov Anpayt prov TOV vloV aUuTh, Kal yAuUKELAS éeAmidas evd.60v5 Yapov Bacidexow Kal cupBimcews 7 pos OvK andes _evTuxeiy yuvaiki mpea Butépa petpaxtor, avuTny pev NPKEL, T@ TALL NPNTAapLEVOS OO TEP add Tie TOV Scheac pdtv ér' avTH, Tov O€ TOTOY OU TpoiemEerns, aXN eyKpa-TOS purdatrovens, a jLeetv T poo ToLoupEvos é0 ve

yauous avtav év Kopivée, nai Oéas éreréder Kar
1 re ténw Capps: TE rb7@,

36

ARATUS xvi. 4-xvil. 3

the Isthmus of Corinth, forming a barrier between the seas, brings together the two regions, and thus unites our continent; and when Acrocorinthus, which is a lofty hill springing up at this centre of Greece, is held by a garrison, it hinders and cuts off all the country south of the Isthmus from inter- course, transits, and the carrying on of military expeditions by land and sea, and makes him who controls the place with a garrison sole lord of Greece. Therefore it is thought that the younger Philip of Macedon? uttered no jest, but the truth, whenever he called the city of Corinth " the fetters of Greece."

XVII. Accordingly, the place was always an object of great contention among kings and dynasts, but the eagerness of Antigonus to secure it fell nothing short of the most frenzied passion, and he was wholly absorbed in schemes to take it by stratagem from its possessors, since an open attempt upon it was hopeless. For when Alexander,? in whose hands the place was, had died of poison given him (it is said) in obedience to Antigonus, and his wife Nicaea had succeeded to his power and was guarding the citadel, Antigonus at once sent his son Demetrius to her in furtherance of his schemes, and by inspiring her with pleasant hopes of a royal marriage and of wedded life with a young man who would be no disagreeable company for an elderly woman, he captured her, using his son for all the world like a bait for her. The citadel, however, she did not give up, but kept it under strong guard. Pretending, therefore, indifference to this, Antigonus celebrated the nuptials of the pair in Corinth, exhibiting t Philip V., 237-179 B.c.

2 The tyrant of Corinth.
37 or

PLUTARCH'S LIVES

TOTOUS ouvirye Kad neEpar, OS av TIS partota
mage Kab axon ler THY dudvotay ud' noovins Kat puroppoavyns APELK WS. evel de Katpos mY, ASOVTOS 'AporBews € ev TO Gear py, TapeTreE pe7r € THY Nixavay abtos én) tHv Bay év popeip KEKOG [uNbev Bacthixas, ayarropevny TE TH Tey) Kal
TOPPOTATO Tou HERAOVTOS | ovoay. ryevopevos db€
TiS. od0v KaTa 7 EXT POT NY THY avo Pepovear, exelyny pev exehevoe mpoayew eis TO Oéar TpOv, avTOS be Xaipew bev "AporBEa, Natperv 5€ TOUS /apous edoas GVNEL TPOS TOV 'A kpoxopwOov cyutr-AWHEVOS map mpruKian' Kal Kexheta pevny Ty TU-day EUPWV, EXOTTE TH Baxrnpia KEhEvOY avouyew.

ot 6 évdov avews “av KATATAAYEVTES. oUTw ¢ TOU TOoToVU KPATHTAS, ov KaTETXEV QuTOV, GAN emuve matter uno ‘“apas ey Tols OTEVWTOIS, Kal bu ayopas aurnTploas eXov Kab aTepavous TEPLKELfLEVOS, VIP YEpwVv Kal TYHNLKAUVTALS T™ pay aT ov peTaBorais KEXPNHLEVOS, exwpate beFvoupevos Kal Tpog ayopEevov TOUS GTAVT@VTAS. OUTWS apa Kab
AuT NS Kat oSov HadAov | eLiornat Kal oaXov
Tapexes TH Wuy TO xXalpev avev Roytopod Tapary.vopevov.
NVIUI. “AdAG yap "Artiyovos pe, @o TEP elpn-Tat, KTnoadpEvos Tov AxpoxopivOov épvrAaTTE, peta TOV ad deov obs emloTeve padtora cat Lepcatov emeaTnoas dpyovta TOV pirdoogor. (b¢ “Apatos ETL pev Kal ‘AeEavopov Cav TOS emexelules Th mpaket, YEVOMEVNS dé ouppaxias Tots
2 ’Ayatois mpos tov ’AX€Eavdpov emavoato. Tote 38

1035

ARATUS xvi. 3-xvitl. 2

spectacles and giving banquets every day, as one whom pleasure and kindliness led to think chiefly of mirth and ease. But when the crucial moment came, and as Amoebeus was about to sing in the theatre, he escorted Nicaea in person to the spectacle.
She was borne in a litter which had royal trappings, plumed herself on her new honour, and had not the remotest suspicion of what was to happen. Then, arrived at the diverging street that led up to the citadel, Antigonus gave orders that Nicaea should be borne on into the thea atre, while he himself, bidding adieu to Amoebeus, and adieu to the nuptials, went up to Acrocorinthus with a speed that belied his years; and, finding the gate locked, he beat upon it with his staff and ordered it to be opened. And the guards within, stupefied, opened it. Thus master of the place, he could not contain himself for joy, but drank and disported himself in the streets, and with music-girls in his train and garlands on his head, old man that he was and acquainted with so great vicissitudes of fortune, revelled through the market-place, greeting and clasping hands with all who met him.

Thus we see that neither grief nor fear transports and agitates the soul as much as joy that comes unexpectedly. ;
XVIII. Antigonus, then, having got Acrocorinthus into his power, as I have said, kept it under guard, putting men there whom he most trusted, and making Persaeus the philosopher their cnaanden Now Aratus, even while Alexander was still living, had set his hand to the enterprise, but an alliance was made between the Achaeans and Alexander, and he therefore desisted. At the time of which I speak, dé avdlis e& UTapxijs étépav édraBe THs mpakews umobecty TOLAUTNY.

*Hoav év KopivOw téccapes aderdot Svpot te ryévos, wv els dvopa AtoxXhs év TO Hpovptiw piabo-pope bier pt Bev. Ol 6é Tpets KrEeWanTes Bact-ArKov Xpuatov HrOov Els Luxvava 7 pos Alytav Tia TpaTeliTny, o dua TiV épyactav oO VA patos eXpiiro. Kal HLEpOS peep evOus d1éGevto Tov Xpuoiov, TO O€ AOLTOY Els avr ay ‘Epyivos emreportav HOUXT KATHANATTED. éx 6€ TOUTOV evopevos TP Atyig
avv7ns, Kal Tpoax Geis els AOYov UT avTOU Tept
TS ppovpas, Edn 7 pOs TOV abeXpov avaSaivev ™ pos TO Kpnuvaces évtouny Kadewpaxevat TAayiav, dyovcav 7 XOapadwtatov éTw@Kodountat
TO hpovpiw To Tetyos. mpootatEavtos b€ avT@ Tov Atyiov Kal etmovtos: “ Kita, @ BédXTLOTE, dia puxpov o0T® yp puctov aacmate tas Bacthixas mpagters, Surd pevor play Opav TOAA@Y aTobos bat XPNLATOD ; h yap ovyt kat TOLXWPUXOLS Kal Tpodorats drotow anak avobareiv UTAPXEL $ yeracas oi pytvos Tote ev MpoAOYyNGEN ATOTEL-paabar Tov Atord €ous (Tots yap addXots dder pois [L1) WAVY TL TLTTEVELY), ONryaLs dé 0 bo TEpov nuEpas éevmave Gov our Tera TOV “A patov afer mpos TO TELYOS, O7rou To Uros ov petfov Hy TEVTEKALOEKA
TOOWV, Kal TANNA CULT am pabew peTa TOU AvoxXéous.
NIX. ‘O 6€ "Apatos éxetvors péev é&€nKovTa Taravta doce Katopbwaas wporoyncev, tv be aToTUYN, TwOn Sé eT EexElvwr, OiKiav ExaTép@ Kal Tadavtov. émet b€ Eee Tapa TO Alyia Ta éEnxovta Tadarta KetoOat Tots TEpt TOV 'Epyctvor,

however, a new and fresh basis for the enterprise was found by him in the following circumstances. There were in Corinth four brothers, Syrians by race, one of whom, Diocles by name, was serving as a mercenary soldier in the citadel. The other three, after stealing some gold plate of the king’s, came to Aegias, a banker in Sicyon with whom Aratus did business. A portion of the gold they disposed of to him at once, but the remainder was being quietly exchanged by one of them, Erginus, in frequent visits. Erginus thus became well acquainted with Aegias, and having been led by him into conversa- tion about the garrison in the citadel, said that as he was going up to see his brother he had noticed in the face of the cliff a slanting fissure leading to where the wall of the citadel was at its lowest. Thereupon Aegias fell to jesting with him, and said: “ Do you, then, best of men, thus for the sake of a little gold plate rifle the king’s treasures, when it is in your power to sell a single hour's work for large sums of money? Don’t you know that burglars as well as traitors, ifthey are caught, have only one death to die?”’ Erginus burst out “laughing, and as a first step agreed to make trial of Diocles (saying that he had no confidence at all in his other brothers), and a few days afterwards came back and bargained to conduct Aratus to the wall at a spot where it was not more than fifteen feet in height, and to aid in the rest of the enterprise together with Diocles. XIX. Aratus on his part agreed to give the men sixty talents if he was successful, and in case he failed, and he as well as they got off safely, to give each of them a house and a talent. Then, since the sixty talents had to be deposited with Aegias for

o 6€ “Aparos ovte av’tos elyev ovTE eBovrAETO dave Sopevos aic@notv éTépw THs tpakews TapaoxXelv, ha Bov TOV EXT OD LAT OV Ta TONKA Kal Ta xpucia THS puvarKes UT éOnKe To Aiyta 7 pos TO dpyupiov. oUTw yap éenpTO TH yoxs Kal TOG OU-Tov épwTa TOY Karov m7 pakewy ELXeV, @oTe TOV
Dwxiwva Kal Tov “Evrapervovoay eTLTTAMEVOS
"EAAnvOY OLKALOTUTOUS Kal KpaTiaTous yeyorevat Soxodytas e771 TO btwcacbat Swpeas peydras Kal jin Wpoealat XpuBaT oy 70 KaXov, avTos eis TADTA SaTravaa bat Kpupa Kal Tpoetahepev, ev ols €Xtyduveve jeovos UT Ep TavTav ovee eidoroy Ta 7 par-TOMEVA, 7)petTo. Tis yap OUK av Oavpacee Kal Tvvayw@vig alto ETL VUV 7H peyahowunia TOU «ap-dpos, @VOUHLENOU Xpnpear TOY TOTOUTMY KLYOUVOY TN ALKODTO?, Kal Ta TIPLLOTATA SoxouVTa TOY KTNato uToTiOévtos, OTF asS Tapercax Peis VUKTOS

els TOUS TONE {LLOUS Crayovirntat TEPL THS uxt, evexXUpOV AaBav Thv édTriba TOD KAAOD Tap avTOr, GAAO S€ OVOED $
NN. Ovdaav ce kad’ avtny emia pans) THD Wpa-En eT. apareorépar évolnoer eee TUS ev0us ev apXn oupSaca or pvolay. 0 yap OlKETNS Tou “Npdtov Teyver eT enbOn peev WS pera tov Ato-~ KAEOUS KAT AT KEY O [LENS TO TIX 0S, ovr oO 7 yy TO Aroxhet 7 p07 €epov EVTETU YI K(OS KAT ovney, dra
THY poppy auToU Kat zo i605 Soxdv KaTEXEW ef OV O ‘Bpyivos ET ET HLNVED ovAOKOLNY Kal perdy-ypovy Kal ayevetov. €\Owv odv} Grov ouperé-1 gyéveroy. €dXOav ovv Coraés and Ziegler, with the MSS:
ary ivesov, €AOay.
42

ARATUS xix. 1-xx. 2

Erginus, and Aratus neither had them himself nor was willing by borrowing them to give anyone else a suspicion of his undertaking, he took most of his plate and his wife’s golden ornaments and deposited them with Aegias as security for the money. For he was so exalted in spirit and had so great a passion for noble deeds that, knowing as he did that Phocion and Epaminondas were reputed to have been the justest and best of Greeks because they spurned great gifts and would not betray their honour for money, he elected to expend his own substance secretly, as an advance, on an enterprise in which he alone was risking his life for the whole body of citizens, who did not even know what was goingon. For who will not admire the magnanimity of the man, and yearn even now to lend a helping hand, who purchased at so high a price so great a danger, and pledged what he thought the most precious of his possessions in order that he might be introduced by night among his enemies and contend for his life, receiving as his security from his countrymen the hope of a noble action, and nothing else?

XX. Now the enterprise was dangerous in itself, but was made more dangerous still by a mistake which occurred at the very beginning through ignorance. For Technon, the servant of Aratus.

had been sent to inspect the wall with Diocles, and had not yet met Diocles face to face, but thought he would know how he looked because Erginus had described him as curly-haired, of a swarthy complexion, and without a beard. Having come, therefore, to the place appointed, he was +35

PLUTARCH'S LIVES

\ QypN a e > ' \ ~ taxto, Tov Epyivov ws adtEeuevov peta Tov
A , \ "A
LOKNEOUG AVEMEVE TPO TIS TOAEWS TPO TOU KaXOU-A NE i f vw bd s ¢ " 24 \
pévov "Opvidos. é€v 6€ TovTw TP@TOS adEeAXHos Im 4 \ f v f b
Epytvou cat AtoxdXeous Gvopa Atovvatos ov aup-
ELO@S THD mpakw ovee KOW@VOY, Guotos oe T@ Atoxnei, T poo yet KATO TUXNDY. 7) be Téyvev mpos Ta onpeia tis pophys TH OMOLOTNTL Kv Geis NPOTNTE TOV av pwr ov ef Te cuuPoratov auT@ mpos 'Epyivov ein. prcavtos b€ adedpor eivat, TAVTATATL 0 Teyver emetic On TO Atoxnet d:anre-yerOar Kal pujte ToUvouna TuO6pEVos unt adAXo pincer Tpogpetvas Texunploy euBurrer Te THY beElay AUTO KAL TEPl TOY GUyKELLEeVwY TPOS TOV
+40 a 3 , 9 a ' , e \ 4
Kpyivoy éharer Kaxetvov avéxpivevr. o b€ be&dflevos QUTOU THY GuapTiav Travovpyws WpLoNOyEL
' , , fod
TE TAVTA KAL TPOS THY TWOALY dvadTpe as UTIyEv
, / 3 dvuTomT@s Stareyouevos. 1)6n 6€ TANGO 3vTOS n f e avtov Kal pwédXoOvTOS GaoVv OovTw TOY Teéxveva dtarapBarev, amo Tvyns av TadW oO 'Epyivos
lal % ,
avutois am@yvrncev. aicbopevos 6€ THY aTUTHV Kal
.Y , X , y lal ,
TOV KLvOUVOV OLA VEULATOS ednhaoe TO Texveove
pevryerv' KaL aTromndrnaavTes dpddrepor S pop 7 pos TOV "A patov aneswOnaav. ov pn AT EK ALLE vais édatow EKELVOS, aNr emreupev, evdus Tov

Epyivov Xpuatov TE TO AMovvate Komiovta Kal
€1] OfLeVOV avTou ovarian. o O€ Kal TOUTO eTroinae Kat Tov Atovictoy aywv pe? éavtod mpos Tov uv 3 by , OA h fine oY > a Apatov nA\OGev. édXOovta 6é avTov ovKeTe SunKaD, 3 \ , 3 ia Db] 9 /
arra Syoavtes éfvXatTov év oiktaK@m KaTAKeE-KrELaMEVOV: AUTOL Oe TaperKevalovTo mpos THY émiGectv.
XNT. ‘Eve: b¢ jy €troupa tavta, thy pev ANAnV
44
1036,

POUR Cl XK OoNRT: 7

waitiny tor Erginus to come there with Diocles, just outside the city, mear what was called the Ornis. As he was waiting, however, the oldest brother of Erginus and Diocles, named Dionysius, who was not privy to the enterprise and took no part in it, but resembled Diocles, chanced to come up. So Technon, moved by the similarity in the marks of his outward appearance, asked him if he was connected at all with Erginus; and on his saying that he was a brother, Technon was altogether convinced that he was talking with Diocles, and without inquiring his name, or waiting for any other proof whatever, gave him his hand and began chatting with him and asking him questions about what had been agreed upon with Erginus.
Dionysius took cunning advantage of his mistake, assented to all that he said, and turning his back towards the city led him along in unsuspicious conversation. But just as he was near the city, and was at the very point of seizing Technon, by a second chance Erginus met them. Erginus comprehended the trick and the danger, motioned Technon to fly, and both of them ran off and got safely to Aratus. Aratus, however, would not give up hope, but at once sent Erginus to bribe Diony- | sius and beg him to hold his tongue. Erginus not only did this, but actually brought Dionysius with him to Aratus. And now that Dionysius was there they would not let him go, but bound him and kept him indoors under lock and_ key, while they themselves prepared for their attack.

XXI. When all things were ready, Aratus ordered 45

i)

PLUTARCH Saely s

duvauw éxédXevoeyv ETL TOV OTA@Y VUKTEpEvELY, avaraBov 5€ Noyddas TeTpAaKoctous ovd avTOUS
elooTas TA TpaTTOmEVva, TANY OALYwY, AYE TTpOS Tas wUNas Tapa TO ‘Hpaiov. ay b€ Tov étous 1) mept Oépos axpuafov wpa, Tov O€ pNVvos Tavce-Anvos, 9 O€ VUE avéperos Kal KaTadavns, wWaTeE
Kal poBor Ta oma, _TApeX ely dvTindwTovTa pos THY wed, Tay Tous puraKas ov Aadbwotv. On dé TOV T POT ov eyyus ovToy aro Jaracons avedpape veo Kal KATE XE TY TE TOALY AUTH Ka TOV éFo TOTOV ETLOKLOY ryevopmevov. evraida d€ ot pev GAOL GuyKxabicavtTes UTEAVOYTO TAS KPN-midas: ote yap wodov motovot modvy oT’
OALc Or uaTa AawBavoval yuUsvots TOLs TOOL aVTI-
Aap Bavopuevo, TOV KALLaKwY' Oo bé Epytvos érta
AaBov veavia KOUS éo TAApPEVvOUS OdoLTrOpLKaS EdaOeE
TH TUAD TpoopuiEas, Kal TOV TUAWPOV GTrOKTLVyUOUGL Kal TOUS MET AUTOU puraKas. apa o€ ai Te KNipakes TpoceTiCevTO Kal KATA GTrOVdNY O
"Apatos umepiiBacas éxatov dvdpas, tovs & adXous Ereo Gar Kehevoas ws av dvywrTat TaYLoTA, TAS KAiwaKaS avapTdcas eXwpeEL Le THS TOAEWS META TMV EXATOV ETL THY aKpay, On TEepryapns d1a TO Aav@avery ws KaTtopov.
Kai res étt mpdcwbev abtois amyyta ov dwt @uvrakn Tecodpwv avdpwyv ov KkaGopwpévois: Ere yap hoav ev T@ cxtalopévn THs TEANYNS* ExELVvOUS dé mpoctovras €& évavtias xaQop@ot. urxpov od UTOTTELAAS TELYLOLS TLOL Kal OLKOTrEdOLS, EVEespaY
éml tous avdpas Kadifer. Kal Tpeis pev avtav éumecovtes aToOraKxovaty, 0 b& TéTAapTOs TAN-yels Eider tHv Keharny Epuye, Bowv Evdov eivas 46
ARATUS xx. 1-4

the rest of his forces to pass the night under arms, and taking with him four hundred picked men, few of whom knew what was on foot themselves, led them towards the gate of Corinth near by the temple of Hera. It was midsummer, the moon was at its full, and the night was cloudless and clear, so that they feared lest the gleam of their arms in the moonlight should disclose them to the sentinels. But just as the foremost of them were near the wall, clouds ran up from the sea and enveloped the city itself and the region outside, which thus became dark, Then the rest of them sat down and took off their shoes, since men make little noise and do not slip if they are barefooted when they climb ladders; but Erginus, taking with him seven young men equipped as travellers, got unnoticed to the gate. Here they slew the gate-keeper and the sentries who were with him. At the same time the ladders were clapped to the wall, and after getting a hundred men over in all haste, Aratus ordered the rest to follow as fast as they could; then he pulled his ladders up after him and marched through the eity with his hundred men against the citadel, being already full of joy at his escape from detection and confident of success.

A little farther on they encountered a watch of four men with a light; they were not seen by them, being still in the shade of the moon, but saw them coming up in the opposite direction. So they drew back a little for shelter beneath some walls and buildings, and set an ambush for the men. Three of them they killed in their attack, but the fourth, with a sword-wound in his head, took to flight, crying

47

5

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

TOUS TONE pLOUS. Kal mera pexpov ai Te TATU YES eT ET NUALVOD, H TE TONS eEaviorato Tpos Ta yevopeva, mAnpEls TE no av ot oTEVWTOL dab eov-Tov, Kal dota Tord, TA pev KAaTwWUEY On, TA d€ avobev aTo THS aKpas TEplEeAapTe, Kal Kpavy) TUVEPPHYVUTO mavraxyobev a aon Los.

XXII. ‘Ey TOUTH é€ 0 ev “Apatos éudus TH mopetg Tapa TO kpnpvddes HPUNdG-TO, Bpabdéas Kal TaharTr@pos TO _Tp@Tov, ou KATAKPATOD, ann’ amroTAXavwpevos TOU TpiBov TavtaTacw évdedv-

KOTOS Kal TeovoKialomévov Tails TpayvTNnol Kal
bua TONABY EXiyHOv Kal TapaBor\@y TeEpaivoyTos
7 pos TO Telyos. Elta Oavpacvov olov 1) aweAnVN AEeryeTat OvagTE\NoVTA Ta VvEhH Kal vrodaumovaa,) Tis 0600 TO Xaherorarov cadnviger, & EWS ipyaro TOU TeLXous xaQ ov eer Tomov: éxet O€ Tad cuverkiagce Kal aTéeKpUWE vehov cuvedOovTwv.
Oi d€ epi tas wUAas EEw mepl to ‘Hpaioy aTronerPOevres TOU ‘A pdtov TTpATMT aL, Tpla-~ «0a Lot TO TWANOOS GVTES, WS TOTE TaperseT er ov
els THY TOMY GopUBou Te TavTObaTrOD Kal PwrTwy yé“oucar, ov Ou Bevtes efaveupety TOV aut ov tpiBov ovo eis iXvos euBivar THs exeivov Topelas, extn gay ab poor 1 pos Tw mariwonty Aayovt TOU KPyLVOU TVaTELAAVTES eavtous, Kal “‘Suexaptépouy evTav0a mepim ab ov Tes Kal duo avacxeTouyTes.
Baddopevov yap a7ro TIS axpas HON TOV mepl TOV
"A patov ral [a YO Mevor, ddahary [0s EVaYOVLOS eX wpel KAT@, Kal Kpavy) TEPLIXEL, Ola Thy amo TOV Op@y avdkracw cuyKeyvpevn Kal adndos
+ §rodaurovea Coraés and Bekker, adopting an anonymous conjecture : broAaBoitca.
48

1037

ARATUS xxi. 4-xxul. 3

out that the enemy were in the city. And presently the trumpets were sounding, the city was in an uproar over what was happening, the streets were full of people running up and down, many lights were flashing, some in the city below and some in the citadel above, and a confused shouting broke forth on all hands.

XXII. Meanwhile Aratus was struggling up the steep with all his might, slowly and laboriously at first, unable to keep to the path and wandering from it, since it was everywhere sunk in the shadows of the jutting cliffs and had many twists and turns before it came out at the wall of the citadel. Then, marvellous to relate, the moon is said to have parted the clouds and shone out, making the most difficult part of the road plain, until he got to the wall at the spot desired ; there the clouds came together again and everything was hidden in darkness.

But the soldiers of Aratus whom he had left at the gate outside near the temple of Hera, three hundred in number, when once they had burst into the city and found it full of lights and manifold tumult, were unable to discover the path which their comrades had taken or follow in their steps.

So they crouched down and huddled themselves together in a shaded flank of the cliff, and there remained in great distress and impatience. For Aratus and his party were now assailed with missiles from the citadel and were fighting, the shouts of the combatants came down the slopes, and cries echoed round about which the reverberations from 49

PLUTARCH'S LIVES

ed " \ > f in) '4 \ > Lo d0ev eine THY apx7v. CLtaTropovyTwY O€ avTaV > > o \ , f > , ¢ A ép Oo Te XpN TpaTécOat pépos, ApyédXaos oO TOV Baoiktk@v ayenov otpatiwtas EXwY TOAXOUS an \ / / peTa Kpavyns avéBatve kal cadXTiyywr, émipepopevos Tols Tept Tov *Apatov, Kal TrapiANATTE TOUS TptaKkoalous. ot d€ MaTeEp €& evédpas avagTaVTES éuBdrrovaty avtTw Kal dtapbeipouvaw ols éréPevto
, 4 \ 4 \ XN bd ,
MpwTous, Tous O€ aAXous Kal Tov "Apyédaov do-
, , a Bioavtes étpéavto Kat KatediwEayv ayps tod a \ \ , / ld oKxecacOnvat wept tTHy Tod diarvOévtas. aptt
/ A \ a
S€ tTovTwy verixnxotoy 'Epyivos ato Tav ave / s > ff , a paxomévov rOev, ayyéAXwy auuTETTAEYOaL ToLs
\ Y Toneutors Tov Apatov auvvopévols EevpwoTOS, Kal fa) N a HEYAY GYOVA TEPL AUTO TO TELVOS Elva, KAL TAX OUS a wn / e \ > \ b / ¢ " deity THs BonOetas. ot d€ evOds éxéXevov yeia Oat:
/ A Kat mpoo BatvovTes dua dwvn duet nuatvov éautous, emtBappvvovres tous dirous? 7) Te TavoéAnvos > id \ of f f A uTéepatve TA OTAA TAELOVA Hhalrvopeva TOS TrOXeEec \ \ a a , \ a pLLols OLA TO LNKOS THS Topelas, Kal TO THS vUKTOS
? / ¢

9 n \ ? \ > \ , a ny@OES TOY aahaypov amd TOANATTAAGLOVwY 4)
, ~
TocouTwp emotes Soxety hépecOat. TédOS O€ TUPepetcavtes eEwfotar tovs mrodeuiovs Kal Ka-
/ a ¥ 9
UTEPTEPOL THS Akpas Hoav Kal TO Ppovpiov Elyor, e / 0 6 - ee ef ? ‘ > / nuepas 116 Stavyovons, O TE HALOS EVOUS éréXapTreE a 7 ‘ a "he a
TO Epy@, Kal Taphy é€x Xtxv@vos 7 Noe? Svvapes na? / / \ , a a /
TO Apato, dexouévoy kata TUAas TOV Kopiwbiwr
a, \ 2
mpoOvuws Kat Tovs BacidtKkous cvAXAapParovTwv.
NNIII. Evel é€ dogadas eboxes ravta exe,
, > \ s > \ n ” ;
xatéBarvev es TO P€atpov aro THs akpas, TAHGOUS
5°

ARATUS xxl. 3-xXxtil. 1

the hills rendered confused and of uncertain origin. Then, as they were at a loss which way to turn, Archelatis, the commander of the king’s forces, having many soldiers with him, made up the ascent amid shouts and the blare of trumpets to attack Aratus and his party, and thus passed by the three hundred. These, rising up from ambush as it were, fell upon him, slew the first whom they attacked, put the rest, together with Archelaiis, to panic flight, and pursued them until they were scattered and dispersed about the city. And just as this victory had been won, Erginus came from the party fighting on the heights, with tidings that Aratus was engaged with the enemy, that these were defending themselves vigor- ously, that a great struggle was going on at the very wall, and there was need of speedy help. The three hundred at once ordered him to lead the way; and as they took to the ascent their cries signalled their coming and encouraged their friends; the light of the full moon also made their arms appear more numerous to the enemy than they really were, owing to the length of their line of march, and the echoes of the night gave the impression that the shouts proceeded from many times the number of men there really were. At last, with a united onset, they repulsed the enemy, mastered the citadel, and held its garrison in their power. Day was now breaking, the sun at once shone out upon their success, and the rest of the forces of Aratus came up from Sicyon, the Corinthians readily re- ceiving them by the gates and helping them to seize the king’s soldiers.

XXIII. When everything appeared to be safe Aratus came down from the citadel into the theatre
51 tw

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

ameipov TUppEoVTOS émOupia THs TE dYrews avTov Kal TOV Aoyov ols é“eAXrE xpiedar am pos Tous Ko-pious. eT LOT TAS dé Tats Tapodous exatépob ev Tous ’Axatovs, avTos amo THS oKNVis els pegov
Tm poirbe, TEOwmpacia peEvOs Kal TO Tporwn@ dua
TOV KOTOV Kal THD arypuTviay AoLeopévos, dare
THS exis TO yaupoupevov Kal Yalpov viTo Tis Tept TO copa Baputntos Kataxpateia Gat. TOV
dé avOporrav & aya TO mpocenbety avTov exxvdev-TWY Tais pidop poo tvacs, peTaraBov els THY defray TO dopy, Kal 78 yoru Kal TO capa Th porn px pov eyKALVaS Kal ATEPELTAMELOS, ELOTIKEL TrO-ALY Ypovov aiwmTH SexouEvos AVTOV TOvS KPOTOUS
Kal TAS éemtBonoess, eT aLvOUVTO@Y fev THY apeTHDy, CnhovvTov dé TH TUXND. ws OE émavaavTo Kal KaTeaTnaay, cuvayayov EQUTOV OveEN Oe Aayov brrép TOV “AXavov 7 Tm pagel TpeTovTa., Kal oupéMELTE TOUS Kopwdious "Axasovs yevéoOan, Kal T@V TUAMY TUS KAETS aT eOw@Ke TOTE TP @TOV ano Tov Diriamikov Katp@v um’ éxelvots yevopévas.
tov 6€ “Avtiyovou aotpatnyav “Apxédaov pév ad ixey vToxeiptov yevopevov, Meoppactoy 6é av-etXev ov BovrAcpevov aTraddrattecGau THepcaios dé Tis aKpas Gada KOwEVNS ELS Keyxpeas due Eémrecev. baTepov ce AeyeTat oxohalav ™ pos TOV elTrovTa povov avT@ doxety oTparnyov elvat Tov copon, ‘ AXXa v7) Geovs,” havat, “ TODTO wadALtoTA Kajol scrote TOV Liyvwvos npecKe Soypatwy viv dé weTa-BadXopat vovbetn Geis b7r0 TOD Xexvewviov veaviov.” Tavta pev ep Ilepoaiou mActoves taTopovau.
52

ARATUS xxi. 1-5

whither an immense multitude streamed with an eager desire to see him and hear what he would say to the Corinthians. After stationing his Achaeans at both the side-entrances, he himself advanced from the back-scene into the orchestra, with his breastplate still on and his countenance altered by toil and loss of sleep, so that the exultation and joy of his spirit were overpowered by the weariness of his body. Since the multitude, when he came forward to address them, were profuse in their friendly ex- pressions, taking his spear in his right hand and slightly inclining his knee and his body, he sup- ported himself upon it and stood thus for a long time silently receiving their applause and ac- clamations, their praises of his valour and_ their congratulations on his success. But when they had ceased and quiet had ensued, he summoned his strength and in behalf of the Achaeans made a speech which befitted their exploit, and persuaded the Corinthians to join the Achaean League. He also gave them back the keys to their gates, of which they then became possessed for the first time since the time of Philip of Macedon. Of the officers of Antigonus, he dismissed Archelaiis, who had been taken prisoner, but Theophrastus, who would not quit his post, he slew; as for Persaeus, on the capture of the citadel he made his escape to Cenchreae. And at a later time, as we are told, when he was leading a life of leisure, and someone remarked that in his opinion the wise man only could be a good general, “ Indeed,”’ he replied, “ there was a time when I too particularly liked this doctrine of Zeno’s ; but now, since the lesson I got from the young man of Sicyon, I am of another mind.” This story of Persaeus is told by many writers.

XXIV. ‘0 dé "A paros evus TO TE ‘Hpatov up EauT@ Ka to Aéyatov eTOL1TUT0" Kab vewv wev 1038 €: KOTLTEDTE Race exuplevoer, immous 6é mevtaKootious Kal Lvpous TET paKoatous aTEOOTO™ TOV TE ’AxpoxopuGov epudattov ol “AXavol
TeTpaKootoLs omhitais Kat TEVTKOVTD KUL Kab Kuynyols io ols év TO ppoupi Tpepopevots.
Oi pév odv ‘Papatoe tov Bidoroipeva Oavpalovtes “EAAHVOV Eo NATOV ™ poonyopEvon, @S ju devas peyddou pet éxeivoy év tois “EXXAnot yEVvOMEVOU' eY@ Oe TOV “EXAqv ERY mpatewv TAUTNV eoXaTyy Kal vEwTATHY painv ay eT paxIat, TOUTO peV TON, TOUTO O€ TUXD Tais apt-TTAL évapthror, Os edn Awa ev evOus Ta yiwoueva, Meryapeis te yap avootavtes Avtiyovou T@ Apd-
TO Tpoaeevto, Kal Tpoekyveot peta “Lredaupiov auvetaxOnoav ELS Tous ‘Axatous, é£odov Te T po thy Oewevos els THY "ATTiKNY eveBanre, Kat THY Yarapiva biaBas éehenrhatnoev, wotrep €& elpKTis LeAUMEVY) a Suvapes tov “Ayatwv éd 6 te Bov-NoLTO XPOMEVOS. “AOnvatoes dé TOUS edevdépous apfixey avev AVTPWY, apxyas: aTOOT doews EvOLdous avrets. IT tohepatov bé CULL aXOV eroinge TOV “A yatar, nyepoviay eXovTa TONE MOU Kal KaTa te Kab Oaratray. ovr be ioxvoer ev Tois ‘Axatois, WOT, Eb pl) KAT eviauTov ebny, map EVLAUTOV aipeta bas oTpPATH YOY avron, EPpy? be Kal yvopnn Oia TavTos apxery. EWPWY yap avrov ov mTrouTov, ov d0€av, ov dirtav Baciiixjv, od TO THS aUTOV TaTpioos GuudEepov, oVK AdXAO TL TIS

avéijcews tov “Ayatoy érimpocbev tovovmevov.
54

ARATUS xxiv. 1-4

XXIV. As for Aratus, he at once made himselt master of the temple of Hera and the harbour of Lechaeum; he also seized five-and-twenty of the king’s ships, and sold five hundred horses and four hundred Syrians; Acrocorinthus, too, was garrisoned by the Achaeans with four hundred men-at- arms, and fifty dogs with as many keepers were maintained in the citadel.

Now the Romans, in their admiration of Philopoe- men, call him “the last of the Greeks,” implying that no great man arose among the Greeks after him; but I should say that this capture of Acro- corinthus was the very last and latest achievement of the Greeks, and that it rivalled their best, not only in daring, but also in happy results, as events atonce showed. Tor Megara seceded from Antigonus and attached herself to Aratus; Troezen and Epi- daurus were enrolled in the Achaean League; and Aratus, making a distant expedition for the first time, invaded Attica, and crossing the strait plundered Salamis, his Achaean forces, as though released from prison, obeying his every wish. But the freemen among his prisoners he sent back to the Athenians without ransom, thus laying a foundation for their revolt from Antigonus. He also made Ptolemy an ally of the Achaeans, with the leadership in war on land and sea. And he was so influential among the Achaeans that, since it was not permissible every year, they chose him general every other year, though, in fact, his wisdom made him their leader all the time. For they saw that he put first and foremost, not wealth, not fame, not friendship with kings, not his own native city’s advantage, but only the srowth in power of the Achaean League. For he considered

Se)

5

to

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

nyetto yap acbeveis tora TAS TOXELS UTapYovaas cwler bas dt GN ipeov @omTeEp evdedepwevas T@ KOLV@ oupdepovtt, Kat Kadamep Ta péepn TOV cwopuatos CovtTa rat cuumveovTa Oia THY 7 pos addnra cuuviar, oray atoomtacOy Kat yevnta Xwpts, aTpopet Kat onTETAL, TapanAnoios TAS
TONELS amorrva bat fev vTr0 TOV tao @vrT@y
To Kowov, av&ecOar S€ UT adXAnA@Y, OTAV OAoU
TIVOS peydrou [LépN Yyevopuevat KoLVAS Tpovotas
:

TVYNaVO Ct.

XXV. ‘Opa@v b€ tovs apiatous Tov mpocot-KV AUTOVOLOUMEVOUS, “Apyetos dé Sovhevovoww ax Gopevos, ere BovA ever averely TOV TUpaVVOY
QUT OV ‘Apia Topaxov, pa TH TE WONEL Sperrnpta
THY édevGepiav amrovobvat PrroTLpoupevos Kat Tots ‘Axatois 7 T poo Kopug ae THY TONY. Ob pev ow TONMOV TES éUp peOnoay, Ov Aig xuros T POEL THKEL
Kal Nauicine o pavteis' Eidy de ovK elyov, GAN ameipnto KexT ha Oat Kal Cnpiat weyadat Tots KEKTNpévols ernoav vio TOU TUparVoU. KaTacKevacas ou o ly aurtots év Kopiv0e pix pas mapagepi-das évépparpev ets CaYMATA’ KaL TAavTA mepiOets umotuyiors oKEUN TIA TAPNMEANMEVA Kkopuitovow ets "Apyos amréotetre. Naptpévous O€ TOU wadvTEews mpothaBovros emt THY mpakw avOpwroy, ot TEpt TOV Aloxvdov nyavaKxTnoav Ket &:’ €auT@v €7par-TOV, TOU Naptuévous KATAYVOVTES. ata Oopevos 5é éxelvos opyn KaTeunvuce tovs avdpas %)6n Badifovtas émi Tov TUpavvov' @V ol TrELTTOL bOdcavtes €E& ayopas amépuyov Kat dieFErecov eis Kopivfor.

1 Cf. chap. iii. le

that the Greek states which were weak would be preserved by mutual support when once they had been bound as it were by the common interest, and that just as the members of the body have a common life and breath because they cleave together in a common growth, but when they are drawn apart and become separate they wither away and decay, in like manner the several states are ruined by those who dissever their common bonds, but are augmented by mutual support, when they become parts of a great whole and enjoy a common foresight.

XXV. And so, since he saw that the best of the neighbouring peoples were autonomous, and was distressed at the servitude of the Argives, he plotted to kill Aristomachus the tyrant of Argos, being ambitious to restore its freedom to the city as a re- ward for the rearing it had given him,! as well as to attach it to the Achaean League. Accordingly, men were found to dare the deed, of whom Aeschylus and Charimenes the seer were the chief. They had no swords, however, the tyrant having prohibited the possession of them under heavy penalties. Aratus, therefore, ordered small daggers to be made for them in Corinth and sewed them up in pack-saddles; these he put upon beasts of burden carrying ordinary wares and sent thei into Argos. But Charimenes the seer took on a partner in the enterprise, at which Aeschy-Jus and his friends were incensed and proceeded to act on their own account, ignoring Charimenes. When Charimenes was aware of this, he was angry and informed against the men just as they were setting out to attack the tyrant; most of them, however, succeeded in escaping from the market- place and fled to Corinth.

VOL, XI, Coo

4 or

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

Od piv add\Xra ypovov Bpayéos SteNGovtos azro-Ovioxee pev vo bovr@v *Aptotrouayxos, vUmo-NapBavee S€ thy apynv POacas ’ApiotiTTos, éEwréotepos éxetvou TUpavvos. oaoe $7) TaY
"Ayatov év AtKia TapovtTes ETVYXOV, TOUTOUS avahaBov o “Apatos éBonber mpos THY ToALW o&€éws, alouevos evpyoeayv ta Tav Apyetwv Tpo-Ouya. tov dé TodArAwY dn ba cUVHOeLav eGerodovAws éyovTwy Kai pndevos adtatapévou pos avTov, dveywpnoey EyKANMA KATETKEVAKWS TOTS
"Ayatots ws é€v eipyvn Toreuov éEevnvoxoat. Kai dixny Exyov é€mi TovTw tapa Mavtiwebdow, iv
"Apdtov yl) wapovtos “Apiotimmos cide SiwKxwv Kal pvov eéTounOn tTpraxovta. Tov 5é “Apatov avUTOV dua Kai pic@v Kal dedoiK@s é7TEBovNEVEY averety cuvepyovvtos ‘Avtiyovov tod Baciiéws’ Kal TAYTAXOD GYEdOV Hoav ot TOUTO TpAaTTOVTES avTOls KAL KaLpov éTLTNPODPTES.
"AAN ovsev oiov adrnOivyn Kat BéBatos edvora @vAakTypLov avdpos apxovTos. Otay yap ébicbaow ot Te TOOL Kal of SvvaTOL pn TOV HyoUpEVOY, GX’ Urép Tov yyoupévou Sedtévat, ToANOTs pév Oppaciw opd, dia Todkdov 66 wWTwy aKovet, Kal mpoatabavetat Ta yivomeva. 610 Kal Bovropat Tov Aoyov éemiaTtHcas évTadOa mov d.eFENOeiv wept THs ’Aptotintou s&taitys, vy 1) CnNoTUTOVpéevn TUpavvis avT@ Kal 6 THIS paxaptas kal meptBontov povapyias oyKos TepteOnxer.
NAVI. ’Exeivos yap "Avtiyovov pév éxov
58
1039

Nevertheless, after a little while Aristomachus was killed by slaves, and Aristippus, a more pernicious tyrant than he, soon succeeded in seizing the power. Aratus at once took all the Achaeans of military age who were at hand and went swiftly to the aid of the city, supposing that he would be welcomed by the Argives. But since most of them were by this time habituated to slavery and willing to endure it, so that not a man came over to his side, he retired, after involving the Achaeans in the charge of having gone to war in time of peace. They were prosecuted on this charge before the Mantineans, and in the absence of Aratus, Aristippus as plaintiff won his case and was awarded damages to the amount of thirty minas.t_ Aratus himself the tyrant both hated and feared, and so laid plots to kill him with the assistance of Antigonus the king; and almost every- where there were men who undertook this deed for them and watched for an opportunity.

But there is no safeguard for a ruler like a sincere and steadfast goodwill on the part of the ruled. For when both the common people and the leading men are afraid, not of their leader, but for their leader, he sees with many eyes, hears with many ears, and so perceives betimes what is going on. ‘Therefore | wish to stop my story at this point, in order to describe the life that Aristippus led. This was laid upon him by his office of tyrant, so envied of men, and by the pride and pomp of monarchy, which men celebrate and call blessed.

XXVI. For though he had Antigonus as ally, and 1 Half a talent. equivalent to about £118, or $600, a merely nominal fine. Mantineia acted as arbitrator, perhaps by special agreement.

to

oUupayov, Tpépwy Ce TorNOVs EvEKA THS TOU cwpatos aghadeias, ovdéva oe ev TH TOrAE CavTa Tay €yOpav vmoveXoLTTOS, TOUS pev bopudopouvs kat diAanas €Ew TrapeuBarrev éxeé-Nevey EV TH WEPLTTVAM, Tovs Ce oOlKéTAS, OTFOTE cevmvyjaat, TaXLOTA mavTas efehavvev Kal Tay péTavrov ATOKAELWY [ETA THS ep@wevns AUTOS
Els olKnia KATEOUETO psx pov UTEP@OY, Oupa KATAPPAKT? KELO [EVO ns UTrEepavw THY KALYNY emeTeOeis exadevoev, ws e105 xabevdey TOV OUTWS éXovra, Tapaxwoas Kal meptpoBos. TO O€ KA ako) HS épwperns HNTNP upatpovoa Kare-KAELEV ELS ETE pov olknpa, Kat Tad ap pep mpooeTiBer Kal KATEKGAEL Tov Oavyactov TUpay-vov, Qo TEP EPTETOV | ex podeod KATEPXOpEVov.

o 6¢é oux Om Aous Kara Biav, vow be vn’ dperis dxataT avo ov apxny TEPLTET OLN {LEVOS, év (marie Kal Krapudde T@ TUYOVTL, TOY TOTOTE TUpavver KOLVOS drrobeberrypévos ex pos, axpe TS 77) He pov nmEepas yEVvOS ev0oKLMa@TATOV am ohehouT ev Ev TOUS “EAAnoev. exeivov be TOY TAS axpas Kata-AapBavovtov wal TOUS Sopupopous TpepovTay
kal TAaOT Na Kal Tas mUAas Kal TOUS KaTappaKtas 7 poBarropéevav UTEep THS TOU TW LATOS acha-deltas ONiryou TOV é€K PANY is Oavatov, Bamep Ol Aaywot, Ouepuyov: oixos O€ 7; y) yévos 7) Tahos Exwr
TLLMLEVHY YH NY ovdevos NENELTTITAL-XXVIT. pos & ody tov Apiotemmov 6 “Apa-Tos Kal Kpvda TodXdakis Kal havep@s mpocémTaLoev ETLVELPHNaAS KaTAaAapBave TO “Apyos. amaké 5€ kXiwaxas wpodbels pet OALywv etl TO Tetvyos avéBn TapaBdrAws, Kal Tovs BonOodvras 60
ARATUS xxvi. 1-xxvll. I kept many guards to protect his person, and had left no single enemy alive in the city, yet he would order his spearmen and guards to bivouac outside in the colonnade ; and as for his servants, as soon as supper was over he would drive them all out. Then he would lock the doors of the inner house, and betake himself with his mistress to a little upper room, which was closed by a trap-door; on this door he would place his couch and sleep, as one in his state of mind would naturally sleep, by fits and starts and in great fear. The ladder the mother of his mistress would take away and lock up in another room, and in the morning would put it in place again and call the wonderful tyrant, who would come down like a creeping thing out of its hole. Aratus, on the other hand, not by force of arms, but legally and in con- sequence of his virtues, had invested himself with an enduring power, and yet went about in ordinary tunic and cloak; he declared himself a public foe of any and every tyrant; and he left behind him a posterity of the highest repute among the Greeks down to this day. But of the men who seize citadels, main- tain spearmen, and depend upon arms and gates and trap-doors for the safety of their persons, only a few, like timorous hares, have escaped a violent death ; while not one of them has left a house, or a family, or a tomb to keep his memory in honour. XXVII. Against Aristippus, then, and in trying to seize Argos, Aratus made many open and secret attempts in vain. Once he set up scaling-ladders, at great hazard got upon the wall with a few followers, and killed the sentries that defended the 1 Cf. chap. liv. ad jin.

€1
PLUTARCH’S LIVES

2 éevtad0a Tav duraxwy aTéxtewev. eiTa Hepas éripavelans Kat TOU TUpavvoU TaVTaYobEY ALTO

mpoaBddXovtos, ol ev “Apyetot, Kalarrep oux uTep THS éxetvor €hevdepias THS MANNS ovens, aXr’ ws TOV ayava Tov Nepetwv BpaSevortes, i icol Kal dixatot Geatat Kadivro Tay yevopever, TOMY nouxXtay GryovTEs, o 6€ “A paros EUp@aTos apy o-HLEVOS NOYXN pev ex Xeupos Ovehavvera TOV Npor, eXpaTNoe o€ TOV TOTO €v ols WV, Kal ovK efewo On EXPL VUKTOS Evox Novpevos UTo TOV TOMLOV.
3 et dé Kal THY VUKTA TO TOV | MpoceTararmopnaen, ovx av Oujpaptev’ 0 yap TUpavvos ién Tept Spa-Tmov etye Kal TONAA TOV idtwv etl Padacaav mpoeEereprre’ vov O€ ToUTO pev ovdevos é€ayyethavros T pos tov “Apatop, datos dé emtne-TOVTOS, EAVT@ oe xpncac bat dia TO Tpavpa py SUVALLEVOS, dmiyarye TOUS TT PATLOTAS.
XXVIII. ’Evet 6¢ tavtny aréyvw thy oop,
éuBarov PavepOs TO 7 TpATOT EO THY ‘Apyonrioa Xopav érropO en" Kad Tept TOV Xdpnra OTA LOY loxXupas paxns YEVOLEVNS Tpos: “Aptotimmop aitiay éaxev Os eycaTarim@v Tov ayova Kat T POE {LEVOS TO viKn [a THS yap arANS duvapews 104 omohoyouperas émixpatovans Kal T@ roy pp Todv mpoeNGovans eis Tovpmpodbev, aUTOS OvY otTws éxBiacbels Urd ToV Kab aUTOV, WS aTloTav T® KaTtopOwpat. Kai PoBnOeis, aveywpnoe
2 TeTapaypévos eis TO OTpaTOTredoV. érret OE ATO
THs Suwkews erravedGovtes of RAotTOL YaXreTTas
Epepoy OTe Tpewdapevot Tovs TorEulovs Kal ToAU TWAELoVas EeKelvwy KaTaBadrcvTes 1) ThOY aVT@VY GTOAeTAaVTES TWapareXolTage Tos NTTN-
<

O2

ARAEUS xxvit. 1=xxviu. 2

place. Then day came and the tyrant attacked him from all sides, while the Argives, as though it were not a battle to secure their liberties, but a contest in the Nemean games of which they were the judges, sat as just and impartial spectators of what was going on, without lifting a finger. Aratus, fighting sturdily, had his thigh transfixed by a spear-thrust, yet held his ground, and could not be dislodged at close quarters until night, though harassed by his enemies. And if through the night also he had maintained the struggle, he would not have failed in his attempt; for the tyrant was already bent on flight and had sent on many of his goods to the sea. As it was, however, no one told Aratus of this, and since water was failing him and he could not use his strength by reason of his wound, he led his soldiers away.

XXVIII. Then, since he despaired of success in this way, he openly invaded the territory of Argos with his army and ravaged it; and in a fierce battle with Aristippus at the river Chares, he was accused of abandoning the struggle and throwing away the victory. For although the rest of his forces admittedly had the upper hand and had gone far on ahead in pursuit, he himself, not so much because he was ousted from his position by his opponents, as out of mistrust of success and in utter fear, withdrew in disorder to his camp. But when the rest of his army came back from the pursuit and were indignant because, though they had routed the enemy and slain far more of them than they had lost of their own number, they had suffered the vanquished to 03 PLUTARCRH'S LIVES

pévois oTioat Kat avTaVY TpoTaLoY, alayuVvOeis
, A Tdadw éyvw diapayecOat Tepi Tov TpoTraiov, Kal

piav npépav Siaritrov avOis é€étacce THY oTpatTiav. ws b€ yaOeTO Wrelovas yeyovotas Kal

\ 7

Gapparewtepov avOtatapévovs Tovs wept TOY TU-

' >] , 5 > 9 n \ Q

pavvov, ovk éTOALNTEV, EAN amHdAGEe Tovs vEeKpous

t td 3 , b] \ b] \ w~ \

UToaTovoous LLU SG EGLIS. ov pnv adda TH ee

THY Oulrtav Kal TroALTELaV ep metpig Kat xa pers

THY Sra wapriay TAUTHD dvapar opevos ™ poo nya-yeto tas Krewvas Tots "Ayatois, Kal Tov ayava

tov Nepeiwy jyayev ev Krewvais, os mdatpiov
aA 4
dvTa Kal padXOVv TpoarKovTa TovTOLS. Hryaryov dé kat ’Apyetor, Kal auvexvOn ToTe TpwToV 7

a 3 al 4 \ dedouevn Tols uywuiaTais adovrAla Kat aodarea,
? nw a ¢ /- mavtas Tov Ayxatav, daous EXaBov Hywrid wévous \ nA ;
év "Apyet, dia THs KW@pas Topevopmevous ws ToXeEpious atrodouévav. otw adhodpos tv Kal amrapaiTNTOS EV T@ ploEely TOS TUPaVVOUs.

XXIX. "Odiyo 6€ tatepov axovaas Tov ’ApioTimmov émeBourevery prev Tats Krewvais, poBet-\ 9 A bf , / #
oat dé éxetvov év KopivOw xabefopevov, nO pore
, 4
éx TrapayyéApatos otpateiav. Kal auitia Kefa al ,
AEevaas TAELOVWY HuEepaVv Komitey eis Keyypeas
A ’ , be) , >] ,
Kkathrbev, exxarovpevos O¢ atatns Tov Apioter¢ w~ \ / , na
jWov wS avTov pn mapovtos énriPécbat Tois
a nw Krewvaios’ 6 Kai ovvé8y. taphyv yap evOus é& ov ” A PY, e be v7 9 Apyous éxov tyhv dvvauv. o 6€ “Apatos eis KopivOov 6n cxotaios ex Keyypeav troatpéwas, tras Mian els heals Ee RRS gee O30 rane Teer SS
1 After the events narrated in xxxiv, ff, 64

ARATUS xxvii. 2—xxtx. 2

erect a trophy over the victors, Aratus was ashamed and determined again to fight out the question of the trophy, and on the next day but one put his army once more in battle array. However, on per- ceiving that the forces of the tyrant were more numerous than before and more courageous in their resistance, he would not venture a decisive battle, but withdrew after being allowed to take up his dead under a truce. Nevertheless, by his skill in dealing with men and public affairs, and by the favour in which he stood, he retrieved this failure, brought Cleonae into the Achaean League, and celebrated the Nemean games in that city, on the ground that it had an ancient and more fitting claim upon them. But the games were also celebrated at Argos, and then for the first time the privilege of asylum and safe-conduct which had been granted to contestants in the games was violated, since the Achaeans treated as enemies and sold into slavery all contestants in the games at Argos whom they caught travelling through their territory. So fierce and implacable was Aratus in his hatred of tyrants.

ANik. A little while after this,! Aratus heard that Aristippus was plotting against Cleonae, but feared to attack it while his enemy was posted at Corinth; he therefore assembled an army by public proclamation. And after ordering his troops to carry provisions for several days, he marched down to Cenchreae, by this stratagem inviting Aristippus to attack Cleonae in the belief that his enemy was not at hand; and this was actually what happened. For the tyrant set out at once from Argos with his forces. But Aratus, returning from Cenchreae to Corinth as soon as it was dark, and posting guards

Kal Tas odous puraxais dcaraBon, YE TOUS
'A xatous ETOMEVOUS ott jeev EUTEKTOS, oUTa o€ TAXEDS Kal Tpolvuws WaTeE by {LOVOV odevovTas, adna Kal TmapedBovras eis TAS Krewvas ere VUK-TOS ovons Kal cuvrakapevous émwl aynv aryvoet-a Oat kal AavOaveww Tov "Apiotimmov. Gia oe nMEpa TOV TUAOY avorx Pera @v Kal THs cadmeyyos ey xehevTapevns, Spomep Kal dharayp@ ™ poc-Tec@v Tots Todeulows evOus érpevrato, Kal
KaTEtXe OL@xeov 7 padiora pevyyerv UTevoet TOV
'Apiatimmoy, € EXT POTTAS TONNAS TOV YoOpiwv eyov-TOV. yevopevns Oe THS btw Fews aX pe Muxnvar, 0 [Lev _TUpavvos umd Kpnros Tivos, ws Acwias ioTopel, TOUVOpA Tpayioxou, catarnolels amTro-oparretat, Tov o€ dA\wV ETEecov UT Ep YUALous mevtakxocious. 0 6é€ "Apatos oT AapyTpPaS eUTUYNTAaS Kal pydéva TOV avTOD oTpaTiWTaV aToBarov, ouws ovx eaBe to "Apyos oude Nrevdepace, TOV TeEpl 'Ayiav Kal TOL VEw@TEPOV
"A pia Tomax ov pera Oupapews Raorrexiys TaAp-ELT ET OVTOY Kal KATAGXOVTOV Ta TPLy Lara.
To pev odv ToAv THs dtaBorNs Kal Aoyous Kal cKxwoppata Kal Bwportoxias TapeiNeTO TOV KONa-KEVOVTWV TOUS TUpdvvoUs Kab OveEvovtan, EXELVOLS
xapeloneveor, Os TOU oTparnyou Tov "AXaLav EXTAPUTTOLTO pev 7 KotNLa Tapa TAS payas, Kapos b€ TpogTintoL Kal tduyyos dua TO Tapa-oThvas TOV TANTLYKTHY, extd€as dé Thy OvvapLy Kat TO cuvOnpa TAPEYYVITAS, Kat mv 6pevos

TOV UTOTTPATiyyov Kal AoXayav, pay TLS aUTOD V peta TapovTos (BeBrRcPat yap Tovs aor pa-yanous), aTépxorTo Kapadcoxijawy Troppwlev To 66

ARATUS xxix. 2-5

along all the roads, led his Achaeans towards Cleonae, and they followed him in such good order and with such swiftness and alacrity that not only while they were on the march, but also when they had got into Cieonae, before the night was over, and had arrayed themselves for battle, Aristippus knew nothing at all of it. Then, at daybreak, the gates were thrown open, the trumpet gave its loud signal, and dashing at a run and with shouts upon the enemy Aratus routed them at once, and kept on pursuing where he most suspected that Aristippus was in flight, the country having many diverging routes. The pursuit continued as far as Mycenae, where the tyrant was overtaken and slain by a certain Cretan named Tragiscus, as Deinias relates ; and besides him there fell over fifteen hundred. But although Aratus had won so brilliant a success, and had lost not a single one of his own soldiers, he nevertheless did not take Argos nor set it free, since Agias and the younger Aristomachus burst into the city with troops of the king and took control of affairs,

This success, then, refuted much of the calumny heaped upon Aratus, as well as the scoffing and abusive stories of the flatterers of the tyrants, who would recount, to please their masters, how the general of the Achaeans always had cramps in the bowels when a battle was imminent, and how torpor and dizziness would seize him as soon as the trumpeter stood by to give the signal, and how, after he had drawn up his forces and passed the watchword along, he would ask his leutenants and captains whether there was any further need of his presence (since the die was already cast), and then go off to await the issue anxiously at a distance. Tor

67

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

6 up Sno opevov. TavTa yap oUTWS iayUoEY WATE

68

Kat Tous prrogopous ev TALS oXonais on TouvTas el TO Tarr€Ec Oat THY Kapolay Kal TO Xpopa Tpé-mecOat Kal THY KotNLaY ebvypaiver@at Tapa Ta pacvopeva dewa devas €oTLY 1) vo Kpacias TWVOS TEpL TO copa Kal Yuxporntos, ovopmatew a adel Tov
"A patov ws ayabov pev évta oTpaTHyor, aél Oe TAUTA TATXOVTA TAPA TOUS ayavas.
XXX. ‘Os & ody tov “Aptotum mov avetrer,

evOus em eBovdeuae Avosady TO Meyadoronhity TUpavvourTl THS €avTov maT pibos. o 6€ ovK OV ayevviys ovee Apihor pos THY guow, ovee Oo TeEp ot TOOL TOV MovapXxev aKpacta Kat Treovebig
T pos TAUTNDY puels THY adiKiay, GX érra pOcis
Eport d0Ens Ett véos Kat Xoyous speudels Kal KEVOUS AEYOMEVOUS mept Tupavvisos, OS peaxaptov kai @avpaatod Tpayparos, els perya, ppovnpa TapadeEdwevos avonTas, Kal KATATTHTAS EMUTOV
TUpavyov Taxy MET TOS mV THS €K povapxias Bapv-TynTOS. apa 6é onhav eUnwepodvra Kat SEdOLKaS emtBoudevovta TOV "A patov oppnoe KANO THY oppeny peta Badopevos, 7 p@Tov pev EaUTOV edev-Gepacar picous | kat goou Kal ppovpas Kal
Sopupapan, ELTA THS TaTpidos EVEPYETNS yever Oar Kal peTaTenyapevos TOV "A paroy aphke Tip apxny, Kal TV Tod eis TOUS “AXavous per-EKOMLTED. ep ols weyaduvovTes avTov oi “Ayatol oTPAaTHYOV ELAOVTO.
Drroripovpevos 66 evOus umepBaneiv d0&n TOV
"A patov ddXas Te ToAAaS m pagers OUK avayKaias etvat Soxovaas Kal oTpateiay emi Naxedatuovious Tapyyyedrev. eviataduevos b€ 0 "Apatos adto ARATUS xxix. 5-Xxx. 3

these stories were so prevalent that even in the schools of philosophy, when the query arises whether palpitation of the heart and change of colour and looseness of the bowels, in the presence of seeming peril, are the mark of cowardice, or of some faulty temperament and chilliness in the body, Aratus is always mentioned by name as one who was a good general, but always had these symptons when a contest was impending.

XXX. Having thus made away with Aristippus, Aratus at once began to plot against Lydiades, who was tyrant in his native city of Megalopolis. This Lydiades was neither of mean birth nor naturally lacking in high ambition, nor, like most sole rulers, had he been driven by licence and rapacity into this iniquity, but he had been fired with a love of glory while still young, and had thoughtlessly associated with his high spirit the false and empty doctrines current concerning tyranny, to the effect that it was a wonderful and blessed thing. And now that he had made himself tyrant, he was quickly sated with the burdens which devolve upon the sole ruler. Therefore, at once envying the successes of Aratus and fearing his plots, he adopted a new and most admirable plan, first, to free himself from hatred and fear and guards and spearmen, and second, to become a benefactor of his native city. So he sent for Aratus, resigned his power, and made his city a member of the Achaean League. Wherefore the Achaeans exalted him and chose him general.

Lydiades was at once ambitious to surpass Aratus in reputation, and not only did many other things which were thought unnecessary, but also proclaimed an expedition against the Lacedaemonians. Aratus

69

or

bo

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

plovety edoxet: Kal TO Ye OevTepov o Avosddns oTparryos npeOn, aVTUT pat TOVvTOS AUTLK PUS ‘Apd-TOU Kal omovdd Sovtos eTEP@ mapadodjvar THY Boe AUTOS pev Vp, @s elpnTat, Tap’ evlauTor
Ap HEX pL pev ovv TpLTNS oTpaTnyias 6 Av-bud re ev pepopevos dueTéeAeL Kal map évlavtov Apyev évardrak& 7O Apatow oTparnyav' pavepav
d€ eLeverye devas éyO pav Kal ToAAdKis auTou KaTnyopncas ev tois 'Ayxatois ameppipn Kal Tapopen, TET AAG [EVE Ooxdp nOet mpos adn-
Oiwny Kat aKEpALOY apeTny apirrjgacBat. Kat
KabaTep TO KOKKUyt hynow Aicwros, epwTovTt Tous NeTTOUS OpYViOas 6 TL PEevyoLeVy aUTOD, ELTrEtY éxelvous ws éaTtat Tote iépak, oVTwWS EoLKE TO) Avitdbn mapaxonrovbety éx tis tupavyidos vtro-Wia Brartovea Tiyv hvaw avtovd Tis peTaBorNs.
DOR I Oo Apatos EVOOKLULNTE Kal mept
Tas AlitwALKas mpikers, OTE oupBarely pev avtot;
7 po THS Meyapixns @ppenpevov TOY ‘Axatan, KaL TOU Bacthéws TOV Aaxebatpovior "Aytoos dptcopevov peta Ourdpews Kal cuveLoppavros ert THY paxny TOUS “Axatous, évavtiwbeis Kal TONAa pev oveion, moArXa © Ets paraxtav Kat aToApiay Kal cxwoppata Kal yevacmoy UTropei-vas ov TponKaTO TOY TOV GUEdEPOYTOS AOYLG LOY da TO havopevoy aicypov, adrAa Tapexwpnae Tols ToAemloes UirepBarovar THv LVepdveray apa-vet maperGeiy ets HeXomrovvnaov. ws pévtot Tap-erOovtes cEaidyns Werxrnvnv xatéXaBov, obKéT Fy
e

td fT
0 altos, ovd Euerdre SraTpiBwv Kal Trepipérov

1 Chap. xxiv. 4. 4 About 241 nc. Cf. the Agis, xiv. f.
7°
ARATUS xxx. 3-Xxx1. 2

opposed him, but was thought to do so out of jealousy ; and Lydiades was chosen general for the second time, though Aratus openly worked against him and was eager to have the office given to some- one else. For Aratus himself, as I have said,! held the office every other year. Accordingly, until he was general for the third time, Lydiades continued to be held in favour, and held the office every other year in alternation with Aratus; but after displaying an open enmity to him and frequently denouncing him before the Achaeans, he was cast aside and ignored, since it was apparent that he was contend- ing, with a fictitious character, against a genuine and unadulterated virtue. And just as the cuckoo, in the fable of Aesop, when he asks the little birds why they fly away from him, is told by them that he will one day be a hawk, so it would seem that since Lydiades had once been a tyrant he was never free from a suspicion, which did injustice to his real nature, that he would change again.

XXXI. In the Aetolian war also Aratus won a good repute. For when the Achaeans were bent on an engagement with the Aetolians in front of Megara," and Agis the king of the Lacedaemonians was come up with an army and joined in urging the Achaeans on to battle, Aratus opposed this counsel, and in spite of much vilification and much scoffing abuse for weakness and cowardice would not abandon, because of any seeming disgrace, which he judged to be for the general advantage, but allowed the enemy to cross the Geraneian range without a battle and pass on into Peloponnesus. When, however, after thus passing on, they suddenly seized Pellene, he was no longer the same man, nor would he wait at is

PLUTARCH'S LIVES

' lod AN ~ 3 3 x , abporcOnvat Kat cuverOety eis Tav'TO TavTay der \ , b) y ' ' e \ a U
THY Ovvapty, AN EvOUs BpyNnoe peTa TOV Tapov-Twy él TOUS ToAEuLouUs ey TO KpaTeiv acbeve-
, > ' , \ ef # ee b!
3aTatous 6 atakiay cai BBpw ovtas. dua yap
T® TapedOew els THY TOY Of ey TTPATLMTAL ia) A "A dvactrapevTes éy tails oixiats jnaoav, éEwOobvTes
\ / a GNANAOVS Kal Crapayopmevolr TEpt THY YpHnuaTwD, nryemoves S€ Kal AOYaYol Tas yuvatKas Kal Tas
/ A =f
Ouyatépas tov erAAnvéwy trepriovtes Aptralov,
\ " a Kal Ta Kpavn Ta adTtav adgapodvtes éxeivats
/ "A a a

mepteTiOecay Tov undéva AaBEtvy ArXov, GAA TO a > \ t xpavet OnXrov elvat Tov deaTroTHY ExaaTNS. ovTW bé Scaxerpévois avtois Kal tavtTa mpattovaw 3 4 ey b] \ / \ eEaipuns 0” Apatos émimet@v TpognyyérXOn. Kat yevouevns extrrAN ews, olay etxos év atakia Tot-
/ , “~
avrTn, Wpiv } Tavtas TUdéd Oat Tov KivduVOY Ol TPa-
a A A ‘
TOL Epi TAS TrUAAS TOls AxYatots KAaLTA TpodaTEla ovuptrecovTes Ehevyov Hon verixnpevol, Kat Kate- 104
‘
TwipTrAacay éAavvouevot TpoTpoTadny aTopias
Tovs gurtatapévous Kal tpocBonbodvtas.
XXXII. ’E Tw O€ TA i (a TG
. Ev tottwm 6€ 7 tapdyw pia Tov 3 , arxparwtwv, Esriynbous avdpos évdo€ou Ouyarnp,
s\ avutyn d€ KddAEL Kal peyéPer TMpaTos EevTpET NS, A e a A b eTuye ev év TO (ep@ Kabelopévn THs Aptémtcos, ov KATETTNOEV ALTHV O ETLAEKTAPYNS EXWY EAUT@
\ \ \ f ” \ 3 A
Kal TrepeOets THY Tpirodiav, advw bé éxdpapovca
2 mpos tov OdpvBov, ws Estn po TOY Bupay Tod lepov Kal KaTéBrEWeY Els TOUS payouevous avwber Eyovga THY Tptropiav, avTois TE TOis ToALTALS
72

ARATUS xxx. 2—xxxul. 2

all in order that his forces might assemble and come together from all quarters, but at once set out with those he had against the enemy, whom the disorder and wantonness attendant upon their success had wholly weakened. For as soon as they had entered the city, the common soldiers had scattered themselves among the houses, jostling and fighting with one another over the booty, while the leaders and captains were going about and seizing the wives and daughters of the Pellenians, on whose heads they put their own helmets, that no one else might seize them, but that the helmet might show to whom each woman belonged. But while they were in this situation and thus engaged, word was suddenly brought them that Aratus had attacked. Dismay fell upon them, as was natural amid such disorder, and before all had learned of the danger the fore- most of them, engaging with the Achaeans at the gates and in the suburbs, were already conquered and in full flight, and being driven in headlong rout, they filled with dismay those who were collecting together and coming to their aid.

XXXII. In the midst of this confusion, one of the captive women, daughter of Epigethes, a man of distinction, and herself conspicuous for beauty and stateliness of person, chanced to be sitting in the sanctuary of Artemis, where she had been placed by the captain of a picked corps, who had seized her for his prize and set his three-crested helmet upon her head. But suddenly she ran forth to view the tumult, and as she stood in front of the gate of the sanctuary and looked down upon the combatants from on high, with the three-crested helmet on her head, she seemed to the citizens themselves a vision

Géapa cepvotepov % Kat avOpwrov éepavy, Kal Tots ToAEutots Pagpa Oetov opav Soxovar Ppixny évéBare cat Cap Bos, Bote pydéva TpéwETV at TPOS GXKNY.
Avtot 6€ TleAAnvets Xéyouot to Bpéras Tijs Geov Tov pev addOv aTroKeta Oar ypovov aravaTor, oTay O€ Kivnbeév v0 Tis iepetas exhépytat, unoéva mpooBrérev évavtiov, aAN amotpétmecOar Trav-Tas" ov yap av pwrous povov dpapa ppixtov elvat Kal Xaremon, ava Kal devopa motel apopa Kat KAPTFOUS drrauBrioKew, du @y ap Kopitntar.
Touto on TOTE THY léperay efeveyxapevyy Kat T pé-Tovoav det KaTa TOvS Aitwdovs dv TT poo wm ov exppovas KaTacThoat Kal waperécbat Tov Aoytauov. o &€ "Apatos ovdev év Tois vropynpacey ELPNKE TOLOUTOV, GANG not TpEWapevos TOUS Aitwdous cal devyouat cuvercTEegay els THY TOALY cEeXacat KaTAa KpdTos, Emtaxocious 5é amoKTeElvat. TO rs Epryov év Tots peylaTous d1eB070n, Kai Tipavns o Corypados émoinaey eumavTiKas TH
Si:abéoer THY paxny éxouoar.
XXXII. O8 pay GNAa TOAA@Y eOvav Kal
Rae TONS emt TOUS 'AxXatovs Tuva TA LEVY evOus
"A patos em parte pidiav 7 pos. tovs AitwAous, Kal Ilavtadéovre T@ WET TOV Atrodov Ouvaperen cuvepyo NPT pEvos ov povov elpnyny, andra Krai cum PAX iar tots "Ayaois mpos tovs AitwXrovs érroince.
Tovs dé "AGnvatous omovdator érevJ epic aut
Se BA7O% Kal KaKOS jKoveev U7Tr0 TOY "Axaav, 671 omoveas TET OLN MEVOY QUT@Y pos TOUS Make-dovas Kal dvoyas ayovtev érexeipnoe Tov Tlepara of more than human majesty, while the enemy thought they saw an apparition from heaven and were struck with amazement and terror, so that not a man of them thought of defending himself.

But the Pellenians themselves tell us that the image of the goddess usually stands untouched, and that when it is removed by the priestess and carried forth from the temple, no man looks upon it, but all turn their gaze away ; for not only to mankind is it a grievous and terrible sight, but trees also, past which it may be carried, become barren and cast their fruit. This image, then, they say, the priestess carried forth from the temple at this time, and by ever turning it in the faces of the Aetolians robbed them of their senses and took away their reason. Aratus, however, in his Commentaries, makes no mention of such a thing, but says that after routing the Aetolians and bursting into the city with them as they fled, he drove them out by main force, and slew seven hundred of them. The action was ex- tolled as among the greatest exploits, and Timanthes the painter made a picture of the battle which in its composition vividly pourtrayed the event.

XXXIII. Notwithstanding, since inany peoples and dynasts were combining against the Achaeans, Aratus at once sought to make friends of the Aetolians, and with the assistance of Pantaleon, their most in-Huential man, not only made peace, but also an alliance between them and the Achaeans.
But in his eagerness to set Athens free he incurred the bitter reproaches of the Achaeans, because, though they had made a truce and suspended hos- tilities with the Macedonians, he attempted to seize

~ 2 \ N b , bd a e
KaTadaPeiv. autos d€ apvoupevos év Tots vTO0-pvnpacty ols atroAédotTev Epytvoy aitiatat, peO \ Pd , al

ov Ta Tepi Tov “AxpoxoptivOov émpakev. éxetvor

\ eM alt A ~ a , \ nw / yap tota T@ Uetpacet mpooBadovta Kai THs KALpaxos cuvtpiBeions SsmKopevov dvoyaterv Kat Kanely cuveyws ”Apatoyv wWaTep TapoVTa, Kal dladuyety ovtTws éFaTatioavta TOUS TroAEMioUS. Ov a lal wn \ al
pny doxet TLOaves atrodoyeicbar. tov yap Epyi-
s vor, avO pwrov (OLWTNY Kal 2vpov, am’ ovdevos Vv eLKOTOS éml vooy Barecbar Ty THMKAUTNY mpage, el BY TOV "A patov elev nye Hove: Kal Tap éxelvou THY SUVamLY Kal TOV Karpov ethane Tpos THY eTi-Beouv. edijAwoe dé Kal avtos o “Apatos ov dis ovoee T pls, QNAA TOAAAKLS, aoTeEp ol Sug Epwrtes, ETLX ELIT AS TO Tleepacet Kal jpos Tas Orapaptias OUK ATOKALWY, GAAA TO Tapa plKpov ael Kal id , 4 ~ > id XN Ni auveyyus aTooharrecat Tay édrridwY TpPOS TO Gappety avaxarovpevos. atrak& b€ Kal to oKéXos éomace Sta Tov Opiactov pevyov" Kal Topas eraBe TOAXAS Jeparrevopevos, Kal TONY \povov évy dopetw Kopelopevos ETOLELTO TAS oTpatelas.

XXXIV. ‘Avtiyovouv bé atoGavovtos cai An-

, \ , ‘ ” a LnTpLov THv Pact\elav Tapadrafovtos Ete paddov évéxerto tails “A@ynvais Kal OAws KaTeppover TOV
’ S N n Makedovwr. 640 Kal Kpatnbev tos AUTOD payn mTept Puraxiay t UT Bidvos TOU Anpntpiov oTpa-THOU, Kat Adyou yevop.evou TONAOV pév, WS EdXwKe, TOAKOD O€ ws TEOVYNKEV, O pev Tov Ile-n n 4 wv 9) \ ’
2 para dpovpwv Atoyevns eeu ev EmiatoAny ets

1 Antigonus Gonatas died in 239 B.c , and was succeeded by his son Demetrius II., who reigned ten years, the Peiraeus. He himself, however, in the Com- mentaries which he left, lays the blame for this attempt upon Erginus, with whose aid he had effected the capture of Acrocorinthus. He says that Erginus attacked the Peiraeus on his own private account, and that when his scaling-ladder broke and the enemy were pursuing him, he kept calling upon Aratus by name, as if Aratus were there, and thus deceived and made his escape from them. But this defence does not seem to be convincing. For Erginus was a private man and a Syrian, and there is no likelihood that he would have conceived of so great an undertaking if he had not been under the guidance of Aratus and obtained from him the force and the fitting time for the attack. And Aratus himself also made this plain, since he assaulted the Peiraeus, not twice or thrice, but many times, like a desperate lover, and would not desist in spite of his failures, but was roused to fresh courage by the very narrow- ness of the slight margin by which he was dis- appointed of his hopes. And once he actually put his leg out of joint as he fled through the Thriasian plain; and while he was under treatment for this, the knife was often used upon him, and for a long time he was carried in a litter upon his campaigns. XXXIV. When Antigonus died and Demetrius succeeded to the throne,! Aratus was all the more bent upon getting Athens, and wholly despised the Macedonians. And so, after he had been overcome in a battle at Phylacia by Bithys the general of Demetrius, and reports were rife, one that he had been captured, and another that he was dead, Dio- genes, the guardian of the Peiraeus, sent a letter to

A ,
KopivOov é&iatacbat THs TodEws KEAEVOY TOdS
, / bl \ bf , Lg \ A Ayatous, émerd7 Apatos anébavevr éruxe b€ THY ypappdtov Kouicbevtwv Tapwy avTos ev KopivOe, \ \ e " , ' , ' rat dtatpiSny ot ToD Atoyevovs Kai yéXwTa TOAUY
, b) / b) \ Nae '
TapacyovtTes aTnrAAaynaav. avTos 5é 0 Bacirevs éx Maxedovias vabv Ereprpev, eh' 5 KopiaO noeTat
e A apos avutov o "Apatos dedenévos. macav 6é a i / "
'"AOnvaiot xovpotnta KoXakelas THS Tos Maxedo¢ , b] , cd a vas vTepBarXortes eotehavnhopnaav OTe TPWTOV b] , f & \ \ \ ' \ Wel \ ' nyyErOn TeOynKws. 610 Kal Tpos Opyny evOds éx-9 ~ oTpatevoas é4 avtovs aype THs "Axadnueias a ? \ QA +O?
mponrber> eita tetabeis ovdév noixnoen.
¢ ~ Con \
Oi de AOnvatos cupppovncavtes avtou THY ape-THY, éTet Anuntpiov TeXevTHCAVTOS @punaav él \ > , 9: a bd , = 4 ? e , Thv erevepiar, exeivov exadouy. Oo O€é, KaiTreEp ETE-pov pev apyovtos tote Tav 'Axai@v, adTos dé
, ~ , ° 7
appwoTla pakpa KALYNPNS UTdpywv, Cyws év 4 f e , ~ , A \ pope Kopi Copevos UMTIVTNTE TH mone Tpos THY VpEelav, Kat Toy ETL THS Ppoupas Atoyevn cuveTret-

“~ f n LY
gev avrooovvat Tov Te Iletpaca cai thy Movvuyiav
N ‘ SS ~ \ \ y Z ~ > ,
Kal THY SarXapiva Kat TO Novvioy tois AOnvaiors
€TL TEVTNKOVTA KAl EXATOV TANGYTOLS, WY AUTOS O
“A patos eixoot TH TOA TUVEBAXETO. TpoTEXo-pnaav & evOvs Alyevijtat nat “Eppuovets tots
~ ¢€ ~ ~
’ a ef , a 3 , 6] “ Ayatots,) Te TAELTTN THS ApKadtas avTots cup-/ \ ; t \ bd , ” 4 eTérXer. Kat Maxedovwy pev acyorwy ovtwy bia TLVAS TPOTOiKOUS Kal OM“opous TroAéuOUS, AiTH-Av € cUUpAayYoUVTOV, eTidoTW peydAnY H -OL b ”~ 3 {A as Ayatav éhauPSave dvvamts, 78
ARATUS xxxiv. 2-5

Corinth ordering the Achaeans to quit the city, since Aratus had been killed; but when the letter arrived at Corinth, Aratus chanced to be there in person, and so the messengers of Diogenes, after furnishing much diversion and laughter, went away. Moreover, the king himself sent a ship from Macedonia, on which Aratus was to be brought to him in chains. And the Athenians, carrying their flattery of the Macedonians to the highest pitch of levity, crowned themselves with garlands as soon as they heard that Aratus was dead. Therefore he was wroth, and at once made an expedition against them, and advanced as far as the Academy; then he listened to their entreaties and did them no harm.

So the Athenians came to recognize the excellence of his character, and when, upon the death of Demetrius,! they set out to regain their freedom, they called upon him. Then Aratus, although another was at that time general of the Achaeans, and he himself was confined to his bed by a long sickness, nevertheless was carried in a litter to help the city in its time of need, and joined in persuading Diogenes, the commander of the garrison, to give up the Peiraeus, Munychia, Salamis, and Sunium to the Athenians for a hundred and fifty talents, twenty of which Aratus contributed himself. Moreover, Aegina and Hermione at once came over to the Achaeans, and the greater part of Arcadia joined their league. And since the Macedonians were busy with certain neighbouring and adjacent wars, and the Aetolians were in alliance with the Achaeans, the power of the Achaean League was greatly increased.

1 In 229 z.c. He was succecded by Antigonus Doson, who reigned nine years, 19

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

XXXV. ‘O dé"Apatos éFepyalouwevos THY Ta-Aatav vToeow, Kai dSvcavacyeTav Thy év "“Apyet

TUupavvida yerTUidoav avTois, émeOe TEUTOV TOV “Apia Tomaxov ets péo ov Geivar Kal mpocayayetv tois Ayatots THY TONY, Kal CnocavTa Avéiadny éOvous THALKOUTOV per evpypuas Kat TLLAS OTpa-THYOV elva parov) plas TONEWS KivOuvEvoVTA
Kal pcovmevoyv TUpavvov. vTaKovaavTos dé Tod
“A plo TomaXov KAU KehevTavTos QUT@ TWEVTHKOVTA TahavTa Téeunvat Tov “Apatov, OT WS amrarraty
Kal dradvontar TOUS Tap avT@ OT PATEVOMEVOUS, Kal TOV XPNUAaTov rropitopévwr, 6 o Avésadns Ett oTpATHYaV Kal HedoTipmovpeEvos idtov avTov TOXI-TEU TOUTO Tpos TOUS “Axatovs yeveo Gas, TOU pev ‘Apatov KATY OPEL 7 pos “A pto TO“axov as duc pevas Kal adtadrAGKTws a ael ™ pos TOUS Tupavvous €xovtTos, auto dé Treicas THY wpakivy é7t-Tpéwar Tpoarjyarye TOUS ‘Ayacots TOV av pwr ov.
évda 87 parvora pavepay eTroingav ot a uvedpor
TOV “AX auov THY T POs Tov “Apatov eUvolay Kat
TloTLD. Gv TELTOVTOS pev yap avtTod bv opyny QTHAATAV TOUS mepl TOV Aptatopaxov" émel O€ ouptrera els Tadev aUTOS pEaTo mepl avTo@Vv dta-Neyer au Tapwv, TwavTa TAX EOS Kal 7 pod ups
evn piaarto, Kal T poo edeFavTo [ev Tous “Apyetous Kal Pracious ELS THY TontTelay, EvLaUT@ dé UoTepov Kal TOV ‘Apiaropaxov etAovTo TT paTnyov.
‘O dé v7; Epa Tapa tots Axatots Kal Bovno-HEVOS els THY Aaxovixny eu Barely exaret Tov “A parov ef \Anvav. O b¢ eypape fev AUTO THV oTpateiay aTayopevov Kai! 7a Kreouever Opdcos
1 «a. bracketed by Sint?
80
ARATUS xxxv. 1-4

XXXV. And now Aratus, seeking to effect his long-standing purpose, and impatient of the tyranny so near the Achaeans in Argos, sent messengers and tried to persuade Aristomachus to give his city freedom and attach it to the Achaean League, urging him to imitate Lydiades and be general of so great a nation with praise and honour, rather than tyrant of a single city with peril and hatred. Aristomachus consented, and told Aratus to send him fifty talents, in order that he might disband and send away the soldiers under him, and the money was being pro- vided. Upon this, Lydiades, who was still general and had an ambition that the Achaeans should regard this transaction as his own work, denounced Aratus to Aristomachus as a man who had always been an implacable enemy of tyrants, and after persuading Aristomachus to entrust the matter to himself, brought him before the Achaean council. Then the members of the council put into clearest light their goodwill towards Aratus and their confidence in him. For when he angrily opposed the project, they drove Aristomachus away; but when he had been won over again, and came before them in person, and began to argue for the project, they speedily and readily adopted all his proposals, admitted Argos and Phlius into the league, and a year later! actually choose Aristomachus general.

Aristomachus, then, being in high favour with the Achaeans, and wishing to invade Laconia, summoned Aratus from Athens. Aratus wrote him a letter in which he tried to dissuade him from the expedition, and expressed unwillingness to involve the Achaeans in hostilities with Cleomenes, who was daring and

1 In 227 B.c.

EXovTL Kat TapaBorws avEavoperep gupTréxea Par
TOUS 7 Axavous en Bovropevos, @ppnwevov d€ Tav-
TOS UmnKouce Kal TApOv TUVETTPATEVEY. ore 67
Kal KWAUTAS mepl TO IladXavteov TOU Kyeo-jevous eT UPAvEVTOS avtTois wayny cvvawat TOV
'Apis Topaxov vao Avéiadou Karn yop, Kat Tepl THS oTpaTy yeas ets ayava Kal ayTiTmapay-yedtav avT@ KaTacTas expaTnoe Th XElpoTovia Ni TOOK ATOD mpeOn TTPATHYOS.
XXXVI. 'Ev TAUTY Th oTpaTnyia TEpt TO Avxauov itTnOels Uo TOU KXeopevous Epuye' Kal mravn ders VUKTOS eoge pev teOvavat kal maduy oUTOS 0 AOYOS KAT avTOU TrOAUS eEepoitnaey els TOUS "EXvas" avacwbeis 6€ Kal TOUS oTpPAaTLW-Tas ouvayayov OUK HyaTrno ev aoparas atrerletr, GX' apicta TO Katp@ X png dpevos ovdevos 7 poo-SoxavTos ovdé cudroyiCopevov Td pedQov eEaipvns eémérece Mavtivevot cvppayows over Tov KnrXeouévous: Kal THY woAL éEX@v hPpovpav evéBanre Kal TOUS METOLKOUS TOALTAS ETOINTEV AUTOY, Kat fLovos & VLK@YTES OVK AV Padlws EcyYoV éxTHTATO verieneévoss Tois "Ayatois.
Addis 6&é TOD Aakedatpoviwy emt Meyadny TOALY TT pareve avTov BonOyoas wKver pev are paxouvTe TO Krcopever Aa Biv Tapaaxelv Kal
TOUS Meyadoroniraus Puafonevors avretXen, OvTE
ANOS Tpos TAS KaTa oTOpa paxXas ev TEPUKWS
Kal TOTE evTropevos Te TANCE Kal TpOs avopa
TOAUNTHY Kal véov 7O0n TapaxpagovTe TO Ovpo
Kal KexoAXacuevn TH PlroTipla TUVETTNKWS, KAL
1 See the Cleomenes, iv. 3~4.

29o°6 B.c. Cf. the Cleomenes, v. * Cf. the Cleomencs, vi.
Q
O2
1044

growing marvellously in power; but, since Aristo- machus was altogether insistent, Aratus obeyed orders and accompanied the expedition in person. It was at this time that he prevented Aristomachus from joining battle when Cleomenes came upon them at Pallantium,! and was denounced therefore by Lydiades, with whom he came into contest and competition for the office of general, winning the vote and being chosen general for the twelfth time.

XXXVI. In the campaign of this year? he was defeated by Cleomenes near Mount Lycaeum, and took to flight; and, since he lost his way in the night, he was thought to be dead, and once more a story to this effect had wide currency among the Greeks. But he escaped alive and rallied his soldiers, and then was not content to come off safely, but making the best use of his opportunity, when no one expected or had any idea ot what was to happen, he suddenly made an assault upon Mantineia, which was in alliance with Cleomenes; and having taken the city, he set a garrison there, and made its alien residents full citizens, thus acquiring single-handed for the conquered Achaeans what they could not easily have obtained as conquerors.
And again, when the Lacedaemonians made an expedition against Megalopolis,? he went to the aid of the city, but was loth to give Cleomenes a chance for the hand-to-hand fighting which he desired, and resisted the importunities of the Megalopolitans. For he was never at any time well fitted by nature for set battles, and at this time in particular he was inferior in numbers, and was matched against a man who was young and daring, while his own courage was past its prime, and his ambition chastened. He

¢ A N ~ A 9 al 5] ' e
vouitwrv hv dua TOU ToApav exeivos éE ovY UTapyout é€xtato ddFav avT@ KexTnpevwm puraxtéor
\ A elvas Ota THS evAAaElas.
XXXVII. Od pHy adrra TOV Wirov éxdpapov-Tov Kal woapévwmy Tovs Lraptiatas axypt TOD

\
oTpatomédou Kal Trepi Tas oxNVaS diacTapévTMD, e \ bd PND Aa bd , 3 bd] b] /

o pev "“Apatos ovd’ &s emnjyayev, adr’ ev péow AaBwv yapadpay éréatyce Kal KaTexwAvoe Sia-
“A \ ¢. 4 e \ 4 ~
Bhvat tods omritas: o b6€ Avédsadns treperabar
, \
Tpos Ta yuyvoneva nat tov “Apatov xaxilwv aA \ e Cal f lal “A AVEKANELTO TOUS LTTELS WS aUTOV, dELOV éTLhavi-
a , N \ , vat Tois StwWKOVaL Kat wn TpoéaAat TO viknwa a VN \ A unde CyKaTadiTrely avTOV UTEP THS TaTpiOos ayw-~ \ 4 vitopevov. ToAAw@Y 5€ cVaTpadévTwY Kal aya-“a / A A aA
Odv émippwcbeis évéBare TO S5€Et@ TOY TONELioY
\ 4 J 4 e ‘ a) \ nal Tpeyapevos édiwxev, vO Ovpod Kal dirott-7 pias atamevtws ériotradbels eis ywpia oKxoALa
Kal peocta Oévdpwv mepuTevpévmy Kal Tadpor
A f a
TAATELMV, EV ots EOE pwEevou TOD Kreomévaus érrece
A x aA
AaALTPAS dywVigapEvos TOV KAAXALTTOV TOV ayo-
“a , vov émi Ovpats THS Tarpioos. ot & aAXro dev-
\ ,
youTes els THY hadXayya Kat cuvtapdEavtes Tous
€ ¢: \ A
omAtiTas ONOV TO OTPUTEvMA TIS HTTHS eveTrANCAD.
¢
aitiav 6€ peyadnv o *"Apatos éhaBe Sof€as mpoé\ sS \ \ e N al 9 ~ aOat Tov Avdtadny: Kat Bracbeis tro Tay Ayatav
f ’ A
ATEPYOMEVWY TPOS Opyv nKOAOVONGEY aUTOLS Ets
Alytov. éxet d€ cuverOovtes erndicarvto wn bu-
, a dovat Xpyyata avT@ pndé praGohopous tpéderv, b >] e n 4 by , a

GNX’ avT@ Tropivew, et S€oLTo TONEHETY.
84
ARATUS xxxvi. 3-xxxvil. 3

also thought that the glory which his adversary was trying to acquire by his daring and did not possess, had already been acquired by himself and must be preserved by his caution.

XXAVII. Nevertheless, his light infantry once made a sally, drove the Spartans as far as to their camp, and were scattered about among the tents. Aratus, however, would not even then lead up his men, but putting a ravine between himself and the enemy, halted there, and would not suffer his men- at-arms to cross it. Then Lydiades, distressed at what was going on, and loading Aratus with re- proaches, called his horsemen to him and exhorted them to go to the help of the pursuers, and not to let the victory slip out of their hands nor leave in the lurch a commander who was fighting in behalf of his native city. Many brave men gathering at his call, he was emboldened to charge upon the right wing of the enemy, which he routed and pursued. But his ardour and ambition robbed him of discretion, and he was drawn on into places that were intricate and full of planted trees and broad trenches. Here Cleomenes attacked him and he fell, after a brilliant and most honourable combat at the gates of his native city. The rest of his men fled to their main line, threw the men-at-arms into confusion, and thus infected the whole army with their defeat. Aratus was severely blamed for this, being thought to have betrayed Lydiades; and when the Achaeans left the field in anger, they forced him to accompany them to Aegium. Here they held an assembly, and voted not to give him money and not to maintain mer- cenaries for him; if he wanted to wage war, he must provide the means himself.

85

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

XXXVHI. Ovrw 6é TpoTndaxto Gels éBourev-gato pev evOus atroPéa bat THYv oppayica Kal THD oTpaTnytay apetrar, opr po 6€ xXpngdpevos TOTE
[ev Umepetve, KL POS ‘Op xouevov eEayayov TOUS
‘Axatous payny éGeTo pos Meyiatovouv TOV Kreopevous TATPWOV, EV 1) KpaTrjoas Tplaxoctous wey amextewe, Cavta 88 Tov Merytorovouy J Uvéhu Bev. elwOas dé oTpaTnyety Tap évlauTon, @S 1) Takts avuT@ Tmepeyre, KANOUBEVOS éFwo-caTO, Kab Tepd£evos npeOn TT PATIHYOS. edaxe dé
7 pev T™pOs TOUS OX AoUS opy? Tpopaces elvat Aeyomevn THS eEwpocias amiBavos, aitia & any Ons Ta TEplerT aT TOUS ‘“Axaous, ovKEO ws TT pO-TEpOV aTpépa Kal oxedny Tov KnXeopévous em BasvOVTOS oud €pm LeKopevou TALS TohTeKals apxais, GAN’ érel Tovs éfopous aTroKTEivas Kal THY Kwpay dvadacdpevos Kal TONAOUS TOV HeToiKey €uBa-wv els THY TONTELAY éaxev to xov dvuTrevOuvov,

evdus CTLKELMLEVOU TOLS “Axatots KaL TS nryeHovias EQUTOP akvovvtos. 20 Kal péppovras TOV "A pa-TOV €V TAAW peyarep Kal Netmarve TOY T Pay LaTav pepopeveor OoTEp xuBepyntny agevra Kal ™ poépevov ETEPO TOUS olaxas, ore KaN@s exe Kal aKov-TOY emia TavTa owvew TO KOLVOV" el O aTEYYMKEL TA TpPaypaTa Kal Ty Suva muy TOV “Axatan, elEat TO Krsouéver, cal wi) radi thy Werorovynoov éxBupBapooat dpovpals Maxedover, unoé ™ANPOoat Tov ‘AxpoxopiGov “DAupixav OmAwY Kal LTaratixaor, undé ovs avtos év Tais mpakeot Kata-1 Cf. the Cleomenes, xv. 1.
* For the year 224 Bc.
8 Cf. the Cleomenes, vili., xi.
oO
on 1045

ARATUS xxxvi. 1-4

XXXVIII. Smarting under this insult, he resolved to give up his seal at once, and resign the office of general, but upon reflection he held on for the present, and after leading the Achaeans forth to Orchomenus, fought a battle there with Megistonoiis, the stepfather of Cleomenes, in which he got the upper hand, killing three hundred of the enemy and taking Megistonoiis prisoner. But when, accustomed as he was to be general every other year, his turn came round again and he was invited to take the office, he formally declined,t and Timoxenus was chosen general.22 Now the grounds usually given for this refusal of Aratus, namely, his anger at the people, were not thought to be convincing, and the real reason for it was the situation of the Achaeans. For the invasions of Cleomenes were no longer quiet and restrained, as formerly, nor was he fettered by the civil authorities, but after he had killed the ephors, divided up the land, advanced many resident aliens to the citizenship, and thus got an irresponsible power,? he immediately pressed the Achaeans hard, and demanded the supreme leader- ship for himself. And therefore men blame Aratus, because, when the ship of state was driving in a great surge and storm, he forsook the pilot’s helm and left it to another, although it had been well, even if the people were unwilling, to remain at their head and save them; and if he despaired of the government and power of the Achaeans, he ought to have yielded to Cleomenes, and not to have made Peloponnesus quite barbarous again under Mace- donian garrisons, nor to have filled Acrocorinthus with [Illyrian and Gallic arms, nor, in the case of

oTcaTnyaV Kal KaTaTroNLTevopevos, év € TOIS irrouvnuace NoLdopav SueTéret, TOUTOLS emayesOaL Scomdtas Tals TONETL TULMAKXOUS UToKOpLCopLEVoV.

3 \ ve , 9 / \ e / et 6é Kreopévys av, NeyéoOw yap ovTws, Tapavo-\ , 9 » ee 3 “ ,
wos Kal TupavyKes, GAN “Hpaxdeidar matépes
A =A £ ? \
avt® Kai Swaptn wartpis, js Tov apavéoratov dEtov avTi TOD TpwTOU Makedovwy nyepmova Trovet-\ ” / N € \ , oOat Tovs év Tit AOyo THY EAANVEKNY TtGenévous
/ ?
ebyéverav. Katto. Kreopuévns grec THY apxny
A lal \
mapa Tov Axatav WS TOAAA TroLnTwY ayaGa Tas
/ \ a A \ a , /
TONELS AVTL THS TLULAS KALTHS TpocnyopLas exelyns,
’"Aptivovos S& Kal Kata yhv Kal Kata OadatTay abtoxpdtwp iyyenmv avayopevOels ov UmNKOVCE \ \ \ A A , ie A mpiv Tov picOov avT@ THs NYyELovLas oporoynOi-vat tov AxpoxdpivOov, atexva@s Tov Aicwrou pt-
4 / A unodpmevos KUYNyOV. ov yap TpoTEpoy ETEB TOLS > n , NP Le id e \ XN Axatois Seopévors Kat UToBadAovaew avTous dta
TeV TperBeLa@y Kal TOY yndiapaTwy 7 TH ppoupa Kal tols Ounpols waoTEp Xadwoupévous avacxe-cba. xaitot wacay 6“Apatos adinat pwvny atro-
, e 4
AoyeLouevos Thy avayxnv. o TodrvBeos b€ avroy éx TwoAdoD dyot xal Mpd Tis dvayxns vpopwpe-yov To Opdaos TO TOV Kreopévovs Kpuga TH
’Ayriydve SiaréyerOar, Kal Tos MeyaXoroXitas
mpoxabsévat Seopévous "“Ayardv émixareta@ar Tov
\ a ’Avtivyovov. oboe yap éméfovto TH TodEum uddiota, TUVEYaS AyovTos avTovs Kat PEpovTos
ral /
rod Kreopévous. opoiws 8& cat Pvrapyxos toto-

1 Histories, ii. 47, 4 ff men whom he was always defeating in the fields of war and statesmanship and abusing in the pages of his Commentaries, to have made these men lords over the cities under the endearing name of allies. And if Cleomenes was, as must be granted, lawless and arbitrary, still, Heracleidae were his ancestors, and Sparta was his native land, the meanest citizen of which was more worthy than the foremost Macedonian to be made their leader by those who had any regard for Greek nobility of birth. And yet Cleomenes asked the Achaeans for the office, with the promise that he would confer many benefits upon their cities in return for that honour and its title, whereas Antigonus, although he was proclaimed leader with full powers by land and sea, would not accept the office until Acrocorinthus had _ been promised him as the pay for his leadership. In this he acted just like Aesop's hunter. For he would not mount the Achaeans, although they prayed him to do so and presented their backs to him by way of embassies and decrees, until they consented to wear the bit and bridle of the garrison they received and the hostages they gave. And yet Aratus says every- thing that he can say in explaining the necessity that was upon him. Polybius, however, says?! that for a long time, and before the necessity arose, Aratus mistrusted the daring temper of Cleomenes and made secret overtures to Antigonus, besides putting the Megalopolitans forward to beg the Achaeans to call in Antigonus. For the Megalo- politans were most oppressed by the war, since Cleomenes was continually plundering their territory. A similar account of these matters is given by Phylarchus also, in whom, but for the testimony of

VOL. XI. p °9

PLUTARCH'S LIVES

PNKE Tept TOUTWY, pay TOU IorAvBiov papTupour-TOS ov Tavu TL Tia TEVELY AELOV 7 Hp. evova ed, yap OTav aypnrat TOU KAeopevous, UT evvoias, Kal xabatep év dikn TH toTopia, TQ [MEV AVTLOLKOY dtaTedel, TH O€ cuvaryopever.
XXXIX. 'AréBarov 8 oy o "Axatot TH Mavtiveiav, wadww éXovtTes avtny Tov KXeope-vous, Kal payn peyadn mept TO ExatopBarov nr7nGevtes ouTM KATET AA YNO GY OTE TELTPELY evdus éd Jiyepovia TOV Krcopevy KAN OUYTES els
"Apyos. o 66" "A patos os no Gero Badifovta Kai
mept A€épvav évTa pera TAS duvdpews, poPnbets ATED TENAE T pea Bets TOUS af.obvras @s Tapa pirous Kat TULPLAXOUS QUTOV ipKeLy META T pl
axoctwy, et 6€ amlaTtet, AaBeElvy opypovs. TavTa UBpw ewat Kal yrAevacpov avTod dyaas o Kreouevns avelevéev, éemtatoAny ypdawas Tots
'AYXatois eye djpara TOAAG Kata ToD Apatou Kal diaBoras & exovoav. eypade b€ KiKeivos ért-oToAaS Kara TOU Kreouevous: Kal epéeporro 7
Aowdoptat Kal Bracdnpiae pex pe yaLov Kat YUVALKOV CAAIAOUS KAKWS AeyovTer.
"Ex tovTov xypuxa Tréurras o Knreopevns TOAELOV TpoEpovvTa Tos "Ayatois, pLXpOdD pe evade tHv Sexvwviov wordy aptracas 4a mpodo-atas, eyyudev } dé atrotpamreis WerX vn 7pocEeBa-Ne KaL TOU oTpaTnyov tTav “Axyatwv exTrEecoPrTOS EVE THY TOALY. OALyw de DaTepov Kat Deveor éraBe kai evrédXerov. eit’ evOds ’ Apryetor mrpoc-exwpnoav avT@ cat DPrLdotot dpovpav édéEavto:

Kal GAwS ovdev ETL TOV érixTHToV BEBatov Hr
1 éyyuvéevy Bekker reads éxet@ev, with the Aldine.
go
ARATUS xxxvur. 8—xxx1x. 4

Polybius, one should not put entire credence. For goodwill makes his every mention of Cleomenes ecstatic, and as if he were pleading in a court of law, he is for ever accusing Aratus in his history, and defending Cleomenes.

XXXIX. So, then, the Achaeans lost Mantineia, which was taken again by Cleomenes, and after being defeated in a great battle at Hecatombaeum they were so dismayed that they sent at once and invited Cleomenes to come to Argos and assume the leadership. But Aratus, when he learned that Cleomenes was on the way and at Lerna with his forces, feared the issue, and sent an embassy to demand that he should come with three hundred men only, as to friends and allies, and that if he was distrustful, he should accept hostages. Cleomenes declared that he was insulted and mocked by this demand, and retired with his army, after writing a letter to the Achaeans which was full of bitter accusations against Aratus. Aratus also wrote letters against Cleomenes; and their mutual abuse and defamation reached the point of maligning one another's marriages and wives.

As a result of this, Cleomenes sent a herald to declare war against the Aclhiaeans, and almost succeeded in seizing the city of Sicyon with the help of traitors; he turned aside, however, when close at hand, and assaulted and took the city of Pellene, from which the Achaean commander fled. And not long afterwards he took Pheneus also and Penteleium. Then Argos went over to his side, and Phlius received a garrison which he sent. Ina word, not one of their acquisitions longer held firm to the

QI

lo

4

TOLS Axatois, ara JopuBos TOUS apvw Trept-ELOTIKEL TOV "A parov, opa@vra: THY Iledomovenoor
Kpadaivopevny Kal Tas Toes éEaviotapevas UTrO
TOV vewTepllovT@v Tav7ayober.
XL. "Hrpéper Thee ovder ove€ € eaTEpyED ETL TOES Ta povcy, ANA Kat Sexvwviwrv adtav cat Kopev-Oiwy éyévovto TOOL caTapavers duetAeyévor
T® Knreopévee kat drat ™ pos TO KoLvoVv (dtwv émOupla SUvaTTEL@V UTOVAWS EXovTEs. él TOU-TOUS é£ovciar avuTevOuvov oO "A patos AaBov
TOUS pev ev Suxvove Sep appevous aTrEKTELVE,
Tous 6€ €V Kopiv8@ TELPW[LEVOS avatnreiv Kat
Korabety efny plate 70 T7805 76n vooovv Kai Sapuvopevov thy vTO Tots 'A Xatots ToNTELaV.
cuvepapovtes ouv Els TO TOU 'AToAR@VOS (epov HETET EWTOVTO TOV "Aparov, avenely u) ouraBetv
Tpo THS aToaTdcEews éyvwxotes. o 66 KE meV autos éperkouevos Tov immov ws ovK amiacTav
OVE UTOTTEVWY, AVATNONTAaVTWY bE TOAABV Kal NoLdopovmevVv AUTH Kal KaTHYOpOWWTwY ED TwS
xaQeoT@TL T® TpoTMTHW Kal T@ AOYO TpPdws exedeve Kabiaat cal pn Boav ataKxtws éataTtas, andra Kab TOUS Tept Qupas évtas eicw Taptevat Kat Tavd apa Aéyoou vmeg rel Badny ws Ta. pa.- dwowy Tivi Tov immov. ovTws dé vimexdvs Kai Tols UTavT@ot TaV Kopwbtwv adopvBas diare-youevos Kal KeXevwr pos TO' AToAXNwVLOV Babt-fev, ws érade ANT Lov THS dkpas YEVOLEVOS, avannonaas él TOV immov Kab Krcorrdat pe TO apxYovTt THs hpovpts Staxedevoapevos eyKpaTas
' With this chapter cf. the Cleomenes, xvii.—xix. 1.
SOLS Chia. Xilnele
g2

1046

ARATUS xxxix. 4-xXL. 4

Achaeans, but a vast confusion suddenly encompassea Aratus. Hesaw Peloponnesus shaking, and its cities everywhere stirred to revolt by restless agitators.1 XL. For there was no quiet anywhere, and no contentment with present conditions, but even among the Sicyonians and Corinthians themselves there were many who were known to have been in conference with Cleomenes, men whom a desire for private domination had long ago led into secret hostility towards the common interests. For the punishment of these men Aratus was clothed with absolute power," and seizing those in Sicyon who were thus corrupted he put them to death; but when he tried to seek out and chastise those in Corinth, he roused the resentment of the populace there, which was already disaffected and ill at ease under the Achaean administration. So they as- sembled hastily in the temple of Apollo and sent for Aratus, determined to kill him or seize him, and then to revolt. Ele came, accordingly, leading his horse after him, as though he had no distrust or suspicion, and when many sprang up and abused and denounced him, with a composed countenance and gentle words he bade them sit down and not stand there shouting in disorderly fashion, but to admit also those who were outside at the door; and as he spoke, he withdrew slowly, as if he would hand his horse over to somebody. Having thus slipped out of the crowd, he conversed calmly with the Corinthians who met him, bidding them go to the temple of Apollo, and so, before his enemies were aware of it, came nigh the citadel. Then he leaped upon his horse, and after giving orders to Cleopater the commander of the garrison in the citadel to guard

- b 4 b an ,
purAdtTTev adimmevoey ets LKvVova, TpiaKxovTa Mev AUTO TTpPATLWTO@V ETOMEVMV, TOV bE AAOV éykaTantTovT@V Kal SiappvevTwv.
b] , 3 € Yr ? b] 3 / \

Aic@opevoe 6 ot KoptvOtoe per edtyov THY

nw 4 ¢
aToépaciv avtov Kal diwkaytes, ws ov KaTéXa-
, \ ve f N ,
Bov, petevéuavto tov Kreopevn xat trapébo-
N 3
gav 7)v TONAL ovder olopevep LapBaver Tap auTov TocoUTov 6aovu 61)) 1) ua prev apevtor' 'Apatov.
\
oUTOS ey OUD, T POTyEVOpLEV OV avT@ TOV THY heyouevny "AKTHY KATOLKOU TOV Kal Tas monets eyXelpiadvTwr, ameatTaupov Kal TepteTeryile TOV
Se,
XLI. Td 6é'Apat@ cui Oov ets Lexvova TOV
'uae ov Tonnot: 3 Kal yevoperns exknotas
npedn TT pAaTHyOs AUTOKPATwp. Kat TEPLET THT ATO ppoupav ék TOV EAUTOD TONLTOY, THLAKOVTA [eV
, a y an étn Kal Tpta me7rodTevpévos ev Tois 'Axatots, i n e mempwtevews O€ Kat duvaper kat So&n tov “EX-ANVOV, TOTE O€ EPHLOS KAL ATTOPOS TUVYTETPLUBEVOS, nn 6

@omep eT, vavaylov THs TaTtpidos €y ToTOUTH
, N
garAw Kai Kivdvvm Stadepomevos. Kai yap Aitwrot Seouévov BonGety atreitravto, Kal THV
? g U / a ? / ‘
A@nvatwy wokw yapitt tot “Apatov mpo8upov S e \ fies eee f \ ’ / /
ovoay ot mept Kvpuxretdnv cai Mixiwva dvexo-Avgav. dvTwy d¢ TO "ApaT@ Kal XpnuaTov ev
, €
KopivOe@ xai otxias, 0 Kvyeopévns tpyato pér
? \ 2 Q\ ” v f \ ovoevos ovde adXAGY elacge, petaTEe“apevos 6¢é
a ‘ Tous dirovs avtTov Kai tous Sioicntas éxédeve

1 ov woAAoi Ziegler, with S& and most good MSS.: oi mwoAAol.
94

ARATUS xu. 4-x11. 2

it with a strong hand, he rode off to Sicyon, followed by only thirty of his soldiers; the rest deserted him and dispersed.
After a little while the Corinthians learned of his fight and pursued him, but did not overtake him. Then they sent for Cleomenes and delivered their city into his hands,! although he thought that he had gained by what they gave him far less than he had lost by their letting Aratus get away. Cleomenes, accordingly, after the accession to him of the inhabitants of Acte, as the district is called, who placed their cities in his hands, proceeded to run a wall and palisade about Acrocorinthus.

XLI. But a few of the Achaeans came together with Aratus at Sicyon; and in an assembly there held he was chosen general with full powers. And now he surrounded himself with a guard from among his own citizens. For three-and-thirty years he had directed public affairs among the Achaeans, and had enjoyed more power and reputation than any other Greek ; but now, abandoned by his allies and helplessly crushed, he was like one drifting about in great surge and peril on the wreck of his native city. For the Aetolians refused him their aid when he asked for it, and the Athenians, whom gratitude made eager to help him, were prevented by Eury- cleides and Micion.?_ As for the house and property belonging to Aratus in Corinth, Cleomenes would not touch them at all, nor permit anyone else to do so, but sent for the friends and stewards of Aratus and ordered them to administer and watch over

1 Karly in 223 B.c. The story is told very differently in the Cleomenes. xix. 1 f.

* Two leading orators of the time.
95

PLUTARCH'S LIVES

' A ' ld id
muvta dtoxeiv' kat duradoceyv ws Apatw Aoyov e , > 4 X \ ] \ v 4 upéEovtas: tdta b€ mpos avTov Ereuwe Tpimvudov
, N ' 4
xat mddkw Meytotovovy Tov Tatpwov vmlayvov-pevos aANA TE TWOAAA Kal SwoeKa TddraVTA
, , , al /
cuvtakiv éviavotov, uTepBadrdopevos TO Nutoer wn nn \ A a 3
IItoNepatov: exetvos yap €& Tadavta TO Apat@
? b] N ? , ? , ' " > ~
Kat évavtov améotedrev. n&touv dé Tav Axat@v
A a >] a"
HYEM@V avayopevenvat Kat KOLYn MET AUTOV
f \ ' , a \ ? , durtacce tov "AxpoxopwOov. Tod oé 'Apatou
\ A PHNTAVTOS WS OVK EYOL TA TpdypaTa, paAXrov bé Un auT@v éyotto, Kal Kateipwvevaacbar 80-b] N Or x Sv , 3 f
Eavtos, €uBarwy evdus thy XkKvwviav éroplet
\ \ " "A f A
Kat KaTépbetpe Kat mpocexaOnto Th monet Tpels
A A nw 2 any, 7
unvas, éyxaptepovvtos Tov 'Apdatov Kal é&ann f N ? , lal mopovvtos et Oé€erat Tov 'Avtiyovoy él Te A \ ' , v \ >
Tapadovvar tov "AxpoxoptvOov' addws yap ovK €Bovreto Bonbetv.
, e XLU. Of pev obv 'Ayatot cuvernrvOortes els

" b A \ " ' , 9 \ 4
Alytov éxet Tov "Apatov éxanrouv. ty 6€ xivdvvos,
fa) , ,
tov KXeoménous pos TH TOAEL OTPATOTEsEVOVTOS, AveAOety. Kal KaTEtxXov of ToNtTAaL, Seomevor Kal

\ A a / %

wponctecbat TO THA TOY TWONELLWY eyyUS GYTWY

rd 4 aA A ov dackovtes’ eEnptnvTo 5é€ avTOD Kal yuraiKes > “ ef ‘ A A
On KAL TALES WAOTEP TATPOS KOLVOU Kal TWTHPOS
\ ,
TEPLEYOMELOL Kal OaKpvorTEs. OU pNY ddAdA Oap-
\ / ?
puvas Kal mapapvOnodpevos avtous éFimmevaoer
? \ \ 4 v , , ‘ \
él thy Oaratrav, Eywov déxa didous Kat Tov
' dioixeiy suggested by Sintenis, with comparison of (leomenes, Xix. 3: morety, g6

1047

ARAILUS xem 2—XLil.-2

everything as though they are to render an account to Aratus. Moreover, he privately sent Tripylus to Aratus, and afterwards Megistonoiis, his stepfather, promising to give him, besides many other things, a yearly pension of twelve talents, thus doubling the amount which Aratus received annually from Ptolemy; for he sent six talents each year to Aratus.1 Cleomenes demanded, however, that he should be proclaimed leader of the Achaeans, and together with them should have the keeping of Acrocorinthus. Aratus made answer that he did not control affairs, but rather was controlled by them; whereupon Cleomenes, thinking himself mocked, at once invaded the territory of Sicyon, ravaged and laid it waste, and encamped before the city three months. All this while Aratus held out patiently, and debated with himself whether he should accept Antigonus as an ally on condition of handing over to him Acrocorinthus! for on any other terms Antigonus was unwilling to give him help.?

XLII. Accordingly, the Achaeans came together at Aegium and invited Aratus thither. But there was danger in his trying to get there, since Cleomenes was encamped before Sicyon. Besides, the citizens tried to detain him, beseeching him not to go and refusing to let him expose himself while the enemy were near; and presently the women and children were clinging to him and tearfully embracing him as a common father and preserver. Nevertheless, after encouraging and comforting them, he rode out to the sea, accompanied by ten friends and by his

1 Ptolemy III., surnamed Euergetes, king of Egypt 247—
wo eC:
2 Cf. the Cleomenes, xix. 3 f£.

3

bo

3

vidv 6n veaviay ovTa' Kai TapopLovYTwY éxet
, ? Uae ? " /
Troiwy, émeBavTes eis Alylov trapexopicOncar
> A \ ? / ? @ "~ \ ? ?
éeml THY ExkAnalay, €v 7 KaXrElY TOV AvTiyovoy
? \ / \ ' ,
éewndicavto cal mapadidovat tov 'AxpoxoptvOov.
4 \ \ \ eX wv \ > ' \ Ereuwe 5 kal Tov viov "Apatos mpos avTov peta al ry ; ¢. ? , nm
TOY AAAwWY O-NnpwWY. eh ots of KopivOroe yareTas deportes Ta TE Ypnpata cejptTacay avTovd Kal
S > / a / \ yv
Thy oixiav T@® Kreopéver dwpeav ESwxar.
A ,
XLII. Tot & 'Avtiyovov mpoactovtos 67 peta Ths Suvdpews (Aye b€ meCous diopvpious Make-
, e a ,
dovas, (mets 5€ ytNiouvs Kal TpLaKOGtoUS) aTnVTA rn a ¢ % a N
HeTa TaV Onutovpyov o "Apatos avT@ Kata
\ /
Oarattav eis Unyds, KaOwv tors Todepious, ov
A / mavu Te Oapp@v tov 'Avtiyovoy o¥6€ miaTEvwY aA , v \ ? / e N tots Maxedoouw. der yap nvEnpévoy éavtov cE wy éxelvous Kax@s éTroinoe Kal TPwTNY ELAN-lo {4

hota peylotny urodect THS TOALTELAaS THY TPOS
? , \ \ v ’ Nay ?
Avtiyovoy Tov TraXaov €xOpav. adda opev arra-palTnToyv émixelpevny avayeny Kal Tov Kalpov, @
7 a ” \ \ SovrEvovaty of SoKovYTES apYeELV, EXWPEL TPOS TO
e ? ~ ?
Seevov. o b€ Avtiyovos, ss Tis AUT@ TpogLovTa ‘ # Vv \ 4 La ? , tov Apatov eppace, Tovs pev AXXOVS NaTTaGaTO MeTPLWS Kal KolV@s, exeivoy b&€ Kal TEpL THY TpeTny avavtnow édéEato TH Tih TWEplTTHS, x Cy , b] \ >] na A a Kal TaANG Tretpwpuevos avdpos ayabod Kal vovv
» ‘4 n. , ,
Exovtos évooTepw THS YpElas TpoanyayeEro.
> 4
Kai yap jv o "Apatos ov povov év mpaypact 98
ARATUS xii. 2-xLill. 3

son, who was now a young man. Vessels were lying at anchor off the shore, and upon these the party were conveyed to Aegium, where the assembly was sitting. Here it was voted to call in Antigonus and hand over to him Acrocorinthus.t Aratus even sent his son to Antigonus with the other hostages. At this the Corinthians were indignant; they plundered his property and made a present of his house to Cleomenes.

XLII]. And now, as Antigonus was approaching with his forces (he was follow ed by twenty thousand Macedonian footmen and thirteen hundred horse), Aratus, in company with his High Councillors,? went by sea to meet him at Pegae, eluding the enemy. He had no very great confidence in Antigonus, and put no trust in the Macedonians. For he knew that his own rise to power had been a consequence of the harm he had done to them, and that he had found the first and the chief basis for his conduct of affairs in his hatred towards the former Antigonus.? But sceing how inexorable was the necessity laid upon him in the demands of the hour, to which those we call rulers are slaves, he went on towards the dread ordeal. But Antigonus, when he was told that Aratus was coming to him, gave the rest of the party an ordinary and moderate welcome; Aratus, however, he received at this first meeting with superlative honour, and afterwards, finding him to be a man of worth and wisdom, drew him in closer intimacy to himself.

For Aratus was not only helpful in large under-

1 In the spring of 223 B.c. Cf. the Cleomenes, xix. 4. 2 A body of ten men, chosen as admirers of the general. 8 Antigonus Gonatas. See the note on xxxiv. 1.

peyandous cipEtMOs, adra Kat o XO Sovre Bactde ouryyevérbar Tap ovTevody emixapts. 610, Kaltrep @V VvEOS O 'Avtiyovos, ws KaTEVONGE Thy puow tod avdpos pndey apyov eis pidiav Baoirixny ovcay, ov povov "Ayaan, andra Kat Maxedovon TOV GUY aUuT@ Tay Tw pddiata. * XP@pevos
Exel Sueréder' Kab TO onpetov améBatvev @S 0
Geos ert Tay iepav dee. Reéverat yap ov mpo TOANOD BvovtTe T@ 'Apdtw dvo Koras ey trate pavivac ea mipens _ Teplexopevas: Kal TOV pavrTiy Eeltrely Os TAXU Tpos Ta éxOtara Kal TONE MLOTATA ouvercL els axpay pidiay. TOTE bev ovv TrapynveyKe TO pnOév, ove AXAWS TrOAU vé"ov TLITEWS Lepois Kal Havrevpact, GANA TO Loyeo pep XPopevos. émel oe D Uatepov ev Xwpovr-Tl TO TORE MD cuvayayov o 'Aptiryovos éotiagw év Kopi Kal TONAOUS vTrodexouevos TOV "Apa-Tov éemdva KaTEKALVED éavTod, Kal peETa pax pov aityaas mepiBoratoy npwtnaeyv et Soxel KaKelvo Woxos éivat, Tov d€ Kal mavu peyoov pyncavTos, éxéXeuge 7 poo xwpety ey yuTepa Kat OaTrLoos KopLtaeons dpdotepous o"ov TreptéBarov ot aides, tote 67) Tov "Apatov avayvnobévta Tay iepav éxeivarv yéXws éXaSe, kal dunyeito TO Baciret TO onuétov Kal THY Tpoayopeval. arra TavTA pep émpaxen yoovocs VoTeEpov.

XLIV. 'Ev dé taiés IInyais Sovres Kat NaBovtes Spxous evdus éBadslov emt Tovs Todeutovs. Kal

Tepl Thy TOA ayaves oav, ev TeppaypLevou
1 ravrwy utdtora Corads and Ziegler, after Reiske: mdvra.

takings, but also more acceptable than anyone else as a companion in the king's leisure hours. Therefore, although Antigonus was young, as soon as he perceived that Aratus was naturally well fitted to be a king's friend, he continually treated him with greater intimacy than anyone else, whether of the Achaeans, or of the Macedonians in his following ; and thus the omen proved true which the god had given to Aratus in his sacrificial victims. For it is related that as he was sacrificing a little while before this, a liver was found which had two gall-bladders enclosed in a single coil of fat; whereupon the seer had declared that Aratus would soon enter into close friendship with what he most hated and fought against. At the time, then, Aratus paid no heed to the utterance, since in general he put little faith in victims and divinations, and trusted rather to his reasoning powers. Later, however, when the war was going on well, Antigonus gave a feast in Corinth, at which he had many guests, and made Aratus recline just above himself. After a little while the king called for a coverlet, and asked Aratus if he too did_ not think it cold ; and when Aratus replied that he was very chilly, the king ordered him to come nearer ; so that the rug which the servants brought was thrown over both of them together. Then, indeed, Aratus called to mind his sacrificial victims and burst out laughing, and told the king about the omen and the seers prediction. But this took place at a later time.

XLIV. At Pegae Antigonus and Aratus exchanged oaths of fidelity, and straightway marched against the enemy at Corinth. And there were conflicts about the city, Cleomenes being well fortified, and

Tov Keo pevous Kal TOU Kopubiar @Lvvomeveov TpoOvpws. év TrovTw b€ "AptatoTédns o "Apyetos ptros OV "Apdtov Oram eumreTat xpupa ™ pos aT OV, os aTOTTHOWY THY TOD, el STPATLOTAS exelvos EXov érGot. 70d dé "Apatou ppdcavTos 7 "AvTUyov@ Kal pera YiXiwv Kal TevTAaKociwy els 'Emidavpov G3 'To8 nob Totors KopeeComevov KaTa TAX OS, ob pe "Apyetoe T™poeavactayt es émeBevTo TOUS TOU Kreopevous KAL KATEKAELTAY Eis THY axpoTrodw, 0 oe Kreopuevns v8 pevos 1048
TavTa, Kal Selcas pn KATATXOVTES Ol ToNEMLOL
TO "Apyos aTroKxoWoow avrov TIS otxade oWTNplas, é exdcTr@v TOV: "AxpoxoptvOov € ETL VUKTOS éBon-der. Kal mapeOav pev els "Apyos epOn KL T pom ny TWA TOV TOE LLOV emoingey, odiyp dé

bo Tepov * A patou T poo pe popevov Kal Tov Baot-News emupaivouevov peTa THis Suva pews an eX@pne ev Els Martivevay. eK TOUTOU TOLS pay AXarois Twarw at ToneLs aT acat Tporexwpn-gay, "Aptiryovos 6€ Tov A xpoxopirbov Tapéraenv, “Apatos 6€ oTpaTnyos aipeeis UT’ "A pyétav em eLoev avtous ’Avtiyova Ta TE TOV TUpAvVaD Kat TA TOV mpodot ay yenpata Swpeav Sodvat.
Tov 0€ “A plat opayoy ev Keyxpeats otpeBhoaaves
KATETOVTLCAY, eb O Kat padiata KAK@S Heovoev “Aparos, as dvOparov ou Tovnpov, arra Ka wexpnuéror éxelv@ Kal TET ELS LEVOY adeivar THD apy ny Kal T™ pogayaryety Tots “Axatots THV TONY, OMWS TmepriO@y Tapavonos aTONNUpEVOD.
XLV. “Héy 6é «Kal: TOY addwv EKELVO TAS aitias émédepor, olov 6Tt THY pev Kopwbiev TOA 102 7

ARATUS xtiv. I-xLv. 1

the Corinthians defending themselves with ardour. Meanwhile, however, Aristotle the Argive, who was a friend of Aratus, sent secretly to him and promised to bring his city to revolt from Cleomenes if Aratus would come thither with soldiers. So Aratus, after informing Antigonus, took fifteen hundred men and sailed from the Isthmus to Epidaurus with all speed.? But the Argives, revolting prematurely, attacked the garrison of Cleomenes and shut them up in the citadel, and Cleomenes, learning of this, and fearing that if his enemies got possession of Argos they would cut him off from a safe return home, abandoned Acrocorinthus while it was still night and went to their aid. He succeeded in getting into Argos first, routing some of the enemy on the way; but shortly afterwards Aratus came up, and Antigonus showed himself with his forces, and Cleomenes therefore retreated to Mantineia. Upon this the cities all came over to the Achaeans again, Acrocorinthus was handed over to Antigonus, and Aratus, having bcen chosen general by the Argives, persuaded them to make a present to Antigonus of the property of the tyrants and of the traitors. As for Aristomachus, he was tortured at Cenchreae and then thrown into the sea; for which deed, more than any other, Aratus was reproached, on the ground that he had allowed a man to be lawlessly put to death who was not wicked, but had coéperated with him, and at his persuasion had renounced his power and attached his city to the Achaean League.?

“XLV. Presently, too, men began to blame Aratus for whatever else was done, as, for instance, that the

1 Cf. the Cleomenes, xx. 3 f.
2 Cf. chap. xxxv.
103

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

’ A , 6 \ aN e A ‘

Avtiyovm Sdwpeav ébwxav, @oTED KWENY THV TU-A N y \ 7 (os yxovaav, Tov ‘Opxopevov b€ cuvexwpyncayv avT@ if \ bf] a 4
duaptacavte dpovpayvy éuBaretv Maxedovixny, éewnficavto d¢ dd\Xw pn ypadew Bactret pode
, 8 ’
TpeaSevery pos aAdAov aKovtos ’Avteyovon,
a \ 2 Tpehery Te nal ptacGodotety hnvayxafovto tovs
f , ~ Makxesdovas, Oucias 6€ nal Tomas Kal ayovas
"Avtiyovm cuvetéXoun, apEapévwv T@v’ Apatov Tro-
A N , A , egy , e 9
To Kai SeEauéevwv TH TOAEL TOY AvTiyovoy UT
> wn “
‘Apatov Eemlouevov, ntt@vto mwavtTwy éxeivor,
A of A s 4
G@YVOOUVTES OTL TAS NYLAS ExElv@ TrapaledwKas
\ AaCees a aA 3 id b 4
Kat TH pupn THS Bactruxhs eherxopevos eEovaias
? \ = A , a ” 4 3 a ovdevos Hv 7) povns dwvis Ett KUptos, éemiadhary
/ A A
3 TY Tappynaiay eyovans. emrel havepws ye TOAAG
A ‘ ‘ TOV TpaTTOMEvwY éLUTEL TOV” ApaToY, WaTED TO A 4 id \ i
TEpL TOV EtKoVWY? Oo yap AvTiyovos Tas Mev TOV 3 wv te , bd ,
ev Apye: tupavywy xataBeBrnpevas avéotyae,
\ \ a e 4 \ b] s e 4
Tas 6€ TOY ELovTwWY TOY AxKpoKopiwOov éEotwaas
b) 7 A A a b] / \ \ \ avetpewe TAY LLasS THS EXELVOU’ Kal TOANA TEP
, \ ev bf v sO / ‘
4 touvtwy denbeis o”Apatos ove erretcev. edoKet bE \ N \ . ? b ¢ ~ aA
Kai Ta Tept Mavtiveray ovx ‘EAAnviKas St@Kh-ofa trois 'Ayaois. Kpaticavtes yap avtov be
, \
"Aptiyovou tous pev €vdoEotatovs Kal wpwrTous 3 / a b A ‘ \ 9 he amtéxTetvav, TOV 8 AAAWY TOUS pEeVv amédorTO,
\ S 3 we 5 , b Ul 3 28 1

TOUS ets Maxedoviavy ameoteiXayv év medals
a“ aA 4
Sedenuévous, taidas 6€ Kat yuvaixas nvdpatTosi-
A 4
gavto, Tov de auvaxyOévtos apyvpiov TO TpLTOV
\ a avtot StetAovTo, Tas b€ SVO poipas Evetpay Tots
1 éy wé5ats Sint.?, followed by Ziegler: méSais.

104

ARATUS xiv. 1-4

Achaeans made a present to Antigonus of the city of Corinth, as if it had been an ordinary village; that they allowed the king to plunder Orchomenus and put a Macedonian garrison in it; that they decreed not to write or send an embassy to any other king against the wishes of Antigonus; that they were forced to furnish supplies and pay for the Macedonian troops; and that they celebrated sacri- fices, processions, and games in honour of Antigonus, the fellow-citizens of Aratus leading the way and receiving Antigonus into their city, where he was the guest of Aratus. For all these things men blamed Aratus, not knowing that, since he had entrusted the reins to the king and was dragged along in the wake of the king's power, he was no longer master of anything except his tongue, which it was dangerous for lin to use with freedom. At any rate Aratus was plainly annoyed at many acts of the king, and especially at his treatment of the statues in Argos ; for those of the tyrants, which had been cast down, Antigonus set up again, while those of the captors of Acrocorinthus, which were standing, he threw down, that of Aratus only excepted; and though Aratus made many appeals to him in the matter, he could not persuade him. It was thought also that the treatment of Mantineia by the Achaeans was not in accord with the Greek spirit. For after mastering that city with the aid of Antigonus, they put to death the leading and most noted citizens, and of the rest, some they sold into slavery, while others they sent off into Macedonia in chains, and made slaves of their wives and children, dividing a third of the money thus raised among themselves, and giving the remaining two-thirds to the Macedonians.

105

5

Z

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

Maxedoou, Kal Tavra pev ExYe TOV THS apuvns vopLov' Kal yap et Sewvov avopas opopudous Kab ouryyevels OUTW peTaxetpioac bat bu Opry GXW év avayKats YAUKD yiveTaL Kal ody pov,} KaTa Lipovidny, OOTEP aryobvrt TO dupe Kal prery-paivorTt Oeparretay Kab dvaT Anpwsw mpoo pepovTor. Ta be peTa, TavTa mpaxGevra, TEpl Thy TOLD our cig KaANY OUT ELS dvarykaiay €oTL décbas ™® ‘Apato@ Tpopacty. TOV yap “Ayacav Tip Tok Tap’ ‘Avruyovou dwpeav ha Bovtov Kal

KATOLKLCELY EYVWKOTWY AUTOS oOlKLiaTHS ailpeOels
Kal TTpATHYOS Ov eynpicato pnere Kanetv
Mavtiverav, adn ‘Avtuyoveray, 0 0 kal HEX pl vov Kanreitar. Kal doxet du éxetvov 7 peév épatewn Mavtiveta ravtaracw éEarnridOat, diapéver Sé
1) TOALS EMWVULOS TOV ATOAETAVT@V Kal aVEdOV-TWY TOUS TOALTAS.
NLVI. ’Ex tovtrov Kreopévns pev ntrnbeis pax peyarn mepl Lehraciav efeduTre THY LwapTyy Kal an em hevoev ets Alyumrov, ‘Avti-yovos oe mavTa Ta dixata Kal prravOpora TO “Apato TETOINKWS ave lev Eev els MaxeSoviav, KUKEL VOTWY ON TOV 6uddoxov Tis Bactretas
Pirimmor, ovTe Tavu petpaxcov OvTa, MELT OV els TleNorovynoov “Apat@ padoTa 7 poaexey exehevoe kal dv éxelvou Tais mONEoLY evTuxely Kal yvopicOivar toils Ayatois. Kal pevto Kal 1 val oxAnpoy with Bergk (Poct. Lyr. Gr. iii.* p. 530): nat ov axAnpdr.
+ The repeated treacheries of the Mantineians towards the Achaeans are related at length in Polybius, ii. 57 f.

* Homer, J/éad, ii. 607.
106

1049.

ARATUS xiv. 4-XLvI. 2

It is true that this came under the law of reprisal ;} for though it is a terrible thing to treat men of the same race and blood in this way, out of anger, still ‘in dire stress even cruelty is sweet,” as Simonides says, when men, as it were, give satisfaction and heal- ing care to a mind that is in anguish and inflamed. But the subsequent treatment of the city by Aratus was neither necessary nor honourable, and cannot be excused. For after the Achaeans had received the city from Antigonus asa present and had decided to colonize it, Aratus himself was chosen to be the founder of the new settlement, and being then general, got a decree passed that the city should no longer be called Mantineia, but Antigoneia, and this is its name down to the present time. And so it was due to Aratus that the name of “lovely Mantineia ” ? was altogether extinguished, and the city continues to bear the name of him who destroyed and slew its former citizens.°

XLVI. After this, Cleomenes, having been de- feated in a great battle at Sellasia,4 forsook Sparta and sailed off to Egypt, and Antigonus, after having accorded to Aratus fair and kindly treatment in every way, led his army back to Macedonia. There, being now a sick man, he sent Philip, his successor in the kingdom, who was still a stripling, into the Pelopon- nesus, and urged him to attach himself to Aratus above all others, and through him to deal with the cities and make the acquaintance of the Achaeans.

8 The old name of the city was restored by the Emperor

Hadrian. Pausanias, viii. 8. 12.
4 In 221] n.c., ef. the Cleomenes, xxviii. ff.
107

PLUTARCH'S LIVES

waparaBov avr OV o "A patos otTMs d€OnKev @ OaTE TONS ev EUVOLAS POS aUTOD, TOAANS de pos
TAS 'Edrnvexas mpakes tAoTipias Kal opuns uweotov eis Maxedoviay atrooTetAat.
XLVI. Tedevtycavtos 6€ "Avtiyovov KarTappovicavres Aitwrol TOV "A Xarov dua THY padvpay (€0ca eves yap GROTPLALS cwler bat Xepot Kal Tous Makedovev omoes AUTOUS UTETTANKOTES eV apyig TOAAN Kat aragiq dunyov) émé0evTo Tols KaTa TleAomovenaov T paypac Kat THY peev llarpéwy Kat Avpaior AenAaalav ood Tape pryov émrotngavro, TY 6€ Meco yvny eu Barovres em op-2 Oouv. ep ois o "A patos aryavar Tov Kal Tov oTpaTHnyourTa TOTE TOV "AX aLov Tepo£evov opav oxvodyTa Kal dratpiBovra TOV Xpovov, hon THs oTpatnyias aUT@ TENEUTOONS, AUTOS 1 pNpEvos apxew eT éxetvov TpoéAaBev 1)mépats TEVTE THY apynv évexa TOU BonOjoat Meconvias. Kal cuvaryayav TOUS "AXatovs TOU TE cwpacw aryu-pvdaTous OvTas Kal Tats dravotats EXAEAUHEVOUS
3 mpos Tov ToAEu"ov nTTaTAaL Tept Kagdvas' Kat Ouyixwtepov éeatpatnynxéevat Sofas ottTws av
Tdrw amrnuBrUvOn Kal TpariKaTO Ta TpayLata
Kal Tas é€XrrlOas, WaoTE TONAAKIS AABNY TOUS Alttwrous Twapacyovtas avéyerOur Kat Teptopav woTrep Kwudlovtas év tH WNeXomrorvjow peta
4 TOMS do edyelas kat Opaourytos. avis ovv
Tas Xelpas operyov Tes els Maxeédoviar € eTETTOVTO
Kal KaTiyov emt Tas 'EdAnvexas mp kets TOV Dirirrov, ox xtata dua THY TMpos TOV" ApaTtoy

—_————

1 In 22} B.c. See the Cleomenes, xxx.
») Y 3 .
* In 220 B.c. See the Cleomenes, xxxiv. 1.
108

ARATUS x.vi. 2-xLvul. 4

And indeed Aratus did take the prince in hand, and managed matters so us to send him back to Macedonia full of great goodwill towards his patron and of ardour and ambition for the conduct of Hellenic affairs.

XLVII. But upon the death of Antigonus! the Aetolians, despising the Achaeans on account of their slothful ways (for now that they were accustomed to save themselves by other men's prowess and had taken shelter behind the Macedonian arms, they were living in great inactivity and lack of discipline), proceeded to interfere in the affairs of Pelopon- nesus;* and after plundering the territories of Patrae and Dyme on their way, they invaded Messenia and ravaged it. At this Aratus was incensed, and seeing that Timoxenus, who at that time was general of the Achaeans, was hesitant and dilatory, since his term of office was just about to expire, he himself, having been chosen to succeed Timoxenus, anticipated his term of office by five days for the sake of giving aid to the Messenians, And having assembled the Achaeans, who were physically and mentally unfit for war, he met with defeat at Caphyae. Then, being thought to have conducted the campaign with too much ardour, his purposes were once more blunted and he gave up the cause and his hopes for lost, so that oftentimes, when the Aetolians gave him an advantage, he neglected it, and suffered them to revel, as it were, in Peloponnesus, with great boldness and wanton- ness. Once more, therefore, the Achaeans stretched out their hands imploringly to Macedonia, and brought Philip down to take part in Hellenic affairs, above all things because his goodwill towards Aratus

109

PLUTARCH'S LIVES

Ww by 'a! \ , 9 , 5) s Q
EVVOLAY AUTOUV KAL TLOTLY EATLCOVTES EVKOAW TEPL mavra ypncecOat nat yetpor et.
f la a" XLVIIL. Kai tore rpa@tov 'Aveddov cat Meya-
a ? / Néov Kai Tlywy avriKo@v aArOV diaBadrOvTwv X wv ' \ e ld \
tov "Apatov avaTeiclets o Baairevs, Kai cupapyaipeciacas Tos amo THs évavtias ctdcews,
? N
€atrovoace tors 'Ayatous édécOat otpatnyov

f ‘Emjpatov. ws 6 éxeivov pev catadpovovpevov
4 e N' a bd la) A , 9? 2:
TEMEWS UTO TOY “AyYaLov, Tov d€ “Apatouv Tap-
“a “ , / , apedovvTos eyiveTo TOY yYpHoipwy ovdév, eyvw
aA \ € U \
Otapaptaywy Tov Tavtos o Pikimmos. Kal dva-
4 ° ? \ x ww 4 s 5) /
Kpovo dpevos avdis emi Tov» Apatov OAOos rv éxelvov,
A a > i
Kal TOV TeayLaT@V avT@® pos Te Suvamiy Kal \ bw , b , 5] , n b] 4 mpos eveokiav éemididovtwy éEnptnto Tod avépos, ws 6. éxeiroy evdoxipav Kal av&douevos. éddxer ~ ¢ WwW b) / , >) \
Te Tadiv 0 Apatos ov povoy dnuoxpatias, adda \ f > \ z / ¢ Ay kal BaotreElas ayaos eivat tatdaywyos: 1) yap
“A \ \ ° ~ a Tpoatpeats avTov Kai To 700s ws yYp@pua Tais
? n bd / \ e mpateat Tod Bacthéws errepaiveto. Kal yap 1)
‘ 4 , / lal
mpos Aakedathoviovs auaptovtas peTpLoTns TOU
, \ ¢ N n ¢ / Te ef
veavioxou Kat 7 mpos Kphtas operia, dv 5 bdXnv
\ A / 2, 7
TpoonyayeTo THY VvooVv iwépats OArLyaLS, H TE
f A mpos AttwXovs otpateta yevowevn Oavyactas y \ b) id \ a) ld / ’ evepyos evreiGeias pev TO PidimTe dd£av, evBov-lal f 1 \ n.
dias 6€ TO ’"Apadtw mpoceti9a. Kai Sta tadTa
a € aA /
HadrXov ot Bacirtxol POovodrtes, ws obdév eTépat-vov Kkpvda d:aBddXovtes, avadhavdov érotdopodvro
, a \

Kal TpocéKpovoy avT@ Tapa Tovs WoTous peTa aire acl pa megs eee ere Oi ee 1 Cf. Polybius, v. 30.
110 and his confidence in him led them to hope that they would find him easy-tempered in all things and manageable.

XLVIII. And now for the first time Apelles, Megaleas, and sundry other courtiers made false charges against Aratus to which the king listened, and joining in the canvass made by those of the opposite faction, he favoured the election of Epera- tus as general of the Achaeans. But Eperatus was altogether despised by the Achaeans,! and as long as Aratus gave little heed to public matters nothing went well. Philip therefore perceived that he had been entirely wrong. So he reversed his course, went back to Aratus, and was wholly his; and since the progress of events now brought him increased power and reputation, he depended altogether upon Aratus, convinced that his repute and strength were due to him. And all the world thought that Aratus was a good guardian and tutor for a kingdom no less than for a democracy; for his principles and character were manifest, like — colour in a fabric, in the actions of the king. For instance, the moderation of the young prince in dealing with the offending Lacedaemonians, his engaging behaviour towards the Cretans, by means of which he won the whole island to obedience in a few days, and the astonishingly vigorous conduct of his campaign against the Aetolians, all added to the reputation of Philip for taking good advice, and to that of Aratus tor giving it. For this reason, too, the royal courtiers were all the more ~ envious of him, and since they could accomplish nothing by their secret calumnies, they took to abusing and insulting him openly at their banquets,

III

Lv)

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

a \ / ¢ \ TOAAS ageryelas Kal Bwporoyias: ara bé ral
f 6 ’ / % \ \ \
ALGors BadrXovtes atriovTa es THY OKNVHY pETA x lal , > <, 4
To Ceitvov Katedim~ayv. ef ols 0 Bidurmos
5] \ Tera ba \ b \ dhe 4 M4 opyiabers evdus pey avTous Efnuiwce eixoot
, e¢ \ , \ 4
Taravtos, Vatepoy 6€ Avpaivec Oa TA TpdyuaTa
nw ,
KAL TAPATTELY SOKOVVTAS ATEXTELVED.
A , ,
XLIX. ’Evei b€ tis Tuyns evpoovans ératpo-
a , \ \ ’ f \ fLevos TOLS Tpaypace orXras pev avedve Kat
, 5) / e > f \ \ peyaras eriOumias, 1) 6 Euhvutos Kakia, Tov Tapa

dvaw oynpatiopov exBialouévn kai avadvovea, \ \ al \
KATA pikpov ateyupvou Kal ovéhaivey avTov TO 4 nw \ >a? ‘ , wW
7003, mp@tov pev tdta tov vewtepoy “Apatop
, \ rad ndiker TEpt THY YuVaixa Kal TOoAVY ypovoy éddvae nN \ we? . 9 dA
Gavev éepéotios wv Kal Eevlopuevos im avTav:
emeta moos tas EddAnwiKxas éFetpayuveto roNs-
/ \ ‘ 2 v \ w) Telas Kal gavepos Av dn Tov “Apatov amrof ? \ Ae , \ SS
geLomevos. apyiy dé vrowias ta Meconuaxa ie \ A TAPETVE. TTATIATAaYTwWY yap avTw@Y o pev”ApaTos vatépe. Bonbav, o S€ Diremios nuépa mea Tp0-per Bon bay, THOS Hméepa med Tp
) \ ) \ , 1)\ 3 ,
Tepoy €hOwv eis THY TOALY EvOS OlaTpOY TLVA kat add.rov evéBare toils avOpwrrots, vola jLev
b) “~ \ ~
EpWwT@Y TOUS TTPAaTHYyOUS TOY Mecanviwy El vOpoUS
\ A n ?
KATA TOY TOAAMY OvK EXoUaLW, tdia Oé TadL
\ a “ fad A TOUS TOY TOAAMY TpoecTMTAas El YEelpas KaTA nw 4 ra
T@Y TUpavvoUWTwWY ovK Eyovaw. éx S€ ToUTOU
e \ n Gappiicavtes of wev apyovtes émeAapSavovto Ta
“ “~ >] a \ N nm nw > Onpaywyav, exetvor O€ pera THY TOAN@Y Errenti2

1050

ARATUS xivin. 4-xLix. 3

with great wantonness and scurrility; and once they actually pursued and threw stones at him as he was going to his tent after supper. At this Philip was enraged, and for the nonce fined them twenty talents; afterwards, however, regarding them as a noxious and confusing element in his affairs, he put them to death.!

XLIX. But soon, as the king’s fortune flowed smoothly on, he was lifted up by his success, and developed many inordinate desires; his inherent badness, too, forcing aside the unnatural restraints of his assumed deportment and making its way to the light, little by little laid bare and revealed his true character. In the first place he inflicted a private wrong upon the younger Aratus by corrupt- ing his wife, and was for a long time undetected, since he was a housemate and a guest of the family ; in the second place, he began to show hostility towards the civil polities of the Greeks, and it was presently clear that he was trying to shake off Aratus. First grounds of suspicion were afforded by his conduct at Messene. For there was factional strife in the city, and Aratus was tardy in coming to its aid, and Philip, who got to the city a day before Aratus, at once goaded on the two parties against one another. In private he asked the generals of the Messenians if they had not laws to enforce against the common people, and again in private he asked the leaders of the common people if they had not hands to lift against the tyrants. Upon this the officials plucked up courage and tried to lay hands upon the leaders of the people, and they, coming to the attack at the head of their followers,

1 Cf. Polybius, v. 15 f.

OovTes Tovs TE apyovt ras aTréxTetvay Kal TOV GAX@Y GALYOV cmOhElTOVTAS dtaxociwy.
L. Otto be deevov épyov eEeupryag pévov TOU
Dirimrou, Kal OVYKPOVOYTOS ere paddov EavTois TOUS Meoonvious, émeh Gov O "A patos avTos TE bijros 7 WY pépov Bapéws Kal Tov vioV ETLTLLOVTA TIKPOS TO Dirinare Kat owopovpevoy ovK éK@- Aucev. eSdxer 88 6 0 veavic KOs epav TOU Pirimrov
Kal TOTE Aeyor ele pos aUTOV ws OUde KAXOS
ETL gaivorto THY oyu avT@ Toavra épdcas, Gna TAVT@V alaXtoTos. 6 88 Didurros exelvep pev ovdév avteire, Kaltrep emido€os ov, UT opyhs Kal TOAKGKIS eEvd\axtyoas NEyovTos avtov, TOV bé m pea Butepor, WS eEvNVOXOS Taos Ta Nex Gevta Kal TLS OV [ET Los Kal TONMTLKOS Thy pvaow, dyéatnaev éx TOU Oeatpou thy SeEtav éuBarwv, Kai Tpociyev €lS TOV ‘TOmparav 7@ TE Au Ovowy Kal
Dewprja wv TOV TOTTOD. éore yap ovy HTT OV evepans TOU "AxpoxopivOou, Kat AaBov poupav yiverat yareTos Kai duvcexBiaotos Tois mapotKovety.
avaBas 5€ Kat Ovcas, @S TpognveyKeY a’T@ TA
oTA\dyyva Tod Boos o pdvtis, audotépats Tats yepoty uTOAaBav edeiKvuE T@ TE “Apatp Kal To Dapiw Anpntpiv, Tapa HEpOS UTOKALV@Y evs éxa-Tepov Kal Tuy Oavopevos Te cabopoow €y ToL \epols, KPATOUYTA THS axpas avTov } Tois Meoon-viols amodioovTa. yeddoas OvV O Anpat ptos, ge Ee pev, ' épn, “ MaVvTEws EXELS Wun, anaes TOV TOT Ov" el &€ Baothéws, apport épav TOV KEpaTov tov Bodv Kxabéfes,” aivittopevos Thv eXorrov-1 A precinct of Zeus, on the summit of Mt. Ithome. Cf. Pausanias, iv. 3. 9.

thal

slew the officials and nearly two hundred citizens besides.
L. After this outrageous deed of Philip's, and while he was striving more than ever to set the Messenians by the ears, Aratus reached the city. He showed clearly that he was indignant himself, and would not check his son when he bitterly reproached and reviled Philip. Now, it would seem that the young man was a lover of Philip; and so at this time he told Philip, among other things, that he no longer thought him fair to look upon, after so foul a deed, but the most repulsive of men. Philip made no answer to him, although it was expected that he would, since in his anger he had many times cried out savagely while the young man was speaking, but as though he meekly submitted to what had been said and was a person of moderation and not above the ordinary citizen, he gave the elder Aratus his hand, led him forth from the theatre, and brought him to the Ithomatas,! in order to sacrifice to Zeus and take a view of the place. For it is quite as well walled in as Acrocorinthus, and with a garrison in it is difficult of access and a hard place for its neighi- hours to take by force. hither Philip went up, and offered sacrifice, and when the seer brought him the entrails of the ox, he took them in both hands and showed them to Aratus and Demetrius of Pharos, leaning towards each one in turn and asking them what indications they saw in the omens; was he to be master of the citadel, or to give it back to the Messenians? Demetrius, with a laugh, replied: “ If thou hast the spirit of a seer, thou wilt give up the place ; but if that of a king, thou wilt hold the ox by both its horns,” speaking darkly of Peloponnesus, vnooV, ws, el TpocrAaBot Tov lOwpdtav to *Axpoxopiv0@, TavTaTacw é€oopévnvy UVTOYELpLoV Kal Tamewny. o 6€ “A patos emt TOAU pev novxate, Seopévou € Tob Dedtrmov TO Patvopevov every, “Toda pev,” eltrev, “wo Didsrre, Kpntov opn

Kal peyada, modral b€ Borwrav akpat Kal
Deoxécov exTrepuKaoe TIS YAS" clot dé Tov ToNAOL
Kal THS ‘A xapvavov TOUTO pev XEpraior, TOUTO

S €vadou toot Gavpacras oXupoTyTas eXovTes™ adr ovdéva TovTwY KaTEeiLAnphas, Kal TWavTeESs exovolas For ToLover TO T poo Tac aojevov. Anorai yap eupvovtat TETPALS wal KpnEvav TEPLEXOVTAL, Baciret &é TLITEWS Kal XapLtos bo XupoTepov ovoev ovodé OXUPWTEPOL. Tavta oot TO Kpntixov avoiyee TéXaYOS, TavTa Thv TleAoTrOvynaoV. ato TOUTWY OPLWLEVOS GU TOTOVTOS ALKIaY TV [ev
NYEH@V, T@aV S€ KUpLos Hon KAaDéoTHKAS.” ETL NEYOVTOS aUTOU Ta pevY OTAAaYXYVa TO avec mapédwxev o Dirsmmos, éxeivov S€ THS VELpos éetmiotacapevos, ‘ Aevpo tou,” Eby, “ THY avTHY odov iwpuev’” womep exBeBiacpévos UT avdtod Kal THY TOALY adynpnpévos.
LI. ‘O be "Apatos aToppéwY HON THIS aunrips Kal
KaTa piKpoY éauToV avaKxopelouevos éK TIS Tpos Tov Piremrov ouvnbetas, 61a Batvovros els “Hrecpov avtov Kal Seouévou ovotpatevev, ateirato Kal KaTéwetve, dediws avatrrnaOhvat b0Ens trovn-pas ag’ @v €Kelvos Emparrey. étrel O€ Tas Té€ vais UTO Popaiwy aTwoN€oas alovicta kal OXWS aTrO-TUX@Y Tals mpafeos éTavynrGev ets Nedomovvncov, Kal TOUS Meoonvious aves emeXerpnaas pevaxilew kai un AaAOwY Hoixer havepas Kal Try 116

1051 |

ARATUS L. 4-1. 2

which, if Philip added the Ithomatas to Acrocorin- thus, would be altogether subject and submissive to him, <Aratus held his peace for a long time, but upon Philip's asking him to express his opinion, said: “There are many lofty hills in Crete, O Philip, and many towering citadels in Boeotia and Phocis; in Acarnania, too, I suppose, as well inland as on its shores, there are many places which show an amazing strength ; but not one of these dost thou occupy, and yet all these peoples gladly do thy bidding. For it is robbers that cling to cliffs and crags, but for a king there is no stronger or more secure defence than trust and gratitude. These open up for thee the Cretan sea, these the Peloponnesus. Relying upon these, young as thou art, thou hast already made thyself leader here, and master there.” While he was yet speaking, Philip handed the entrails to the seer, and drawing Aratus to him by the hand, said: “Come hither, then, and let us take the same road,” implying that he had been constrained by him and made to give up the city.

LI. But Aratus presently began to withdraw from the court and little by little to retire from his intimacy with Philip. When the king was about to cross into Epeirus+! and asked him to join the ex- pedition, he refused and remained at home, fearing that he would be covered with ignominy by the king’s proceedings. Philip lost his fleet most shame- fully at the hands of the Romans, and after utter failure in his undertakings, came back into Pelopon- nesus. Here he tried once more to hoodwink the Messenians, and after being detected in this, wronged 1JIn 215 ne. Philip had made an alliance with the Carthaginians against the Romans.

‘ ~ ts v yopav avtav énopel, mavtamacw o Apatos
N ameatpabn Kat SrefBrAOn mpos avtov, 7}6n Kal TOV qTepl THY yuvatkwviTiy adicnudtov atcboz “a ,
UEVOS Kal HéEpwWv AVLAPWS AUTOS, ATrOKPUTTTOMEVOS
\ x a4 > / \ is f ~ wv
Sé tov viv: eldévat yap vVBpiopevoy Tepinv, AXXO
4 5é ovdevy, apvvacbar pn duvapévo. peyiorny yap 0 Didimmos Soxet Kal TapadroywtaTyY peTa-
,
Barécbar petaBorjv, €& nuepov Bactrdéws Kat
> \
petpaxiov sw@ppovos avyp aceryns Kat TUpaVvs Seas ’ X eS 9 5 ” N éEwAns yevouevos. TO O€ OVK Ty apa peTaBoAry , bd > > 4 > Le , , \ hucews, GAN émideéis ev aceta KaKtas Todvy 4 \ 4 > é
ypovov dia hoBov ayvonleions.
7 \ f
LIT. “Ore yap av pepeypevov aioyuvn cai PoBo
\ 1 fae fo) rn.
To wpos Tov “Apatov avtov mados am apyis a bd / a ¥ Q ’ , avvteOpappéevov, EdnLYwWoE O's ETpake Tept aUTOP.
9 n \ 3 n 4 WoO ‘ - 999
émiOupa@rv yap avedety Tov avdpa Kat vopitwv ovd dv érevepos Exetvou CovTos Eivat, jLi) TL ye TUPAV-K B , , Bi \ ae 3 , T vos Pactrevs, Bia pev ovdev éreyetpnoe, Tav-
, N al “ N f
piwva 6€ TOV aTpAaTNHYaV TiVa Kal hirtwv exéXevceEV

, a ra aoyXo TpoT@ TovUTO Tpakat, wadaTa bid happa-
n \ 4 ¢
KOV, AVTOU 141) TWAPOVTOS. Oo O€ TroLNaTawEVOS TOV “A)0 i ITM OLO ov patov ouv)0n happakov avT@ oldwoLtv, ovK
’ ‘ \ ca
o€0 Kal shokpov, dda Tov Oépuas Te paraKas ze wo ~ “a
TO TpOTOV €v TH GwOpat. Kai BHhya KivobvTor > rn > ee \ \ > \ apBrElav, Elta ovUTwWS KaTa puLxpov eis dOopav / ’ \ ” , N by 9 9
TEPALVOVTMY. OU puny EXaAGE ye TOV ApaTov' aAX bf \ 9) ’ f n
@s ovdev Hv OdedXos EACYXOVTL, Tpaws Kal olLwTTH
\ , , ,
TO 7dG0s, ws 6 TVA VoOTOV KOLWIY Kat auVyAOn n 5 / \ ¢€ / a Le 3
vooay, dunvTrAel. TWANY Evos ye TOV cuUVIiOwY ev 118

ARATUS Lt. 2-Ln. 3

them openly and ravaged their territory. Then Aratus was altogether estranged and filled with dis- trust of the king, being now aware also of the crime committed against his domestic life. At this he was sorely vexed himself, but kept it hidden from his son, who could only know that he had been shamefully abused, seeing that he was not able to avenge him- self. For Philip would seem to have undergone a very great and inexplicable change,’ in that from a gentle prince and chaste youth he became a lascivious man and a pernicious tyrant. In fact, however, this was not a change of nature, but a showing forth, in time of security, of a baseness which his fears had long led him to conceal. : LII. For that the feelings which he had cherished from the beginning towards Aratus had an admix- ture of shame and fear, was made plain by what he did to himatthe last. For he desired to kill Aratus, and thought he could not be a free man while Aratus lived, much less a tyrant or a king. In a violent way, however, he made no attempt upon him, but ordered Taurion, one of his officers and friends, to do this in a secret way, preferably by poison, when the king was absent. So Taurion made an intimate companion of Aratus, and gave him poison, not of a sharp and violent sort, but one of those which first induce gentle heats in the body, and a dull cough, and then little by little bring on consumption. The thing was not hidden from Aratus, but since it was no use for him to convict the criminal, he calmly and silently drank his cup of suffering to the dregs, as if his sickness had been of a common and _ familiar type. However, when one of his intimate com-

1 Cf, Polybius, vii. 13.

119

aA , , 4 ? id
7@ Swpatio TapovTos avaTTvaas Olai“ov, LOovTOS red \ ra) , oT a geese J “cw” éxelvov Kat Oavuacartos, avta, etmev, “@ r fa) aA , 9
Kedaror, ériyvetpa tis Baciexns pedas.
e a 4 hin wes
LITI. Ovrtw 6€ avtod TeXeuTHGAavTOS ev Atyiw
X , A NX ~
TO éMTAKALOEKATOV OTpPATNYOUVTOS, Kal THY
’ ca) 4 ? a“ , \
Ayatay didotipoupévav xed yevéoPar radas ~ 4 ~ / , Kal pyjpata Tpérovta TO Biw TOD avépos, LUuKve-x nA ‘ 3 al nw plot avuopay ETrovovvTo 4) Tap avtots TeOHvat “ ? \ ld /
TO TOma. Kal TOUS pev Ayatovs ETetoay epiévat, wv / “ vouou O€ ovTOS apyatou pndeva Garter Oat TELYa@V
, “ “ ‘ /

EVTUS, La YUPaS TE TO VOR@ detgLdalpLovias Tpod-

? v ? \ e N ? > Lf
ovons, eTeuwav ets Aeddhovs urép TovTwy épnao-
\ , A] n ‘
evo. THv IIvOtav. 1 6€ avtots avatpet Tov XN ,
Vpnapov Tovee

- ys , / aN 9 -

Bovreun, StKuwv, Cwayprov atev Apatou, b] » HG 2 / / 4 14
app ootn Garin TE KATOLYOMEVOLO AvaKTOS ; ¢ N ‘ a A
ws To Bapvvopevov TOO avépt Kai TO Bapdvov / ” ? 9 4 \ ? ma S\N , yains €ot acéBnyua Kar ovpavo Hoe Oaracans.
’ be A , idd , \ ed Kourabevons € THs pavTevas ot Te “AYator cUE-
v4 4 ,

mavTes oOncav, cai dvadepovtws ot Stxveovioe
$? e \ N , ? AY 3 a WETABAAOVTES Els CopTHY TO TEVOOS EvOUS eK TOU
’ 4 \ ‘
Aiyiov Tov vexpov éotepavwpévor Kai Eevyetpo-“ e N ~ f
VOUVTES UTO TaLdvwY Kal YXopav Els THY TOALY
3 a BS , f ,

avnyov, Kat ToTov e€eXopevot TEeploTTOv WaTTEP

5] \ A “

OLKIO THY KAL OWTHPA THS TOAEWS ExNnOEVTAV. KAL
w / ~ ? , a KaneiTar pexpte viv Apatetov, Kai Ovovolv avT@

ee eee

+ fi 213_B.G, mq

i>)
oO
ARATUS tn. 3-H. 4

panions who was with him in his chamber saw him spit blood, and expressed surprise, “Such, my dear Cephalo,” said Aratus, “are the wages of royal triendship.”’

LIII. And so he died,! at Aegium, while general for the seventeenth time, and the Achaeans were very desirous that he should have burial there and memorials befitting his life. But the Sicyonians re- garded it as a calamity that he should not be buried in their city, and persuaded the Achaeans to sur- render his body to them. They had, however, an ancient law that no one should be buried inside the city walls, and the law was supported by strong feel- ings of superstition. So they sent to Delphi to get advice in the matter from the Pythian priestess, and she gave them the following oracular answer :—

“Would’st thou, O Sicyon, pay Aratus lasting honour for the lives he saved,
And join in pious funeral rites for thy departed lord ?
Know that the place which vexes or is vexed by him
Is sacrilegious, be it in earth or sky or sea.”

When the oracle was brought to them the Achaeans were all delighted, and the Sicyonians, in particular, changing their mourning into festival, at once put on garlands and white raiment and brought the body ot Aratus from Aegium into their city, amid hymns of praise and choral dances; and choosing out a commanding place, they buried him there, calling him founder and saviour of the city. And the place is called to this day Arateium, and yearly sacrifices are made to Aratus there, one on the day when he Guciar, THY HEY, Y THY TOMY anyprrake THS TuUpavvico; huépa TéuTtn Aatotov H2V0S, ov 'AOnvato xadovaly 'AvOeatnpiava, Kab THY Ouciay éxeivny Lwripra T pogaryopevover, TH O€ TOU pIvos ev D yevér Oar TOV avdpa O1apvnpovevovet, THS pev ov T poTEpas o tov Atos Tod Lwripos KAT PXETO unt oXos, TIS O€ CevTépas Oo Tov "Apdtou, a7 poptov ovy OOAEUKOD, arra peoT oppupov EXoV, pena) 6€ 70€TO T pos cGapay UmO TOV TrEpl TOV Atovucov TEXVIT OD, KAL OUVETIOMTeEveV) Yupvaciapxos YOUMEVOS TOV TE TALOWY KL TOV epryBov, eita epeitreTo 1 Bovny oTepavnpopovoa Kal TOV adhov ToheT ov c Bou opevos. ay eT Oeiypata pixpa Tais Twépas exelvars eEoovovpevot dvaguAattovow at € TrELTTAL TOV Tepay UTO \Ypovou Kai TpaypaTwy addrwv éxNEAOLTIAGLD.

LIV. *AdAa yap 0 pev mpea BuTEpos "A patos ott Bi@car Kal TOLOUTOS yevéo Gar THY pvow la Topettac: Tov o€ wor avTou pLapos av puoe Kat "eT MLOTHTOS UBpLaTns o Diru7os ov Oavagipos, adra pavixois efeotIc€ TOU Aoyeopod papparors Kal Taperpewer eis detvas Kal addoKOTOUS émidopas, mpakewy aTOT wy Kal ovV aioyun tavav Ore piv Operyopevov, WOTE TOV Gavatov avTo, KalTep OVTL Véw Kal avOobvtt, pe) ouppopayr, GX' amohvatv KAKOVY Kal gern piay yevéo Oat. dixas ye "nV oO Dirdemmos ov Meum Tas Aci Eeviw Kat Piriw THs dvoooupyias TavTyS Tivwy dreTéXeoe. KaTaTONEUNOEIs pév yap UIT

‘Pwpaiwy énétpewer éxeivois Ta Kal? autor, éx-
I22

1052

ARATUS ui. 4-1iv. 2

freed the city from its tyranny—the fifth day of the month Daesius (which the Athenians call Anthesterion), which sacrifice has the name Soteria, and one on the day of the month when, according to the records, he was born. The first of these sacrifices was performed by the priest of Zeus the Saviour; the second by the priest of Aratus, who wore a headband, not pure white but purple and white, and liymns with accompaniment of lyre were sung by the artists of Dionysus, and the gymnasiarch took part in the procession, at the head of the boys and young men of military age; then followed the councillors wearing garlands, and all other citizens who desired. Of these ceremonial rites the Sicyonians still preserve slight traces, celebrated on the same days of the year, but most of them, owing to the passage of time and the pressure. of other matters, have lapsed.

LIV. Such was the life and such the nature of the elder Aratus, as history tells us; and as for his son, he was deprived of his reason by Philip, who had an abominable nature and added savage cruelty to his wanton exercise of power. He gave the young man poisons which did not kill, but crazed, and thus made him a prey to strange and dreadful impulses, under which he grasped at absurd activities, and experiences not only shameful but destructive, so that death came to him, although he was young and in the flower of his life, not as a calamity, but us release from evils, and salvation. For this unholy deed, however, Philip paid ample penalties to Zeus, the guardian of hospitality and friendship, as long as he lived. For after being subdued by the Romans and putting his fortunes in their hands, he was

123

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

meawy O€ Tis aAANS apYRs Kai Tas vabs WAY
TéVTE TAGAaS TPOéMEVOS Kal XidLA TPOTEKTICELY
OmoAOYyHnCasS Tahara Kal TOV vLOV Omnpevoovra Tmapadous be oix Tov eTUXE Maxedovias kal TOV
TUVTENOUITWY. aTOKTELVWY O€ EL TOUS dpiaTous
Kal cuyyevestatous ppixns évémAnge Kal ploous
OAnv Thv Bactreiav Tpos auTov. ev b€ povoy ép

TogovTa:s KQKOLS eUTUXN LA KTNTALEVOS, vioV aperh Suapépovta, TOUTOY pbovw kat ndoTtuTia
THS Tapa ‘Popators TLS aveine, Hepoet Sé Batépo THY dpxny mrapédoxer, Ov ov yynavov, ann’ broBAyTov evar pact, €x Cvabawiouv Tivos dxeot pias YeVOMEVOV. TODTOV Atpidsos eOptap-Bevoe> Kai katéotpewev evtadba THS Aptuyoviniys
Baatretas y 61adox 9. To 6€ ’Apatov yévos év TH Suxvavi cai TH WeAAnvn Sréuerve Kad” yas.
124

ARATUS trv. 2-3

stripped of most of his dominions, surrendered all his ships but five, agreed to pay a thousand talents besides, gave up his son to serve as hostage, and ‘only out of pity obtained Macedonia and its tributaries. But he was for ever putting to death the noblest of his subjects and his nearest kin, and thus filled his whole kingdom with horror and hatred of him. One piece of good fortune only was his, amid so many ills, and that was a son of sur- passing excellence; but this son he killed, out of envy and jealousy of the honour paid him by the Romans, and left his kingdom to his other son, Perseus, who was not legitimate, as we are told, but supposititious, the child of a sempstress, Gnathaenion.? This king graced the triumph of Aemilius, and with him ended the royal line of the Antigonids ; whereas the descendants of Aratus were living at Sicyon and Pellene in my time.

1 See the demiliu. Paulus, viii. 6f. 5; xxxiv., XXxVi.

125

APTOZEP=H2

1. ‘O pev TPWTOS ‘A prokepins, TOV €V Teépoaes
Bacirewr TPaoTHTL Kal peyarowuxea TpwoTEvoas, Maxpoxerp €TEKANELTO THY defray petSova THs
Er Epas EXOD, Eépou O€ ty vids: o bé devTEpos, Tept ov Tade ypadgeTat, Moijpov émixrnbels x uyatpos iy exeivou. Aapeiov yap cat Llapuoa-TLOOS Tales € eyevovTo Teg oapes, mpeaBuTatos pev
“A progepéns, pet exeivor 6é Kdpos, vewrepat bé TOUT@V ‘Ooravns Kat ‘OEdApys. 0 peev ov Kuvpos a0 Kvpov TOU TaNdatov ToUvOjLa EoXEV, éxeiv@ O€
a0 TOD NAtoU yeveoOat faci: Kipor yap Kanebp Hlépoas tov Hrtov. o 6€ “AptoképEns ’Apoixas mpoTepov éxanretto' Kaitor Acivwr yaiv» bre ‘Oupons. Gra tov Krnoiayv, & kat TaAXAa pudov amvTidavwv Kal mapadhopwr euBeBAnKEv eis TA BiBra mavrooamny TuAaLaV, OUK elxos ECT LI

ayvoety ToUvopa TOU Bactréws Tap © Over piBe Jeparevwy avTov Kal yuvatka Kal pntépa Kat matoas.
Il. ‘0 pev ou Kipos ¢ EV TOvOv Te Kab opodpor evOvs &k TPOTNS WAKias eiXer, aTEPOS b€ Tpqo-TEpos e€OOKEL mepl TaVTa Kal Tals opuais uae Hahak@Tepos elvat. yuvaika dé KaANnV Kal aya-Onv éXaBe pev Tov yovéwy Kerevovtwrv, épurake
1 Artaxerxes I. 465-425 n.c. The parallel form Artaxerxes hax become fixed in English.
128

1012

ARTAXERXES

I. Tue first Artaxerxes,! preéminent among the kings of Persia for gentleness and magnanimity, was surnamed Longimanus, because his right hand was longer than his left, and was the son of Xerxes; the second Artaxerxes,? the subject of this Life, was surnamed Memor, or Mindful, and was the grandson of the first by his daughter Parysatis. For Dareius? and Parysatis had four sons—an eldest, Artaxerxes, and next to him Cyrus, and after these Ostanes and Oxathres. Cyrus took his name from Cyrus of old,‘ who, as they say, was named from the sun; for “Cyrus” is the Persian word for sun. Artaxerxes was at first called Arsicas; although Deinon gives the name as Oarses. But it is unlikely that Ctesias, even if he has put into his work a perfect farrago of extravagant and incredible tales, should be ignorant of the name of the king at whose court he lived as physician to the king’s wife and mother and children.

II. Now Cyrus, from his very earliest years, was high-strung and impetuous, but Artaxerxes seemed gentler in everything and naturally milder in his impulses. His wife,a beautiful and excellent woman, he married in compliance with his parents’ bidding,

2 Artaxerxes IT. 404-362 p c.
* Darius Li 424-408 pac
* Cyrus the Elder, 559-529 k.c, 129

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

‘ \ ~ /
5€ KWAVOYTWY’ TOV yap GbEeXPov AUTHS ATOKTELVAS
¢ ~ e \
20 Bacirevs éBovreveTo KaKelyny averetv, Oo 6€
. A ‘ N
"Apaixas THS MNTPOS (KETNS YEr'opevos Kal TOAAA
A , KATAKAAUGAS [LOALS ETTELTE fLITE ATOKTELVAL [LTE a “ id \
avtov S:acticar tHy avOpwrrov. n O€ pnTNpP umApye Tov Kipov wadrov hirovea kai BovrAopevy
: a ~ \ ~
Bactreve exetvov. 610 Kal TOD TaTpos vooovy-
Tos 70n peTameuTTOS amo GJardoons yevomevos
TavtaTmacw aveBaivev evEeXTLS WY, WS KATELPYya-
N aA a opevns exeivns Siddoyov avtov amodetyOnvat THs
A “A 4
3 apyns. Kal yap elyev evrpeTh Aoyor 1) Ilapv-
? b S seaeees et e \ 3 £ cats, @ Kat BéepEns o wadatos éxpnocato, Anpa-a , td 9 - N 9 , A patou oiddEavtos, ws Apoixav pév idtwtn, Kipov be 7 , a 1 bf \ w
é Bactrevovts Aapeiw texetv.s ov prj Emeccer, 7 5,
arr’ o mpecBuTepos umedetyOy Bactreus, ’Apto-
, , ~ \ , th es
EepEns wetovopacb«is, Ktpos 6€ Avdtas catpatns Kal Tov éeTwt Oadkacans oTpAaTHYOS.
b] - 4 A A IIT. “OdNtym & tarepov 4 teXeuTHOA Aapetov
y / 9 v4 ¢ , ¢
e&nXacev ets Llacapyadas 0 Baatrevs, O7Tws TEXE-
: , A : a ‘ iC: X aA 3 , oGein tTHy Bacidtxny TeXeTHY UTTO TaY év Tlépaats e , ” \ a Ane , A 9 a lepéwy. €att O€ Oeas ToremiKns lepov, hv AOnvav
2 av TLs elKacetevy. eis TOvTO Set TOY TENOUMLEVOY
s \ \ >] , 3 4 / b
Taped Oovta Thv pev totav arrobéc bat atoANy, ava-
- A e a A AaBety dé Hv Kopos o wadatos époper piv 7) Baatrevs yeverOat, Kai cuKwy TaraOns éudayovTa

TeputvOou KaTatpayeiv Kal ToT}pLov éxmLely o€vu-ydXaktos. et d€ Tpos TovTOLs Etep aTTa Spwav,
v A ~ “~ ~~ :
3 addndov oti TOis GAAOLS. TavTa dpav’ AproképEou
1 +rexetvy Bekker has rexot, after Coraés.
130

ARTAXERXES um. 1-111. 3 :

and kept her in defiance of them, for after the king had put her brother to death, he wished to kill her also. But Arsicas, throwing himself at his mother’s feet and supplicating her with many tears, at last obtained her promise that his wife should neither be killed nor separated from him. But the mother had more love for Cyrus, and wished that he should succeed to the throne. Therefore, when his father was now lying sick, Cyrus was summoned home from the sea-coast, and went up in full hope that by his mother’s efforts he had been designated as suc- cessor to the kingdom. For Parysatis had a specious argument (the same that Xerxes the Elder employed on the advice of Demaratus'), to the effect that she had borne Arsicas to Dareius when he was in private station, but Cyrus when he was a king. However, she could not prevail, but the elder son was declared king, under the new name of Artaxerxes, while Cyrus remained satrap of Lydia and commander of the forces in the maritime provinces.”

III. A little while after the death of Dareius, the new king made an expedition to Pasargadae, that he might receive the royal initiation at the hands of the Persian priests. Here there is a sanctuary of a warlike goddess whom one might conjecture to be Athena. Into this sanctuary the candidate for initia- tion must pass, and after laying aside his own proper robe, must put on that which Cyrus the Elder used to wear before he became king; then he must eat of a cake of figs, chew some turpentine-wood, and drink a cup of sour milk. Whatever else is done besides this is unknown to outsiders. As Artaxerxes

1 See Herodotus, vii. 3.
? Cf. Xenophon, Anab. i. 1, 1 tf.
131

: PLUTARCH’S LIVES

HEAAOVTOS apiKeTo Ticadepyns ™ pos aUTOV ayov éva TOV lepewy, Os év Taal Kupou THS vopuelo mers ayoryAs ema TaTNs yevopevos Kal dudaEas paryevety avTov ovdsevos HT TOV édoxet LlepsOv aviacbar wn amodety GevTos éxeltvou Bactrews: S10 Kat TioTLW EayVe KATH YOPOV Kupov. Karnyopet dé ws pér-AovTos évedpeveny € €v T@ lepo, Kal éretday exdun rat Thy éaOATa oO Baotrevs, émitiOecOar nai dua-bOetpery avrov. of pev ex TavTNS THS dtaBors THY ovhAn yw yeverOar pact, ot d€ Kal Traped-ety TOV Kopov els TO epov Kat mapasod hvac KpumTojevov UTO TOU Lepews. pédovTa. dé avrov non arrobvijaKew 9 LNTNP mepiaxovca Tats ayKa-als Kal Tous Boatpuxors mepiehifaca wal ovA-AaBovca Tov éxetvou TPaxnrov Tpos TOV auras, odupoev?) WoAAa Kal TOT VLE MEVT TAapyTnTaro Kal KATET EMM ED addes é€7t OadXatTayv, ovK aya-TOVTA THY adpxnv €xELVNV, OvdE pe pn wevov Tis OveTEws, aryrXa THS TUAAMPEOS, Kal de) opyny omapyovTa pLadXov 7 TpoTepov enh THY Baoid«tav, IV. “Evioz 6é dagev otk apxovmevov ois éXdp-Bavey eis to xa” rpépav Setrvov atoothnvas Bactréws, eb) NeyovTes. el yap aro pndév, arra) TH UTHOXE, xpha Pat Kal AauBaverv dca Bovdotro TOV aurifs TapéXxouvga Kal OLdouca. paptupet d€ TH TAOUTH Kal TO pra Bo opexov TorARrAAX OH bua TOV dirav Kat Eévov avT@ Tapa-Tpepopevov, OS =evopav ELPNKED. ib poous pen yap ov cuvniyaryen', eT THY TupagKeUNY eTLKPUTTTO-1 4dnad. i. 1, 6-11,

ef
&
ARTAXERXES mr. 3-iv. 1

was about to perform these rites, Tissaphernes brought to him a certain priest who had conducted Cyrus through the customary discipline for boys, had taught him the wisdom of the Magi, and was thought to be more distressed than any one in Persia because his pupil had not been declared king. For this reason, too, his accusation against Cyrus won cre- dence. And he accused him of planning to lie in wait for the king in the sanctuary until he should put off his garment, and then to fall upon him and kill him. Some say that Cyrus was arrested in con- sequence of this false charge, others that he actually made his way into the sanctuary and hid himself there, and was delivered into custody by the priest. But now, as he was about to be put to death, his mother clasped him in her arms, twined her tresses about him, pressed his neck against her own, and by much lamentation and entreaty prevailed upon the king to spare him, and sent him back to the sea-coast. Here he was not satisfied with the office assigned to him, nor mindful of his release, but only of his arrest; and his anger made him more eager than before to secure the kingdom.

IV. Some say that he revolted from the king because his allowance did not sufhce for his daily meals, which is absurd. For had no other resource been his, still, his mother was resource enough, who gave freely from her own wealth all that he wished to take and use. And that he had wealth is proved by the mercenary troops that were maintained for him in many places by his friends and connections, as Xenophon tells us.!_ For he did not bring these together into one body, since he was still trying to conceal his preparations, but in one place and another,

pevos, ddrAaYyoOs O€ GAXous ETT TOANALS Tpopaceat a / \ e i“ 2 Eevodoyodv7as cixe. Baothéws O€ TE pyTHP
a A \ “A N
Tapovaa Tas UTOWias apjpet, Kal Kopos autos aeéi
nA - ’
Geparevtixa@s &ypabe, TA per alTovpEvos Tap “ ral \ autou, Ta be Trsadépvous avtixatnyopav, ws 57
A A ae “
Tpos éxeivoyv aUT@ $yjXov Kal ayavos OvTOS.
"Hy S€ tis Kal péd\XrAHoLs ev TH hvoet TOD Bact-

Néws, emleixera hatvomevy Tos ToAAOIS. ev apyYT a b a d€ Kal tmavu C$nrodv &dofe tHhv AptoképEou rod
\ /
OfwVULOU TPAOTHTA, NdiwW TE EAUTOY TapEeywv
aA ,
evruyxaveoGat, cai meal TO Tiuav Kat yapilec Gan
‘ b] > , e / f \ 7
To Kat akiav uTepBadrAwy, KoAaTEwWS dé Taans
? a \ ? 8 Lt , \ 500 b Oe a augpatpwy to ebufpifoy Kat noouevov, €v ae 4 ’ & ~ “a nw
déyecOar yapitas OVX TTOY TOs StdobaLV 7 Tots
? bd] A / , yw
AapRavovaty év TO Stddvat hatvopevos evyapes cal diravOpmmos. ovdev yap Hv oTwS ptKpOV TE a 4 ra \ 4 - b] \

Tov dLdopévwy 0 ry TpocedéEaTo TpoOvmws, GAXa
a , i Kal poay piav ureppun peycOet tpoceveyKavTos a , \ b] fe Ge] TN \ ; (O 99 ? pigous THOS Gute), Na tov Me pav, even,
‘obros 0 avnp Kal modkw av éx mLKpas Taye
Trouna ece peyadny miotevbeis.
V. ‘Emel 6€ GXXwy dda TpIThepovTwVv Kad eQ\ ? \ ” +Q\ DAON a a odov autoupyos avOpwmros ovdev evi Katpov POacas
“a A fal , - ~~
eupely TH ToTau@ Tpocédpame Kai Taiv yepowv uToNaBwv tod bdatos TpognveyKev, oOels o

,, A a
"AproképEns hiarny éreprpev avt@ ypvony Kai
/ A xedtous Saperxous. Evxderda d€ 76 Adxwvt, tron-Na mappyo talopevyp Tpos avTov avdadss, éxé-Nevoev eltreiv TOV yedtapyov Ste “ Sol ev EEeotev 134

ARTAXERXES wv. 1r-v. 1

and on many pretexts, he kept recruiting-agents. And as for the king’s suspicions, his mother, who was at court, tried to remove them, and Cyrus himself would always write in a submissive vein, sometimes asking favours from him, and sometimes making countercharges against Tissaphernes, as if his eager contention were against him. .

There was, too, a certain dilatoriness in the nature of the king, which most people took for clemency. Moreover, in the beginning he appeared to be altogether emulous of the gentleness of the Artaxerxes whose name he bore, showing himself very agreeable in intercourse, and bestowing greater honours and favours than were really deserved, while from all his punishments he took away the element of insult or vindictive pleasure, and in his acceptance and bestowal of favours appeared no less gracious and kindly to the givers than to the recipients. For there was no gift so small that he did not accept it with alacrity; indeed, when a certain Omisus brought him a single pomegranate of surpassing size, he said: “ By Mithra, this man would speedily make a city great instead of small were he entrusted with it.”

V. Once when he was on a journey and various people were presenting him with various things, 4 labouring man, who could find nothing else at the moment, ran to the river, and, taking some of: the water in his hands, offered it to him; at which Artaxerxes was so pleased that he sent him a goblet of gold and a thousand darics. To Eucleidas the Lacedaemonian, who would often say bold and impudent. things to him, he sent this word by his oficer of the guard: “It is in thy power to say elTreiy & Bovnen, éuol d€ Kal A€yerv Kat Tovey.” év 6€ Opa Tevt Py ptSaSov detEavros aUT@ Tov Kavovv Eo XLT pevov, mporTna ev 6 te Sel mrosety.
135

éexelvou 6€ elmovTos, ‘ ‘"AdXov avTos évouaat, TOU-TOV bé € €or bas,” ob TMs évrolnaen, elTrov, “ Alba bev, @ Tnpisate, col TOUTOP, hopeiy b€ amtayopevo.” Tov be Tnei8alou wy ppovticavtos (hy yap ov Tovnpos, UT oxoudpos dé Kal mapadopos), GANA TOV TE avouv evdvs éxetvov évouvTos Kai dépaia xpuad Kal yuvarneta TOY Bacthikav Tépt-Jepevou, TUVTES [ev NYavaKTOUY (ov yap €&nv), o MEVTOL Bacvrevs Kateyédace Kal elTe “ Atéwpt got Kal Ta ypvoia opety ws yuvarki Kai Thy OTOANY WS patvouerer. Tpametns d€ TIS aur is pndevos HETEX OVTOS arr # pnt pos Baciréws i ya persis yUvarKos, Kabelouever THS mev Ur auton, THS O€ LNT pos vTep avrov, ’AptroképEns cai tovs iSeAgods € emt THY AUTH exdret Tpametay, "Octa-vay cal ‘O&d@ pny, VEWTEPOUS 6vTas. é€py O€ Tots padoTa KeXapto Leyny div Trapetye Tois Ilépoais 1 THS yuvarros LTareipas dppapata yumi) TOY TapaTeTAgTUUdTwY del Tpopepomévy Kal d1d00-ga Tais énpoticw aonmdcacba avtTny Kai Tpoc-erbety, bev nyaTato toils Tools 1) Bacireta.
VI. Tov pévroe Kipov ot vewtepiatal Kai roXv-mMpayuoves ws Nautpoy avodpa TH Wuyn Kat ToAeuixoy Stadhepovtws Kal didétatpov wovTo Ta mpaypata mode, Kat TO peyeBos THS yepovias Bactréws beta Bar ppovnpa kal ptdoripiay €yov-
TOS. _0vX HT TO ody Tots ave TLOTEVMY 0 Kipos
7 Tols Tepi auTov éwexetpel TO TOAEUM Kal 136 what thou pleasest, but it is in mine both to say and to do.” Again, when he was hunting once and Teribazus pointed out that the king’s coat was rent, he asked him what was to be done. And when Teribazus replied, “ Put on another for thyself, but give this one to me," the king did so, saying, "I give this to thee, Teribazus, but I forbid thee to wear it." Teribazus gave no heed to this command (being not a bad man, but rather light-headed and witless), and at once put on the king's coat, and decked himself with golden necklaces and women's ornaments of royal splendour. Everybody was indignant at this (for it was a forbidden thing); but the king merely laughed, and said: "1 permit thee to wear the trinkets as a woman, and the — robe as a madman." Again, no one shared the table of a Persian king except his mother or his wedded wife, the wife sitting below him, the mother above him; but Artaxerxes invited to the same table with him his brothers Ostanes and Oxathres, although they were his juniors. But what gratified the Persians most of all was the sight of his wife Stateira's carriage, which always appeared with its curtains up,and thus permitted the women of the people to approach and greet the queen. This made her beloved of the common folk.

VI. Nevertheless, restless and factious men thought that affairs demanded Cyrus, a man who had a brilliant spirit, surpassing skill in war, and great love for his friends ; and that the magnitude of the empire required a king of lofty purpose and ambition. Ac- cordingly, Cyrus relied quite as much upon the people of the interior as upon those of his own province and command, when he began the war.

Aaxedatpoviots eypade Tupaxareov Bonbetv Kat TUVERTE TEL avopas, ols ep dwaey, ay pep mefot Tapaoty, iTTOUS, av Ge t inmets, guvwploas® éav o crypous EY wot, Kw "as: éav be KWMAS, TOAELS* pa Bob d€ TOls TTPATEVOMEVOLS OVK dprO por, ava JET pov éveoOar. peyahnyopav 6€ mepit avtod TONG Kal Kapotav én Tov adeh pov popety Bapv- Tépav Kat prrocodev padrov Kat paryevery Bédr1ov, olvov d€ Tretova mivew Kal pépery- exetvov o€ vTo devdias Kal paraxias éy sev TOOLS Kuvnyertous pnoe ep immou, ev dé Tois Kwdvvois pnde ert TOD Opovov xabjoOa. Aaxedaimovior pev odv oKUTG- Anv mpos Kréapyov améoTethav vIrnpeTelv Kup qavtTa KedevovTes. 6 6€ Kipos dveBatvev eri Baotrea BapBapexny TE TOANY EVV Ovvapuy cat peaPodopous “KAXAnvas OALyo Tplaryedteov Kat pupiwy atrodéovtas, adXNas er AAXNALS TrOLOUMEVOS TpopaceEs THs oTparelas. ov pny édradé ye els TOAVY Ypovoyv, aN KE Barret Trradépyns avTdayyeros: Kal TOUS PopuBos eixe Ta Racine, Ths te apvodatidos thy wAciotny aitiay Tob

TOAEMOU pepopernys, Kal TOV pirov avTAS ev
UTowiats 6 dvtwy kat d1aBorais. padiora de nvia
THY Tapvcatw 1 Lrdtetpa TO TONE pup TepiTra-Govoa Kat Bowca, “ Ilob yuV at TLOTELS exetvat ; Tov 6€ al denoets, als eFedopmevn TOV emt Bourev-cavTa TO GOENGD TONELOU Kab KAKOY euTeTANKAS nuas 3; éx 67 TOUTOY pucovoa THY Lrdrerpay my Ilapvoatis, cat dice BapvOvpos ovea Kal Bap-1Cf. Xenophon, Anab. i. 1,9; 2, 21; 4, 3.

138

1014

ARTAXERKXES vr. 2-5

He also wrote to the Lacedaemonians, inviting them to aid him and send him men, and promising that he would give to those who came, if they were foot- men, horses; if they were horsemen, chariots and pairs; if they had farms, he would give them villages ; if they had villages, cities; and the pay of the soldiers should not be counted, but measured out. Moreover, along with much high-sounding talk about himself, he said he carried a sturdier heart than his brother, was more of a philosopher, better versed in the wisdom of the Magi, and could drink and carry more wine than he. His brother, he said, was too effeminate and cowardly either to sit his horse in a hunt, or his throne in a time of peril. The Lacedae- monians, accordingly, sent a dispatch-roll to Clearchus ordering him to give Cyrus every assistance.4 So Cyrus marched up against the king with a large force of Barbarians and nearly thirteen thousand Greek mercenaries,? alleging one pretext after another for his expedition. But the real object of it was not long concealed, for Tissaphernes went in person to the king and informed him of it. Then there was a great commotion at the court, Parysatis being most blamed for the war, and her friends undergoing suspicion and accusation, And above all was she vexed by Stateira, who was greatly dis- tressed at the war, and kept crying: “ Where now are those pledges of thine? And where are the entreaties by which thou didst rescue the man who had plotted against the life of his brother, only to involve us in war and calamity?” Therefore Pary- satis hated Stateira, and being naturally of a harsh

2 Cf. Xenophon, Anab. i. 7, 10, where the force of Bar- barians is said to have numbered one hundred thousand.

139

6

ts

PLUPARCEP SSIES

Bapos éy opyais Kat prnoiKaKiass, emreBovdevev auTny avenety. ere! dé Acitvwy pev EV T@ TOAEL@ cuvTereaOivar Thy émeBovrAny eipyKe, Krnaoias é€ baTEpov, Ov OUTE ayvoe TOV Xpovor elKos éort mapovTa Tais mpateoty, ovTe EKOOV aiTiay elven €x Tov Ypovou peTacTihoat TO Epyov, @S émpaxOn
Sunryoupevos, ola Tao KEL TOAAUKLS O orvyos auTov
™ pos To puOm@des Kal 6papaticov _ EXT PET OLEVOS TH)S arnOeias, ToUTO pev iv éxElvos aTrédwxe yopav é&eu.
VII. Kup 6é rpoctoyte hijpat Kat Noyou Tpocémim@tov, ws ov paxyetOar Bactréws evOds éyvw-KOTOS OVOE TUVOPALELD ELS YELPAS AVT@ TTEVOGYTOS, arn’ év Ilépcats vrropévery dype dv at duvdpets exel Travtayoley avvér\Owar. Kal yap tadpov evpos opyulav déxa Kai Babos icwv émt atadious
dia TOU TWedtou TeTPAKoGious évéBare Kat TAUTNS Te Tepietoe TOV Kipov évtos TrapeAOovta Kai Ba-Buravos avThs ov pakpav yevopevon. TypiBalou
5€, ws act, TpwTov TON LIT AVTOS el Trely ws Ov

det puyouaxeiy ovde Mynédias ékotavta cat Ba-Buddvos dpa? Kal Lovowy évover Oat TH Hepoto:, modaTagtav pev ExovTa Ovvapiy TOV TONE MLO, puplous O€ catparas Kat OT PATHYOUS Kupov xai ppovety Kal Haxeo Ga BeXtiovas, Opunae Etaywvioad Gat THY TAXLOTHY.

Kai to pee T paT ov eEaigyys Katahavets évern-KovTa pLupldat oTpatov diakeKoopnmévats ap-1 Gua Bekker and Ziegler, after Corais: add.

temper and savage in her wrath and resentment, she plotted to kill her. Deinon says that her plot was carried out during the war. Ctesias, however, says that it was accomplished afterwards, and neither is it likely that he was ignorant of the time since he was at the scene of action, nor had he any occasion, in his narrative of the deed, to change the time of it on purpose, however often his story turns aside from the truth into fable and romance. I shall therefore give the event the place which he has assigned to it.}

VII. As Cyrus proceeded on his march, rumours and reports kept coming to his ears that the king had decided not to give battle at once, and was not desirous of coming to close quarters with him, but rather of waiting in Persia until his forces should assemble there from all parts. For he had run a trench, ten fathoms in width and as many in depth, four hundred furlongs through the plain; and yet he allowed Cyrus to cross this and to come within a short distance of Babylon itself.2 And it was Teribazus, as we are told, who first plucked up courage to tell the king that he ought not to shun a battle, nor to retire from Media and Babylon, as well as Susa, and hide himself in Persia, when he had a force many times as numerous as that of the enemy, and countless satraps and generals who surpassed Cyrus in wisdom and military skill. The king therefore determined to fight the issue out as soon as possible.

So, to begin with, by his sudden appearance with an army of nine hundred thousand men in brilliant

1 See chap. xix.

* Cf. Xenophon, Anub. i. 7, 14-17.

T POS, TOUS Tohepious AOUVTAKTOVS Kal avoTrAOUS dua TO Oappeiv Kal KaTadpoveiv odourropobvras éEémAnEe Kal ocuvetapa€er, wate suv GopvBw Kal Bon TOMMY pores Ets Tag kadioracbat TOV Kipov Emelta olyn Kal oxedny ETAYOV Gaipa Tol "EAAnoe TAS. evragias TApELXe, Kpavyas aTaKTOUS Kal OKIPTH HATA Kal TONUY Tapayov avuTav Kal Svacmacpov € éy TAO EL TOT OUT@ T poo dex ojLevous. €v O€ Kal Kara TOUS "EX Aqvas avretage TOV Sperarnpopov Ta poparewrara Tpo THS €avToD parayyos, ws mply ev Nepal yeveo Ba dvaxowovta Tas Takes Bia THS elo ehdcews.

VIII. Ti Sé ayn éxeivny TONACV pev amny-
YEAKOT OD, Fevopavtos bé povovovyt O€LKVUOYTOS Oye, Kal Tots Tpaypacw, ws OU Yyeyevnuevots, ara yivouevos, epiotavtos ael TOV aKpoaTiy éutrab nal cuyxivduvevovta dia THY évapyetar, OUK €oTL vodv EXOVTOS emeEnryeta Oar, TAny boa
7 Oy akiov hoyou TapnrOev eirreiv exetvov. 0 jev oy TOTOS, eV O mapeTabavto, Kovvaka KahetTae Kal BaBvdéivos amex EL oTadtous mevTaKoctous.
Kipov 6€ mpd THs paxns Krt«edpxou Tapa a-NOUVTOS efomrua bev TOV _MaXOopEveov elvat Kal pr)
KLVOUVEVELY avTOV ELTFELD pact, so reyers, @ KXEeapye ; ou KeXevers pe TOV Bacrreias operyo-fLEVOV avatiov eivat Bactdetas ;” dpapTovTos ¢ Kupou peya T@ Ovval T POTET OS Els péoa Ta dewa Kat pn) pudratacBau TOV KivdUVOY, OVX HTTOV Hmaptev, eb 1) Kal “addon, eee avTiTakas
1 Anab. i. 8.

array, he so terrified and confounded the enemy, who were marching along in loose order and without arms because of their boldness and contempt for the king, that Cyrus could with difficulty bring them into battle array amid much tumult and shouting; and again, by leading his forces up slowly and in silence, he filled the Greeks with amazement at his good discipline, since they had expected in so vast a host random shouting, and leaping, with great confusion and dissipation of their lines. Besides this, he did well to craw up in front of his own line, and over against the Greeks, the mightiest of his scythe- | bearing chariots, in order that by the force of their charge they might cut to pieces the ranks of the Greeks before they had come to close quarters. VIII. Now, since many writers have reported to us this battle, and since Xenophon! brings it all but before our eyes, and by the vigour of his description makes his reader always a participant in the emotions and perils of the struggle, as though it belonged, not to the past, but to the present, it would be folly to describe it again, except so far as he has passed over things worthy of mention. The place, then, where the armies were drawn up, is called Cunaxa, and it is five hundred furlongs distant from Babylon. And we are told that Cyr us, before the battle; when Clearchus besought him to remain behind the com- batants and not risk his life, replied : “‘ What sayest thou, Clearchus? Dost thou bid me, who am reaching out for a kingdom, to be unworthy of a kingdom ?”’ It was a great mistake for Cyrus to plunge headlong into the midst of the fray, instead of trying to avoid its dangers; but it was no less a mistake, nay, even a greater one, for Clearchus to refuse to array his

Kata Tov Baciréa pn Gednoas TOUS "EXANvas, adNG Tpoopieas 7 TOTApe TO beEtov, aos LN
Kcr ety. Tv yap da pidevay é& drartos b1a-KOVTA Kal ELT TOV hoyov exovra rob poev wadety olxou bévewv HY KpuTLa Tov. o O€ puptous orabdlous ato Oaddaons év OTAOLS avaBeBnKws undevos avayKalovros, GX ores Kipoy ets tov Opovov Kablon TOV Bactrevov, eita TEpla KOT OV
Xopav Kal Tae, ovK ap HS TWOELE Tov nryepwova Kab puaBodorny, GX év TivE Gépevos EaUTOV acdaras payeitar cal novyiav, dOuotos Hv vITo
S€ovs TOV TapovTwY éxBeBAnKOTL TOLS TEP THY OAwY NoyLapwous KAaL TpOiEMev@ THY THS TTpaTElas uToecwv. OTL yap ovdels ay UTrépEetvEe TOV TETAYpéveov mepi Baciréa tovs “EXAnvas éutecortTas, wadevtoy & éxelivwv Kal Bactréws puyovTos y
TETOVTOS UT Ape Kup VUKOVTL cwber Gat Kab
Bacrrevew, € EX TOV TET PAayLEVOV Sidon € éott. 610
Thv KXeapyou padrnXov evrAudBerav 7) To ToD Kupov Opuaos aitiatéov ws Ta Tpdypata Kai Kopov uToheracay. et Yep autos éaxKoTres Bactrevs omov tak~as Tovs "EdAnvas aBraBertarors XP?) TET AL TONE LLOLS, OUK av érépav efevpev 7 THY aT OT are Vv wpav éauTou Kal TOV mept éavtov, ap Ns ovTE venders avros yobero kat Kopos EbOn KATAKOTELS 7 XT apEVvos Te 7H Krteapxou viky.
KaiTot Kipos to cupudépov ovx nyvoncen, GX excel Kr€apxov exédeve taTreo Gat KaTa pecov.
0 0 avT@ pede einwy Omws Ect KaAMOTA, TO 7 ap 5:é¢Oetpev,
144

Greeks over against the king, and to keep his right wing close to the river, that he might not be surrounded. For if he sought safety above everything else and made it his chief object to avoid losses, it had been best for him to stay at home. But he had marched ten thousand furlongs up from the sea-coast under arms, with no compulsion upon him, but in order that he might place Cyrus upon the royal throne; and then, in looking about for a place and position which would enable him, not to save his leader and employer, but to fight safely and as he pleased, he was like one who, through fear of instant peril, had cast aside the plans made for general success and abandoned the object of the expedition. For had the Greeks charged upon the forces arrayed about the king, not a man of them would have stood his ground ; and had these been routed and the king either slain or put to flight, Cyrus would have won by his victory, not only safety, but a kingdom. This is clear from the course of the action. Therefore the caution of Clearchus rather than the temerity of Cyrus must be held responsible for the ruin of Cyrus and his cause. For if the king himself had sought out a place to array the Greeks in which their attack would be least injurious to him, he could have found no other than that which was most remote from himself and his immediate following, since he himself did not know that his forces had been defeated there, and Cyrus could take no advantage at all of the victory of Clearchus, because he was cut down too soon. And yet Cyrus well knew what was for the best, and ordered Clearchus to take his position accordingly in the centre. But Clearchus, after telling Cyrus he would see to it that the best was done, ruined everything.

145

PLUTARCH S7Livis

IxX..0t pev yap "EdAnves oaov éBovnovto TOUS BapBapous evixwy Kal SuxovTes emt TAELO TOY mponrOov' Kupw &€ yevvatoy immov, adoro mov d€
Ka UB pio thy éNavvovTt, Tacaxav KANOUMEVOD, OS
Kryoias dnoir, avreErjAacev 0 Kadovciwy dpywy
“Aprayépons peya Boor, “—O 70 KANALOTOV €V Tlépaacs bvopa Kuvpov KATALTXUVOY, GdtKOTATE ayopav Kal appovér tare, KAKOUS pev “EXXNVAS Epxn KaKkny ooov aryov emt Ta Ilepoov ayada, dearroT ny 6€ GeauToU Kal adehgov érmTiCwpy diva pyaew, 0s gov upidKis jeupious SovAous exet Kpelogovas. auTixa O€ TElpdan’ TpoTEpov yap amrohets evtavla tTHv ceavTovd Kedarnv 1) Oedcacbat 76 Bacihéws TpdcwTov.” Tadta elTav éEnxovticey ér’ avtov. o 6¢ Owpak atepeds AVTETXE, KAL OVK ETPWON Ev Oo Kupos, éxpabavOn dé TIS TANYHS loxupas TpoomETovens. 7 0-oT pEewav Tos dé TOV iT TOV TOD ‘A ptayépoov Barer
O Kdpos ¢ eTUXE, Kal dindace Tapa THY KrElOa bua TOU Tpaxnrov THY ALKEHD.
Tov peév ovv ‘Aptayépony amo@avetv v umo TOU Kupou aYEeoo arrartes oporoyotae: mepl dé Tis avtou Kupov TENET IPS evel = evopov ATMS Kal TUVTOMWS, aTE 67) a) TAP&V AUTOS, ELTeED, ovder igws Kwrver Ta Acivwvos idia Kal madw Ta Krnotov OcedOeiv.
AC Dryoiv ovv o pev Acivwy ort Tov “Aptayepoov TEC OVTOS etgeXacas Biaiws o K dpos els Tous TPOTETA/MEVOUS 700 Bacthéws KATETPWCEDV
avtov Tov immov, 0 6€ ameppun TypiBatou dé 146

A DAO hes bo oIk. 1=x.. I

IX. For the Greeks were victorious to their hearts' content over the Barbarians, and went forward a very great distance in pursuit of them; but Cyrus, riding a horse that was high-bred, but fierce and hard to guide (his name was Pasacas, as Ctesias tells us), was met in full course by Artagerses, commander of the Cadusians, who cried with a loud voice: '"O thou who disgracest the name of Cyrus, that noblest name among the Persians, thou most unjust and senseless of men, thou art come with evil Greeks on an evil journey after the good things of the Persians, and thou hopest to slay thine own brother and thy master, who hath a million servants that are better men than thou. And thou shalt at once have proot of this; for thou shalt lose thine own head here before thou hast seen the face of the king." With these words he hurled his spear at Cyrus. But the breastplate of Cyrus stoutly resisted, and its wearer was not wounded, though he reeled under the shock of the mighty blow. Then,as Artagerses turned his horse away, Cyrus hurled his spear and hit him, and drove its head through his neck past the collar-bone.

Thus Artagerses died at the hands of Cyrus, as nearly all writers are agreed in saying; but as regards the death of Cyrus himself, since Xenophon makes simple and brief mention of it,) because he was not present himself when it happened, there is no objection perhaps to my recounting, first what Deinon says about it, and then what Ctesias says.

X. Accordingly, Deinon says that after Artagerses had fallen, Cyrus charged furiously into those drawn up in front of the king, and wounded the king's horse, and that the king fell to the ground; but

1 Anabd. I. viii. 26.
147
PLUTARCH'S LIVES

avaBarovros avutTov én addov lirTrov (Taxu Kat eb OV7 OSs" 0, Bactred, pepyng 0 THS TEpas TavTns: ov yap akia AiOns €oTi," Tm adev o Kupos epoetaas TO imme xaTéBare Tov " Aptok&epEny.
mpos 6€ THY Tpit ny éré\aow duoavacxeijaas 0 O
Bacirels, Kai elm@y mpos TOUS Ta povTas OS
BértLov éoTt yen ohy, dvtebjAauve 7 Kvpo
T POT ET OS Kal ATEPLT KET TOS els evavtia Béry hepomevw. Kat Badnree pev avTos UKOVTLO, Banovat Se ob Wepl avTov. inter dé O Kipos, as pep évios NEyouGL, TANYEls UTO TOV Baciréus, ws be eT E poi TLves, Kapos avO por ov TATAELVTOS, @ yépas EbwKe TAS. mpafews TAUTNS 0 Bactrevs ddextpudva xpuaovv emi Sopatos Gel TPO TIS TaFEews év Tais TTPATELALS Kopitery' Kal yap avutous tous Kapas adextpvovas ot Ilépoat dia TOUS Aogous, ols KoTpLodDaL Ta Kpavyn, Tpocny OPEVOD.
NI. SH &€ Kryoiov denynois, ws émetepmovtt

TOAAG TUVTOMWS ATAYyElAaL, TOLAVTH Tis eaTL.
Kopos aroxtetvas Aptayépony tXavuvev eis avToV
Bactiréa Tov inmov, Kal AUTOS Ets éxeivon, d upo-TEPOL ClWTTT- pOaver be Barov "Aptaios o Kupou piros Bactréa, Kal ovK eTpwce. Bacireds 6 ageis TO Sopu Kupov jeev ovK eTUXE, Latupepynv 6€, Ta TOV avopa Kupe wal yevvaior, éBare Kat amextewwe. Kopos & én' adtov éEaxovticas bia Tov Owpakos ETpwoE TO GTHOOS, Oaov évédvat Svo daxTUXOUS TO aKOVTLOV, TecElW SE auTov v7T0 TIS TANYIS aro TOU imarou. puyiis cé Kal Tapaxis TOV TENL AUTOV YyEevomevNS, O MEV avacTas per 146

1016

ARTAXERNES x. 1-x1. 2

Teribazus quickly mounted him upon another horse, saying, '"'O king, remember this day, for it deserves not to be forgotten " ; whereupon Cyrus again plunged in and dismounted Artaxerxes. But at his third assault, the king, being enraged, and saying to those who were with him that death was better, rode out against Cyrus, who was rashly and impetuously rushing upon the missiles of his opponents. The king himself hit him with a spear, and he was hit by the attendants of the king. Thus Cyrus fell, as some say, by a wound at the hands of the king, but as sundry others have it, from the blow of a Carian, who was rewarded by the king for this exploit with the privilege of always carrying a golden cock upon his spear in front of the line during an expedition ; for the Persians call the Carians themselves cocks, because of the crests with which they adorn their helmets.

XI. But the narrative of Ctesias, to give it in a much-abbreviated form, is something as follows After he had slain Artagerses, Cyrus rode against the king himself, and the king against him, both without a word. But Ariaeus, the friend of Cyrus, was beforehand in hurling his spear at the king, though he did not wound him. And the king, casting his spear at Cyrus, did not hit him, but struck and killed Satiphernes, a trusted friend of Cyrus and a man of noble birth. But Cyrus threw his spear at the king and wounded him in the breast through the cuirass, so that the weapon sank in two fingers deep, and the king fell from his horse with the blow. Amid the ensuing confusion and flight of his immediate followers, the king rose to his feet, and with a few companions 149

PLUTARCH'S LIVES

, 3 s \
OrNiyw, ev ols Kat Krynoias nv, Nohoy tia AN-' ? ' cal \ nw
giov KatadhaBwv novyate' Kupov 6€ Tots Tone-f bd , Jaa b] , € * a plots evethovpevov o tmmos e&epepev vTrO Pupod
UA ' n
HaKpdy, ON TKOTOVS GYTOS ayvooUmEVOY LTO TOV aN; "nw 4
ToAEuiwy Kal Entovpevov UTO TMV diwv. émrac-ral , \ \ x ¢ n '
popevos S€ TH vikn Kat peotos MY OpEAS Kal
4 ca 2 f
Opacous dieEnXavve Bowv, "'EktotacGe, mem-439 " Q\ \ / > a V poi- touto oe Lleparott modraKis avTov aA e J a Bo@vtos, ot pev éEtotavto TpooKuvovrTes, aTo-id \ fo) a ¢e , a f \ mimte. 0€ THS Keparis 7) Tedpa TOV Kupov. xa / ? , bd ,
Tapatpéywv veavias llépans dvopa MieOpidarns
, X 4 n \ S
axovttm Barrer Tov KpoTadov avTov Tapa Tov
? , > ca) ef " \ »' Cy A" opOarmov, ayvowv CaTs ein. od b€ aipa Tov
, \
Tpavuatos éxBadovTos iduyytacas Kai Kapwlels ¢ rn ? e 7.
o Koipos érece. Kalo pev imros trexhuyor érAa-
\ > 9 / a > / 4
Geto, Tov & éehinmecoy idov droppvévta AapBaver
"A \ "A , > L od if Tov Tov Kipov Badovtos axodXovdos aluatos Trepi-

\ \ a > n “ ? f mrew. Tov 6€ Kipov ex ths TAnys avadbépovta al / ral / > / ,
YAAETOS KAL LOLS EVVOUYOL TIVES ONiyOL TApOVTES
> , 9.9 oS v4 , / \ 4
émeyeipouv é adXov itmoy avabéc ba Kai cwkerv.
? A Y4 n /
advvatas 8 éyovta xal 8: avtod mpoOupovpevor
7 € s a ~ ‘ 4
Basile bTokaPovtes YOr, TH meV TwmATL KApN-
A ? \ ”
Bapovvta Kai chadrromevoy, oltopevoy Sé viKav > nm rT A akovovTa ToV devyovyTwY avakadovpévwyv Kodpov
f x, , / 3 \ 4
Baoiréa cal heideoOar seopevwyv. ev b€ To’To f , 4 t bY Kavveot teves avOpwroe KaKxoBvor Kal aTOpoL Kal ca e “ n / TATEW@Y VTOUpynuaTwY EveKa TH TOV Bactréws
a) cal f , oTpaTia TapaKoNovbourtes ETUYOY cvVavaplyOere “4 a N ‘ ra ¢. N , TES ws Pirosg ToOls wept TOV Kvpov. ws dé porss 150 ARTAXERXES x1. 2-6

among whom also was Ctesias, took possession of a certain hill near by and remained there quietly ; but Cyrus, enveloped by his enemies, was borne on a long distance by his spirited horse, and since it was now dark, his enemies did not recognize him and his friends could not find him. But lifted up by his victory, and full of impetuosity and confidence, he rode on through his foes, crying out, “Clear the way, ye beggars!’ ‘Thus he cried out many times, in Persian, and they cleared the way, and made him their obeisance. But the turban of Cyrus fell from his head, and a young Persian, Mithridates by name, running to his side, smote him with his spear in the temple, near the eye, not knowing who he was. Much blood gushed from the wound, and Cyrus, stunned and giddy, fell to the ground. His horse escaped and wandered about the field, but the horse’s saddle-cloth, which had slipped: off, was captured by the attendant of the man who had struck Cyrus, and it was soaked with blood. Then, as Cyrus was slowly and with difficulty recovering from the blow, a few eunuchs who were at hand tried to put him upon another horse and bring him to a place of safety. But since he was unable to ride and desired to go on his own feet, they supported him and led him along. His head was heavy and he reeled to and fro, but he thought he was victorious because he heard the fugitives saluting Cyrus as king and begging him to spare them. Meanwhile some Caunians—low and poverty-stricken men who followed the king's army to do menial service—chanced to join the party about Cyrus, supposing them to be friends. But when at last they perceived that the tunics 151

bo

PLUTARCH'S LIVES

A , n al
auveloov Ta émiOwpaxtdta howwika, NevKots yYpw-pévwv TOV Bacihikav aTdvT@Y, &yywoav ToXepuous OvrTas. els OUV éxeivwY ETOAUNTEY UYVOMV t n ‘ rr ’ , an \ éforicbev Barety tov Kipov axovtio. tijs dé Téepl THY tyvvayv prAEeBos avappayEetons Weowv oO Kipos dpa tate: mpos Tie ALOwW TOV TETPwpLEVvOV ld al ¢ xpotagov Kai aToOyiaKxe. Totovtos pev o Krn-
, , “~
, , e 4 2 a te ,
gLov ovyos, @ Kabamep auPret Ecpidtm pworis
> a bf
dvatp@yv tov avOpwrov avypnKev.
fa) , €
XII. "Hén d6€ adtod teOvnxotos “Aptacipas o
LA > \ / cf ,
Baciréws obadpos Etuyev intw wape~eXNavvwv.
\ ,
yvwpicas ovv ToOVS EvvOVYOUS oAOPUpPLMEVOUS
N a a np@Tnce TOY TiaToTaTov avTav, “ Tiva tod-

c , , 4 > e \ tov, ® Ilaptoxa, kates Trapakabnpevos ;” o de elev “‘Ovy opas, ® ’Aptacipa, Kd e TEU PUN ODES; Aptacupa, Kipov teOvy-

= tg , La) ‘

kota; G@avyacas otv o ’Aptacupas T@ pév
? , “ , \ ,
evvovyw Oappety trapexedevoato Kxai dudratTev
. / > ‘ \ i
TOV vexpov, autos b€ GuYTEivas Tpos TOY ’ApTo-
, > / N > \ a) EépEnv, amTeyywxoTa pev 1/6) Ta TPdyp"aTa, KAKOS

\ “a ,

6€ Kal TO THA StakeEiwevoy UO TE Oivrns Kal
a / ¢ TOU TpavuaTos, yatpwv dpaber ws avtos idor a , Ko e oe a \ Or ef teGvnxota Ktpov. o 6€ mp@tov pev evOvs adp-

> \ as \ pnaev autos tévat, Kal tov ’“Aptacvpay ayeuv

’ / Ds eN \ / a b \ ‘ \ > ,

exé\evoev ETL TOV TOTTOY" ETrEl SE TOAUS HY AOrOS cal € ‘
tav EAAjverv kai PoBos ws SuwKovtwy Kal TavtTa

a

VLXWVTwY Kal KpaToUVTwY, &ofe mrelovas TE“Wat
\ ,
Tous KaToopevous’ Kal TpldxovTa Napradas

v > f Q > “ be \ > t

eyovTes eméupOnoav. avtT@ dé pixpov atronei-

Tovtt Tob TeOvavar bid TO duphv LatiBaplavns

over their breastplates were of a purple colour, whereas all the king's people wore white ones, they knew that they were enemies. Accordingly, one of them, not knowing who Cyrus was, ventured to smite him from behind with his spear. The vein in the ham of Cyrus was ruptured and he fell, and at the same time struck his wounded temple against a stone, and so died. Such is the story of Ctesias, in which, as with a blunt sword, he is long in killing Cyrus, but kills him at last.

XII. When Cyrus was now dead, Artasyras, the king's Eye,! chanced to pass by on horseback, and recognizing the eunuchs as they lamented, he asked the trustiest of them, "Who is this man, Pariscas. by whom thou sittest mourning?'' And Pariscas answered: 'O Artasyras, dost thou not see Cyrus dead?"' Astonished at this, then, Artasyras bade the eunuch be of good courage and guard thie dead body, but he himself went in hot haste to Artaxerxes (who had already given up his cause for lost, and besides was physically in a wretched plight from thirst and from his wound), and joyfully told him that with his own eyes he had seen Cyrus dead. At first the king promptly set out to go in person to the place, and ordered Artasyras to conduct him thither; but since there was much talk about the Greeks, and it was feared that they were pursuing and conquering and making themselves masters everywhere, he decided to send a larger company to see where Cyrus lay. So thirty men were sent, with torches. Meanwhile, since the king was almost dead with thirst, Satibarzanes the eunuch

1 A confidential officer of high rank, a Superintendent of the Realm.

0 evvodxyos mEepiPewy eCijree TOT OV" ov yap elxe 70 Xwptov Udwp, ovoe Hy éyyus TO oTparoTedor.
OALS ovV eTiTVYYaver TOV Kavviwy éxetvwv TOV kaKoBiwv EVOS év doKio pathy _ SvepOappévov Sep Kal movnpov EXOVTOS, 6ooV OKT® KOTUAGS' Kab AaBov TOUTO Kab Koploas 7@ Raciret dtdwoLv. exTrLOVTS. dé aay pornaev EL pr) Tavu dua yepatver TO TOTOV. 0 6€ @ Looe TOUS Jeous NTE olvoy HOEWS OUTWS THTTOTE TETWKEéVAaAL UATE Uowp
TO KovpoTatov Kat Kabapararor, “Oore,” eb, ‘tov Sovta cot ToUTO avOpw mov, av eyo an Sv enTijoas dpeipracbat, Tovs Geovs evyopat Toljoat waxaployv Kal mOvCLOV.”
NIU. ‘Ev 6€ TOVTH “Tpoo 7p auvov ot TpiaKovTa Napmpol Kal TEptXapels, avayyENdOVTES AUTO THY AVERT LG TOV eUTUXiay. 7707 oe Kal mafOet TOV TUVT PE YOVTOY They 7 Pos auTov KaL cuiaTapevov eOuppel, xal KatéPBawvev aro Tob Aopov pert TOARG 7 EPLNAILT OMEVOS. ws 6€ é emeaTy TO VEKPO, Kal Kara 51} TiVva vo mov epaay 1) bekea velo aTEKOTN Kal ”) Kepams TOU TWOMATOS, exéAevoe
THY Keparyy AUTO Kowa Ohvac' Kal THS KOMNS
SpaEapevos ovens Babelas Kat Aacias émedeixvuE TOUS appioofodaty éTe Kab pevyovory. ot 6é eGavpalov Kal TpooeKvvovy, oaTe Taxv pupiddas
emTa | Te pl avutov yevéc Oar kal Tuvertedacar TaN
ELS TO oTpatomesor. eFeAnaKer O€, WS 0 Kryatas pryaty, ent THY waxy TETORPAKOVTA peupeaowy.
ot 6€ Tepit Acivwva Kal Eevop@rra TOAV TAELOVAS yever Bar Aeyouce TAS PEMA NLEVAS. apiOuov é vexpav o Kryoias évaxtoytrlous dveveyO vai 154

ARTANERAES Ni. 3-XUl. 3

ran about in quest of a drink for him; for the place had no water, and the camp was far away. At last, then, he came upon one of those low Caunians, who had vile and polluted water in a wretched skin, about two quarts in all: this he took, brought it to the king, and gave it to him. After the king had drunk it all off, the eunuch asked him if he was not altogether disgusted with the drink. But the king swore by the gods that he had never drunk wine, or the lightest and purest water, with so much pleasure. “ Therefore,’ said the king, “if I should be unable to find and reward the man who gave thee this drink, I pray the gods to make him rich and happy.”

XIII. And now the thirty messengers came riding up with joy and exultation in their faces, announcing to the king his unexpected good fortune. Presently, too, he was encouraged by the number of men who flocked back to him and formed in battle array, and so he came down from the hill under the light of many torches. And after he had halted at the dead body of Cyrus, and its right hand and head had been cut off (in accordance with a law of the Persians), he ordered the head to be brought to him; and grasping it by the hair, which was long and bushy, he showed it to those who were still wavering and disposed to fly. These were amazed, and made obeisance to the king, so that very soon seventy thousand men were about him and marched back with him to their camp. He had marched out to the battle, as Ctesias says, with four hundred thousand men. But Deinon and Xenophon say that the army which fought ander him was much larger. As to the number of his dead, Ctesias says that it

t55

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

oyae 7 POs cov ‘Apto€ EépEnv, auT@ o€ Oto pupiov ovK ENAT TOUS davyvat Tous KELMEVOUS. TAUTA [EV
ovv éyer SiapspiaBntnow' éexeivo de Tov Krnatov NamTrpov On Wevopua, TO TepPhOHVat hava. Tpos
Tous” EAAnvas auTov peTAa PaXrivov tod ZaxuvvOiov Kat TLYwY aAAWY. O Yap Revopav HMTTATO curo.ar piBovta Bacinret Kryotay peenvnTat yap avTovU Kat Tots: BiBAtors TOUTOLS EVTETUXIKOS d7A0s é€oti ox av ovv é€NovTa Kal ROywP
TOTOUTWY EP[LNVEA YEVOMEVOY TAPTHKEV AV@VULOY, Panrivoy 6¢ tov ZaxvvOtov wmvopater. adda bat-wovies o Kryotias, ws EouKe, pudoripos | av Kab ouxX iT TOV prod Kev Kat rroxheapXos det Twas év Ti Suny i}o et Xopas EauT@ “Lowa, év als YEVOJLEVOS TOANG Kal Kara peuvnoetar KrAeapyou Kal THS Aaxecatpovos.
NIV. Mera o€ TIP paxny o@pa KaAdoTa pen
cere pe Kat MEYLOT Ta TO ‘Aptayépoou Tato TOD
TET OVTOS uTO Kupou, Kaas o€ Kal Kryotay Kal tovds addXous étTlunoe. Tov 6€ Kavvtov éxetvor éFaveuvpwv, os éwédmxe TO aoxtoy, €& abdEou Kat TEVNTOS EVTL{LOV KAL TAOVGLOV éTTOincEVv. Hy O€ TLS eTUEELA Kal rept TAS Tov efapapTovTav StKat-WOELS. A pSdxny ev yap TVA Mijbov € év TH Max
7 pos Kopov duyovra Kal Tadw éKetvov TET OVTOS

peTactavra, Oetdiay Kat padraklay KatTayvovs, ov 7 podog lav ouee KAKOVOLaY, éxéheus € yuLvnV ava-NaBovta mopyny mepBadny € éml Tov TPAXI) ov OL HLEPAS OAS ev Ayopa TEepipepeww. ETEpou GE TPOS Aah Lies:

was reported to Artaxerxes as nine thousand, but that he himself thought the slain no fewer than twenty thousand. This matter, then, is in dispute. But it is certainly a glaring falsehood on the part of Ctesias to say that he was sent to the Greeks along with Phalinus the Zacynthian and certain others. For Xenophon knew that Ctesias was in attendance upon the king, since he makes mention of him and had evidently read his works; if, then, Ctesias had come to the Greeks and served as an interpeter in so momentous a colloquy, Xenophon would not have left him nameless and named only Phalinus the Zacynthian.1 The truth is that Ctesias, being prodigiously ambitious, as it would seem, and none the less partial to Sparta and to Clearchus, always allows considerable space in his narrative for himself, and there he will say many fine things about Clearchus and Sparta.

XIV. After the battle, the king sent the largest and most beautiful gifts to the son of that Artagerses who fell at the hands of Cyrus; he also gave gener- ous rewards to Ctesias and others, and when he had found out the Caunian who had given him the skin of water, he raised him from obscurity and poveriy to honour and wealth. There was much watchful care also in his punishment of those who had gone wrong. for example, in the case of Arbaces, a Mede, who had run away to Cyrus during the battle, and, when Cyrus fell, had changed back again, the king pronounced him guilty, not of treachery, nor even of malice, but of cowardice and weakness, and ordered him to take a naked harlot astride his neck and carry her about in the market-place for a whole day. And in the case of another man, who, besides

A al / Cal / a T@ peTacThvar wevoapevov KataBarely dvo Tay

a \ i Toepiwv, mpocétate StaTreipat Tptot Bedovats
a \ / a
Tv yAw@TTAaY. olopevos bé Kal Bovdopevos Soxeiv
\ /
Kal Aye TaYTAS AVE pwTTOUS WS AUTOS ATTEKTOVOL fa ; al / , a Kopov, MiOpidatn te T@ Barovte trpwtw Kipov
a f ’ / \ ,
éférreue S@pa Kal Neyer Ex€XevaE TOUS SLOovTas
e cm iA “ e \ e/ BJ 4 ws “Tovtos oe Tid o Baotreus Ott Tov édit-
a \ 4 > a metov Kvpou midov evpwv aviveyxas’’ tod be cal f e bd a \ ’ 7 \ e@ ra bY A Kapos, 0d ob tHv tyvvav TAnyeEls 0 Kupos erece, Kal avTov Swpedv aitodvTos, éxéNevoev ElTrety TOUS 60 ef ce \ “~ LO \ b] sedovtas OTe “‘Xot ravta didwow Baoirevs evay-yediwy Sevtepeta’ mpatos yap Aptacupas, eT
> ~ \ \ \ / \ ’ A 3)
éxetvov d€ au THY Kupou terevtny amnyyetras.
2 \ = 1, / b] A aA 7 .
6 pev ovv MiOpsdatns aTHrAGE ctwTH AVTrOvpLEVOS tov d¢€ dOALov Kapa xowov te mabos €€ dBertepias
\ \ \ a katéoxye. dtapGapels yap UTO TOY TApOVYTWY, ws
, ad ‘ a coixev, aya0av, Kat avaTetcbels evOus avtitrotet-a e \ b , ? > es \ / oat Tay vTép avtov, ove nkiov ta d00évta \ 3 , bya ’ >) v4 4 to Gor evayyedtwv EVELV, ANN NyavaKTer papTupo-4 a ef nw ¢ peevos Kat Bowv ott Kopov ovdels Erepos, GAN autos amextovol, Kal thy do€av adlkws atrocTea fal \ > 7 ¢ ‘ /
poito, tavta b€ akovaas 0 Bacireds ohddpa
/ \ \ \ ’ / > a mapwEuven Kai THY Keharny éxéXevoev aTroTEpELY tov avOpwrov. tapovaa 8 1) wyntnp, “Mn av
> s. ‘cc 4 \ ra A 2 a ye, elmev, ““ovTw Tov Kapa tovrov, & Bactnred,
7 a Tov OdeOpov amadXaéns, adda Trap éuovd Tov

v » 4 X e a ? 99
agvoy amoNypetat peta Oov ov TOAMG Never.
fal 4
éemitpewavtos b€ Tov Bacthéws éxéXevoeEe TOUS
’ \ a a e / / \
eTL TwOV Tiuwpiav 7 Llapvoatis NaBovtas Tov 158 ARTAXERXES xiv. 2-5

going over to the enemy, had lyingly boasted that he had slain two of them, the king ordered that his tongue should be pierced with three needles. Moreover, believing, and wishing all men to think, and say, that he had killed Cyrus with his own hand, he sent gifts to Mithridates, the one who first hit Cyrus, and ordered the bearers of the gifts to say: “This is thy reward from the king because thou didst find and bring to him the trappings of the horse of Cyrus.” Again, when the Carian, from whom Cyrus received the blow in the ham which brought him down, asked that he also should receive a gift, the king ordered its bearers to say: “The king gives thee these things as a second prize for good tidings; for Artasyras came first, and after him thou didst come, with tidings of the death of Cyrus.” Now, Mithridates went away without a _ word, although he was vexed; but the wretched Carian, in his folly, gave way to a common feeling. That is, he was corrupted, it would seem, by the good things which he had, and led by them to aspire at once to things beyond his reach, so that he would not deign to take the gifts as a reward for good tidings, but was indignant, calling men to witness and crying in loud tones that it was he himself, and no one else, who had killed Cyrus, and that he was unjustly robbed of his glory. When the king heard of this, he was vehemently angry and gave orders that the man should be beheaded. Whereupon the king’s mother, who was present, said to him: “O King, do not let this accursed Carian off so easily, but leave him to me, and he shall receive the fitting reward for his daring words.” So the king consigned the man to Parysatis, who ordered the executioners to

159

t

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

avOpwtov eb 1wépas bexa ot peBhoby, elTa TOUS opGarpous éfopugavtas els Ta OTA Oeppov évT)}- KELY YAAKOV Ews aTroBarn,
XV. Kars dé dam@heTo kal Mi@pidatns wer odMYOV xpovov éx THS auras aBedTeptas. crOels yap emt dettrvoy év0a Kai Bactdéwe Kai TIS 21-TOS evvovxor maphoav, meV ec Ont Kat xpya@ Kexoo unpéevos ols EXaBe Tapa Bacthéws. etre SE els TO Tivelty UdiKovTo, N€yet POS AUTOV O pméryt-otov Ouvapevos Tov Lapucatedos ebvovywv: “Os Kadnv pev eoOtad cot TAaUTHY, @ MOpidara,) Bac ireus Cédwxe, Kara é¢ oTpente Kal pera

TOAXOV O€ 510s 0 GKUVaKNS. y pax dplov Ge KAL mepipdemroy é aTact TeTOoUNKer. Hon be peOuwy
o Mi@pidatns, “Tt 6€ tadta éotiv,” eitev, “@ Lrapapicy ; : Meubovey yap eyo Kal Kaddoveor Bacirel THY nmepav éxeivyyny aEtov éuauTov Tap-Ea XOP. ” Kal 0 Smapapifns eripedidoas, “ Pdovos pev ovoels, @ @ MiOpidura,” elrev" ‘ rel dé paow
"EAXnves oivov Kal adn Gear elvat, TL apm pov, @ Tay, 1) peya, mtNov eupey UM TOU TepippuEevTa Kat TOUTOV aveveyKely ; TavtTa O€ ovK ayvoov 70
id és Eheyev, ara Bovdopevos exxarvyat mpos TOUS TAPLVTas varexivel TI KoupoTnta TOU av-Opwmou Aaddov Kal axpatovs ‘1E/OVOTOS bua TOV oivov. elev ovv pn KaTao Xo ST wets pev, & Tt Bovreode, TlNOUS Aéyere Kat pdvapous’ eyo Oo uuiy dey Sra ppnonv vio TAUTNS aun pijo Cas Kopov THS HELPS. ov yap ws ‘Aprayépons 7 nKOY-Tiga KEvov Kat paTaLov, adda TOD pev 6POarpod 160

ARTAXERXES xiv. 5-xv. 4

take him and rack him on the wheel for ten days, then to gouge out his eyes, and finally to drop molten brass into his ears until he died.

XV. Mithridates also came to a miserable end a little while after, owing to the same folly. For being invited to a banquet at which eunuchs of the king and of the queen-mother were present, he came decked out with raiment and gold which he had received from the king. And when the company were at their cups, the chief eunuch of Parysatis said to him: “Mithridates, how beautiful this raiment is which the king gave thee, and how beautiful the collars and bracelets! Costly, too, is thy scimitar. Verily the king has made thee happy in the admiring eyes of all men.” Then Mithridates, now flushed with wine, replied: ‘“‘Sparamizes, what do these things amount to? Surely my services to the king on that day were worthy of greater and more beautiful gifts.” Here Sparamizes smiled at him and said: “ There’s no grudging them to thee, Mithridates; but since, according to the Greek maxim, there is truth in wine, what great or brilliant exploit was it, my good fellow, to find a horse's trappings that had slipped off, and bring them to the king?”’ In saying this, Sparamizes was not ignor- ant of the truth, but he wished to unveil Mithridates to the company, and therefore slyly stirred up his vanity when wine had made him talkative and robbed him of self-control. Accordingly, Mithridates threw away constraint and said: “ Ye may talk as ye please about horse-trappings and such nonsense ; but 1 declare to you explicitly that Cyrus was slain by this hand of mine; for I did not, like Artagerses, make a futile and an idle cast of spear, but I

161

2

‘ 4 aA be ? \ \ } x , [LK pov HuapTov, TOU O€ KpoTAahou TUYwY Kal OLEAa-b \ / e > 3 i gas KatéBadov Tov avdpa* Kai TéEOvnKEY UT EKel-mm ? ” e \ 2 ” \ ,
you Tov TpavuaTos. ob pey OvY ANAOL TO TEXOS
A \ , Lg aA
8n tod Mi@ptSatov Kal tH Kakodatpoviay opev-] \ wn bYA ¢€ e e wn > a te @) TEs ELS THY hv Exuav Oo O ETTLWY AUTOVS, a 9 ‘ce ; 0 da , ? a , trav, én, “ Mi@ptdata, rivmpev ev T@ TapovTe Kai ¢obiwpev Tov Bactréws Oatspova mpooKuvotvg \ , Aa > e@ fa) >? ” Tes, AOyous Fé pelfovs 7) KAO Nydas Eaowper.
a ? -
XVI. ’Ex tovtov 17 pev Lapvodtids ppater
TOV AOYoV O EvVvodYos, éxeivn 5€ Bactret: Bactrevs
¢ , \
dé nyavaxtnoev waotep éFedeyYouevos Kat TO
? \ e > o wn -
KaNALoTOV Kal NOLaTOY aTo\AVwWY THS viKNS. bd f \ ? e a é iY éBovreto yap BapBapovs amavtas wereiaPat Kat rad ‘ n
"EXAnvas ws év tais éEeXacect kal cvpTdoKais
\ \ \ \ > , \ 9 , 4
Sous Kal AaBwv TWANynVY ETpwON pév AUTOS, Ex-
XV b] a“ b] A ba N id Teive O€ é€xeivov. éxédXevoev ovv Tov MiOpidatny amolavely oxaghevbevra.
To d€ cxagpevOnvat totodrov €att' axddas dvo

U 5) ,
mTeTomnpevas ehapmotery add nAaLs NaBovrTes, eis Thy éTépav KaTAakNivovat Tov KoNalomevor UrtLov' 3 \ / , eiTa T1v eTépay éTauyovTes Kal ovvappotortes, @aTe THY Keharny Kai Tas yelpas éEw Kal TOUS Todas aTrockauBadverbat, TO dé GAO CHpa Trav
> , Q 60 > , wn 3 , wv atroxexpupGat, ddoact €ofiev TO avOpwre, Kav \ , , wn \ 9,

pn Gédyn, TpocBialovtar KevtovvtTes Ta Supata:
/ a gayovts O€ meeiv pédXt Kal yada cuyKexpapévov
; , ’ \ , n
éyYeovoly €l6 TO OTOMA KAL KATA TOU TpoTwToOU
, ? Y \ ;
KATAXEOVTLY. ELTA TPOS TOY HALOV del aTPéov-
3 , \ > A ou evavTia Ta Oupata, Kal pul@v teocKadnpe-162
1019

ARTAXERXES xv. 4—-xv1. 3

narrowly missed his eye, struck him in the temple, pierced it, and brought the man down; and it was of that wound that he died.” The rest of the company, then, who already saw the end of Mithridates and his hapless fate, bowed their faces towards the ground ; and their host said: “ My good Mithridates, let us eat and drink now, revering the good genius of the king, and let us waive discourse that is too weighty for us.”’

XVI. Afterwards the eunuch told the matter to Parysatis, and she to the king; and the king was incensed, as being openly convicted of falsehood, and likely to forfeit the fairest and most pleasing feature of his victory. For he wished that all Barbarians and all Greeks should be fully persuaded that when he and his brother had charged and grappled with each other, he had given and received a blow, being only wounded himself, but killing his brother. He therefore gave orders that Mithridates should be put to death by the torture of the boats.

Now, this torture of the boats is as follows. Two boats are taken, which are so made as to fit over one another closely; in one of these the victim is laid, flat upon his back; then the other is laid over the first and carefully adjusted, so that the victim’s head, hands, and feet are left projecting, while the rest of his body is completely covered up. Then they give him food to eat, and if he refuse it, they force him to take it by pricking his eyes. After he has eaten, they give him a mixture of milk and honey. to drink, pouring it into his mouth, and also deluge his face with it. Then they keep his eyes always turned towards the sun, and a swarm of flies settles down

163

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

vov wrAnbos wav aroKxpuTTETAaL TO TPOTwTOD.
évtos 6€ ToLovyTOS Gaa ToLely avayKatoy ear ésOiovras avOpwrous Kat mivovtas, eval Kat aKk@rnKes vo dOopas Kal onmedovos éx Tod TepiTT@paTos avatéovaly, Up’ @Y avariaxetat TO oa Seadvopevoy els Ta évtTes. OTav yap On pavepos 7 TEOUNKOS) avO pwmos, apatpeecans THS ETAVO oKadns opaat THY fev capKa KaTEONcecpevny, mept 66 TA OTAdYXVA TOLOVT@Y Anpio éspovs éoOiovtwr Kat mpoatepuKotwv. olTwS 0 Mi@pidatns értaxaibexa ipépas POerpomevos ports amrébave.
XVII. Aocros & av 1H Wapucdtiés cxoros o
THY Kehadiy aTroTEe“av Kal THY xetpa Tod Kupou MacaBurns, Bactréws eUvoUXos. ws otv autos ovdeniav kal’ éavTou AaBny mapedsoou, ToLovuTOY émiBourns tpotov 7 Ilaptcatis cuveOnxev. Hv ta Te GAXa Gupocodos yuvyn kal deuvyn KuBeverv: 510 Kab Baciret ™ po TOU Todewou TONaGKIS TUYexuSever pera dé TOV ToAenov dtaruleica pos GUTOV OUK epevye Tas pirogpocvvas, arxra Kal auveraive Kal Tov cpa ricav exowvervet cULT partovaa Kal tapodaa, Kal bras Hux pot ar ov auTov TH Lrareipa peredtdou xpiaGas Kal ouveivat, hiaodad TE UaNLOTA TUaVTwY éxelvynV Kal pérytarov av7?) Bovdopevn duvacbat. AaBoica én OTe TOV “AproképEny @punpLevov ave oyYorgNs ovaons TT pouKanretTo rept Xtdiwv Oa perk ay xuBevoar Kal xuBevovTa Tepretoe viKhoat Kal 70 xpuatov antr-édwKe. mpoorooumern b& avacbas Kal dtrove-164

ARTAXERXES XVi. BoXVIL: 3

upon his face and hides it completely. And since inside the boats he does what must needs be done when men eat and drink, worms and maggots seethe up from the corruption and rottenness of the excrement, devouring his body, and eating their way into his vitals. For when at last the man is clearly dead and the upper boat has been removed, his flesh is seen to have been consumed away, while about his entrails swarms of such animals as I have mentioned are clinging fast and eating. In this way Mithridates was slowly consumed for seventeen days, and at last died.

XVII. And now there was one mark left for the vengeance of Parysatis—the man who had cut off the head and right hand of Cyrus, Masabates, an eunuch of the king. Against this man, then, since he himself gave her no chance to get at him, Parysatis concocted a plot of the following sort. She was in general an ingenious woman, and greatly addicted to playing at dice. For this reason she frequently played at dice with the king before the war, and after the war was over and she had been reconciled with him, she did not try to avoid his friendly over- tures, but actually joined in his diversions, and took part in his amours by her codperation and presence, and, in a word, left very little of the king for Stateira's use and society. For she hated Stateira above all others, and wished to have the chief influence herself. So, one day, finding Artaxerxes trying to amuse himself in a vacant hour, she challenged him to play at dice for a thousand darics, allowed him to win the game, and paid the money down. Then, pretending to be chagrined at her loss and to seek revenje, she challenged the king to play

Kelty éxéXevoev avis ef (px iis EPL evvouxXov 4 SiaxvBevoar KAKEWVOS UMNKOUCE. Tolnadpevot be auvOnkas mévTe pev exadtepov Ume~eAéoOat TOUS TLOTOTUTOUS, EK O€ TOV AOLTOV OV AV O VIK@Y
EdnTal, dovvat Tov HTT @pEvoy, emi TOUTOLS éxv-Bevov. apodpa 67 yevopern TpOS TO mpaypare Kat oTrovducaca Tept THY mardidv, ev O€ TwS auth Kal Tov KUBY TEcOrTOY, ULKnTAaTA AALBa-vet TOV MacaBarny: ov yap Hv év TOUS vmreEnpn-5 pevors. Kat piv €v UTowig yever Oar Bactrea TOU TMpadypatos éyxetpicaca Tots éml TOV TeLo-pLav mpoaétatev éxdeipar CavrTa, Kab TO pev oOiLa mraryiov bia TplL@v TTAVPOV avan7ngar, TO € déppa.
ywpis StaTaTTanevoal. Yevopevony 6€ TOVT@Y Kal Bacthéews Naren Bs pepovTos xa ma pofvvopevou Tpos aurny, e(povevopevn pera YEAWTOS, TKO dus," EpacKey, " él Kal pad pLos, él Xareraivers bua yéporta tovnpov evvodxov, eyo be xertous éK-6 xuBevdeioa Oaperovs olwT® Kal otépyw. Baci-hevs pev oop ep ots ety peTaped opevos NouxXiav NYE, ') dé & LTdTetpa Kal mpos TadXa havepos jvavT.ovTo Kal TOUTOLS édvayéparvev, ws avépas evvouxXous KQl TLE TOUS Bactret d1a Kipov OLAS Kal TAPAvo p05 aTrodAvovans QUTHS.
XVIII. 'Ewei dé KrXéapyov nal tovs Gros 1020 OTPATNYOUS Teaadepyns éEnmatnoe Kal Tapea TOveno ED OpKeaV yevouévwv Kal cvAAABwv avémrenvev év rédats dedemevous, SenOivat pnow avrob TOV Kreapyxor 0 Krycias o7ws KTEVOS EUTOPNIGELE. TUXOVTA bé Kat TH MEAN TAVTA THY Keharny noOhivat te TH ypeia Kal Tov daxTUALOY 166

ARTAXERXES xvir. 3-xvin. 1

a second game, with an eunuch for the stake, and the king consented. They agreed that both might reserve five of their most trusty eunuchs, but that from the rest the loser must give whichever one the winner might select, and on these conditions played their game. Parysatis took the matter much to heart and was in great earnest with her playing, and since the dice also fell in her favour, she won the game, and selected Masabates ; for he was not among those who had been excepted. And before the king suspected her design, she put the eunuch in the hands of the executioners, who were ordered to Hay him alive, to set up his body slantwise on three stakes, and to nail up his skin to a fourth. This was done, and when the king was bitterly incensed at her, she said to him, with a mocking laugh: “ What a blessed simpleton thou art, to be incensed on account of a wretched old eunuch, when 1, who have diced away a thousand darics, accept my loss without a word.” So the king, although sorry that he had been deceived, kept quiet in the matter, but Stateira openly opposed Parysatis in other things, and above all was angry with her because, for the sake of Cyrus, she was cruelly and lawlessly putting to death eunuchs and others who were faithful to the king.

XVIII. Now, when Clearchus and his fellow-generals had been completely deceived by Tissa-phernes,? and, contrary to solemn oaths, had been seized and sent up to the king in chains, Ctesias tells us that he was asked by Clearchus to provide him with a comb. Clearchus got the comb and dressed his hair, and being pleased at the service

1 Cf. Xenophon, Azad. ii. 5.

avT@ dovvat cup Borov prrias 7 pos TOUS €v Aaxedaipori _ouyyeveis Kat olKetous” elvat dé yrudiy év TH opparyioe Kapvartiéas o opxoupevas.
7a S€ meumoueva oltia, To KrXedpyo TOUS ouUpdedeevous aTpaTLwTas adaipetabar Kab KaTavantoxety, ordtya THO Kredpye@ dsd0vtas aT avTav.
idcacOat 6é Kal tovto dyow o Krnolas, mretova TO Kr«eapx@ meres Oat Siar pakapevos, toa be éTepa Tois TTPATLOT ALS did0c0 at: Kal TavTa “pe Umoupynaat Kat Tapas xeiv VaptTe Kat Youn TAS Tapuaatioos. TE {LTO "EVV é€ Kad nuépav TO Kredpy@ KWAHVOS esl Tots oLTloLs, mraparaneiv avuToV Kal Oud Ket @S YP) [LK pov ELS TO Kpeas éuParovta paxatpiov amoxpuyavta mena Kat yen mepridety év TH Bactréos @LOTHTL 70 TéXOS avToU yevomevov’ autos bé poPovpevos un eGerioat. Baoirea 6€ TH bev pentpe TaparToupery un KTEtvAL TOV KAdapyor opmoroyijaat Kal omogat:
mea evTa dé avOis vo THs Lrateipas amoxteivat rartas TAnY Mévwvos. éx d€ TovTOU THY Tapvcat éemBoureda ar TH Lrateipa Kal ovoKeud-cacbat Ty dappaxetav KaT auras, OUK elKoTa Neyov. GAARA TOAATY droyiay éxovta THS aitias, et Oeivov Epyov oUTwS edpacge Kal TapEexiWOUvEevaEY
n Ilapvaoatis da KXEéapyor, averetvy ToApnoaca THY ynotay Bactrtéws yuvaixa cal Téxvwv Kolvw-pov é7b Bactretg Tpepomevwov. AAA TATA pey ouK adndov ws ETLTPAyMoElTaL TH Kredpxou pyre. Kat yep avaipeGevtov pyat TOV o7Tpa-THYOr TOUS wey GrOUS UTS KUVaY OTAapdTrecOal 1638

rendered, gave Ctesias his ring as a token of friend- ship which he might show to his kindred and friends in Sparta; and the device in the seal was a group of dancing Caryatides. Moreover, as Ctesias says, the provisions sent to Clearchus were seized by the soldiers in captivity with him, who consumed them freely and gave only a small part of them to Cle- archus. This hardship also Ctesias says he rernedied, by getting more provisions sent to Clearchus, and a separate supply given to the soldiers; and these services he says he rendered and performed to please Parysatis, and at her suggestion. He says further that a flitch of bacon was sent to Clearchus every day to supplement his rations, and that Clearchus earnestly advised him that he ought to bury a small knife in the meat and send it to him thus hidden away, and not allow his fate to be determined by the cruelty of the king; but he was afraid, and would not consent to do this. The king, Ctesias says, at the solicitation of his mother, agreed and swore not to kill Clearehus; but he was won back again by Stateira, and put all the generals to death except Menon. It was because of this, Ctesias says, that Parysatis plotted against the life of Stateira and prepared the poison for her. But it is an unlikely story, and one that gives an absurd motive for her course, to say that Parysatis thus risked and wrought a dreadful deed because of Clearchus, and dared to kill the king's lawful wife, who was the mother by him of ehildren reared for the throne. Nay, it is quite evident that he add< this sensational detail out of regard for the memory of Clearchus. For he says that after the generals had been put to death, the rest of them were torn by dogs and birds, but that

Kal opvewy, T@ O€ Kreapxov vexp@ Ovedrav a ave-pou Yhs Siva TONY pépovear emLY@oAL Kal emuxpuyat TO copa howikwry o€ Tivwy dStacTra-pévtav ordiyo Xpove Javpacrov aXoos avapivat Kal KaTaCKiagat TOV TOTOV, WaTE Kal Bactret cpodpa peTapedery, as avdpa Geois iro ay NpnKore TOV Kréapxov.
XIX. 'H & ody Hapvcarcs, jug ous TE TPOS THY LTaTetpay ef apxijs UToKetpmévou Kal noTUTIas, opaca THY pev auras Suvapuv aidoupevov Bacthews
Kab TLL@VTOS ovoar, THY Oo EKELVNS EPWTE Kab TioTEl BeBacov Kal toxupay, éemeBovrevoev UTED TOY peyia Tor, os ETO, TmTapaBar \opevn. Jeparrawway ele TLOTIHY eal duvapevny Tap avr peyeaTov dvopa Tiyen, Hw o pev Aeivov Umoupynaat TH dappaxeta prot, ouyyvavar dé fovoy aKovaay oO Kryatas. tov d€ davta To dappaxov ovtos pev ovonater BeXttapav, o dé Acivwy Merdavtav. éx 5é THs wWpodbev UToWias Kal dtahopas apEduevar waXtv els TO avTo morta Kal OUVOELTVELD addy-ats, UWS TO Gedtéva Kab puratrecbar Tos avrots GLTLOLS Kat aTO TOV avToV eXPOvTO.
yiveta de pik pov ev Heépaacs opviOtov, @ TrEpLT-TWMATOS OVOEV ETTLV, AAX OAXOV SLtaTTAEOV ipedns Ta €vTOS' Kat vouifovaty avéuw Kal Spocw Tpédeobat TO C@ov- ovopaFeTar 6€ puVvTaKys. TOUTO Ona oO Kraotas pK pa paxarpios K KEX PLO LEVY TH
happakw kata Oatepa TI Ilapvoatuv Siatpodoay expaktat TO éETEp@ pwéper TO Pappakov' Kal TO pev aypavtov Kai kaOapov eis To ordpa Barovaav

in the case of Clearchus, a blast of wind carried a great mass of earth and heaped it in a mound which covered his body; upon this some dates fell here and there, and in a short time a wonderful grove of trees sprang up and overshadowed the place, so that even the king was sorely repentant, believing that in Clearchus he had killed a man whom the gods loved.

XIX. Parysatis, accordingly, who from the outset had a lurking hatred and jealousy of Stateira, saw that her own influence with the king was based on feelings of respect and honour, while that of Stateira was grounded fast and strong in love and confidence ; she therefore plotted against her life and played for what she thought the highest stake. She had a trusted maidservant named Gigis, who had most influence with her and assisted her in preparing the poison, according to Deinon, although Ctesias says she was merely privy to the deed, and that against her will. The poison was actually given by a man named Jelitaras, according to Ctesias; Deinon gives his name as Melantas. After a period of dis- sension and suspicion, the two women? had begun again to meet and eat with one another, although their mutual fear and caution led them to partake of the same dishes served by the same hands. Now, there is a little Persian bird which has no excrement, but is all full of fat inside; and the creature is thought to live upon air and dew; the name of it is “rhyntaces.” It was a bird of this species, according to Ctesias, that Parysatis cut in two with a little knife smeared with poison on one side, thus wiping the poison off upon one part only of the bird; the undefiled and wholesome part she then put into her

1 t.¢e, Parysatis and Stateira.

avTny ea Ove, dovvat be 7H n RTarteipa TO mepappary-pevov: o b€ Acivey ov TY Napicarwy, ara Tov Medavtay TEMVOVTA TH paxaipicp Ta dappac-TOmeva TOV Kpe@y reBevat Kara TY Lrdtewpay. amoung Kovea S ouv a YUVI) LETH TOVOV heryahov xa oTapay ua avr) TE ovvna Odvero TOU KaKov cal Bacihet wapéoyey UTroiay Kata THS wNTPOS, eldoTe TO Onpemdes avTHs Kal buapetrAcKTov. Gbev evdus eri thy EjTyow opprnaas Tovs pev Uanpétas Kat tpamreloxopous THS pntpos auvédaSe Kai KatecTpeprwoe, THY 6€ Tiyer 4 Tlapvoatis toduv ypovev etyey oixot pel’ atths Kat Baciréws éEaitovyTos ovK éd@Kev, GAN UVaTEpov avTis SenGeians ets Tov olxov apeOnvat vuKtos, ataGopevos Kal AOxov Udels cTuYIpTase Kal KaTéeyvH Gavatov. anmoOvncxovat €é€ of pappaxeis év Hépoas KATA VOLOV OUTWS: iBos éorl TATUS, ep ov THY cepaniy karadevres auT OY ETEDW iden

Talouat Kal melourw, ax pt ov ovrOrdowse TO 7 porwr ov Kal THY Keharny. 1 pev ovv Vines avtTws anébare, THY dé Hapicati) “AproképEns arro yey ovdev ovUTE Ele KAKOY OTE emoinaer, ets 6€ BaBvaAdva Bovropevny ébéveurev citar, Ews éxeivn mepieavivy autos ove deabar BaBu-Ova. TA VEY KATA THY OlKiaV OUTwS ElyeED.
NX. 'Evet 6€ tovs Kipw cvvava8avtas “E)-
Ayvas oTovéacas AaPeiv o Bacirevs ovdev HrTov » Kupou mepiyevécOat xal tiv BactXeiav Kata-aye ovx éEXaBer, adkrAa Kipov tov ayewova xai TOUS avT@Y aTpaTnyous aTroBarcvTes éF avTav povorovyi Tav Baagwrelwv éeawmdnaar, éFeréyEavres 12

own mouth and ate, but gave to Stateira the poisoned part. Deinon, however, says it was not Parysatis, but Melantas who cut the bird with the knife and placed the flesh that was poisoned before Stateira. Be that as it may, the woman died, in convulsions and great suffering, and she comprehended the evil that had befallen her, and brought the king to suspect his mother, whose fierce and implacable nature he knew. The king, therefore, at once set out upon the inquest, arrested the servants and table-attendants of his mother, and put them on the rack. Gigis, however, Parysatis kept for a long time at home with her, and would not give her up at the king’s demand. But after a while Gigis herself begged to be dismissed to her own home by night. The king learned of this, set an ambush for her, seized her, and condemned her to death. Now, the legal mode of death for poisoners in Persia is as follows. There is a broad stone, and on this the head of the culprit is placed ; and then with another stone they smite and pound until they crush the face and head to pulp. It was in this manner, then, that Gigis died; but Parysatis was not further rebuked or harmed by Artaxerxes, except that he sent her off to Babylon, in accordance with her wish, saying that as long as she lived he himself would not see Babylon. Such was the state of the king’s domestic affairs.

XX. Now, the king was no less eager to capture the Greeks who had come up with Cyrus than he had been to conquer Cyrus and preserve his throne. Nevertheless, he could not capture them, but though they had lost Cyrus their leader and their own com- manders, they rescued themselves from his very palace, as one might say, thus proving clearly to the Kab amropyvavtes Ta llepowy xa Bacthéws mpary-para xXpvoor 6vTa TroNUY Kal Tpupny Kal yu-vaixas, Ta 0€ AAA TUdOY Kal aralovetay, Tasca pev 7) EAXaS efeDappyce Kal kateppovnce Tay BapBapov, Aaxebdatpovios 5é Kat Getvov epaiveto BN vov ae Souretas éEeXécOar tovs thv ’Aciav xatotxovvtTas “KAAnvas wndé Tavaoat TpoTynAakt-Couévous uT avT@v. mpotepov oe da BipBpwvos, elTa, dia AepxvaAdibdou TONELOUVTES, oudey Oé€

T paTTOVTES akioXoyon, ‘Ayyoihag TO Racine TOV T ONE MOV emeTpeyray. o 6é rreparobeis vavoly eis “Actay evOvs hy évepyos xal do€av elxe peya-Anu Kal Ticapépynv TapaTakduevos eviKNG Kai Tas TONES adiotn. TovtTwy dé yevouévwy cupLhpovnacas o ‘AptoképEns by tpomov avtois éott moAreuntéov, repre Tipoxpatny tov “Podzov eis \ Ao / U \ ld f
anv “EAAdéa xYpuctoy woAv Kopifovta, dedovat kal dtapOeipery tovs mAElaTov év Tats TodAEcL Suvapévous KedXeVcas, Kal ToAEwov “EAXnveKov
ively emt THY NaKkedaipova. tov dé Tioxparous TavTa mpatrovtos Kal TOV peyloTwY ToEwD ovutctapevey Kal tis HeXorovyicou dtatapat-TOMES, wETETELTOVTO TOV ” Aynoidaov ex THs ‘Agias ol apXovres. OTE én Kai pac avTov aTLOVTAa TPOS TOUS pirous ELTFELY ws Tpeapupiors toEorars éFeXavvolto TIS "Actas ume Bacthéws: 70 yap Ilepatxov vopiopa rtokotny émrionpoy elven.
AAI. "EEeSare 6€ cat tis Oadatrns Aaxe-darpoviovs Kevwrt t@ “AOnvaim peta Papva-Bafov atpatny® ypynoduevos. o yap Kovey 174

ARTANER MES XX I=XXI. 1

world that the empire of the Persians and their king abounded in gold and luxury and women, but in all else was an empty vaunt. Therefore all Greece took heart and despised the Barbarians, and the Lacedaemonians in particular thought it strange if now at least they could not rescue the Greeks that dwelt in Asia from servitude, and put a stop to their outrage- ous treatment at the hands of the Persians. The war they waged was at first conducted by Thimbron, and then by Dercyllidas, but since they accomplished nothing worthy of note, they at last put the conduct of the war in the hands of their king, Agesilaiis. He crossed over to Asia with a fleet, went to work at once, won great fame, defeated Tissaphernes in a pitched battle, and set the Greek cities in revolt. This being the case, Artaxerxes considered how he must carry on the war with Agesilaiis, and sent Timocreon the Rhodian into Greece with a great sum of money, bidding him use it for the corruption of the most influential men in the cities there, and for stirring up the Greeks to make war upon Sparta. Timocrates did as he was bidden, the most important cities conspired together against Sparta, Peloponnesus was in a turmoil, and the Spartan magistrates sum- moned Agesilaiis home from Asia. It was at this time, as we are told, and as he was going home, that Agesilaiis said to his friends; “The king has driven me out of Asia with thirty thousand archers’’; for the Persian coin has the figure of an archer stamped upon it.!

XXI. The king also expelled the Lacedaemonians from the sea, employing Conon the Athenian as his commander along with Pharnabazus. For Conon over pte pev ev Kumpe ETA THY ev Alyos ToTa- jeois vaupayiay, ou Thv aoddretav ayaTay, aNNG THY TOV T parywaToy petaBoryy, WOTTEP ev Te Mayet TpoTny, TEPLLEvOV, op@v 6é Kal TOUS éautov oyitopous duvayews Kal Thy BacirEws Suvapw avdpos Euppovos Ceopevny, EmTeu rev érrt- oToAnv Bacirel epi wy Stevoeito. Kat TavTny éxedevoe tov Kouilovta pidoTa pev aTrotovvat bua ZLnvevos TOU Kpnros 7 u] oAvxpitou TOU Mev- Salou: TovTwy o 7 O pev Zrvoov OPXNTT NS, 0 dé [orvxpitos iatpos div 6€ ovToL my TAP@dt, bed Krnotov tov ‘arpod. évyeTas O€ O Kryoias TV émistoAny AaSwv mapeyypayrar TOLS UTrO tov Kovwvos ered TAN MEVvOLS Straws Kal Kryctav aTOGTELAN TPOS AUTOV, WS @PEALLOV OVTA Tats émt Dardoon tpdkcoww. o 6€ Ktycias avrov ag’ éavtov Bacthéa dynot tpocbetvat tv AEcToUp- ee au TH) aes "AXN’ érret Kparijaas Th wept Kyidov vaupa \la bua Papvafagov eal Kovwrvos adetrero THY «a> ta Oadarrap apxiyv Aaxedatpoviors, éméstpewe Tacay omop thy ‘Kh ANaba Tpos autor, wate Kal Thy meptBontov etpnuny Bpasedaat Tots "EdAnae thy et’ ‘Avtadkidov mpocayopevopevnv. o 6 "Avtarxidas Xaaptidtys Hy, A€ovtos vids, Kal aTousadas Bactret Over pataro Tas eV ‘Acta wrodets ‘EdA das andcas Kat vyacous, bdcat mpoo Kupobaww ‘Acta, Tapeivat AaxeSatpovious auT@ Kextia0ar dopwv UTOTENELS, eipyiyns ryevo- wévns Tous "EdAnow, et deo thy THs “EAXdéos UBpiv Kai mpodociay elpynyny Karel, hs TOAELOS oudels dkAXEegTEpOY ivEeyKE TENOS TOls KpaTnOetat.

1 Cf. the Agesilaiis, xv. 6.

176

passed the time at Cyprus, after the sea-fight at Aegospotami,! not satisfied with mere safety, but awaiting a reversal in the course of affairs,as he would a change of wind at sea. And seeing that his own plans needed a military force, and the king's force needed a sagacious leader, he wrote a letter to the king explaining his purposes. This letter he ordered the bearer, if possible, to give the king by the hand of Zeno the Cretan or Polycritus the Mendaean (Zeno was a teacher of dancing, and Polycritus was a physician); but if these were not at court, by the hand of Ctesias the physician. And it is said that Ctesias, on receiving the letter, added to the sug- gestions which Conon made to the king a request to send Ctesias also to him, as likely to be of service in matters on the sea-coast. Ctesias, however, says that the king of his own accord conferred upon him this new duty.

But after Artaxerxes, by the sea-fight which Pharnabazus and Conon won for him off Cnidus, had stripped the Lacedaemonians of their power on the sea, he brought the whole of Greece into dependence upon him, so that he dictated to the Greeks the celebrated peace called the Peace of Antalcidas." Now Antalcidas was a Spartan, son of Leon, and acting in the interests of the king he induced the Lacedaemonians to surrender to the king all the Greek cities of Asia, and all the islands adjacent to Asia, to possess them on payment of tribute; and peace was thus established among the Grecks, if the mockery and betrayal of Greece can be called peace, a peace than which no war ever brought a more in- glorious consummation to the defeated.

1405B.c. Cf. the Alcibiades xxxvii. 2.
* In 387 B.o. Cf. the Ayesilais, xxiii. 1 ff.
177

PLUTARCH Sar ES

XXII. Aro cai tods adXovs Saraptidtas ae / ee) 4 \ , ¢
BseruTTOMEvOs oO Aprogepins, Kat voutlwv, ws pnee Aciveon, avo pwmav aT avTov avatoedTaTous elvat, Tov At TarkiOay U vrepnyarnoey ets ILépoas avaBavrTa. Kat OTE AaBov éva Tav avOw.weov aTepavev Kab Barpas ELS pupov TO ToduTEN EO TA-TOV, and dettvov emepue 7® 'Avtarxida Kai mivres Oarvpacay thy diroppoatynv. iy 8, &s EOLKED, EMLTNOELOS OUTOS evTpupndivar Kal TOLOv-Tov ha Betv orepavor, efopXnodpevos ey Hepoass Tov Aewvidav Kat Tov Kaddxpatioar. O mev yap
'Aynataos, as EouKe, TWPOS TOV el TOVTO,, "Dev THs 'KAXdOos, Grou pwndtfovawy auiv of Aaxwves,
a a >
"Ov uaddov," ettrev, "ot Majdot Aaxwvifover ;"

Tov O€ pHuaTos 1 KouYoTNS THY TOD TpaywaTos aicyuvny ouK adeirev, GXXA THY bev HyEe“oViaLY aTmadecay éy A€UKTpOLS AYWVLTAMLEVOL KAKOS, 1) dé d0fa This Lmaptns TWpoaT@deTO TaAis Opmodoylats éxetvats.
wv \ \ 9 > f e SS ig , Aype péev ovv empwrevey 1) Xaraptn, Eevov 9 fa \ z >) , @ lal N b) la ETOLELTO Kat PiNov wyopaleyv EavTOv Toy AvVTAAKLdav: evel O€ HTTHONnoaY év AéevKTpoIs, TaTELWa Mpattovtes edéovTo ev Xpnuatov Kal Tov ’Ayn-7 ’ a ges ¢ \ 9 , othaov eis AiyuTrov e€ereurwav,o b€ ‘Avtankidas avéBn mpos tov ‘AptoképEny mapaxadrav
4 eTapKécat Tots Aaxedatpoviows. 0 & ovtws é&n-

HéAnoe Kal Tapetoe Kal cre ppimpev auTov, wore KatapavTa Kal Xrevalouevov UTd Tay éxOpar, poBovmevoy oé Kat TOUS epopous, aToKaprepia ar.
"Ave 6€ mpos tov Bacthéa cal “Iopnvias 6

178

ARTAXERXES xxu. 1-4

XXII. For this reason Artaxerxes, although he always held other Spartans in abomination, and considered them, as Deinon tells us, the most shameless of all mankind, showed great affection for Antalcidas when he came up to Persia. On one occasion he actually took a wreath of flowers, dipped it in the most costly ointment, and sent it to Antalcidas after supper; and all men wondered at the kindness.? But Antalcidas was a fit person, as it would seem, to be exquisitely treated and to receive such a wreath, now that he had danced away among the Persians the fair fame of Leonidas and Callicratidas. For Agesilaiis, as it would appear, when someone said to him: “ Alas for Greece, now that the Spartans are medizing,” replied, “Are not the Medes the rather spartanizing?"” However, the wittiness of the speech could not remove the shame of the deed, and the Spartans lost their supremacy in the disastrous battle of Leuctra,? though the glory of Sparta had been lost before that by this treaty.

So long, then, as Sparta kept the first place in Greece, Artaxerxes treated Antalcidas as his guest and called him his friend; but after the Spartans had been defeated at Leuctra, they fell so low as to beg for money, and sent Agesilaiis to Egypt, while Antalcidas went up to Artaxerxes to ask him to supply the wants of the Lacedaemonians. The king, however, so neglected and slighted and rejected him that, when he came back home, being railed at by his enemies, and being in fear of the ephors, he starved himself to death.

Ismenias the Theban also, and Pelopidas, who had

1 Cf. the Pelopidas, xxx. 4.
2 In 371 B.c. Cf. the Agesilaiis, xxviii. 5.

@)Baios Kal Lledomtdas non Thy év Aevuxtpols waxy VEVLKN KOS. AX OUTOS pev ovdev aio x pov emoinaey: Topnvias O€ TpoaKuyija ae KENEVOMEVOS eFeBare ™po auTOU Napace Tov OaxTUNLOY, €iTa KuWas avEtLheTO KAL Taped Xe d0fav mpoaKuvovr-
TOS. Tiparyopa 6é 70 "AOnvaiw bia Brdovps6os TOU YPaLMaTéews elomówpavte ypappatiozoy & aTrop-pyntov naGeis puptovs te Oapetkous Edwxe, Kal yaraKktos Boetou deopévwm bt aabéverav dy6o7-KOVTa Bois apenyer Oar mapnKorovdouv: ere d€ cdivyy Kal oTpOpata Kal TOUS TT pwVYUYTAaS ET EfLwev, ws od peuabynxotwry "EXdAnvwY vTooTper-vuvat, Kal hopets tous KopiCovTas avTov péypt Paducons padaKkes Eyovta. Tapovte dé Seimvoy émèuteto AauTpOTAaTOY, wWaTE Kal TOV abeXpov tov Baciréws, Ootavny, "O, Tipayopa," pavat,
" weuvnoo TauTns THS TpaTrétns: ov yap érl pt-Kpots oUTW ToL KEKOG PN LEVN) mapanertar." TOUTO
o yy OVELOLT [LOS ELS Tpodoa lay Haddov 2 yapiTos UTOpYHOLS. Tiparyopov yey ovv ota THY Swpodo-KlaV 'AOnvator Gavatov KATE YVOT AY.
XXIIT. 'O dé 'AproképEns ev avtl ravtwr ov éXumer Tovs "EAAnvas evhpawve, Trcadépyny tov éyOtarov avrots Kal dua pevea Tatov aTOKTEiVaS.
aT EKTELVE O€ TALS diaBonrais abrou THS ITapuoa-TLOOS cuveTt Demers. ov yep eve mete TN opyhi
TONUY Xpovov 0 Bactreus, ana Supra TH
MNTpl KAL pweTEeTTELWaTO, voUY Mev OpaY ExoUcaY

' Ci. the Pelopidas, xxx. 1-3.
* Cf. the Pelopidas, xxx. 6 f.
* Cf. the Agesilaiis, x. 3 f.

just been victorious in the battle of Leuctra, went up to the king.! Pelopidas did nothing to disgrace himself; but Ismnmenias, when ordered to make the obeisance to the king, threw his ring down on the ground in front of him, and then stooped and picked it up, thus giving men to think that he was making the obeisance. With Timagoras the Athenian, how- ever, who sent to him by his secretary, Beluris, a secret message in writing, the king was so pleased that he gave him ten thousand darics, and cighty inilch cows to follow in his train because he was sick and required cow's milk; and besides, he sent him a couch, with bedding for it, and servants to make the bed (on the ground that the Greeks had not learned the art of making beds), and bearers to carry him down to the sea-coast, enfeebled as he was. More- over, during his presence at court, he used to send him a most splendid supper, so that Ostanes, the brother of the king, said: "Timagoras, remember this table; it is no slight return which thou must make for such an array.'' Now this was a reproach for his treachery rather than a reminder of the king's favour. At any rate, for his venality, Timagoras was condemned to death by the Athenians.?

XXIII. But there was one thing by which Artaxerxes gladdened the hearts of the Greeks, in return for all the evils which he wrought them, and that was his putting Tissaphernes to death, their most hated and malicious enemy.? And he put him to death in consequence of accusations against him which were seconded by Parysatis. For the king did not long persist in his wrath against his mother, but was reconciled with her and summoned her to court, since he saw that she had intellect and a lofty

Kai ppovnua Bactreas afvov, aitias b€ poe Las ovans euToowy ere St iy vrowovtat TUVOVTES adrmoes n AUTH OVELW. éx 6€ TOUTOU TAVTO T pos Xap uToupyovca Bacirel, Kat TO POS
pn dev ov éxeivos Em parTe duo Kodaivew éxouoa To dvvacba map auT@® Kal TuyXavew AT AVTWY, no Gero THIS eTepas TOV Ouyatépoy, "Arocons, €p@VvTOS epwra Servov, eT LK PUTTOMEVOV dé bu' éxetyy oux Kota, Kal KOraLOVTOS TO Taos, OS hac évtol, KaiToL yeryevn ev ns 89 7 pos THY map évov operas auto Aadpaias. OS obv UT w-TTEVTED 7] Mapvcares, THY maida, pearrov i} 7 po-Tepov naomwakeTo, Kal Tpos Tov Apto&epEnv émrnve
TO TE KAXAOS aAUTHS Kai TO O05, ws BacirtKHs Kat peyarompeTods. TéAOS ODY YHuaL THY KOpNY emerge Kal yvnotiay amroceiEal yuraixa, Yatpev edgavta bo€as "EXXnvev nat vopous, Tépcais de VOMOV AUTOV UTO TOU Geod Kal OiKaALwWTIY alcYX pov KaL KAX@Y aTrobederypévov. EvLOL EVTOL NEYOU-ai, ov eatt Kat Hpakretdns o Kupaios, ov piav {LOVOY THY Ouyatepwy, ara Kal Sevtépay, "Aun-

TT pW, ya tov *AptoképEnv, mEpi As odtyov taTepov aTrayyeNouper. THY 6 “Atocgay ovTws NYATNTEV O maT np cuvorxobaay WOTE arpov KaTave pn evtos auri}s TO o@fLa dug xepavar pev emt TOUT® pnd OTLOvY, EUXOMELOS dé mept auras TH
”Hpa 7 pooKuLIjG al povny Dewy é exeivny, Tats Nepal
THS ys aYpapevos, d@pa te TH Oem TocavTa
T EurNrat TOUS caTpaTas Kat pirous avTou KENEV-TAVTOS WaTE Ta peTAaEV TOU tepov Kal TOY Baor-NEel@v excaidera oTadla Ypvaod Kal apyvpov Kat mophupas Kal inwav éuminoOnvat.
182

spirit worthy of a queen, and since there was no longer any ground for their suspecting and injuring one another if they were together. After this she consulted the king’s pleasure in ail things, and by approving of everything that he did, acquired influence with him and achieved all her ends. She perceived that the king was desperately in love with one of his two daughters, Atossa, and that, chiefly on his mother’s account, he was trying to conceal and restrain his passion, although some say that he had already had secret intercourse with the girl. When, accordingly, Parysatis became suspicious of the matter, she showed the girl more affection than before, and would speak to Artaxerxes in praise of her beauty and her disposition, saying that she was truly royal and magnificent. At last, then, she per- suaded the king to marry the girl and proclaim her his lawful wife, ignoring the opinions and laws of the Greeks, and regarding himself as appointed by Heaven to be a law unto the Persians and an arbitrator of good and evil. Some, however, say, and among them is Heracleides of Cymé, that Artaxerxes married, not one of his daughters only, but also a second, Amestris, of whom we shall speak a little later.! Atossa, however, was so beloved by her father as his consort, that when her body was covered with leprosy he was not offended at this in the least, but offered prayers to Hera in her behalf, making his obeisance and clutching the earth before this goddess as he did before no other; while his satraps and friends, at his command, sent the goddess so many gifts that the sixteen furlongs between her sanctuary and the royal palace were filled with gold and silver and purple and horses. A Chap, xx Vil. 4;

rn

183

to

RECT Ys ITO ewov b€ mpos pev Aiyum tious dta
PapvaBalov Kat ‘Ipixpatous EFEVEVKOV ul UTEETUXE, TTATaAcavT@y EXELYMV* ETL OE Katovaious auros eo TpaTevoe TplaKovTa pupiace metav Kal puptots imTEvoLD. euBarav dé eis Xeopav TpaXvTNTE Narenny Kat opixrAwon kal TOV amo oT opou

KapT@v dyovor, amos 6€ Kal pnrOLS Kal ToLOU-Tols addots dx podovous Tpepovoay avOpwrous TONE [LK OUS Kat Ovycerdets, éhade peyanars aT oplats Kal Kurdvvois TepiTec@v. ovdéev yap ébwbepov mv Aap Saver ovode ef abev eTercoayea Oat, Ta Ge urotuyta jLovov KATEKOT TOD, Morte Ovov xepa-AnV poms dpay Lev éEncovta @vltov eat. TO be€ Baowrtxov Seitrvov éeFereihOn: xal tev tarwv
OdXLYOL Teplnaav ETL, Tous b€ arrous éaOiorTEs KATAVNAWKES AY.
'Evtavda Tnpi8afos, avnp rodXaKis pev ev aTpwtn bt avdpayabiay Tak&et yevopevos, TOAAAKIS
d€ aroppipets 61a KoupoTnTa Kal TOTE TaTeLva
T par TTY Kal TEPLOPWHEVOS, ETWOE Bacirea Kat Tov oTpaTov. ovT@ yap dvety ev tois KaéovucLots Baorréwr, ExaTépov é€ Xepis oT patome-SevovTos, évtuyav ta 'AptoképEn Kat ppacas mepl ov dlevoetTO TpaTTELY, eBadeber AUTOS TT POs TOV éTepov Ta Kadovctwy, Kai TPOs Tov eT Epov
Kpipa TOV vioV ETE {LTED. eEnmata 6é Ex aT EpoV
EXATEPOS, NEYO ws ATEPOS emum peo BeveTar T pos
Tov ‘AprokepEny tay Hove T pat Tov EauT@ Kat Tuppaxiay: ovKovr, 6b coppovel, Xpivar 7 poTEpov evTuy YavEly Exelv@, AUTO Fe oupmpacery a aT avrTa.
rovro.s ere Onoav apdhotepot, cat hOavew adr1-184

ARTAXERXES xxiv. 1-4

XXIV. In the war which Pharnabazus and Iphicrates conducted for him against Egypt he was unsuccessful, owing to the dissensions of these commanders; against the Cadusians, therefore, he made an expedition in person, with three hundred thousand footmen and ten thousand horse. But the country which he penetrated was rough and hard to traverse, abounded in mists, and produced no grains, although its pears and apples and other such tree-fruits supported a warlike and courageous population.
Unawares, therefore, he became involved in great distress and peril. For no food was to be got in the country or imported from outside, and they could only butcher their beasts of burden, so that an ass’s head was scarcely to be bought for sixty drachmas.

Moreover, the royal banquets were abandoned ; and of their horses only a few were left, the rest having been consumed for food.
Here it was that Teribazus, a man whose bravery often set him in a leading place, but whose levity as often cast him down, so that at this time he was in disgrace and overlooked, saved the king and his army. For the Cadusians had two kings, and each of them encamped separately. So Teribazus, after an interview with Artaxerxes in which he told him what he purposed to do, went himself to one of the Cadusian kings, and sent his son secretly to the other. Each envoy, then, deceived his man, telling him that the other king was sending an embassy to Artaxerxes to secure friendship and alliance for him- self alone: he should, therefore, if he were wise, have an interview with Artaxerxes before the other did, and he himself wou!d help him all he could. Both kings were persuaded by this argument, and

Nous vopifovtes 0 pev TO TyptSiaSo ovvéreue mpéa Bes, 0 6€ TH Madi TOU TypiBafov. Ssiatpt-Bis oe yevopevns vrowiat Kal d:aBoral KaTa TOD TnptBafov Te 'A progépEn TpooemiT Tov" AUTOS dé Svodipas ele Kal joerev det TloTEevoas TO Typ Bato, Kal TOUS povovow eyeanely Ta peter.
5 ere dé KEV 0 Tnpi8abos, 9) ne 6é Kat 6 vios autod 1024
TOUS Kaédovaious dyovres, eyévovTo 6¢ oToveal mpos auhotépous Kal eiprvyn, péyas av o Tnpi-Balos 75) Kat Napmpos avelevyyve peta TOU
Bactréws, éridecxvupévov Tacay Thy Seidiav Kal THY paraxiay ob Tpvdis Kal ToduTEAELAS, BOTEP oi ToNAol vouitovaw, exyovov ovcar, arra poxOn-pas ducews Kal aryevvous Kat d0Fats movnpats
b ETOMEVTS. oUTEe yap Ypuaos oUTE KavduS OTE O TOV puplov Kal dra xthiov TANAVT WY TEPLKELWEVOS
ael TO Bactréws THOMATL KOT 10s ex etvov aTreKw-Ave Tovety Kal Tahartwpeiy, oonep ol TUXOVTES, anna THY Té papétpav ev npufLevos Kal TH TENTIY
pépwy avtos éBadile wpw@tos odovs opetvas Kal Tpoodvres, amwokuma@y Tov immov, waTe TOUS ddXous mrepovabat Kal _ouverixoupiver bar Tap EKELVOU mpoOupiay Kal pwounv opa@vTas: Kal yap Stakoctoy Kat TAELOVWY OTACLWY KATIVUEV HUEpAas EXaoTNIS Topelav.
AXV. "Eve 6€ eis ctab pov xatéB8n BactrrKov mapacetaous éEXovTa Gavpactous Kal KeKOo [LN Levous diampeTT@s ev TH mepLE adévope Kal Pre

Xopio, KPUOUS dyros, emérpepe TOUS TT PATLOT ALS ex
Tov mapaceiaou EvAilec Gar Ta Sévdpa KoWToVTas,
2 MITE TeUKNS NTE KUTapiTToU helopévous. OK-

each thinking that he was anticipating the other, one sent his envoys along with Teribazus, and the other with the son of Teribazus. But matters were delayed, and suspicions and calumnies against Teribazus came to the ears of Artaxerxes ; he himself also was ill at ease, and repented him of having put confidence in Teribazus, and gave occasion to his rivals to malign him. But at last Teribazus came, and his son came too, both bringing their Cadusian envoys, and a peace was ratified with both kings ; whereupon Teribazus, now a great and splendid personage, set out for home with the king. And the king now made it plain that cowardice and effeminacy are not always due to luxury and extravagance, as most people suppose, but to a base and ignoble nature under the sway of evil doctrines. For neither gold nor robe of state nor the twelve thousand talents' worth of adornment which always enveloped the person of the king prevented him from undergoing toils and hardships like an ordinary soldier; nay, with his quiver girt upon him and his shield on his arm he marched in person at the head of his troops, over precipitous mountain roads, abandoning his horse, so that the rest of the army had wings given them and felt their burdens lightened when they saw his ardour and vigour; for he made daily marches of two hundred furlongs and more.

XXV. At length he came down toa royal halting- place which had admirable parks in elaborate cultiva- _ tion, although the region round about was bare and treeless; and since it was cold, he gave permission to his soldiers to cut the trees of the park for wood, sparing neither pine nor cypress. And when they

ig \ \ ’ f N \ id \ \ VOUVVT@DV O€ Kal PEeLdopevwY OLA TA KAA Kal TA
, \ ¢ =
weyéOn, NaBav TéXEKUY AUTOS OTEP Hv péyLa TOV
\ , na “ ” ? \ f
Kal KaddLoTov THY huTa@V éxofrev, éx 5€ TOVTOU
/ \ \ “ a EvriCopevot Kai TOAAA TrUpa TroLObVTES EVLApPaS bf / 2. :) > \ \ \ 3 \ EVUKTEPEVTaY. ov NV adda TOAXOUS Kai ayaGous
’ \ wv sy \ ¢ “ 4 aToBarwv avopas, immous b€ Ou“od TL TavTas
“a , A eavnrde. Kat do€as xatadpovetobar Sta tHv aTvylavy Kat THhv amotevéiy THs otpateias, év
/ > \ i UTowiats elye TOUS TpwTOUS’ Kal TOAXOUS MEV
? s >» ? a , N 4 ¢€ N
avnpet Oe opynv, mrEeLcovas Se PoRovpevos. 7 yap
, , , al ,
delta ovixwtator é€otiv &€v Tals TuUpavviaw.
or \ \ a <= Bey 7 € , ihewy O€ KaL TPdoY Kai aviTroTToOV 1) Pappanreo-
A , \ Ths. Oto Kal tov Onpiwy Ta atTiOdcevTa Kal a 4 wn \ “a duceEnuépwra odocen cai Serra, Ta b€ yervaia
4 a \ \ a > , \ TLGTEVOVTA MANXOV OLA TO Oappelv ov hevyer TAS dpiroppoavvas.
€ \ 4 bY ts BD
XXXVI. “O d€ ’Apro&épEns 76n wrpeo ButEepos ay
’ \ “ “
noGaveTo TOUS VloUs ay@va Tepl TIS BaairElas
5) a 4 a “a
ev Tots PiAos Kal ToOis OuvaTOls EXOVTAS. Of eV
\ > , 3 , e v > / ef
yap evyvwpoves nEtovy, as éXaBev av’ros, oUTMS
? a a / \ 2 Ve € st aTrouTrety tpeaBeta Aapeitw thy cpynv. o 8é
, . b] \ vv \ 4 ? \ \ vewratos ‘Qyos o€us @v Kal Biaios elye pev Kal
“a \ \ b > , /
Tov TEpi TO BacideLtov ovK OrLyoUS oTOVdaCTUs, uv \ U 4 . ,

namile 6€ pwartota KatepydoeoGat Tov Tatépa
\ a > , , \ dia THs “Atocons. éxeivnvy yap eOepdtrevev ws
4 N “A yapnoouévny kat cupBactevoovaayv avT@ peta
\ “ X
THY TOU TaTpos TEXeUTHY. Hv S€ AOYOS OTL Kal
COvtos éXavOavev avthn wWAnaIdfwv. adda TOUTO 188 ARTAXERNES xxv. 2-XxvI. 2

hesitated and were inclined to spare the trees op account of their great size and beauty, he took an axe himself and cut down the largest and most beautiful tree. After this the men provided them- selves with wood, and making many fires, passed the night in comfort. Nevertheless, he lost many and brave men, and almost all his horses before he reached home. And now, thinking that his subjects despised him because of the disastrous failure of his expedition, he was suspicious of his chief men; many of these he put to death in anger, and more out of fear. For it is cowardly fear in a tyrant that leads to most bloodshed; but bold confidence makes him gracious and mild and unsuspicious. So also among wild beasts, those that are refractory and hardest to tame are timorous and fearful, whereas the nobler sorts are led by their courage to put more confidence in men, and do not reject friendly advances.

XXVI. But Artaxerxes, being now advanced in years, perceived that his sons were forming rival parties among his friends and chief men with reference to the royal succession. For the con- servatives thought it right that, as he himself had received the royal power by virtue of seniority, in like manner he should leave it to Dareius. But his youngest son, Ochus, who was of an impetuous and violent disposition, not only had many adherents among the courtiers, but hoped for most success in winning over his father through the aid of Atossa. For he sought to gain Atossa’s favour by promising that she should be his wife and share the throne with him after the death of his father. And there was a report that even while his father was alive Ochus had secret relations with Atossa. But Artaxerxes

189

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

pev nyvonoey) ‘Aproképéns: tayu 6¢ Bovdopevos exxpovoa Ths éAmidos Tov ‘Oxov, OTwS pn Ta avuta Kupw todrApnoavTos avTou TONE {LOL Kat LY QVES avis KaTaraSwot THY Bactnretay, ave-devEe Tov Aapetov Bacthea TEVTIKOTT OV ETOS yeyovora, Kal TV Kkadoupevny kitapw opOinv pe perv edwxe. vojov 6€ ovTOS év Hepoacs dw peav aiteiy Tov dvadeixPérta al didovac TOV avadet-Favta wav TO aitnev, av Trep 7 OUVATOY, TNT EV ‘Agrractav o 0 Aapéios THY padvora, omrovoad Jet-cay UIro Kupou, Tote 6€ T@ Baotrer madaKevomevny. WV be Pwxais TO yéVOS am "Tovias, éXevOepwr yovéewy kat TeOpappevy Koo Las. é7rel dé Kupou devtrvobvTos etanxOn pel" ETEpwV yuvac-KOV, al per arrat mapaxabelouevar 7 poo Trat-Covtos avtov Kai Cm TOWEVOV Kal TKOTTOVTOS OUK

anoas Eevedeyovto Tas irodppoavvas, éxewn Se Tapa THY KNiYnVY EloTHKEL oLtwmn Kal Kupov
KaNovYTOS OVX UmyKovEe' BovAopLéevwY SE TpOC-QYyelY TAY KaTevvarT OD, Olpaferar pevTOL TOU-TOV," elrrev, "* os av epol mpocayaryn Tas Xelpas."
édokev ovy ayapis Tos mapovotv elvat Kal aypot-KOS. o b€ Kopos Ho dets eyehace, kal eltre 7 pos
TOV dryaryoura. Tas yuvatKas, "Apa non ouvopas
OTe plo ovny TAVTNY édevbépav Kal dduipOopov
KELS Kopeiseon 5 " é« 8€ TovTou mpoo eX ev upga-HEvOS AUT, Kal partota TAaT@vV éorepe Kal copny ™ poanryopEevaer. EUAW O€ Kupov TETOVTOS ev TH LAX Kal Stapralopevov TOU OT PATOTEOOV.
XXVIL. Tautnv o Aapetos aitioas iviace Tov

Cf. Xenophon, Anab. i. 10.2; Plutarch, Pericles, xxiv. 7.
1990
1025

ARTAXERXES xxvi. 2-xxvul. 1

was ignorant of this; and wishing to shatter at once the hopes of Ochus, that he might not venture upon the same course as Cyrus and so involve the kingdom anew in wars and contests, he proclaimed Dareius, then fifty years of age, his successor to the throne, and gave him permission to wear the upright " kitanis," as the tiara was called. Now, there was a custom among the Persians that the one appointed to the royal succession should ask a boon, and that the one who appointed him should give whatever was asked, if it was within his power. Accordingly, Dareius asked for Aspasia, who had been the special favourite of Cyrus, and was then a concubine of the king. She was a native of Phocaea, in Ionia, born of free parents, and fittingly educated. Once when Cyrus was at supper she was led in to him along with other women. The rest of the women took the seats given them, and when Cyrus proceeded to sport and dally and jest with them, showed no displeasure at his friendly advances. But Aspasia stood by her couch in silence, and would not obey when Cyrus called her; and when his chamberlains would have led her to him, she said: ' Verily, whosoever lays his hands upon me shall rue the day."' The guests therefore thought her a graceless and rude creature. But Cyrus was delighted, and laughed, and said to the man who had brought the women: " Dost thou not see at once that this is the only free and unperverted woman thou hast brought me?" From this time on he was devoted to her, and loved her above all women, and called her The Wise. She was taken prisoner when Cyrus fell in the battle at Cunaxa and his camp was plundered.!

XXAVII. This was the woman for whom Dareius

\ oo \ matépa’ dvatnra yap ta BapBapixa devas Trepi
, \ f ,
TO GKOAATTOV, WaTE 7 fovoY TOV TpocEeNOovTA
, an \
Kat Oryovta Tmaddranhs Bacthéws, GAGA Kal TOV
u .
év tropeta mpocEeNOovta Kai duckeXUcavTa Tas 3 4 §
apakas ef als xoutlovtar, Oavato Kxoraler Har.
KaiTtoe THY wev” ATooaay elyev Epwrte TolNaupmEVvos
~ 4 QA
yuratka Tapa Tov vouor, éEnxovta 5é Kat Tpla-KOolat TrapeTpepovTo KadAdEL Stahépovaeat Tar-gS Aaxides. ov pny adda Kal aitnOeis exeivyry érevOepay ednoev elvar Kat AauBavew éxédeuvce
, v \ \ ,
Bovropevnv, axovoav bé€ un BialecOar. perta-Ul \ aA
meupberons oe Ths “Aomacias xat tap’ érmidas A f e / \ a ’ \ tou Bacthews éXopévns tov Aapetov, EdwKe pev ° 9 3 7 al , ‘ \ ’ f eo
UT avadxKns TOU popmouv, dovs b€ OrALyOV UVaTEpoV 4 tal al
agpetNeTo. THS yap “Aptéutdsos THs év ’ExBata-A 5] Sy A e; 3S
vous, iw Avaitiv Kadovow, téperav avéderEev
> f ied e \ , \ ? , , QUTHV, OTwWS ayvn dtayn Tov érrirovTrov Biov,
7 3 , 9 \ \ , \ x
OLOMEVvOS OV YaeTIV, GAA Kal pEeTpiay TiVa Kai
A f lj
Tatolud pewiymevynyv TavTny ANnWerOat SiKny Tapa
“~ / €
Tov Tatdos. 0 & iveyxev ov peTtpiws, elt Epwre aA ? gf \ ¢ SY ¢ f
THs Aotactas Tepitrabns yeyovws, elite uBpicbat
\ A

kat Kexrevacbar vopifwy Uo TOD TaTpos.
>
AtoOopevos & avtov ottws éyovta Tnpi8atos 4 a b / > a b , \ éTL uwadrov éEetpayuvev, év Tois éxetvou crvid@y
A ° Uy nA aA
ta Kal’ autov. av dé ToLtavTa. mAELovwY oom!
a“ 4 e f iA \
Bacitret Ouvyatépwv wporoynoe PapraBato pev
"Ama bw ixa, Podoyouvny d€ Opo Atadpav dwoev yuvaixa, Podoyourny d€ ‘Opovrn, 192
ARTAXERXES xxvii. 1-4

asked, and he gave offence thereby to his father; for the Barbarian folk are terribly jealous in all that pertains to the pleasures of love, so that it is death for a man, not only to come up and touch one of the royal concubines, but even in journeying to go along past the waggons on which they are conveyed. And yet there was Atossa, whom the king passionately loved and had made his wife contrary to the law, and he kept three hundred and sixty concubines ‘also, who were of surpassing beauty. However, since he had been asked for Aspasia, he said that she was a free woman, and bade his son take her if she was willing, but not to constrain her against her wishes. So Aspasia was summoned, and contrary to the hopes of the king, chose Dareius. And the king gave her to Dareius under constraint of the custom that prevailed, but a little while after he had given her, he took her away again. That is, he appointcd her a priestess of the Artemis of Ecbatana, who bears the name of Anaitis, in order that she might remain chaste for the rest of her life, thinking that in this way he would inflict a punishment upon his son which was not grievous, but actually quite within bounds and tinctured with pleasantry. The resent- ment of Dareius, however, knew no bounds, either because he was deeply stirred by his passion for Aspasia, or because he thought that he had been insulted and mocked by his father.

And now Teribazus, who became aware of the prince’s feelings, sought to embitter him still more, finding in his grievance a counterpart of his own, which was as follows. The king had several daughters, and promised to give Apama in marriage to Pharnabazus, Rhodogune to Orontes, and Amestris (93

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

TnpiBato oe "Apna pty. Kab Tous pev addro1s EOWKE, Tnpi8afov dé erevoato yipas QUTOS THY "Apne T pty, avT exelvs dé TO TnpeBateo THY vewtatny Atooaay éveyunaev. émet 6€ Kal Tav-TV épacGeis eynpen, ws elpnTat, TAVvTaT Act dug LEVvas 7 pos avTov 7) Tnpifatos EaXe?, oude

GAXWS TTAdTLLOS OV TO 790s, GA’ GP OLAROS Kal
Ta.padopos. 610 Kal vuUv pev eUnpep@v 6pola
Tols TpwTots, viv bE T™poaKpovoy Kab TKopaKtto-PEVOS ovdepuiar epepev EUPEROS petaBornr, drra
Kal TUL LEVOS WV eTraxOijs UTO XavvoTnTos, Kab
TO Kohovopevov ov TATEWOV ovde novYaioyv, ANAG Tpaxu Kal aryepaxov exe.
XX VIF. Hip obv emi mp eyeveTo TO vEavia KM
7 poo KELMEVOS O TypiBafos det Ka éyov OS obdey ovivag y KiTELpLS EOTM@OA TEPL TH Kepary TOUS Ud avtav pn Entovvtas opOotabar Tois Tpay-pact, Kaxeivoy aBéATEpa dpovetv, El, TOU ev aderpou Ska THs yuvatxwvitidos évdvopevou Tois
Tpaypact, TOU be TAT POS OUTWS eT kn TOV 700s Kab aBéBavov EYOVTOS, oieTat BéBatov auT@ THY Suadox ny UTapXeEL. O yap “EXAnveKod Xap yuvatou TOV dxpeva tov ev ITépoacs evodpevos vopov ov 61) Tov TiaTOS €oTt TAS TEDL TOY peYyi-oTMY opororyias eumed@aety. ov Travto © elvat
To pn Tuxely "Ox@ Kaneivep To otepecOar TIS Baotreias) “OQyov péev yap ovdéva xwruUcELV iOcwTnv Brovv paxapias, éxeivm 8 drrodedevypevep Baoiret Bacireverv avayKny nde Shv eivat.
Chap. Sxiiew i. *Cicchap. xxviay to Teribazus. He kept his promise to the other two, but broke his word to Teribazus and married Amestris himself, betrothing in her stead to Teribazus his youngest daughter, Atossa. But soon he fell enamoured of Atossa also and married her, as has been said, and then Teribazus became a downright foe to him. Teribazus was at no time of a stable disposition, but uneven and precipitate. And so, when he would be at one time in highest favour, and at another would find himself in disgrace and spurned aside, he could not bear either change of fortune with equanimity, but if he was held in honour his vanity made him offensive, and when he fell from favour he was not humble or quiet, but harsh and ferocious.

XXVIII. Accordingly, it was adding fire to fire when Teribazus attached himself to the young prince and was forever telling him that the tiara standing upright on the head 2 was of no use to those who did not seek by their own efforts to stand upright in affairs of state, and that he was very foolish if, when his brother was insinuating himself into affairs of state by way of the harem, and his father was of a nature so fickle and insecure, he could suppose that the succession to the throne was securely his. Surely he whom regard for a Greek courtesan had led to violate the inviolable custom of the Persians, could not be trusted to abide by his agreements in the most important matters. Moreover, he said it was not the same thing for Ochus not to get the kingdom and for Dareius to be deprived of it; for no one would hinder Ochus from living happily in private station, but Dareius had been declared king, and must needs be king or not live at all.

195

3 ed)

PLUTARCIDS LIVES

= ‘ X ,
KadéXov peév obv Vous, TO Lopoxreoy, Lod \ al ~ e ~ taxela TEL THY KAKO odorTropet’
/ 4 € , \ , ? A ‘ Li Aela yap Tls 1) TopEela Kal KATAVTIS ETL TO BovXo-is N e n~ \ la b] pevov. BovrovTat € of WrEtaTOL TA davra 6u a a f amepiay TOV KaX@Y Kal ayvolay: ov pny adr\(a fo a ©: \ N \ 5
To peyeOos TO THS aPXIS Kal TO Tpos TOV "Oyov
~ / a tov Aapeiou déos irobecw TH TnpiBalo mapfol , 1 , b>] , eiye Kumpoyévera 6 ov wapmTav avalTios, 1
a > , ,
tis “Aotracias apatpeats.
‘ a“ XXIX. EréSwxev obv éautov TO Trp Balto:
a 4 fal
Kal TOAR@Y ON TUVLTTALEVWY, EVVOU KOS eOnAWCE
A a \ \ ,
Th Bacirel Thy éTiBovrnv Kal Tov TPOTOV, ELOWS an ¢ \ y A axptB@s OTL VUKTOS éypaxacw €v T® Carano
A \ ,

KATAKELLEVOY AVALPELY AUTOV érresoeNOOvTES. AKOU-\ a % , \ ‘\ ral , carte 5é Te Aptoképen Kal To mapidely KivOuvOV TdiKodTOV, amedioavTa Ths .aPBorijs, dei vov
w N a \ eddnet, Kal TO TaTEvoaL pydevos eAeyYoU "yEVO-
, ¢ a wévov SewvoTepov. oUTwS oUY €rrolen’ TOV je | na ud wn cbvouyoy éxelols exeXevTE TAapeElvat Kal wap-a bere \ a 2 \ Yd axorovbelv, adtos b€ Tov Gadapov Tov Garia Oev
a , ~ Ths KAlyns Tolyov éxxoas Kal Gupwoas Katif >} , ‘ , 3 , \ wn exddvwev avraia tas Gupas. evoTtacns d€ THS ef a z XN
Opas Kal ppacavtos Tov evvovxov Tov KaLpov,
A , , f
él ths Kruwns Uméuerve Kal OvK éfavéatn Tpo-Tepov i) TOY eT avTov épxXo“evwy Ta TpoTwTa al , a ¢ ¢ katidciy Kab yvwplca. sapas Exactov. as oe
\
clSev €omracpevous TA eyxerpiora Kal Tpoopepo-
\
uévous, TAXU THY avrAaiav UTrokaBav avexopnoev
a

1 fiom an unknown play, Nauck, Trag. Grace. Frag.’, p. dl.

Now, perhaps it is generally true, as Sophocles says,? that—

“Swiftly doth persuasion unto evil conduct make its way” 5

tor smooth and downward sloping is the passage to what a man desires, and most men desire the bad through inexperience and ignorance of the good. However, it was the greatness of the empire and the fear which Dareius felt towards Ochus that paved the way for Teribazus although, since Aspasia had been taken away, the Cyprus-born goddess of love was not altogether without influence in the case.

XXIX. Accordingly, Dareius put himself in the hands of Teribazus ; and presently, when many were in the conspiracy, an eunuch made known to the king the plot and the manner of it, having accurate knowledge that the conspirators had resolved to enter the king’s chamber by night and kill him in his bed. When Artaxerxes heard the eunuch’s story, he thought it a grave matter to neglect the information and ignore so great a peril, and a graver still to believe it without any proof. He _ there- fore acted on this wise. He charged the eunuch to attend closely upon the conspirators; meanwhile he himself cut away the wall of his chamber behind the bed, put a doorway there, and covered the door with a hanging. Then, when the appointed hour was at hand and the eunuch told him the exact time, he kept his bed and did not rise from it until he saw the faces of his assailants and recognised each man clearly. But when he saw them advancing upon him with drawn swords, he quickly drew aside the b] \ > \ v N \ lA > / eis TO é€vTos olknpa Kat tas OBuvpas émnppake

. 3 4 4) e aA e bd 3 ~
xkpatov. opOérvtes ovv ot chayets vm auton,
/ \ , 5 , A \ a modéavres 5é€ nev, atexwpovy puyn dia Oupar, ld 4 A Kal Tous Tept Tov TnpiBaloy éxédevovy arroyYwpety e \ f e \ 9 ?
w@s davepous yeyovoTas. ol wey ovV AAXoL dtadv-
, iy
Gévtes Euyov: 0 dé TyptBalos cvArapBavopevos \ > , A / i A jmoAAous améxreve TOV Baciréws Sopvpopwr Kai poyls axovtim mAnyeEls TOppwHev Erreve. TO SE
A 4 4 , \
Aapeiw peta TOY TEexvwy avaybévtt KaBiaas TOUS
? / 3 \ b , > >
Bactreiovs Sixactds, ov Tapwy avTos, adr ETéepwy KATNYOPNTAYTOY, ExéNevoEV UTNPETAS THY éxadatou ypawapmevous atopacty ws auTov émave-
aA 5 €
veyKety. atrodnvayévav dbé tmavray opoiws Kai nw , 4 e \ 4, KaTayvovtwy Tov Aapetov Gavatov, ot pev virnpe-id SpaN bd ” /, >

Tat cvdAAaBovTEes avTov Ets OiKNMAa TANOLOV aT-LA e \ tA \ @ \ \ v
nyayov, 0 Sé Snuwos KANOEis KE pev Evpov Exar,
N A
® Tas Kehadras amrotéuvovct Tov Koralopmevwr,
3 \ \ \ A 3 / \ > , XN
idwav dé tov Aapetov éEerrAdyn Kal dveywpet TpOs
\ a, > , e 3 f b] \
Tas Ovpas amoBAéTTwv, @; ov Suvnaopevos ovde
, ? f / / $4
TOApLNOwWY avTroyerp yevéerOar Bactrews. é€wOev a an ,
dé Tov dixact@v atethovvtwy Kal dtaKxedevopéevwy 3 / \ A e 'é \ / a) auvacTpewas Kal TH eTEpa xeepe Spa fd pevos THS
, > “ \ \ a A
KOLNS QUTOU Kal KaTayaywv aTréTeue TO EvP@ TOV TPAYNAOD.
, / ,
"Evioe &€ dact thy Kpiow yevécbat Bactréws a is a avTov TapovTos, Tov 6é Aapetov, ws KateXap-
a , a aA
Baveto Tots éXeyyxols, Erl oTOMa TrecovTa betabat
Kal ixeteverv? tov b€ UT opyis avactavta Kai CTATUPLEVOV TOY AKLVAKNY TUTTTELY EWS AITEKTELVEV’ 198

ARTAXERKXES xxix. 3-7

hanging, retired into the inner chamber, closed the door with a slam, and raised a cry. The murderers, accordingly, having been seen by the king, and having accomplished nothing, fled back through the door by which they bad come, and told Teribazus and his friends to be off since their plot was known. The rest, then, were dispersed and fled; but Teri- bazus slew many of the king’s guards as they sought to arrest him, and at last was smitten by a spear at long range, and fell. Dareius, together with his children, was brought to the king, who consigned him to the royal judges for trial. The king was not present in person at the trial, but others brought in the indictment. However, the king ordered clerks to take down in writing the opinion of each judge and bring them all to him. All the judges were of one opinion and condemned Dareius to death, where- upon the servants of the king seized him and led him away into a chamber near by, whither the executioner was summoned. The executioner came, with a sharp knife in his hand, wherewith the heads of condemned persons are cut off; but when he saw Dareius, he was confounded, and retired towards the door with averted gaze, declaring that he could not and would not take the life of a king. But since the judges outside the door plied him with threats and com- mands, he turned back, and with one hand clutching Dareius by the hair, dragged him to the ground, and cut off his head with the knife.

Some say, however, that the trial was held in the presence of the king, and that Dareius, when he was overwhelmed by the proofs, fell upon his face and begged and sued for mercy; but Artaxerxes rose up in anger, drew his scimitar, and smote him till he

199

Li)

ce

PLUTARCEYS LIVES

elTa els THD auany mpoerOovta Tov “TV Atop 7 poo - Kuvhoat Kal elTrety’ “ Evgpatvecde ATLOVTES, a Ilépoau, Ka NévyeTE TOLS arnows 6Tt Tols GOea pa
Kat tapdvoua diavonbeiaw o péyas ‘OQpopalns dlenv émitéberkev.”
OVO CNEL ice esi emt Boury) TOLOUTOV EayE
,
TEKOS. 0 dé ‘OXo8 non pev my Tats emia Nap-
Tpas vTTro Tis ‘Arocans ETPALpOLEvos, Ere 6€ €fo-Sette Tay ev yynoiwy Tov uToXoTOV AptacTny,
“ \ , > / ¢ \ \ > ,
Ttav 6€ vobwy "Ancaunv. o perv yap Aptaorns ov dua TO mpecButepos civat Tod “Oyov, rpaos \ ‘ e wn \ 4 > ~
Sé xal atrovs Kal diravOpwrros, 7EodTo Bacte “A a e ‘ a Neverv UTIO Tay Tlepoa@y: o b€ Apoaduns Kat voor
a \ exyerv eOoxer Kal pddiota TO waTpi mpocgidrs x 5) ~ Se 5) , $
@y oux éd\dv0ave tov “Qyov. émiBovrevwy ovv
? ¢ a ‘ auporepors Kal Sorepos @v o“ov Kal poviros
EXPYTATO TH MeV @MLOTYTL TIS pucews pos TOV ‘Apoauny, ™ 6€ Kaxoupylg ral Sewvornre Tos TOV ‘Apidonny. bmémeprpe yap ™pos avTov eu-vouxous kat pirovs Baotrtéws amrerrds TLVvas uel Kat Aovyous poBepous amayyéXRovTas, @S TOU TAT POS EYVOKOTOS AT OKTIWPUELY avTov OLOS Kal éduBpiatws. ot d€ TadtTa Kad npuépav éexpépery Soxovvtes @S aTroppyta, Kal Ta pev pédrety, TA
¢ , /

6¢ 6cov ow Tpdcoev Baciréa révyorTES, OUTWS
gus \ wv \ 4 Iz
eCemAn av TOV avO pwrov Kal TosavTny eveBadov TTOLaV auT@ Kal Ta pay ny Kat dua dupiay els TOUS
Noyia pos, & Gare papparov axevacayvta tav Bava-Cipwv Kat TiovtTa Tov CHv dvadrAayhvat. mvéo-pevos 5€ 0 Bactrels TOY TpOTOV THS TedrEUTHS, €xelvov péev aTéxAavoe, THY & aitiay UTwTTEvED.
> / \ ‘ a 3 le) ‘ a ” éXéyyveuv O€ kai Enteiy éEadvvatav dua ynpas és 200 10

)

had killed him; then, going forth into court, he made obeisance to the sun and said: “ Depart in joy and peace, ye Persians, and say to all whom ye meet that those who contrived impious and unlawful things have been punished by great Oromasdes.” XXX. Such, then, was the end of the conspiracy. And now Ochus was sanguine in the hopes with which Atossa inspired him, but he was still afraid of Ariaspes, the only legitimate son of the king remain- ing,and also of Arsames among the illegitimate sons. For Ariaspes, not because he was older than Ochus, but because he was mild and straightforward and humane, was deemed by the Persians worthy to be their king ; Arsames, however, was thought to have wisdom, and the fact that he was especially dear to his father was not unknown to Ochus. Accordingly, he plotted against the lives of both, and being at once wily and bloody-minded, he brought the cruelty of his nature into play against Arsames, but his villainy and craft against Ariaspes. For he secretly sent to Ariaspes eunuchs and friends of the king, who constantly brought him word of sundry threaten- ing and terrifying utterances implying that his father had determined to put him to a cruel and shameful death. Since they pretended that these daily re- ports of theirs were secrets of state, and declared, now that the king was delaying in the matter, and now that he was on the point of acting, they so terrified the prince, and filled his mind with so great trepidation, confusion, and despair, that he drank a deadly poison which he had prepared, and thus rid himself of life. When the king was informed of the manner of his death, he bewailed his son. He also suspected what had caused his death, but being

HadXov nomalero Tov "Apoapny, cal dSHros Hv paddtoTa TioTEVwY éxeivw Kal TappynatalopeEvos.
ee ¢€ \ \ 3 b ? td \
ofev ot mept tov “Qyov ovK dveBdrovTo tH mpakiv, ddd’ “Apratny viov Typi8alov tapa-9 \

TKEVATAVTES ATEKTELVAY OL exeLvou Tov avOpwirov. vy pév ody emt poms pepas) “A proképéns 61a TO
"yhpas non ToTE’ TpoamesovTos 5€ avT@ Tod rept Tov Apodpunv wabovs ovbé OdXyov avTégyev, GAN > \ e \ 3 \ , b] , evdus ume AvTNs Kat EvoOvpias atecBécbn, Biwcas pev éveynxovta xal téscapa étn, Bacr-Aevoas dé dvo Kal efyjxovra, do0Eas 6é ™ pabos eivat
Kal PihuT Koos avy Hewora dca tov viov *Oyor @MOTHTL Kal prathovia Tdvtas vEepRaropevov.
202

ARTAXERXES xxx. 4-5

unable by reason of his age to search out and convict the guilty one, he was still more well-affectioned towards Arsames, and clearly made him his chief support and confidant. Wherefore Ochus would not postpone his design, but set Arpates, a son of Teribazus, to the task and by his hand slew the prince. Now Artaxerxes, by reason of his age, was already hovering between life and death; and when the sad fate of Arsames came to his ears, he could not hold out even a little while, but straightway expired of grief and despair. He had lived ninety-four years, and had been king sixty-two, and had the reputation of being gentle and fond of his subjects; though this was chiefly due to his son Ochus, who surpassed all men in cruelty and blood-guiltiness.
203

PAABA

T. ‘O pev ’“A@nvaios Idixpatys tov picbodgopov nEtov aTpaTiwTny Kal piromAovtTov eivar Kab piAnoovor, Omws Tals émuOuptats Xopyyiav émritn-TaV ayovitntat mapaBodwrepor, oi O€ ThelaTot, cabanep éppmmévoy capa, TO TTPATLOTLKOD a€tov-aw (ola pnoeTrore Xpomevoy OopLn ouywweraOar
Th Tov otpatnyov. do Kat [lavdAov Aipirzsov
A€youat THY ev Maxedovia Svvayiv TaparaBovta Aartas Kae TeEpLepyias, otov tas tpatnyovcay, avaTrhewy, _Trapeyyuijoae THY xetpa moveiv ETOLpny Kal THY payalpav ofeiay ExacTor, auT@ 6é

TOV GAXWV HENCE. O be TAdtwv ovdev Epyov op@v dpxovTos ayabov Kat aT paTnyou oTpartias un cw@ppovovens poe ouoTafovens, aNAa THY meOapxtxny d apeTny opotws Th Bacirdtxy voutlov pucews yevvalas Kal TpPOPys prrocogou detoBat, padiara TO TPAw Kab prravOporep TO Oupoeices Kab Spacripiov EMMEROS AVAKEPAVVULELNS, ada te maOn Todda Kal Ta “Pwpaiow cupTecovTa peta tHv Népwvos terevTny Exe paptupia Kal Tapaceiypuata Tov unoev eivat hoBepwrepoy amrat-

1 With Plutarch’s Galba may be compared Suetonius, Gilba ; Dion Cassius, lxiv, 1-9; Tacitus, 7/ist. i. 1-45.

I. Ipnicrates the Athenian used to think that the mercenary soldier might well be fond of wealth and fond of pleasure, in order that his quest for the means to gratify his desires might lead him to fight with greater recklessness ; but most people think that a body of soldiers, just like a natural body in full vigour, ought to have no initiative of its own, but | should follow that of its commander. Wherefore Paulus Aemilius, as we are told, finding that the army which he had taken over in Macedonia was infected with loquacity and meddlesomeness, as though they were all generals, gave out word that each man was to have his hand ready and his sword sharp, but that he himself would look out for the rest.? Moreover, Plato® sees that a good commander or general can do nothing unless his army is amenable and loyal; and he “thinks that the quality of obedience, like the quality characteristic of a king, requires a noble nature and a philosophic training which, above all things, blends harmoniously the qualities of gentleness and humanity with those of high courage and aggressiveness. Many dire events, and particularly those which befell the Romans after the death of Nero, bear witness to this, and show plainly that an empire has nothing more fearful to

2 See the Aemilius, xiii. 4.
3 Of, c.g. Republic 376 U..

SEVTOLS Kpwwevns Kai GNoyols opmats ev Hye wovia
4 OTPAT WILKS Suva pews. Anuadns fev yap
"AXeEavdpou TENEUTHTAVTOS eixate tHv Maxe-dover oTpariay exTeTUprWLEvp TO Kueiore, TARAS Kevouperny opav KLVIT ELS ATAKTOUS Kal
mapapopous” Thy 6€ “Pwpatov nryEwoviay 6.0L, ToS NEYOMEVOLS Teravixots wider Kat Kev} feaal
KkaTedapBaverv, els TOAAG Sragmoperny a aya Kat

Today olev avers EQuTy oupmimrovcay, oux oUTMS Um purapxias TOV avaryopevopevev avtTo-KPaT Of wV, Os pidorAoutias Kal axoXaaias TOU
TT pati@TiKoy oe adhiprwv @oTep ROUS TOUS HryeLovas EXKPOVOVTOS. KALTOL Atovuctos Pepatov apfarta Oetrrarav béxa pivas, eita evOus aparpeOevra, Tov TparyeKov AVEKUNEL TUpavvon, ET L-CKWOT TOV 70 TAXOS THS peta Bonfs. n 6€ TOY Katodpov éoTia, TO Tanarcov, eV éeXdo Tove x povep Tegoapas aut TOKPATOPAS umedéEaTo, TOV [ev elo aryovTov @aTrEp La TKNVIS, Tov © eLayourwv.
arr' a ye mapapu0ia Tots KAKOS 'TagxXovat [La To pn de Ojnvae Stens éEvrépas emi Tovs aitious, AAN opav auTous ud éeavtav hovevopevous, tpa@tov ke Kal OtxaloTata TavT@Y TOV dSedXedoavTa Kal O«- da€avta TocovTov eATrivew emi petaBorr Kaicapos baov autos UTéayeTo, KaAXLCTOY Epyor bia-Barov T@ pu080, THY avo Népwvos atoataciav mTposodiar yEvopmerny.
Te Nuppitees yao La Bivos @ OV ET APXOS, OoT Ep
ELpnTat, pera TryeXAtvou THs aUrTS, ével Ta
Népwvos améyywoto tavtatac. kat dHAros ty
1 An allusion to the proverb HA@ 6 hAos exxpoverat.

show than a military force given over to untrained and unreasoning impulses. Demades, indeed, after Alexander had died, likened the Macedonian army to the blinded Cyclops, observing the many random and disorderly movements that it made; but the Roman Empire was a prey to convulsions and dis- asters like those caused by the Titans of mythology, being torn into many fragments, and again in many places collapsing upon itself, not so much through the ambition of those who were proclaimed emperors, as through the greed and licence of the soldiery, which drove out one commander with another as nail drives out nail. And yet the Pheraean * who ruled Thessaly for ten months and was then promptly killed, was called the tragedy-tyrant by Dionysius, with scornful reference to the quickness of the change. But the house of the Caesars, the Palatium, in a shorter time than this received four emperors, the soldiery ushering one in and another out, as in play. But the suffering people had one consolation at least in the fact that they needed no other punishment of the authors of their sufferings, but saw them slain by one another's hands, and first and most righteously of all, the man who ensnared the soldiery and taught them to expect from the deposition of a Caesar all the good things which he promised them, thus defiling a most noble deed by the pay he offered for it, and turning the revolt from Nero into treachery.

II. It was Nymphidius Sabinus, prefect of the court guard along with Tigellinus, as I have already stated,® who, when Nero's case was altogether desperate, and

2 Alexander, tyrant of Pherae. See the Pelopidas, xxiv.-

XX
XV.
* Probably in the lost Life of Nero.
209
PLUTARCH’S LIVES

amrobpag opevos Els Aiyurtop, ETELTE TO oT pPATLO-TLKOD, os UNKETL TA poVvTos, aXr 8m mrepevyoros, avToKpaTopa ParBav dvaryopedaau, wal Swpeav UMET KETO KaT avd pa Tots avALKOLS Kal oTpatnyiKots 7 poo aryopevopLevous Spay was ETTAKLTXUMAS mevtakoatas, Tois b€ EKTOS TTPATEVOMEVOLS TEVTN-KOVTa Kal dlaKkooias emi XiAlals, Goov apryxXavov nV cuvaryaryety pL TWAELOVA [LUPLAKLS KAKA 7a.pa-TXOVTA 7 Tao avOpw@rrous & av Népov Taper Xe. ToU-
TO yap evOvs pev dm wea € Népova, beT odtyov d€ TarBav: tov pev yap ws An ropuevoe TponKavTo, tov 6€ wn AauBavovtes atTéxTEvay. Elta Tov TocovTov dwaovta Entovvtes EfOnoav ev Tats aTootagedt Kal Tpodogiats avadwaavTes auTOUS } TUYOVTES OY HATITaV. Ta pev odVv KAD EKaoTa TOV yevopeveay amayyen ew ax piBas Tis ™ pary-paTiKis (a Toptas éoTly, boa dé a&ta Aoryou TOUS TOV Katoapey Epryous Kal TaGeot TULTETTTMWKE?, ovde €mol MpoonKer TaperOeir.
III. TarSas LoudmeKLos OTL prev COLWTNS TAOU-TLwTATOS aT avTwy els TOV Kavodpev mapibev olxov, omoNoyerTar peya dé € EX ov EVYyEVvElas akiopa Tov Lepoviev olkov, AUTOS eppover petSov ert
TH Karhov ouyyevela, TPWTEVTAYTOS avdpos apeTH Kal O0&n Tov nad éauTo?, et Ka TO duva-aOat waddov EX@V ETEPOLS Ta phKev. 7v O€ Tt Kat AiBia 7H Kaicapos yuvarnt KATA Yévos ™ pos ?)- cov o TadBas, cal Sa todto ArBias Tapaa You-1 Plutarch uses the Greek word drachma for the corre- sponding Roman denarius, a silver coin about equivalent to

210

1054

GALBA 1, 1-1. 2

it was clear that he was going to run away to Egypt, persuaded the soldiery, as though Nero were no longer there but had already fled, to proclaim Galba emperor, and promised as largess seventy-five hundred drachmas apiece for the court, or praetorian, guards, as they were called, and twelve hundred and fifty drachmas! for those in service outside of Rome, a sum which it was impossible to raise without inflicting ten thousand times more evils upon the world than those inflicted by Nero. This promise was at once the death of Nero, and soon afterwards of Galba: the one the soldiers abandoned to his fate in order to get their reward, the other they killed because they did not get it. Then, in trying to find someone who would give them as high a price, they destroyed themselves in a succession of revolts and treacheries before their expectations were satisfied. Now, the accurate and circumstantial narration of these events belongs to formal history ; but it is my duty also not to omit such incidents as are worthy of mention in the deeds and fates of the Caesars. III. That Sulpicius Galba was the richest private person who ever came to the imperial throne, is generally admitted; moreover, his connection with the noble house of the Servii gave him great prestige, although he prided himself more on his relationship to Catulus, who was the foremost man in his time in virtue and reputation, even if he gladly left to others the exercise of greater power. Galba was also some- how related to Livia, the wife of Augustus Caesar, and therefore, at the instance of Livia, he was made the franc. But a Roman writer would reckon by sestertii, the sestertius being worth about a quarter of the denarius.

2Ii

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

? a , ‘ ons wratos é€x Ilaxatiov mponrOe. Réyetar OE
, , A U
Kalb otpatevpatos €v Vepparia Karas apkat cai te
AtBdns avOuTatos yevosmevos cvY OXrjLYOLS éTTatVeE-Onvat. To de EvVKONDY AUTON Tis Staitys Kal det-
, , ,
éwrov é€v daTrdvats Kal aTéptTTOV aitiay éoyev
, , A ¢ ,
AUTOKPATOPOS ‘yevomevov pikporoylas, Vv EwAov
, 3 , 4 \ ?
twa Oofav evtaktas épepe Kai awdporsivns.
’ / \ se ‘\ NY / 3 , 4 w emTéeuhOn d€ ve Népwvos ‘IBnpias apywv, oro
, ~ ‘ 3 b>] , 4
dedtdaypevou hoPeicbat Tous év akimpact peya-Nous! TOV ToAtT@Y. Exeiv@ é Kat Puaer SoKovY-
4 la ,
TL Tpaw yeyovevat tpoceTiOe miativ evrAaBeias
a “A
TO YHpas.
’ / a f , cal

IV. ’Evet? dé, rOv aditnpiwy emitpoT@Y WLes
\ ? ?
Kal aypiws Tas eTapxias éxelv@ StadhopovvTwn, 4 \ be > \ “~ 3 “ X “A x ado pev eiyvev ovdev BonOeiv, ait@ 5é TO havepos ELVAL TUVAAYOV KAL TUVAOLKOVLEVOS GL@S Yé THOS
/ a avaTrvony Tiva Kal TapapuvOiay Tots Katadixalo-
\ , ,
HEVOLS KAL THAOULEVOLS TAapég YE’ Kal ToLnLaTOV
els Nepwva yivopévarv rai moAXAayod Trepidhepope-3 f ld
VOV KAL AOOMEVaD, OVK EXWAVEV OVOE TUVNYAVAKTEL
a. 3 / 24% ” a ’ a e x Tots ém@eTpoTrots® ep ols ETL “aAXOV HYATATO V7TO ~ ? \ 9
Tov avOpwrrwv. Kai yap hy dn avvnOns, ET 0s Ory Soov 9 a \ bl] A ” 3 e 3 f +7 bd , exetvo Thy apxny Exwv ev O Lovyios Ovivds errave-aT Nepwvt, Varatias @v aotpatnyos. RéyeTat
2 \ a “A
pev ovV Kal TPO THs eupavods aToaTdcews ypau-
\ \ \ A
pata mpos avtov adixécbar Tapa tod Ovivé:xos,
, a A wn
ols MNTE TLOTEVOAL MITE LNVOTAL Kal KaTELTrELY, 1 weyddous Coraés and Bekker have peydAos, after Reiske.
2 éret Sint.? corrects to éxe? (there).
212

GALBA 111. 2-1¥. 2

consul! by the emperor. We are told also that he commanded an army in Germany with distinction, and that when he was pro-consul of Africa,2 he won such praise as few have done. But his simple and contented way of living, the sparing hand with which he dealt out money, always avoiding excess, were counted unto him, when he became emperor, as parsimony, so that the reputation which he bore for moderation and self-restraint was an insipid sort of thing. By Nero he was sent out as governor of Spain,? before Nero had yet learned to be afraid of citizens who were held in high esteem. Galba, however, was thought to be of a gentle nature, and his great age gave an added confidence that he would always act with caution.

IV. But when, as the nefarious agents of Nero savagely and cruelly harried the provinces, Galba could help the people in no other way than by making it plain that he shared in their distress and sense of wrong, this somehow brought relief and comfort to those who were being condemned in court and sold into slavery. And when verses were made about Nero, and men circulated and sang thein freely, he did not put a stop to it nor share in the displeasure of Nero’s agents; wherefore he was still more beloved by the inhabitants. For he was by this time well known to them, since it was in the eighth year of his governorship that Junius Vindex, a general in Gaul, revolted against Nero. It is said, indeed, that even before the open rebellion Galba received letters from Vindex, and that he neither put any trust in them nor gave accusing information

Pn 334. D. * In 45 a.D. * In 61 4.D.

213

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

ws er epot TOV YE HOV LK OY eTLOTONAS avTots

ypaeloas émepypay 7 pos Néepava kal d:épOecpav doov em avtTots THpv T pacuy, 78 VoTEpov peTa-oXOVTES @pohoynaar auT@Y ovdey HTTOV th éxei-vou mpooTar yeyovevar. GX’ érretdy AaMTpPOS TOV TOAELOY EXPIHVAS O Ovivd.é eypaype TH DarSa
TApPAKaray avabegac bar THY nyéuoviay Kal

Tapacyely éavtoy iayup@ awpate Entovvti Kedarn, tais Taratias Séka pupiadas avdpov WT ALO LEVOV exovoas aANaS TE TAELOVAS omhicat duvapevais, mpovdnxe Bovrnp Tots irots. @ ov Ol wey Elouv Tre pLLevely kapadoxodvra Tiva Kiyo ry ‘Pwpn Kat popay €£et 1pos Tov VEwT Epta Hav" Tiros dé Ovinios. o TOU oTpatnytKob TAY MATOS NYE MOV autos } elev" 0) anGa, Tiva, Tpomrov Bov-NeveoGe ; sro yap ontety Népovt et mearol [Levov-[Lev, OUK 10 HEvovT@Y éotiv. ws obv UMAPXOVTOS ey Opov Nepevos ov 67 ™ poet cov TV TOU Oviv6e-KOS puriay, 4) kal KaTnyopntéov evdus avrov Kal TONE LNT EOD, OTL oe Bovnrerat “Popaious EVELy apYovra padov 1) Nepwva TUpavvor.
V. Ex TOUTOV 7 poy papnpare pev édnAwoev 6 lad Bas aépay ev 7 TAS KaTA pEpos edevJepar-GELS ATOOWOEL TOS Seopévors, Aania 6 Kal Pnuy mpoextrecovaa TANOOS avOpamoy 70 po.ce 7 po-

Cupov emt TOV VEWTEPLT LOD. OUK fA yoov pave Epos emt tov Bywatos yevouevos, Kal TAVTES
avrov opopavers avToKpatopa 7 poo etmoy. o 6é TAUT NY peev evdvs ov mpoaedéefaro TV 7 poonyopiay, KATNYVOPH TAS 6¢ ToD Népevos, Kal TOV avnpnuévoy avopav bm' avtod Tovs émibaverta-
? abrors suggested by Sint.? for the airds of the MSS.
214
1055

GALBA Iv. 2-v. 2

about them, although other provincial governors sent to Nero the letters written to them, and thus did all they could to ruin the enterprise of Vindex ; and yet they afterwards took part in it, and thus confessed that they had been false to themselves no less than to Vindex. But after Vindex had openly declared war, he wrote to Galba inviting him to assume the imperial power, and thus to serve what was a vigorous body in need of a head, meaning the Gallic provinces, which already had a hundred thousand men under arms, and could arm other thousands besides. 'Then Galba took counsel with his friends. Some of these thought it best for him to wait and see what move- ment Rome would set on foot in response to the revolution; but Titus Vinius, the captain of the praetorian guard, said to them: "O Galba, what counsels are these? For to ask whether we shal! remain faithful to Nero means that we are already unfaithful. Assuming, then, that Nero is an enemy, we surely must not reject the friendship of Vindex ; or else we must at once denounce him and make war upon him because he wishes the Romans to have thee as their ruler rather than Nero as their tyrant."

V. After this, Galba issued an edict appointing a day on which he would grant individual manu- missions to all who desired them, and gossip and rumour flying all abroad brought together a multi- tude of men who were eager for the revolution. At any rate, no sooner was Galba seen upon the tribunal than all with one voice hailed him as emperor. However, he did not at once accept this appellation, but after denouncing Nero, and bewailing the most illustrious of the men who had been put to

215

3

TOUS oho hupapevos, @pohoynoer em LOW ELy TH maT plou THY EavTOU T povolay, OUTE Kaicap ouT avToKpaTwp, TTPATHYOS b€ guyxAnTov Kal Onuou ‘Pwpyatoy dvopafopevos.
"Ore & dpOas o Oviwe&E cai Nedoyiopevas éEexaretro tov VarBav émi tH nyEpoviar, eT t-TTWTATO paptupe T@ Népwut. T poo ToLovpevos
14p éxelvou Kara povely Kab Tap. ovdey nryeta Bat
7a Tadatov, dpa TO mba bar Ta Tmepl PadBav (eruxe O€ AeRoupévos Kal apiaTav) aveérpewe THV tpamelav. ou piv adda TVYKANTOV Ynbioapevns Todéu.ov Tov arBav avtos te maifery Kat Opa-guverar Tos TOUS pirous Bovdopevos, ov dav-Any Edn mpoppnawv eMTET TOKEVAL oye Lov d€opevep NPNHATOV avT@ Kal ta pev Vararor, € otav UTOXELpLot YEVOVTAL, Lapupaywynced Gat, O€ Targa Td pec Tiy ovela xpha Pas Kal TWAELY ON TorEpiou TEPNVOTOS. OUTOS TE oy Ta Par Ba Tt-mpag Kew exéheve, Kab ParSas axoveas, daa Neépwvos nv év ‘TBnpiga KNPUTTWY eUpLaKE TOAAOLS mpobuportepous a @VNTAS.
Vi. ‘Agiotapevor d€ TONA@DY TOU Népwvos . Kal muvTwy emietkas TH L'adrBa TpoaTepever, [LGVOS KA@d.os Maxpos ev AtBvn kat Ovepyivios ‘Poidos
ev Taratia TOU Deppavixod TT PATEUMATOS mryou-HEVOS avtolt Kal’ EQUTOUS em parton, ov THY avT IY aipeow EXOVTES. GrX’ 0 peep KrAwédcos, év dpruyais
T par HAT ov ryeryoves Kal povors avopav ore @pornTa Kal Treovetiar, Sijos hv €v TO pnTE KaTEXEW pyre adtévar THY apxny Sivacbat TEepipEepopevos, Ovepyivios dé TAY MAT OV eTLOTATOV dwaTetator TOAAUKES AUTOV AvayOpEVOVTWY AUTOKpaTOpa Kal 216 death by him, promised to devote his best powers to the service of his country, taking as his title, not Caesar, nor Emperor, but General of the Roman Senate and People.

Now, that Vindex acted wisely and well in calling upon Galba to be emperor, was convincingly proved by Nero. For though he pretended to despise Vindex and to regard matters in Gaul as of no moment, as soon as he learned what Galba had done —Nero had just taken his bath and was at breakfast —he overturned his table. However, after the Senate had voted Galba an enemy, Nero, with a desire to jest and put on a bold countenance with his friends, said that an excellent idea had occurred to him in his need of money: the property of the Gauls would not fall to him as spoil of war until after they should be subdued ; but Galba's estate was ready to be used and sold at once, now that Galba had been declared a public enemy. So he ordered the property of Galba to be sold, and Galba, when he heard of it, put up at public sale all that Nero owned in Spain, and found many readier buvers.

VI. Many were now falling away from Nero, and almost all of them attached themselves to Galba; only Clodius Macer in Africa, and Verginius Rufus in saul (where he commanded the German forces), acted on their own account, though each took a different course. Clodius, whose cruelty and greed had led him into robberies and murders, was clearly in a strait where he could neither retain nor give up his command; while Verginius, who commanded the strongest legions and was often saluted by them as emperor and strongly urged to take the title, declared

VOL, XI el]

PLUTARCH'S LIVES

Bralopévwy ovte autos bn AnWeoOas THY HyELoviav oUTE GAXw TrepLotred Oar SitOopéevny, Ov AV p1) 1) TuyKAITOS EAT AL. TavTa TOV ParBav OU peTpiws eOopuBet To 7 p@TOV" emrel dé Ta Ovepyiviou Kal Ovive.xos TTPATEULATA, Tpomrov Tia Bia TOUS
NYELLOVAS, @OTEP VLOXOUS Kpathoae Xardevev Th duvndévtas, els paxny eeveyxovta peyaday ouvéppakav, kat Ovivosxos éavtov avedovtTos émi diapvplois LTaratav recovat, dundOe oyos ws Bovropévoy Twavtwv ert vikn TooavTn Tov Ovep-yivioy avadé~acbas tiv nyepoviay Tadw, peTvaSaroupéveov Tos Nepova, Tote 6) Tapvta-Tact TEpipoPos yevowevos o VadBas eyparre TO Ovepyuvig, Tapakadow KOLVvOT pay ELV kai Sia-puhaccew a THY nye woviay Kab THY éXevOepiav
'Pwpatois' avOis oe pera TOV giro els KnXovviap,
'TBypexny TOMY, dvaxwpycas ev TO peTavoety mepl TOW yeyovor@r Kat To Gety THY ourydn Kal cUvTpopor dm par woovyny PaAXOV 7) TWpaTTELV TL TOV avaryKaoy d1éT piBev.
VI. "Hy 6€ Oépos 70N; cat Bpayd mpo detANns Kev amo Pens' Txedos avnp amrerevbepos EBdopatos.
awu@ouevos 6€ Tov TarSav avaravecOar nad' cautoy é€Babile ovvtdvas él TO OwWLATLOV AUTON, Kat Bia TeV Garaynrorwy avoiEas Kal mapehOwy

cearajryryetnen & OTL Kal SavTos ETL TOU Nepwvos, OuK ovtos 6é€ pavepod, TO oTpaTevpa Tp@TOv, ciTa 0 Opos Kall yy) TUYKANTOS avTOKpaTOpA 7 Tov VarBav cVA*OPEUT ELED, oniryov be bo repov amraryyedein TEOYNKOS Exelvos' ov pV AUTOS ye TlaTEvCAaS Ebn Tols amayyéXXovow, adrAa erecOav TO vexp@ Kal Keievov Oeacapevos, ovTws &EedOeiv.
218
GALBA vi. 2—VvII. 2

that he would neither assume the imperial power himself, nor allow it to be given to anyone else whom the senate did not elect. ‘These things greatly dis- turbed Galba at first; but presently the armies of Verginius and Vindex in a manner forced their leaders, like charioteers who had lost control of the reins, into the crash of a great battle, and Vindex, after the loss of twenty thousand Gauls, died by his own hand, and a report was current that all the soldiers desired Verginius, in view of the great victory he had won, to assume the imperial power, or they would go back again to Nero. Then indeed Galba was all alarm, and wrote to Verginius inviting him to join in efforts for the preservation alike of the empire and the freedom of the Romans. But after this he retired with his friends to Clunia, a city in Spain, and spent his time in repenting of what he had done and in longing for his habitual and wonted freedom from care, rather than in taking any of the steps now made necessary.

VII. It was now summer,! and shortly before sun- set there came from Rome a freedman named Icelus, who had made the journey in seven days. Having learned that Galba was reposing by himself, he went in hot haste to his chamber, opened the door in spite of the chamberlains, entered, and announced that while Nero was still alive, but in hiding, that the army first, and then the senate and people, had proclaimed Galba emperor, and that a little while afterwards it was reported that Nero was dead; Icelus himself, however, as he said, had not believed the report, but had gone and seen the dead body where it lay, and then had set outon his journey. This announcement

1 Of 68 a.p.
219
3

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

TavTa aTayyeANopeva AaLTpoY pe TOV Vardar, Kai ovvedpape TAHGOS avdpav ert Oupas éxteOappnxoTwov um avtov BeBaiws. Kaitot TO TaXOS WW amtaTov. ara Kalb dvaiv nuépats VoTepor } Ovivios Tiras * aro aTpatoméedou pO? (ETepov aixeTo TA bofavta TH TUYEMITO Kal exao Tov amrayyeXhav. ovTOS pev ovy eis TaEwy EvTipov m™ porx On: TO 8 arerevd ep daxtundious TE xpuaods ESeoce Kal Mapetavos o “InedXos On KaNoupevos elye THY TowTHY ev TOS aTrEAEVOEpOLS

Suva pv.
VIH. ‘Ey d€ ‘Pon Nupdiozos LaPivos, ovK
npepa Kal KaTa HLL pov, aXnnra TAR BOnY onod, TavTa mpaywara pépov TepunveryKeey els EAUTOP, os TadSav pev dvta mpecBvtny Kai porss els Pony eEapeécovra popaony Kopia Ojnvat bua yhpas’ hv yap éT@V TpLav Kal éBSopnxovta- Ta be avroou TTPATEVLATA, Kat Taras T pos QUT OV EvvOwS EYOVTA Kal vo év0s eEnpTnweva [LOvov, da
To THS bwpeas péyeOos evepyerTny exeivov nyeta Oat, PanrBav dé XpewperreTny. evOus ovv Teyedrivep HEY TH TUVAaPYOVTL mpoceTagev aTroGécbat TO Ethos, vmodoyas 5é trotovpevos éedeimutte Tovs
UTAaTLKOUS Kal TOUS NryEpwovtKoUs, ETL TO T'aXBa
TpoaTleis dvoua Tais KNHoECLY, Ev TE TO OTPATO-TEOW TONNOUS TAPETKEVATE AE'YVELY WS TrELTTEOD
éoTt 7 pos Dada QiTOULEVOUS éTapKXoVv Eioael Nupdidzoy ¢ aveu cuvapXovTos.
“A 6€ 4) ouyxAnToS els TINY ErpaTTEy avTOV

1 Jorepov supplied by Coraés, after Amyot.

highly elated Galba, and there came running to his door a multitude of men who had gained complete confidence as the result of Icelus’ report. And yet the messenger’s speed was incredible. But two days afterwards Titus Vinius with others came from the camp and reported in detail the decrees of the senate. Vinius, accordingly, was advanced to a position of honour, and as for the freedman, he was allowed to wear the gold ring, received the name of Marcianus instead of Icelus, and had the chief influence among the freedmen.

VIII. But at Rome Nymphidius Sabinus was forcing the entire control of affairs into his own hands, not slowly and little by little, but all at once. He thought that Galba was an old man and would hardly have the strength to be carried to Rome on a litter, by reason of his age, for he was in his seventy- third year ; moreover, he knew that the soldiery in the city had long been well disposed towards him and were now devoted to him alone, regarding him as their benefactor because of the large gifts which he promised, but Galba as their debtor. Straight- way, therefore, he ordered his colleague Tigellinus to lay down his sword, gave receptions at which he banqueted men who had been consuls or in high command (although he still affixed the name of Galba to his invitations), and instigated many of the soldiers to declare that a deputation ought to be sent to Galba demanding that Nymphidius be made pre- fect for life without a colleague.

Moreover, the senate did much to enhance his

2 Tiros after this name the words woAAa tar, deleted by Coraés and Bekker, are retained by Sint.? with indication of a lacuna (woAAQ .. . TAY).
rae S|

Kal Ovvamty, dvakarodoa evEepyeTny Kat o UV Tpé- youoa Kal' ruépav emt Gupas kai TavTos eSapyerv Séryparos afwibca Kal BeBatovy, ETL TEPALTEpw TOAPNS aViyEv avTOr, @aTEe OdtLyOU Xpovou TOUS Oepamevovar pe) povov emipGovor, Gra Kat poBe- pov eval. TOV o UTAT@OV oLKEeTAS Snpoaious T POX ELLE a WEvOY Ta Soypara KoputCovtas TO avTo- Kparopt, Kal Ta kahovupeva OTA opara cern pa omeva Sovtwv, a yveoptfovres Of KATA TON pXOVTES ev Tals TOV ONNBET OV apolBats emita- xUvovet TAS TPOTOMTAS TOV [papuaTnpopor, ov MET PLOWS NYAVaKTHTEY OTL pny Tap avTod Kal adpayioa kal otpatiwtas AaBovtes avérremwar, GANA NéyeTat Kai BovrAeveacOat TEpl THY UTATOY, eiTa THY Opynv atoNoynoapevors Kat denOetowy ave. To O€ Sjuw yaplCopevos OK eExwAVE TOV mapanimrorra TOV Népavos atrotupTravi tery. Larikrov pév ovv Tov povopdyov avdpiaae Néewros EXKOMEVOLS vmoBarovtes év ayopa btéehOerpar, "Atroviov O€ TLva TOV KATNYO pLE@V avatpavaytes apdéas AvBopopous émiyayov, dAXous 6€ beara cav TOAXOUSs, éviouvs pndev abLKodYTAaS, MOTE Kal Mavpixov, avdpa tev apiotwy Kal ovta Kai d0- Kobyta, 7 pos THY TUVYKANTOV EiTrEly OTe HoPeEttar (41) foe Népova Cyto wal. OvtTw 6é Tpocayor o Nupdisdsos é eyyuTépo er eT a éepevye Laiov Kaicapos utos Neyer Bau TOU pera TiBepsov apEavtos. eyvexer yap o Vaios, as éorxe, Ti texotcav avtov ett
1 Caligula.

honour and power, giving him the title of benefactor, assembling daily at his door, and allowing him the privilege of initiating and confirming all their decrees. This raised him to a still higher pitch of boldness, so that within a short time those who paid court to him were filled, not only with jealousy, but also with fear. When the consuls provided public servants to carry the decrees of the senate to the emperor, and gave to these the diplomas, as they were called, sealed with their official seal (in order that the magistrates of the various cities, recognising this, might expedite the supply of fresh vehicles for the journey of the couriers), he was vexed beyond all bounds because the decrees had not been sent under his seal and in charge of his soldiers, nay, it is said that he actually thought of proceeding against the consuls, but put away his wrath when they excused themselves and begged for forgiveness. Again, in his desire to gratify the people, he would not prevent them from beating to death any follower of Nero who fell into their hands. Accordingly, they cast Spiculus the gladiator under statues of Nero that were being dragged about in the forum, and killed him; Aponius, one of Nero's informers, they threw to the ground and dragged waggons laden with stone over him; and many others, some of whom had done no wrong, they tore in pieces, so that Mauricus, who was justly deemed one of the best men in Rome, told the senate that he was afraid they would soon be searching for a Nero.

IX. Thus coming in his hopes nearer and nearer to his goal, Nymphidius was not averse to having it said that he was the son of the Caius Caesar! who succeeded Tiberius. For Caius, as it would appear, while still

, bal b] 3 fal \ lA ? ' ' petpaKloy @Y ovK aEelon THY driv ovcar, éx 6
b) f bd & Fe / /, 9 axeatpias émiutcbiov KadrXtote, Kaicapos annN @ , , PO 4 € \ ih Fu edevOepo, yeyernuevnyv. adr Hv mpos Vaiov a f A nA 7
évteviis avTis, ws E€orKe, vewtépa THS Nupudsdiov yevérews, aitiay dé éoxev x Maptiavod rod po-
a / vomayou yeyovévar, THS Nupdidias épacbeians
\ / b] a \ cal 10 7 se , 61a OoEay avtov, Kai waddop éddxet Ka' opotoTnta al > ? 3 , , > 2 s "A THs leas exeiv@ TpocHKELV. AAN OmoAOYV ye
5 \ a ,

Nuydidias eivas untpos epyov pév autod povou

\ id > “ / ® \ a A

tHhv Népwvos étroteito Katadvaw, abra b€ avTis
, fa)
ov vopiCwy ixava Kaptovabat Tas TL“as Kal Ta
\ a Ypripara Kal TO Lwopw Tod Népwvos cuyxabevdey,

Ov EevOvs aro THs jWupas ETL KaLtopévou Tov vexpoU

MET ATrELWAaMEVOS EKELVOS EV yameThs eye TAEEL KaL 1057

:
llormaiay mpoonyopever, érl thy diadoyny Tap-
? wn ¢
EOUETO THS NYEMOVLAS. KaL Ta pev avTOS év “Pwomn
an , al
dia Tav dirwy vrreipyaleTo, Kal yuvatkKav TiVwY b fal \ al > fal 7
aUuT@ Kal cuyKAnTLKOY avdpav Kpida cvAXapBavopevoy, eva dé Trav dirwv, Vedreavov, els 1 Bnpiav emeupey KaTacKkewopevov.
X. Toe 6€ VadBa peta tHv Népwvos tereuvtiy
/ a exwper Tavta. Ovepryivios bé “Potdos audiBoros N ” , a aA fo)
@y ETL PpovTioa TAapELYe, M1) TO Ouvadpmews TOAATS
KAL MAYLMLOTATHS UpYEly TWpoTELANHwWS TO VEVLKNKE-vat Ovivdica kal KeyertpOcbat méeya pépos TIS ¢ ij e f ’ , , b
Pwpatwv NYEMOVLAS, ED cade YEVOMEVNY aTrooTAa-
A é & “~
TuK@ Ladatiay atacay, vraxovaat Tols Tapa-KaNOVSW avTOY eT THY aPXV. ovdEvoS yap TV
4 a INN 3 , > \ 4 £ >
dvoua pellov, ovde eive Sokav ovdets Gaonv o Ovep-224
GALBA Ix. 1I-x. 2

a young man, had been intimate with the mother of Nymphidius, a woman of comely appearance and a daughter of Callistus, Caesar’s freedman, by a hired sempstress. But this intimacy, as it would seem, was later than the birth of Nymphidius, and it was believed that he was a son of Martianus, the gladiator (with whom Nymphidia fel] in love on account of his fame), and his resemblance to Martianus was thought to favour this connection. But although he certainly admitted that Nymphidia was his mother, he took to himself sole credit for the overthrow of Nero, and thinking himself insufficiently rewarded for this by the honours and wealth which he enjoyed, and by the company of Sporus, Nero's favourite (whom he had sent for at once, while Nero's body was yet burning on its pyre, and treated as his consort, and addressed by the name of Poppaea), he aspired to the succession in the empire. Some secret steps to this end he himself took at Rome through the agency of his friends, and certain women and men of sena- torial rank secretly assisted him, and one of his friends, Gellianus, he sent to Spain to keep an eye upon matters there.

X. But everything went well with Galba after the death of Nero. Verginius Rufus, it is true, who was still hesitating, gave him anxiety. [For besides com- manding a large and most efficient army, Verginius had the added prestige of his victory over Vindex and his subjugation of all Gaul, which was a large part of the Roman Empire and had been in the throes of revolt. Galba therefore feared that Ver- ginius might listen to those who invited him to take the supreme power. Forno man's name was greater than that of Verginius, and no man had a reputation

ylvlos, Ws peyloTn pom) TOLS 'Pepaiov mpaypace Tupavvibos 000 Nearer ijs kal Tadratixov TONE-pov amadhayy ryevomevos. GAN €kElvOS TOTE TOLS e& apxiis €LpLEvOV hoyeo pots epuratre TH ouy-KANTO THY aipeow TOU aAVTOKPAaTOPOS. KaiTot pavepas ye THIS Népavos TENEUTHS YEVOMEVNS TO TE wrHOos evexetto TO Ovdepyvie want, Kat TOV Xeredpyeov TLS To €y TH OKT OTT pEVvOS TO Eios | exeeve TOV Ovepyivov SéyeoOat THY 1YELO-viav ?) Tov otdnpov. émrel O€ Da Bros OvaXrns dipxeov évos TaryHATOS OPKWTE TPOTOS ets ib arBar, Kal ypanpara KEV ATO 'Poyns mept Ov u) ouy-KANTOS eyngiaato, (XAAET OS lev Kal pores, €TELTE
6 ovy Tous OT PATLOTAS auToKpdTopa Tov ParBav aveiTety' Kat TéwWavtTos avtod 61dd0Xov Prakcov
'Opdewvroy edeEaro. Kal ma pa.bovs exelvep THY Sura jue avTos ATHVTNCE TO Parse Tpoaw XopovvTt, Kab cuvaréo Tpepen, OUTE opy is ove TLBAS éridijAou TUyYavwv. aiTtLos 5é Tov pev AUTOS 0 VarPas atdovpevos Tov avopa, Tov O€ ot piroe Kai partota Ovivios Tiros, umo pOovov TOV Ovepyiviov olomevos fev KOAOVELV, ryvoe S€ apa 7 Ouvepytviov 4 XPNTT Satmove TUVEPYO, non TOV advOpa TOAEMWY KAL KAKWI, COU TOUS AdXOUS 1/7Epovas Katéoyev, exTOS ets Blov axvpova Kal ynpas etpnvys Kal navxias peotov virexT: Geneva.
XI. Tar Bav 6€ wepi NapBwva, todw Varate-

KV, Ol TAaPA THS TvyKANTOV Tpéa Bets evTUYovTES
noTalovTo, Kal TapeKddovy eridavivat TO Onuw moOovvTe TaxYéws. oO S€ TAS TE ANAS TApElxer évtevters Kal ovvovatas autos diravOpwrous Kat 226

GALBA x. 2-xI. 1

equal to his, since he had exercised the greatest in- Huence in ridding the Roman state alike of a grievous tyrant and of Gallic wars. But in the present crisis he was true to his original resolves and maintained the senate's right to choose the emperor. And yet when Nero's death was known for certain, the mass of his soldiery were insistent again with Verginius, and one of the military tribunes in his tent drew his sword and ordered Verginius to choose between imperial power and the steel. But after Fabius Valens, commander of a legion, had led off in taking the oath of allegiance to Galba, and letters had come from Rome telling of the senate's decrees, he suc- ceeded at last, though with the greatest difficulty, in persuading his soldiers to declare Galba emperor ; and when Galba sent Flaccus Hordeonius to succeed him, Verginius received that officer, handed over his army to him, and went himself to meet Galba as he advanced, and turned back in his company without re- ceiving any clear mark either of his anger or esteem. This was due, in the one case, to Galba himself, who had a wholesome respect for Verginius, and in the other to Galba's friends, especially Titus Vinius. Vinius was jealous of Verginius, and thought to block his career ; but without knowing it he was aiding the man's good genius, which was now removing him from al] the wars and miseries which encompassed the other leaders, and bringing him into a calm haven of life, and an old age full of peace and quiet.

XI. At Narbo, a city of Gaul, Galba was met by the deputies from the senate, who greeted him and begged him to gratify speedily the eager desire of the people to see him. In his general interviews and meetings with them he was kind and unassuming,

227

PLUTARCH'S LIVES

Snpoticds, Mpos TE TAS ETTLATELS TONIS KATA oKEUTS Kat Jeparetas Bacircxijs Tapovans, hy ex TOV Népwvos 0 Nouppidzos avT@ T poo éTrener, ovderl Ypwpevos éxetvor, inna Tots éavTod Tao, evox ier, peyarog pov avip Kat KpeLT TOV aTreét-poxadtas Parvopevos. TAXY HévTOL Ta yevvaia TadTa Kab arupa Kal TONTLKA Onparyoyiay Oviveos anopaivav Kat KonNpoTnTa peyarov anafvodoav avTnY, emetoe xpnpact Te ypnoGat tois Népwvas Kal Tepl TAS Drodoxas BN petoec Oat TIS Racine KIS TOAUTEAELAS. KAL OAWS aia Onow avTov Kata pexpov v0 TH Ovwviw yevnoopueévov Trapeiyev o m peo BUTS.

XI. "Hy dé Ovinos apyupiou ev eoyaTos Kat
Tap oVvTevouv TT eV, EVvOX0S be Kal Tots mept yuraikas a papTn Lao wv. éTL yap @y véos Kal OT PATEVOUEVOS v7 KarBioto SaBive tHv Tparny oTpatetay dKohag Tov ovcay THY Yyuraika Tod iyryewovos Taperanyaye VUKTWP ELS TO oT pat omedov ev coOnTL JO TPAT LOT LR Kat duep Gerpev év Tots dpxetors, & mpuyximia Kadovot ‘Popaioc. err TOUT@ O€ Ddios Katoap eonoev auTov: éxeivou bé dmoBavevtas evTvYla NPNTawevos amrervOn. eeLmvav dé mapa Kravdio Katcape TOT IpLov apyupoov DpetreTo- mudopevos d€ 0 Kaicap Th voTepata TaN avrov ent dei Tvov éxanrecer, edOovre 88
ex éhevo ev éxetv@ pen dev apyupour, Gra Kepauea TavTa mpoopépew eal TapariGévas Tous UT NpeTas.
TobTo bev ovv bua THY Katoapos HET pLOTNTA KO [Lt-KWTEPAY YEVOMEVNVY YEXWTOS, OVK Opyhs aELov éb0-Eev: 0 0€ Tov Vdd Bap Ey bp’ abT@, Kai dvvdpevos 228

1058

|
|
GALBA x1. 1-x1. 3

- and when he entertained them, though there was an abundance of royal furniture and service at his command, which Nymphidius had sent him from Nero’s palace, he used none of it, but only what was his own, thus winning a good repute, and showing him- self a man of large mind who was superior to vulgarity. Vinius, however, by declaring to him that this dignified, simple, and unassuming course was merely a flattery of the people and a refinement of delicacy which thought itself unworthy of great things, soon persuaded him to make use of Nero’s riches, and in his receptions not to shrink from a regal wealth of outlay. And in general the aged man let it be seen little by little that he was going to be under the direction of Vinius.

XII. Now Vinius was to the last degree and beyond all compare a slave of money, and was also addicted to loose conduct with women. For when he was still a young man and was serving his first campaign, under Calvisius Sabinus, he brought his commanders wife, an unchaste woman, by night into the camp in the garb of a soldier, and had commerce with her in the general’s quarters (the Romans call them “principia”). For this offence Caius Caesar put him in prison; but on the death of the emperor he had the good fortune to be released. While he was at supper with Claudius Caesar, he purloined a silver drinking-cup, and Caesar, learning of it, invited him to supper again the next day, and when he came, ordered the attendants to set before him no silver plate at all, but only earthenware. This misdeed, it is true, owing to the comic turn which Caesar’s moderation took, was thought worthy of laughter, not of anger; but what he did when he had

peylotov emi Xpnwace, em parte, TpayLKav mabav Kal cuppopeav peydrov Tois pev aitiav, Tots bé Tpopacy Tapeo xev.

STIL ‘O yap Nupptovos evOUs émavedfovtos
ToU Peddavov 7 pos aAUTOD, OV eT ene TOU TarBa
TpoTrov TLWVa KATLoKOTOD, aKovaas THs mev aUANS Kal TOV Sopupoper emrapXov am odebetx Gar Kop-vay Atov Adxwva, To 6€ cturav eivat Tov Ovsviov Kparos, auT@ 6é pnderrore Tou Parga ora Ano tov eyyeryoveva poe évtuxely idta, TaVTOY avTov Upopwpever Kal Suapvrarrovren, é0o-puBiOn: Kal cuvayayov Tous yyewovas TOU oTpa-TEUMATOS Eby Tad Bav fev AUTOD Elval T peo Butay €TLELKT) KAL péTpLov, eAXayYLoTa O€ TOiS avUTOU YpwOuwEevov oylapols vio Ovwwiov xal AdKxwvos
oUK 6 dioixeio Bat, amp ou hadetv avToUS iv
Eo Xe DuyedaAtvos toxov ev TOUS Tparypact KTNOA[evous, TE TTT EOV elvat TT pos TOV Hye Hove. T peo Beus amo orpatomésou TOUS Oibafovtas 6 OTL TOV pidov duo [sovous TOUTOUS aoa Kevac dpevos notov Ta.pe-OTA TACl Kal moOevvorepos. érrel O€ TavTa Neyoou OUK emetBev, GAX aToT ov edoxel Kat ANXOKOTOV nryewova. mpeoBuTny, Oo TEp apre "evo pevov €fouaias peupaxvov, ols XPHTET AL pirors i) Hn, pv0 ut-Ce, érépav odov TParropevos ey pade TO Para
OeCrTTOMEVOS, vov fev Os UrovAa Kal peTéwpa
TOANA Tis TONEWS EXOvaNS, vov 6€ KAwerov
Muaxpov év AtBby Ta ouTnya KATEXEW, a adds dé Tapaxtvels ira Vepuanna Taypara., Kal Tept TOV év Supia kat lovdaia duvapewv Gpora ruvOdvec Oat.
GALBA x1. 3-x111. 3

Galba under his control and was most influential with him in financial matters, was partly a cause and partly a pretext for tragic events and great calamities. XIII. For Nymphidius, as soon as Gellianus had come back to him, whom he had sent to be a sort of spy upon Galba, heard that Cornelius Laco had been appointed prefect of the praetorian guard, and that Vinius was all powerful with Galba, while Gellianus had never stood near him or seen him in private, but had been looked upon with suspicion and distrust by everyone. Nymphidius was therefore much disturbed, and calling together the officers of the army, told them that Galba himself was a well-meaning and moderate old man, but did not follow his own counsels in the least, and was badly directed by Vinius and Laco. Therefore, before these men had succeeded in secretly acquiring the power which Tigellinus had held, a deputation should be sent to the emperor from the camp, to inform him that if he would put away from his company of friends only these two men, he would be more acceptable and welcome to all on his arrival. But this speech of Nymphidius did not convince his hearers; nay, they thought it a strange and unnatural thing to dictate to an aged emperor, as if he had been a youth just tasting power, what friends he was to have or not to have. Nymphidius therefore took another course, and wrote to Galba messages in- tended to alarm him—now, that there was much hidden distemper and unrest in the city, now, that Clodius Macer was holding back the grain supplies in Africa; again, that the legions in Germany were mutinous, and that like news came concerning the forces in Syria and Judaea. But since Galba gave

a \ “ ,

4 tod 6€ TadrBa py ravu tov vovv tpocEexovtTos
a / 4 a /
AUTO LNOE TLOTEVOVTOS EYVW TPOETLYELPELY* KALTOL
\ Ua wv
Kr wédios Kércos Avtioxevs, avnp Euppwv, evvous
, / > Nv
Sé éxeiva Kal TioTOS, amNyopEevE, A€yWY OVK aD olecOat ptav év ‘Pon cuvorxiav Kaicapa mpocrn 7 / \
evreiv Nupdidiov. adda TrOAAOL KATEYEAWY, KAL
\ i \ MiOpidatns o Wovtixos émicxwntwr thy para-
, Nepee: , a aby / a 4 ‘ KpoTnTa Kal puocotnta Tov VarBa viv edn tiva a ® ¢ / bd / \ a a Soxeiv eivar ‘Pwpyators, opOévta 5é€ havetcbar Tav nuep@v ToUTwY as KadctTat Kaicap, dvetdos.
4S / \
XIV. "EdoEev otv mept pécas vuxtas eis THY TmapeuBornvy tapayayovtas avadekvuety avToxpatopa tov Nupdidiov. mpa@tos d€ TaV yId-
i / ?
apyov "Avrwos “Ovwpatos éomépas yevopevns
>] nw , \
Tous Ud’ éavT@ otpatiwotas curayaywv éxaxile
\ e , N 3 , ? 9 ,
uev autov, éxdnite d€ éxeivous év OALyYo Ypovw TpoTas TOTAaUTAaS TpETTOMEVOUS KAT OvdéVA AOYL-

\ 2Q\ A b s ’ \ / , TOV Ovde aipecty awELVOVwY, adXra Sai povos TLI'OS autovs ék mpococias eis tpodociav éhavvorTos.
2 Kai Ta wey TpaTAa TMpopaces éxev Ta Né€pwvos
/ a , , , , eyxAnuata: vov de arPav mpodsdovat, tiva hovov
a / , LNTpos eyxadrouvrTas 7) ohayijy yuvatKos, %} Tota aidoupévous Oupérny 7) Traywdiayv TOD avTOKpAaTo-eo ’ jes 2 OA us , e , pos; “AXXN ovdé exelvov emt TOUVTOLS UTEMELVALEV éyxatahiteiv, adda Nupdidim merodévtes dre TMparos nuas eyKaTédiTve Kal Tépevyev ets
> / ~
3 Atyurtov. rotepov ovv Népww VarSav eémi-Ovawpeda, Kal tov éx« Nupdidias éXopevot Kaiaapa Tov éx AtBias avéXwpev, ws Tov @& “Aypit-

no heed to him whatever and put no confidence in his reports, he determined not to wait before making his attempt. And yet Clodius Celsus of Antioch, a man of good sense, who was well-disposed and faithful to him, tried to dissuade him, saying that in his opinion not a single precinct in Rome would give Nymphidius the title of Caesar. But many ridiculed Galba, and especially Mithridates of Pontus, who scoffed about his bald head and wrinkled face, and said that now the Romans thought him a great personage, but when they saw him they would regard all the days in which he had borne the title of Caesar as a disgrace to them.

XIV. It was decided, therefore, to bring Nym- phidius into the camp about midnight and proclaim him emperor. But when it was evening, the lead- ing military tribune, Antonius Honoratus, calling together the soldiers under his command, reviled himself, and reviled them for changing about so often in so short a time, not according to any plan or choice of better things, but because some evil spirit drove them from one treachery to another. In the first instance, he said, they had an excuse in the crimes of Nero; but now, if they were to betray Galba, what charge of murdering his mother or slaying his wife could they bring against him, or what feelings of shame that their emperor should appear in public as musician or tragic actor? “ Nay, not even with these provocations would we consent to abandon a Nero, but we had to be persuaded by Nymphidius that Nero had first abandoned us and fled to Egypt. Shall we, then, sacrifice Galba after Nero, and choosing the son of Nymphidia as our Caesar, shall we slay the scion of the house of Livia, mivns avetdomev; 1) TovT@ Sixny émiBevtes wv 1059 dé5paxe, TLswpot pev Népwvos, VadBa o€ dvraxes ayabol Kal miaTol pavopev;”

Tatra \éyovts TO YLLdpy~@ mpogeHevto TavTEs ol OTPATL@TAL, Kal TOUS AAOUS TpocLOVTES Eupé-VELV TAPEKUAOUY TH TPOS TOV AVTOKPATOPA TLATEL
Kal TOUS WrElous peTéaTHaav. apOeians dé Bojs, elite metaOels 0 Nuudicios, &s acu Eviot, Kadelv avtov On TOUS oTpaTLMTas, elTe TpoAABeEiv orrEv-Swv 1d OopvBody éte Kai diotafov, vO pwti TOAA@ TMpone, Aoyov Tia Koullwyv ev BiBrtw yeypampevov vio Kiyywviov Bappwvos, by éxpe-UENETIKEL TPOS TOUS TTpaTLWTAS EiTrEty. LOw@Y bE KekreLamevas TOU oTpaToTédov TAS TUAAS Kal
Tept TA TELXYN TOAAOUS TAL MEvOUS EdELTE’ KAL
Tpoci@yv npwta Te Bovrovtat Kal Tivos KEedeEvUgavTos €v OTAOLS yeyovacly. aTravTw@ans 6 avT@
Tapa TavTov pas Povns, LarBav avtoxpatopa
YLVMOKELY, KAKELVOS OMOTE YHOPOV EeTTEvgr}LEL Kat
TOUS ETOMEVOUS EXEAEVE. TOY O€ TAPA TAS TUAAS TapevTwy avtov eiaedOciy pet GALywY avTos axovrieTat AoyXn’ Kal TavTynY pev edcEaTO TPO avtov Ovpe@ Nemripmos, dArdwv 66 yupvois Eiheow emipepopevwy guyov Kat diwxOels ev olxrpate OTpatiwtov apaTTEeTat. Kal TOY vexpor eis pégoV
EXKvoavTes Kal TepiBarovTes KLyKALOa Oéapa Tots Bovropévors pel” uépav Tapéaxov.
XV. Otrtw b€ tod Nuydidiou catactpévavtos
0 LarSas rvOdpuevos, kai TOY suvwpoTtayv avtod as we have slain the son of Agrippina? Or, shall we inflict punishment on Nymphidius for his evil deeds, and thereby show ourselves avengers of Nero, but true and faithful guardians of Galba?”’ So spoke the tribune, and all his soldiers took his side, and visiting their fellow-soldiers, exhorted them to maintain their fidelity to the emperor; and they brought over the greater part of them. But now loud shouts arose, and Nymphidius, either because he was convinced, as some say, that the soldiers were already calling him, or because he was anxious to win over betimes the element that was still unruly and mutinous, came up in a glare of lights, carrying in his hand a speech written out for him by Cingonius Varro ; this he had got by heart to deliver to the soldiers. But when he saw the gate of the camp closed and a great number of men under arms along the walls, he was struck with fear ; and drawing near, he asked what they meant, and by whose command they were under arms. One cry caine to him from the lips of all, and this was that they acknowledged Galba as emperor, whereupon he also, as he joined them, shouted in approval, and bade his followers do the same. But after the soldiers at the gate had permitted him to enter with a few followers, alance was hurled at him. This weapon was received in the shield which Septimius interposed, but others assailed him, with drawn swords, where-upon he fled, was pursued, and was cut down in a soldier’s hut. His dead body was dragged forth, surrounded with a paling, and exposed to public view all day.

XV. Such was the violent end of Nymphidius, and when Galba learned of it, he ordered such of his

a 3 “ ef \ bs ¢ ~ > ‘ Kerevoas amobaveiy boot pn bt auTa@v eEvdus amreOavor, ev ois nv Kab Kuyyeveos 0 TOV Aoyou yparpas Kal Mid pedarns o Lovtexos, edofe [1 VO pL LOS, el Kal Otxatws, pene OnMoTLKaS d avnpnKeva ™ po Kpioews avopas OUK don jous. ETE POV yap HY OVLAS XA ja. ™ pog ed€XOVTO TAVTES, efarrato-[LeEVvOL cv Gas UTO TOY €v apx heyomeva. ere d€ paddov Hwlag ev avtous avnp uTaTiKos Kal Népwrt wictos amobavely xedevobets, Letpwvios Tovpmtrtavos. Maxpov' yap év AtBun ota Tpe-Bwriov! cai Povrijiov év Deppavig Ova Ovdrertos avekov mpopactv elyev ev OTAOLS Kal oT PATOTE-dors ¢ ovTas PoOijvat. Touprthavov dé, yépovta yunVvov Kal dvomwAov, Noyou peTtadaBelv ovdev ex@huen, EL ie Nv emayyerdeTau HET PLOTHTA TOES mpdypacty * Epye purdgew Emerre, Taira pev ovy TOLAUTAS EveEL peurpers. émrel O€ 7 POTLwy dmreixe TIS TONEWS Tept TeEVTE Kal elKoot oTadious, éveTUYXavev aKor pbg Kat GopuBa TOV EpETOV THY OOOV TPOKATEX OV TOY Kal TEPLKEX UME

vov TavTax oben. ovTOL 6€ Haav ods Els ev Taypa
0 Nepor cudroXioas ATEPNVE oT paTLoTas: Kal
TOTE TA POVTES exBeBavwcacbat Thy oTpatetav
OUT op Ohya Tots aTravT @aotv ovT axovadhvat Tapiecay TOV avToxpaTopa, arr' eGopuBouv Bon onmela TO TAYUATL Kau X@pav UCU ES: EKELVOU
8¢ breptiMeuévou Kal Tadw elreiv? KeredoavTos, } Maxpoy (as in xiii. 3), TpeBwvlov, suggested by Sint.? for Maxpova and TpeBwrviavov of the MSS.

* rpayuaow Sint.? has ypiuuacw (in his Ictters), after Emporius.
3 add eizetvy Bekker has wapelxew (yield), after Coraés.

2 36

GALBA xv. 1-4

fellow-conspirators as had not at once taken their own lives to be put to death. Among these was Cingonius, who wrote the speech for Nymphidius, and Mithridates of Pontus. But it was held to be illegal and despotic, even though just, to put to death without a trial men who were not without distinction. For everyone expected a different mode © of government, being thoroughly deceived, as is usual, by assurances made in the beginning. And people took it still more amiss when Petronius Turpilianus, a man of consular dignity who was faithful to Nero, was ordered to take his own life. For in having Macer taken off in Africa at the hands of 'Trebonius, and Fonteius in Germany at the hands of Valens, Galba could excuse himself with the fear they inspired as commanders of armed forces. But there was no reason why Turpilianus, a helpless old man and unarmed, should not have a chance to defend himself, if the emperor was really going to observe that moderation in his dealings which he promised. Such, then, was the censure to which these acts exposed Galba. Moreover, when, in his approach to the city, he was distant from it about five-and- twenty furlongs, he fell in with a disorderly and tumultuous crowd of seamen, who beset his way and encompassed him on all sides. These were men whom Nero had formed into a legion and given the title of soldiers. And now they were there to enforce their just rights as soldiers, and would not suffer the emperor to be seen or heard by those who came to meet him, but with tumultuous shouts demanded standards for their legion and regular quarters. When Galba put off their demand and told them to renew it at another time, they declared

237

PLUTARCH SS. EIVEs

' 4 an \ 3 x ie J , apyncews aY}wa THY avaBornv eivat PacKovTeEs

s \ U “A HYAVAKTOUY KAL TapeLTovTo jA7) Pedouevor Bojjs.

/ >

éviwy d¢ Kal Tas payalpas oTAaTAapEevoeny, Exédevae
n lal ral e f e / Tovs (rmeis éuBarety avtois o TadBas. vmectn \ 3 \ >) ? 3 % e \ > ‘ $ i:
dé ovdels ExEeivwY, AX’ Of bev EvOUS avaTpaTEVTES,

, \ + Q\

of Sé dhevyovtes SuePOapnaoav, ob ypynatov ovdE ra ~ f \ Ni 3 , aictov mo.obrtes TO LarPa Tov olwvov etovovtt

A fa) 7 > \

61a TOAAOD dhovov Kal vexp@v TOTOU’TMY Els THY

, 3 b] b] 7 3 A , ,
TOALY. GAN El KAL TLS AUTOD KaTEPpovet TpOTeE-Tay / , A pov acbevots Kal yépovTos Opwpévov, TOTE TAGt dpixwdns Kal PoPepos éyeveto.
rer , A \ \

XVI. Bovaropevos 5é tis wepl tas Swpeds ape-Tpias Kal ToANUTENELas TOU Népwvos aTodetxvuvat peyarny petaBorny, aatoxely edoxer TOV Tpé-
- \ > / b] “A \ Tovtos. Kavov yap avAnoavtos avT@® mapa 1060 ra ’ , \ 4 e rf b] A cetrvov (axpoapa O€ hv Oo Kavos evdoxipovpevor) éraweoas Kal amodeEapevos éxéXevoev AUTO KomaO vat TO yAwWooOKopoY' Kal AaBwY Ypuaods
b] / nw Yee & / > A b] , 3 Tivas eTédwKe TO Kava, dycas ex Tov idiwy, ovK
’ na a , \ \ \ a
2€« Tav Snpociwy yapilecOar. tas 5é Swpeds as Népwy Edwxe Tols TEpl OKNVIVY Kat TANALaTpAa)Y, aTateta Pat cuvTovws KeXEVaAS TAY TOD OEKATOU

f ‘ tA
pepous, €iTa pixpa Kal yAiaxypa Koprlopevos / \ wn la (aynXwKecav yap ot TreloToL THY AaPovTwr,
? f \ \ ray f wv épynuepot Kat aatupixol ois Pios avOpwtrot)
A 7 n 3 ~
TOUS Tplauevous Tap avTwY 7) AaBovTas oTLODY
> f a
3. avefnte. Kal Tap éxewwv é&érpatte. Tod &é
/ e pT
TpayLaTos Opov OvK ExXOVTOS, GAAA TopPPH
, a #
VEMOMEVOU KAL TpolovTOs emt TOAAOUS, AUTOS [eV 238
GALBA xv. 4-xvI. 3

that the postponement was merely a way of refusing their demands, and were incensed, and followed along with unremitted shouts. Some actually drew their swords, and then Galba ordered his horsemen to charge upon them. Not a man of them stood his ground, but some were done to death at once in the rout, and others as they fled, nor was it a happy and auspicious omen that Galba should enter the city through so much slaughter and so many dead bodies. But whereas many had before this despised him and looked upon him as a weak old man, now all regarded him with shuddering fear.

AVI. And now, in his desire to display a great change from Nero’s immoderate and extravagant manner of giving, he was thought to fall short of what was fitting. For example, after Canus had played on the flute for him at a banquet (now Canus was a performer of high repute), he was loud in his praises and ordered his purse to be brought to him; and taking from it a few gold pieces, he gave them to Canus, with the remark that the gift was made from his own, and not from the public moneys. Again, he ordered that the gifts which Nero had made to people of the theatre and palaestra should be demanded back again with strictness, all but the tenth part; and then, when he got only slight and grudving returns (for most of the recipients had squandered their largess, being men of a loose and improvident way of living), he had a search made for such as had bought or received anything whatsoever from them, and tried to exact it from these. The business had no limits, but was far extended and affected many; it gave the emperor himself a bad

239

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

, \ a ? 2
nooker, PUovov dé Kat picos elyey Ovivios, ws a \ # uA > , 4
Tois pev adXOLS ATraciy avEeNevOEpoy TapEeyov
f ‘ \ ‘
TOV nYyEMOVa Kal pixpodoyov, avTos Sé Kpwpmevos
, \ 4
dag@tTws Kal NapBavov TavTa Kal TiTpdoKey.
e \ \ ¢ /
o pev yap ‘Hotodos 4 apyouévou te 7iov Kai AnyovTOS Kopéecacbat
a e A a \ /
dyai dey, o 6é Ovivos op@v acbevn Kat yépovta \ = ed b) , a 2 ¢e LA \ tov adap éevertiptAaTO THS TUXNS, OS apa pe apxopuévns, dua O€ POwovons.
a \ XVII. ‘O 6 mpecBirns ndtkeito TA pev a fal A A \ mpata tod Ovwwiov caxws dio.KodvTos, & 5€ avTOS
A wn / opO@s mponpeito Sta8ddAovTos 1) KwAVOVTOS: olov Hv TO Tept Tas KOAdoES TOV Nepwriavear.
> s \ \ , ’ e 2 ce
ATEKTELVE YAP TOUS TrovNpoUS, ev ols HV Oo” AXtos
a 7
cat LlodvKdectos kat Ierivos nat IarpdoBtos.
€ \ a a a o 6€ Ojos expoter, Kal be ayopds a’Ta@v ayo-/ bd , \ \ % \ a 4
Hévwv €Boa kadnv pev elvat cat GeoptrAn rouTny,
> A \ N \ \ 9 4 x , atraitety 6€ Kai Peovs Kal avOpwrrous Tov bidacKa-Nov Kat tratdaywyov THs Tupavvidos Tuyeddivor.
\ e a aA
épOaxer b€ 0 yewaios mpoerAndas appaBace
, \ cf = \ 4
beyaros tov Ovimov. eita Toupmidsavos péy,
e / OTe pty tpoedidov pnde euicee Tov yyeuova
a) ” , ” \ Nig ceN UA TOLOUTOY OVTA puLgovpEVOS, AAO SE wHdEe EV péya cuvabixnaas, aTéBavev: o 5€ Kal Toijoas dktov

4 / n
Gavatou Népwva Kat yevopevov to.odtov éyKxa-TaXIT@Y Kal Mpodov’s TepiAv, uéya Sidaypya
1 Works and Days, 366.
240
GALBA xvI. 3-xvil. 3

name, and brought envy and hatred upon Vinius as having made the emperor ungenerous and sordid with everybody else, while he himself used money lavishly, taking everything that was offered and selling freely. For Hesiod! bids men to * Drink without stint at the beginning and end ot the cask,” and so Vinius, seeing that Galba was old and feeble, sated himself with the good fortune which he thought was just beginning and at the same time was soon to end.

XVII. But the aged emperor suffered injustice not only when Vinius, as at first, administered affairs badly, but also when he brought into odium or pre- vented wise measures set on foot by Galba him- self; as, for instance, in the matter of punishing the adherents of Nero. For Galba set out to kill the bad ones, among whom were Helius and Polycleitus and Petinus and Patrobius. And the people applauded the act, and shouted, as the culprits were dragged through the forum to their doom, that it was a goodly procession indeed, and acceptable tothe gods, but that gods and men alike demanded justice on the tutor and teacher of the tyrant, namely, Tigel- linus. That worthy minister, however, had won the protection of Vinius betimes, by means of large advances, Again, Turpilianus, who was hated merely because he would not betray nor show hatred to Nero in spite of all that emperor's crimes, but apart from this had participated in no one serious offence, was put to death; whereas the man who had made Nero worthy of death, and betrayed and forsook him when he had come to that pass, was left alive — a great

241

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

Tov prdey ampaxtov eivas Tapa Ortuviw pndé dvérxmictov toils Sudovcw. ovdevos yap odtw Oedpatos épacbeis o “Pwpatwy Sijpos ws Tov Tiyedr{ivov idety amayopuevov, ovdé Tavodpevos éy waot Gedtpows Kal otadiors aitovpevos éxetvor, eremANYOn Staypaupate Tod avtoxpatopos Tt- yerdivov pev ov modvy ett BiwoecGat pacxov- Tos ypovov wd POiwados vooov Satavwpevor, éxelvous O€ Tapatoupévov pry Stayplaivery 5 unde TUpavviKny Tolely THY Hyenoviav. ayOo-

lo

pévou 6€ Tod Oijuov Katayed@vTes o pev Tuyer-
a , \ Alvos GOuce GwTNpLA Kal TapetKEevacE NAmTpAaY
/ \ \ a > éatiaciy, o 6€ Ovivios dvactas Tapa Tov avTo-Kpatopos peta Oeltvov exwpacey WS ExELvOr, ayov tiv Ouyatépa yipav ovcav. Kal TpoUTLED Lf a a / o Tiyeddtvos avtn mévte Kal elxoot pupiadas
’ / \ a , \ 3
apyuplov, Kal T@Y TaddAaKidwy THY ayerap-n La ,
yodoav €KéXEVGE TOV TEpLOépaLovy Koo pov adedo-
/
pcvynv éxelin mepiarar, mervtexaidexa puptadwv eivat NEyouEvov.
rr 3 \ , ,
AVIIT. Ex 6€ tovtov Kat ta petpims mpat-
, \ s e \ \ \ c
Topeva S:aRodyy elyev, WS TA Tpds ToVs Taratas
Ovivdcne svvapapevous. édoKovv yap ov dtrav-Cpwria Tod avtoxpatopos, GAA wvovpEvot Tapa
/ a Ovuviov tuyyaverv avécews Te Sacuav Kal
, e \ ¢ \ ‘ “a N
ToNLTelas. Ol ev ovY TOAXNOL Oia TADTA pds
\ / \
THY HYELoViay aTnyOavovTo, TOYS O€ GTPATLWTAS
\ \ \ / “
THY OwpEedy p41) KoutComévous ev upyn pev éArris wn \ a e
Tapiyev WS, EL KaL pf TOoTOUTOV, AAN écov 242

GALBA xvil. 3-xvitI. 2

object-lesson to show that Vinius could do anything and fulfil any expectation for those who gave him enough. For there was no spectacle on which the Roman people had so set their hearts as that of Tigellinus dragged away to punishment, and in all the theatres and circuses they would not cease demanding him, until they were quelled by an edict of the emperor in which he declared that Tigellinus was wasting away with consumption and had not much longer to live, and advised them not to exasperate the government or force it to be tyrannical. Then, in mockery of the dissatisfied people, ‘Tigel- linus offered sacrifices for his preservation and prepared a splendid feast; and Vinius, rising from beside the emperor, afterwards went to a drinking- bout in Tigellinus' house, leading his daughter, who was a widow. Tigellinus pledged her health with a gift of twenty-five myriads of money,! and ordered the governess of his concubines to take the necklace from her own neck and put it about hers. The necklace was said to be worth fifteen myriads. XVIII. After this, even the reasonable measures of the emperor fell under censure, as, for instance, his treatment of the Gauls who had conspired with Vindex. For they were thought to have obtained their remission of tribute and their civil rights, not through the kindness of the emperor, but by purchase from Vinius. Such were the reasons, then, why most of the people hated the government; but the soldiers, though they had not received their promised largess, were led on at first by the hope that Galba would give them, if not the whiole of it, at least as much as

1 See the note on Chap. ii. 2.

Népav EOWKED, dr o8@a ov70s. ere bé pempopevous aKkovaas apie peovipy nryewoue peyaro Tpé-movoay, eitr@v elwOevar KaTaheyery oTpaTlwTas, OUK dryopatety, mubopévors ToOTO Oeevov eta Oe picos Kal dyptov 7 pos avuTov. éd0oKker yap ovK autos amoaTepety }Ov0S, GXG vopoberetv Kab ds0doKew TOUS peel? auToVv aUTOKPaTopas.
"AAG TO pev ev 'Pon Tupnov 9} yy éTe Kiva, Kat TIS aldas apa T™ pos. Tapovta TOV Daa Bav apBrutnta Kal pedANoLY éveTroiel TH VEWTEPLT MM, Kal TO pndepiay apxny enpavi} peTaBoniis, opa-aba TUVETTENXAE Kat OuvexpuT Tey apes ryé TOS
Ty Ovgpmévetay auTo@v. ot O€ mpoTepoy wird Ovepyiwviw yevopevot, TOTEe 8 dvtTes Vd PraKK@
mept Teppaviav, peyadhov pev aktodvtes avtous Sua Thy paynv iy euayécavto mpos Oviverxa, pn devos dé TuyydvovTes, amapnyopntoe Tos dpXovat Hoav. avtTov be TOV DrdkKxov wo OUVTOVOU moddypas advvatov dvTa TO Topare
Kal Tpayparoy aTretpov €vy ovoevt Aorye 70
TapaTay émovovvTo. Kat TOTE Oéas ovaons, Kat TOV Xeded pyeov Kal oyayav TO 'Peopators ouvnbes evTUYiay eTTEUXOMEVOV TO avToKpaTopt DarBa, CveBopuSnaar ol Toot TO ™p@Tov, elTa Tas evxais émiuevovtTwy €xeivov avtehovouv 'hi a&tos."

XIX. Totaita éé € Erepa Kal TOV umo A eryehhivep
TaypaToV UBpilovtwy TONAGKLS, emt ETO ypap-pata TO Parse Tapa TOV emLTpoTT@D: 0 6€ poBnbeis @S mu) povoy Sta TO yhpas, AXA Kal 1 +o wev Coraés and Bekker have ray piv, the correction of Reiske.

244

106

GALBA xvirt. 2—xIx. 1

Nerv had given. When, however, Galba heard that they were complaining, he spoke out as became a great emperor, and declared that it was his custom to enroll soldiers, not to buy them; whereupon they began to cherish a dire and savage hatred towards him. For they thought that he was not only defrauding them himself, but laying down the law and giving instructions for succeeding emperors.
But the agitation at Rome was still smouldering, and at the same time a certain respect for Galba's presence blunted and delayed the spirit of revolution, and the absence of any manifest occasion for a change repressed and kept under cover, somehow or other, the resentment of the soldiers. But the army which had formerly served under Verginius, and was now serving under Flaccus in Germany, thinking themselves deserving of great rewards on account of the battle they had fonght against Vindex, and getting nothing, could not be appeased by their officers. Of Flaccus himself, who was physically incapacitated by an acute gout, and inexperienced in the conduct of affairs, they made no account whatever. And once at a spectacle, when the military tribunes and centurions, after the Roman custom, invoked health and happiness upon the emperor Galba, the mass of the soldiery raised a storm of dissent at first, and then, when the officers persisted in their invocation, cried out in response,
"If he deserves it."
XIX. The legions also that were under the command of Tigellinus frequently behaved with similar insolence, and letters on the subject were sent to Galba by his agents. So the emperor, fearing that it was not only his old age but also his 245

Sia Tv aTadiay Katadpovovpevos, éBovreveTo maida bécba TaY émepavav TWA VEAVLOKOY Kal ° draboNov dmodeifar Tis a PXTS: AW O€ Madpxos
"Odwy, avnp yever ev ov« apavns, Tpudh 5é Kat dirnsoviats evO ds € EK TALC € év orLYyOLS Popaiov
Step Oappevos. os 6€ Tov ’AnreEardpor * ‘Opnpos
G ‘EXevns Tool UKOMOLO, unoev EXOVTG. ™ pos
Sofav addo TE MVULOV amo THS YUVALKOS, ovopater TONAGKLS, OUTWS YyEeyovas TeptBonTtos év ‘Pwopn
dua Tov llomratas yapov, 5 pa yey O Népov K promive cuvovens, ere 5 aldovpevos thy eauTov yUvatKa. Kal Ty pjTEpa poBovpevos upijxe TOV 3 O8wva TELpovTa THY llowmacav. die dé TO ‘Oveove Kal oupBLoTh oud Ty dowTav EY P1TO, Kal CKOTTOLEVOS UT AUTOU TOANGKIS ELS MLKPO-
Noylav weal dvedevOepiav Exatpe. AeyeTar b¢
Tove puppy TOV TorUTENOY Xploajevou TOU
Nésawvos cat tov Obwva KataBpegavros, EKELVOS Tad 7H varepaig Se XO LEV05 QUTOV Gua TOdAa-yoblev apyvupoos Kal Xpvaovs m™poBanetv ave owas, MoTeEp bowp 70 pLupov EXXEOVTAS Kal 4 KavaKulovras. ara THY ye Llomwmatav 7 po jL0txevras TO Népwvt, kat SsapGetpas Tats ets éxeivow édmiow, mercer aToTTHVvat TOU avopos.
éAGovans d€ Tap’ AUTOV WS YamETsS OvK HyaTa HETEX OD, ann’ HOXANNE eTaSiOovs, Ovde aUTIS
a tx Goperns, 6 os fact, TH CydoTunta TiS llowraias.
Sai yap amoxhetoat Tov Népova NEYETAL [1
TU POVvT OS TOU ‘OPavoes, ELTE THS ndovhs apatpovoa
TO Wrrjopioy, elite, WS hac éviol, Bapvvouern 246

GALBA xix. 1-5

childlessness that brought him into contempt, planned to adopt some young man of illustrious tamily and appoint him his successor. Marcus Otho, now, was a man of good lineage, but from his very childhood corrupted by luxury and the pursuit of pleasure as few Romans were. And as Homer often calls Paris “the husband of fair-haired Helen,” giving him a dignity borrowed from his wife, since he had no other title to fame, so Otho was celebrated at Rome for his marriage with Poppaea. With Poppaea Nero was enamoured while she was the wife of Crispinus, but since he respected his own wife still and feared his mother, he put Otho up to soliciting her favours for him. For because of . Otho’s lavish prodigality Nero made an intimate friend of him, and was well pleased to be rallied by him often for parsimony and meanness. Thus, we are told that Nero once anointed himself with a costly ointment and sprinkled a little of it upon Otho; whereupon Otho, entertaining the emperor in his turn on the following day, suddenly brought into play gold and silver pipes on all sides of the room, out of which the ointment gushed freely, like so much water. But as for Poppaea, Otho corrupted her with hopes of Nero's favour and seduced her first himself, and persuaded her to leave her husband. However, after she had come to live with him as his wife, he was not content to have only a share in her favours, and was loth to give Nero a share, while Poppaea herself, as we are told, was not displeased at the rivalry between them. For it is said that she would shut out Nero although Otho was not at home; whether it was that she sought to keep his pleasure in her from cloying, or whethcr, as some x ¥. f a ' lal \ \ if tov Katoapos yapov, épastn O€ pn hevyouvca xpHabac dua TO prhaxodac ov. éxivduvevoev ov 0 "Odwy am oBaveiy: Kat Taparoryov 7 ore

TH yuvatia, Kab ade pny atroxteivas 1a TOV Hommacas yapov epeicato TOU "OBwvos.
XX. Levéwav dé etXev evvoUY" KAKELVOU TOV Népwva reicavtos Kat TapawveravTos eLem eu pon Avo.tavav oT paTryos ert tov '"Oxeavov. Kai Taper Xev EAUTOV OVK axapw ovoe€e emax On Tots UTNKOOLS, elows Pvyas: UToKOpta pa Kal TapaKa-2AuEpA THY UpXHY aUT@ Cedopevny. aTroagTavTos dé Parpa TpP@TOS AUTO * TposexXwpnoe TOV
YE MOVOD, Kal pépwv ¢ doov elev éy eKTOPATL Kal Tparretacs dpryupov Kal xpucov EOWKE KazaKxorral TOLOU LEV VOomIoMa, Kal TOV oLkeTa@V edwpijcaro tous elOtapévous mept Startay nyepove empedas vroupyelV. Kal Ta aha TIT OS ay avT@, Kab OLOovs 7 meicav ovdevos NT TOV edoxer Tparywarov EMT ELPOS evar Kai BadilovTt Tay odoy dmacap ep' Typepas ToNAS TUVOXOUBLEVOS OueTéhece.
3ev 5€ 7H cuvodia Kal TH ouvndeta tov Oviviov eEeeparevoer épiréa Kat Sapous, padiora d€ TOV TPWTELOV dprepevos avT@ TO YE per" éxeivov dvvacbat &v éxetrov _€iXe BeBaios. TO O€ apv-emihOova Tepeny', TpoiKa CULT Pat Tov mavra Tots deomevos, Kal TAapeX@v EaUTOV eUT poo 1yyopov Kab pirrdvpwrov aract. Trelota o€ Tois oTpaTIW-TLKOLS oUVEAapBave Kal Tpotye moddouvs ed
' aire Coraés and Bekker, after Du Soul: airtds.

1 Cf. Tacitus, Annals, xiii. 45 f, say, she recoiled from a marriage with the emperor, but was not averse to having him as a lover, out of mere wantonness. Otho, accordingly, came into peril of his life; and it was strange that although his own wife and sister were put to death by Nero on account of his marriage with Poppaea, Otho himself was spared.!

XX. But Otho had the good will of Seneca, by whose advice and persuasion Nero sent him out as governor of Lusitania to the shores of the western ocean. Here he made himself acceptable and pleasing to his subjects, although he knew that his office had been given him to disguise and mitigate his banishment. When Galba revolted, Otho was the first of the provincial governors to go over to him, and bringing all the gold and silver that he had in the shape of drinking-cups and tables, he gave it to him for conversion into coin, presenting him also with those of his servants who were qualified to give suitable service for the table of an emperor. In other ways he was trusted by Galba, and when put to the test was thought to be inferior to none as a man of affairs; and during the entire journey of the emperor he would travel in the same carriage with him for many days together. Moreover, amid the intimacies of the common journey he paid court to Vinius, both in person and by means of gifts, and, above all else, by yielding to him the first place, he got his aid in holding securely the place of influence next to him. But in avoiding envy he was superior to Vinius, for he gave his petitioners every aid with- out any reward, and showed himself easy of access and kindly to all men. But it was the soldiers whom he was most ready to help, and he advanced many of

Hyewovias, TA wey AlTOUpEVOS ATO TOD aUvTOKpA-

4 topos, Ta 5é Tov Ovdimoy Kat Tods amedevOépous nmapakahov “Ikedov cal “Acwatixov? obTor yap Hoa év Suvdmer pwadiota TaYV Tepl THY avrAND. ocak dé Tov TadBav etotia, thy tapadunat- Tovaav det omeipay édéxale Ypucovuy exdoTo Stavéuwv, ols Tusay avTov éddxet KaTAaTOALTEVO- wevos Kal Snuwaywy@v TO OTPATLWTLKOV.

XXI. 7A’ oby Bovrevopévov ye tov TarBa wept Siaboyou Tov "OPwva tapeciyyev 6 Ovinios, ovde ToOUTO Tpolka Tpdaowr, arr eri yao Tis PuyaTtpos, oporoyias yevouéevns yapuety avi Tov

"OOwva waiéa tod VadBa cai diddoyov azrodet-yOévta THs nyepovias. o 6€ TarBas dei pev tv dros Wo TOV Ldlou TO KoLVOY TLOEwEevos Kal EnTav
ovy avT@ OécOar Tov Hdiotov, addrAa ‘Popaiols
2 Tov wdhedAyuwtatov. Soxed d€ pnd av éme Tots Ldious Xpynuact movov éErXéa0ar Tov "OPwva KANpoO-VOMOV, AKOAATTOY Eld@s Kal TOAUTENT Kal TeVTA-KtoxXthiwy pupiddov odrnuact BeBatticpévov.
d0ev axovaas Tod Ovdiviov ciwTh Kal Tpaws uTepeOeto tiv Oiabectv. atrodeiEas 8 avuTov vTatov Kat cuvapyovta tov Ovimov éridokos ty étous apy tov diddoxov avayopevcev: Kai TO TTPATIWTLKOD NOEWS ELYE TOV "OOwva Tap ovTLVOvY adXov avayopevO hvar.
XXIV. KatadtapBaver 8 adbtov te pédXovta

1 See the note on Chap. ii. 2.

them to places of command, sometimes asking the appointment from the emperor, and sometimes getting the support of Vinius, and of the freedmen Icelus and Asiaticus; for these were the most influential men at court. And as often as he entertained Galba, he would compliment the cohort. on duty for the day by giving each man a gold piece, thus showing honour to the emperor, as it was thought, while really scheming for the support and favour of the soldiery.

XXI. So, then, while Galba was deliberating upon a successor, Vinius suggested Otho. And yet not even this was done for nothing, but as a return for the marriage of his daughter. For it had been agreed that Otho should marry her when he had been adopted by Galba and declared his successor. But Galba always showed clearly that he placed the public good before his private interests, and in the present case that he aimed to adopt, not the man who was most agreeable to himself, but the one who would be most serviceable to the Romans. And it does not seem that he would have chosen Otho merely as the heir of his own private fortune,’since he knew that he was unrestrained and extravagant und immersed in debts amounting to five millions.! Wherefore, after listening to Vinius calmly and without a word, he postponed his decision. But he appointed himself and Vinius consuls for the follow- ing year, and it was expected that on their accession to office he would declare his successor. And the soldiery would have been glad that Otho, rather than anyone else, should be so declared.

XXII. But while the emperor was hesitating and deliberating, he was overtaken by the dis-251

PLUTARCH'S LIVES

Kal Bourevopevor € exparyevTa. Ta Deppaved. Kow? yap admavTes ot oTpaTEevopevor tov |" dr Bay € éuioouv ovK aTrodloovTa T1)V Sw pedy, idtas 6€ éxetvot Tpo- paces | €7r OLOVYTO Ovepyivioy te Povdov a aTrepptfe- pévov aTLiuLws Kal Dararov TOUS TORUS AVTAS

avtois Swpeov TuyNxavovTas, doot dé ey TpoaéBevTo Ovivdsee Koralouevors, @ @ OVW TOV ParBav yap elOevar Kat Toma reOvncoTa Kal 'yepaipecy dnpoaioss évaryio pois, os vt' exetvou "Pw patwv dro deSeury wévov avToKpaTopa. TOLOUTWY davadavdov 707 Lovyov év TO oTpaTon ede Tepuepomeveov émnrdev 1) voupnvia TOU TpwrTou MNV0s; Ny Ka-Aavéas "Javovapias Kxadovat tot dé DrdKKov ouvayayovtos avtous ért tov Spxov dv EBos éativ Ouvuew vUTép TOV avTOKPaTOPOS, TAS meV ELKOVAS tov TadBa mpocedOovtes dvétpeyav Kal KatéoTacap, avutol 5€ OuocayTes UTép TUYKANTOVU Kal Orjwou 'Popator dtervOnoav. eita Tois Hye LOVe-Kois TapiaTaTo dedorkévau THY dvapxiav @s dnoaTacw. ever € Tes ev avrois" 2 Te Tao XO-ev, A) TvaTpAaTOTat, nT addor Tyyepova. TOLOU~ pevoe pyre Tov vov ovTa pudarrovtes, @OTEP OV TarBav, adr ors apxovra KQL TO dpxeoOat pevyovres ; PraxKov pev ovv Opdedvioy ovdev adro i) oxtay ovta Larsa Kat elOwrov éatéor, nmEépas 6¢ pias odov apeotnKer LOY Ovitedrx0s, 0 THS eTEpas Deppantas HYOUMEVOS, TAT pos TE TLULNTOU Kal Tpis UTATOV yEvomevouU Kal Kravdio Katcapt tpoToy twa avvapEavtos, avtos Te TV
1 See Chap. iv. 3

252

103

GALBA xxu. 1-5

orders which broke out among the trvops in Germany. For the soldiers in all parts of the empire had a common hatred of Galba because he had not given them their usual largess, but those in Germany made special excuses for them- selves out of the fact that Verginius Rufus had been cast off in dishonour; that the Gauls who had fought against them were getting rewards, while all those who had not joined Vindex were being punished; and that to Vindex alone Galba showed gratitude by honouring him when he was dead and giving him the distinction of public obsequies, on the ground that Vindex had proclaimed him emperor of the Romans.! Such arguments as these were already circulating openly in the camp, when the first day of the first month came, which the Romans call the Calends of January. On this day Flaccus assembled the soldiers that they might take the customary oath of allegiance to the emperor; but they overturned and pulled down all the statues of Galba which they could find, and after swearing allegiance to the senate and people of Rome, went to their quarters. Then their officers began to fear that their lawless spirit might issue in revolt, and one of them made this speech : “What is wrong with us, my fellow soldiers? We are neither supporting the present emperor nor setting up another. It is as though we were averse, not to Galba, but to all rule and obedience. Flaccus Hordeonius, indeed, who is nothing but a shadow and image of Galba, we must ignore, but there is Vitellius, who is only a day’s march distant from us, and commands the forces in the other Germany. His father was censor, thrice consul, and in a manner the colleague of Claudius Caesar, and

Aovdopoupevny um evioy meviay deiypa Nap poy
EXOD XPIsTOTHTOS Kat peyarog poovvns. pepe, TOUTOV ERopevot detEw ev avO par ots meow WS ‘TBnpev kat Avowtavov apeivous éopev avto-KpaTopa aipeto bat.”
Tatra TOV pev HON Wpogleperwv, TOV o ou Tpoclewevov, els vTEeEEAO@Y onpatodopos amnyyetre TO OviterAALw VUKTOS, EGTLOMEVWY TOAA@Y
Tap avtT@. Tod o€ AOyou SvaTecoVTOS els TA
OT PATEvLATA T POT OS DaPros Ovdanrns, Hyepwov EVOS TAY MATOS, TH voTEpaia META (TT EW cUXVOY éAdoas avToKpatopa TOV Ovirerdsoy T POO ELTED.
0 6 TAS [ev eum poo bev » npépas edoxet diwmbeicbar
Kal avadved Gat, TO peyeBos THS APXAS. do Bou-HevOS, Tote 6€ hac olvov Ord AEwy KaL Tpopiys
6vTa peonpBpwhs 7 poehGeip Kal vTaKovcat Pepparvexor 6 dvopa Cenéevwv avTe, TO dé Kaicapos ov m poo defdpevov. evO0s Ge Kal 70 peta DrdKKoV oT paTeEvLa, TOUS Kadous € €KELVOUS want LOnMOKPATLKOUS eis oUry KANT OV épKous apertes @ {LOO AV Ovitedrin T@ AUTOKpAaTopl Town ey TO T pod Taga opevor.
XXUT. Ottw pev avyyopevOn Oditérd105 avToKpaTwp év Deppavia. Trudopevos 6¢ TOV éxel VEWTEPITLOV O TadPas OUKETL THD elo Troinow
aveBarrero. yevooKeov b€ TOY pirov | €vlous Mev
UT Ep AoroBérxXa, TOUS d€ TAELT TOUS UTEP “Od wvos

dapxatpeoialovtas, ov ovdéTepov édoxipaler avTos, ave pundev TpoerT@v peTeTeU aro Hetcova, Kpaoaov Kal 2KpiBovias Ext/ovoy, avs Nepov
UN PHKEL, veaviay év TH Tpos Taoay apeTiy evdvia TO Kooplov Kal avoTnpov éudavectata 254

GALBA xxl. 5-xx11. 2

Vitellius himself, in the poverty with which some reproach him, affords a splendid proof of probity and magnanimity. Come, let us choose him, and so show the world that we know how to select an emperor better than Iberians and Lusitanians."
While some of the soldiers were already for adopt- ing this proposal and others for rejecting it, one standard-bearer stole away and brought tidings of the matter by night to Vitellius, as he was entertain- ing many guests. The news spread swiftly to the troops, and first Fabius Valens, commander of a legion, rode up next day with a large body of horse- men and saluted Vitellius as emperor. Hitherto Vitellius had seemed to decline and avoid the office, fearing the magnitude of it; but on this day, as they say, being fortified with wine and a midday meal, he came out to the soldiers and accepted the title of Germanicus which they conferred upon him, though he rejected that of Caesar. And straightway the army with Flaccus also, casting aside those fine and democratic oaths of theirs to support the senate, took oath that they would obey the orders of Vitellius the emperor.

XXIII. Thus was Vitellius proclaimed emperor in Germany ; and when Galba learned of the revolution there he no longer deferred his act of adoption. Knowing that some of his friends favoured the selec- tion of Dolabella, and most of them that of Otho, neither of whom was approved by himself, he suddenly, and without any previous notice of his intention, sent for Piso (whose parents, Crassus and Scribonia, had been put to death by Nero), a young man in whose predisposition to every virtue the traits of gravity and decorum were most conspicuous ; then

255

PLUTARCH'S LIVES

éyovta' Kali kaTéBaivev els TO oTPAaTOTECOY ExeElvov amoseiEwv Kaicapa nai d:ddoyov. Kattor peyarat pev evOds éFrovte Stoonpiar TapnKodov-Gouv, apEapévou 5€ TA prev éyety Ev TH TTPATO-Téd@, TA OE AvaylvoaKELV, TOTaUTUKLs EBpovTnaeE
Kal KatyoTpawe, Kal TocodTos buBpos Kai Sopos éEeyu0n els TO oTpaToOTESov Kal THY TOALY, ws KATAOSNAOY ELVAL J) TPOTLELEVOY LNdE ETTALVODY TO Saipoviov yivopevnv ovK« er ayab@ Thy elotroinaw. hv O€ Kal TA TOY GTPATLWTaYV UTOVAG Kal

oxvOpwra punodé Tote Swpeas avtois do0eans.
Tod dé Ieicwvos ot mapovtes eOavpacav TH
TE PWV TEKMALPOMEVOL KAL TO TPOTHTW TO TNAL-KAUTNVY Yaply avEeuTARKTWS, OV pHV avatcOnTas dexopuevov, @oTEp av Tod "Obwvos émedaireto ToAAa oONpEela TH mophyn TeKpa@s Kal atv apy7
TIS €ATriOOS THY aTroTevELY hépovTos, Is TWPOTOS akiwbeis Kai TOU TUXElY eyyuTAaTw YyEvosEvOS TO un TUYXElV ETroLELTO Gnpuetov ExOous aya Kal KaKo-voias Tov T'arBa mpos avtov. dev ovbé ahoBos Hv Tept TOU péAXOVTOS, GAXA Kal Tov Ileiowva dedi@s Kat Tov TdrBav mpoBadrrX.opevos Kai TO Odwio yaretaivor ane ToNNOY TAD OY TAINS. ovde yap TO éATiCov exdALTELY OVE ATTayOpEedaaL
TAVTATAGLY ELWY OL TEPL AUTOV OvTES del MaVTELS
Kat Xaddaio, eis ta pddrwota bé [ItoXenatos iayuptlopevos TH WpoeTEly TOANAKLS WS OVK atroxtevet Népwr avtov, dAXa TOV EET AL TPOTEpOS, avros d€ mepléotar kal apfer‘ Pwualwy (éxeivo yap 256 GALBA xxim. 2-4

he went down to the camp to declare him Caesar and heir to the throne. And yet as soon as he set out, great signs from heaven accompanied him on his way, and after he had begun to pronounce and read his address to the soldiers, there were many peals of thunder and flashes of lightning, and much darkness and rain pervaded both the camp and the city, so that it was plain that the act of adoption was inauspicious and was not favoured or approved by the heavenly powers. The soldiers also were secretly disloyal and sullen, since not even then was their largess given to them.

As for Piso, those who were present at the scene and observed his voice and countenance were amazed to see him receive so great a favour without great emotion, though not without appreciation ; whereas in the outward aspect of Otho there were many clear signs of the bitterness and anger with which he took the disappointment of his hopes. He had been the first to be thought worthy of the prize, and had come very near attaining it, and his not attain- ing it was regarded by him as a sign of ill-will and hatred on Galba’s part towards him. Wherefore he was not without apprehension for the future, and fearing Piso, blaming Galba, and angry with Vinius, he went away full of various passions. For the soothsayers and Chaldaeans who were always about him would not suffer him to abandon his hopes or give up altogether, particularly Ptolemaeus, who dwelt much upon his frequent prediction that Nero would not kill Otho, but would die first himself, and that Otho would survive him and be emperor of the Romans (for now that he could point to the first part of the prediction as true, he thought that Otho arnbes atrodetEas nEiouv pnde TauTa anehmigew):

ovy Kora 8° ot ouvaydépevor Kpupa Kal oup-eT La TEVOVTES ws axaplioTa memovOor1. TAELT TOL dé TOV mept Tuyeddivov Kal Nupgidcov év TUL ryeyovoT@y dTrEeppluprevor TOTE Kal TAaTrEva Tpat-TOVTES épOeipovto mpos avTOV Kai GUPNYaAVvUaKTOUD Kal Tapw€Evvov.
XXIV. ‘Ey be TOUTOLS Oderoupios: kal BapBtos, O mev omtion, o 6€ Teao Epaplos” oUTm yap Ka-AodVTaL OF Searyryehov Kat Siom Tn pov Umnperias TedovrTes. pe?” ov "Odwvos amehevGepos Ovopa-oTos émiporta@y TOUS pev apyupte, tous 6€ éArriot drepOerpev on aabpous ¢ ovTas Kab Seopevous 7 popucews. ov yap Ty nmepav Tecoapav epyov bytaivovTos oTpaTtoTrédou peTactijoat TLE TU, Ocal peraty THs ELOTOLNT EWS EYEvOVTO Kat THS opayys.
ExTN yap avnpeOnoay, Hy dryouat ‘Pwpatot po SexaoKr@ Karavdav PeSpovapior.
Exetvn yap Ewfev evOus o pev Dar Bas eOuev év adatio tap pirwov TapovT@y, o 6€ Guts ‘Op Bpixvos dpa TO Aa Belv els TAS Xetpas TOU tepelou Ta amhdyxva Kat mpoatoely ov ov aivuy-Lov, aXX’ AV TUK PUS éby onpera peyanrns Tapaxys,
Kal peta 6ddou Kivduvov ék Keparns emi KEL LEVOY
TO avToKpatopl, fovovovyt Tov "Odava Tov Oeov xespl ANTTOV Tapac.OovTos. Tapiy yep oma Gev tov TadBa, Kat T pooelyé Tols Neyouevors Kal Cecxvupévors UTO ToD ’OpuBpixiov. OopuBovpéev@
* January 15th (a.p. xviii. Cal, Feb.), 68 a.p.

10

0

should not despair of the second part). Above all, Otho was encouraged by those who secretly shared his resentment and chagrin on the ground that he had been thanklessly treated. Moreover, most ot

the adherents of Tigellinus and Nymphidius, men who had once been in high honour, but were now cast aside and of no account, treacherously went over to Otho, shared his resentment, and spurred him on to action.

XXIV. Among these were Veturius and Barbius, the one an “optio,” the other a“ tesserarius ” (these are the Roman names for scout and messenger). In company with these Onomastus, a freedman of Otho’s, went round corrupting the soldiers, some with money, and others with fair promises. The soldiers were already disaffected and wanted only a pretext for treachery. For four days would not have sufficed to change the allegiance of a loyal army, and only so many days intervened between the act of adoption and the murder, since on the sixth day after the adoption (the Romans call it the eighteenth before the Calends of February 1), Galba and Piso were slain.

On that day, shortly after dawn, Galba was sacrificing in the Palatium in the presence of his friends; and as soon as Umbricius, the officiating priest, had taken the entrails of the victim in his hands and inspected them, he declared not ambiguously, but in so many words, that there were sigus of a great commotion, and that peril mixed with treachery hung over the emperor's head. Thus the god all but delivered Otho over to arrest. For Otho was standing behind Galba, and noted what was said and pointed out by Umbricius. But

~ , , \ X
dé aUT@ Kal ypoas apetBovtt Tavtobamas UT
¢
déovs tapactas ‘Ovopactos amerevOepos Hee
» , x ,
EDN KAL TEPLLEVELY AUTO OLKOL TOUS GPYLTEKTOVAS.
a Nv A a nv b€ cupBorov Katpod, pos ov be aTavTncat ov o~ 6
tov ‘O8wva tots ctpati@tats. elt@y ovv, Tt \ > / eed / \ ef

Taratav ewynpévos oikiay BovreTtar Ta UroTTa
- ~ “ A \ “
detEat Tots TwANTAIs, aTHAGE, Kal da THS TeBet / Div nl \ > >
piov KaXovpevns otxias KataBas éBadadifev eis
“ e , € ayopav, o0 Ypucois ElaTnKEL Kiwy, eis SY al
, ol , e al val
TeTunmevat THS ItadXias ob0l Tacat TeXNEUT@OLY.
b a ,
XXV. ’Evtatéa tovs mpwtous éxdeEapevous
\ ‘ , \
aUTOV Kab TpocetTOVvTas avToKpaTtopa dact py
, A ,
TELoUS TpLO@V Kal elKoot yeveoOat. 610, KatTEp
’ \ \ “~ - , f
OU KATA THY TOU TWLAaTOS paraKktiav Kat OnruUTHTA
~ A , b] \ > \ A N
Th Woy StateOpuppevos, ddAdXa iTapos WY TpOS
\ \ \ /
Ta Selva Kab atpeTrtos, atredetdiacev. of Sé
U 3 by ts \ ~ , “~
TAPOVTES OUK ElwY, adrAA TOIs Etheat yumvots af A \ “A ’
MeptiovTes avTov TO hopetov éxéXevov aipecOat, / f v , \ LY
wapadbeyyopuévou TOAAGKLS ATOAWAEVAL KAL TOUS
, c \ 4
popetadhopous émitayuvovtos. é&nKovov yap éviot
¢ a \ \ Oavpalovtes parrov 4 tapattopevo. Sia THY bf uf aA / \ ONLYOTNTA TMV aTroTETOAUNMEVwWY. HhEepomwevm Se ef b “” “A \ oUTw Ov ayopas amnyTncav ETEpoL TOTODTOL, Kal
f \ “ ,
TAAL KATA TPES KaL TETTAPAS AAXOL TPOTETE-
= 4
Aaflov. eita cuvaveotpehov amavTes avakandov~ , o , pevot Katcapa cai yupva ta Eihbn wpoioxopevot.
“a \ aA
TOV O€ yikidpywv o THY duraKkivy exwv TOD l , “of ‘ , aotpatoTédov Maptiadts, > dact, pi) svverdws, extrAayels 6€ 1H ampocbdoKi7m Kai dhoBnbei

ey, f POCOOKIT® Kat 7] S 260
GALBA xxiv. 3-Xxv. 3

as he stood there in confusion and with a countenance changing to all sorts of colours through fear, Onomastus his freedman came up and told him that the builders were come and were waiting for him at his house. Now, this was a token that the time was at hand when Otho was to meet the soldiers. With the remark, then, that he had bought an old house and wished to show its defects to the vendors, he went away, and passing through what was called the house of Tiberius, went down into the forum, to where a gilded column stood, at which all the roads that intersect Italy terminate.

XXV. Here, as we are told, the soldiers who first welcomed him and saluted him as emperor were no more than twenty-three. Therefore, although he was not sunken in spirit to match the weakness and effeminacy of his body, but was bold and adventurous in presence of danger, he began to be afraid. The soldiers who were there, however, would not suffer him to desist, but surrounding his litter with their swords drawn, ordered it to be taken up, while Otho urged the bearers to hasten, saving to himself many times that he wasalost man. For he was overheard by some of the bystanders, and they were astonished rather than disturbed, owing to the small number of those who had ventured upon the deed. But as he was thus borne through the forum, he was met by as many more soldiers, and others again kept joining the party by threes and fours. ‘Then all crowded around the litter, saluting Otho as emperor and brandishing their drawn swords. At the camp, Martialis, the military tribune in charge of the watch at the time, who was not privy to the plot, as they say, but was confounded by their unexpected

261

PLUTARCH Seriv ers

épnxey eiaedOeiv. yevomevm 6é ev TOs oveels 3 , ¢ \ ? al ,
ayTémecev. Ol yap ayvoouvTes TA TpaTTOMEvA Tots eldoae Kal cuvEerT@o éx TaparKeuhs EMLTTEplex opevor cal’ éva Kai dvo otopddes, Ud Sdéous TO TpPOTOY, eita meta OeVvTes emnxorov na av.
Kis 6d¢ 70 Hardteov evdus ey ann yyErn TO

Parse TApoVvTos ETL TOU Gurou Kat TOV Lepov ev
Nepaly OVTWY, WOTE Kal TOUS Wavy ™ pos Ta ToLaUTA ova meO as Kal ATEVOS eXovTAs EXT ANTTE-gai Kat Cavpaterv To Oetov: dyXov 6é TavToéda-

Tov cuppeovTos e& uyopas, avT@ péev Ovivios Kal
Adkwv kal Tov aTedevOépwy Eviot yuuva Ta
Eibn T pola X opEvor Tapert ar, o 6€ L[leicwy ™ poe rO ery TOUS puratrovat THY avhay Sopudopors eveTUYXAVE. tov © “IdAuptxod tTaypatos ev TH Kaouperyy TacTaol Bupavia otparomedevovTos ameotddyn Madpios Keédoos, avnp ayalos, mpo-KaTAANWOMEVOS.
XXXVI. Bovrevopévou d€ Tod TarBa wpoerOeiv, kat Oviviou péev ove é@vtos, Kédoov bé cai Aad-KWVOS TAPOPLOVTWY Kal a bod porepov TOU Ovsviou Kaban Topevor, Opods Ou Oe TOUS WS avnpn-pévou tov "Odwvos év TO oTpAaToT ede" Kal pera _ptK pov oO “lovudtos “Arricos TOV OUK on wov
EV TOLS Sopudopots OTPATEVOMEVOS YUBV@ TO Eides
T poo PpEpopevos: Kat Bowv aunpnxevat tov Kaicapos TONE MLOD® @oupEvos O€ O0a TOV T POET TMT OV eéder~e TO DarBa TO Eidos nay LEVOD. O 6é Breas m pos autor, “ Tis oe, elmrev, “exédeuge ; ;
tov O€ avOpwmmov THY TiotTL eiTOVTOS Kal Tov 262

106%

GALBA xxv. 3-XXVI. 2

appearance and terrified, permitted them to enter. And after Otho was inside the camp, no one opposed him. For those who were ignorant of what was going on, scattered about as they were by ones and twos, were designedly enveloped by those who knew and were privy to the plot, and so gave in their adherence, at first through fear, and then under persuasion.

News of this was carried at once to Galba in the Palatium and the priest was still standing there with the entrails in his hands, so that even men who were altogether indifferent and sceptical about such matters were confounded and filled with wonder at the divine portent. And now a motley crowd came streaming ont from the forum; Vinius and Laco and some of the freedmen stood at Galba’s side brandishing their naked swords ; Piso went out and held conference with the guards on duty in the court; and Marius Celsus, a man of worth, was sent off to secure the allegiance of the Illyrian legion encamped in what was called the Vipsanian portico.

XXVI. And now, as Galba purposed to go forth, and Vinius would not permit it, while Celsus and Laco urged it and vehemently chided Vinius, a rumour spread insistently that Otho had been slain in the camp; and after a little, Julius Atticus, a soldier of distinction among the guards, was seen rushing up with his sword drawn, and crying out that he had slain the enemy of Caesar; and forcing his way through the crowd about Galba, he showed him his sword all stained with blood. Then Galba fixed his eyes upon him and said, ‘‘Who gave thee thy orders?’’ Whereupon the man replied that it was his fidelity and the oath that he had sworn, at

~ > lal]
Spxov Ov wuoge, KaL TOD TANGOUS eTLBOwVTOS ws a \ >] KS A / ev, Kal KpoToUVTOS, éuBas eis TO Popetov exop“ le a nw wn ,
teto TO Te Aut Oicat Kat havivar Tots TortTals
, > s \ 3 N 3 /
Bovdopmevos. éuBarovtos 6€ ets THY ayopar, va , r ee / ,
WOTED TPOTALa TLEVMATOS, aTHVTNTE Pnun Kpa-

a a) 4
Tey Tov "OGwva tod otpatevmatos. ola dé év an > J, n
mAnOEL TOTOUTW, TOV pEev avacTpedev, TOY Oe
. a \ a A \ a
mpoiévat, TaV bé Oappeiv, Tov 6é€ amtaTety Bowr-Twy, Kal TOU hopelov, Kabatrep ev KAVOwWML, devpo Kukel OLahepomerov Kal TUKVOV aTrovEevOVTOS, épai-nA e A e A \ n
VOVTO TPWTOY ines, EiTAa OTATAL OLA TIS Hav-hov BacidtiKns m poo pepouevot, pad pwvn peya Bodytes éxtrobwy iatacbat tov iotwTny. TaDVv Bev ODV TOANHY Spomos av, OV huyn TKLOVvaLEVWY, > \ ~ na
GX él Tas oTOaS Kal TA pEeTéwpa THS ayopas, waomep Oéav xatadayBavovtwy. "AtirrAlov &é
f Bepyediwvos ecxova LadBa rpocovdicartos, ap-
\ a / Xnv TOU ToAgu“ou ToLtnadpevolr TEpinKOVTicayY TO
a > a a dopetovy ws 6 ovK étvyov avdtov, mpoanyov > / a id 4 \ > N > ‘ éomracpévols Tots Eipeow. uve d€ ovdEls ovdE
e s \ Caen A Nee a , o > com

UTETTN WANHVY EVOS AVOPOS, OY ovoY HALOS émrEtdeV
n € €y puptact Tocavtals a&tov THs “Pwpaiwy ye-f is n povias' Leutpwvios rv Atvoos éxatovtapyns,
\ / \ a ovoev idia ypnaotov b7d TddAB8a rerovOes, T@ Oé
a ‘ A / A / A /
KAXN@ Kal T® vouw Bonfav mpoéatn Tod dopeiou.
\ ‘ wn al ’
Kal TO KAHA TPwTOV, @ KoNaCovalY ExaTOVTap-
\ wn A
Yat Tovs mANy@v dEeopévous, erapdpevos Tois
3 , / a emrimepomevors €Boa Kai duexedeveTo phetdeaOat Tov
> id 4 aA
AUTOKPATOpOS. ETELTA TUUTTAEKOMEVWY AUTO
4
264
GALBA xxvi. 2-5

which the multitude cried out that he had done well, and gave him their applause. Then Galba got into his litter and was carried forth, wishing to sacrifice to Jupiter and show himself to the citizens. But when he was come into the forum, there met him, like a change of wind, a report that Otho was master of the army. Then, as might be expected in so great a crowd, some cried out to him to turn back, others to go forward ; some bade him to be of good courage, others urged him to be cautious ; and so, while his litter was swept hither and thither, as in a surging sea, and often threatened to capsize, there came into view, first horsemen, and then men-at- arms, charging through the basilica of Paulus, and with one voice loudly ordering all private citizens out of their way. The multitude, accordingly, took to their heels, not scattering in flight, but seeking the porticoes and eminences of the forum, as if to get a view of a spectacle. Hostilities began with the overthrow of a statue of Galba by Attilius Vergilio, and then the soldiers hurled javelins at the litter; and since they failed to strike it, they advanced upon it with their swords drawn. No one opposed them or tried to defend the emperor, except one man, and he was the only one, among all the thousands there on whom the sun looked down, who was worthy of the Roman empire. This was Sempronius Densus, a centurion, and though he had received no special favours from Galba, yet in defence of honour and the law he took his stand in front of the litter. And first, lifting up the switch with which centurions punish soldiers deserving of stripes, he cried out to the assailants and ordered them to spare the emperor. Then, as they came to od

205

>»
PLUTARCH’S LIVES

4 \ , ’ , \ 4
‘oTagapEVOS TO Eidos NHUVATO TONUY Ypovor, ews TU Beis Tas iyvuas Emece.

SO a ‘ov Se LadtBayv, daroxkrOévtos Tov dhopeiou mept Tov Kouptiou Kaoupevov NaKKOY, exkuhio Berta TeOwpaxta pevov € ETUTTOV em 16 papov-TES. o 6€ THY opayny 7 pOTeLvas, “Apate,” elev, ‘Eb TOTO a) Speco ‘Popaiwv Gpervov €oTt.
TONGS pev ovv EXaBe TANYAaS els Te Ta oKehn
KL TOUS Bpaxtovas, ites page dé avon, OS OL TELA TOL héyouer, Kapovptos TLS €K TOU mevTeKau-SexaTou TUYHATOS. éviot 6€ Tepévtior, oi dé Aeka-pLov iaTopovaty, ol o¢€ PaBrov DuaBovrov, ov Kat pac aToKOWaVTa THV ceparny Kopivey TO imatio ouvrafovra, da THY Werornta Suomepi-Ant Tov ovoay' éTELTa TOY GUY avT@ KpuT Tey ouK €wvtTwv, AX éxdavhn waot Tovey Tv av-‘ tf dpayaliav, Tepimreipavta ‘rept hoy Kat avaTAavTa mpeo BuTou T porwmToy, apxYovros U4 \ f

TE Koo plou Kal apylepews Kal vTaTov, Opop
NYowpev, Oo TED at Baxxat, TONAGKLS peTaatpepo-_HEVOY, Kal Kpadatvov7a ai AOYNKY alwate KaTAppeomevny.

Tov 6 "O@wva, tis ceparis Kopic Beans, a ava-Kparyely heyouaw” “ Ovdev €ott TODTO, @ ovoTpa-TLOTAL, Ty Ileicwvos feo Kepanny SetEate.” eT oniyov bé HKe KopeSopern: T poets yap epevyev 0 VEAVLTKOS, Kal KaTac.ox Geis v umo Moupxov Tivos ane payn 7 pos TO Lep@ THS ‘Eotias. ama part-TETO O€ eal Odiveos OLONOY OV KOWOVOS yeyorevat Ths él tov LVarBav avvwpocias: éB8oa yap avroOvnaKkev tapa tiv “OPwvos yuounv. dadrra 266

GALBA xxvi. 5—XXVII. 4

close quarters with him, he drew his sword, and fought them off a long time, until he fell with a wound in the groin.
XXVII. The litter was upset at the place called Lacus Curtius, and there Galba tumbled out and lay in his corselet, while the soldiers ran up and struck at him. But he merely presented his neck to their swords, saying: “Do your work, if this is better for the Roman people.” So, then, after receiving many wounds in his legs and arms, he was slain, as most writers state, by a certain Camurius, of the fifteenth legion. Some, however, ascribe his death to Teren- tius, others to Lecanius, and others still to Fabius Fabulus, who, they say, cut off Galba’s head and was carrying it wrapped in his cloak, since its baldness made it difficult to grasp; then, since his companions would not suffer him to hide his deed of valour, but insisted on his displaying it to all eyes, he impaled on his spear and thrust on high the head of an aged man, who had been a temperate ruler, a high priest, and a consul, and ran with it, like a bacchanal,! whirling about often, and brandishing the spear all dripping with blood.

But Otho, as they say, when the head was brought to him, cried out: “This is nothing, fellow-soldiers ; show me the head of Piso.” And after a little it was brought to him; for the young man had been wounded and tried to escape, and a certain Murcus ran him down and slew him at the temple of Vesta Vinius also was slain, and he admitted himself a party to the conspiracy against Galba by crying out that he was put to death contrary to the wishes of 1 So the Bacchanals with the head of Pentheus (Euripides, Bacchae, 1153 ff.). ;

yap Kal TOUTOU THY Keparny dTOTELOVTES Kal Aaxwvos ex oma ay ™ pos Tov “OPwva Swpeas ai- rouvtes. ws 6€ dnow Apxiroyos,

a , > , émTa yap vexpov TecovTwy, ods éeuaprraper Tooty, f gu A / ViALoL Hovnes Eo MeV,
oUTwWS TOTe TOAAOL TOU hovov pH cuvedaya- pevol, xetpas Sé Kal Eign Kadaipaccovres émre- deixvuvto Kal Smpeas qTouy BuBria dsdovtTes TO “Obert. eixoot ‘your Kal éxaTov eipeOnaav UYotepov eK TOV YPappatiov, os oO OviTerdtos avalntnaas amavras GTEKTELVEV. KE b€ Kar Mdpuos Kédoos els thy mapenBordyv. Kat ToA- NOY av’TOD KaTNYyopovYTwWY OTL TOUS TTPATLOTAS émeBe TP ParBa Bonbeiv, Kal Tov mAnOous amoxtivvverv Bowvros, "OOwv od« éBovreTOo- po- Bovpevos dé ay Tiheyery Ov | oUTWS edn TAXES AT OKTEVEL avrov elvat yap a& Set ™ poTepov éxTru- OécOat mapa Tov avopos. éxédXevoev obv Sjoavtas

duAdttTev, Kal TapédwKe Tos waddLoTA TLOTEU-OMEVOLS.
XXVIII. Evéus 6€ Bovrn ocuvexaretto. Kat kadatep addrXot yeyovotes 7) Je@v AXNwV Yeryovo-TOY cuverovres @HyvoV OpKov Umep TOU “Obwvos, OV AUTOS omoaas OuUK eTnpyoe Kal Kaicapa Kal LeBacrov a avnyopevov, ETL TOV vex pov axepddov év tais vmatixais éobjow Epplupwev av emt TiS ayopas. Tals 6e Kedarais ws ovdey elyov ért XpiaGar, tHvy per Ovwviov 7H Ovyarpi diayiriwv

1 Bergk, Lyr. Gr. Frag. ii.“ p. 398.

Otho. However, they cut off his head, and Laco’s too, and brought them to Otho, of whom they demanded largess. And as Archilochus says? that, “Only seven lay dead on the ground, where we trod their bodies under foot. But we who slew are a thousand,”
so in this case, many who had no part in the murder smeared their hands and swords with blood and showed them to Otho, as they presented him with written petitions for largess. At any rate, a hundred and twenty were afterwards discovered by means of these petitions, all of whom were sought out and put to death by Vitellius. Marius Celsus also came into the camp. There many denounced him for trying to persuade the soldiers to defend Galba, and the majority clamoured for his death, but Otho did not wish it; however, since he was afraid to oppose them, he said he would not put Celsus to death so quickly, since there were matters about which he must first question him. He therefore ordered that he be fettered and kept under guard, and handed over to those in whom he put most trust.
XXVIII. A senate was at once convened. And as if they were now other men, or had other gods to swear by, they united in swearing an oath to support Otho—an oath which he himself had sworn in support of Galba, but had not kept. Moreover, they gave him the titles of Caesar and Augustus, while the dead bodies, all headless in their consular robes, were still strewn over the forum. And as for the heads, when they had no further use for them, that of Vinius they sold to his daughter for twenty-

Kai TEVTAKOT LOD épax per amébovTo, THV be Iletamvos 7 yyy éExaBev Ovepavia benbcioa, Thy 6é Tara Tots Tat poBtov Sovhois eowpicarro. ha Bovres dé éxelvot Kal TavTa TpoTrov alka d-HEVOL KAL cab uBpicavtes Eppipav 7 TOUS UT Tov
Kavodpov Koalopevous Gavatovow: o 6€ TOTOS
Lec oapiov KanretTal. TO 6é Tapa TOU TarBa Il pioKos "EA Btds0s5 QVELNETO, Tov "Odwvos émttTpewavtos: aie 5é€ vuxtos 'Apyetos ameXev-Gepos.
XXIX. Totatdra ra xata tov TddBav, avopa pte yéver nte TAOUTM TOAN@Y aTroAEpbEevTa
'Pwpaiwv, opod € mAOUTM Kal yévEer TmpwTeEgavta Tavtwyv Tov Kal' avTov, TévTEe avToKpa-TOpwy nyenoviats éuSiwmoavTa peta Tuyns Kal d0€ns, wate TH S0En pwadrov TH duvaper Kaferety Népwrva. tav yap! cuvemitiOepévwy Tote TOUS pev ovdels HEiwoE THS Hryemovias, ot 6' éavtous amnkiwoav, TarBas 6€ nat KrnPeis Kat UTaKOUO as avTOKPATWP Kat TH Ovivdzcos euTrapacXxev ovopeat TOAMM, Kirn pa Kal VEewTE pia Lov avTov AEyoLevny THY amoatactw eTroine Toe pov eu purion, dvb pos 7 nryE"oVviKoD TUyovcay. Obey ovY cauT@ Ta Tpayphata Aap Bavew, arnra HaNXov EQUTOV old pevos ddovae Tots mpaypacw, apyetv nEiov TOV UTO Teyeddivou Kab Nouppsdiov TeTWOa-FEVLEVOV WS Lanrvov PXE Kal DaPpixsos Kab
Kapirros tTav ToTE Pwpaiwv. UT EPELTFO{LEVOS 6¢
TO Y1P@, ax pe Tov Om hov Kab TOY TTpAaTEUpA-TWY AaKpaTos hv Kat a4pyatos avtoxpatwp, Ovivio
1 Kader civ Népwva. tav yap Ker,A, Bekker, after Coraés : KadeXav Népwva TOY K.T.A.

five hundred drachmas; that of Piso was given to his wife Verania in answer to her prayers; and that of Galba was bestowed upon the servants of Patrobius.
They took it, and after heaping all manner of insult and outrage upon it, cast it into a place called Sessorium, where those under condemnation of the emperors are put to death. The body of Galba was taken up by Priscus Helvidius, with the permission of Otho; and it was buried at night by Argivus, a freedman.

XXIX. Such were the fortunes of Galba, a man surpassed by few Romans in lineage and wealth, and both in wealth and lineage the foremost of his time. During the reigns of five emperors he lived with honour and high repute, so that it was by his high repute, rather than by his military power, that he overthrew Nero. For of his partners in the task, some were by all men deemed unworthy of the imperial dignity, and others deemed themselves unworthy. But to Galba the imperial title was offered and by him it was accepted; and by simply lending his name to the bold measures of Vindex, he gave to his revolt (as his rebellious agitation was called) the character of a civil war, because it had acquired a man who was worthy to rule. Wherefore, in the belief that he was not seizing the conduct of affairs for himself, but rather giving himself for the conduct of affairs, he set out with the idea of commanding the petted creatures of Tigellinus and Nymphidius as Scipio and Fabricius and Camillus used to command the Romans of their time. But being gradually weighed down by his years, in arms and camps, indeed, he was an "imperator" of a severe and ancient type; but

\ \ , \ a b , , \

dé cat Aakwvt Kal tois ameXevOépots TavtTa Ta ~ , £ , La ,
Tpaypata TwAovVGL Tapeywy eauTov, olov Népwv
A a : , "~
Taperye TOS amAnoToTAaTOLS, ovdeva TrOOodYTA

\ ' , ' , \ 'i \ \

THY apxny, oixteLoavtas S€ TOUS TroAXOUS TOV

Odvatov amrénuTev.

272

GALBA xxix. 4

just as Nero put himself in the hands of his most insatiate favourites, so Galba put himself in the hands of Vinius and Laco and their freedmen, and they made merchandise of everything, so that he left behind him no one who wished him still in power, but very many who were moved to pity at his death, 273

OTHO

OGOQN

, ee: ,
I. ‘O &€ vewtepos avToKpaTwp ay nepa Tpo-
\ a , i, \ 4
erddwv eis to Kamit@dtov éOvae Kat KeXevoas
f / ’ a \ e N ’ ,
Maptov KéXcov axOhvat mpos avtov notacaTo
N , a cat duedkéyOn piravOpoeTws, Kal wapexadece THs al A a , aitias émridkabécOar wadrXov h THs abécews pyn-las X , ° a poveverv. Tov de KéXcov pnt ayevvas amroxpt-, Uiseoe ’ , b) \ f > N vauevov pnt avatcOntws, adrAa dyoavtTos avT7o
~ , f , A
TOU Tpowov Sidaval TO EYKANMLA TOT, EyKEKAI-e , \ Li
aBat yap 671 VddABa BéBatov éavtov Tapecyxey, c f bd / bd ’ , e ‘
@ Yap oveeniav aherev, nyag@noav ou TapovTes / 5 / ALPOTEPWY Kal TO TTPATLWTLKOY EmnvEeteVv. EV OE
, \
TVYKANTM TOAXA SnpoTika Kal PiravOpara b.a-, ral \ b] \ ¢ A / 4

AeKGels, OV pev AUTOS UTaTEvEeLY ypovoy TLEdXe, 4 , y¥ 5) Us € f a \ TovTou mepos evetpmev Ovepyiviw “Povd@, Tots de J, N a amrodeberyevors UTO Népwvos 7 TddXBSa maou
b] , x 4 7
ETNPNTE TAS UTTATELAS. lepwavvais b€ TOUS Kal’
, ‘4 t a“ nAtKLav mponKkovTas 1) doEav éxoapunae. Tots be
\ , a a emt Nepwvos duyova: xai cateOovaryr émi 'adrBa Tal a’ 4 ,
OUYKANTLKOLS TATLY UTédwWKEV BOG [I TET pAapLEva
nw ‘4 e , id
TOV KTHMaTwMY EexdoTtouv! é£evpicKev. OOev ot
“a 5 / £
TPOTOL KAL KPATLOTOL TEPPLKOTES TPOTEPOY WS 1 éxadotov Coraés and Bekker, after Stephanus, for the éxaotov of the MSS. : éxdorwr.
276

1067

OTHO!

I. Ar daybreak the new emperor went forth to the Capitol and sacrificed; then, having ordered Marius Celsus to be brought to him, he greeted that officer, conversed with him kindly, and urged him to forget the cause of his imprisonment rather than to remember his release. Celsus replied in a manner that was neither ignoble nor ungrateful, saying that the very charge made against him afforded proof of his character, for the charge was that he had been loyal to Galba, from whom he had received no special favours. Both speakers were admired by those who were present, and the soldiery gave their approval. In the senate Otho spoke at length in a kindly strain and like a popular leader. For part of the time during which he himself was to have been consul, he assigned the office to Verginius Rufus, and all those who had been designated as future consuls by Nero or Galba he confirmed in their appointment. To the priesthoods he promoted those who were preeminent in age or reputation. More- over, to all the men of senatorial rank who had been exiled under Nero and restored under Galba, he restored whatever portions of each man’s property he found to be unsold. Wherefore the citizens of highest birth and greatest influence, who before this

1 With Plutarch’s Otho may be compared Suetonius, Otho ; Dion Cassius, Ixiv. 10—15; Tacitus, Hist. i. 46—ii. 49.

SB |

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

ovK avopos, adrXa Tivos 7) Llowwns) TWaXapvaiov Saiuovos dpya roils mpdypacw émimeTt@xKétos, nodlous éyévovto Tals édrriat Tpos THY ryEwoviay wotep Stapeciacay.
II. ‘Ouod 6é ‘Pwpaious wavras ovdev etppaver
oUTWS Ode WKELWOATO TPOS AUTOV ws TA TrEpt TiyerXivov. érednOer perv yap 70n Koralopevos
avTa TO POBw THs KoAaTEws HY ws ypéos ATHTEL
Snuoctov 7 TONS, Kal voonmacity avynKéoTots TWLATOS, AUTAS TE TAS AvoTLoUS Kal appHToUs év yuvarél mopvais Kal axadaptos éyxuruvdijoess, als étt wpocéotratpe SvaPavatovvTos avtTov Td
aKkoNacTov émidpaTToMEevov, éoyaTnv Tipwpiav érolovvTo Kal ToAAov avTakia Oavatov oi cwhpovodvTes. nvia d€ TOUS TOAXOUS Suws TOP NALOV OpwY jEeTa TOTOvVTOUS Kal ToLoUToUS bi aUuTOY OVX opwrTas. émeu er ovv én avTOoV 6
"OOwy eis Tovs Tepl Luvdeccav dypovs: éxel yap Sintato, TAOiwY TapoppLovYTaY, ws hevEopmevos uT@OTEpwW. Kal TOY ye TEuhOevTA ypUTiw TOAN® mevOerv éemreveipnoe tmapetvar un rewcGévtr Se dopa wey EOwKev ovdev HTTOV, GenOn Sé Vrropetvar éws dv atotupntat To yévetov’ Kal NaBwv avTos éauToy éhatpoTrounaev.
III. Odtw 6€ 76 Syuw thy Stxatotadtny 7Soviyy avodous 0 Katcap, avros idias éyOpas ovdevi TOTapaTaV EuvnoltKaKknoe, Tos O€ TOANOIS Yapt-Couevos ovK Epevye TO TpaTov év Tols OedTpors
Népwy tpocayopeverOar xai tier eixdvas Né-278

OTMO 1,301. 7

had felt a shuddering fear that it was not a man, but some genius of retribution or avenging spirit, that had suddenly fallen upon the state, became more cheerful in their hopes for a government which wore a face so smiling.
II. But nothing so gladdened all Romans alike, and won their allegiance to the new emperor so much, as his treatment of Tigellinus. Men were not aware that Tigellinus was already punished by his very fear of that punishment which the city was demanding as a debt due to the public, and also by incurable bodily diseases ; and besides, there were those unhallowed and unspeakable grovellings of his among the vilest harlots, for which his lustful nature still panted, clutching after them as his life painfully ebbed away; these were looked upon by reasonable men as extremest punishment and an equivalent of many deaths.

Nevertheless it vexed the common people that he should see the light of day after so many good men had been robbed of that light by him, Accordingly, Otho sent a messenger to fetch him from his country estate at Sinuessa ; for he was staying there, where vessels lay at anchor, that he might fly to more distant parts. He tried to bribe the messenger with a large sum of money to let him go, but failing in this, he made him gifts neverthe- less, and begged him to wait till he had shaved; and taking the razor he cut his own throat.

III. And now that the emperor had given the people this most righteous gratification, he did not remember his own private grievances against any man soever, and in his desire to please the multitude did not refuse at first to be hailed in the theatres by the name of Nero, and when statues of Nero pwvos €bS ToUpPaves mpobepevov OUK éxwAUCE.

KnrovBtos dé‘ Povdos ets "[Bnpiav gnat Kouta Onvat OLTA@pLATA, ols éxméutovat TOUS ypauLpatnpopovs, TO TOU Népwvos Petrov évopa, T poarye-
YPappevov EXOvTA | T@ TOV’ OBwvos. ov pny andra
TOUS WpwToOUVs Kal KpatiaTous aicOopmevos én
TOUT® dvaxepaivortas € émavoaro.
Towadtny dé THs HYEMOViAS KATAGTAGLY AUT@
LapBavovons, OL pea Gopopor Xarerrous mapeixov EaUTOUS, ama rety TApaKehEvouevoe Kal oud at-TeaQat Kal KoNovElv Tors aELorOYoUS, elt AANOOS hoBovpevor dt: evvoray, elite Tpopaces Ypwpmevot TAVTH TOD Taparrew Kal ToAEwomTrotely. K pio ti-vov Sé TEUWAVTOS auTou THY em TAKALOEKAT HY otretpay ‘Qaotias andafovra, KAKELVOU VUKTOS ETL aovaKxevalopévov Kai Ta baa Tails apakats érete-Devos, ot Opacutatos mavTes €Bowv ovdev byees TOV Kpvorivoy 7 ipeew dsavoovpevor, aN hig oy-KAnTove emexerpelv mpaypact vewTépots, Kal Ta OTA kata Kaicapos, ov Kaicapt wapaxopilverbar. Tov dé NOyou TOAAGY ATTOLEVOU Kal TapoEVVOYTOS, Ot [ev emehapBavovto TOV apator, ot dé Tovs év-oTapEvous EKATOVTUPXAS dvo Kal Tov Kpeorrivoy avTov aTréxTetvay, TavTes b€ StacKEevacdpevot Kal Tapakanréoavtes dAAnAOUs Kaicape BonOetv nrav-vov eis thy ‘Pwpnv: Kal tvdomevot Tap avT@ Sertrvety GydonKovTa avyYKANTLKOUS, epEpovTO pds Ta Bacirea, viv keaepov elvat NeyouTes év TAUT@ mdvras avedetv TOUS Kaicapos movepiovs. 7 bev
obv Tos ws avtixa Staptaynoopevn OopuBov were produced in public, he did not prevent it. Moreover, Cluvius Rufus tells us that “ diplomas,” ! such as couriers are provided with, were sent to Spain, in which the cognomen of Nero was added to the name of Otho. However, perceiving that the men of highest birth and greatest influence were displeased at this, Otho gave up the practice.

But while he was placing his government on this basis, the paid soldiers began to make themselves troublesome by urging him not to trust the influential citizens, but to be on his guard against them and restrict their power. It is uncertain whether their goodwill led them to be really apprehensive for him, or whether they used this pretext for raising dis- turbance and war. And so, when the emperor sent Crispinus to bring back the seventeenth legion from Ostia, and while that officer was still getting the baggage together at night and loading the arms upon the waggons, the boldest of the soldiers all began to cry out that Crispinus was come on no good errand, and that the senate was attempting to bring about a revolution, and that the transportation of the arms was an act of hostility, not of service, to the emperor. The notion prevailed with great numbers and exasperated them; some attacked the waggons, others killed two centurions who opposed them, as well as Crispinus himself; and then the whole body, putting themselves in array and exhort- ing one another to go to the help of the emperor, marched to Rome. Here, learning that eighty senators were at supper with Otho, they rushed to the palace, declaring that now was a good time to take off all the emperor’s enemies at one stroke. Accordingly, the city was in great commotion,

, a , = ,
ciye moAup, ev 6€ Tois Baciretors Hoa Sradpopat, \ id > 4
cai Tov Obwva Serv catedapPavev arropia. do-7 A ¢ ‘ ~ b>] “ b] \ = \
Bovpevos yap Urép THY avdpav avTos HY hoBepos N / e 7 A é€xe(vous, Kal Mpos aUTOV avNpTNMévoUS éEWPA TaAis
’ Lal /
Ovreciv avavdouvs Kai Teptdecls, Evious Kal peTa
A \ \ a 7 \ \
yUVvalK@Vv HKovtas émi TO Seltvov. apa b€ Tovs b] ? b] , “ / 4 émapyous amtéaTedre TOS TTpaTLMTaLs drahéye\ of, / ef \ \ coOat Kal wpaivew Kerevoas, dua 6€ TOUS KEKAY-
’ f ’ , 4

pévous avopas avactycas kal étépas Ovpas XR \ \ ov e ' \ apne Kal yuxpov EbOnoav vrexduvyortes, bia tov ptcOodopav wOovpéver els TOY avdpava Kat
f / a muvGavomévwy Te yeyovaci ot Kaicapos monet N @ > 4 ’ \ aA , N puiot. TOTE ev OvY OPOOS aTrO TIS KALYNS TrOAXA
i? \ 6 Q \ \ de } , Tapnyopnaas Kai denels Kai undé Saxpvworv de/ f 5 /) 7 a Jane ts
TUPEVOS MONLS amemeupen avTous 7H © voTEpata
4 ei 3. b
Swpnodpevos &tavtas Kat avdpa xtAtats Kai dsa-Kocials Kal TevTnKoVTAa Spaxpats eLanAOEV Els TO f \ \ \ el ,
aoTpatoTwesov, Kal TO pev TWAHOos érnvecev, ws ‘ \ \ Ul /
T™pos aUTOV EUVOUY Kat TPOOLMOD, Gdityous Sé TLVAS
’ b] 2 ’ “A / ¢ Cal /
ovK ew ayad@ dyoas Uroixoupeiv, duaBddrovTas QUTOU TI)V METPLOTNTA Kab THY éxEivVOY EvoTA-
/ A
Gevav, nov cuvayavakteiv Kat auyKordbev.
ETAaLWOUVTM@Y b€ TavTwY Kal KeNEeVOYTWDY, bVO [LOvous maparkaBewv, ols ovdeis Ewerrev aybecbas
lal 3 4
Kov\ag beta, amndr\rXayn.
IV. Tatta ot peéev ayan@vrTes 76n Kab Te-
, 3 4 XN f e + Pe |
aoTevovtes COavualoyv Thy petaBorrv, ot & avay-KAta TWONTEVUATA TPOS TOV Katpov NyouvTo, 282
1068,

OTHO 1. 5-1v. 1

expecting to be plundered at once; in the palace there were runnings to and fro; and a dire per- plexity fell upon Otho. For while he had fears about the safety of his guests, he himself was an object of fear to them, and he saw that they kept their eyes fixed upon him in speechless terror, some of them having even brought their wives with them to the supper. But he sent the prefects of the guard with orders to explain matters to the soldiers and appease them, while at the same time he dismissed his guests by another door; and they barely succeeded in making their escape as the soldiers, forcing their way through the guards into the great hall, asked what was become of the enemies of Caesar. In this crisis, then, Otho stood up on his couch, and after many exhortations, and entreaties, and not without plentiful tears, at last succeeded in sending them away; but on the follow- ing day, after making a gift of twelve hundred and fifty drachmas to every man, he went into the camp. There he commended the great body of the soldiers for their goodwill and zeal in his service, but said that there were a few of them who were intriguing to no good purpose, thereby bringing his moderation and their fidelity into disrepute, and he demanded that they share his resentment against these and assist him in punishing them. All his hearers approving of this and bidding him to do as he wished, he took two men only, at whose punishment no one was likely to be distressed, and went away. IV. Those who were already fond of Otho and put confidence in him admired this change in his behaviour, but others thought it a policy forced upon him by the situation, wherein he courted popular

aA an \ \ uu v \ Snuaywyoodvtos avtov Sia Tov TOAEHOV. dy yap nyryéedreTo BeBatws OvitérXos aktwpua Kai dvva-
, \ ¥
pty avtToxpaTopos avetknpws' Kal mrTepopopot cuvexas ehoitwy ael TL TeOTXwpEtV Exelvo Hpa-
\
Covtes, Erepot 6€1 ta Tlavvovna nat ta Aadua-Tika Kal Ta Tept Muciay orpatevpata dnrobvtes
Cc a \ a e , 4 \ \
2 nphoba. peta Tov nyeuovav "Ofwva. tayv 6é
\ a abixeto kat Tapa Movxiavod ypaupata Kai Tapa Oveotrectavod piria, Tod ev év Xupia, Tod bé év
"lovéaia weyaras duvadpues éyovtav. td wv érrat-a peydras Suvdpets éxdvTmv.
, lg bo / as popevos éyparper OdvitedrAim Tapalwav oTpaTio-Q a Fd , aA
TUKA PPOVELY, WS VpnpaTa TOAAA SWGOVTOS avTOU
\ , bd 2 , ean G4
Kal Todw, év 4 Blwcetar paotov Kal Hototoy
, 9 ¢ / bd , \ b a SA
3 Biov we Haovyias. avTéypawe 5€ Kaxeivos avT@
, a A
KATELPWVEVOMEVOS TUX TO@Tov: €x Oe TOUTOU SzEpeO.Copevor TOANA BrYAcdynpua Kal dcenyh) yrEvC-Covres adAnXrars Eypagov, ov wrevda@s Mev, GVONTWS dé Kai yedoiws Oatépov tov Erepov & mpoahy
b) , al
appoTéepols oveidn AoLvdopodyTos. agwTias yap

\ f J , A Kat parakias Kal ametpias TroAkguwv Kal Tav
, > eae , “ / f a mpooOev emi Evia KpEewv TANnOoUS Epyov Ty et TreElv bs / a 9 aA
OTOTEDM [ELOY AUT@Y [LETECTL.
/ a 4 Lnyeiwov b€ xal davtacuatwy ToAAwY eyo-
4 \ \ ” /, b , \ 3
HEVOV, TA [eV AKA Hyas adeaTOTOVS Kal apdi-
, ” ad
Borous eiver, év 5€ Katritwrio Nixns épertoons e \ e - , 3 ra) Apart Tas nvias mavtes eidov ademévas ex TAV a“ ed a YVELPOV, WoTEP KpaTety un SuvaLEevNsS, Kal TOV év pecotroTauia vitwm Vaiov Kaicapos avéptavta 284
OTHO iv. 1-4

favour because of the war. For already there were sure tidings that Vitellius had assumed the dignity and power of emperor; and swift couriers were continually coming with accounts of ever new accessions to him, although others made it clear that the armies in Pannonia, Dalmatia, and Mysia, with their leaders, adhered to Otho. And quickly there came also friendly letters from Mucianus and Vespasian, who were at the head of large forces, the one in Syria, the other in Judaea. Otho was elated by these, and wrote to Vitellius advising him not to have more than a soldier’s ambitions, in which case he should be rewarded with a large sum of money, and a city, where he could live in the utmost ease and pleasure and be undisturbed. Vitellius also wrote to Otho in reply, at first in a somewhat dissembling manner; but afterwards both got excited and wrote one another abusive letters filled with shameful insults; not that either brought false charges, but it was foolish and ridiculous for one to storm the other with reproaches applicable to both. For as regards prodigality, effeminacy, inexperience in war, and multiplicity of debts incurred in a previous state of poverty, it were hard to say which of them had the advantage.

There were many reports of signs and apparitions, most of which were of uncertain and dubious origin ; but everybody saw that a Victory standing in a chariot on the Capitol had dropped the reins from her hands, as if she had not power to hold them, and that the statue of Caius Caesar on the island in 1 8% supplied by Sint.?, after Schaefer; Bekker assumes a lacuna before évepau.

285

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

pajre GET [LOU r/eyoveTos fajre TVEUMATOS ap éa-Tépas peraoTpadevta T pos Tas avatonras)) pace

ovpShvar Tept TAS Nmepas exelvas ev als ot mept Oveomeotavov eupavars 76n TOV TPayWaTwv avre-NapPavorTo. Kal TO mepl TOV OvpSpw d€ TUp-TT Co fLcL onpetov em ovodvTo Ot TOXol poxOnpov.
Ty pev yap apa Tepl Hv padiora ot ToTa pol TN-Povo, arr ovTw ToaodT0s npOn mpotepov, ovde
aTWNETE TOTAUTA Kal | SuepGerpev, viepyulels Kal kaTaxdvoas TONY He pos THS TrONEwS, meta Tov dé év @ TOV emt T pacet SsaT@Novat cirov, @S Sewvny aTroptav pepo TUXVOV KaTao xetv.
V. "Emel 688 Tas "A Marees KATEVOVTES 7)
TpooryyENRovTo | Kexivas cal Ovddns Ovitedrio oT paTnyouvTes, ev “Pon AoroBernas, EVTATptons avnp, browiay mapelXe Tots pia Dod opors ve@repa ppovety. EXELVOV LEV OUD, ELTE AUTOV ETE (iNXOV O€60LKWS, Eis TOALY AKUVLOY Taper eure Ta-pabappuvas. KaTareyov d€ TOV ev TEéNEL ouverdnjeous éTakev € ev Toutows Kal Aevxtov TOV Ovireddiou adehpov, oure Tm poa Geis oudey ouUTE ader@v nS ele TEMS. ioxupas dé Kal THS pT pos ere pe-ARON Tod Oviterriov cal THs YUvALKos, 6T ws ponder poBnoovrat TepL avtav. THS dé “Pwomns puraka Praowwov daBivov, aden gov Over recta vou, KaTéo TNGED, ere Kal TOUTO mpatas emt TULH Népwvos (Tap éxeivou yap eth pet THY apynv
O 2aBivos, apetreto 6€ Taras avtov), ele panr-Aov evvotay évedcixvuto Ovectreciav@ nal wiotiv avewy 2aSivov.
Autos wey ovv év BorkiNXN@, trodes THs ItaXias 286

OTHO iv. 4-v. is the Tiber, without the occurrence of earthquake or wind, had turned from west to east, which is said to have happened during the time when Vespasian was at last openly trying to seize the supreme power. The behaviour of the Tiber, too, was regarded by most people as a baleful sign. It was a time, to be sure, when rivers are at their fullest, but the Tiber had never before risen so high, nor caused so great ruin and destruction. It overflowed its banks and submerged a great part of the city, and especially the grain-market, so that dire scarcity of food prevailed for many days together.

V. And now, when word was brought to Rome that Caecina and Valens, who were in command with Vitellius, were in possession of the Alps, Dola-bella, a man of noble family, was suspected by the praetorian soldiers of revolutionary designs. Otho therefore sent him away (through fear of him or of someone else) to the town of Aquinum, with words of encouragement. And in his selection of the men in authority who were to accompany him on his expedition he included also Lucius, the brother of Vitellius, without either increasing or diminishing his honours. He also took strong measures for the safety of the wife and mother of Vitellius, that they might have no fear for themselves. Moreover, he appointed Flavius Sabinus, a brother of Vespasian, prefect of the city, either because in this way also he could honour the memory of Nero (for Nero had bestowed the office upon Sabinus, but Galba had deprived him of it), or rather because, by advancing Sabinus, he could show how he favoured and trusted Vespasian.

Well, then, Otho himself tarried behind at Brixil-

or

mept tov "Hosdavov ameheipOn), o7parnyous 6é TOV Suvdpeor eféreprpe Mapzév te Kédocov xa Younrawviov UavaAtvoy érs te Vardov kal Sroupt-vay, avopas évdo£fous, xpncacbac dé py Suunbevtas emi TOV T pary par ov @S TponpovvTo Tols €av-TOV oye pots be dragiav Kal Opacutnta TOY OT PATLO TOD. ov yap n&louv é éTépeov axovel, @S Tap' avTav Tod avTox paTopos TO dipxew EXOVTOS. mW pey ovv ovbe TA TOV Tonepiey bryvatvovra, TavTdTacw ovde xetponn Tots YE WOOLY, ann CHT AIKT A Kal coBapa bua THY aT IY aitiav. ov pay arr enewoss eptrerpia rye Taphy TOU paxeo bar Kal TO Kapeverv * €Oabes ovtes OUK epevyoy, oUTOL dé paraxol pev hoav bro cords Kal diairns aTrOhEemov, TAELa TOV YpoVvoy év OedTpots Kal TaVN-yupeot Kal Tapa oxnyny BeBiwxKores, UBpe. Sé Kal KouT@ errapréxe éBovrNovTO, TpoTTrOLnCa-afat Tas NerToupyias ws KpeiTTOVes aTrakiodrTes, ovyY ws advvaTot Pépev. 066é Xaroupivas TpodBta-Fopevos. avTous exOuvevoe pxpov éd\Oovtas ay-eXety avtov. vBpews bé xal Pracdnpias OVOEMLAS

epeloarto, mpoooryy Kal Aupedva TOY Kaicapos KalpOVv Kal Tpaypatwv AéyovTtes. Evior 5€ Kal peOvabevres 70 vUKTOS ip Bor én Tay cKNVHY epbodrov aitobyTes: elvan yap avrots mpos Kaicapa Badtoréop, ¢ OT WS exeivou KATIYOPTOTLW.
Va. ‘Ovyce 6é€ Ta mpaypara Kal Lmoupivay ép
T@ TAPAUTLKA Aowdopia mept LXaxevtiav ryevopmevn) TOV TTPATLWTOV. OL yep OvitedALov TOLS TeLyeot mpoaBarrovtes éyrevatov tors "OOwvos Extras
1 +b xduvery Bekker, after Coraés: rod cduverv.

288

1069

OTHO v. 3-v1. 1

lum, a town of Italy on the river Po, but sent his forces on under the command of Marius Celsus and Suetonius Paulinus, besides Gallus and Spurina. These were men of distinction, but were unable to conduct the campaign according to their own plans and wishes, owing to the disorderly and arrogant spirit of their soldiers. For these would not deign to obey other officers, since, as they said, they had made the emperor their commander. It is true that the enemy’s troops also were not altogether in condition, nor under the control ot their officers, but fierce and haughty, and for the same reason. Nevertheless, they were certainly experienced in fighting, and being accustomed to hard labour, they did not shun it; whereas Otho’s men were soft, owing to their lack of employment and their unwarlike mode of life, having spent most of their time at spectacles and festivals and plays, and they wished to cloak their weakness with insolence and boasting, disdaining to perform the services laid upon them because they were above the work, not because they were unable to do it. When Spurina tried to force them into obedience, he came near being killed by them. They spared him no abuse nor insolence, declaring that he was betraying and ruining the opportunities and the cause of Caesar. Nay, some of them who were drunk came at night to his tent and demanded money for a journey, for they must go, they said, to Caesar, in order to denounce their commander, VI. But Spurina and the emperor’s cause were helped for the time by the abuse which his soldiers received at Placentia. For when the troops of Vitellius assaulted the walls, they railed at the 289

PLUTARCE Seely ics

At > fi 4 \ \
mapa Tas ewudrkels, TKNVIKOUS KAL Tuppixia Tas \ , Ar a3 , Q@ iA \ cat WvOiwy cal ’OdXvptriwy Gewpovs, TorNEuou Oe
> lal
Kal oTpateias aTELpoUs Kai aeadTOUS ATTOKAaNODY-al \ A / b
Tes, Kab pléya PpovovvTas el T@® yépovtos av-
, N Xx > lal) \ BS ir XE omdou Keparny atrotepev, Tov L'arPav XEyovTes, wn , nn 3 > a eis 6€ ayava Kal payny avdpov ovK av exhavas ¢ \ , e SS 4
cataBavtas. ovTw yap érapayOnoav vo Tov-
A A \ id “A
TWY TOV OVELOWY Kal StEKaNTAaY WATE TpoaTrEcEL lal , fa) \ , T@ <troupiva, deopevor Ypha0at Kai tpootatTey
BY wn / \ f
avutols, ovdéva xivduvovy ovde Trovoy aTroXEyo-Pal \ tA , peévos. taxupas € avaTdons TEeLYopayias Kal
, A / UNXaAvNLaATwY TOANWY TpoTaxXVEevTwD ExpaTnaaV
e a , \ f lal \ ,
ot TOU Xaroupiva, Ka’ Povw TOAA® Tovs evayTious
] / f U aToxpovadmevot dseTnpnoav évooEov mod Kal a A al 3 aA
Tav Iradrov ovdemiads jrtov avOovaav.
\ by 4 nn ae ,
*"Hoaayp 6€ nai ta dda THY OviTEeXNOV oTpatn-wn fy “A , \ , yov ot OOwros évtuyety aXuTOTEpoL Kal TOKECL aes. , > , \ oa , \ ” \

Kal Or@Tais’ éxelvwy O€ Kexivas pév ote hovay
” a , 9 2 9 \ \ 9 ’
oUTE TXHwa OnuoTiKoS, GAN étaxOns Kal adddo-
, , a ,
KOTOS, TwuaTOS peyarov, Taratixws avakupian
la , / Kal XElplow éverKevac wEVvos, anpelots Kal Apyouos n , \ ~ at ‘Pwpaixots dsareyouevos. Kal tiv yuvaixa / fal / e a TApPeTELTOY aUT@® Aoyadnv imrels GYoupévynv ch / 3 al ue ‘ tee iTT@ Kexoopnuerny exipavas. DaBrov dé Oda-NevTAa TOV ETEPOY OTPATHYOY OUTE UpTrayal ToAE-
, ‘ a LLw@Y OUTE KAOTAL Kal OwpPOdoKial Tapa GVELaYXov
/ a eveTipTrAacay ypnpyaTiCouevov, aArXa Kal eddxet \ nw f e id A a) dua TovTO Bpadéws odevwv vaTEepnaas Ths TpoTe-U e is A pas wayns. ov d€ Tov Kexivar aiti@vtat, omev-
, “ “A
Sovta THv viKnv éavtovd yevécOar tpl éxeivor 290

OTHO vr. 1-5

soldiers of Otho who manned the ramparts, calling them actors, dancers, spectators at Pythian and Olympian games, men who had never known or seen a campaign or fighting, and thought highly of themselves because they had cut off the head of a defenceless old man (meaning Galba), but would not openly enter a conflict and battle of men. Otho’s soldiers were so disturbed by these reproaches, and so inflamed, that they threw themselves at the feet of Spurina, begging him to use them and command them, and pleading excuse from no danger or toil. And so, when a fierce assault was made upon the walls and many siege-engines were brought to bear upon them, Spurina’s men prevailed, repulsed their opponents with great slaughter, and held safe a city which was famous and more flourishing than any in Italy.

In other ways, too, the generals of Vitellius were more vexatious than those of Otho in their dealings with both cities and private persons. One of them, Caecina, had neither the speech nor the outward appearance ofa Roman citizen, but was offensive and strange, a man of huge stature, who wore Gaulish trousers and long sleeves, and conversed by signs even with Roman officials. His wife, too, accompanied him, with an escort of picked horsemen; she rode a horse, and was conspicuously adorned. Fabius Valens, the other general, was so rapacious that neither what he plundered from the enemy nor what he stole or received as gifts from the allies could satisfy him. Indeed, it was thought that this rapacity of his had delayed his march, so that he was too late for the battle at Placentia. But some blame Caecina, who, they say, was eager to win the ee, ddrous Te Hux poTepous Te pTreo ety apaptypact Kat waxny ov KATA KaLpov ovde YEvvaiws cuvayrat, pLKpov qTavTa Ta tTpaypata Ssapbeipacav avtots.

VIL 'Enrel yap amoxpovabels THS Traxevtias
0 Kexivas emt Kpexouny Oppunaen, érépay ONLY evoaipova Kal peyddny, TP@TOS Lev "Avytos Dadnros 1 pos Wraxevtiav Lrroupivg Bonbav, os nKovaoe Ka' OdoY TOUS [D\axevrivous Teptryeryove-vat, xevduvevery dé TOUS év Kpepovn, peTnyaryev éxel TO OTpaTEevLAa Kal KaTecTpaTOTédEVTE TAIciov TOV TOdELioV: ETerTA Kal THY aAwY éxaatos €Bonber TO aTpatny@. Tod dé Kexiva hoxtaavtos els Adova Ywpia Kat vrwdy ToANOUS OTNLTAS, immets dé mpoebedaoat KeheVoaVTOS, Kav cuvdyoow ol Tohe poe Kara pK pov avaxwpelv Kal avaperyery, aX pe av UmayovTes oUTwWS euBa-Awa aUTOS Ets THY evédpay, EENyyEetNay avToporto. T@ KédXow. Kal ovtos pep immedow ayabots dyreEehacas, mepuraypevas Oé X por pevos TH O.wFer Kal TH évédpav TEplaX ov Kal cuvrapagas, éxadnet TOUS oTAiTas €x TOU oTparo-médov. Kal doxodow av émedOovtes év Kaip@ padéva humreiy TOV TrONELLWY, anna Tav TO peta Kexiva otpdtevpa cuvtpiwat Kal averely ériomo-Mévot TOUS LTTEVGL' VvuUvL bé) Ilaviivos owe Kal oXOAH TpoaBonOnaas aitiav éayev ease THS 60fns oTpATHYHT aL bu evraBeray. be TOAAOL TOV OTPATLWTAY Kal mpodoatav évexa-Nouv avT@, Kal tapwEvvoy tov "Odwva, peyadn-292

victory himself before Valens came, and so not only made other minor mistakes, but also joined battle inopportunely and without much spirit, thereby almost ruining their whole enterprise.

VII. For when Caecina, repulsed from Placentia, had set out to attack Cremona, another large and prosperous city, first Annius Gallus, who was coming to the help of Spurina at Placentia, hearing upon the march that Placentia was safe, but that Cremona was in peril, changed his course and led his army to Cremona, where he encamped near the enemy; then his colleagues! came one by one to his aid. Caecina now placed a large body of men-at-arms in ambush where the ground was rough and woody, and then ordered his horsemen to ride towards the enemy, and if they were attacked, to withdraw little by little and retreat, until they had in this way drawn their pursuers into the ambush. But deserters brought word of all this to Celsus, who rode out with good horsemen to meet the enemy, followed up his pursuit with caution, surrounded the men in ambush, and threw them into confusion. Then he summoned his men-at-arms from the camp. And apparently, if these had come up in time to the support of the cavalry, not a man of the enemy would have been left alive, but the whole army with Caecina would have been crushed and slain. As it was, however, Paulinus came to their aid too slowly and too late, and incurred the charge of sullying his reputation as a commander through excessive caution. But most of the soldiers actually accused him of treachery, and tried to incense Otho against him,

1 Celsus, Paulinus, and Spurina (v. 3), although Spurina is not mentioned further.

‘yopouvres @S VEVLKNKOTOV AUTO, Ths Se viKns
OUK emt wav TpoerGovans KaKba TeV oTpATHY OV.
0 6é’ Odwy ouNx oUTM@S emia TEVEV avTois w@s éBov-AeTO pe) Soxety ama Tely. evreprbev ouv Tereavov emt 7a, oTpaTevpata TOV adedpov Kab II poxdov TOV émapxov, os elev Epy? THY 7 Gio av PX
T porxXnpa 6€ FV O Tittavés. of 83 mept Tov Kédcov Kab IlavAtvov arArXWS epetAxovTo ovp.Povrov dvopa Kal piron, eLovotay Kal Ouvapuv év Tots Tpay pac pen depiay eXovTEs. my O€ GopuBadn
Kal TA Tapa Tots TOE HLLOLS, padiora d€ Tots uTo
TO Ovdarevre xat THIS Tept THY evédpav paxns dmayyeNBeions eX ANETTALVOY Ort jt) TapEryévovTo pon oe Twuvav avepav TOTOUTWY arrobavovTwy.
poris b€ TWELTaS Kal TAPALTNOdMEVvOS WP_NLEVOUS

autous Badrrav avélevEe cai cuvirfe trois arepi Kexivav.
VILE. ‘O 6€"Odwy rapayevopevos eis Bntptaxov eis TO oTparomedoy (are dé Tory ™Anotov K pepouns 70 Bytpraxor) eBouvreveTo Wepl THS waxns. Kab Il pore prev €doKEL Kab Titiavo, TOV TTPATEV LATED OVTOV Tpodvpov Kal Tpooba-Tov THs viens, draywvicac Bar Kal hn Kaba Gas
THY aK ILnV apBrvvovTa Tis Suvdpews Kal Tepe-[LEVOVTG OviTerrcov avtov é« Taxatias emeOetv™ IlavAivos O€ Tots pev Troheplous épn mavtTa ped yy paxobvrat Ta pewat, Kal pn dev évoety, Obwrt
b€ THS HON mapovans OUK éNaT Tova 7 po OoKtjLov Elvat Suva poy eK Muoias Kab Mavvovias, ay TOV avTou TE plpLery KaLpor, anna Ln oTpATHYH ™ pos TOV TOV TOK LLWY. Ov yap apSruUTEpots ye YPN 294

OTHO vu. 4-vin. 3

loudly boasting that they had been victorious, but that their victory was made incomplete by the cowardice of their commanders. Otho did not believe them, and yet wished to avoid the appear- ance of disbelieving them. He therefore sent to the armies his brother Titianus, and Proculus, the prefect of the guards; of these two men Proculus had the entire authority in reality, and Titianus only in appearance. Celsus and Paulinus, too, enjoyed the empty title of friends and counsellors, but had no power or influence in the conduct of affairs. There were disturbances also among the enemy, and especially among the troops of Valens ; for when these were told about the battle at the ambuscade, they were enraged because they were not present and had given no aid where so many men had lost their lives. They actually began to stone Valens, but he finally succeeded in pacifying them, and then broke camp and joined Caecina. VIII. Otho now came to the camp at Bedricum (a little village near Cremona) and held a council of war. Proculus and Titianus were of the opinion that he ought to fight a decisive battle while his armies were flushed with their recent victory, and not sit there dulling the efficiency of his troops and waiting for Vitellius to come in person from Gaul. Paulinus, on the contrary, said that the enemy already had all the resources with which they would give battle, and lacked nothing, whereas, in the case of Otho, a force as large as the one he already had might be expected from Mysia and Pannonia, if he would only wait for his own best opportunity and conduct the campaign to suit that of the enemy. For his men were now confident of success in spite

295

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

, a A a ’ be a) L
ceaGat tote TOs viv Oappovow am édaTTOVYD,
P ’ ,

dv mdelovas Tous aywvilomevous mpocdafhwoup, b] > b , 3 a @ A \ \ be GAX €xK TEptovalas aywyielaVaLr’ Kat Kwpis o€
, \ \ % By bf aA > b Ao TovTou THy laTpiAny elvat Tpos avTa@v év apGo-“~ $, \ \ / 3 ,
VOLS TATLY OVTWV, éxELvoLs OE TOV Kpovoy atropiay
A f Trapéte TaV avayKator év Trorenla KabeCopévots.
A , / Tabdta réyovtt LlavAivw Madptos Keédoos éyévero
i lo / aupwndos. “Avuos b6€ Taddos ov raphy per, 9 x 9 , \ b] > ,
GXN eGepaTreveTo TETTMKWS ah lou, ypayap-
A \
tos 6¢””OOwvos adt@ cuveBovreEvae pn oTrEVOELD, GANG THY ex Mucias Teptpévew dvvapmuy 1)5n Kal’ raN 5 ’ \ > r , 9 \ 9 , 050v ovoav. ov mnv eTreiGeTO TOUTOLS, AANA Expa-THTAY Ol THOS THV MAYNY TAPOPL@VTES.
3
IX. Aérias 6€ wAeloves ANNat UI aANN@V RE-yovtat’ mpodnrws O€ Ol OTpPATHYLKOL TPoTayo-
, $ /, f
pevomevot Kai tafiv éyovtes Sopudopwv, Tote
~ A , MAXAOY adNOwWHs yevomevot oTpaTElas Kal Tas EV e , \ \ / > , NV
Pawn diatpiBas Kai dtaitas aToXemous Kal TaVn-
\ ~
ryuptxas ToOoUrTES, OUK Haayv KaOEKTOL OT EVOOVTES
b] ‘ \ , ~ ,
emi THY payny, ws evOus éF értdpouns avapTado-\ 2 id a X\ \ SENT Co, pevot Tovs évayvttous. Soxet d€ unde avtos “Obwv
b) f aor \ \ > U \ e efavapepe ETL’ Tpos THY AdNNOTHTA pNdE UTFO-
, 3 , \ , im peévetv andeia Kal waraxoTntt Tovs eps TaV Seta f , a vov Noytapous, ExTrovoupevos S€ Tats PpovTict f b] A oTevoew €yKaduWapevos, W@oTED ATO Kpnuvot,
a \ pcGeivat Ta TpdyuaTa Tpos TO GuYTUYXOY. Kal

ca ‘ “ cand Ces: ol TOUTO jev OinyetTo Sexovvdos o pytwp él Tav b] ~ , fa)
emia TON@V Yyevouevos TOU” OOwvos. étépwy O€ Hv 296 107)

OTHO vir, 3-1xe 3

of their inferior numbers, and he would not find them less keen after they had received reinforcements, nay, their superiority would lead them to fight all the better. And besides, delay was to their advantage, since they had everything in abundance, while to the enemy time would bring a scarcity of supplies, since they were occupying a hostile country. So Paulinus argued, and Marius Celsus voted with him. Annius Gallus was not present, being under treatment for a fall from his horse, but Otho asked his advice by letter, and his counsel was not to hasten the battle, but to await the forces from Mysia, which were already on the march. Nevertheless, Otho would not listen to these counsels, and the day was carried by those who urged immediate battle.

IX. Various other reasons for this are given by various writers; but manifestly the praetorian soldiers, as they were called, who served as the emperor's guards, since they were now getting a more generous taste of real military service and longed for their accustomed life of diversion at Rome in which festivals abounded and war was unknown, could not be restrained, but were eager for the battle, feeling sure that at the very first onset they would overwhelm their opponents. Moreover, it would seem that Otho himself could not longer bear up against the uncertainty of the issue, nor endure (so effeminate was he and so unused to command) his own thoughts of the dire peril con- fronting him ; but worn out by his anxieties, he veiled his eyes, like one about to leap froin a precipice, and hastened to commit his cause to fortune. And this is the account given by Secundus the rhetorician, who was Otho’s secretary. But others would tell us

297

or

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

akovely OTL Tots TT PATEVLAT LY dpporéepous Tm a.pi-oTAVTO oppat modal ws els TAVTO cuvendeiv: Kal HadaTa [LEV AUTOUS omoppovijcavtas EK TOV 7a povTwy HryEewovix@y érX€cOaL TOV apLoToV, Et SE fn, Thy auUyKAnTOV opovd KabicavTas édelvat THY aipeoww éxelvyn Tov avTOKPdTOpPOS. Kal OUK aTret-KOs eoTl, pndeTepov TOTE TOV T POT AYOPEVOMEVOY
AUTOKPAaTOpwY evoKipLovvTos, ememiT TE TOLOU-TOUS dradoyia povs Tots yng toes Kal StaTrovois Kal cwppovoial THY oTpaTLWTa@Y, ws EXOioTOV Ein Kal Oeivov, & Tarat da <vddav kal Maptop, eita Kaicapa Kal Tlopmijioy, @KTELPOVTO OpavTes an-AmAous al TUT XOVTES Ol ToNtTAal, TAVTA VV UTrOpeverv i) Oviterrup Laipapytas Kab oivodhuyias 7 Tpupns kal axoracias "Obavi THY 7YySMO-viav Xopiynpa mpobepevous. TAUT oOvY UTO-voovat Tovs Te wept Tov KédXaov aia Bavopevous euBareiv dsaT pny, edmilovTas aveu BaXNS Kai Tovey kptOnoecOar Ta T parypara, Kab TOUS TEpL tov Obwva poBoupévous € emuTax oval THY paxny.

X. Avtos d€ maddy eis Bpigid ov dvexXw@pnge, Kal TOUTO TmpooetapapTan, ovx OTe peovov THY €v opGarots avTov TAPOvTOS alo® Kat prroripiar adetre TOD arywretopevon, arrAa Kal TOUS €ppw-LEVETTATOUS Kat 7 podupotatous du avTov MTEL Kab meSous anayayer puvrakny TOU TopMaTos womepel Tou wa * THS Suva pews améKoye.
LuvéBy 6€ Tals nmépats exelvans Kal Tepl TOV “Hpidavor ayova yevér a, TOU peV Kexiva fevyvuvtos Thy diaBaow, tov &€ "OPwvos eipyovtwy 298

OTHO 1x. 3-x. 2

that both armies were strongly inclined to confer ; and above all, if they could agree, to elect as emperor the best of the commanders who were with them, but if not, to convene the senate and commit to it the choice of an emperor. And since neither of the men who then had the title of emperor enjoyed high repute, it is not unlikely that the real soldiers, those who knew what hardship was and had sense, should be led to reflect that it would be a dreadful and most hateful thing if the evils which the citizens had once to their sorrow inflicted upon one another and suffered because of Sulla and Marius, and again because of Caesar and Pompey, should now be endured again only to make the imperial power a means for providing for the glut- tony and drunkenness of Vitellius or for the luxury and licentiousness of Otho. It is suspected, then, that Celsus was aware of these feelings, and there- fore tried to interpose delay, hoping that the issue would thus be decided without hardship and battle, and that Otho, fearing this, hastened on the battle.

X. Otho himself returned to Brixillum, and in this too he made a mistake, not only because he took away from the combatants the respect and ambition which his presence and oversight inspired, but also because, by leading away as his bodyguard of foot and horse the men who were most vigorous and eager to please him, he cut away, as it were, the head and front of his army.

During this time there was also a conflict at the river Po, where Caecina tried to build a bridge across the stream, and Otho’'s so!diers attacked him

1 gréuwua Doehner’s correction of the vulgate ri caua, adopted by Sint.?

299
PLUTARCH’S LIVES

Kab T POT MAX OMEvor. ms € ovder eT EpaLvoy, evOenevov eis TA Tota, da6a Oetov Kat miT TNS
avaTAewv, Sta TOU Topov TvEvLA WpooTeEToY agpve tH Ta peo Kevag Hey ny DANY emt Tous TONE LL-ous efeppimite. Kamvov dé TpaTov, ELTA apm pas proyos exer OvaNS, TAPATTOMEVOL Kal atom NdavrTes els TOV TOTaLOV Tas TE vads avéTpEeTOV Kal T& GWpaTa Tols ToNEMLOLG ETA yéXWTOS
mapetyov. ot de Leppavot trois "Obwvos povopdxous wept vnaida TOO ToTAaLoOv ‘Tpoopi€arres éxpaTnoav Kal duepGetpav avT@v ovK odious.
XI. Tevopevwr 6€ tovtav, cal tev ev Byntpiaxd oTpatiwTa@v Tov "Obwvos éexpepopevwv pet opyns ETL THY LaXnVY, Tponyayey avTovs o IIpoxros éx tov Bytptaxobd, kal Kxateotpatomédevoev ato TEVTIKOVT OL TTAOLWY OUT ws amreipws Kat KaT are AdOTWS WOTE, THS Mev Gpas eaplv7s ovens, TOY € KUKA® medio TOAAG vapara Kal ToTAapLoOvS devydous eXOvTor, datos omaver meeverat. ™ dé U voTEpatla Bovropevov ™poayeu emt TOUS TOhE-[LL0us odov ovK éXaATTOVa oradiay € EXATOV OL TrEpL TOV TlavAivov OUK elon, GXN’ @oOvTo dety TEpepeverv Kal fay 7 porrovely EauTous, unde evOus éx Topslas Baxny TiVecOau pos avépas om to Hevous Kat TAPATETA'Y MEVvOUS Kad nov iay, €v 00@ Xpove T potac tw avtol TOT aVvTNY o6ov Va me pLtry-evo uTotuyiwy Kab akohovdwv. ovons O€ TEpL TOUTOV avTihoyias €v Tos oTpatnyots 70 map "OPwvos immevs TeV Kadovpevov Nopddav ypaupata Kopi Gov KedevovTa pn bevel pide Svat pi ferry, arn’ aye evOus emt TOUS TONEMLLOUS.
eExeivol ev ov apavtes exwpour, o be Kexivas 300
OTHO x. 2-xI. 3

and tried to prevent it. Not succeeding, Otho’s men loaded their vessels with torchwood full of sulphur and pitch, and began to cross the river; but a blast of wind suddenly smote the material which they had prepared for use against the enemy, and fanned it afire. First smoke arose from it, then bright flames, so that the crews were confounded and leaped overboard into the river, upsetting their boats, and putting themselves at the mercy of a jeering enemy. Moreover, the Germans attacked Otho's gladiators at an island in the river, overpowered them and slew not a few of them.

XI. These disasters threw Otho's soldiers at Bedriacum into a rage for battle, and Proculus therefore led them forth out of Bedriacum, and after a march of fifty furlongs pitched his camp, but in a manner so ignorant and ridiculous that his men were troubled by lack of water, although it was the spring of the year and the plains around abounded in running streams and rivers that never dried up. On the following day he proposed to make a march of no less than a hundred furlongs and attack the enemy, but Paulinus objected, and thought they ought to wait and not tire themselves beforehand, nor join battle immediately after a march with men who had armed and arrayed themselves at their leisure, while they themselves were advancing so great a distance with all their beasts of burden and camp-followers. While the generals were disputing about the matter, there came from Otho a Numidian courier with a letter which ordered them not to wait or delay, but to march at once against the enemy. Accordingly, they decamped and moved forward, and Caecina, who was much disturbed on

to

muOopevos THY Epodov aut av eGopuBnn, ral Karta amovdiy aTrohiT wY Ta epya. kal Tov ToTapov hxev eg TO oOTpaToTEdov. @TrALoMEvwWY bé 57
TOV Todor, Kal TO cuvOnuwa TaparauBavovtwy Tapa TOU Ovdrertos, € ev bom THY Taw dehdyyave TA Taypata, ToVs aploToUs TOY imTéwY
m poefeTepuyray.
Oe Kyrie dé Tous MporeTarywevors TOY

"Odwvos éx 8 Tivos aitias b0€a Kal doyos ws

petaBadoupevov TOV ObiredAtou oTpPATHYAV
T pos avTous. Os ovv éyyus joav, noTdoavrTo PtALws cvoTpAaTLOTas T pocayopevoartes. EKELvwv O& THY ™ poo ayopevatv OUK EVLEVOS, ANNA pera Oupob Kal povis TONEMLKHS dpwenpapevay,

Tots bev domacapevous abupia, Tous d€ Nowtrots
Umovola KATA Toy dom acapevooy os mpodidavrav
Tapert. Kal TOoUTO m™p@Tov auTous erdpa ev
On TOV Toe pLicov év Xepotv OVT@Y. EeiTa TOV ddNwv ovdev Hy KOTMM ylvVOMEVOV, AANA TONARHY pev atakiay ta oKevopopa TOUS aX opevors éuTrravomeva Tapetye, TONOUS dé Ta Xwpla StacTAaa MOVs eTrolEL ragppov 6 bvTa HEOTA KAL Opvry-hatwv, a hoBovpevos Kai Teptiovtes nvayKalovto dupony Kat Kara pépn TOANA cupTrreceabar Tois evavTiors. povat dé dvo Aeyewves (obTe yap 7a Tay pata ‘Popaior Kadovow), érixkAnow 1 peev Oviterriou “Aprra€, 7 dé "OP wvos BonOos, ets mrediov efehi€acar yirov Kal avarentapévon, V0 pb fLov Tiva paxny, cupmerodoat parayyndov, end XovTo mov ypovov. ot pev ovv “Odwvas dvdpes hoa eUpwaTor Kal ayabot, mworéuov bé KaL MaXNsS TOTE TP@Tov welpayv AayBavovtes: ot 302
10

OTHO x1, 3-x11. 3

learning of their approach, hastily abandoned his operations at the river and came to his camp. There most of the soldiers had already armed themselves, and Valens was giving out the watchword to them, and while the legions were taking up their positions, the best of the cavalry were sent out in advance.

XII. And now, for some reason, it was believed and rumoured among Otho’s vanguard that the generals of Vitellius would come over to their side. Accordingly, when these drew near, Otho’s men greeted them in a friendly fashion and called them fellow-soldiers. ‘The enemy, however, returned the salutation in no kindly spirit, but with anger and hostile cries, so that those who had greeted them were dejected, and were suspected of treachery by the others on their side. This was the first thing that threw Otho’s men into confusion, and at a time when the enemy were close at hand. And besides, nothing else was done properly, since the baggage-train wandered about among the fighting men and caused great disorder. Moreover, the line of battle was often broken by the nature of the ground, which was full of trenches and pits, and in avoiding or going around these the men were com- pelled to engage their opponents promiscuouly and in many detachments. Only two legions (to use the Roman word), that of Vitellius called “ Rapax’’ (or Devourer) and that of Otho called “ Adiutrix” (or Helper), got out into a treeless and extended plain, engaged in full formation, and fought a regular battle for a long time. Otho’s men were sturdy and brave, but were now for the first time getting a taste of war and fighting; those of Vitellius, on the ad

6 ie)

6

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

be OvireddAtov TohrA@v aywvwv eOdbes, dn &é ynpatot Kat Tapax a lovTes.
Oppajoavtes ov ém’ AUTOUS OL "‘OPavos é wo avTo
Kal TOV aeTOoV ageidovTo, TavTas opod TL TOUS
T popLaxous dTroKTeLvayTes” ot dé vr aioxuvns Kal opyhs eLTETOVTES av’ rots TOV TE mpeo BeutHy TOU TAY MATOS "Opdidsov Extecvav Kal TONG TOV onpeteov Hptacay. Tots dé Hovopay ous eperr evplay te kai Oapoos eye wpos Tas cupTroKas SoKodaw éenynyayev Ovapos AXivos Tos KaXoupévous BatdBous. état bé Lepuaveov tT Tels apia Tot, vio ov OLKOUVTES ume TOU “Pijvou TEplppEomevny.
TOUTOUS OALyoL ev TOV HOvonwdyov UTéaTnoay, ot dé TelaTo Pevryovtes € émt Tov TOTAMOv éurrimT ov-ou els omeipas TOV TONE MLOY avro TeTaypevas, vg oy dpvvopevot TAVTES OMAADS drepOdpnear.
aicxiota, 6€ 7} y@viTavTo TAVT OY ot TTpATNYLKOl, Unde Ooov ev Yepal yevécOat Tovs EvayTious vTro0-petvavres, arXrXA Kal TOvS anTTHTOUS ett poBou Kal Tapax’s averriumhagay pevyovres be avTov.
ov pay ara TONAOE ye TOV ‘OG eves VEVLKNKOTES
tovs Kal’ autovs é8idoavto Kal dveEétecov bia
TOV TONEULLWY KPATOUVTWY Els TO OTPATOTESODV.
NIT. Tov 68 otpatynyay obte UpoxXos ote HTavdtvos cvvercenOetv érorpnaay, arr éFexrivav poSovmevot Tovs oTpaTLMOTas dn THY aitiav éri TOUS aTpaTHYOUS TpeTovTas. “Avvtos 6€ TadXos (vehapBaver év TH TOL Kal mapepudeito TOUS €x THS paxns (TUNNEY OJLEVOUS, QS dryXopanrov yerverneevns Kal ToNXots KEKPATHKOTAS MEpert Tov Toneuiwv. Madptos d€ Kédcos tovs év rérec 304

GEO xis ext

other hand, had seen many battles and were used to them, but they were now old and past their prime.

So Otho’s men charged upon them, drove them back, and captured their eagle, killing nearly all who stood in the first rank ; but the others, impelled by shame and anger, fell upon their foes, slew Orfidius, the commander of the legion, and seized many of their standards. Against Otho’s gladiators, too, who were supposed to have experience and courage in close fighting, Alfenus Varus led up the troops called Batavians. They are the best cavalry of the Germans, and come from an island made by the Rhine. A few of the gladiators withstood these, but most of them fled towards the river, where they encountered cohorts of the enemy in battle array, and in defending themselves against these, were cut off to a man. But the praetorian soldiers fought more shamefully than any others. They did not even wait for their opponents to come to close quarters, but fled through the ranks of their still unvanquished comrades, filling them with fear and confusion. Notwithstanding all this, many of Otho’s men conquered those who opposed them, forced their way through the victorious enemy, and regained their camp.

NITI. But as for their generals, neither Proculus nor Paulinus ventured to enter the camp with them, but turned aside through fear of the soldiers, who were already laying the blame for their defeat upon their commanders. But Annius Gallus received into the town the soldiers who gathered there out of the battle, and tried to encourage them. The battle had been nearly equal, he said, and in many parts of it they had overcome their enemies. Marius Celsus,

3°5

PLUTARCERS “GIVis

’ , a \ U \
cvvayayov EKENEVTE TKOTELW TO KOLVOV, WS ETL
A ¢ Le na
auudopa tyrALKavTH Kal hovw ToTOvTH TrONLTOY \ > / > 3 , unde “Obwvos, eimrep avyp ayabos eat, eOed1-
“A “a , - \ 4
govTos étt Tepdo Oat THS TUXNS, STOV Kai Kdtov
\ , K , “A \ @ , Xx
Kal Sentiov, Kaicape cpatodytt peta Papoadov
F ‘\ 4 es » e \ ei£ar pn) OeXnoaYTES, ALTLAY EXOVTLY WS TOAXOUS

\ b] \ v DJ 14 , kai ayaovs avdpas év A: Bun Tapavadwcartes
v , \ a ovK avayKkaiws, KaiTep ayavetopevor Tepl Tis ¢ , b , 4, N ” \ e Pwpaiwy édevOepias. Ta yap adAXNa KoLWHY 2) pink \ ra) pb) > a TUY) TApeéYovea TAaGW EAUTHY EV OVK adatperTat
A nw , a) N
Tov ayabav, TO KaV TTALTWaLY EvNOYLOTELY TPOS TAQ TUVTUYXavovTa.
a , ¥ \ e - > X
Tadta Néywr Erere tous yeupovexovs. érrel
N , a ?
dé TEeip@pEevot TOUS oTpaTLMOTAS EWPwY eipnYNS
\ \ , ?
deopérous Kal Tetoavos éxéXeve trpecBevey wmép
3 f , \
omovoias, é60Fe Kétow xal Tadao Badifev cal
, Q “a 4, \ , ‘ vente dtaréyesOat Tois Tmept Tov Kexivav cal Ovarerta.
Badifovat b€ avtots amivTnoay éExaTovTapyat THY a 7 in , /
pev OUvapLy ON KExivNLEevyVY NEyoVTES epyomerny ‘ u a n
emt TO Byntptaxov, adtol 6€ Uo TOY oTpaTNYaV
¢ , a amecTtadOat TEpl Opovoias. érratvécavTes ovv ot \ \ ang 3 A bd \ b] f
Tept Tov KedXcopr éxéXevoav avTovs avactpéyav-Tas Tat amtavTay pet avTay Tols aept Tov
i / ? \ be by \ 9 9 50 € exlvav. émel O€ eyyvs Hoav, éexivduvEevaeEV O Ké ” \ ¢ \ ‘ dead e eXaos. éTUXov yap ot Teplt THY évédpay HTTHf , e An ,
févot TpoTEpov immets TpoeEENAUVOYTES. WS OUD
s A Ké n ? \ dg
mpoavovta tov KédXoov xatetoor, evOus Boncartes 14 ? opuncay em avTov. ot dé ExaTovTapyYat Tpo-a bf 4 \ na “a eoTHTaY avEelpyovTES’ Kal TOV AXNWY AOKYaYyaoV

moreover, assembled the officers and urged them to consult the public good. In view of so great a calamity, he said, and the slaughter of so many citizens, not even Otho himself, if he were a good man, would wish to make further trial of his fortune, since even Cato and Scipio, by refusing to yield to a victorious Caesar after Pharsalus, had incurred the charge of needlessly squandering the lives of many brave men in Africa, although their struggle was in behalf of Roman freedom. For in general all men alike are subject to the decrees of fortune, but of one thing she cannot rob a good man, and that is the privilege, in case of adversity, of taking reasonable measures to correct the situation that confronts him.

By this speech Celsus won over the officers. And after they had sounded the soldiers and found them desirous of peace, and when Titianus urged that an embassy be sent in the interest of concord, Celsus and Gallus decided to go and confer with Caecina and Valens. But as they were on the way they were met by some centurions of the enemy, who said that their army was already in motion and was on its way to Bedriacum, and that they themselves had been sent out by their generals to treat for concord. Accordingly, Celsus commended them, and bade them turn back with him and go to meet Caecina. But when they were near the army of Caecina, Celsus ran risk of his life. For it chanced that the horsemen who had formerly been worsted by him at the ambush were riding on in advance. So when they saw Celsus coming up, they forthwith raised a shout and dashed against him. But the centurions stood in front of him and kept them of;

SV

peiderbar Bowvtwy ot Tepl TOV Kexivay mv0opevoe Kal \TpocehdoarTes THD KO [Lay TAXD TOV imméewy éravoay, TOV be Kedoov doTad auevor prroppovas éBads Sov pet auTay eis TO Bytpeaxov.
év bé TOUTW peTdvoua Titeavor é éo yer exe wpavta TOUS mpéo Bes Kal TOV GTPATIWTOY TOUS PpacuDomévous avOis aveBiBatev eri ta Tetyn Kal TOUS aXrous Taper are Boneiv. TOU dé Kexiva T™poo-eX igavTos TO immw Kal TY befvav OpeyovTos ovdels aVTETXED, GN’ ot pev amo TOV TELN OV nomacovTo TOUS TTPATLWOTAS, of 6€ Tas WUAaS

avol~avtes eEnecav Kal aveuiyvuvto toils wpos-KOUTLY. noiker O€ oveeis, arXrxa Kat prro ppo-ouvat Kal deEraoers noaV, Opmog av dé mavtes Tepl Tod OviteAXiov Kat TpoceXmpnaay.
XIV. Ovtw pev ot TrElo TOL TOV Ta paryevope-Yov at ayyédovat yevéeoOat Tipp bax, ovee avtol capas omohoyodvres etdévat Ta Kad éxaora dia TH atakiav Kal TI avopariayv. éuolt oe Uorepov odevovTe Ola TOU mebtou Meo tpros PrABpos, aviip UTATLKOS TOV TOTE [41) KATA yepny, GX’ avayKy peta tov "Obwyvos yevomeveoy, veo bvTa maNnaov émtidetEas Ounyetto ETA THD pany éemehOwy idety vEexpav c@pov THK ODTOV adore Tov; émuToAns anrecOat TOV deTav. Kal TY aitiav éhn C$nrav ovTEe avTos evpetv ove Tap" dou tov mvlécOat. Ovnjo Kev ev yap Tapa TOUS eupurious TONEMOUS, OTav TpoTrn yévnrat, TreLovas (KOS éoTL, TO pndéva. Corypeiv, xphadas yap ovx ote trois ddtcKopévots, % 8 él tocodTo 308

1073

OTHO xi. 5-x1v. 2

the other officers also shouted to the horsemen to spare Celsus, and Caecina, hearing their cries, rode up and speedily brought his horsemen to order. Then he greeted Celsus in a friendly manner and went on with him to Bedriacum. But meanwhile Titianus had repented of having sent the embassy, and after ordering the more resolute of the soldiers back again upon the walls, he exhorted the rest to go to their support. However, when Caecina rode up on his horse and stretched out his hand to them, not a man resisted further, but some greeted his soldiers from the walls, while others, throwing open the gates, went forth and mingled with the advancing troops. ‘There were no _ hostilities, on the part of Otho’s men, but only friendly salutations and greetings, and all took oath to support Vitellius and went over to his side.

XIV. This is the account which most of the participants give of the battle, although they them- selves confess that they were ignorant of its details, owing to the disorder and the unequal fortunes of the several groups. Ata later time, when I was travelling through the plain, Mestrius Florus, one of the men of consular rank who were at that time with Otho (by constraint, and not of their own will), pointed out to me an ancient temple, and told me how, as he came up to it after the battle, he saw a heap of dead bodies so high that those on top of it touched the gable of the temple. The reason for this he said he could neither discover himself nor learn from anyone else. I[t is natural, indeed, that in civil wars, when a rout takes place, more men should be killed, because no quarter is given (there being no use for prisoners); but why the dead

ow pela Kal oupdopnots ovk exer THY attiay evovAAOYLO TOV.
XV. Ta 6¢”"O0@M mpwtov pev acadns, w@oTreEp ele ep TOV THALKOUTOD, Tpooerere oryos" émel O€ Kal TET PwfLevor TWWeS KO ex THS paxns ATAYYENROVTES, TOUS pev pirous HTTOV av Us eCOavpacey ovK é@vtTas aTayopevery, AAA Oappetv TAapaKeNEVOpEvOUS, TO S€ THY oTPaTIWTa@Y TaO0S inacav UTepeBare Tiativ. ws ovdels arnrOer, ovdé meTécTN TMpos Tovs KpaTodYTas, OVO whOn 70 Kal’ autor (nT@v aTeyvwopmévou TOU 177yELOVOS, mavtes & oparas emi Ovpas ArAGov, éxddrovy avToxpatopa, TpoedOovtos éyivovto mpoaTpo-Tator, peta Bons Kal ixesias yYetpav Hrtovto, TPOTETLT TOV, édaxpvor, €S€0VTO p11) o pas eyKaTa-Aerrely, fe mpodobvat Tots Trorepiors, adra XpioFac expt av ELTVEDTL Kab puxais Kal TOLAT Umep auToD. TavTa opiod TAvTEs LKETEVOD. els 6€ TOV apaverTépov avareivas To Eihos Kal €lTov, ‘ToGe, Kaicap, oUTwWS UTép aod mapateTayjuevous aravtas,” amea pakev éauTov.
"ANG TOUTO@Y ovoev eTrék hace TOV ‘Odeva, parop@p dé kal xabeotare Tpoowome TAaVTAX OE
TAS ayers Tepiaryary wr, “ 'Tauvrny,” elTev, “oe TVITPATLATAL, THY 7) HE pay éxelvns, év 7 pe
™ p@Tov eTToingare avTOKpatopa, paKaplorépav NYyOULAL, TOLOUTOUS op@y ULaS Kal THALKOUT OD
a&tovpevos. adda ia) jet fovos aT-0G TEpElTe, TOU
KAXOS am obavety UTEP TOTOUT@Y Kal TOLOUT@Y

TOALTOV. él THs ‘Popator 1} nyEnovias aEvos yéyova, de? pe THiS Euans Wuxiys t vmeép TIS mar pioos apevoety.
oida THY rixny Tots évavtiots oUTE BeBaiay ovTE 310
PHONY, 2=NVa4

bodies should be collected and heaped up in such a manner is not easy to determine.

XV. To Otho there came at first, as is usual in such catastrophes, an indistinct rumour of the result ; but presently some of his soldiers who had been wounded came with direct tidings of the battle. Here one cannot so much wonder that his friends would not let him give up all for lost, and exhorted him to be of good cheer; but the feelings of his soldiers towards him passed al} belief. Nota man of them left him, or went over to the victorious side, or was seen to despair of the emperor’s cause and seek his own safety, but all alike came to his door, called upon him as emperor, became his humble suppliants when he appeared before them, seized his hands with cries and prayers, fell down before him, wept, begged him not to abandon them, and not to betray them to their enemies, but to use their lives and persons in his service as long as they had breath. Such were their united supplications. And one obscure soldier held up his sword, and with the words “ Know, O Caesar, that all of us stand in this fashion at thy side,” slew himself.

None of these things, however, broke Otho down, but looking all around with a countenance composed and cheerful, he said : ‘‘ This day, my fellow-soldiers, I deem more blessed than that on which ye first made me emperor, since I see you so devoted to me and am judged worthy of so high honour at your hands. But do not rob me of a greater blessed- ness—that of dying nobly in behalf of fellow-citizens so many and so good. If 1 was worthy to be Roman emperor, I ought to give my life freely for my country. I know that the victory of our adversaries

311

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

bd f ‘ > i“ ia xupav ovcav. arrayyéAdovat THY €K Mvotas nav Suvapuv ov TON OY NEEpOv odoy are Xe, 18" xataBatvovoay € em TOV "Adptav. “Acia kat
Nupia Kal Alyumrtos Kal Ta TrohewoovTa ‘Lovdaious TTpaTevpaTa pe? NELOV, 1) TE TUyKANTOS Tap
7D Kat TeKVGL TOV évavTiwy Kal yuvaiKes. adr
OUK éort 7 pos “Avvi Bay ovee Tvppov ovde Kip-Bpous o TONE LOS U vmép THS ‘Tradias, aNXG ‘Popaiors
TOAE{LOUVTES GpePorEpor THY marpioa Kal VIKOVTES LOLKOD pEV Kal VIK@ {EVOL Kal yap TO dryadov TOU rpaTouvTos éKElVN KAKOV OTL. TLoTEVTATE TOX-Lakes, Ort _Ovvapar KadXAOoV aTroCavety h apyet’.
ov yap ope Th THALKOUTOV ‘Papaiors _ Operos

Er opear KpaTnoas, ALKOV em 6ovs épauToy vmrép elonvns Kal omovoias, Kal TOD pn TddLy Huépay TotavuTny éemideiy THY ItaXiav.”
XVI. Toratra drarex Ges, Kal Tos TOUS €vt-orac0at Kat (TapaKanrelv emexerpoovTas ama XUpL-TAMEVOS, Tous Te pirous exENEUEV aTarrarred Gat
Kat TOV TUYKANTIKOY TOUS mapovTas® TOLS. b€ pn
Tapovaw emEGTEANE KAL ypaupata ™ pos Tas TOAELS, OTTWS TapaKoptab aa evTip@s Kal peta acparelas. mpocayouevos 5é€ Tov aderdiOody
Koxkyiov, ¢ ETL pelpaKlov OvTa, Gappel TAPEKANEL Kal en deduevar OdirerALov, ov Kal baTéepa Kal yeveay Kal yuvatka avros, Oonep oiketoy Knd0-prevos, OtadvrdeEa. Sta TodTO yap ovde OécOar maida, Bovdopevos avutTov, adn dvaBanréo bat THY elorroinaty, OT WS ovvapxor Kpariaavros avrod, ey TpoTamonrotTo TT ALT AYTOS" “Exeivo 6é,” eimev, “G) Tat, wapeyyu@pual oot TedevTaioD, 312

107

OTHO xv. 4-xvi. 2

is neither decisive nor assured. I have word that our forces from Mysia are already approaching the Adriatic, and are only a few days distant from us. Asia, Syria, Egypt, and the armies fighting against the Jews, are on our side; the senate, too, is with us, as well as the wives and children of our adversaries, Still, it is not to defend Italy against Hannibal, or Pyrrhus, or the Cimbri, that our war is waged, but both parties are waging war against Romans, and we sin against our country whether we conquer or are conquered. For the victor’s gain is our country’s loss. Believe me when I insist that I can die more honourably than I can reign. For I do not see how my victory can be of so great advantage to the Romans as my offering up my life to secure peace and concord, and to prevent Italy from beholding such a day again.”

XVI. So he spake, and after resisting firmly those who tried to oppose and dissuade him, he ordered his friends to depart, as well as the men of senatorial rank who were present; to those who were absent he sent the same command, and wrote to the cities urging them to escort the travellers on their way with honour and in safety. Then he sent for his nephew Cocceius, who was still a youth, and bade him be of good cheer and not fear Vitellius, whose mother and wife and children he had kept safe and cared for as though they were his own. He had desired, he said, to make him his son, but had put off the adoption, in order that the youth might share his power after he had prevailed, and not perish with him after he had failed. ‘And now, my boy,” he said, “this is my last charge to thee; do not alto-

VOL. XI. L 313

PLUTARCH’S LIVES

MATE éemdabeabar ravTdnact pate ayav pvn-povevely OTe Kaicapa Getov EaXES.
Devopevos 6€ a0 TOUTMY pera jeux pov HKOUTE
GopvBov kai Bons emi Oupais. of yap oTpati@rtat TOV TVYKANTLKMY TOS aTLovaL StnTretNouy atroadatewv, ef pn Tapapevovaw, Gra oOLyoovTat TOV QUTOKPATOPA KaTadLTOVTES. TWAaALY OY TpO-nrGev vTép Tov avdpov PhoBnbeis, Kal Tovs oT paTiaras, OvKETE SenTLKos ovee mpdos, anra TPAax vs opOets, kal pet' opy iis els to OopuBovv padiora dia Bras, amreOetv évroincer etEavras Kal Stat pécavtas.
XVII. "Hdn dé éorrépas ovans edie, Kai
Tiwv oArtyov Udatos, dSvety dvtTwv avT@ Erhov, ExaTépov KaTEepavOave TO oTUGUAa TOAVY YpovoOY, Kal TO ETepov aTrédwxe, OaTEpov Cé Els TAS wyKdAAS avaraBav Tous olKkétas TPooeKanreiTo. Kal ge-Loppovovpevos Siéve pe TOV NPNLAT OY TO pev wrEov, TO O€ EXATTOV, ovx HoT Ep dd2or plow aderday, GANG TO KaT afiav Kai TO /ET prov eT MEADS purarrov. arom éuyras: dé TOUTOUS
Hon TO Aovrrov GVETAUVETO THS VUKTOS, BATE TOUS Katevvagtas atcbavec@at Babéws adtov Kad-evdovTos. op0 pou dé Kad€éoas amehevOepov a) cUSLMOKNTE TA TEPL TOUS TvyKANTLKOUS, pabedy
m poo erage: Kal Tv omevos yeyovevat TOiS ame p-Xomevors QV ExaaTos expn cer, “"TOe toivuy, én,
'ov, Kal Troiet ToLs TT PATLOT ALS éeupavy ceavTor, et or) OéreEus KaKas UT avtay amobavely ws enol cguutpatas tov Oavatov." é£eXOovtos bé Tov av0 pwtrou TO Eidos w UTOGTHGAS opGov dappotéepats Tats YEpol, Kal TeptTecwOV avwOev, bcov aTak 314

OTHO xvi. 2-xvil. 3

gether forget, and do not too well remember, that thou hadst a Caesar for an uncle."
This done, after a little he heard tumult and shouting at his door. For as the men of senatorial rank were departing, the soldiers threatened to kill them if they did not remain, instead of forsaking their emperor. Once more, then, he went forth, since he feared for the men's safety. He was no longer gentle and suppliant, however, but stern of countenance, and looking angrily round upon the most turbulent of the soldiers, he made them go away submissively and in fear.

XVII. It was now evening, and being thirsty, he drank a little water. He had two swords, and after examining the blade of each for a long time, he laid one of them aside, but put the other under his arm, and then called his servants. ‘These he addressed kindly, and distributed money to them, -more to one and less to another, not as though lavish with what was no longer to be his, but with strict regard to moderation and the claims of merit. After sending the servants away, he betook himself to rest for the remainder of the night, and slept so soundly that his chamberlains heard his heavy breath- ing. Just before dawn he called a freedman with whom he had arranged for the departure of the senators, and bade him learn how they fared. And when he was told that all of them had what was needful for their journey, “ Go thou, then,” he said to the freedman, “and show thyself to the soldiers, unless thou wishest them to put thee to a miserable death for helping me to die.” Then, when the man had gone out, with both hands he held his sword upright beneath him, and fell upon it, giving but a

Ms ” a , \ a bd \ atevakat “ovoyv nadeTto Tov Tovey Kal Tols ExTOS by \ La us
alcOnow rapecyev. apapévoy b€ TOV Taldwy
\ e \ \ otpwyiy evdus Grav TO oTpatoTEdov Kal THV f a / \ \ an e rol érretye KNavO MOS’ Kal weTa Bons ot cTpaTirat f , @Tat eoeTecov ext Tas OvUpas Kal wrohvporTo,
A \ a e \ \ ,
TepiTadovvtes Kat NocdopovvTes EavToUs pm hurAC-
‘\
Eavtas Tov avtToxpatopa pndé KwAVCAVTAS aToO-Gavety uUTéep avT@y. améaTn Sé ovdels TOV KAT Cee 5) \ M4 i a , ’ x / QUTOV, EYYUS OVTWY TOV TONEMLIWV, ANAA KOT [L7)- X\ a
TAVTES TO COUA Kal TUpay KaTAagKEeVacaPTES
>] ” “ > a) ee e ? ¢ A éEexoutlov év tois brrA0Ls of HOadcaytes UToddvat
\ 4 ‘ , al
Kat Bactagat TO déyos eriyaupovpevot. Tov dé wv e \ \ a A A / UXXwY OL Mev TO TPALVUA TOU VEexpoD KaTEdhidovY

id \ A A e \ TPOTTLTTOVTES, OL O€ HTTOVTO TOV YEerpav, oi O€
- / ~ ral
Tpocexvvouy TroppwOev. Evioe O€ TH TUpa Nam G-
€ / \ / \ ,
das Udévtes éauTovs avéahakav, ovdev &xd7)AWS dA / A is ouTte werrovOoTes ypnotov wd Tod TEeOvNKOTOS v ‘a \ nw aA if ovte TetcedOar Servov LTO TOV KpaToUPTOS SEbLC-
3 9 , A
TES, GAN EOLKE uNoEVt TOY TwTOTE TUPaVYYwY h f \ e Baciréwv Sevos ovtws pws éyyevéaOat Kai
\ A 7 A A ¥
TEPL“LAYNS TOU apyeEV, ws exeivot TOD ApyerOat
‘ e / v > , ef >
Kat vrraxovew “Odwvos ipdcOncay: ots ye pnd
’ @ t é , ” 3 x f
aTtoVavovTos 0 TOOos TpovALTEV, ANAA TApEpELvEV
3 > / v a
ELS avykertov ExOos OviTeAN w TeXEUTHOAS.
\ a) XVIII. Ta per ody addXa Katpov otxeiov Eyer
a / \ a “ “ AeXOhvar xpvrravtes 56 TH yh TA Aeirtvava TOD
"Od ” LQ , vs > eS
@Vvos ovTe peyéHer anuatos ovT émiypadhs
v \ / 3 / u
oyx@ tov taghov étoincay éripOovov. eidov dé 3 , , la
ev BprkiAXw yevoueros Kal pviwa pétproy Kal 316
1075

OTHO xvi. 3-xvut. 1

single groan as he felt the pang. The servants outside heard his groan and raised a wailing cry, and at once the whole camp and the city were filled with lamentation. The soldiers, with loud cries, burst in at the door, and then bewailed their emperor, full of anguish, and reviling themselves because they had not watched over him and prevented him from dying in their behalf. Not one of his followers went away, although the enemy were near, but after attiring the body and preparing a funeral pyre for it, they escorted it thither with military honours, and full of exultation were those who won the privilege of carrying the bier. Of the rest, some embraced the emperor's body and kissed his wound, others grasped his hands, and others still made him their obeisance at a distance. There were some, too, who first put their torches to the pyre and then slew themselves, not, so far as could be known, because they were either indebted to the dead for favours, or fearful of punishment at the hands of the victor. Nay, it would seem that no king or tyrant was ever possessed by so dire and frenzied a passion for ruling as was that of these soldiers for being ruled and commanded by Otho; not even after his death did their yearning for him leave them, uay, it abode with them until it finally changed into an incurable hatred for Vitellius.

AVIII. Well, then, the rest of the story is now in place. They buried the remains of Otho, and made a tomb for them which neither by the great size of its mound nor by the boastfulness of its inscription could awaken jealousy. I saw it when I was at Brixillum. It is a modest memorial and the inscrip-

THY ereypadny oUTws Exovaay, ei petappacbetn'
" Andwoet? Mapxov 'Odavos.
Amébave 6é"'Obwn €é ern pev émta Kat TptdKovTa
Biwcas, aptas Se Tpels pivas, ATOM TDD 6 pn
Xetpovas pend €XatTous Tov tov PBiov avTov Yeyoutay TOUS ematvobvTas Tov Oavator. Biocas yap ovdev ériecxéatepov Népwvos amréBavev evyevéaTepor.
Oc dé TTPATLOTAL Tloddtwvos Tov éTépov TOV erapYov opvvety evOus els. cov OvirédXLov KErEV-TAVTOS edva xepawwov" Kat mv opevor TOY ouy-KANTLK@Y Evlouvs ETL mapetva TOUS pev addovs apnKay, Ovepyurip 5é 'Povdeo mpaywara mapet-yov dpa tots oot eaves € él THY olxtay wa KATAKANODYTES adds Kal KEeAEVOVTES dpxev n

mpeo Beveww UTép avTov. o 6é€ THY ye moviay HTTOMEVOY maparaBeiv, verenKoTor ™ pOTEpOV fa) OeAnoas, paviKxoy HyeEtTor mpeo Bevery dé T pos tous Leppavous bedims, ToAAa BeBidoGar mapa yoounyv um avtov Soxovyvtas, dade be ETépwy Oupav éxrod@v Totijcas éavtov. ws 6€ TovTO éeyvooar ol OTPATLOT aL, TOUS TE OPKOUS edéEavro Kat Tots Tepl tov Kexivav mpocébevto suyyvapuns TUYOVTES.
' AndAeoe Bekker adopts Aalxoo:, the correction of Lobeck.
OTHO xvii. 1-4

tion on it, in translation, runs thus: “To the memory of Marcus Otho.” Otho died at the age of thirty-seven years, but he had ruled only three months, and when he was gone, those who applauded his death were no fewer or less illustrious than those who blamed his life. For though he lived no more decently than Nero, he died more nobly.
As for his soldiers, when Pollio, their remaining prefect,! ordered them to swear allegiance at once to Vitellius, they were incensed; and when they learned that some of the senators were still there, they let all of them go except Verginius Rufus, and him they annoyed by going to his house in military array and inviting him again,? and even urging him, to assume the imperial power, or to go on an embassy in their behalf. But Verginius thought it would be madness for him to accept the imperial dignity now, when they were defeated, after refusing it before, when they were victorious, and as for goiug on an embassy to the Germans, he feared to do so, since they felt that he had often done them violence beyond all reason; and so he stole away unobserved by another door. When the soldiers learned of this, they consented to take the oaths, and joined the forces of Caecina, thus obtaining pardon.
1 The other was Proculus, (vii. 4; sili. 1).
2 See The Galba, vi. 3; x, 2 ff, 379

GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

The Roman numerals refer to the volume, the Arabic to the page. Numbers marked off by semicolons belong to lemmata omitted for the sake of brevity.

A name without a namber following two or more with numbers indicates uncertainty as to the identity of the person referred to.

Bergk is used for Bergk, Poetae Lyrici Graeci, 4th ed.; Kock for Kock, Comicorum <Atticorum Fragmenta; Nauck for Nauck, Zragicorum Graecorum

Fragmenta, 2nd ed.

ABANTES, Euboean tribe referred to by Homer and Archilochus, I. 10
Abantidas, aimed at tyranny of Sicyon, XI. 4; slain, 6
Abas, river where Pompey defeated Albanians, V. 208
Aboeocritus, boeotarch defeated at Chaeroneia by Aetolians, x1. 34
Abolus, river where Timoleon defeated Mamercus, VI. 340
Abra, attendant of Pompeia, VII. 152, 464
Abriorix (Ambiorix) destroys army of Titurius and Cotta, vir. 500
Abuletes, imprisoned by Alexander, VII. 414
Abydos, scene of naval battle, Iv. 73
Academus, gave name to Academy, 1.74
Academy, near Athens, XI. 78; beautitied by Cimon, II. 446; ravaged by Sulla, Iv. 362. See also 1. 406
Academy, new, rep. by Philo, Cleito-machus, Carneades, VII. 88, II. 606 Academy, old, rep. by Antiochus of Ascalon, II. 606 ‘
Acamantis, tribe of Pericles, III. 6

Acanthians, their treasury, Iv. 234, 280
Acarnania, overrun by Pericles, III.

60; given to Pyrrhus, Ix. 360
Acarnanians, defeated by Agesilaus,
V.62; fight for Antigonus, XxX. 114
Acastus, son of Pelias, eaten by worms,
ly. 440
Acca Larentia, wife of Faustulus, 1.
100
Acerrae, city north of Po, v. 446

Acestodorus, quoted, II. 38

Achaeans, helped by Agesilaus, V. 62; league against Philip, VII. 40;
league joined by Sicyon, x1. 20;
choose Aratus general, 34; alliance with Alexander, 38; joined by Corinth, 52; by Megara, Troezen, Epidaurus, 54, 58; joined by Cleonae, 64; ask aid of Sparta,
X. 30; joined by Megalopolis,
XI. 68; allied with Aetolians, 74;
joined by Aegina, Hermione, Arcadia, 78; by Argos and Phlius, 80; by Mantineia, 82; war with Sparta, X. 54, 58, 62, 80, 84, XI. 86, 90; aided by Antigonus, x. 266; recover Argos, XI. 102; war with Aetolians, X. 126, XI. 108; Philo-poemen cavalry leader, xX. 272; invite Philip, xr. 108; defeat Machanidas, X. 280, 284; with Romans against Nabis, 292; against Philip, 334; exiles restored, I1. 326.
See also X. 274, 314, 360, 370
Achaeans, Phthiotic, 111. 56, v. 418, 41ou, X. 350
221

Achaeans’ harbour, in Troad, 11. 506

Achaicus, surname of Mummius,
1X. 464
Acharnae, Attic deme, II. 66, 252

Acheloiis river, III. 60

Achillas, has Pompey killed, Vv. 3165 wars on Caesar, VII. 558; executed,
Vv. 324
Achilles, defeats Paris, I. 78; deified in Epeirus, IX. 346; slain by Paris,
Iv. 452
Achilles,
1x. 350
Achradina, strongest part of Syracuse,
V. 484, VI. 62, 66, 76, etc.
Acilius, friend of Brutus, VI. 176

Acilius, soldier of Caesar, VII. 478

Acilius, C., quoted, 1. 158; interprets Greek, I1. 370
Acilius Glabrio, M', defeats Antiochus, etc., II. 334, 340, IV. 364, X. 366
Acontium, mountain in Greece, IV.
380, 388
Acrae, in Sicily, VI. 58

Acrillae,in Sicily, v. 482

Acrocorinthus, X. 82, 90, XI. 34, 36, 54, 76, 102
Acron, slain by Romulus, I. 134, 190,
Vv. 454
Acropolis of Athens, II. 28, 54, 416, 446, 612, TI. 42, rx. 438
Acrotatus (1), son of Cleomenes, father of Areus, x. 10
Acrotatus (2), son of Areus, slain at Megalopolis, Ix. 434, x. 10
rescues infant Pyrrhus,

Acrurium, mountain in Phocis, VII.

222

Actaeon (1), Plataean hero, I1. 246

Actaeon (2), torn to pieces by dogs,
VIII. 2
Actaeon (3), torn to pieces by lovers,
VIII. 2
Acte, joins Cleomenes, XI. 94; Demetrius, Ix. 58
Actium sea-fight, IX. 278, VI. 246;
v.174
Acuphis, made ruler by Alexander,
VI. 390
Ada, queen of Caria, VII. 286

Adeimantus (1), Athenian archon,
11.16
Adeimantus (2), Athenian general at Aegospotami, IV. 106
ata Dens support Tigranes, I. 652,
e 58
322

Adiutrix, legion of Otho, x1. 302

Admetus (1), loved by Apollo, 1.
318 Admetnus (2), king of Molossians, shelters Themistocles, II. 64
Adonia festival, described, HI. 256,
Iv. 48
Adramyttium,
VII. 90
Adranum, saved by Timolcon, VI. 286.
298
Adranus, god honoured in Sicily, V1, 286
Adrasteia, mountain range, IT. 496

Adrastus, helped by Theseus, I. 66,
VII. 150
Adria, Tuscan city, II. 128

Adria, northern sea, 11. 128

Adria, where Philistus wrote history,
VI. 24
Adria? garrisoned by Antigonus, XI.

26
Adrian, officer under Lucullus, I.
520 Adriatic sea, II. 198

Adultery, unknown at Sparta, I. 252;
Solon’s law, 466
Aeacidae, II. 443; IX. 432

Aeacides, father of Pyrrhus, IX. 58, 346, 350
Aeacus, described, I. 20, VII. 224;
sanctuary at Aegina, 70
Aeantid tribe, lost 52 at Plataea,
I. 272
Aedepsus hot springs, Iv. 408

Aediles, two kinds, IX. 470; IV. 158

Aedui, rebel against Caesar, VII. 506

Aegae (1), little Aeolic citadel, I.
70
Aegae (2), garrisoned by Pyrrhus,
IX. 432
Aegean, made free sea by Cimon,
II. 428
Aegcid, Attic tribe, 111. 254, Iv. 56

Aegeus, his history, I. 6, 24, 32, 44, 196, 200
Aegialia,littleisland, x. 118

Aegias, banker of Sicyon, x1. 40

ga te II. 44, IV. 252, vil. 2, 64, 7 home of Xenocles,

Aeginetans, attacked by Athens,
17.10; 46; 523 111. 84; expelled by Athenians, 98; 230; restored by Lysander, IV. 268; join Achaean league, XT. 78

Aegium, attached to Rome by Cato Major, Il. 336; X. 86; 106; XI. 84, 96; 120
Aegle, loved by Theseus, I. 40, 66

Aegospotami, Lysander defeats Athenians, IV. 106, 254, 258, xI. 176
Aegyptians, I. 318; months in vear, 368; wheel, 356; revolt from Persia, II. 84; send grain to A.hens, I. 108
Aelia, wife of Sulla, IV. 344

Aelii, their poverty, VI. 366, 432

Aelius, Sextus, consul with Flamininus, X. 324
Aelius Tubero, married Aemilius Paulus' daughter, VI. 366, 426, 432
Aemilia (1), mother of Romulus by Mars, I. 92
Aemilia (2), wife of Scipio Magnus, VI. 358
Aemilia (3), wife of Glabrio, then of Pompey, IV. 432, v. 134
Aemilii, patrician family, I. 334, VI. 358
Aemilius, common crier, VI. 454

Aemilius, M., elected consul, I1. 206

Aemilius Lepidus, M., stone bridge over Tiber, I. 338; VI. 454
Aemilius Papus, Q., consul with Fabricius, rx. 410
Aemilius Paulus, Lucius (1), death at Cannae, III. 158 f., VI. 358
Aemilius Paulus, Lucius (2), son of preceding, VI. 358; aedile, augur, 360; warin Spain, 362; divorces Papiria, children, 364; subdues Ligurians, 366; general against Perseus, 378; victory at Pydna,

400 f.; triumph, 440; two sons die, 446; address to people, 448; censor, 454; death, 456
Aemilius Scaurus, see "‘ Scaurus."’

Aeunaria, island near Minturnae, IX.
566, 574
Aeneas, father of Romulus and Aemilia, husband of Roma, I. 92; descendants ruled in Alba, 96; brought Palladium and Samothracian images to Italy, II. 144;
founded Lavinium, IV. 188
Aenus, Thracian city, VIII. 258

Aeolia, Nicogenes its wealthiest man,
II. 70
Aeolian, spoken in Phocis, II. 408

Aequians, defeated by Postumius Tiburtus, II. 96; war on Rome,
176, 182; IV. 216
Aéropus (1), Macedonian, Ix. 46

Aéropus (2), friend of Pyrrhus, Ix.
368 Aeschines (1), of Lamptrae, plotted with Persians, II. 252
Aeschines (2), the Socratic, quoted,
II, 292, 117. 68, 92
Aeschines (3), orator, I. 430, VII. 8, 20, 30, 38, 52, 58
Aeschylus (1), kinsman of Timoleon,
VI. 270
Aeschylus (2), Argive, XI. 56

Aeschylus (3), defeated by Sophocles diedin Sicily, 11. 430; vir. 242
Eleusinians, cited, I. 68

Persians (341-3), II. 40

Prometheus Toosed (Nauck 68),
v. 116
Seven against Thebes (395 f, and 435), I. 4 (592 f.), II. 220

Suppliants (226), I. 116

— (Bergk, II.‘ 242), vir. 214

—(Nauck, 107), 1x. 84

Aesculapius, friend of Sophocles, Weeeu temple in Epidaurus, Y.
Aesion, on Attic orators, VII. 26

Aeson, Macedonian river near Pydna,
VI. 396
Aesop, talk with Solon, I. 482; fables, TI. 418, XI. 70, 88; V.
428
Aesop, tragedian imitated by Cicero
VII. 94
Aesuvian meadow, battle between Tarquin and Romans, I. 522
Aethiopians, attacked by Perseus,
Ir. 410
Aethra, Theseus’ mother, I. 8, 12, 16; carried off by Hector, etc., 78
Aetolians, defeat Athenians, III. 226; destroy city of Oeniadae, alliance with Antipater, VII. 366, XI. 8; defeat Boeotians at Chaeroneia, 343 driven from Pellene by Aratus, 70,
X. 32; allied with Achaeans, XI. 74;
invade Laconia, X. 88; war with Demetrius, IX. 100: conquered,
364, XI. 94; war with Achaeans,
X. 126; defeat Aratus at Caphyvae,
XI. 108; support Romans, xX. 334, 338; at Cynoscephalae, 344; oppose 323

Flamininus, 346 f,; join Antiochus, 362, 11. 340; kill Nabis, X. 296; attacked by Acilius Glabrio and Philip, 364
Aerés, title of tytants, II. 228,

Ix. 370
Afranius, Pompey’s legate in Spain, VIII. 52; held Armenia, Vv. 204; defeats Parthians, 208; subdues Arabians about Amanus, 216; consul, 228; defeated by Caesar, in Spain, 290, VII. 530, 542; Vv. 286; defeated at Thapsus, VII. 566
Africa, governed by Sextilius, IX. 576; secured for Sulla by Pompey, V. 140; province of Pompey, VII. 512; of Cassius, VI. 168
African war, II. 310

‘* Africanus,’’ Scipio’s surname, IX. 464
Agamemnon, sacrificed daughter, Vv. 14; ten years taking Troy, III. 82; Vio V1 2
Agariste, Pericles’ mother, III. 6

Agatharcus, with Zeuxis, III. 40; with Alcibiades, IV. 42 Agathocleia, Ptolemy’s mistress, X. 124
Agathocles, of Syracuse, gives daughter Lanassa to Pyrrhus, captures Corcyra, IX. 368; nearly takes Carthage, 388; 60; 386

Agathocles, Lysimachus’ son, IX. 76; war on Demetrius, 116 f.
Agave, in ‘* Bacchae”” of Euripides, III. 420
Age, golden, II. 436

Ager Romanus, divided up by Numa, I. 362
Agesias, of Acharnae, II. 252

Agesilaiis, Archidamus’ son, lineage and character, V. 2, 36, 50, 64, 70, I. 298, VI. 344, VIII. 152, xX. 8; king with Lysander’s help, Vv. 6, IV. 292; war on Persia, Vv. 12 f.,

Il, 464, IV. 296 f., XI. 174; defeats Tissaphernes, V. 24, XI. 174;
given control of navy, V. 26;
alliance with Cotys, 283 sets cities in order, plans attack on Susa and Ecbatana, recalled, 38, 416; defeats
Trallians, 42; invades Boeotia,
Coroneia battle, 44f., suppresses Lysander's speech, 54, IV. 318; attacks Corinth and Argos, V. 56; 324 seizes Heracum, 58; defeats Acarna-nians, 62; approves seizure of Cadmeia, 66; invades Boeotia, criticized, 72, 374, 1. 244; declares war on Thebes, Leuctra, V. 78;

XI. 178; declines battle with Epaminondas, V. 86; refuses peace with Thebans, 94; goes to Egypt, 100; deserts Tachos for Nectana-big, 106; death, 112
Sayings: I. 268, Vv. 583 Iv. 300,
Vv. 20; 32; 44; 64; 72; 104; 106;
110; XI. 174; 178
Agesilatis, supports Agis, X. 14 20;
spoils Agis' plans by avarice, 30, 34; saved by son Hippomedon,
36 Agesipolis, Pausanias' son, succeeded by Cleombrotus, V. 66, xX. 8; befriended by Agesilatis, V. 54; saves Epaminondas and Pelopidas at Mantineia, 350
Agesipolis, Cleombrotus' son, short reign, X. 8
Agesistrata, Agis' mother, xX. 10; supports son in reforms, 16; 42;
death, 46
Agiadae, royal line of Sparta, Iv. 302,
318, X. 8
Agias, wth younger Aristomachus seizes Argos, XT. 66 Agiatis, Gylippus' daughter, Agis' wife, then Cleomenes', xX. 650;

death, 98
Agis (1), son of Archidamus and Lampido, brother of Agesilatis and king of Sparta, I. 296, Vv. 2; wife Timaea corrupted by Alcibiades, 4, 8, Iv. 64; plots against Alcibiades, 66; from Deceleia besieges Athens, 252, 268; fined for omitting sacrifice, I. 238; gold and silver subvert Lycurgus' laws, 296, X. 12; when dying acknowledges Leotychides as his son, IV. 292, V. 6
Agis (2), son of Archidamus IIL, slain by Antipater at Megalopolis, v. 40, Vil. 58, x. 8
Agis (3), son of Eudamidas, 5th from Agesilatis, V. 112, X. 8; character, 10; seeks to restore Lycurgus' constitution, 14f.; got ''rhetra'' before senate, 16 ; ''rhetra" rejected, 24; supplants ephors by others, 28; ruined by Agesilaiis, 30, 34;
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL 'THE LIVES'

aids Achaeans against Aetolians, 30, XI. 70; slain by Leonidas, v. 112, X. 42 f.; saying, 46
Agis, sayings, I. 264, 268

Agnus, Attic deme, L 26

Agrarian law of Licinius Stolo, I. 194

Agraule, Attic deme, I. 62, Iv. 60

Agraulus, young warriors' oath in sanctuary of, IV. 38
Agriculture of Cato Major, Il. 366, 378, 390
Agrigentum, supports Dion, VI. 56; Neapolis in its territory, 102; repeopled after Timoleon pacified Sicily, 344; Ix. 416 Agrippa, M., Octavius' friend, IX. 214; Cassius' prosecutor, VI. 184; at Actium, Ix. 284 f.; married Marcellus and Octavia's daughter, then Octavius', 330

Agrippa Menenius, speech to plebs on Mons Sacer, IV. 130
Agrippina the Younger, had son Lucius by Ahenobarbus, married Claudius Caesar, Ix. 332; mother of Nero, XI. 234
Agylaeus, Spartan ephor, X. 66

" Agoge,"' defined, V. 2, X. 72

Ahala, Servilius, slew Spurius Maelius, VI. 126
Ahenobarbus, origin of name, VI. 420

Ahenobarbus, Cn. Domitius (1), invaded Africa, Vv. 136; slain at Utica by Pompey, 140
Ahenobarbus, Cn. Domitius (2), with Antony against Parthians, Ix. 230; 264; deserts to Octavius and dies, 280 Ahenobarbus, Cn. Domitius (3), married Agrippina, had son L. Domitius, IX. 332.
Ahenobarbus, L. Domitius (1), proconsul of Hither Spain, slain by Sestorius' quaestor, VIII. 30
Ahenobarbus, L. Domitius (2), married Porcia, sues for consulship, M1. 358, 426, V. 250, VOI. 332; yields Corfinium to Caesar, VO. 526; in Pompey's camp, Y. 290, 334, Vil. 178, 544; led Pompcy's left at Pharsalus, V. 294, VI. 548 Ahenobarbus, L. Domitius (3), married Antony and Octavia's daughter, Ix. 332 Ahenobarbus, L. Domitius (4), son of Cn. D. Ahenobarbus and Agrip pina, adopted by Claudius, became Emperor Nero, Ix. 332

Aias, Periboea’s son, I. 66; Eurysaces and Philaeus’ father, 426, Iv. 2
Aidoneus, king of Molossians, had wife Persephone, daughter Cora, dog Cerberus, slew Peirithoiis, imprisoned Theseus, I. 72, 80
Aigialia, see ‘* Aegialia.”’

Aigikoreis, original Attic tribe, why so called, I. 468 Aigle, see ‘‘ Aegle.”’

Atyds €dos, see  Goat’s Marsh "’

Aii Locutii ara, erected by Camillus, 11. 168 ee Cyprian city renamed Soli, I. 4G Ajax, see ‘‘ Aias.”’

"Axeots, possibly related to “ancile,”’ I. 352
Alaleomenius, Boeotian for Maimacterion, II. 278
Alba, ruled by Aeneas’ descendants, I. 96; 112; Romtilus king on death of Numitor, 172; 11.130; VII. 582
Alban Brin its overflow a prodigy, II..9
Alban mount, V. 494

Alban villa, Pompey’s, Vv. 254, 324, VII. 160
Albanians, adjoin Iberians in Caucasus, II. 554, V. 204; crushed by Pompey, 206f., 230; conquered by Canidius, Ix. 214
Albinius, Lucius, helps Vestals in flight, II. 144
Albinus, Postumius, wrote history in Greek, II. 336
Albinus, legate slain by Sulla’s soldiers, IV. 342
Alcaeus, wrote epigram on defeat of Philip at Cynoscephalae, xX, 344

Aleaeus of Sardis, poisoned by Mithridates, Vv. 212
Alcander, blinded Lycurgus in one eye, pardoned by him, I. 234 Alcetas, Tharrhypas' son, Arybas' father, IX. 346
Alcetas, gets letter from Alexander the Great, VII. 582; refuses to serve under Eumenes, VIII. 90; wants chief command under Eumenes, 102 Alcibiades, his family, guardians, tutor; ete., "1. 206;-1V. 2. ix. 296; 325

character, III. 236, 246, Iv. 4f., 38,
62, VIII. 150, an orator, III. 62,
1V. 24; favourite of Socrates, 8f., 183 of Timon, 42, 1x. 296: fought at Potidaea, at Delium, Iv. 18; married Hipparete, 20; victorious in charlot races, 24, VII. 2; enters public life, IV. 22, 28; with Nicias effects ostracism of Hyper-bolus, II. 232, Il. 246, IV. 30;
upsets Peace of Nicias, HI. 242,
Iv. 32; made general, allies Argos,
Mantinea, and Elis with Athens, {II, 244, Iv. 36; urges Sicilian expedition, WI. 250, Iv. 443 general with Nicias and Lamachus for Sicilian expedition, III. 252, IV. 46; accused of mutilating the Hermae, IV. 48, 60; sails, takes Rhegium, plans campaign, recalled,
III. 258, IV. 52, 58; saves Messana
from Athenians, escapes at Thurii,

58; flees to Sparta, 60; urges sending Gylippus to Sicily and fortifying Deceleia, 62; corrupts Agis' wife, Timaea, 64, Vv. 4; flees to Tissaphernes, IV. 66, V. 6; advises him in conduct of war,

IV. 68, 240; opposed by Phrynichus, 70; made general by army at Samos, 74; recalled from exile, makes great change in situation, wins naval battle off Abydos, 78, 238; imprisoned by Tissaphernes, escapes, 30; captures Cyzicus, 82; defeats Pharnabazus, takes Selymbria, 86; takes Byzantium, 90; returns to Athens, 92; attacks Andros, leaves Antiochus over feet at Samos, 102, 242; fieet defcated by Lysander, 104; "deposed, warns Athenian generals at Aegospotami, 106, 256; flees to Bithynia, 108; then to ‘Pharnabazus in ‘Phrygia, 110; slain, 114; statue in forum at Rome, 1. 336. See also It. 296 ; IIT. 106
Sayings: Iv. 6, 14, 16, 22, 34, 38, 58, 60
Alcidamas, his rhetorical system obtained by Demosthenes according to Ctesibius, VII. 12.
Alecimenes, Achaecan noble, with Dion’s expedition against Syracuse, 1. 48
326

Alcimus, the Epeirot, sturdiest man under Demetrius, slain at Rhodes, Ix. 50
Alcimus, place near Piraeus, II. 88

Alcmaeon, Amphiaraiis’ son, resembled Orontes, the Persian, XI. 8
Alemaeon, Megacles’ father, I. 486; led Amphictyons in defence of Delphi, 430
Alcmaeon, Leobotes’ father, II. 62; denounced Themistocles, 292
Alcmaeonidae, Athenian family, I. 492

Alcman, lIvric poet, Helots forbidden to sing his songs, I. 290; eaten of worms, IV. 440; Fragment 35

(Bergk 111. 51) quoted, 1. 272
Alcmene, Lysidice's daughter, Pelop's granddaughter, Heracles' mother,
I. 16; body disappeared like Romulus', 180; her monument at Haliartus near Rhadamanthus' tomb, Iv. 312
Alcmeon, see  Alemaeon."'

Alcyoneus, son of Antigonus, IX. 458 f.

Alea, name of Rhadamanthus' tomb at Haliartus, Iv. 312
Alesia, Gallic city taken by Caesar,
VII. 506
Alexander (1), see '' Paris."

Alexander (2) the Macedonian, warned
Aristides of Mardonius' plan, 11.
256; 448
Alexander (3), king of Macedonia, at war with Ptolemy, Vv. 404; slain by him, 406
Alexander (4), soldier of Alexander the Great, VII. 390
Alexander (5), son of Alexander the Great and Roxana, engaged to Deidameia, IX. 354
Alexander (6), son of Polysperchon, married Cratesipolis, Ix. 22;
approaches Athens with army,
VIII, 220
Alexander (7), son of Cassander, expelled by his brother Antipater, asks help of Demetrius and Pyrrhus, IX. 86; given Antipater's land by Pyrrhus, 360; slain by Demetrius,
90, 340, 362
Alexander (8), son of Demetrius and Deidameia, lived and died in Egypt,
IX. 134
Alexander (9), son of Pyrrhus and
Lanassa, IX. 370
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE 'LIVES'

Alexander (10), tyrant of Corinth, made alliance with Achaeans, XI. 38; poisoned by Antigonus, 36
Alexander (11), led Thracians at Pydna, vi. 400
Alexander (12), 3rd son of Perseus, his fate, VI. 452
Alexander (13), Polyhistor (?) taught Crassus philosophy of Aristotle, III. 320
Alexander (14), Strabo's freedman, stole public property, V. 122
Alexander (15), son of Antony and Cleopatra, IX. 218; given Armenia, Media, and Parthia, 262
Alexander of Antioch, with Antony against Parthians, IX. 244, 248
Alexander the Great, lineage, VII. 224; birth, 228; appearance, Vv. 118, VII. 230; character, 232, 242, 284 f., 338 f., IX. 152; teachers, VII. 236, 240, 286, 296; as regent subdued Maedi, fought at Chaeroneia, 244; quarrel with father, 246; at 20 becomes king, 250; defeats Syrmus, king of Triballi, 252; defeats Thebans, 54, 254, VIII. 180f., IX. 140f.; by Greeks chosen leader against Persians, VII. 258; strength of his army, 260; battle of Granicus, II. 138, VII. 262 f.; storms Halicarnassus and Miletus, 268; subdues Pisidia, Phrygia, Paphlagonia, Cappadocia, cuts Gordian knot, 272; treated for illness by Philip the Acarnanian, 276; defeats Dareius at Issus 278 1.; takes Tyre, 292; takes Gaza, 296; founds Alexandria, visits Temple of Ammon, 300f.; holds contests of dithyrambic choruses and tragedies, 308; rejects Dareius' peace proposals, 310; defeats Dareius at Arbela, 316f.; proclaimed king of Asia, 326; traverses Babylonia, 328; takes Susa, 332; ravages Persis, hears Dareius is captured, sends Thessalians home, 348; takes Dareius' camp, 350; invades Hyrcania, V. 206, VII. 352; invades Parthia, assumes barbaric dress, 354; routs Scythians, 356; attempts to mix Macedonians and barbarians, marries Roxana, 358; plotted against by Philotas and others, 362f.; murders Cleitus. 868 f.; prepares to invade India, VI. 384, VII. 384; exchanges gifts with Taxiles the Indian, massacres Indian mercenaries, 390; conquers Porus, 394f.; founds Bucephalia, 398; his men refuse to cross Ganges, 400; severely wounded in attacking Malli, 402; pardons captured gymnosophists, 404f.; reaching ocean orders Nearchus to return by sea with fleet, reaches Gedrosia, 410, VII. 80; punishes erring subordinates, VII. 414; reaches Persia, 416; marries Stateira, 418; reaches Ecbatana in Media where Hephaestion dies, Vv. 428, VII. 424; reaches Babylon, 426; dies of fever, 66, 432

See also 11. 248, V. 38, 232, VI. $72, 384, Vu. 48, 58, 60, VIII. 80, 86, 182, 184, 190, IX. 58, 64, 333, X, 264, 382
Sayings: V. 40; VII. 232; 234; 236; 240; 246; 250; 252; 256, VIII. 184; VII. 258; 260; 262; 268; 280; 282; 284; 286; 288; 298; 306; 310; 820; 334; 338; 340; 342; 346; 350; 370; 372; 378; 388 f.; 392; 394; 406; 426; 430
Alexander of Macedon, quoted, I. 12

Alexander of Myndus, quoted, Ix. 506

Alexander of Pherae, humbled by Pelopidas, v. 402f.; takes Pelopidas prisoner, induced by Epaminondas to surrender him, 406; 412; renews his oppressions, 418; 420; defeated at Pharsalus by Pelopidas, 422; slain at instigation of wife, 430f.; ruled Thessaly 10 months, called tragedy-tyrant by Dionysius, XI, 208
Alexandria, founded, VII. 2983; great library destroyed, 560; VIII. 320; xX. 122
Alexandrians, worship Cleomenes after his death, x. 140; liked Antony, IX. 202
Alexandropolis, city repeopled and renamed by Alexander, VII. 244
Alexas, the Laodicean, most influential Greek with Antony, executed by Octavius, IX. 302
Alexas the Syrian ,IX. 288

Alexicrates, chief cup-bearer to Pyrrhus, IX. 358
Alexippus, physician, cured Peucestas of illness, VII. 346
Aliens at Athens, II. 2, Iv. 12

Allia, river flowing into Tiber, II. 136

Allia, battle of, 1. 348, 11.134 f.

Alliance, see ‘* Treaty.’’

Allies, Athenian, continue to pay assessments but stop military service, II. 436. See also ‘* Hellenes"? and “Delos, Confederacy of?
Allobroges, their part in conspiracy of Oatiline, VIT. 124

Alopece, deme of Lysander, II. 86;
of Aristides, 210; of Thucydides,
III, 32
Alopecus, hill near Haliartus, IV. 318

Alphabet, that used after Eucleides,
II, 212
Alps, 11. 126; northern boundary of Tuscany, 128; VI. 366
Alsaea, city seized by Cleomenes, X. 64

Alveus, Sciron’s son, slain at Aphidnae, I. 76
Alycus, place in Megara, I. 76

Amantius, disgraces Caesar by greed,
VII. 562
Amanus, mountain in Cilicia, Vy. 216,
VII. 174, Ix. 122, 124
Amarsyas, father of Phereclus, I. 34

Amathusians, I. 42

Amazoneum, place at Athens, place in Chalcis, I, 62
Amazons, war with Theseus, I. 58, 60,
62, 64, 190; attacked by Heracles,
11,544; their queen Visits Alexander,
VII. 356; habits and country, V. 208
Ambiorix, see ‘* Abriorix.”’

Ambracia, Il]. 57; given Pyrrhus by Alexander, IX. 360; 368
Ambrones, ancestral name of Ligurjans, IX. 614; defeated Manlius and Caepio, defeated by Romans at Aquae Sextiae, 512 f.
Ambustus, Q. Fabius, one of three sent to consult oracle at Delphi re Alban lake, II. 102; though ambassador, fights Gauls, I. 348, 11.1323; appointed military tribune,
134
Ameinias, the Deceleian, slays

Ariamnes, Xerxes' brother, I. 42; rivals Aristides at Plataea, 388 328

Ameinias, the Phocian, Antigonus' general, enters Sparta, IX. 444
Ameria, Italian city, Ix. 508

Amestris, Artaxerxes' married to father, XI. 192 Amfidius, Tullus, of Antium, plans with Coriolanus war on Rome, IV, 170 f.; quoted, 172; advises
Volscians to summon Corlolanus, 182; becomes jealous, 1923; causes Coriolanus'' death, 214; slain by Romans, 218
Amisus, rich city founded by Athens, 11, 510, 530; besieged, 514; sacked by Lucullus, 526; restored by him,
530; Vv. 212; 292
Ammon, son of Zeus and Pasiphaé, XI. 20; If, 462; 111. 254, 260; his temple in Africa, IV. 288; 304; VII.
228; consulted by Alexander, 304;
424 Ammonius, philosopher, taught Plu-tarch and his friend Themistocles,
II. 90
Amnaeus, Roman senator, VIII. 280

Amoebus, singer, XI. 38

Amompharetus (1), one of five Spartan umpires re Salamis, 1. 428
Amompharetus (2), Spartan at Plataea,
II, 264
Oe Athenian naval defeat off,
IX. 2
Amphares, compasses death of Agis, his mother, and grandmother, X. 40, 46, 48
daughter,

Amphiaraiis, father of Alcmaeon,

XI. 8; 11.2203 his oracle, 270
Amphicrates, rhetorician, died at court of Tigranes, II. 540

Amphictyons, persuaded by Solon, wage war on Cirrha, I. 428; urged by Sparta to exclude cities that did not fight against Persia, II. 56; 336: 426; IV. 362
Amphilochia, given Pyrrhus' by Alexander, IX. 360
Amphipolis, won by Athenians, II. 426; Cleon and Brasidas fal) in battle there, III. 236; 242; Vv. 308; VI. 416; 418
Amphissa, Philip successful there, VIL..42% 1X. 198
Amphitheus, bribed by Persian money, IV. 308 Amphitrope, Diophantus' deme, II. 294

ser uae Alcmene's husband, Iv.

312

Amulius, descendant of Aeneas, dispossesses his brother Numitor, exposes Ilia's children, I. 96; father of Ilia's twins, 98, 102; slain by Romulus and Remus, 112, 158, 188
Amycla, Alcibiades' Spartan nurse, I. 256, IV. 2
Amyclas, father of Daphne according to Phylarchus, xX. 20
Amyntas, Macedonian, sent by Philip on embassy to Thebes, VII. 42; in exile advises Dareius not to attack Alexander in narrow passes, 278
Amyntas, King of Lycaonia and Galatia, sends army to Antony, IX. 276; deserts to Octavius, 280
Anacharsis, meeting with Solon, bon mot, 1. 414

Anacreon of Teos, poet, III. 4, 78

Anaitis, name of Artemis of Ecbatana, XI. 192
“Avaxes, derived from avacyeas, I. 352

"Avaxres, Why kings so called, I. 78

Anaphlystus, Euthippus’ deme, IT. 458

Anapus, river in Sicily, VI. 58, 312

"Avaoxeaots, possibly related to  ancile.’’
Anaxagoras of Clazomene, teacher of Themistocles, 11.6; his philosophy, influence on Pericles, ITI. 10, 14, 16, 290, IV. 262; III. 20; 52; attacked by Diopeithes’ bill, 92; saved from imprisonment by Pericles, 290; saying, 54
Anaxandrides, Delphian, quoted, Iv. 280
Anaxarchus, sophist, Alexander’s friend, VII. 244, 306, 374
Anaxenor, lute-player with Antony, IX. 186
Anaxidamus, of Chaeroneia, Sulla, Iv. 382, 390
Anaxilas, one of five Spartan umpires re Salamis, I. 428
Anaxilatlis, of Byzantium, tried at Sparta for surrendering city and acquitted, IV. 90
Anaximenes, orator, says funeral orations began with Solon, I. 526, VII. 70
Anaxo, carried off by Theseus, I. 66, 196 helps

Anazarbus, see ‘‘ Quinda.”’

Ancharia, Octavia’s mother, rx. 206

Ancharius, of senatorial rank, slain by Marius' men, Ix. 584 Ancilia, story of, I. 350 f.

Ancus Martius, Numa's grandson, completed wooden bridge over Tiber, I. 338; Iv. 118
Andocides, orator, II. 88; suspected of mutilating Hermae and imprisoned, III. 254, Iv. 54 f.
gallon, Cretan name for oveotra, I. 236
Andrians, reply to Themistocles asking money, II. 56
Androcleides (1), accused of being bribed by Persia to oppose Spartans, IV. 308; outlawed from Thebes, slain through Leontidas, Vv. 350 f.
Androcleides (2), helps rescue infant Pyrrhus, 1X. 348 Androcleides, records saying of Lysander, 1V. 250
Androcleion, helps rescue infant Pyrrhus, IX. 348

Androcles, opponent of Alcibiades, IV. 48
Androcottus, subdued all India, vi. 400; his opinion of Alexander, 402 Androcrates, Plataean hero, his shrine, II. 246 f.
Androcydes of Cyzicus, painter, V. 400

Androgeos, Minos' son, his murder led to invasion of Attica, 1. 28 f., 190
Andromache, character in ' Trojan Women "' of Euripides, v. 414
Andromache, Dion's sister, murdered by Hicetas, VI. 120
Andromachus (1), Timaeus' father, welcomes Timoleon's expedition, VI. 284
Andromachus (2), betrays Romans to Parthians, 111. 406
Andron of Halicarnassus, cited, 1. 56

Andronicus, the Rhodian, published copies of works in Apellicon’s library, Iv. 406
Andros, given 250 settlers by Pericles, III. 34; people defeated by Alcibiades, Iv. 102
Androtion, re Solon’s seisachtheia, I. 442; speech against by Demosthenes, VII. 36
Anecdotes, I. 262, 264, 268, 270, 276, 280, 290, 392, 412, 420, 11. 232, V. 340, VII. 76, 90 329

’Avexadey, used for dyw by Athenians, I. 78; possibly related to ‘‘ ancile,”’ 352
Avexas, used for ayw by Athenians, I. 78
Angelus, helps rescue infant Pyrrhus, 1X. 348
Anicius, L., captures Genthius, king of Illyrians, with wife and children, VI. 386
Anienus, ordered by Caesar to cut through isthmus of Corinth, VII. 578 Animals, examples of Greek kindness to, If, 316, 111. 2, Tv..22, 24, V. 144; 148, 388, VII. 396
Anio river, 1.558; plebs seceded to it, IV. 128; battle of, 11. 198 f.
Annalius, L., senator, struck by Crassus, IIT. 426
Annius, C., sent to Spain by Sulla, worsts Sertorius, VIII. 18
Annius, T., defeats Ti. Gracchus in public debaie, X. 178
Annius, soldier of Marius, slays M. Antonius, IX. 588
Annius Gallus, see ‘‘ Gallus, Annius.”’

Antaeus, killed by Hercules, I. 22; buried in city of Tingis, VIII. 24
Antagoras, the Chian, offends Pausanias, joins Athenians, II. 284 Antalcidas, Spartan, Leon's son, sent to Tiribazus re peace, Vv. 62;
peace of, dictated by Artaxerxes, its terms, XI. 176; V. 416, XI. 178
Vv. 86; starved to death, x1.178
Sayings: I. 244, V. 72, 374; 86

Antemnae, its people conquered by Romulus and transferred to Rome, 1.138; yields to Sulla, Iv. 422
Antenor, Epicharmus' treatise dedicated to him, I. 334
Anthedon, Hoeotian city destroyed by Sulla, rv. 408
Anthemion, Anytus' father, IV. 12, 150

Anthemocritus, Athenian herald, III. 86
Anthesterion, IV. 372, 1x. 60 f.

Antho, Amulia's daughter, intercedes for llia, I. 96
Antias, Valerius, re Sabine girls seized by Romans, I. 130; re books put in Numa's coffin, 380; version of aaa about L. Flamininus, x.
33°

°
bd Antiates, most warlike of Volscians, 1V.136. See atso '* Antium."'
'* Anticato,"' writen by Caesar, VII. 568
Anticleides, re queen of Amazons, VII. 356
Anticrates, Spartan, slew Epaminondas, V. 98
Anticyra, granary for Antony, IX. 294

Anticyra, prostitute of Demetrius, Ix. 54
Antigenes the One-eyed, punished by Alexander, VII. 420; leader of Silver-shields, envies Eumenes, VIII. 116; with Teutamus plots against Eumenes, 126
Antigenes, says queen of Amazons came tosee Alexander, VII. 356
Antigenidas, re flute-playing, 1x. 4

Antigone of Pydna, reports Philotas' words to Alexander, VII. 362
Antigone, Berenice's daughter by Philip, married to Pyrrhus, IX. 356, 358; had son Ptolemy, 360, 368
Antigoneia, new name given Mantineia, XI. 106
 Antigonids,'' name of bowls, Vi. 442

Antigonis, new tribe at Athens in honour of Antigonus, IX. 26
Antigonus the One-eyed, general and successor of Alexander, his children, his career, VI. 372, VIII. 4, 1X. 6, 8, 332, 334; vill. 84; with Antipater to conduct war against Eumenes, 102; defeats Eumenes at Orcynii, 104; 108; aspires to supreme power, 114; 120;122 ; defeated by Eumenes, 130; decides to execute Eumenes, 134; punishes Eumenes' betrayers, 136; Ix. 10; sends son Demetrius against Ptolemy, 12; 16; frees Athens, 18; 24; asks Demetrius to fight Ptolemy for Cyprus, 34; wins Cyprus, 40; when 80 years old attacks Ptolemy unsuccessfully, 42; defeated by league of other kings and slain, 66, VIII. 210; his royal line brought to end by Aemilius Paulus, Vr. 460
Sayings: 1. 140, v. 340, 342,

VIII. 108, 1X. 40, 366

Antigonus Doson, made regent, then king by Macedonians, Iv. 142, YI.
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

372; crosses Geraneia with large force, X. 92; garrisons Corinth, X. 96, XI. 88, 98, 100, 102; takes Tegea by siege and_ surprises
Orchomenos and Mantineia, x. 100,
XI. 104; advances to Argos, X.
106f.; defeats Cleomenes at Sellasia, 112f., 266f.; offered Philopoemen command, 270; 274; takes Sparta, restores laws and constitution, returns to Macedonia and dies, 118; XI. 106
Antigonus Gonatas, Demetrius’ son, had a con Demetrius, VI. 372; IX.
134; defeats Boeotians, 98; tries to liberate his father Demetrius, 128; buries him, 132; defeated by Pyrrhus, 430; 444; agrees to leave Argos, 450; 402; defeats Pyrrhus, who is slain, 460; XI. 8; 20; 32;
gets Acrocorinthus, 36; loses Megara, 54; ally of Aristippus, tyrant of Argos, 58; dies, 76
Sayings: 1X. 430, x1. 32

Antigonus the Jew, beheaded by
Antony, IX. 218
Antigonus, re Tarpeia’s father, I.
142 Antilibanus, Mount, Arabs dwell near
it, VII. 292
Antilochus, writes verses in honour of Lysander, IV. 282
Antimachus of Colophon, defeated in poetic contest by Niceratus, consoled by Plato, IV. 282; his poetry seems laboured, VI. 346 Antimachus of Teos, epic poet, saw eclipse on day Rome founded, I.

120
Antioch by Daphne in Syria, 11. 534, Ve218i N10. 262. 1X. 78
Antioch in Mygdonia, called Nisibis by barbarians, captured by Lucul-lus, 11. 578
Antiochis, Aristides' tribe, II. 210; victorious in poetic contest, 212;
opposed Persian centre at Marathon, 224 Antiochus, sea captain, great favourite of Alcibiades, IV. 22; defeated and slain off Ephesus by Lysander, LOD Eas, aod
Antiochus (Soter), son of Seleucus and Apameia, IX. 76; defeated by Demetrius, 70; married his father's wife Stratonice, 92; made king of Upper Asia by his father, 94 Antiochus the Great, not to be compared with Xerxes, II. 396; spurred on by Hannibal, Xx. 346;
348; 354; won back most of Seleucus Nicator's dominions, II.
334; VI. 362; crosses to Greece, joined by Aetolians, x. 362;
defeated at Thermopylae, returns to Asia, II. 336f., 388, rv. 364, X. 302, 364; in flight marries Cleoptolemus' daughter, 304, 366;
defeated in Phrygia by Scipio, II. 504, TIT. 398, X. 378; terms of peace, VI. 370
Antiochus of Ascalon, in treatise
"Concerning Gods" mentions battle of Taurus, 11. 564; led Old Academy, friend of Lucullus, 606; admired by M. Brutus, vi. 128;
his lectures attended by Cicero;
his philosophy, VII. 88, 90 Antiochus of Commagene, besieged by Ventidius, comes to terms with Antony, IX, 212
Antiope, Amazon, seized by Theseus, loved by Solofs, 1. 58, 62,196; had son Hippolytus by Theseus, 64

Antiorus, Lycurgus' son, I. 302

Antipater, Alexander's general, his surrender demanded by Thebans, VII. 254; 280; defeated and slew Agis in Arcadia, V. 40, X. 8; fearing Alexander, makes alliance with Aetolians, VII. 366; rebelled ageinst by Olympias and Cleopatra, 414; suspected of poisoning Alexander, 436; besieged by Leosthenes in Lamia, 66, VIII. 86, 196; with Leonnatus defeated by Greeks in Thessaly, 200; defeats Greeks at Crannon, II. 138; advances on Athens, VII. 70, VIII. 202 f.; executes Hypereides, Aristonicus, and Himeraeus, VII. 70; gives Athenian poor land in Thrace, VIII. 208; 210, VII. 218; sends soldiers to arrest Demosthenes, 70 f.; 78; with Craterus crosses to Asia against Perdiceas, VIII. 90; 92; to help Antigonus against Eumenes, 102; married daughter Phila to Demetrius, IX. 32, 90, 334; before dying appoints Polysperchon general-in-334 chief, and Cassander_ chiliarch, VIII. 216; died in Macedonia, 114

See also VU. 342, 382, 388, 422, 428
Sayings: I. 390, IV. 2243 VIII.
144; 212
Antipater, Cassander's son, murders his mother Thessalonice, expels his brother Alexander, attacked by Pyrrhus, IX. 86, 90, 360
Antipater of Tarsus, dedicated philosophical treatises to Blossius, X.

162; his dying words, IX. 596
Antipater of Tyre, Stoic philosopher, friend of Cato the Younger, VIII. 244 Antiphanes, wrote farce ridiculing Batalus, VII. 10; 24 a ie rebuked by Themistocles, Il. 5
Antiphilus, Phocion's successor, defeats and slays Leonnatus, VIII. 198 f, Antiphon, the Rhamnusian, slanders Alcibiades, IV. 8; discredited, Ill. 226; executed owing to Demosthenes, VII. 36; saying, Ix. 196
Antisthenes, says Amycla Alcibiades' nurse, IV. 2
Sayings: 1. 300, 111. 4

Antistia (1), Appius Claudius' wife, quoted, x. 150
Antistia (2), Antistius' daughter, married to Pompey, V.126 ; divorced by him, 134, Iv. 432
Antistius, praetor, gave Pompey daughter in marriage, V. 124; slain by Marius' men, 136
Antistius (should be Appuleius) gives Brutus 500,000 drachmas, VI. 180
Antium, Volscian town, its people fight Romans, IV. 136; its land raided by Coriolanus, 148; attacked to distract plebs' attention, 162 f.; 166; 214; vI.172
Anton, Hercules' son, progenitor of Antonii, Ix. 146
Antonia (1), C. Antonius' daughter, M. Antony's wife, divorced by him, IX. 156
Antonia (2), M. Antony and Octavia's daughter, wife of Domitius Ahenobarbus, IX. 332
Antonia (3), M. Antony and Octavia's daughter, Drusus’ wife, Germanicus’ mother, IX. 332 Antonias, name of Cleopatra’s “* flagship,’’ IX. 274

Antonii, descended from Anton, Hercules’ son, 1X. 146
Antonius, C. (1), consul with Cicero, VII. 108, 1X. 156; bribed by offer ot province of Macedonia to support Cicero, VII. 110; sent to fight Catiline, 120; defeats Catiline, 136
Antonius, O. (2), praetor, Ix. 170; captured and executed by order of Brutus, 184, V1. 182 f., 186
Antonius, L., tribune of plebs, rx.170 ; fought against Octavius, fled from Italy, 202
Antonius (Saturninus, L.) revolts from Domitian, defeated, V1. 420
Antonius, M., supported Sulla, slain by order of Marius, Ix. 138, 586 Antonius Creticus, M., M. Antony’s father, brief account of, Ix. 138
Antonius, P., prosecuted by Greeks before M. Lucullus, praetor of Macedonia, VII. 448
Antonius Honoratus, military tribune, loyal to Galba, against Nymphidius, XI. 232
Antonius, helps to murder Sertorius, VIII. 72
Antonius, celebrated triumph, his daughter captured by pirates, v. 176
Antony, Mark (1), son of Antonius Creticus and Julia, 1x. 138; corrupted by Curio and Clodius, studied oratory in Greece, 140; defeats and captures Aristobulus in Syria, 142; supporting Ptolemy, takes Pelusium, 144; appearance and character, 144 f., 188 f.; joining Caesar’s party, elected tribune of plebs and augur, reads Caesar’s letters to senate, 148, Vv. 268, VII.

516; presents Caesar's new proposals, with Cassius flees to Caesar,
IX. 150, V. 270, VII. 518; disgraces
Caesar by dissoluteness, 562, IX.
152, 158; captures Lissus, brings troops from Italy to Caesar, 154, vil. 6536; Jed Caesar's left at Pharsalus, V. 294, IX. 156; marries Fulvia, Clodius' widow, 160; consul with Caesar, 162; offered Caesar
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE 'LIVES'

diadem, 164, VII. 584; Antony spared by conspirators on plea of Brutus, detained outside senate, 596, VI. 162 f., IX. 166; proposes amnesty on murder of Caesar, pronounces funeral oration, 168,
VI. 166f., VII. 190; has rival in Octavius, VI. 174, VII. 192f., Ix.
170f.; attacked by Octavius at Mutina, 174, VI. 452, VII. 198; forms triumvirate with Octavius and Lepidus, 200, VI. 186, 1X. 178;
proscribes Cicero, 180; defeats Cassius atPhilippi, 182 f., VI. 216 f.; gives Brutus burial, 246, 256, Ix.
184; levies money in Asia, 186;
meets Cleopatra, 194; divides empire with Octavius, marries Octavia, 204; learns of Ventidius' victory over Parthians, 210; makes peace with Antiochus of Com-magene, 212; meets Octavius at Tarentum, 216; increases Clcopatra's territory, 218; begins war against Parthians, 218; deserted by Artavasdes, Armenian king, 224;
led by Phraates to retreat, 228;
crosses river Araxes into Armenia, 250; met by Cleopatra, 254;
' Octavia reaches Athens on way to him, 256; beguiled from wife by Cleopatra, 258; drawn into war with Octavius, 260f.; war against Antony voted at Rome, 272; Antony's forces, 274f.; defeated in naval battle off Actium, 282 f., 1. 372; flees with Cleopatra to Egypt, IX. 288; revels with Cleopatra, 300; hearing Cleopatra is dead, falls upon his sword, 310; left 7 children by his 3 wives, 330

See also VI. 140, 186, 190, 192,
210, 230, ViI. 142, 188, 192
Sayings: IX. 148, 186, 304, 310
Antony (Julius Antonius), Fulvia's son, third in esteem of Octavius, 1x. 330; marries Octavia and Marcellus' daughter, Agrippa's divorced wife, 332
Antyllius, Q., lictor slain in brawl,
X. 226f.; mot murdered by C.
Gracchus, 248
Antyllus, Antony and Fulvia's son, ee ecuted by Octavius, Ix. 300, 318, 30 Anytus, Anthemion's son, lover of Alcibiades, IV. 12; tried for failure to relieve Pylos, first to bribe jurors, 150
Aollius or Avillius, Hersilia's son, I. 130
Aotis, river in Greece, VII. 534

Apama (1), Artaxerxes' daughter, married Pharnabazus, x1. 192 f.
Apama (2), Artabazus' daughter, given in marriage to Ptolemy by Alexander, VIII. 80
Apama (3), Antiochus' mother by Seleucus, IX. 76
eke mt to assemble the people,
Tr 22
Apelles (1), painted Alexander of too swarthy acolour, VII. 230; opinion of Protogenes' painting, IX. 52; gave talent to be admitted to society of artists of Sicyon, XI. 28

Apelles (2), courtler of Philip, Antigonus’ son, XI. 110
Apellicon, his library seized by Sulla, etc., IV. 406
Apeimantus, admirer of Timon, Ix. 298 Aperantians, harried by Macedonians, X. 364 eg reached by Persian army, II. 2
Aphidnae, Helen hidden there, I. 72 f.; captured by Dioscuri, 76; 78; lost to Athens under Theseus, 198 Aphidnus, Theseus’ friend, guarded Helen, I. 72; adopted Tyndaridae, Romulus and 78

Aphrodite, Theseus’ guide to Crete, why called ° Epitragia,’? I. 36;  April’ derived from ‘* Aphrodite,” 368, 11. 506; mother of Harmonia by Ares, V. 386; abhors wars, myrtle her plant, 496
Aphytae, city in Thrace, besieged by Lysander, IV. 288
Apis, sacred bull, x. 128

Apollo, loved Phorbas, Hyacinthus, Admetus, Hippolytus the Sicyonian, 1.318; father of Syrus by Sinope, II. 544; patron of Athens, flayed flute-player, IV. 8; gave Cadmus cow for guide, 382; temple of at Actium plundered by pirates, v. 174
Apollo, name of costly room of Lucullus, 1. 602
333

GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

Apollo the Laurel-bearer at Phlya, II. 44
Apollo Lyceius, Ix. 450, 454

Apollo, Pythian, half property of Thebans consecrated to him by Sulla, Iv. 390; 420; gets golden bow] from Ronians, V. 456; Antony plans to finish his temple, Ix. 186;
vouches for Lycurgus' laws, X. 244 Apollo Tegyraeus, brief account of,
Vv. 378
Apollo Thurius,
IV. 382
Apollocrates, eldest son of Dionysius the Younger, put in command of citadel of Syracuse, VI. 80; 116;
makes terms with Dio and leaves Syracuse, 106
Apollodorus (1) of Phalerum, ardent disciple of Socrates, VIII. 346 Apollodorus (2), used speeches written for him by Demosthenes, VII. 36, 216 Apollodorus(3), commandant of Babylon under Alexander, VII. 426 Apollodorus (4), proves Lycurgus lived long before first Olympiad, I. 204 Apollodorus (5), the Sicilian, Oleo-patra's friend, VII. 558 Apollonia (1), in Illyria near Dyrrhachium, Iv. 408; taken by Caesar, vil. 532; Octavius studied there, 194, VI. 174, 1x. 170; favoured Brutus, V1. 180 f.
Apollonia (2), on the river Rhyndacus,
II. 504
Apollonia (3), in Sicily, ruled by tyrant Leptines, VI. 318
Apollonides (1), friend, 1X. 126 Apollonides (2), Stoic, with Cato at Utica, VIII. 396, 402
Apollonius (1), Molon's son, taught Caesar and Cicero oratory, VII. 90,
446; quoted, 92
Apollonius (2), tyrant of Zenodotia in Mesopotamia, III. 364

Apollophanes of Cyzicus, brings oer and Pharnabazus together,
Vv. 32
Apollothemis, says Lycurgus died in Elis, 1. 302
Aponius, informer under Nero, XI.
222 Apothetae, at foot of Mt. Taygetus, 334

why so named,

Dion’s intimate where Spartans exposed children, I. 254

Appian Way, see ‘‘ Way, Appian.”

Appii, always belonged to party of senate and nobles, VI. 454
Appius, governor of Sardinia, visits Caesar at Luca, VII. 494; bring-from Gaul Pompey’s troops lent
Caesar, V. 266
Appius, M., questioned by Cicero,
VII. 148
Appius Claudius (1), hostile to plebs, supports Coriolanus, IV. 164 Appius Claudius (2), marries daughter to Ti. Gracchus, X. 150; helps Ti.
Gracchus frame agrarian Jaw, 164;
one of three to distribute public land, 174
Appius Claudius (3), partisan of Sulla defeated by Telesinus the Samnite,
Iv. 418
Appius Claudius Caecus, gave suffrage to freedmen, I. 518; opposes peace with Pyrrhus, speech quoted, 1X.
402 f.
Appius Claudius Pulcher(1), sent with force to Syracuse, V. 466, 470;
when consul, helped take Capna,
I1I. 200

Appius Claudius Pulcher (2), candidate for censor with Scipio Africanus the Younger, VI. 452 f.; quoted, 454 Appius Clausus, Sabine, with 5000 families migrates to Rome, founder of Claudian family, I. 556 f.
Appius Clodius, brother of Lucullus' wife, sent to Tigranes by Lucullus with demand for surrender of Mithridates, II. 526, 534 f.
Appuleius, see '' Antistius."'

April, origin of name, celebration cn
the Ist, 1. 368 Apsephion, archon, names judges in contest between Aeschylus and Sophocles, 11. 428
Apsus river, described, x. 328

Aptera, place in Crete, IX. 448

Apuleius, L., accuser of Camillus,
II. 122
Apulia, where Hannibal defeats and slays proconsul Gnaeus Fulvius,
Vv. 502
Aquae Sextiae, scene of battle between Romans and Teutones,
Ix. 510
sickly

Aqueducts, P. and Q. Marcius, brought best supply of water to Rome, Iv. 118
Aquillii, nephews of Collatinus the consul, corrupted by 'Tarquin's envoys, I. 510 f.; condemned and beheaded, 516 f.
Aquillius, tribune of plebs, supporter of Cato the Younger, VIII. 338 Aquillius, M'., left in charge of army by Marius, 1x. 498
Aquinius, M., called Adrastus by

Cicero, VII. 150
Aquinum, town, XI. 286

Aquinus, defeated by Sertorius, VIII. 36
Ara Aii Locutii, see ‘‘ Aii Locutii ara.”

Arabia, triumphed over by Lucullus, Vv. 230; It]. 382; traversed by Antony, Ix IX. 220 Arabia Nabataea, invaded by Demetrius, 1X.16; part toward outer sea given to Cleopatra, 218
Arabian Gulf, IX. 296

Arabs, those about Mt. Antilibanus attacked by Alexander, VII. 292; nomadic A. moved to new localities by Tigranes, 11.536; come from sea of Babylonia to join Tigranes, 554; kings of, offer Lucullus their possessions, 6568; slay Roman fugitives after Carrhae, III. 416; those about Petra burn Cleopatra’s ships, IX. 296
Arachosia, has Sibyrtius as governor, VIII. 136
Aracus, appointed admiral to succeed Callicratidas, IV. 248
Arar river, Tigurini crushed there by Labienus, VII. 486; 504
Arateium, tomb of Aratus in Sicyon, xI. 120
Araterium, place in Gargettus, 1. 80

Aratus (1), on murder of father Cleinias, escapes to Argos, XI. 4f.5 plots to overthrow tyrant Nicocles, 10; expels Nicocles, attaches city to Achaean League, 20, X. 256; his character, 276, XI. 22, 30f.; gets 25 talents from Ptolemy, 24; going to Egypt gets 150 talents more, 30; courted by Antigonus, 32; as general of Teague, ravages

Locris and Calydonia, goes to help Boeotians, 34; takes Acrocorinthus from Antigonus, 40f., x. 82; persuades Corinthians to _ join Achaean League, XI. 52; tries to free Argos from tyranny, 56f.; brings Cleonaeinto Achaean League, 64; defeats and slays Aristippus, tyrant of Argos, 66; brings Megalopolis into League, 68; in Aetolian war gets help from Sparta, 70, X. 32£.; defeats and drives Aetolians out of Pellene, XI. 72 f.; makes peace and alliance between Achaeans and Aetolians, 74; tries to seize the Peiraeus, 76 Defeated at Phylacia by Bithys, Demetrius' general, 76; persuades Diogenes to give up the Peiraeus, Munychia, Salamis, and Sunium to Athenians for 150 talents, brings Aegina, Hermione, and greater part of Arcadia into Leagne, 78; brings Argos and Phliius into League, 81); defeated by Cleomenes near Mt. Lycaeum, captures Mantineia, 82, xX. 60; fails to support Lydiades, who is defeated and slain by Cleomenes, 62, XI. 84; defeats Megistonotis at Orchomenus, but refuses re-election as general, 86, x. 80; after defeat of Achaeans at Hecatombaeum blocks peace with _Cleomenes, 86, XI. 90; punishes disaffected at Sicyon, 92; loses Corinth, 94, X. 90; at Aegium secures vote of assembly to call in Antigonus, 82, 92, XI. 98; sailing to Epidaurus, helps recover Argos from Cleomenes, 102, xX. 94; criticised for concessions to Antigonus, XI. 104: founds new settlenent at Mantineia, 106; defeated by the Aetolians at Caphyae, 108; becomes estranged from Philip,

112f.; poisoned through plot of Philip, 118; buried at Sicyon, 120
See also X. 54, 58, 80, 274
Commentaries of Aratus cited,
X. 34, 84, 86, 90, XI. 74, 76, 88
Aratus (2), Aratus' son, wronged by Philip, X1.112; poisoned by Philip, 123 Araxes river, II. 554; tributary of Cyrnus, V. 206; boundary betwcen
Media and Parthia, IX. 250; 256
335

Arbaces, Mede punished by Artaxerxes,
Ix. 156
Arbela, where Alexander defeated
Persians, II. 138, VII. 316; V. 210
Arcadia, II. 244

Arcadians, acorn-eaters, IV. 122; have four months, I. 368; lost large territory to Spartans led by Soiis, 206; malicious toward Spartans,
v. 60; raided by Agesilaiis, 84;
opposed by Pelopidas and Epami-nondas at Mantineia, 350; detached from Spartan confederacy, 396;
united into one power, 398; except Mantineia, received into allegiance by Demetrius, IX. 58, X. 56; greater part join Achaean League,
x1. 78
Arcesilaiis (1), Spartan, his victories,
I. 434
Arcesilaiis (2), Academic, X. 256, X1.10

Arcesilaiis (3), false friend of Agis, x. 40

Archagetai means "' kings,' I. 222

Archedamus (Archedemus), Aetolian, mocked Flamininus, x. 390;

follower of Perseus, VI. 416 Archedemus, sent to invite Plato to Syracuse, VI. 36 Archelaiis (1), colleague of Charilaiis, the Spartan king, I. 218 Archelaiis (2), naturalist, possible author of elegy addressed to Cimon,
Il. 412, 416
Archelaiis (3), led Antigonus' forces in Oorinth, defeated by Aratus, X1.50; captured and dismissed,
52 Archelaiis (4), Mithridates' general,
controlssea, his operations, IV. 358,
IX. 556; lies with fleet at Munychia,
IV. 372, 4543 sets out for Chaeroneia 378; defeated at Chacroneia by Sulla, 382f.; defeated at Orcho-menus by Sulla, 392f., 11. 504;
parleys with Sulla near Delium,
Iv. 396; meets Sulla at Philippi, 400f.; urges Lucullus to invade Pontus, II. 494; 498
Archelaiis (5), merchant of Delos, arranges meeting between Sulla and Archelaiis, Mithridates' general,
IV. 396
Archelaiis (6), friend of M. Antony, warred on by him, then given royal burial, ix. 144
ae
II
Archelaiis (7), king of Oappadocia, fights under Antony, IX. 276
Archeptolis, | Themistocles' son, marries Mnesipotolema, his half-sister, II. 86 f.
Archery, power of Parthian bows,
III. 388
Archestratus (1), choral poet in time of Peloponnesian war, II. 212; saying re Alcibiades, IV. 42, 284 Archestratus (2), introduces decree to denounce Phocion to Polysperchon,
VIII. 222

Archias (1), with Leontidas and Philip, persuades Phoebidas to seize Cadmeia, V. 350 f.; with Leontidas, made ruler of Thebes, 66; slain by Pelopidas' followers, 360 f.
Archias (2), hierophant at Athens, sends warning to Archias, Theban tyrant, V. 364 Archias (3), the exile-hunter, arrests Hypereides, Aristonicus, and Himeraeus, and scnds them to Antipater, tries to get Demosthenes, Athenian,

VII. 70 f.
nicknamed Laconistes, VII. 166
Archibiades,

Archibius, gives Octavius 2000 talents to spare statues of Cleopatra, Ix. 330
Archidamia, Spartan woman, urges men to defend city against Pyrrhus, Ix, 438
Archidamia, Agis' grandmother, very rich, X. 10, 16; executed by Amphares, 46
Archidamidas, Spartan, sayings: I. 266, 268
Archidamus (1), Zeuxidamus' son, left sons Agis and Agesilaiis, V. 2, 452; fined for marrying little woman, 4; saves Sparta at time of earthquake, 4543; tries to avoid war with Athens, IJ]. 84; invades Attica, 94
Sayings: II. 22; 318, x. 112

Archidamus (2), Agesilatis' son, Agis and Eudamidas' father, I. 296, v. 112, xX. 8; intercedes for Sphodrias, V. 70; conquers Arcadians in ''tearless battle,''92; 96; slain with his army in Italy, II. 138, x. 8

Archidamus (3),succeeded Eudamidas, followed by Eudamidas, x. 8;
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

defeated by Demetrius Mantineia, Ix. 84
Archidamus (4), Agis’ brother, escapes after his death, X. 50; called from Messene, made king, executed, 60 Archidamus (5), Aetolian, remains with Perseus in his flight, V1. 416
 Archilochi,’’ work of Cratinus, IT. 434 Archilochus, loved by gods for sake of Muses, I. 318, Ilr. 4; his tone adopted by Cato the Younger in iambics, VIIT. 250
(Bergk I1. 383), 1. 10
(Bergk II. 392), IIT. 80
—— (Bergk II. 383), VIII. 160
—— (Bergk I, 428 f), rx. 520
—— (Bergk II. 398), XI. 268 Archimedes, his geometry, mechanics, defence of Syracuse, v. 470f.; asked that cylinder enclosing sphere with formula be placed on_ his grave, 480; his death, 486
Archippe, Lysander’s daughter,
Themistocles’ wife, II. 86
Archippus, quoted (Kock I. 688), Iv. 4 Architeles, Athenian, opposes Themistocles at Artemisium, II. 20
Archonides, Syracusan, VI. 88
Archons, in ancient times chosen by lot; ex-archons promoted to Areiopagus, III. 26; to be chosen from all the people, II. 280; 1x. 26
See also 11. 210, 214, 226, 228, 428,
VII. 58
Archytas, with Eudoxus, orginated art of mechanics, Vv. 470; Pythagorean; persuaded to assist in bringing Plato to Sicily, v1. 36;
rescues Plato from peril, 40 Arcissus, ex-harmost of Thebes, executed by Spartans, v. 370

Arcturus, his rising cause of storm, VI. 52
Ardea, led by Camillus, its people defeat Gauls, 11. 150
Ardettus, place in Athens, I. 62
Areiopagus, Council of, established by Solon. Its duties, 1. 454, 464; tried Peisistratus for murder, 494, II. 30; attacked by Ephialtes, 436; its power broken by Ephialtes, 450, III. 20, 26; to investigate Harpalus matter, VII. 62; supports Phocion, VIII. 178; induced by Cicero to honour Cratippus, VI. 142 near Areius, philosopher, honoured in Alexandria by Octavius, IX. 316 f.

Ares, gave victory over Persians, II. 272; father of Harmonia, v. 386
Aretaeus, name of Dion's son according to Timaeus, VI. 68
Arete, daughter of Dionysius the Elder and Aristomache, marries Thearides, then Dion, her uncle, VI. 12; married to Timocrates, 42 ; restored to Dion, 108; murdered by Hicetas, 120 f., 340
Arethusa (1), in Macedonia, had tomb of Antony, I. 302
Arethusa (2), given Monaeses by Antony, [X. 220
Areus, Spartan king, Acrotatus' son, fell at Corinth, X. 10, 1x. 434; 436; 4443 446; 452
Argas, nickname of Demosthenes, vir. 10
Argileonis, Brasidas' mother, replies to Amphipolitans, I. 282
Arginusae, sea-fight of; Callicratidas defeated, III. 108, Iv. 248 Argives, misgoverned, drove out kings, I. 226; defeated utterly by Spartans, IV. 234; left in Amphictyonic Alliance through Themistocles in spite of Spartans, I]. 56; hated Sparta, urged by Alcibiades to look to Athens, IV. 32 ; 292; make alliance with Athens, III. 244, Iv.

36; after Mantineia crush attempt of “‘ The Thousand,’’ persuaded by Themistocles to attach city completely to Athens, 38; on left wing at Coroneia, routed by Agesilaiis, v.46; hindered at Isthmian games by Agesilatis, 56; with Cleomenes fight against Corinthians, VI. 268 Argivus, freedman, buried Galba by night, XI. 270
Argo, commanded by Jason, I. 38

Argolis, overrun by Cleomenes, x. 58

Argos, expelled king Gelanor, captured by Danaiis, 1x. 454; Ir. 62;
v. 174; detached from Spartan confederacy, 396; freed by Demetrius, IX. 58; XI. 6; IX. 446; scene of battle, where Pyrrhus is slain, 450f£.; under tyrant Aristomachus,
XI. 56; attacked by Aratus, 60 f.;
seized by <Agias and younger Aristomachus, 66; joins Achaean 337

League, 80, 102; Achaeans meet there to confer with Cleomcnes,
x. 84; joins Cleomenes, 83sf., XI. 90; lost to Cleomenes, X. 06;
its land ravaged by him, 106:
recovered by Achaean League,
x1. 102 :
Ariadne, falls in love with, carried off by Theseus, I. 36, 196; deserted by Theseus, 66; various stories about her, 40; honoured in festival of Oschophoria, 50
Ariaeus, Cyrus’ friend, at Cunaxa,

XI. 148
Ariamnes (1), Xerxes' brother, slain at Salamis, II. 42
Ariamnes (2), Arab chieftain, treacherously gives Crassus bad advice, Il. 874, 382
Ariarathes (1), king of Cappadocia, to give place to Eumenes, VIII. 84; captured, 88
Ariarathes (2), Mithridates' son, overrunning Thrace and Macedonia, IV. 358; poisoned by M., V. 212
Ariarathes (3), buys Mithridates' sword-belt, V. 22
Ariaspes, Artaxerxes' son, scared into committing suicide, XI. 200
Arimanius, Persian god, I. 76

Ariminum, v. 442; occupied by Caesar, V. 272, VII. 520, VIII. 360
Arimnestus (1), general of Plataeans, interprets his dream to Aristides, II. 246
Arimnestus (2), Spartan, slays Mardonius, II. 270
Ariobarzanes (1), Mithridates' father, ix. 10
Ariobarzanes (2), reinstated as king of Cappadocia by Sulla, Iv. 334 f.; to receive Cappadocia again from Mithridates, 398; 404
Ariobarzanes (3), king of Cappadocia, to be supported by Cicero, VII. 172
Ariomandes, Gobryas' son, leader of Persian forces at Eurymedon, IT. 440
Ariovistus, defeated by Caesar, escapes across Rhine, VII. 486 f.
Ariphron, Xanthippus' son, Pericles' brother, Alcibiades' guardian, IV. 2,8 Aristaenus, Megalopolitan, general of Achaeans, sent to prevent Philopoemen being exiled, x. 290; 304

Aristaeus, his disappearance like that of Romulus, 1.178
Ariztagoras, town-clerk of Cyzicus, Il. 500
Aristander of Telmessus, seer with Philip, and then with Alexander, VII. 226, 260, 294, 296, 316, 322, 368, 374
Aristeas, Argive, invites Pyrrhus to Argos, IX. 446; admits him, 450
Aristides (1), Iysimachus' son, his family and position, 11. 210 f., 390f.; his political principles; opposed Themistocles, 8, 214, 436 ; character, 8, 216f., 250, 260, 436; fought brilliantly at Marathon, 224; ostracized, 16, 32, 2380, 248; supports Themistocles at Salamis, 36 f. 234,; condemns Themistocles' plan to break bridge of boats, 238; leads Athenians at Plataea, 244 f.; proposes decree to assembled Greeks re war against Persians, 278; proposes decree to make government democratic, 280; condemns Themistocles' plan to burn Greek naval station, 56, 282; by taet and diplomacy steals leadership from Spartans, 282, 420; chosen by allies to levy assessment upon them, 286f.; his death, 294, II. 18; leaves family in poverty, 296, 392. See also il. 58, 418, IV. 228
Sayings: II. 44, 218, 220, 222, 236, 242, 250, 288
Aristides (2), Xenophilus' son, It. 212

Aristides (3), Locrian, companion of Plato, VI. 274
Aristides (4), author o
Iii. £18

Aristion, tyrant at Athens, I. 338,
II. 530; character and acts; besieged by Sulla, Iv. 366; forced to surrender by Curio, 372;
poisoned by Sulla, 400
Aristippus (1) of Cyrene, quoted re Dionysius, VI. 38; re Plato and Dionysius, 40
Aristippus (2) of Argos, has feud with Aristeas, IX. 446 Aristippus, succeeds Aristomachus as tyrant of Argos; prosecutes 99

 Milesiaca,

GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

Achaeans for attack in time of peace, XI. 58; 60; fights with Aratus at Chares river, 62 f.; defeated and slain, 64 f.
Aristoboule, name given by Themistocles to temple of Artemis built by him, II. 60
Aristobulus (1) of Alexandreia, cited re Demosthenes, Vil. 56; re Alexander, 260, 268, 272, 284, 356, 432 Aristobulus (2), king of Jews, taken by Pompey, Vv. 216; led in his triumph, 230; having caused Jews to revolt, defeated and taken with his son by Antony, 1X. 142 Aristocleitus, father of Lysander of the Heracleidae, IV. 234 Aristocrates (1), speech against, by Demosthenes, VII. 32
Aristocrates (2), cited re Lycurgus,
I. 216, 302; re Philopoemen, x. 302
Aristocrates (3), rhetorician with Antony, IX. 294
Aristocritus, sent to Philip by Pixodarus to arrange a marriage,
VII. 248
Aristodemus (1), ancestor of Lycurgus,

1.206; V. 52
Aristodemus (2) of Miletus, courtier a Antigonus and Demetrius, 1x. 20, 3
Arsitodemus (3), tyrant, defeats and slays Acrotatus at Megalopolis, X.10; killed through plotting of Ecdemus and Megalophanes, 256
Aristodicus of Tanagra, murders Ephialtes, 111, 32
Aristogeiton (1), his granddaughter given dowry by Athenians, II. 298
Aristogeiton (2), public informer at Athens, VIII. 166; speech against him delivered by Demosthenes himself, VII. 36; VIII. 168
Aristomache, Dion’s sister, Dionysius the Elder’s wife, VI.6; her children, 12; 108; drowned by order of Hicetas, 122
Aristomachus (1), exile from Sicyon, friend of Aratus, x1. 10
Aristomachus (2), tyrant of Argos, killed by slaves, succeeded by Aristippus, XT. 58
Aristomachus (3), with Agias seizes Argos, XI. 66; resigns and is made general of Achaean League, XI, 80 f,, X. 58; tortured at Cenchreae and drowned, XI. 102
Aristomenes, thrice offered sacrifice for 100 Spartans slain, 1.168; said by Messenians to have = slain Theopompus, Spartan king, x. 48
Ariston (1), helps Peisistratus become tyrant, I. 490
Ariston (2), Corinthian captain, by ruse defeats Athenians under Menander and Euthydemus, 111.280
Ariston (3), captain of Paconians, rewarded by Alexander, VII. 338
Ariston (4) of Chios, cited, 11. 354, VII. 24, 74
Ariston (5) of Ceos, philosopher, cited, 11. 8, 216

Aristonicus (1) of Marathon, executed by Antipater, VII. 70
Aristonicus (2), son of harpist's daughter, used reputed connexion with Eumenes to fill al] Asia with wars and rebellions, x. 384
Aristonicus (3), joined in Asia by Blossius, X. 194
Aristonicus (4), Mithridates' admiral, taken by Lucullus, II. 504
Aristonous, harper, his encounter with Lysander, IV. 282 Aristophanes (1) :—
Acharnians, 524 f., III. 88
Babylonians (Kock I. 408), 111. 76
Birds, 638 f., 111. 234
Farmers (Kock I. 416), 111. 234
Frogs, 1425, 1431-1432, Iv. 40
Knights, 358, lI. 222; 382, Ix. 28; 815, 1. 54
Lysistrata, 1137 f., 11. 454
Wasps, 44f.,1V. 4
Aristophanes (2), one of Alexander's bodyguards, VII. 372
Aristophon (1), painted Nemea with Alcibiades in her arms, IV. 42
Aristophon (2), archon, VII. 58; VIII. 160
Aristotle (1), native of Stageira, tutored Alexander, VII. 240; 242; introduced Alexander to works of Theodectas, 272; thought Callis-thenes able speaker, but Jacking in common sense, 380; related to Callisthenes, hated by Alexander, 381; said to have counselled Antipater to poison Alexander, 436; had gift of persuasion accord-3o9

ing to Antipater, 11. 390, IV. 224; called river of liquid gold by Cicero, VII. 140; abused by Timaeus, III.

210; his writings in library of Apellicon the Teian; seized by Sulla and sent to Rome, Iv. 406 Statements: Theseus gave up absolute rule, I. 54; Lycurgus and Iphitus established Olympic truce, 204; Why 28 members in Council of Elders at Sparta, 220; Crannon a river and Babyca a bridge, 222; Kpvareta one of Lycurgus' institutions, 288; Ephors on coming into office declared formal war on Helots, 290; Honours'. paid Lycurgus less than deserved, 500; Solon supported Delphian oracle, 428; Tables of law at Athens were called xvpBes, 472; Ashes of Solon ee ered on island of Salamis, 498; Lucius saved Rome from Gauls, 11, 148; Pythocleides was Pericles' music teacher, III. 10; (should be Plato, Alcibiades, 1.118c) ; Pericles defeated by Melissus in sea-fight, 76; Athenians not brutal to Samians, 78; Ephors having entered upon office, bid all men to shave moustaches and obey laws, X. 66
Constitution of Athens, (25. 4), Ill. 323 (27. 3), I. 4323 (27. 4), Ill. 26; (28. 5), III. 212 Constitution of Bottiaea (Athenians were not put to death by Minos, but made slaves, etc.), I. 30 liad of the Casket, edition carried by Alexander, VII. 242, 298
On Nobility of Birth? (Myrto, granddaughter of Aristides, wife of Socrates ?), II. 296
On the Soul, occasion of its being written, VI. 46 Fragment 56 (Rose), V. 546; 97, Vv. 384; 556, 1.6
Politics (11. 6. 8), 1. 244
Problems, (30. 1), IV. 236

Aristotle (2), logician, with Deinias, slays Abantidas, XI. 6
Aristotle (3), causes revolt against Cleomenes in Argos, X. 94, XI. 102 Aristoxenus, musician, says Lycurgus died in Crete, I. 302; falsely says Myrto, granddaughter of Aristides, 340 was wife of Socrates, II. 296; VI. 294; his memoirs tell of Alexander's person, VII. 232 Aristratus, tyrant of Sicyon, painted by Melanthus and Apelles, x1. 28

Aristus, brother of Antiochus of Ascalon, friend of M. Brutus, VI 128
Armenia, attacked by Perseus, II. 410; disturbed by Neopotolemus, VIII. 88; ruled by Tigranes, II. 512; Lesser 'A. occupied by Lucullus, 526; 536; invaded by Lucullus, 548: conquered by Lucullus, 140, 572, 111.370 ; peopleof, join Tigranes, Il, 554; nature of ground and weather, 576, 590; Lucullus' trophies there, 592; added to Pompey's sway by Manilian Law, Vv. 190; invaded by Pompey on invitation of young Tigranes, 202, VII. 106; left in charge of Afranius by Pompey, Vv. 204; 208; 216; triumphed over by Pompey, 230; conquered by Canidius, IX. 214; traversed by Antony, 220
Armilustrium, on Aventine, has grave of Tatius, I. 164
Army, Roman, its armour and weapons improved by Oamillus, 11.198; its weapons, 558 f.
Arnaces, royal eunuch, sent with message from Themistocles to Xerxes, Il. 46, 240
Arpates, Teribazus' son, slays Arsames, AD. 202

Arpinum, Cicero had country-seat
there, VII. 100; Ix. 468
Arrhenides, father of Callicles, VII. 62

Arrhidaeus, Philip’s son, to marry Pixodarus’ daughter, VII. 248; drugged by Olympias, 4365; orders
Humenes to wage war on Antigonus,
VIII. 116
Arrius, Q., brings news of Catiline’s army, VII. 118
Arron, Tuscan, led Gauls into Italy,
Il. 126 f.
Arruntius, led Octavius’ centre at Actium, Ix, 288
Arsaces, Parthian king, sends message to Crassus, III. 366; V.314. See also  Hyrodes.”’ Arsacidae, Parthian royal line, III.
420
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

Arsamesg, illegitimate son of Artaxerxes, slain by Arpates, x1. 200 f.
Arsania river, battle of, between Lucullus and Armenians, II. 574 f.
Arsian grove, scene of battle between Tarquin and Romans, I. 522
Arsicas, name of Artaxerxes IL. at first, XI. 128
Arsis river, where Pompey defeats
Carbo’s cavalry, V. 130
Artabanus, gives audience to Themistocles, II. 72
Artabazes (Artabazus), comes to Crassus’ camp with 6000 horsemen, III. 370; seized by Antony because deserted in Media by him, Ix. 340.
See also “* Artavasdes.”’ Artabazus (1), with 40,000, escaped at Plataea, II. 272
Artabazus (2), father of Pharnabazus,
VIII. 96; of Barsine, 80, VII. 284
Artagerses, commander of Cadusians, slain at Cunaxa by Cyrus, X1. 146 f., 156

Artasyras, the King’s Eye, discovers and reports death of Cyrus, XI. 152, 158
Artavasdes (Artabazes) king of Armenia, punished by Hyrodes, III. 376; sends message to Crassus, 380; reconciled to Hyrodes, 420; deserts Antony, IX. 224; robbed Antony of victory, led in triumph at Alexandria, 252; wrote tragedies crations, histories, III. 420
Artaxas, king of Armenia, induced by Hannibal to build Artaxata and make it Armenian capital, II. 572
Artaxata, royal city of Tigranes, attacked by Lucullus, 11. 572; left untaken, 578 Artaxerxes (1),surnamed Longimanus, Xerxes’ son, XI. 128; received Themistocles, II. 72, 76 f.
Artaxerxes (2), son of Darcius and Parvsatis, grandson of Artaxerxes I., XI. 128; in danger from his brother Cyrus, 132 f.: his character, 134; rebelled against by Cyrus, 186 f.; warned by Tissaphernes of Cyrus’ intention, 138; urged by Teribazus to fight, 140; battle of Cunaxa, 142f.; death of Cyrus, 148f.; Clearchus and his fellow-generals seized and slain, 166f.; A. fails to capture Greeks, who had come with Cyrus, 172; attacked by Agesilatis, drives Spartans from Asia and the sea by bribery, 174 f.; dictates Peace of Antalcidas, 176; refuses Spartans money after Leuctra, 178; puts Tissaphernes to death, 180; marries his daughter Atossa, 182; fails in war against Egyptians, and against Cadusians, 184f.; proclaims Dareius his successor, 190; makes an enemy of Teribazus, 194; is plotted against by Teribazus and Dareius, 194 f.; has Darecius executed, 198f.; on learning of death of his sons Ariaspes and Arsames through his son Ochus, he dies, ninety-four years old, 200f. See also Y. 416 Sayings: XI. 134, 136

pea husband of Xerxes' sister,
II.
Artemidorus (1), guided Lucullus to position above Mithridates, 11. 516 Artemidorus (2), Cnidian philosohper, gives Caesar a written warning,
VII. 594
Artemis, temple of, built by Themistocles and named Aristoboule,
A 60; temple of, named Proseoea, Artemis of Ecbatana, called Anaitis,
xa 192
Artemis, Ephesian, temple of, burned,
VII. 230
Artemis Eucleia, temple of, had tomb of Euchidas, 11. 276
Artemis Orthia, temple of, in Sparta, I. 72; youths flogged to death at her altar, 262
Artemis, Persia, highly honoured by barbarians beyond Euphrates, II.
548 Artemis of Colophon, at banquet of Alexander, VII. 372
Artemis of Priapus, 11. 510

Artemisia, fights for Xerxes at Salamis, 11.18 f., 42
Artemisium, location and description, 11.223: 1¥.2
Artemisius, Macedonian name of month, VII. 264
Artemon Periphoretus, engineer, told of in brief, 111. 78 341

Arthmiadas, chief helpcr of Lycurgus, I. 218
Arthmius of Zeleia, disfranchised for offering gold of Medes to Greeks, 118
Artisans, list of kinds at Athens, III, 38
Artorius, M., Octavius' friend, VI. 218
Arts, compared with senses, IX. 2

Aruns (1), Lars Porsena's son, urges father to make peace with Romans, I. 550; rescues Roman maidens, 502
Aruns (2), Tarquin's son, and Brutus, the consul, slay each other, I. 522 Arverni, with Carnuntini (Carnutes), lead revolt against Caesar, V1I.504 f.
Arybas, son of Alcetas, and father by 'Troas of Aeacides, IX. 346
Arymbas, brother of Olympias, wife of Philip of Macedon, VII. 226
As, current copper coin in time of Camillus, 11. 124
Asbolomeni, name _ of descendants, II. 408
Ascalis, son of Iphtha, Maurusian, defeated by Sertorius, VIII. 22
Ascalon, Antiochus of, see '' Antiochus of Ascalon."' Asclepiades (1), Hipparchus' son, reports death of Alexander, VIII. 194
Asclepiades(2), answered by Didymus, I. 404
Asclepias, temple of, at Epidaurus, plundered by pirates, V. 174
Asculum (1) taken by Strabo, v. 124

Asculum (2) battle of, Ix. 412 f.

Asia (1), separated from Asia by isthmus 300 furlongs long, Ix. 296;

set in order by Agesilaiis, V. 38;
cleared of Persians by Cimon, II.
438; VII.264; wrestedfrom Romans by Mithridates; 150,000 Romans massacred in one day, IV. 358, 404;
398; fined 20,000 talents by Sulla,
II. 532, Iv. 406; its state after 2nd Mithridatic war; relieved by Lucullus, 1. 532, Vil. 90; 180;
decreed province of Trebonius, VI. 168; being subdued by Parthians under Labienus, IX. 204 Asia (2), Themistocles' youngest child, reared by Phrasicles, II. 88 342

Damon's

Asiatic style of oratory, popular in Antony's time, rx. 140
Asiaticus, Galba's freedman, helped Otho, XI. 250
Asinaria, Syracusan festival to celebrate capture of Nicias, III. 304 Asinarus river, where Nicias made last stand, I11. 302
Asinius, Antony's friend, Ix. 156

Asinius Pollio, accompanies Caesar over the Rubicon, VII. 522; sent against Cato in Sicily, VII. 362:
with Caesar at Pharsalus, v. 304;
with Caesar in Africa, VII. 566; cited, 552, Vv. 304
Asopian plain, I. 424

Asopis, Sinope's mother, II. 544

Asopus river, Persians encamped by it before Plataea, II. 244, 256 Aspasia (1), Milesian, Axiochus' daughter, her relations with Pericles, III. 68; tried for impiety, begged off by Pericles, 92 Aspasia (2), Phocaean, Hermotinus' daughter, Cyrus’ special favourite, Artaxerxes’ concubine, made priestess of Artemis of Ecbatana,

Tt. 72; x1, 1904,
Aspendusg, city in Asia, Iv. 76

Aspetus, name of Achilles in Epeirote tongue, IX. 346
Asphalius, name of Neptune, why given, I. 86.
Aspis, strong position in Argos, IX.
450, 452, x. 88
Assessment, of Hellenes by Aristides, II. 286, 386; paid by Athenian allies, 438; 130,000 on listsat Rome, widows and orphans excnsed,
1. 534; revised by censors, It. 346;
that of Cato the Elder, 354 Assian plain, where Archelaiis encamped, IV. 380
Assus river, empties into Cephisus,
Iv. 378; crossed by Sulla, 380
Assyrians, settled in Tigranocerta,
II. 552; 111. 382
Asteria, Salaminian, wooed by Cimon,
Ir. 416
Asteropus, ephor, first to extend power of office, x. 70 Astronomy, Anaxagoras’ account of heavenly bodies, Iv. 262; Vv. 12; more exact science in Plutarch’s time, II. 274. See also ‘* Meteor.”’
‘GENERAL INDEX TO

Astura, place of Cicero’s on sea-coast,
VII. 202
Astyochus, admiral opposed to Athenians, IV. 70 f.
Astypaleia, Cleomedes of, see ‘‘ Cleomedes of Astypaleia.”’ Astyphilus of Posidonia, interprets
Cimon’s dream, II. 460
Asylum, God of, 1. 114

Ateius, tribune of plebs, tries to keep

Crassus from leaving city on Parthian expedition, I11. 362
Ateius, M., first of Sulla's men to mount wall of Athens, IV. 368 Athamania, in Greece, traversed by Caesar, V. 286
Athamanians, plundered by Macedonians, X. 364
Athanis, cited, VI. 318, 350

Athena, temple of, at Athens, I. 430;
patroness of Athens, II. 28, IV. 8;
II. 28, 30; by showing olive-tree, won against Poseidon, II. 54; her temple at Plataea restored, 276;
502; statue of her by Pheidias, Ill. 40, 44, 88 f.; Plynteria of, when celebrated, IV. 98; 368; IX. 54; her precinct at Belbina commands entrance into Laconia, X. 56
Athena of the Brazen House, X. 26, 36

Athena Hygieia, statue of her set up by Pericles, III. 44 Athena Itonis (Itonia), temple of,
Vv. 50, IX. 432
Athena Optilitis, given temple by Lycurgus, I. 236
4thena Syllania, 1, 220

Athenians—Rites, customs, etc.:
rites in memory of Salamis taken by Solon, 1. 4263 bury dead facing west, 428; fond of euphemisms, 442; great enemies of wolves, 468;
oath of young warriors, IV. 38; Adonia festival, 48; rites on March Ist in memory of deluge, 372
Laws, etc.: laws re idleness, I.
280, 450, 464, 494; archons at first chosen by lot, 111. 26; ostracism, Il. 234, I1f. 246 f.; law re citizenship, 106 f.; law re divorce, IV. 20
Tribes named from occupations,
I. 468; taught Greeks to sow grain and kindle fire, II. 434; pay tribute to Minos, I. 28; assembled into one city by Theseus, 50f.; divided into three classes, 54; attacked by Megarians, and lose Nisaea and Salamis, 432; Hill-men, Plain-men, and Shore-men dispute re form of government, 434; debts cancelled by Solon, 442; A. given laws by Solon, 448f.; made subject to Peisistratus, 488 f.

ALL THE ‘LIVES’

Burn Sardis, fight at Marathon,
II. 224f.; fight at Salamis, 40f., 236f.; tempted by Xerxes to cease struggle, 240; fight at Plataea, 248f.; fortify city, 52 f.; win allies from Spartans through Aristides, 282f.; send aid to Corcyra against Corinth, III. 82; besiege Potidaea, 84; attacked by Spartans under Archidamus, 94; afflicted by pestilence, 98; make peace with Spartans through Nicias, 236; enter on Sicilian expedition, 250 f., Iv. 44f.; suffer disaster in Sicily, 111. 302 f.; Alcibiades begins to help Athenians again, IV. 70; defeated by Lysander at Aegospotami, and forced to surrender their city, 106f., 264f.; accept Lysander’s terms, 270; ruled by Thirty Tyrants, 274; expel the Thirty, 290; grateful to Thebans for help, v. 354
Embroiled with Sparta through Pelopidas, 372; aroused by Demosthenes to unite with Thebans against Philip, vil. 42; defeated (at Chaeroneia) by Philip, 46;
asked by Alexander to surrender
Demosthenes and certain others,
56; placate Alexander through Phocion, VIII. 182; besiege Antipater in Lamia, VII.66; threatened by Antipater's army, VIII. 202; accept his terms, 204, II. 140; turn against Phocion, VIII. 220; governed for Demetrius the Phaler-ean for Cassander, IX. 18; freed by Demetrius Poliorcetes, 20; highly honour Demetrius, 24 f.; freed from Cassander's siege by Demetrius, 52; revolt from Demetrius, and are besieged by him, 114; assisted by Aratus in regaining freedom, XI. 78; send Carneades and Diogenes to Rome to beg cancellation of fine of 500 talents, 343

11.368; besieged by Sulla, Iv. 360 f.; their city captured, 368f.;
especially loved Octavia, IX. 266 Athenodorus (1) of Imbros, released from prison by Alexander at Phocion's request, VIII. 186 Athenodorus (2), actor, fined by Athenians, when Alexander pays fine, VII. 308

Athenodorus (3) Cordylion, Stoic philosopher, at Pergamum, won over by Cato the Younger, VIII.
256, 268
Athenodorus (4), Sandon's son, wrote book, addressed to Octavia, I.
548 Athenophanes, Athenian, makes experiment with naphtha, VII. 328
Athens, made metropolis by Theseus,
I. 4, 52; had perpetual fire, that went out in tyranny of Aristion, 338; very poor in time of 2nd Persian war, II. 242; fortified under Themistocles, II. 52; beautified by Cimon, 446; adorned by Pericles,

Ill. 34; enriched with holidays and public festivals by Pericles, 198; down to time of Caesars greatly outshone Rome in great public works, temples, etc., 111.204; taken by Lysander, who tore down long walls, IV. 108, 270; her walls rebuilt by money from Pharnabazus, Vv. 62; spared by Alexander, VII. 256; entered by Pyrrhus, 1X. 378; captured by Sulla, Iv. 344, 370; visited by Cato the Elder, II. 336; given 50 talents by Pompey, V. 224; visited by Cicero, VII. 88; welcomes Brutus, VI. 176
Athletic training, 111.174, x. 260, X1.6

Athos, mountain, to be made into statue of Alexander, VII. 426
Atilia, Serranus' daughter, Cato's wife, divorced for unseemly conduct, VIII. 28, 250, 254
Atilius (M. Atilius Regulus), 11. 386

Atilius, M., consul with T. Manlius, Sree temple of Janus was closed, I.
Atilius Vergilio, overthrows Galba's statue, XI. 264
Atillius, friend of Brutus, VI. 212

Atiso river, bridged by Lutatius Catulus, IX. 524; 526
344

Atlantic Islands, called Islands of the Blest, described, VIII. 20
Atlantic Ocean, V. 214, VII. 498, VIII. 20
Atlantis, the lost, story of, heard from Egyptian priests by Solon, who tried to put it in poetry, 1. 476, 494; story of, left unfinished by Plato, 496
Atlas, reputed father of Pasiphaé, x.

20 Atossa, daughter of Artaxerxes, married by him, XI. 182, 194;
urges Ochus to remove his rivals, 200
Atreus, part of, acted by Aesop,
VII. 94
Atridae, I1. 424

Atropatena, ravaged by Antony,
IX. 222
Atropateni, routed by Lucullus,
11. 574
Attaleia, city in Pamphylia, v. 312

Attalus (1), uncle of Cleopatra, wife of Philip, VII. 246; offends
Pausanias, 250; 382
Attalus (2), king, supports Flamininus' appeal to Thebans, dies of stroke,
X. 338, 11.140, 1x. 274
Attalus (3) Philometer, grew poisonous plants, Ix. 46; made Roman people his heir, x. 176 Attia (Atia), daughter of Caesar's sister, mother of young Caesar,
VII. 196, IX. 206
 Attic History,'' by Ister, I. 78

Attica, mostly unfruitful and worthless; manufacturing encouraged by Solon, I. 464, 468; invaded by Mardonius, II. 242; often invaded by Spartans, 1. 74; invaded by Archidamus, Ill. 94; invaded by Sphodrias at night, v. 374;
freed from Oassander, IX. 52;
invaded by Aratus, XI. 54
Atticus, gets letter from Brutus,
VI. 190
Atticus, Julius, praetorian, claims to have slain Otho, XI. 262 Attis, two of the name, one a Syrian, the other an Arcadian; both killed by wild boar, VIII. 2; story of, among Phrygians resembles that about Numa and Egeria, I. 316 Attius, Tullus, see "' Tullus Attius."'

Aufidius,

Attius Varus, made governor of Libya by Pompey, with Scipio and Juba after Pharsalus, VIII.372 Avypa@v Advots, possibly connected with " ancile."' in conspiracy against Sertorius, VITI.68, 74
Aufidus, river in Italy, 111. 160
Augur, defined, V. 438, VI. 360;
Cicero augur in place of younger Crassus, VII. 172; Antony with help of Curio, x.148; Ti. Gracchus,
x. 150
August, month originally called Sex-tills, 1. 370, rx. 534
Augustus Caesar (Octavius), son of Octavius and Attia, made heir and adopted son in Caesar's will, VII.
196, IX. 162, 206; quarrelling with Antony about inheritance, he supports Cicero, VI. 174, VII. 194, Ix. 170f.; fights at Mutina, VI.
184, vil. 198; becomes consul, forms triumvirate with Antony and Lepidus, VI. 186, VII. 200, 600, 1X. 178; indicts Brutus and Cassius for murder, VI. 184; marries Clodia, Fulvia's daughter, Ix. 180; with Antony wars on Brutus and Cassius in Macedonia, VI. 208 f., VII. 606, IX. 182 f.; after Philippi returnsillto Rome, 184; reconciled to Antony, divides empire with him and Lepidus, 202f.; makes peace with Sextus Pompeius, 206;
renews peace with Antony at Tarentum, 214f.; makes war on Pompeius, 216, 262; finds cause of complaint in Antony, 256, 260 f.; disturbed by Antony's preparations and unrest in Italy, 268; reads Antony's will, 270; has war declared, 272; crosses Ionian sea and occupies Torune in Xpeirus, 278; wins at Actium, 284f.; after receiving surrender of Antony's land forces, makes settlement with Greeks, 292f.; offers to spare Cleopatra, recalled to Italy, 304; next year takes Pelusium, defeats Antony, 306 f.; learns of Antony's death, 314; enters Alexandria, 316; executes Antyllus, Antony's son, 318; interviews Cleopatra, 320f.; orders Cleopatra buried with Antony, 330; becomes consul with Cicero's son as colleague, VII. 208; has doors of Janus' temple closed, I. 372

His Memoirs, addressed to Agrippa and Maecenas, cited, V. 520, VI. 184, 218, vir. 214, rx. 182, 292

Sayings: VI. 256, VII. 208, 1X. 318

Aulis, where Agesilatis is hindered in sacrifice, IV. 308, v. 14 f.

Aurelia, J., Caesar's mother, VII. 152, 462

Aurelius, C., effects reconciliation of Pompey and Crassus, Vv. 170, III. 350

Aurelius, Q., slain in Sulla's proscription, IV. 428

Autocleides, his '' Exegetics"' cited, Ill. 292

Autoleon, king of Paeonians, 1x. 368

Autolycus (1), founder of Sinope, etc., 11. 542 f.
Autolycus (2), athlete, executed by the Thirty, IV. 274
Automatia, worshipped by Timoleon,
VI. 346
Auximum, Pompey levies troops from there, V. 128
Aventine hill, 1. 154, 164, 358, x. 230

Avillius, later name of Aollius, 1. 130

Axiochus, Aspasia’s father, IIT. 68

Axius river, IX. 104

Axius, suspected father of Crassus’ son, VII. 144
“Agoves, wooden tablets on which Solon''s laws were written, I. 472
Babyca, in Plutarch’s time called Cheimarrus; a bridge according to Aristotle, I. 222; Vv. 382
Babylon, visited by Alexander, VII.
426; Vu. 84; XI.140
Babylonia, sea of, II. 554; has fiery soil, III. 332; submits to Alexander, VII. 328; invaded by Demetrius,
1x. 16
‘“* Racchae,’’ of Euripides, sung before Hyrodes, II. 420
Bacchiadae, fled from Corinth to Lacedaemon, Iv. 234
Bacchides, eunuch of Mithridates,
II. 524
Bacchus, see ‘* Dionysus.”’

Mm 345

GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

‘‘Bacchylides,”’ Frag. 29 (Jebb, Bacch.
p. 423), 1. 320
Bachelors, Thales of Miletus one,
I. 416; penalized by Lycurgus,

248; forced by Camillus to marry widows, II. 96
Bactria, 111. 360, 434

Bactrian cavalry, attack Macedonians, VII. 320
Baculus, from Baxrnpia, is a rod in lictor’s bundle, 1.172
Baebius, M., consul with P. Cornelius about 400 years after Nuna, I. 380
Baetica, named from river Baetis, Vill. 20; governed by Fufidius, 30
Baetis river, II. 830; empties into Atlantic, VIII.20; 30
Bagoas, had house at Susa, VII. 342

Bagoas, favourite of Alexander, VII. 412
Baiae, had warm baths, IX. 554

Balbus, sent by Sulla, attacks Telesinus, IV. 418
Balbus, Cornelius, flatterer of Caesar, VII. 582
Balbus, Postumius, Publicola, 1. 560
Balisgus, stream crossed by Crassus’ army, III. 384
Balte, nymph, reputed mother of Epimenides of Phaestus, 1. 432
Bambyce, earlier name of Hicrapolis, 1X. 220
Bandius, see ‘‘ Bantius.”’

Rantia, Italian city, Vv. 514

Bantius, Lucius, won to Romans by Marcellus, v. 458
Barbius, supports Otho, X17. 258

Barca (1), saying re Hannibal, III. 168
Barca (2), invites Cato and Munatius to supper, VIII. 326
Bardyaei, slave bodyguard of Marius,

Ix. 584, 590
Bardyllis, marries daughter Bircenna to Pyrrhus, 1X. 368
Bargylia, city freed by Lentulus,
X. 354
son-in-law of

Barsine (1), Artabazus' daughter, taken as mistress by Alexander,
VII. 284, VIII. 80
Barsine (2), Artabazus' daughter,
given by Alexander to Eumenes,
Vill. 80
Basilica (Pauli Aemilii), built by 346

(Lucius Aemilius) Paulus, VII. 514,
Xi. 264
Basilica Porcia, erected in forum by Cato the Elder, 11. 356; tribunes of plebs transacted business there,
VIII. 246
Basillus, L., sent by Sulla to seize city-gate of Rome, IV. 354
Dastarnae, see ‘“‘ Bisternae.”’

Bataces, priest of Great Mother at Pessinus, 1X. 508
Batalus, nickname of Demosthenes,
viI. 10
Bathycles, left beaker at Delphi, 1. 414

Baton, of Sinope, cited, x. 34

Bean, white, its use, III. 76

Bedriacum, Otho's soldiers there,
XI. 300, 306
Bedricum (Bedriacum), little village near Cremona, XJ. 294
Bees, bred in putrefying oxen, xX. 140

Beetles, bred in putrefying oxen, X.
140

Belaeus, furnishes ship for Marius' flight, rx. 574
Belbina, had precinct of Athena, xX. 56

Belgae, V. 246; occupied one third of Gaul; utterly defeated by Caesar, Vil. 490 £.
Belitaras, said to have given petson to Statira, x1. 170
Bellinus, Roman praetor, taken by pirates, V. 176
Bellona, temple of, 1V. 348, 424, VII. 112
Beluris, secretary, XI. 180

Belus, temple of, at Susa, VII. 274

Beneventum, Pyrrhus defeated near it by M'. Curius, 1X. 426 Bequest, Cicero received one of 90,000 denarii, Vir. 100
Berenice (1), Ptolemy's wife, Antigone's mother; courted by Pyrrhus, IX. 354
Berenice (2) of Chios, Mithridates' wife, strangled, II. 526
Berenicis, city on peninsula of Epeirus, built by Pyrrhus, Ix. 360
Beroea, taken by Pyrrhus, Ix. 110, 374; Pompey's headquarters, V. 280
Berytus, city of Phoenicia, 1x. 254

Bessus, seizes Dareius, VII. 248; executed by Alexander, 252
Bestia, failed against Jugurtha, Ix. 482
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE 'LIVES'

Bestia (L. Calpurnius), opposes Cicero, VII. 138 Beverage, water used by Cato the Elder on campaigns, II. 306
Bias, declined golden tripod, I. 412

Bibulus, L. Calpurnius (1), husband of Porcia, by whom he had two sons, VIII. 292 f.; as consul opposes Caesar’s measures, 310, V. 236; overawed by Caesar’s supporters, 238, VIII. 312; remained at home for last eight months of his consulship, V. 240, VII. 474; proposes Pompey be made sole consul, V. 528, VIII. 350; made admiral by Pompey, 366; wages war on Parthians, rx. 148

Bibulus, L. Calpurnius (2), Porcia’s son, tells of incident in his mother’s life, VI. 152, 176
Bibulus, Publicius, tribune of plebs, denounces Marcellus, v. 510 f.
Billeting, Sulla billets soldiers on people of Asia, IV. 406
Biot wapadAAnAo, of Plutarch, mentioned, I. 2
Bion, cited re Amazons, I. 58

Bircenna, Bardyllis’ daughter, married to Pyrrhus, 1x. 368
Bisaltae, Thracian people to whom Pyrrhus sent 1000 settlers, III. 34
Bisanthe, in Thrace, IV. 106

Bisternae, Gallic people along Danube, stirred up by Pyrrhus, VI. 376; send 20,000 men to aid Pyrrhus; on account of his stinginess they return, 382
Bithynia, Iv. 80; surrenders to Alcibiades property of Chalcedonians, 86, II. 326; ruled by Prusias, xX. 378; conquered by Mithridates, IV. 358; 398; II. 490; invaded by Mithridates, 492; 502; 510; vill. 66; held by Glabrio, given to Pompey by the Manilian law, V.190; occupied by Pharnaces, VII. 560; decreed province of Cimber, VI. 168
Bithys, general of Demetrius I1.,

defeats Aratus at Phylacia, x1. 76
Bito, named by Solon as happy man, I. 480
Blossius of Cumae, philosopher, friend of Antipater of Tarsus, said to have incited Ti. Gracchus to agrarian reform, xX. 162, 186; pardoned, joined Aristonicus in Asia, committed suicide, 192
Bocchoris, his judgment in case of Thonis, IX. 66
Bocchus (1), king of Numidia, won over by Sulla, surrenders Jugurtha to Romans, IV. 328, 332, IX. 484; called ally of Roman people, and set up trophies on Capitol, Iv. 336, IX. 552
Bocchus (2), king of Libya, supports Antony, IX. 276
Boedromia, Athenian celebration, I. 62

Boedromion, Athenian month, I. 62, II. 138, 140, 274, VII. 68
Boeorix, challenges Marius to set place and day for battle, 1x. 530
Boeotarchs, laws re their laying down command, V. 396 f.; VII. 44 Boeotia, settled by Opheltas and his subjects, 11. 404; at Ceressus conquered Lattamyas and Thessalians, 138; formed terminus of medizing part of Greece, 18; traversed by Xerxes, 234; 240; gave divine honours to Eucleia, 278; Ill. 56; invaded by Tolmides, 58; defented Athens at Coroneia, III. 58, Iv. 2, v.50; IV. 292; displeased by Peace of Nicias, III. 240; allied with Sparta, III. 242, Iv. 32; defeated Athenians, III. 284; 1V.90; favoured Athenian refugees, 308; magistrates stop sacrifice of Agesilaiis at Aulis, Iv. 308, Vv. 16; often invaded by Agesilaiis, 1. 244, Vv. 46, 72; invaded by Cleombrotus, Vv. 66, 372; had territorial dispute with Athenians, VIII. 164; defeated by Athenians under Leosthenes, 196; allied with Demetrius, IX. 52; restless under Demetrius, 96f.; defeated at Chaeroneia by Aetolians, XI. 34; besieged Megara, X. 286; joined Romans, 338; scene of fighting between Sulla and generals of Mithridates, IX. 578; occupied by Dorylaiis, Iv. 390; II. 494

Boii, northern people, 1.142

Bola, Latin city, taken by Volscians
under Coriolanus, IV. 186 Bona Dea, who she was;
worshipped, VII. 128, 152, 462
Bononia, meeting of Octavianus, how

Antony, and Lepidus near it,
VII. 200
Borysthenis, Sphaerus of, x. 52

Bosporus, held by son of Mithridates,
Iv. 358; Vv. 196; controlled by Mithridates, 214
Bosporus, possible route of Amazons,
I. 60; V. 206
‘‘Bottiaea, constitution of,’ by Aristotle, 1. 30 Bottiaeans of Thrace, descendants of first-born of Cretans, once sent to Delphi, 1. 30
Boukatios, first month of Theban year,
V. 398
Boulimia, a disease, theory as to its cause, VI. 180
Boys, Roman, how educated, I. 596

Boys, Spartan, how educated, I. 254 f., 396
Brachyllas, Theban, xX. 336

Brasidas, son of Argileonis, I. 282; honoured by Chalcidians, 298; slain at Amphipolis, III. 2363 Iv. 234; 280
Brauron, place in Attica where son of Ajax resided, I. 428 Brazen House, see ‘* Athena of,” and XadAxiotxkos.
Brennus, king of Gauls, recognizing Q. Ambustus, stops battle, and marches against Rome, Il. 132; enters Rome by Colline gate, 146; surrounds Capitol with a guard, 148; agrees to leave country on payment of 1000 gold Ibs., 164; defeated by Camillus, 166f.; quoted at length, 130; 158; says  vae victis,’’ 164
Bribery, in elections at Rome began long after time of Coriolanus, at Athens Anytus first to bribe jurors, Iv. 150; Demosthenes bribed, VII. 303 XI. 243
Bride, Roman, had hair parted with spear, 1. 134
Bridge over Tiber, details concerning, 1. 336
Briges, Brutus’ name for his camp servants, VJ. 226
Britanni, Caesar’s expedition against them, V. 246, VII. 498
Britemartus, king of Gauls, slain by Clandius Marcellus, 1. 138, V. 450
348

Brixillum, Italian town on the Po, XI. 298
Bronze-shields, in Perseus’ army at Pydna, VI. 402; Iv. 388 Brundisium, 11. 342, Iv. 408; occupied by Pompey, V. 278; 284; VII. 164; 180; 186; Ix. 214; station of Octavius' fleet, IX. 278

Bruttians, attacked by Thurians, VI. 298; slay disgraced mercenaries of Timoleon, 332; 111. 182; put to the sword by Fabius, 184 Druttius Snmra, defeats Archelatis thrice at Chaeroneia, IV. 360 Brutus (1), a steward, ancestor of
M. Brutus according to some,
VI 126
Brutus (2), son of the tyrannicide,
Vi. 154
Brutus, Junius, leader in secession of plebs, one of first tribunes,
Iv. 130
Brutus, D. Junius (Gallaecus), triumphed over Lusitanians, x. 194 Brutus Albinus, D. Junius, friend of Caesar, IX. 162; joins conspiracy to murder Caesar, VJ.150, VII. 592 f.; 596; given province of Cisalpine ae VI. 168; his death avenged, 186 Brutus, L. Junius, assisted by Publi-cola, drove out kings, 1. 604f., VII. 584; 1. 506; his sons plot to restore Tarquins, 508; has his sons executed, 514; slays Aruns in battle, and is slain by him, 522;
ancestor of Brutus, the tyrannicide,
VI. 126, 144; quoted, 1.514 Brutus, M. Junius (1), praetor, sent to forbid Sulla advancing, IV. 350 Brutus, M. Junius (2), defeated by Pompey, V, 128f.; father of the tyrannicide; holds Cisalpine Gaul for Lepidus, surrenders to Pompey at Mutina, executed by Geminius,
152 f.
Brutus, M. Junius (3), his lineage, VI. 126 f.; studied philosophy and rhetoric, 2 f., 128 f£.; sent to Cyprus with Cato, his uncle, 130, VIII. 322;

joins Pompey’s party VI. 132 f., V.
282; pardoned by Caesar after Pharsalus, VI. 136, VII. 6523 put in charge of Cisalpine Gaul by Caesar, VI. 138; made practor,
GENERAL

140, vil. 574; led to conspire against Caesar, VI. 144f.; lets Porcia, his wife, into the secret,
152 f.; helps murder Caesar, 162,
Vil. 188, 598f., IX. 164; has Antony spared, VI. 164, Ix. 166; addresses the people, VI. 166, VII.
600; withdraws from Rome, 604,
VI. 172, IX. 170; rebukes Cicero for supporting Octavius, 174, VII.
_196, 220; sails for Athens, VI.
176; convicted of murder of Caesar,
184; meets Cassius at Smyrna,
188; exacts money of the Lycians, 192f.; quarrels with Cassius at Sardis, 200 f.; sees a phantom at night, 204, VII. 606; defeats Octavius at Philippi, VI. 218 f., VII. 606, Ix. 182; learns of defeat and death of Cassius, VI. 224; fights again, VI. 234f.; slays himself, 244, VII. 608; statue of him at Milan, VI. 256.
See also Y. 154, ViI. 190, 586,
VIII. 410, 1x. 168
Sayings and letters: Vi. 130,
146, 148, 174, 176, 178, 204, 206,
214 £., 224, 228, 242, 244
Brutus, T. Junlus, son of M. J. Brutus and Vitellia, plots to resiore Tarquins, I. 508f.; executed by his father’s order, 514 Brutus, Ti. Junius, son of M. J. Brutus and Vitellia, plots to restore Tarquins, I. 508 f.; executed by his father’s order, 514
* Brutus,’’ account of Caesar’s murder by Empylus, VI. 128 f.

Bubulcus, Roman surname, I. 532

Bucephalas, horse tamed by Alexander, VII. 236, 322, 352, 398
Bucephalia, city on banks of Hydaspes built by Alexander in memory of Bucephalas, VII. 398
Bulla, its meaning and use, Yr. 152, VIII. 38
Busiris, sacrificed by Hercules, 1. 22

Butas, Cato the Younger's chief agent in public matters, VIII. 404; wrote in elegiac verse expianations of Roman customs, I. 158
Butes, Persian general, sets fire to Efon in Thrace, killing himself, II. 422
Buthrotum, town in Epirus, VI. 182

Byllis, town in Illyrlum, VI. 182

Byzantium, II. 56, 288; freed of Pausanias by the allies, II. 420 f.; Athenians capture Persians there, 480; revolts from Athens, retaken by Alcibiades, IV. 88f.; attacked by Philip, saved by Athenians, VL. 40, 244, VIII. 174; governed by Cato, VII. 170, VIII. 318; VII. 142
Cabeiri, gods in Samothrace, V. 520

Cabira, 11. 512; Mithridates makes stand there, 514; taken by Lucullus, 524
Cadmeia (1), sister of Neoptolemus, IX. 358
Cadmeia (2), citadel, 1. 66; seized by Phoebidas in time of peace, V. 64; 382; VII. 254
Cadmus, given cow as guide by Apollo, IV. 382
Cadusians, attacked by Artaxerxes,

xI. 184
Caecias, a Spanish wind from north,
VII. 44
Oaecilia (1), daughter of Metellus, the pontifex maximus, wife of Sulla,
Iv. 342
Caecilia (2), mother of Lucullus, II. 470

Caecilius, wished to denounce Verres,
VII. 98
Caecilius (Calactinns), made comparison of Demosthenes and Cicero,
VII. 6
Caecilius Metellus, see Caecilius."'
Caecina, Vitellius' general, occupying

" Metellus,

Alps, XI. 286; repulsed from Placentia, 290; defeated before Cremona, 292; defeats Otho's men, 300 f.
Caecus, Roman name, IV. 144

Caedicius, M., reports hearing supernatural voice, II. 126, 168 Oaelius, orator, VII.174; defended by Cicero, 212
Oaeninenses, Sabine people, defeated
ae aa at Rome by Romulus,
I. 136
Caenum, fortress of Mithridates, V.212

Caepio (Servilius), engaged to Julia; losing her, promised Pompey's daughter, V. 238, VII. 474 Caepio, Q. Servilius (1), defeated by

Cimbrl, If. 140, 560, VIII. 6, IX. 504, 512

Caepio, Q. Servilius (2), beloved brother of Cato the Younger, VIII. 236, 238, 244; military tribune in Servile war, 252; died at Aenus in Thrace, 258
Caesar, exchanges words with Sulla, IV. 334
Caesar, C. Julius (1) in danger from Sulla, vil. 442; captured by pirates, 444; studies under Apollonius at Rhodes, 446; wins popularity as an advocate at Rome, 448; elected military tribune, 450; went to Spain as quaestor under Vetus, a praetor, 452; revives party of Marius, 454; elected pontifex maximus, 456; suspected of being implicated in Catiline's conspiracy, 458; divorces Pompeia, 462 f.; receives Spain as province, has to borrow from Crassus, 466 f.; elected consul, 472; gets many popular laws passed in spite of opposition of his colleague Bibulus, 472 f.; betroths his daughter Julia to Pompey, 474; subdues Gaul, 476 f.; meeting Pompey, Crassus and others at Luca, arranges to have his command in Gaul continued for five more years, 494; repels German invasion, and invades Germany, 496f.; invades Britain, 498; loses by death his daughter Julia, Pompey's wife, 500; suppresses revolt of Gaul, 502 f.; takes Alesia, 506 f.
Becomes estranged from Pompey, 510; is not allowed to stand for consulship in his absence, 512 f.; invades Italy, 520f.; is deserted by Labienus, 526; enters Rome, 528; overcomes Afranius and Varro, Pompey's legates in Spain, 550; crosses to Greece, 532 f.; defeated by Pompey, 536; defeats Pompey at Pharsalus, 546 f.; reaches Alexandria just after Pompey’s death, 554; wages war in Egypt, 556 f.; defeats Pharnaces at Zela, 560; returns to Rome, 562;

defeats Pompeians at Thapsus, 566; celebrates an Egyptian, a Pontic, and an African triumph, 33°

570; defeats Pompey’s sons at Munda, 572; appointed dictator for life, 574; by clemency tries to disarm opposition, 574f.; plants colonies of veterans at Carthage and Corinth, 576; plans new enterprises, 576 f.; adjusts calendar, 578; arouses hatred by desire to be king, 580f.; refuses diadem offered by Antony, 584; is conspired against by Brutus, Cassius, and others, 586f.; assassinated,
-596; his body burned in forum, 602;
56 years old at death, 604
See also Ill. 334, 354, 356, 360,
390, 434, V. 178, 232, 236, 238, 240,
248, 264, 268, 272, 276 f., 280, 284,
292, 324, Vi. 132, 134, 136, 138 1., 150, 162, 168, 180, VII. 132 f., 138,
146, 152, 156, 158, 176, 178 f., 186,
188, 194, 196, VIII. 288, 296f., 310f., 316, 332, 346, 354, 358f., oe 378, 408, Ix. 148, 150 f., 160 f., ae mentioned, VII. 556,
2
HE eerie and poems, VII.
Anti-Cato, VII. 182, 446, 568,
VIII. 324, 362, 366
Commentaries, VII. 496
Unnamed works, V. 280, 296, 524
Sayings: III. 332, V. 272,. v1.
138, 140, 142, VII. 182, 456, 466,
468, 476, 486, 522, 530, 534, 53s,
548, 552, 566, 568, 588, 590, 598
Caesar, O. Julius (2), his relations with Nymphidia, XI. 224; puts T. Vinius in prison, 228; son of Germanicus, killed, IX. 332. See also 1. 140, 154

Caesar, Claudius, punishes Vinius mildly for theft, XI. 228 Caesar, Lucius (1), kinsman of the great Caesar, VIII. 396
Caesar, Lucius (2), Antony's ancle, given up to Octavius, VII. 200, Ix.
178; rescued by his sister, 180
Caesarion, son of Caesar and Cleopatra, VII. 560, 1x. 260, 300; executed by Octavius, 320
ae Cicero had lands there, VII, Caius, foster brother of Mithridates,
V. 224
——E

"* Caius,'' name called out at sacrifice to Romulus, I. 184
Calanus, gymnosophist, meets Alexander and Onesicritus, VII. 244, 408; has himself burned on funeral pyre, 416
Calauria (1), has temple of Poseidon, Vv. 174, VII. 70, 76; scene of Demosthenes' death, VIII. 210
Calauria (2), place in Sicily, v1. 336

"*Cale,'' Indian word of salutation,
VII. 408
Calendar, renaming and numbering of days of month by Solon, 1. 474; adjusted by Numa, 366; adjusted by Caesar, VII. 578; Il. 274 Calends, Roman name for lst day of month, XI. 252; of March, very nearly same as Ist of Anthesterion,
IV. 370; VII. 84
Calenus, took Megara, VI. 142; held 15 cohorts for Caesar at Athens and Megara, VII. 544 =

Callaeci, in Spain, conquered by Caesar, VII. 468
Callaeschrus, father of Critias, Iv. 96

Calliades, Athenian, defeated by Chalcidians in Thrace, ill. 226
Callias (1), the Torchbearer, steals gold at Marathon, II. 226; when prosecuted, helped by Aristides, his kinsman, II. 290; ambassador to Persian king, honoured by Athenians, 446
Callias (2), the Rich, son of Hipponicus, III, 70; said to have married Elpinice, 11. 414; said to have given Hipparete to Alcibiades as wife, IV. 20
Callias (3), the Syracusan, said by Ctesibius to have given Demosthenes the rhetorical systems of Isocrates and Alcidamas, VII. 12
Callibius, made harmost at Athens by Lysander, IV. 274
Callicles, son of Arrhenides, VII. 62

Callicles, money-lender at Athens, VIII. 162
Callicrates (1), Plataea, II. 266
Callicrates (2), with Ictinus architect of Parthenon, III. 40
Callicrates (3), Syracusan, slain by Lamachus, III. 270 Callicrates (4), descendant of Anti-

Spartan, slain at crates, contemporary of Plutarch, Vv. 98

Callicratidas, succeeds Lysander in Asia, rebuffed by Cyrus, IV. 244; defeated in sea-fight at Arginusae, 248 1.298, XI. 178
Celidronius, hill at Thermopylae, 11.

Callimachus (1), rivalled Aristides for 2nd place at Plataea, II. 386
Callimachus (2), prolongs defence of Amisus, II. 528; defender of Nisibis, taken by Lucullus, 578
Callimachus (3), of Alexandria, cited, Ill. 246, IV. 444, vir. 378
Callimedon, Athenian orator, joins party of Antipater, VII. 66; opposes Phocion, VIII. 206; flees from Athens, 220; condemned in absentia by Athenians, 228
"' Callinicus,'' a cognomen or epithet, IV, 142, 1X. 464
Calliphon, exile, begs Sulla to spare Athens, IV. 370
Callipides, tragic actor, rebuffed by Agesilatis, V. 58; IV. 92
Calippus, host of Dion in Athens, VI. 32; accompanies Dion to Sicily, 60, 118; slew Dion, and got possession of Syracuse, executed by Leptines and Polysperchon, III, 260, VI. 114, 286, 462
Callisthenes (1), Athenian orator, his surrender demanded by Alexander, VII. 56
Callisthenes (2), philosopher, relative of Aristotle; his experience with Alexander, VII. 252f., Iv. 440; cited, II. 138, 296, 440, 444, v. 46, 380, VII. 302, 322
Callisthenes (3), freedman of Lucullus, II. 608
Callistratus (1), orator, gave Demosthenes first notion of becoming orator, VII. 10; 32
Callistratus (2), Mithridates' private secretary, II. 522
Callistus, Caligula's freedman, Nymphidia's father, XI. 224 Calpurnia, Piso's daughter, J. Caesar's Wife, V. 238, VII. 474; 590; put most of Caesar’s treasure in charge of Antony, Ix. 170

Calpurnii, descended from Calpus,
I. 376
351

Calpurnius Lanarius, murdered Julius Salinator, VIII. 18
Calpurnius Piso, see ‘‘ Piso, Calpurnius.”’ Calpus, son of Numa, ancestor of Oalpurnii, 1. 376
Calvinus, Gnaeus Domitius, consul, Vv. 256; commanded centre for Caesar at Pharsalus, V. 294, VII.
546; defeated by Pharnaces, flees from Pontus, 560
Calvinus, Lucius (should be Gnaeus Domitius), V. 294
Calvisius (Statianus, C.), companion of Octavianus, accuses Antony for treatment of Cleopatra, 1X. 27U
Oalydonia, ravaged by Aratus, XI. 34

Oalydonian boar, slain by Meleager and Theseus, I. 66
Camarinaeans, join Dion, VI. 58

Oambyses, said to have lost 50,000 men in desert sand, VII. 302 Camels, first seen by Romans at battle of Rhyndacus according to Sallust, 11. 504
Cameria, people of, attack Romans, are defeated; made colony, I. 166 Camerinum, 1000 of its men made citizens by Marius for bravery,
1X. 540
‘‘Camillus,’? meaning of word and relation to Greek, I. 330, IX. 464 Camillus, Furius, the offices he held,
Il. 94; defeats Falerians and Capenates, 98; appointed dictator, defeats Faliscans and Capenates, 104; takes Veii, 106; celebrates splendid triumph, arouses opposition, 110; besieges Falerii, 116 f.; arouses opposition by opposing law for division of city, goes into exile, 122; is fined 15,000 asses in absentia, 124; leading Ardeans, defeats band of Gauls, 152; appointed dictator to drive out Gauls, 156; routs the Gauls with slaughter, 166

Opposes moving citizens to Veii, 170; appointed dictator for war against Aequians, Volsclans, and Latins, 176; utterly defeats Latins and Volscians, 180; captures city of Aequians, brings Volscians to terms, 182; recaptures Sutrium, 184; opposed by Marcus Manlius, 352 made military tribune, 186; helps in conviction of Manlius, 188; with Lucius Furius leads an army against Praenestines and Volscians, defeats them, 190f.; cows the Tusculans, 192f.; made dictator fifth time to fight Gauls, 198; defeats the Gauls, 200 f.; captures Velitrae, 202; dies of plague, 206. See also 1. 184, 111. 124

His words quoted, It. 106, 118
Oampania, III. 134; its cities subdued

ae Fabius Maximus, 200; VII. 94; 4
Campanians, desert Timocrates and return home, VI. 58
Campi Philippi, scene of battle where Brutus and Oassius were defeated, VI. 210 Campus Martius, 11. 196, V. 254, VII. 116
Camulatus, soldier, deserts Brutus,

VI. 236°
Camurius, soldier, said to have slain
Galba, XI. 266
Cancthus, father of Sciron, I. 56

Canicius, C., commands part of slaves, defeated by Crassus, III, 346
Canidius (1), tribune of people, proposes that Pompey reconcile Ptolemy to people of Alexandria,
Vv. 244; Oato's friend, sent to Cyprus in advance, VIII. 320, 322, 324; sent by Cato to take charge of Ptolemy's treasures, and then discarded, VI. 130 Canidius (2), Antony's general, conquered Armenia, and kings of Iberians and Albanians, IX. 214; 234; 264; leads Antony's land forces at Actium, IX. 280, 284; ordered by Antony to retire with army through Macedonia into Asia, 290; deserts his army by night,
292; 300
Caninius Revilius, consul for one day,
VII. 576
Cannae, battle of, I1r, 146, 160, V.
456, 500
Canobie shore, I. 476

Canobic mouth of Nile, VII. 298

Canopus, city in Egypt, Ix. 338, xX.
132
Cantharus, harbour of, near Athens,
VIII. 208
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE 'LIVES'

ee vestal appointed by Numa,

I. 34

Canus, famous fluter, XI. 238

Canusium, refuge of Roman fugitives from Cannae, V. 456; scene of battle between Marcellus and Hannibal, 506

Canutius, Greek actor, VI. 172

Capaneus, character in play of Euripides, v. 346
Capenates, defeated by Camillus, 11.
98, 104, 130
Caphis, Phocian, sent by Sulla to get treasures of Delphi, IV. 362; leads Hortensius and army safely to Sulla, 374
Caphisias (1), Aratus' friend, XI.
12f
Caphisias (2), famous fluter, Ix. 366

Caphyae, seized by Aratus, X. 58; scene of Aratus' defeat by Aetolians, XI. 108
Capito, Fonteius, sent to bring Cleopatra to Syria, IX. 216
Capitol, fortress of early Rome, guneace by Tarpeius, betrayed to abines by Tarpeia, I. 140; 170;

fortified by Romans against Gauls, 350, I1. 142, III. 168; 1. 5365 received from Tarentum colossal statue of Heracles, had equestrian statue of Fabius Maximus in bronze, III. 184; burned in Sulla's time, IV. 412
Capitoline Hill, called Tarpeius for a time, I. 144, 3285; steepest at Carmental gate, II. 156; scaled by Gauls, but saved by sacred geese, 160 Capitolinus (CO. Scantilius), colleague of Marcellus in aedileship, V. 438 Capitolinus, Q., made dictator, casts Manlius into prison, II. 186
Cappadocia, subdued by Alexander,
VII. 272; assigned to Eumenes,
VIII. 84; governed by Iiumenes,

86; visited by Marius, Ix. 548;
Sulla sent there, IV. 334; conquered
by Mithridates, 358; 398; IT. 486;
VIII. 66; ravaged by ‘Tigranes,
II. 586; robbed and plundered by Lucullus, II. 370; added to Pompey’s sway by Manilian law,
Vv. 190; trumphed over by Pompey, V. 230, VII. 172; occupied by Pharnaces, 560; ruled by Archelatis, IX. 276
Cappadocians, II. 614; some transplanted to Tigranocerta, 552 “‘ Caprarius,”’ derived from ‘“‘ capra,”’
I. 532
Capratine Nones, see ‘‘ Nones Capratine.’””
Capua, went over to Hannibal, III.
168; reduced by Fulvius and Applus, 200; X. 214; Norbanus shut up there by Sulla, Iv. 412 “Carabus,’? surname of Callimedon,
VIII. 206
Caranus, ancestor of Alexander the Great, VII. 224
Carbo, Gnaeus Papirius (1), defeated by Cimbri and Teutones, Ix. 504 Carbo, Gnaeus Papirius (2), persecutes Sulla’s supporters in latter’s absence, IV. 396; succeeds Cinna, Vv. 126; unsuccessfully opposes Sulla’s advance on Rome, VIII. 14; his cavalry routed by Pompey at river Arsis, V. 130; abandons his own army and sails off to Libya,
IV. 418; executed by Pompey,
V. 136; consul thrice, 138; VI. 190;
his remark re Sulla, Iv. 414
Qarcer,’? name of a Roman prison,
VI. 450
Cardia, home of Eumenes as a boy,
VIII. 178
Caria, received colony brought by Ioxus and Ornytus, I. 18; has panthers, VII. 174; money to pay fleet levied from it by Alcibiades, Iv. 102; touched by Aratus, XI.

26 Carians, called cocks by Persians,
xt. 148
Carinas, general of Carbo’s faction, advances against Pompey, V. 128
Carmania, traversed by Alexander in 7 days, VII. 412
Carmenta, who or what she was,
I. 156
Carmental gate, where Capitoline is steepest, II. 156
Carmentalia, feast for mothers; why so called, I. 156
Oarneades, founder of New Academy, II, 606, VII. 88; sent to Rome as ambassador, attracts Roman youth by his eloquence, II. 368
353

Carneius, Syracusan month, same as Athenian Metageitnion, III. 304
Carnuntini (Carnutes) with Arverni lead revolt against Caesar, VII. 504 Carrhae, near scene of Crassus’ defeat, III. 394, 402-408 Carthage, III. 62, IV. 44; danger to Syracuse, VI. 14; nearly taken by Agathocles, IX. 388; 111.190; destroyed by Scipio the Younger,
11. 380, 596, V. 484, VI. 414, x. 246;
colony founded there by C. Gracchus, 218; 11.578; Vv. 140; restored as colony by Caesar, VII. 576 Carthage, New, refuge of Sertorius,
Vill. 18
Carthaginians, III. 250, VI. 280;
come to Sicily with large armament, 286 f., 302; admitted to Syracuse by Hicetas, 302; assemble great force to invade Sicily, 316; defeated by Timoleon at river Crime-sus, II. 138, VI. 320-322, 324, 330; II. 140; made peace with Timoleon, VI. 8340; refused peace by Pyrrhus uniess they abandoned Sicily, 1X. 420, 422; attack Pyrrhus in the strait, 424; at war with Masinissa, 11. 380; 11.1623; driven from Spain by Scipio, 190 Carvilius, Spurius, first in Rome to divorce wife, I. 198, 394 Caryatides, dancing, on ring of Clearchus, XI. 168

Carystus, city in Euboea, VI. 178

Casca, P., one of Caesar's murderers, VI. 156, 162, VII. 596; with Brutus
at Philippi, vI. 228
Casilinum, city and district on border of Campania, III. 134
Casinum, town in Latium, III. 134

Caspian sea, Albanians lived by it,
Il. 554; III. 428; receives river
Cyrnus, V. 206 f.; VII. 352
Cassander, brother of Pleistarchus and Phila, 1x. 76f.; father of Philip, 86; husband of Thessalonice, father of Antipater and Alexander, 360
Cassander, Antipater's son offends Alexander, VII. 428f.; appointed chiliarch by Antipater before dying; becoming rebellious, sends Nicanor to replace Menyllus in Athens, VIII. 216; put Demades and his 354

TO

ALL THE 'LIVES'

son to death, 214, VII. 78; quarrels with Polysperchon after death of Alexander, VIII. 114, 216; enemy of Aeacides, offers 200 talents for infant Pyrrhus, IX. 350; 18; 22;

VII. 32; Ix. 40; driven out of Attica by Demetrius, 52; 90
Cassandra, Priam's daughter, X. 20

Cassandreia, VII. 56; thither fled Demetrius after loss of Macedonia,
Ix, 112
Cassius, C. Longinus (1), governor of Cisalpine Gaul, defeated by Spartacus, III. 340
Cassius, C. Longinus (2), of school of Epicurus, VI. 206; husband of Junia, Brutus' sister, rival of Brutus for oftice of city praetor, 140, VII.
574, 586f.; with Crassus on Parthian expedition, I11. 370, 374,
380, 384, 402, 406, 408, VI. 140;
plans Caesar's murder, 126, 136,
140, 142 f., 156; murders Caesar,
V. 154, VI. 160, VII. 188, 596, Ix.
164; 168, vr. 168; prosecuted by
M. Agrippa for murder of Caesar and condemned, 184; meets Brutus at Smyrna, 186; takes Rhodes, 192; 198; quarrels with Brutus at Sardis, 200,210; 212; defeated at Philippi, slays himself, 224, vI1.
604, Ix. 182 f.
Quoted: VI. 144, 146, 192, 206,

214, 994

Cassius, Q. Longinus, with Antony flees to Caesar, IX. 150 Cassius Scaeva, soldier of Caesar's at battle of Dyrrhachium, VII. 480 Castor, hymn played to him as Lacedaemoniaus marched to battle,
I. 274; like Pollux in sculpture, and yet different, x. 146. See also '"* Dioscuri'' and '* Tyndaridae."' Castulo, city of the Celtiberians,
VIII. 6
Castus, commands part of slaves,

defeated by Crassus, III. 346
Catana, in Sicily, I11. 162, 264, 266, ae 52, V. 520, VI. 122, 290, 304, Coteus district in Cappadocia, Ix.
2 Catiline, Lucius, his character and acts, defeated for consulship, VII, 106 f., Iv. 430; his conspiracy.
VII. 456 f., VIII. 286 f.; Crassus and Caesar inculpated by Cicero, III.
352; defeated and slain by Antonius, VII. 136. See also VI. 134f.,
VII. 116, 152
“Cato,” a 3rd Roman name, IX.
464
“Cato,’’ work written by Cicero,
VII. 446, 568
Cato, grandfather of Cato the Elder,
II. 302
Cato, M. Porcius (1), father of Cato the Elder, 11. 302
Cato, M. Porcius (2), the Elder, lineage, appearance, character, II.
302 f.; served under Fabius Maxi-mus at capture of Tarentum, 308; enters public life at Rome, 310;
goes to Africa as Scipio’s quaestor, objects to his extravagance, 310 f.; his manner of life, 312f.; his oratory, 320f.; elected consul with Valerius Flaccus, wins successes in Hither Spain, 330f.; celebrates triumph, 334; serves under M’. Acilius against Antiochus the Great, 334; busy in prosecutions, 342 f.; his activity as censor, 346f.; erected Basilica Porcia, 356; a good family man, 360f.; his treatment of his slaves, 314f., 364f.; goes into business, 366 f.; opposes Greek learning, 368 f.; marries again late in life, 374; composed speeches, histories, and a book on farming, 378; brought about destruction of Carthage, 380 f.; died, leaving son Salonius,

384
See also VIII. 236, 246, X. 372 £.
His writings cited: I. 302,
304, 308, 314, 318, 330, 342, 352, 358, 360, 364, 366, 370; book of recipes, 372, 376; speeches, histories, work on farming, 378
Sayings: II. 306, IV. 132; II.
322-328; 332; 344; 358; 374; 376;
382; 384; v. 340
Cato, M. Porcius (3), Licinianus, son of Cato the Elder, fought brilliantly at Pydna, married Tertia, daughter of Aemilius Paulus, II. 362 f., 374,
VI. 366, 410; died, II. 374, 376 Cato, M. Porcius (4), Salonius (Salonianus), son of Cato the Elder and Salonia, II. 376; father of Marcus, died in praetorship, 384 ; Cato, M. Porcius (5), grandson of

Cato the Elder, II. 384

Cato, M. Porcius (6), son of Salonius, became consul, grandfather of Cato the philosopher, 0. 384 Cato, M. Porcius (7), the Younger, his lineage and character as a boy, VIII. 236-244; studies Stoic philosophy with Antipater the Tyrian, 244; his first speech in the forum, 246; his manner of life, 248 f.; marries Atilia, daughter of Ser-ranus, 250; takes part in Servile war, 252; goes to Macedonia as military tribune, 254; wins Athеноdorus the Stoic, 256; makes tour of Asia, 260f.; serves as quaestor, 268-278; opposes Clodius, 278;

prosecutes Murena for bribery,

284; advocates death penalty for Catilinarian conspirators, 286f.; unfortunate with women of his household, 290 f£.; opposes Metellus and Pompey, 296f.; rejects marriage alliance with Pompey, 306 f.; opposes Pompey and Caesar, 310 f.; is sent ito Cyprus and court of Ptolemy, 318f.; returns successful, 326 f.
Opposes Cicero’s proposal to make invalid acts of Clodius as tribune, 330; supports Lucius Domitius for consul against Pompey and Crassus, 332; fails to be elected praetor, 336; opposes Crassus and Pompey, 338; is elected praetor, 340; approves of Pompey being made sole consul, 350; fails to be elected consul, 356; proposes that Caesar be surrendered to the Germans, 358; joins Pompey at Dyrrhachium, is sent to Asia, 364; arouses Pompey’s soldiers by his speech, 368; joins Sextus Pompeius in Libya, 370; meets Juba, 372; strengthens Utica for defence, 376; receives news of Thapsus, 378; helps fugitives leave Utica, 394; refuses to ask mercy of Caesar, 396; commits suicide, 406
See also Il. 384, 606, 608, III. 334, 354, 358, 426, 430, 434, Vv. 218, 228, 236, 238, 240, 250, 256, 355

GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

264, 272, 274, 282, 288, VI. 128, 130, 134, Vir. 132 f., 138, 168, 170, 176, 180, 212, 458, 460, 472, 474, 496, 512, 540, 562, 568, VIII. 150 f., 1x. 150
Sayings: II. 600, VIII. 246, 254, 262, 264, 290, 308, 318, 324, 342,

346, 354, 358, 360, 392, 394, 396, 398, 400 f.
Cato, M. Porcius (8), son of Cato the Younger, pardoned by Caesar, slain at Philippi, VIII. 408 f., VI. 236 f.
Catulus, Q. Lutatius (1), consul with Marius in latter's 4th consulship, 1x. 500f.; gives important tasks to Sulla, IV. 332; forced to retreat by Cimbri, 1x. 522f.; joined by Marius, 526; led centre at Vercellae, 530; wrote of Vercellae, 534 f.; triumphs with Marius, 538; commits suicide, 590 Catulus, Q. Lutatius (2), elected consul with Lepidus, IV. 434, Vv.

150 f.; won war against Lepidus

according to Lucullus, 196; consecrated 2nd temple of Jupiter

Capitolinus, I. 540; V. 156; opposes Gabinian law, 178; opposes anilian law, 192; when censor reproved by Cato, VIII. 2703; VII.

1323 456; attacks Caesar's proposal

re Catilinarian conspirators, 458;

ancestor of S. Galba, XI. 210;

pnenee VII. 156, 454. See also III.

35.

Catulus,'' illustrious Roman name,

VII. 82

Yatus,'"?

It. 302

ores mountains, II, 512, v. 204, 2
Caulonia, city in Italy, III. 182, VI.
56
s

«

sé

means wise and prudent,

Caunians, how some escaped pirates,
Ill. 308; in army of Artaxerxes wee Cyrus was slain, XI. 150, 154, Caunus, city in Caria, rx. 124

Cebalinus, reveals plot of Limnus to Alexander, VII. 364
Cecrops, I. 196

Celaenae, in Phrygia, VIII. 102, Ix. 16

““Celer,”” why surname of a Metellus,
I. 118, Iv. 142
Celer, companion of Romulus, slew

356

Remus according to one account,
I. 116
Celer, Q. Caecilius Metellus, how he got surname “‘ Celer,’”’ I. 118, IY.
142; put in charge of outside affairs by Cicero during trouble with Catiline, VII. 118; husband of Clodila, 154
Celeres, origin of name, I. 116; attendants of Romulus, 170; disbanded by Numa, 328 Celsus, Clodius, of Antioch, friend of Nymphidius, xI. 232
Celsus, Marius, faithful to Galba, spared by Otho, XI. 268; 276; in command of part of Otho’s forces, 288: outgenerals Caecina at battle of Cremona, 292, 294, 298, 304f., 306 f.

Celtiberians, neighbours of Gauls, II. 126; receive 200 talents to become Cato the Elder’s allies, II. 330; warred on by Scipio Africanus, IX. 468; those in Castulo defeated by Sertorius, VIII. 8
Celtorians, neighbours of Gauls, II. 126
Cenchreae, harbour-town of Corinth, where Thebans defeat Athenians, Vv. 398; captured by Demetrlus, IX. 54, XI. 52; 64; 102
Censor, his powers and duties, II. 346, VI. 454; Camillus censor, II. 96; Cato the Elder and Valerius Flaccus, 310, 350; Crassus and Lutatius Catulus, III. 352; Censorinus twice, IV. 118; Gellius and Lentulus, V. 168; Aemilius Paulus and Marcius Philippus, VI. 454; Lutatius Catulus, VIII. 270; Ti. Gracchus the Elder, xX. 144; Flamininus and M. Claudius Mercellus, 372; Cato the Elder, 374
Censorinus (1), twice censor, introduced law forbidding this, Iv. 118 Censorinus (2), OC. Marcius, brings suit against Sulla for bribery, Iv. 336
Censorinus (3), accompanies Crassus against Parthians, IIT. 390, 396 Censorinus (4), L. Marcius, left in charge of Greece by Antony, IX. 186
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

Census, at Athens, I. 450, 111.108; at Rome, VI. 454, VII. 570

Centaurs, begotten of cloud by Ixion, X. 2; at war with Lapithae,
I. 66 f., 190
Ceos, island, 11. 8; has small part called Iulis, VII. 2; sends settlers to Gela, vI. 344
Cephalo, friend of Aratus, XT. 118 f.

Cephalus, summoned from Corinth by Timoleon to establish civil polity of Syracuse, V1. 320 Cephisodorus, friend of Pelopidas, slain by Leontidas, V. 368 Cephisodotus, sculptor, related to Phocion, VIII. 188
Cephisus river, receives river Assus,
IV. 378, 382, 392, VII. 44, 244
Ceramicus, II. 416, IV. 368, 370,
VIII. 224.
Ceraunian mountains, VIII. 210

Cerberus, Aidoneus' dog, killed Peirithoiis, I. 72; delivered to Heracles by Cora, III. 210
cee island off Africa, VI. 52, Ix,

7

Cercyon, Arcadian, slain by Theseus,
I. 22, 66
Cereatae, see ‘‘ Cirrhaeton."'

Ceres, I. 162; festival of, 111. 170

Ceressus, where Thebans defeated
Lattamyas and Thessalians, II.
138 Cethegus, Cornelius (1), deposed from priesthood, V. 446 Cethegus, Cornelius (2), companion of younger Marius, IX. 574; in control of Rome, induced to help Lucullus get province of Cilicia,
II. 486 f.; takes part in conspiracy of Catiline, VII. 120, 124, 126, 458, yeas 286; executed, VII. 134f., Hy)

Chabrias, Athenian, father of Ctesippus, VU. 36; his character; won sea-fight off Naxos, II. 138, VIII. 156-160; commands fleet under Tachos the Egyptian, v. 104
Chaeron (1), son of Thuro, founded Chaeroneia, Iv. 382
Chaeron (2), “of Megalopolis, sent to Delphi by Philip of Macedon, VII.
Chaeceidag archonship of, VII. 58
Chaeroneia, founded by Chaeron, IV. 382; settled by people from Thessaly led by Peripolitas, 11. 404; 1.64; Plutarch’s native town, vil. 44; Philip defeats Greeks there, II]. 138, V. 384, VII. 46f., 244; Aetolians defeat Boeotians, XI. 34; Bruttius Sura repulses Archelatis, IV. 360; 378; 382; Sulla defeats Mithridates’ generals, IJ. 480, 504, Iv. 382 f.; II. 406
Chaeroneians, fight for Sulla at battle of Chaeroneia, IV. 384 Chalcaspides, in Mithridates’ army, IV.378. Seealso‘* Bronze-shlelds.”’ Chalcedon, attacked by Alcibiades, Iv. 84f.; handed over to Athens by Pharnabazus, 883 II. 492, 496; Cotta besieged there, 494 Chalcidians, 1. 298; their Hippobotae banished by Pericles, III. 66; defeat Calliades and Xenophon, Athenian generals in Thrace, 226; X. 366 f.
Chalcidice, VII. 20

Chalcis, city in Euboea, IV. 388, 390, 302, 354, X. 354, 366 f.
Chalcodon, Elphenor’s father, I. 80; chapel of, in Athens, 62
Chaldaeans, II. 510; subdued by Lucullus, 526; Ix. 582; XI. 256

XadAxioixos, temple of Athena at Sparta, I. 218, X. 26, 36
Chalkous, an Athenian thief, VII. 28

Chameleon, cannot turn white, IV. 62

Chaonians, under command = of Ptolemy, IX. 440
Characitani, Spanish people, defeated by Sertorius, VIII. 42 f.
Chares (1), Athenian, Vv. 344, VII.
214, vill. 154; fails at Hellespont,
174; defeated Persians, x1. 34
Chares (2), of Mitylené, cited, VII.
280, 294, 356, 380, 384, 418, VIII.
184 Chares river, scene of battle between Aratus and Aristippus, XI. 62 Charicles (1), mentioned by comic poet Telecleides, I11. 220 Charicles (2), son-in-law of Phocion, intimate with Harpalus, brought to trial, VIII. 192 f.; 220; condemned to death in absentia by Athenians, 228 Chariclo, wife of Sciron, mother of Peleus and Telamon, I. 20
S57

GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

Charidemus, VIII. 4; proposed for general at Athens after Chaeroneia,
178, 182, VII. 56
Charilaiis, posthumous son of Poly-dectes, brother of Lycurgus, 1.
210 f., X. 250, 1. 218; concurred in measures of Lycurgus, xX. 70;
quoted, ¥. 266
Charillus, see ‘* Charilatis.”’

Charimenes, seer, joins plot to kill

Aristomachus, tyrant of Argos,
XI. 56 ‘

Charinus, proposes decree against Megarians, III. 86

Charmion, waiting-woman of OCleopatra, IX. 274, 326 f.
Charmus, boy lover of Peisistratus, I. 406
Charon (1), Theban, conspirator with Pelopidas, V. 354, 360f., 366; elected boeotarch, 370; led Theban cavalry at Plataea, 400
Charon (2), of Lampsacus, cited, 11. 72
Charonitae, what they were, Ix. 170

Charops, son of Machatas, xX. 330

Cheileos, Arcadian, helps Themistocles, 11. 18
Cheimarrus, see ‘‘ Babyca.”’

 Cheirons,”’ see ‘* Cratinus.”’

Chelidonian isles, 11. 440; western limit for Persian navy after Eurymedon, 444
Chersonese, Thracian, conquered by Cimon and turned over to Athens, II. 446; received 1000 settlers from Pericles, 111. 34, 58, VIII. 174; Pees by Demetrius, xX. 74; II. 482
Chersonese, Syrian, Demetrius banished there, Ix. 128, 132
Chians, offer leadership to Aristides, II. 284, 440, IV. 26; revolt from Athens, 66
Chilo, slave and school-teacher of Cato the Elder, 11. 360
Chilonis (1), daughter of Leotychides, wife of Cleonymns, 1X. 434, 438 Chilonis (2), daughter of Leonidas, wife of Cleombrotus, X. 36 f.
Chios, Chabrias died there, VIII. 156; II. 478

Chlidon, Theban, v. 358

tere month in Egyptian calendar,
I. 122
358

Choerilus, poet in retinue of Lysander,
Iv. 280 f.
Cholargus, deme of Pericles, II. 6;
ean ase 40; of Hipparchus, 25 Choregus, Themistocles won as c.
with Phrynichus as poet, II. 16; Aristides victorious as, 212; kings of Cyprus act as, VII. 308
Chorus, dithyrambic, VII. 308

‘ Chreocopidae,’’ name given Solon’s friends for sharp practice, I. 446
Chrysa, place at Athens, I. 62

Chrysantes, character in Xenophon
(Cyrop. Iv. 1, 3), V. 528
Chrysermus, father of a certain Ptolemy, X. 130
Chrysippus, cited, XT. 2

Chrysis, mistress of Demetrius, IX. 54

Chrysogonus (1), Pythian victor,
IV. 92
Chrysogonus (2), freedman of Sulla, accuses Roscius of murder, VII.
86 f.
Chthonian Earth, temple of, at Hermione, plundered by pirates,
Vv. 174
Cicer, Latin for chick-pea, VII. 82

Cicero, how first bearer of name got
it, VII. 82
Cicero, M. Tullius (1), his race and name, VII. 82; studied until Sulla became master, 86; defended Roscius, heard Antiochus of Asca-lon, S8f.; studied oratory with Xenocles, Dionysius, Apollonius; philosophy with Poseidonius, 90 f.; weak in delivery at first, 92;

quaestor in Sicily, 82, 94; prosecuted Verres, 98f.; his wife and property, 100; courted by the great, elected praetor, 102; defends Manlius, 104
Elected consul to oppose Cati-line, 106; wins Antonius' support by giving him province of Macedonia, secures defeat of bill to appoint decemvirs, 110f.; secures defeat of Catiline for consul, 114 f.; given by senate unlimited power to preserve state, 118, IlY. 354 f.; his life threatened by Marcius and Cethegus, he denounces Catiline in senate, and latter leaves city,
VII. 120; has to deal with Lentulus
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE 'LIVES'

and other plotters in city, 122 f.; reveals to senate evidence against Lentulus and others, 126 f.; hears Silvanus, Caesar, Cato and others, speak in senate regarding punishment of conspirators, 130 f., 456 f., VII. 290; has Lentulus and Cethe-gus executed, VII. 134, Ix. 140; called father of his country, becomes vainglorious, II. 596, VII. 138 f.
Hated by Clodius and others,
150f.; driven into exile, 156 f.,
11. 608, V. 234, 240, VIII. 318:
with help of Pompey is recalled, VII. 168, V. 244; in attempting to annul acts of Clodius as tribune, is opposed by Cato, VII. 168, VIII.
330; defends Milo for killing Clodius, VII. 170; elected augur, given Cilicia as province, 172;
on return attempts to reconcile Pompey and Caesar, 174, 518,

Vv. 270; joins Pompey in Greece,
VII. 176, V. 282; offered command of Pompey’s fleet after Pharsalus, refuses, VII. 180, VIII.370; received kindly by Caesar, VII. 182; retires to study philosophy and write;
proposes honours for Caesar, 184, 574; plans writing history of Rome, divorces Terentia, 186; not informed of plot to murder
Caesar, 188, VI. 148
After murder of Caesar, proposes amnesty in senate, VII. 190; fears Antony, 192; helps Octavius get support of senate and people, 194, IX. 172; rebuked by Brutns for supporting Octavius, VI. 174, VII.
196; has Antony driven out of city, and Octavius given power of praetor, 198, Ix. 174; betrayed by Octavius and proscribed, VI.
18¢, VII. 200, Ix. 178; slain, 180,
VII. 206
See also V. 274, VI. 172, 184,
VII. 82, 448, VIII. 310, 314, Ix. 158
Letters cited :
Ad Att. (11. 1. 8, ViiI. 150;
(VII. 11), V. 280; (VIII. 7. 2),
Vil. 176
Ad Fam. (11. 10. 2f. and 11.
2); VIl..174
To Gorgias, VII. 142
To Herodes, VII. 142
To Pelops of Byzantium, v1.
2 Unidentified letters, V. 226,
VII. 140, 184
Other works cited :—
Acad. Prior. 11. (Lucnllus), 11.
606 ; (II. 38. 119), vi. 140
Brutus (31. 121), vir. 140
Cato, VII. 446, 568
De Consulatu Suo, III. 352,
VII. 460
De Divinatione (1. 26, 56), x.

198; (1. 46. 103), V1. 380
De Senectute (12. 42), 11. 352,
X. 374
In Catil. (1. 5. 10), Vir. 120
En poner (29. 72f.), VII.
4
Philipp., VII. 206; (II. 22. 55),
Ix. 150, 158
Philosophical dialogues, VII.
184, 210
Pontius Glaucus, VII. 84
Pro Caelio (12. 28), VII. 212
Pro Milone, VII. 172
Pro Murena, VII. 170, 212,
VIII. 284
Pro Plancio, VII. 94 f.
Sayings: II. 602, VII. 98f., 104,
134, 140, 144f., 156, 178f., 450,
580, VIII. 248
Cicero, M. Tullius (2), son of the orator, joins Brutus' forces, VI.
178, VII. 198; defeats C. Antonius, VI. 182; chosen colleague in consul-ship by Octavianus, VII. 208 Cicero, Q. Tullius, brother of the orator, VII. 130, 166; attacked by Gauls, rescued by Caesar, 502; with his son proscribed and executed, 202
Cilicia, 11. 84, IV. 252; allotted to Pleistarchus, Cassander's brother,
IX. 76; occupied by Demetrius, 78;
invaded by Seleucus, 120; governed by Octavius, who dies and is succeeded by Lucullus, Il. 486 f., 544;
taken from Tigranes by Lucullus,
Vv. 202; 182; given Pompey by Manilian law, 190, 230; governed oy Cicero, VII. 172; 1X. 2183 76 Cilicians, join Sertorius, VIII. 18, 22
Cilician ships, defeated by Cimon,
II. 462
309

Cilles, Ptolemy’s general, defeated by Demetrius, Ix. 14
Cimber, Tillius, petitions Caesar,
VII. 596
Cimbri, invade Italy, and destroy Caepio’s army, II. 140, 560,
VIII. 6, IX. 488; 496; 502; force
Catulus to retreat, 526; defeated by Marius at Vercellae, 530, II.
596, vil. 454
Cimmerians, said to be same as Cimbri, 1x. 490
Cimon (1), grandfather of the famous Cimon, dubbed Coalemus, 11. 412
Cimon (2), compared with Lucullus,
11. 410; his family and character, 412f.; his appearance; serves with distinction against Persians, 418f., 282; takes command of allies, captures Eion from Persians, 422; seized Scyros, found Theseus’ bones, 426 f., 1. 84: very generous to citizens, 11. 432 f.; incorruptible, popular with allies, 436f.; cleared Asia of Persian arms from Ionia to Pamphylia, 438f.; defeats Persians at Eurymedon, 440f.; makes Persia accept humiliating peace, 444
Beautifies Athens, 446; acquitted on charge of being bribed
by Alexander, King of Macedonia, 448, 111. 30; popular with Sparta,
Il. 452, 56; ostracized for helping Sparta, 456, 111. 26; recalled, 28,
Il. 458; sails against Egypt and Cyprus, 460f.; dies besieging
Citlum, 464, 111. 32
See also 11. 14, 66, 84, 244, 292,
316, 111. 14, 18, 26, 82, 198, 204,
VII. 32.
Sayings: 11. 436, 452, 456
Cimonian funeral monuments, II.

466 one (1), father of Thallus, vim.
72 Cineas (2), Thessalian, pupil of Demosthenes; urges Pyrrhus not to go to aid of Tarentum, Ix. 384; sent to Tarentum with 3000 soldiers, 388, 392; sent by Pyrrhus on embassy to Rome, 402; 406; 408; sent on second embassy to toting 412; sent ahead to Sicily, 360

Cingonius Varro, see "' Varro, Cingonius."" Cinna, L. Cornelius (1), father of Cornelia, once supreme at Rome,
VII. 122, 442; bribes L. Terentius to slay Pompey, Vv. 122, 124; permitted by Sulla to be elected consul, IV. 356; supports Marius, VIII. 10; defeated by Octavius in the forum, 12, 1X. 578; joined bv Marius, 580; enters Rome with bodyguard, 584; drives Crassus to Spain, Ill. 322; assassinated Octavius, IV. 364; 396; IX. 586;
has Bardyaei slain, 590, vI. 190; slain by centurion, VY. 126, VI¥H.
12 f., IIT. 326
Cinna, L. Cornelius (2), cowed when he starts to denounce Caesar, VI.
166, 170, VII. 602; gives Brutus
500 horsemen, VI. 180
Cinna, poet, friend of Caesar, killed in mistake by mob, VI. 170 , VII. 602 Circe, mother of Romanus by Odysseus, I. 92
Circeii, Roman colony, surrenders to Coriolanus, IV. 184, IX. 562
Circeium, promontory of Latium, VII.
202, 578
Circus Maximus, has altar of god
Consus hid underground, I. 128, 154

Circus Flaminius, 11. 592, Vv. 510, x. 322
Cirrha, 1. 302;
Delphi, 428
Cirrhaeton (Cereatae ?), village in territory of Arpinum, Ix. 468
Cissug, announces absconding of Harpalus to Alexander, VII. 346
Cissusa, spring where infant Dionysus bathed, Iv. 312
Cithaeron, mountain, had cave of Sphragitic nymphs, HW. 246, 248, 252, IV. 310, VII. 56
Cithaeronian Hera, It. 246

Citiaeans, VII. 322

Citium, besieged by Cimon who died there, Il. 464, 466, X. 52
Cius, revenue of, offered Phocion by Alexander, VIII. 186
Clarius, river in Cyprus, I. 476

Claros, sanctuary of, V. 174

Clastidijium, battle of, in which Marcellus routs Gaesatae, V. 448 outraged oracle of

Claudia, daughter of Appius Claudius, wife of Ti. Gracchus, xX. 150
Claudian family, descended from Appius Clausus, a Sabine, I. 558
 Claudius,’ surname from physical characteristic, IV. 144 Claudius, Appius, see Claudius.”’ Claudius, M., father of M. Claudius Marcellus, V. 436 Claudius Caesar (Ti. Claudius Drusus Nero Germanicus), son of Drusus and Antonia, became emperor, married Agrippina and adopted her son L. Domitius, giving him name Nero Germanicus, IX. 332, XI. 228, 252 Claudius Marcellus, see ‘* Marcellus, Claudius.’’ Clausus, Appius, see Clausus.”’ Clazomenae, III. 254, IV. 80

Cleaenetus, Cleomedon’s son, disgraced himself, 1X. 56
Cleander, of Mantineia, reared Philopoemen, X. 256
Cleandridas, father of Gylippus, ITI. 66; bribed by Pericles, 64
Cleanthes (1), cited, Iv. 14

Cleanthes (2), freedman and physician of Cato the Younger, VIII. 404
Clearchus (1), Macedonian, sent on embassy to Thebes, VII. 42
Clearchus (2), ordered by Spartans to help Cyrus, XI. 138; fought at Cunaxa, 142f.; seized and executed by Artaxerxes, 166 f.
Cleidemus, cited, I. 38, 62, 11. 30, 272

Cleinias (1), friend of Solon, 1. 444

Cleinias (2), father of Alcibiades, fought at Artemisium, slain at Coronela, IV. 2, 60
Oleinias (3), chief magistrate of Sicyon, father of Aratus, slain by Abantidas, XI. 4
Cleisthenes, grandfather of Agariste, expelled Peisistratidae, estaolished constitution, I1. 214, 450, III. 6
Cleitarchus, cited, 11. 72, VII. 356

Cleitomachus, teacher of Philo the Academic, VII. 86, 90
Cleitor, woman of, wife of Cimon, II. 450
Cleitorians, outwitted by Soiis, I.

208
* Appius

“ Appius

Cleitus (1), saves Alexander’s life at battle of Granicus, VII. 266; murdered by Alexander, 258, 368-374
Cleitus (2), brings Phocion and his party to Athens for trial, VII. 224
Cleitus (3), Brutus’ servant, refuses to slay him, VI. 242
Clemency, temple of, decreed, VII. 574
Cleobis, named by Solon as happy man, I. 480
Cleocritus, Corinthian, at battle of Salamis, II. 236; 274
Cleodaeus, son of Hyllus, father of Lanassa, IX. 346
Cleomantis, Lacedaemonian, sooth-sayer with Alexander, VII. 368
Cleombrotus (1), younger brother of Agesipolis, succeeds to throne of Sparta, X. 8; sent into Boeotia with army, V. 66, 370; sent again, 78; defeated and slain at Leuctra, 78, 394, IV. 452, X. 48
Cleombrotus (2), son-in-law of Leo-nidas, made king of Sparta, X. 265 with Agis replaces ephors, 28; pardoned by Leonidas, 36—40
Cleomedes, of Astypaleia, disappeared like Romulus, I. 180
Cleomedon, father of Cleaenetus, rx. 56

Cleomenes (1), one of 5 Spartan arbitrators, I. 428 Cleomenes (2), son of Cleombrotus, king of Sparta after his brother Agesipolis, had 2 sons, Acrotatus and Cleonymus, X. 8 f.

Cleomenes (3), son of Leonidas, marries Agiatis, widow of Agis, x. 50; studies philosophy with Sphaerus of Borysthenis, succeeds Leonidas as king, 52; decides to change order of things, 54; sent by ephors to occupy precinct of Athena at Belbina, 56; defeats Aratus near Mt. Lycaeum, 58, XI. 82; defeats Aratus and Lydiades at Megalopolis, 82 f., x. 60f.; has ephors slain, 66, XI. 86; restores constitution of Lycurgus, X. 68 f. Devastates land of Megalopolis, 74: his manner of life, 76f.; takes Mantineia, defeats Achaeans at 361

Dyme, 78f., XI. 90; demands leadership of Achaeans, xX. 80f.; repeats demand at 2nd conference, is insulted by Aratus, 84f., XI. 90; takes Argos, X. 88, XI. 90; joined by Cleonae, Phlius and other cities, X. 90; gets Corinth, 90, XI. 92f.; repeats demand for leadership of Achaeans, promises Aratus yearly pension of 12 talents, 96, X. 92; checks Antigonus, 92; loses Corinth and Argos, 96, XI. 102; takes Megalopolis, x. 102, 264; defeated by Antigonus at Sellasia, goes to Egypt, 112-122, XI. 106; put in detention, x. 130; breaks out of prison, 134; slays himself; had been king of Sparta 16 years, 136
His words quoted: xX. 56, 72, 78, 104, 116, 120, 128, 134

Cleomenes (4), Athenian orator, IV. 270

Cleon (1), attacks Pericles, III. 96, 102; opposed by Nicias, 212; his methods, 214, 222, x. 148; his connection with Pylos affair, III. 230 f., 234; slain at Amphipolis, 236; aped later by Stratocles, IX. 26; quoted, TIl. 232
Cleon (2) of Halicarnassus, his speech on changing the constitution of Sparta memorized by Lysander, 1V,'902, 318, v.54
Cleon (3) of Sicyon, murdered, XI. 4

Cleonae, taken by Corinth, IH. 456; scene of Hypercides' execution, Vi. 70, VII. 210; brought into Achaean League by Aratus, XI. 64; goes over to Cleomenes, X. 90
Cleonaeans, with Argives fight Corinthians, II. 268
Cleonice, of Byzantium, Pausanias, II. 420
Cleonides, Ptolemy's general, offered bribe by Demetrius to free Sicyon and Corinth, 1x. 34
Cleonymus (1), son of Sphodrias, intercedes for his father, v. 70; slain at Leuctra, 80
Cleonymus (2), the Agiad, father of Leonidas, did not become king of Sparta, X. 8 f.; scared from Thebes by Demetrius, IX. 96; invites Pyrrhus to attack Sparta, 404 f, c0e

slain by

Cleopater, Achaean commander of the Acrocorinthus, XI. 92
Cleopatra (1), niece of Attalus, married to Philip, VII. 246, 250, 296; rebels against Antipater and takes Macedonia to rule, 414
Cleopatra (2), by letter invited Leonnatus to claim Macedonia, VIII. 86,

Cleopatra (3), daughter of Mithridates, wife of Tigranes, II. 540
Cleopatra (4), banished by Potheinus, recalled by Caesar, whom she captivates, VII. 556f., IX. 160; summoned to Cilicia by Antony, captivates him, 190f.; called to Syria by Antony, given Phoenicia, Coele Syria, Cyprus, large part of Cilicia, balsam-producing part of Judaea, part of Arabia Nabataea sloping toward outer sea, 216f.; had two children by Antony, Alexander and Cleopatra, 218; sent back to Egypt by Antony, 220; draws Antony back to Alexandria, 258; declared Queen of Egypt, Cyprus, Libya, and Coele Syria by Antony, to share her throne with Caesarion, 260; prevails upon Antony to let her accompany him to war, 264; honoured by Athenians, 268; drives Titius and Planecus to Octavius, 268; given the libraries of Pergamum by Antony, 270; estranges Geminius, M. Silanus, and Dellius, friends of Antony, 272 Induces Antony to wage war on sea, 276, 280; with 60 ships flees for Peloponnesus, followed by Antony, 288; sent ahead into Egypt from Paraetonium, 294; tries to escape with ships into Red Sea, 296; holds revel with Antony, tests different poisons, 300; asks of Octavius Egypt for her children, 302; promised reasonable treatment if she casts out Antony, 304; allows Antony to execute wife and children of Seleucus, has tomb erected near temple of Isis, 306; hauls dying Antony into her tomb, taken by Proculeius, 312 f.; holds parley with Octavius, 320 f.; commits suicide and is buried beside

GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

Antony in royal state, 324; 39 when she died, had been queen 22 years, shared her power with Antony more than 14, 330
Sayings: 202, 272, 278, 322,
324 f.
Cleopatra (5), daughter of Antony and Cleopatra, given in marriage eM to King Juba, Ix. 218,
Oo
Cleophanes, with Phocion in battle near Tamynae, VIII. 172 Cleophantus, son of Themistocles and Archippe, II. 86
Cleoptolemus, his daughter married to Antiochus, xX. 366
Cleora, wife of Agesilaiis, V. 52

Clepsydra, IX. 212

Clientes, means dependants; relation to patrons, I. 126
Clitarchus, see  Cleitarchus.”’

Clodia (1), sister of Clodius, wife of Metellus Celer, and called Quadran-taria, VII. 154
Clodia (2), sister of Clodius, II. 582; divorced from Lucullus, 594 Clodia (3), daughter of Fulvia, to be married to Octavius, Ix. 180 Clodius (1), praetor, defeated by Spartacus, III. 338
Clodius (2), his ‘‘An Examination of Chronology ”’ cited, I. 306 Clodius (3), soldier of Lepidus, IX.
176 te deserter in Brutus’ camp, VI.
234 Clodius, Appius, see ‘“*P. Clodins

Pulcher.” Clodius Celsus, see *‘ Celsus, Clodius.”’

Clodius Macer, governor of Africa, does not join Galba, XI. 216, 230; slain by Trebonius at the order of Galba, 236
Clodius Pulcher, P., brother-in-law of Lucullus, serves under him in Asia, 11. 534; demands Mithridates from Tigranes, and is refused, 536; secretly incites the soldiers against him, 582; 1x. 140; helped Cicero in Catiline affair, VII. 152; commits sacrilege against Bona Dea, is brought to trial, is witnessed against by Cicero, is acquitted, 150 f., 462f.; elected tribune, drives Cicero into banishment, 150, 156 f., their

162, 168, 476, V. 234, 240, VIII.
316; burns down Cicero’s villas, attacks Pompey, sends Cato on mission to Oyprus, v. 240 f., VII. 166, VIII. 318; attacks Cato
after his return from Cyprus, Vill. 344; brings charge against Cicero for destroying records of tribunes, VII. 168; slain by Milo, 170; his funeral, vI.170. See also
VIII. 278, 310
Cloelia, Roman maiden, her adventure, I. 552
Cloelia (2), 3rd wife of Sulla, divorced,
Iv. 344
Cloelius, general of Carbo’s faction, advances against Pompey, V. 128
Clothes, see ‘‘ Dress.”’

Clubs, political, encouraged by Ly-sander in Asia, IV. 244; 266; 290
Clunia, city in Spain, XI. 218

Clusium, besieged by Gauls, gets help of Rome, I. 348, 11. 128

Cluvius Rufus, cited, XI. 280

Cnacion, later called Oenus, river at Sparta, I. 222, v. 382
Cnidus, 11. 440; near it Pharnabazus and Conon defeat Peisander in naval battle, V. 46, X1.176; 11. 478: given freedom by Caesar, VII. 554
‘‘Coalemus,’’ nickname of Cimon’s grandfather, II. 412
Coans, fish up golden tripod, to be given to wisest man, I. 412; join Lucullus, 11. 478
Cocceius, Otho’s nephew, XI. 312

Coele Syria, given Cleopatra by Antony, Ix. 216
Coelius, led left wing for Antony at Actium, Ix. 284
Coenus, ordered by Alexander to attack Porus’ right wing, VII. 396
Coinage, Solon made mina have 100 instead of 73 drachmas, I. 444; purchasing power of drachma in Solon’s time, 466; prices in Solon’s time compared with those of Plutarch’s time, 468; Iv. 276; Lycurgus replaces gold and silver currency by iron, I. 228 f., 11. 390, Iv. 276, 284; price of sheep and oxen in early Roman Republic, I. 530, 532; value of Greek and Roman coins compared, I. 124, lI. 130, Iv. 326; Persian coin has 363

figure of archer on it, v. 40, XI. 174
Colchis, I. 66, II. 514, V. 190, 202; invaded by Pompey, 206; 230
Colias, cape where Athenian women sacrificed to Demeter, I. 422

Collatinus, Tarquinius, see quinius Collatinus."' Colline gate, where unchaste Vestals were buried alive, I. 342; gave Brennus entrance to Rome, II.
146 Collytus, Attic deme, VII. 28

Colonis, village, threatened by Messenians, X. 308 Colony, to Caria by JIoxus and Ornytus, I. 18; of Athenians to the Chersonese, to Naxos, Andros, Thrace, Thurii, 111. 34, 58; to Sinope, 62; to Hestiaea, 66; to Syracuse from Asia and Corinth, VI. 316; to Agrigentum and Gela from Velia and Ceos, 344; to Velitrae by Romans, IV. 144; to Tarentum and Capua proposed by C. Gracchus, X. 214; to Carthage by
C. Graechus, 220, 226
Colophonians, freed from Epigonus by Lucullus, II. 478
Collytus, in Athens, VII. 28

Comeas, archon at Athens, I. 496

Cone after Caesar's murder, VII.
604 Comedy, Greek, from it conclude Greek doors opened outwards, I.
5543 II. 596
ee poets, I1I. 8, 44, 50, Iv. 24,

" Tar-

Cominius, consul, invests Corioli, Iv.
132; 140
Cominius, Pontius, carries message through Gauls to Capit:1, II. 154 f.
Comitium surrounded by circular Bie 1. 118; derived from coire,
4)

Commagene, V. 230, IX. 276

Commentaries, of Aratus, XI. 6, 74, 76, 88; of J. Caesar, VII. 496
Pope of age of Cronos, II.

Commissioners, ten, sent to organize Pontus, II. 588; xX. 348
Concord, temple of, vowed br Camillus, 11. 204; built by consul Opimius, X. 2383 vir. 126 304

Confederacy of Delos, treasury moved to Athens, III. 34
Connidas, tutor of Theseus, I. 10

Conon (1), friend of Solon, 1. 444

Conon (2), father of Timotheuns, IV. 338; escapes from Aegospotami to Evagoras in Cyprus, IV. 108; 260; XI. 176; with Pharnabazus defeats Peisander off Cnidus, Vv. 46, XI. 176f.; ravages coast of Laconia, Vv. 62
Conopion, burned body of Phocion, VIII. 230
Considius, aged senator, VII. 476

Consta, P., summoned as witness by Cicero, VII. 148
Cousualia, Roman festival, held August 18th, I. 134
Consuls: M’. Acilius, X. 364; M. Aemilius and L. Sextus (ist plebeian), II. 206; Antony, VII. 190, 584, IX. 170; Antony and Cacsar, VI. 164; M. Atilius and T. Manlius, x. 364; Brutus and Collatinus, Ist consuls, I. 504; Caesar, III. 354, VII. 662; 3rd time with Lepidus, Ix. 160; 4th time, VII. 570; Sth time with Antony, IX. 162; Caesar and Bibulus, Y.

236, VII. 472; Caesar and Servilius
Tsauricus, 5323; Camillus, not once,
Wt. 94; Carbo, thrice, V. 138;
Cato Major and Valerius Flaccus,
II. 310, 330; Catulus and Marius,
IV. 332; Cicero and OC. Antonius,
VII. 108, rX. 156; Cinna, IV. 356;
Cominius, IV. 132; Cotta, rx. 470;
Crassus and O. Scipio, 111. 192;
lL. Domitius, V111.30; Gn. Domitius and Messala, V. 256; Fabius Maximus, 5 times, III. 174, 188,
VI. 366; Fabius, son of Fabius
Maximus, 111. 186; ©. Fabricius and Q. Aemillus, Ix. 410; C.
Fannius, X. 214; Flaccus, I. 582,
Iv. 390; Fulvius Flaccus, xX. 238;
C. Flaminius, 11. 122; Flaminius and Furius, V. 442; T. Flamininus, xX. 296; T. Flamininus and Sextus Aelius, X. 324; Fulvius and Appius, I1I. 200; Gabinius and Piso, VII. 160; S. Galba, x1. 210;
Gellius and Lentulus, 111. 340; Ti.
Gracchus, twice, X. 144; Hirtius and Pansa, VI. 452, VII. 190,

1x. 174; M. Horatius, 5th man elected, I. 534; Hostilius, VI.
376; Laevinus, LX. 392; Tentulus, ¥. 270, Vil. 166, 518; 1X. 150; MM.
Lepidus, IV. 434, V. 150; Lucullus and M. Cotta, Il. 484, V. 162; Lucretius, 4th time, I. 534; C.
Mancinus, X. 152; Manius, X.
304; Marcellus, Vv. 464, X. 324;
3rd time, V. 466; 4th time, 496;
5th time, 512; Marcellus, 5 times,
Ill. 174, V. 436, 442, x. 372; Marcellus and Gnaeus Cornelius, V.
446; O. Marcellus, Vv. 268, VII.
514, IX. 148; Marius, Ix. 482, 486; Ist time, IV. 328; 2nd and 3rd times, 330, IX. 492, 498; 4th

time with Lutatius Catulus, 500; 5th time, 522; 6th time, 542;
ith time, 590; younger Marius,
VIII. 14; Maximus, VII. 576;
Cornelius Merula with Octavius,
IX. 578; Caecilius Metellus, IX.
476; L. Murena and_ Silanus,
VIII. 284; Norbanus, Iv. 410;
Octavius and Cinna, VIII. 10, IX.
578; Octavius Caesar, VI. 184; with Cicero's son, VII. 208; Opi-
mius, X. 226; Orestes, 198;
Paulus, V. 268, Vil. 514; Aemilius
Paulus, twice, VI. 366; Aemilius
Paulus, son of preceding, 366;
2nd time, 378; Philippus, VIII.
330; Piso, V. 182; Piso and Gabinius, 240, VII. 474, VIII. 316; Vompeius, IV. 350; Pompey and Crassus, III. 350, V. 166, 250, VIII.
334; Pompey, sole consul, V.
258, Vi. 512, VIII. 350; Valerius Publicola, I. 518; 2nd time with
T. Lucretius, 542; 3rd time, 546; 4th time, 556; L. Quintius (Flami-ninus), 11. 350; Caninius Revilius, vil. 576; Rufinus, Iv. 324; Mucius
Scaevola, X. 162; Cornelius Scipio
(Africanus Major), 111. 190; Scipio
(Africanus Minor), IX. 492; Scipio
(Asiaticus), Iv. 414, V.130; Metellus
Scipio with Pompey, 262; Scipio Nasica and O. Marcius, 444; Ti.
Sempronius, 444, 11. 334; Silanus and Murena, VII. 116; Spinther, Vv. 244; Sulla and Q. Pompeius,
IV. 342; M. Valerius and Postumius Tubertus, 1.554; Valerius Corvinus, many times, IX. 542; Terentius Varro and Aemilius Paulus, III.
158 f.
‘‘ Consuls ’? means counsellors, I. 128

Consulship, arrogant powers taken away by Publicola, I. 568; III.

186; why candidates wear toga without tunic, Iv. 148; given to Marius absent, Ix. 492
Consus, god of counsel; his altar in Circus Maximus, I. 128
Contributions, 11. 482, 532, III. 36, IV. 22
Copillus, chief of Tectosages, captured by Sulla, IV. 330
Coponius, commander of garrison at Carrhae, III. 404
Cora, daughter of Aidoneus and Phersephone, I. 72
Cora, temple of, near Hysiae at foot of Cithaeron, II. 248; goddess of Syracuse, delivered Cerberus into Heracles' hands, III. 210; goddess of Eleusis, Iv. 60
Coracesium, promontory in Cilicia, Vv. 184
Corcyne, nurse, accompanied Ariadne to Naxos, I. 42
Corcyra, 11. 64; aided by Athens, Ill. 82, 84; in league against Philip, VII. 40, VI. 278; captured by Agathocles, IX. 368; garrisoned be pemeu tps 372; VI. 4483 VIII. ot
Corduba, VII. 482

Cordylion, surname of Athenodorus the Stoic, VIII. 256
Coreia, festival of Persephone, VI. 118
Corfinium, surrenders to Caesar, VII. 526
Corfinius, refurnished Pompey's house, Vil. 562. See also '* Cornificius."' Corinth, I. 56, 412, II. 16, 274, 64, 456; at war with Corcyra, III. 82, 84; its territory raided by Nicias, 228; displeased by Peace of Nicias, 240, IV. 48, 292; battle of, v. 40, 44: captured by Agesilaiis and Teleutias, 56; in league against

Philip, vil. 40; sends Timoleon to Sicily, VI. 266; 268; 270; 276;
sends Timoleonreinforcements, 298 ; 304; 308; 312; sends colonists to Syracuse, 314; 332; freed by 365

Demetrius, 1X. 58; X. 10; XI. 20;
joins Achaean League, 52; 56;
joins Cleomenes, X. 90, XI. 94; garrisoned by Antigonus, 96; proclaimed free by Flamininus, X.
350, 358; brought over to Rome by Cato the Elder, II. 336; taken by Mummius, III. 430, IX. 464, X.
316; restored by Caesar, VII.
576 Coriolanus, C. Marcius, his family and character, 1V. 118f.; fought against Tarquin when a boy, 122; takes Corioli, 132f.; helps the consul rout the Volscians, 136 f.; is named Coriolanus, 140; opposes the plebs, runs for consul, not elected, 148 f.; opposes distributing corn gratis, 154f.; is denounced by the tribunes, 156 f.; condemned by the tribunes to be cast from Tarpeian rock, is rescued, 160 f.; is tried before the people and condemned to perpetual banishment, 166 f.
Goes to the Volscians, 170; is appointed general with Tullus for war on Rome, raids Roman land, 182f.; takes Circeii, ravages land of Latins, takes Bola, 186; _besieges Lavinium, marches against Rome, 188; gives terms of peace to Roman embassy, 190; withdraws and attacks allies of Rome, 192; returns to attack Rome, 194;
spares Rome and withdraws at the intercession of his mother, 208; hated by Tullus and asked to give an account of his administration, 214; slain by a party of Volscians, 216

His words given: 136, 140, 166, 172 £., 208
Corioli, captured from the Volscians, IV. 132 Cornelia (1), daughter of Scipio, wife of Ti. Gracchus the Elder, refused hand of Ptolemy; mother of the Gracchi, X. 146 1., 152; 162; 206; said to have helped C. Gracchus in his seditlous measures, 226; her life after death of C Gracchus, 240; IX. 556
Cornelia (2), daughter of Metellus Scipio, married Publius, son of 366

Crassus, then Pompey; her accomplishments, V. 260, 286; learns of disaster at Pharsalus, flees with her husband, 310; sees Pompey murdered, receives remains of Pompey, buries them at Alban villa, 320 f.
Cornelia (3), daughter of Cinna, wife of Caesar, VII. 442, 450; had daughter by Caesar who married Pompey, 452
Cornellii, three fated to become monarchs at Rome, VII. 122, 1x. 464
Cornelius, leader of party of Sulla’s men, spares Caesar for 2 talents, VII. 444
Cornelius, C., acquaintance of Livy, augurs Caesar’s victory at Pharsalus, VII. 554
Cornelius, Gnaeus, appointed colleague in consulship by Marcellus, Vv. 446, 448 Cornelius, P., with M. Baebius consul about 400 years after Numa,

I. 380
Cornelius Cethegus, see ‘* Cethegus, Cornelius.”
Cornelius Cossus, won spolia opima from Tolumnius the Tuscan, 1. 138, VY. 454
Cornelius Laco, prefect of praetorian guard under Galba, XI. 230; slain by Otho’s soldiers, 268 Cornelius Merula, consul with Octavius, replacing Cinna, IX. 578
Cornelius Nepos, cited, II. 608, Vv.
520, X. 194
Cornel-tree,
I. 154
Cornificius, L., prosecutor of Brutus,
VI. 184
Cornificius, Q., has 2 legions for
Caesar, VII. 544
Cornutus, rescued from Marius by slaves, IX. 586
Coroebus, began sanctuary of mysteries at Eleusis, 111. 40 Coronela, battle of, Athenians under Tolmides defeated by Boeotians, III. 58, IV. 2; battle of, between Agesilaiis and Thebans, Y. 40, 46 the sacred, story of,

Corrhagus (Corrhaeus), Stratonice’s father, 1X. 6
GENERAL INDEX TO ALI. THE ‘LIVES’

Corrhagus, son of Demetrius and Eurydice, 1x. 134
Corsica, sea about it cleared of pirates by Pompey, V. 182

Corvinus, Valerius, 6 times consul like Marius, IX. 542
Corynetes, slain by Theseus, I. 188.
See also ‘‘ Periphetes.”’ Cos, people of, join Lucullus, II.

474
Cosa, in Etruria, colonized by Rome, X. 324
Cosconius, slain by Caesar's mutinous soldiers, VII. 560
Cosis, brother of Albanian king, slain by Pompey, V. 208
Cossaeans, slaughtered by Alexander, VII. 424
Cossinius, praetor, slain, and his camp captured by Spartacus, III. 338
Cossus, Cornelius, see ‘‘* Cornelius Cossus.”” Cossus, Licinius, sent to consult oracle of Delphi re Alban lake, II. 102
Cost, of clothing, 11.314; of fish, 322; of public works, 356
‘*Cothurnus,’’ nickname of Theremenes, III. 212
Cotta, defeated by Sertorius in sea-fight, VIII. 30
Cotta, Caesar's legate, destroyed with army by Gauls, VII. 500
Cotta, L. (1), opposes Marius, IX. 470
Cotta, L. (2), censor, very fond of wine, VII. 150
Cotta, M., consul with Lucullus, 11. 484; sent with ships to guard Propontis and Bithynia, 490; defeated by Mithridates, is besieged in Chalcedon, 494
Cotylon, Varius, intimate of Antony, left with 6 legions to guard Gaul, 1x. 178
Cotys, king of Paphlagonians, makes alliance with Agesilaiis, V. 28
Council of Elders, established by Lycurgus, 1. 218
Council of 500, at Athens, II. 458

Courts of justice, transferred again to knights by Pompey, V. 168

Crane, dance instituted by Theseus, still kept up by Delians, I. 44
eae suburb of Corinth, VII.

25

Crannon, battle of, Greeks defeated
By apart: II. 135, Vil..68,, VIII.
Crassianus, C. (Crastinus or Crassinius), centurion of Caesar, slain at Pharsalus, V. 300, VII. 548 Crassus (1), Scipio's colleague in consulship, urged by Fabius Maximus to thwart Scipio; was pontifex maximus, III. 192
Ors (2), brother of Licinia, x.
232 Crassus (3), husband of Scribonia, father of Piso, executed by Nero,
XI. 254
Crassus (4), son of the triumvir, resembled Axius, VII. 144 Crassus, M., his family, 111. 314; his avarice and wealth, 316f.; generous, eloquent, kindly, 320; escaped when Cinna and Marius prevailed, 322; joins Sulla and raises force, 326f.; rival of Pompey, 328;
victorious when Sulla is defeated, 320, IV. 416, 420f.; lent Caesar large sum, III. 332f., VII. 468; chosen to conduct war against Spartacus, III. 340; disciplines troops when his legate Mummius is defcated, 342; defeats parts of Spartacus' force, 344, 346, V. 164,
196; defeats Spartacus again, III.
348 Elected consul with Pompey, quarrels with him, 350, v. 168, VIII. 334; imactive as censor, accused by Cicero of being in Catilinarian conspiracy, III. 352,

VII. 116, 158; reconciled to Cicero,

168, II. 354; forms triumvirate with Pompey and Caesar, 354f., vil. 470; has understanding with Caesar and Pompey at Luca, III. 356, VII. 494, VIII. 332; through violence is elected consul with Pompey, gets province of Syria, III. 360, VIII. 334; crosses to the east, takes Zenodotia, III. 364; receives embassy from MHyrodes, 368; encouraged by Artabazes, king of Armenia, 370; duped by Ariamnes, 374; opposed by Surena, 376 f.; gets discouraging message 367

from Artabazes, 880; defeated by Parthians, 382f.; leaves Carrhae by night, 408; forced to go with the Parthians, 412; is slain, 416, V. 254, VII. 510
See also 11. 592, 596, 606, V. 226, VII. 102, 144, 146
Quoted : III. 318, 330, 352, v. 170, 364, 368, 374, 398, 412 Crassus, P. is pontifex maximus, helps Ti. Gracchus draw up his agrarian law, X. 162; father-in-law of OC. Gracchus, elected land commissioner in place of Ti. Gracchus, 194
Crassus, P. (2), son of M. Crassus, admirer of Cicero, III. 354, V. 260, VII. 168; came from Caesar in Gaul with 1000 troopers for his father, II. 366, 384; slain at Carrhae, 390, 400, v. 310, Vil. 172
Crastinus, see ‘‘ Crassianus.”’ Craterus (1), husband of Phila, IX. 2; VII. 344; wounded by Perdiccas, 346; quarrels with Hephaestion, 360, 362, 382, sent back to

Macedonia by Alexander, VIII. 186; defeats Greeks at Crannon, and crosses to Asia to overthrow Perdiccas, VII. 68, VIII. 90, 200; VII. 70; VIII. 92; sends Antipater into Cilicia, advances against Eumenes, is defeated and dies, VIII. 94 f., IX. 32
Craterus, the Macedonian, collected various decrees, II. 444; cited, 294
Crates, philosopher, induces Demetrius to raise siege of Athens, IX. 116
Cratesiclela, mother of Cleomenes, assists him, marries Aristonotis, Xx. 60; goes as hostage to Egypt, 98; executed by Ptolemy, X. 136
Cratesipolis, wife of Alexander, son of Polysperchon, visits Demetrius, IX. 22
Cratinus, comic poet, cited :—
Archilochi (Kock I. 11), II. 434
Cheirons (Kock I. 86), III. 8, 70
Nemesis (Kock I. 49), 11.8; (94), 1. 472; (100), TI. 42
Cratippus, V. 310; received Roman citizenship from Caesar at Cicero's 368 request, VII. 142; his lectures attended by Brutus, VI. 176 Craugis, Philopoemen's father, X. 256

Cremation, alive, VII. 416 f.
Cremona, battle of, Caecina worsted by Otho's men, XI. 292
Creobylus, see '* Crobylus."' Creon (1), father of Menoeceus, Y. 390
Creon (2), character in tragedy, VII. 72
Creophylus, posterity of, in Ionia preserved poems of Homer, I. 214 Cretan, civilization, simple and severe, I. 214; government, mixture of democracy and royalty, VI. 112; javelin, x. 444

Cretans, once sent offering of first-born to Delphi, some of Athenian descent, etc., I. 303; submit to Philip, son of Antigonus, XI. 110; serve with Aemilius Paulus, VI.
392, 416; won over by Lucullus,
Il. 474
Crete, visited by Lycurgus, I. 212; worst nest of pirates after Cilicia, cleared of them by Metellus, v.
188; decreed province of Brutus,
VI. 168; xX. 288 f.
Creticus,'? surname of Antonius, father of M. Antony, IX. 138 Crimesus river, in Sicily, VI. 322; battle of, 324 f.
Crispinus (1), consul with Marcellus, slain by Hannibal in ambush, yY.
516
Crispinus (2), Poppaea's husband, XI.
216; slain by Otho's soldiers, 280 Critias, son of Callaeschrus, moved decree for reca}l of Alcibiades, Iv.
96; one of Thirty Tyrants, II.
434; cited, I. 230, Il. 434, 454
(Bergk II. 279 f.), IV. 96
Crito, borrowed 70 minas
Socrates, II. 214
Critolaidas, one of 5 arbiters in dispute between Athenians and Megarjans, I. 428
Critolaiis, cited, 111. 20

Crobylus (1), cited, vir. 40

Crobylus (2), beautiful boy, VII. 286

Croesus, sent bowl to Delphi, I. 414; had interview with Solon, 478:
peered and spared by Cyrus, 484 from

Crommyonian sow, called Phaea, slain by Theseus, I. 18
Cronos, age of, II. 286, 436

Croton, I. 178; given portion of spoil from Arbela by Alexander,
VII. 328
Crustumerlum, its people defeated
eno meres to Rome by Romulus, ya
Ctesias, physician with Artaxerxes
II., XI. 128 ; describes death of Cyrus at Cunaxa, 148f.; rewarded by Artaxerxes, 156; tells anecdote about Clearchus and himself, 166 f.; sent to help Conon, 176
peor 140, 146, 148f., 154f., 1
Ctesiblus, cited by Hermippus, VII. 12

Ctesiphon, brought to trial in matter of the crown, VII. 58 Ctesippus, son of Chabrias, VII. 36; helped by Phocion, VIII. 158
Ctesium, city in Scyros, II. 426

Culeo, Terentius, forces Flamininus and Marcellus, the censors to receive into citizenship all offered if of free parents, X. 372
Culleo, vainly urges Pompey to divorce Julia, V. 242
Cumae, Blossius of, X. 160

Cunaxa, 600 furlongs from Babylon; battle of, XI. 142 f.
Cures, of the Sabines, native city of Numa Pompilius; from it ‘‘ Qui-rites ’’ derived, I. 314 “Cures, a new,’’ term applicd to Epimenides of Crete, I. 432
Curiae, named after 30 seized Sabine

maidens, I. 130, 152
Curio (1), Sulla’s legate, besieges Aristion in the acropolis and forces him to surrender, IV. 372
Curio (2), Cato’s friend, VIII. 266; aedile with Favonius, 348, Ix. 140
Curio (3), rescues Caesar in Catilinarian trouble, VII. 460; bought by Caesar, acts for him in Rome, Vv. 268, Vil. 514f., Ix. 140, 148; driven from senate by Lentulus, VII. 518
Curius, M’., It. 324, 386, 394; hero of 3 triumphs, drove Pyrrhus from Italy, 306; defeated Pyrrhus at Benevenuns 1X. 4263; quoted, II. 6

Curtius, Sabine, caught in bog henceforth called ‘“‘lacus Curtius,’’ I. 144
Custom, of boiling all sorts of pulse together on 7th of Pyancpsion, I. 46; Spartans brought bodies of kings home for burial, v. 112
Cyanean isles, western limit for Persian navy, II. 444
Cybernesia, celebrated in honour of of Nausithoiis and Phaeax, I. 34
Cybisthus, son of Solon’s sister, adopted by him, I. 418
Cychreus, father-in-law of Sciron, I. A i hero sacrificed to by Solon, Cyclades, being subjugated by Arche laiis, IV. 358
Cyclops, cave of, 11. 326; blinded, XI. 208
Cycnus, slain by Hercules, I. 22

Cydnus river, in Asia, VII. 274, IX. 192
Cyinda, see  Quinda,”’

Cyllarabis (Cylarabis, Cyllarabium), gymnasium just outside of Argos,

IX. 452, X. 86, 110
Cylon, his murder caused pollution and strife, 1.430; Athenians ordered by Spartans to drive out this pollution, III. 94
Cyme, where Themistocles landed in Asia, II. 683 VII. 586 Cynageirus, rivalled Aristides for 2nd place at Plataea, II. 388 Cynisca, Agesilatis' sister, enters chariot at Olympian contests, V. 52 Cynosarges, gymnasium of Hercules outside Athens, frequented by aliens, II. 2
Cynoscephalae, Amazons' graves there,
I. 64; Pelopidas defeats Alexander of Pherae there and is himself slain,
v. 422; Flamininus defeats Philip of Macedon there, VI. 372, X. 340 Cynossema, promontory of Salamis, origin of name, II. 30 f., 318
Cypris, I. 478

Cyprus, has grove of Ariadne Aphrodite, I. 42; visited by Solon, 476;
11. 84; 442; 460; scene of Cimon's death, 462 f., 111.32; 74; surrenders to Alexander, VII. 2923 308; IX.12;
won from Ptolemy by Demetrius, IX. 34f.; 11.478; administered by 369

Cato, V. 240, 316, VII.170, VIII. 346; given to Cleopatra, IX. 218 Cypselus, Periander's father, XI. 8

Cyrene, set in order by Ecdemus and Megalophanes, X. 256; ruled by son of Demetrius and Ptolemais, IX. 134; given fixed constitution by lLucullus, Il. 474; received Cato, closed gates to Labienus, Vill. 370f.; western terminus of

Antony’s empire, IX. 276
Cyrnus river, its source, tributary, and mouth, V. 206 ;
Cyrrhestica, in Asia, IX. 122, 212

Cyrus,’’ Persian word for sun, *XI. 128
Cyrus the Elder, named from sun, XI.128; 130; defeated and spared Solon, I. 484; his tomb visited by Alexander VII. 416, Ix. 152
Cyrus the Younger, son of Dareius and Parysatis, XI. 128; 190, III. 72; receives Lysander at Sardis, IV. 240; 246; asks Sparta to send Lysander again, 248; promises Lysander anything he wants, 252; 280; remained satrap of Lydia and commander of the king’s forces in maritime provinces on death of Dareius, XI. 130; accused of plot against life of Artaxerxes, pardoned by latter, 132; makes secret preparations, 132f.; gets aid of Spartans, marches against the king, is slain at Cunaxa, 136f., IV. 452; quoted, XI. 142
Cythera, captured by Nicias, III. 228; 430; v. 86; xX. 118
Cytheris, actress, favourite of Antony, IX. 158
Cyzicus, sends embassy to Sparta supported by Pharnabazus, IV. 66; taken by Athenians, 82; besieged by Mithridates, relieved by Lucullus, II, 498, 504; V1. 186
Dactyli, Idaean, played tricks like ae of Picus and Faunus, 1.
Daedalus, son of Merope, pursued by Minos, fled to Athens, protected by Theseus, I. 38
Daesius, month in which Macedonian kings were wont to take the field, 379

VII. 264; 432; Sicyonian month, same as Anthesterion, XI. 122
Daimachus, Plataean, cited re Solon, 1.572; his treatise ‘‘ On Religion ” cited, IV. 262
Dalmatia, armies there faithful to Otho, XI. 284
Damagoras, commands Rhodian galley, II. 482
Damascus, VII. 280

Damastes (1), surnamed Procrustes, slain by Theseus, I. 22
Damastes (2), cited, II. 138

Damippus, Spartan, captured by Marcellus, Vv. 482
Damochares, plots against Agis, X. 40; helps execute him, 44
Damocleides, prominent Theban, takes part in expulsion of Spartans at Thebes, V. 356; with Pelopidas slays Leontidas and Hypates, V. 366
Damocrates (1), Plataean hero, II. 246
Damocrates (2), Spartan exile, quoted, xX. 56
Damon (1), Pericles’ music teacher, ostracized, II. 214, III. 10, 226
Damon (2), Macedonian soldier of Alexander, VII. 286
Damon (3), Peripolitas, of Chaeroneia, story of his life, 11. 404f.; his descendants called Asbolomeni, 408
Damonides, of deme Oa, advises Pericles, III. 26
Damophantus, leader of Eleian cavalry, slain by Philopoemen, xX. 272
Damoteles, betrays Cleomenes at Sellasia, x. 114
Damurias_ river, where Timoleon defeated Hicetas, V1. 336

Danaiis, captured Argos, IX. 454

Dandamis, gymnosophist, meets One-Sicritus, VII. 408; 244
Dandarians, barbarian people dwelling about Lake Maeotis, II. 518 Danube river, Bisternae settled along it, VI. 376; scene of battle between Alexander and Syrmus, king of Triballi, VII. 252; regions along it subdued by Tiberius Sempronius,
II, 334
Daochus, Thessalian, sent by Philip on embassy to Thebes, VII. 42
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

Daphne, daughter of Amyclas, the same as Pasiphaé according to Phylarchus, X. 20
Daphne, grove near Antioch, II. 534

Dardanians, defeated by Perseus,
VI. 376
Dardanus, in Troad, meeting-place of Mithridates and Sulla, Iv. 402
Dardanus (1), founded Troy, Il. 144

Dardanus (2), shield-bearer of Brutus,
VI. 242
Dareius (1), sent Datis to subdue
Hellenes, 11. 10, 224
Dareius (2), father of Artaxerxes, Cyrus, Ostanes, and Oxathres by Parysatis, XI. 128
Dareius (3), his generals defeated at the river Granicus, VII. 262 f.; encouraged by Alexander’s long delay in Cilicia, 274; defeated by Alexander, 278; makes proposal to Alexander, 310; marches against him with a million men, 314; escapes from rout of Arbela, 324;
v. 40; seized by Bessus, dies in presence of Polystratus, 348; body sent to his mother, 350; quoted,

310 f., 350 f.
Dareius (4), oldest son of Artaxerxes II., proclaimed successor to the throne, XI. 188f.; plots death of Artaxerxes, is detected and put to death, 196 f.
Daric, Persian coin, IV. 240

Darius, see ‘‘ Dareius."’

Dascylitis, lake near Cyzicus, 11. 500

Dassaretis, in Illyria, x. 330

Datis, sent by Darius to subdue Hellenes, II. 224
Daunians, plunder Pyrrhus’ baggage at Asculum, IX. 416
Day, white, III. 78

Debts, cancelled in Athens by Solon, 1. 442, 570; debtor class championed by M. Manlius, II. 186; VII. 418; IV. 348; 11.5323 VII. 452; 470; 556; 1x. 140
Decadarchies, instituted in Asia by Lysander, IV. 242, 266, 268
Deceleia, fortified on advice of Alcibiades, IV. 62; 98; 252
Dechas, death chamber of prison at Sparta, x. 44
Decimation, what it is, IX. 2263; IIL. 342
Decrees, Il. 18, 204, 244, 280, 444, 458, III. 28, 68, 84, 88, 210, 252, Ivy. 42, 96, 254, 270, 318, Vv. 354, VI. 10, VII. 48, 68, 146, 168, VIII. 222, 230, IX. 32
Deianeira, I1I. 70

pelenes (1), married Peirithoiis, 1. 6 Deidameia (2), daughter of Aeacides, sister of Pyrrhus, wife of Demetrius, IX. 58, 348, 354; mother of

Alexander, 134; 72; dies, 78, 362
Deidius, brings in head of elder of Pompey's sons, VII. 572
Deimachus, father of Autolycus, II. 544
Deinarchus (1), Corinthian, denounced Demades to Cassander, VII. 78; put to death by Polysperchon, VIII. 222
Deinarchus (2), served under Timoleon in Sicily, VI. 312, 320
Deinias, with Aristotle the logician, slays Abantidas, XI. 6; cited, 66
Deinocrates, Messenian, induces Messene to revolt from Achaean league, captures Philopoemen, X. 306, 370; executes Philopoemen, commits suicide, 314
Deinomache, daughter of Megacles, mother of Alcibiades, IV. 2
Deinon, cited, VII. 332, x1. 128, 140, 146 f., 154, 170, 172, 178
Deioneus, son of Eurytus the Oechalian, I. 18
Deipnophoroi, women who took part in procession of Oschophoria; why so called, I. 50
Deirades, Athenian deme, IV. 70

Deiotarus, Galatian, guest-friend of Cato's father, welcomes Cato, who refuses his gifts and leaves soon, VIII. 260f.; meets Crassus, III. 364; flees with Pompey, V. 308; deserts to Octavius, Ix. 280
AcxaBovoy (ten oxen), origin of term as referring to money, I. 54
Delium, has temple of Apollo, IV. 396; battle of, Athenians defeated, 18, 316, III. 226
Dellius, sent by Antony to bring Cleopatra to him in Cilicia, 1X. 190f.; 272 Delos, island, athletic contests instituted there by Theseus, I, 44;

Confederacy of, 11. 2903 III. 216
Delos, mountain near temple of Apollo Tegyraeus, V. 378
Delphi, visited by Lycurgus, I. 216; has perpetual fire, that went out 3 times, 338; where 7 wise men once met, 412; had golden tripod and bowl sent by Croesus, 414; its records cited, 430, 472; had treasury of Acanthians, IV. 234; 280; I1. 114; seized by men led by Philomelus and Onomarchus
VI. 334; 428
Delphi, oracle of, t. 52; told Theseus to found city where he found himself full of sorrow, 60, 82;
180; 216; 220; 294; 3183; 424; 428;
438: 15.28; 1023 246; VII. 260; Xr.
120 Delphians, freed from Phocians by Spartans, II. 456; dispossessed of sanctuary at Delphi by Spartans, restored by Athenians, III. 62 Delphinium, contains enclosure where house of Aegeus stood, I. 24, 34
Demades, his character and ability,
VII. 20, 24, 30, VIII. 144; moves that Athenians take part in congress proposed by Philip, VIII.
180; induces Alexander to forgo demand for surrender of Demosthenes and others, VII. 56; moves sentence of death on Demosthenes, 70, VIII. 202; executed by Cas-sander, 212, VII. 78
Sayings: Draco’s laws written in blood, I. 450, VII. 28, 30, VIII.

144, 194, X. 110, XT. 208

Demaenetus, popular leader at Syra_ cuse, attacks Timoleon, VI. 348

Demaratus (1), father of Tarquin,
I. 138, 536
Demaratus (2), Spartan, wishes to wear tiara upright like Persiau kings, Ii. 80; XI. 130
Demaratus (3), Corinthian, rebukes Philip, VII. 246, 336; dies after seeing Alexander on throne of Dareius, 384; cited, Vv. 38
Demaratus (4), Rhodian, his release secured by Phocion from Alexander,
VIII. 186
Demaratus, saying, I. 268

Demaretus, with Deinarchus brought 372

Timoleon’s 2nd reinforcement from Corinth, led part of troops against Hicetas, V1. 312, 320; commands cavalry at battle of river Crimesus, 326 Demariste, Timoleon’s mother, VI.
266, 272
Demeas, son of Demades, executed by Cassander, VIII. 214
Demeter, sacrifice to, at Sparta
12th day after death of kinsman, I.
286, 422; goddess of Eleusis, IV.
60, 11. 246; temple of, near Hysiae at foot of Cithaeron, 248
 Demetria,’”? new name of festival
Dionysia, Ix. 28
Demetrias, city settled by Demetrius from small villages about Iolcus, 1X. 134; Flamininus ordered to keep it garrisoned, X. 348; had great store of arms for Parthian war, VI. 180
 Demetrias,”” new name of Sicyon,

IX. 08
Demetrias, new tribe at Athens in honour of Demetrius, IX. 26
 Demetrias,”’ new name for “ Old and New,”’ last day of month, IX. 28
Demetrion,’’ new name of month Mounychion, 1X. 28
Demetrius (1), herald of Syracuse, VI. 354
Demetrius (2), surnamed Pheido, in retinue of Alexander, VII. 382
Demetrius (3), brother of Antigonus, by some said to be the father of Demetrius Poliorcetes, IX. 6
Demetrius (4), Poliorcetes, character and lineage, rmx. 6f., VIII. 134; when 22 defeated by Ptolemy at Gaza, IX. 12; defeats Cilles, Ptolemy’s general, 14; raids Nabataean Arabs, invades Babylonia, 16; frees Athens of Demetrius Pharlereus, 18f.; frees Megara, 22; takes Munychia and razes fortress, restores to Athens ancient form of government, 24f.; marrles Eurydicé, had married Phila, 32 f.; defeats Menelaiis and Ptolemy at Cyprus, 84f.; saluted as king wlth his father, 40 Fond of building ships and engines of war, 46; takes Rhodes,

48f.; rescues Athens from Cassander, 52f.; drives his enemics out of the -Peloponnesus, proclaimed Commander-in-Chief of the Greeks, 58; defeated with his father at Ipsus by rival kings, 68 f., 380; is warned off by Athens, 72; ravages Chersonesus, 74; marries his daughter Stratonicé to

Seleucus, takes possession of Cilicia, 78; drives Lachares from Athens, 80f.; defeats Sparta twice, 84; has Alexander slain and becomes king of Macedonia, 88f., 360 f.; gets Thessaly, occupies Bocotia, 96; conquers Aetolia and ravages Epeirus, 100, 364; very ill at Pella, drives Pyrrhus out of Macedonia, 106, 370; is attacked by Seleucus, Ptolemy, and Lysimachus, deserted by his army loses Macedonia and flees to Cassandreia, 110 f., 374 f.
Sails for Asia to wrest Caria and Lydia from Lysimachus, marries Ptolemais, 116, 378; withdraws to Taurus mountains, 120; is successful against Seleucus, but falls sick and is deserted by most of his men, 122; surrenders to Seleucus, 126; is carried a prisoner to the Syrian Chersonese; died in his 55th year, 132; the children he left, 134
See also VI1. 32, IX. 354, 372

Demetrius (5), the Phalerean, brother of Himeraeus, VII. 70; had pension given to 2 descendants of Aristides, 11.296; ruled Athens for Cassander, expelled by Demetrius and given safe conduct to Thebes, IX. 18 f.; condemned to death in absentia by the Athenians, VIII. 226
Cited: 1. 276, 466 (his ‘‘ Socrates”), 11. 210, 212, 214, 226, 296, VII. 22, 24, 26, 34
Demetrius (6), the Thin, son of Demetrius Poliorcetes, rx. 134
Demetrius (7), son of Demetrius Poliorcetes and Ptolemais, ruled Cyrené, IX. 134
Demetrius (8), son of Antigonus Gonatas, marries Nicaea to help his father get the Acrocorinthus,

x1. 36; his general Bithys defeats Aratus, 76; after short rule died, leaving a son Philip in his boyhood,
V1. 372
Demetrius (9), son of Philip, sent to Rome as hostage, X. 346; executed by his father on false charge brought by his brother Perseus,
VI. 374
Demetrius (10), of Pharos, xz. 114

Demetrius (11), the Magnesian, cited,
Vil. 36, 68, 70
Demetrius (12), the Peripatetic, with Cato at Utica, VIII.396, 402
Demetrius (13), freedman of Pomper,
V. 120, 216, 264
Demetrius (14), attendant of Cassius,
VI. 226
Demo, surnamed Mania, mistress of Demetrius, IX. 54, 64
Demochares (1), of Leuconoé, relative of Demosthenes, cited, VII. 74;
bon mot re Stratocles, exiled for it,
IX. 56
Demochares (2), of Soli, called Demetrius “‘ Fable,’’ 1x. 64
Democles, beautiful Athenian youth,
Ix. 56
Democracy, favoured by maritime empire, II. 54; gains control at Athens, 450
Democrates, lover of Alcibiades, IV. 8

Democritus, as to what we ought to pray for, VI. 260
Ayjpot, play of Eupolis, 111. 8

Demoleon, accompanied Autolycus,
1. 544
Demon, cited, I. 36, 50

Demon of Paeonia, VIJ. 56; cousin of Demosthenes, brings in decree recalling him from exile, 68

Demonax, messenger of Archelatis to people of Cyzicus, II. 498
Demophilus, accuser of Phocion, slain by his son, VIII. 232
Demophon (Demophodn), son of Theseus, and Antiope, I. 64: had son Munychus from Laodicé, 78; founded city in Cyprus near river Clarius, 476
Demopolis, son of Themistocles, II. 88

Demosthenes (1), Athenian general, defeated in Aetolia, III. 226; fortified Pylos, 230; 278; arrives in Sicily with large force, makes night attack on Epipolae and is defeated, 3¢3

284, 286; with his force captured by Syracusans, 300; executed by orders of Syracusans, 306; IV. 2
Demosthenes (2), father of the orator, called the Cutler owing to his business, VII. 8, 48
Demosthenes (3), his parents and race, VII. 8; left by his father at age of 7 with estate of 15 talents, wronged by his guardians, 8; inspired by Callistratus to become an orator, 10 f.; brings suit against his guardians, 14; encouraged by Kunomus and Satyrus, 16; trains diligently in private, 16f.; did not speak off-hand, 20; copied Pericles in some things, 22; overcame indistinctness and lisping by reciting speeches with pebbles in his mouth, 26; humorous in extempore rejoinders, 28
After outbreak of Phocian war entered public life with credit, 28f.; was not a time server, but capable of being bribed, 34; prosecuted Antiphon and Theoris and had them executed, 36; wrote speeches for others, 36; persistent opponent of Philip, 38; incited Athenians to drive Macedonians out of Euboea, and to other acts against Philip, 40; after Philip took Elateia and occupied Phocis, D. advised the people to cling to Thebes, 42; arouses the allies to fight Philip, but was not brave at battle of Chaeroneia, 46 f. Rejoices publicly on death of Philip, 52; gets the Greeks to form a league once more, and raises opposition to Alexander, 54; after destruction of Thebes his surrender is demanded by Alexander, but he is pardoned at intercession of Demaides, 56 f., VIII. 182; supports Agis the Spartan in his uprising, VII. 58; successfully defends Ctesiphon against Aeschines, 58; accepts bribe from Harpalus, 60; is condemned to pay fine of 50 talents and imprisoned, escapes to Aegina, 64; on death of Alexander, supports rising against Antipater, 66; recalled from exile, 68; after defeat of Greeks at Crannon, escapes from 374

ALL THE ‘LIVES’

Athens, 70, VIII. 202; his surrender demanded by Antipater, 204; condemned to death on motion of Demades, VII. 70; dies by taking poison in temple of Poseidon at Calauria, 70 f., VIII.210 ; ishonoured after death by the Athenians, vir. 76; Plutarch’s ‘* Life of Demosthenes’’ drawn from what written or oral sources he could find, 6,

78, I. 64
See also Il. 308, VII. 56, 92, 142,

vir. 156, 160, 164, 178, rx. 384

Sayings: VII.203; 24, vill. 156;

ue 26; 28; 38; 56; 64; 68;
ries @ Orations mentioned or cited :—
Against Androtion, VII. 36 Against Aristocrates, 32, 36
Against Aristogeiton, 36 Against Meidias, 28, Iv. 24 Against Timocrates, VII. 36
Concerning Halonnesus, 24
For the Immunities, 32, 56
For Phormion, 36
On the Crown (71f), $:
(132 f.), 34; 32: 38
On the False Embassy, 38
Philippics, 32
 Demosthenes, Roman," term applied to Cato the Elder, 11. 312 Demestratus, moved that generals on Sicilian expedition have full powers, III. 252, IV. 46
Denarius, its value, why so called, II. 124
Densus, Sempronius, only centurion to defend Galba, x1. 264
Dercetaeus, one of Antony's body guard, IX. 314
Dercyllidas, Spartan general, being a bachelor, snubbed by young man, / a. waged war on Persians, XI.
Dercyllus, Athenian general, attempts to arrest Nicanor, VIII. 218
*"De Senectute,"' by Cicero, 11. 352, X. 374
Deucalion (1), with Pyrrha said by some to have established sanctuary at Dodona and dwelt among Molossians, IX. 346 Deucalion (2), son of Minos, demanded surrender of Daedalus:

slain by Theseus, I. 38
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

Dexithea, mother of Romulus by Aeneas, I. 92
Dexotis, slew Megacles, companion of Pyrrhus, 1X. 398 ‘‘ Diadematus,’’ surname of one of the Metelli; why given, IV. 142
Diagoras, Olympian victor, V. 428

Dialectics, Latin terms for it provided by Cicero, VII. 184
Diamperes, gate of Argos, IX. 450

Diana, temple of, at Rome, X. 254

Dicaearchia, opposing factions in it reconciled by Sulla, and code of laws prescribed, Iv. 440
Dicaearchus, I. 44, 74, V. 52

Dicomes, king of Getae, promised to help Antony, Ix. 280 Dictator, what he was, how appointed, etymology of the name, II. 134, 170, 111. 126, Vv. 504; for-bidden by ancient law to use horse in the field, 111. 126; Tx. 156 Dictators: Fabius Buteo, 2nd dictator with M. Junius, Im. 146;
Caesar, VII. 130, 532, Ix. 156;
2nd time, VII. 562; Camillus, IT.
104; 2nd time, 158,170; 3rd time,
180; 4th time, 194; 5th time, 94,
198; Quintus Capitolinus, 186;
Fabius Maximus, III. 126 f.; Quin-
tus Fulvius, Vv. 504; M. Junius, Ill. 146; Minucius, Vv. 446; Sulla, 1v. 430; Postumius Tubertus, IT.
96 Dictius, praetor, sends Sertorius as military tribune to Spain, VIII. 6
Didyma, plundered by pirates, v. 174

Didymus, grammarian, made reply to Asclepiades re Solon’s tables of law, I. 404
*‘ Dies Alliensis,” named from disaster at river Allia, 1%. 136, 140
Dies nefasti, some examples of, II.
136, 560
Dieutychidas, cited, I. 206

Dindymene, mother of the gods, warns Themistocles, II. 82
Dinon, see ‘‘ Deinon.”’

Diocleides, informer against Alci-
biades, IV. 54
Diocles (1), ruler of Megarians, lost
Elensis to Theseus, I. 20
Diocles (2), son of Themistocles, adopted by his grandfather Lysander, II. 88
Diocles (3), Syrian, helps Aratus capture the Acrocorinthus, XI.
40 f.
Diocles (4), of Peparethus, source for Fabius Pictor, gives most generally accepted story of Romulus and founding of Rome, I. 96; first se publish ‘‘ Founding of Rome,” 9

Diodorus (1), the Topographer, cited,
I. 84; ‘*On Tombs,”’ II. 88; 450
Diodorus (2), son of Sophax, Libyan king, had army of Olbianians and Mycenaeans, VIII. 24
Diogeiton, Theban leader against Alexander of Pherae after death of Pelopidas, v. 430 Diogenes (1), of Sinope, has verbal encounter with Dionysius the Younger, VI. 296; his reply to Alexander, VII. 258; had Onesi-critus as a follower, 408
Diogenes (2), guardian of Peiraeus,

XI. 76; bribed to give up Peiraeus, Munychia, Salamis, and Sunium to Athenians, 78
Diogenes (3), Stoic, sent by Athens as ambassador to Rome, II. 368 Diogenes (4), step-son of Archelatis, fell at Orchomenus, IV. 394 Diogenes, adopted Lycurgus' design for a civil polity, 1. 300; cited,
III. 148
Diomedes (1), son of Emathion, sent Romus from Troy, I. 92
Diomedes (2), friend of Alcibiades, shabbily treated by him, IV. 26
Dion, disciple of Plato, VI. 2, 8f., II. 212; brother of Aristomache, loved and trusted by Dionysius the Elder, VI. 6f.; impresses Dionysius the Younger, 12f.; envied by the other courtiers, 14 f.; attempts to interest Dionysius in liberal studies, 18f.; joins in inviting Plato to Sicily, 22; opposed by Philistus and others, 24f.; expelled from Syracuse, 30;
studies with Plato in the Academy at Athens, 32; made citizen of Sparta, 34; has his income stopped by Dionysius, 36; his estate confiscated by Dionysius, 40; becomes altogether hostile to him, 42 Plans war, 44; not deterred by eclipse of moon sails with expedition against Dlonysius, 48f., Ill. 290; reaches Pachynus, head-land of Sicily, v1. 52; lands and is entertained at Minoa, 54; joined by men of Agrigentum and Gela, 56; joined by Camarinaeans, 58;

enters Syracuse, and issues proclamation, takes Epipolae and walls off the acropolis, 60f.; negotiates with Dionysius, 62 f.; repulses attack from the citadel, 64f.; is suspected by Syracusans, 68f.; opposed by Heracleides, 70f.; in vain slandered by Sosis, 72f.; receives offer of surrender from Dionysius, 78 Opposed by Hippo and Heracleides, 80; retires from Syracuse to Leontini, 84; is summoned from Leontini to rescue Syracuse, 88; drives troops of Apollocrates back into the acropolis, 94 f.; pardons Heracleides and Theodotes, 98; opposes redistribution of land and houses, 102; is defeated by Pharax at Neapolis, 102; hurries back to Syracuse and forestalls Heracleides and (Gaesylus, 104; receives surrender of acropolis from Apollocrates, 106; takes back his wife Arete, 108; lives simply but through haughtiness becomes unpopular, is opposed by Heracleides once more, 110f.; allows Heracleides to be murdered, 112, 312; is plotted against and murdered by Calippus, 114 f., 262, III. 260

See also 11. 212, VI. 248, 460
Quoted: VI. 12, 36, 90
Dionassa, 2nd wife of Eunomus, mother of Lycurgus, I. 206
Dionysia, festival, called Demetria in honour of Demetrius, IX. 28
Dionysius (1), the Elder, very suspicious, kept his son shut up, VI. 18; composed lyric poems and tragedies, 296; account of women he married and early troubles, 6; pardoned frankness of his sister Theste, 44; banished Philistus, 24; executed children of Aristides

the Locrian, 274; aided by the Spartans, V. 420; honours and 376 trusts Dion, hears Plato and is angered, VI. 6f.; sends Plato away, requests Pollis to kill or sell him, 10; his children and death, 12; his funeral, v. 428

See also 1. 458, IV. 236
Quoted: vir. 10, 12, 16
Dionysius (2), the Younger, son of Doris, VI. 6; married Sophrosyne, 12; offered help against Carthage by Dion, 14; kept secluded by his father, 18; urged by Dion to invite Plato to Sicily, 20; invites Plato to Sicily, recalls Philistus from exile, 22; becoming suspicious, sends Dion to Italy; finally sends Plato away, 30; ally of Sparta against Thebes, 34; jealous of Dion, confiscates his property; induces Plato to come to Sicily again, then dismisses him, 36; absent when Dion's expedition arrives, returns to Syracuse, negotiates with Dion and the Syracusans, then suddenly attacks, 54f.; is driven back to the acropolis, 64; sends letter to Dion, 68; offers to surrender conditionally; being refused, sails away, leaving citadel in charge of his son, 80, 262, 340, III. 290; in 10th year of his exile drives out Nisaeus, and becomes tyrant of Syracuse once more, VI. 262; defeated by Hicetas and shut up in acropolis, 280; surrenders to Timoleon; spends rest of his life in Corinth, 290 Quoted: 26, 40, 294 f.
Dionysius (3), Colophonian, his pictures seem forced and laboured, VI. 346

Dionysius (4), sent from Corinth to establish clvil polity of Syracuse, VI. 320
Dionysius (5), Messenian, executed by Alexander, VII. 428
Dionysius (6), Syrian, brother of Diocles and Erginus, x1. 44
Dionysius (7), Chalcus, his poems extant; founded Thurif, 111. 224
Dionysius (8), Magnesian, taught Cicero oratory, VII. 90
Dionysius (9), of Halicarnassus, cited, I, 138; (*Antiq. Rom.'" S, 2), tv. 2203; 1x. 400; 414

Dionysius, pattern deity of Demetrius, IX. 8; cited, XI. 208
Dionysodorus, of 'Troezen, cited, XI. 2 Dionysus, marrled one of the two adnes, and begot Staphylus,

I. 42; with Ariadne honoured in festival of Oschophoria, 50, II. 114; 378; 408; 410; 462; 111.216; beneficent deeds of, IV. 308; mortal who became immortal, V. 378; called Euius and Thriambus by Greeks, 496; orgies of, practised by Macedonian women, VII. 226, 258; had Gynaeceia as one of his mothers, 462; his figure in '' Battle of the Giants' at Athens blown down, IX, 274
Dionysus Carnivorous, receives sacrifice of 3 Persian youths before Salamis, IF. 40, 238, V. 392
''Dionysus, New,'' term Antony applied to himself, Ix. 274
Diophanes (1), general of Achaean League, invades Laconia, X. 300; kept out of Sparta by Philopoemen, 390; 368

Diophanes (2), rhetorician, exile from Mitylene, said to have urged Ti. Gracchus to attempt agrarian reform, X. 160; executed after death of Ti. Gracchus, 192
Diophantus, of deme Amphbitropé, said to have prosecuted Aristides for taking bribe, 11. 294
Diopeithes (1), introduced bill for impeachment of those not believing in gods, III. 92
Diopeithes (2), cites oracle against claims of Agesilatis to throne, IV. 294, V. 6
Diopeithes (3), Athenian general, VII. 214, VIII. 160
Dioscorides, writer of treatise on Spee civic polity, cited, 1. 236, Vie 9
Dioscuri (Tyndaridae, Castor and Pollux) demanded their sister Helen of Theseus, I. 70; stormed Aphidnae, then received into Athens, 74; initiated into Eleusinian mysteries ; adopted by Aphidnus, honoured as gods and called Anakes, 76, 352; appeared on Lysander's ship, IV. 260; golden stars of, set up at VOL, XI,

AGG THE "LIVES"

Delphi by Lysander, disappear before Leuctra, 280; sacrificed to by Alexander, VII. 368; called princes of Sparta, X. 358; seen in Rome after defeat of Tarquins, VI. 420; seen in forum after battle of Lake Regillus; Ides of July consecrated to them, IV. 124; temple of, in Samothrace, VI. 418; in forum at Rome by fountain, Iv. 124, 350, VIII. 298; decorated by Caecilius Metellus, V. 120
Diphilus (1), priest of Saviour-gods

at Athens, IX. 114
Diphilus (2), (Kock II. 576), III. 208

Diphridas, ephor of Sparta, orders Agesilaiis to invade Boeotia immediately, Vv. 44
Diploma, what it was, XI. 222, 280

Dipylum, originally called Thriasian gates, III. 86, IV. 370
Disaster, natural, ancient deluge, IV. 372; at Alban lake, I. 98
Diseases: gout, its symptoms, IV. 408; ulceration of bowels and being eaten by worms, afflicted Sulla and others, 438; boulimia, theories as to cause of, VI. 180; cataract, endured by Timoleon, 350; quinsy, VII. 62; epileptic fits, of Caesar, 482; pleurisy of Marius, 1X. 592
Dithyrambic chorus, VII. 308

Dium, city where Alexander met Demetrius, Ix. 86
Divorce, Hipparete applies for one from Alcibiades, IV. 20; decrees of Romulus concerning, I. 160; none at Rome for 230 years, 198; of Cloelia by Sulla, tv. 344; of Clodla and Servilia by Lucullus, II. 594; of Antistia by Pompey, V. 134; of Mucia by Pompey, 226; of Papiria by Aemilius Paulus, VI. 366
Docimus, strives for chief command under Eumenes, VIII. 102
Dodona, sanctuary there, sald to have been established by Deucalion ane Pyrrha, Ix. 3463 IV. 304; VIII. 20
Dodonaean Zeus, oracle of, 11. 76

Doe, white, of Sertorius, VIII. 28, 54

Dog, of Xanthippus, had tomb av

Salamis, 11. 30, 460
Dolabella (1), Gn. Cornelius, Sulla’s legate, Iv. 414, 420; had naval command, which Sulla tried to take away from him, 448; impeached by Caesar, acquitted, VII. 448
Dolabella (2), P. Cornelius, disgraces Caesar by his madness, VII. 562; introduces law for abolition of debts, opposed by Antony, IX. 156 f., 160; objected to by Antony as colleague in consulship, 162; VI. 130; accused of plotting against Caesar, 140, VII. 588, IX. 164; went to Syria without Cicero, VII. 190; vI. 180
Dolabella (3), P. Cornelius, acts for Caesar Augustus, IX. 324
Dolabella (4), favoured for emperor by some, XI. 254; sent away by Otho to Aquinum, 286
Doliola, name given place in temple of Quirinus where jars of Vestals were buried, II. 144
Dolo, what it is, X. 168
Dolopians, inhospitable and savage, refused to give up bones of Theseus, I. 82; driven from Scvros by Cimon, who sent bones of Theseus to Athens, II. 428; harried by Macedonians, X. 364 Domitian, changed names September and October to Germanicus and Domitianus, I. 370; built 4th temple of Jupiter Capitolinus, 540f.; learns of the defeat of the rebel Antonius, VI. 420 f.
Domitius, see ‘‘ Ahenobarbus’”’ and ‘* Calvinus.”’ Doors, of house of M. Valerius alone opened outwards. Greek doors all did, I. 554

Dorians, in Asia, IIT. 56

Doris, raided by Xerxes, 11. 26

Doris, Locrian, wife of Dionysius the Elder, VI. 6; had 3 children, 12
Dorylaiis, general of Mithridates, lands at Chalcis, occupies Boeotia, is worsted in skirmish with Sulla near Tilphossium, IV. 390; slain in mutiny, 11;:522.
* Doson,”? surname given Antigonus in mockery, IV. 142, VI. 372
Dowry, Terentia brought 100,000 denarii, VII. 100 378

Cicero

Drachma,’’ original meaning of, IV, 27811; 310
Draco, laws of, repealed by Solon except one relating to homicide, I. 448; said lesser crimes deserved death, and for greater ones no heavicr penalty could be found, 450; 454
Dracontides, moves a bill that Pericles deposit his accounts of public moneys with the prytanes, etc., III. 92
Dramatic artists, assembled at Samos by Sulla, Ix. 266
Dramatic tetralogy,, had _ farcical appendage, III. 14 Dreams, II. 460, 500, 502, 506, 542, S44 111.) 8: 44.5390, TV.) 1127 776. 288, 352, 414, 440, Vv. 14, 170, 198, 292, 306, 390, 392, VI. 4, 116, 170, 206, 218, 234, 276, VII. 72, 84, 194,

226, 292, 368, 544, 590, 602, VIII. 94, IX. 10, 68, 172, 374, 442, x. 64, 198
Dress, If. 518, 536, IV. 236, 376, IX. 98, 262
Dromichaetes, treated Lysimachus, his captive, homanely, IX. 132
Dromocleides, Sphettian, Ix. 32; proposes that Piraeus and Munychia be handed over to Demetrius, 84
Drusus (1) Livius, criticizes C. Gracchus, X. 148; tribune, tries to weaken O. Gracchus, 214; 220
Drusus (2) Livius, uncle on mother's side, reared Cato the Younger, his brother Caepio, sister Porcia, half-sister Servilia, VIII. 236, 238
Drusus (3), son of Livia, step-son of Octavius, married to Antonia, progenitor of Germanicus and Claudius, IX. 332
Dryad, VII. 462

Duris, Samian, descendant of Alcibiades, IV. 92; credibility as historian attacked by Plutarch, II1. 78
Cited = 111. 78,.. TV. 93, 280, oy,

6, VII. 46, 56, 260, 356, VIII. 78, 152, 184
Dyme, city of Achaean League, XI. 24; Achaeans defeated there by Cleomenes, X. 80; XI. 108; given to pirates as residence by Pompey, Vv. 186

Dyrrhachium, 1V. 408; VII. 164; V. 278; Caesar driven from it by Pompey, VII. 480; 180
Karthquake, at Sparta, I. 292, II. 452, IV. 66; at Athens, III. 244; during battle of lake Thrasymené, 124; VII. 164

Eebatana, in Media, V. 38, 416, VII. 34, 424, XI. 192
Eedelus, Arcadian of Megalopolis, friend of Aratus, XI. 10, 16
Ecdemus, Megalopolitan, made tutor of Philopoemen; his career, X. 256
Echecrates, prophet-priest of oracle of temple of Apollo Tegyraeus, V. 378
Echecratides, sophist, liberated by Alexander on request of Phocion, VIII. 186
'* chedemia,'' early name of Academy; named after Echedemus, I. 74
Echedemus, in army of Dioscuri, gave name KEchedemia to what was afterwards called Academy, 1216

Echidna, fabled serpent, III. 418

Kclipses, I. 120, II. 288 f., 290, 292, V. 46, 420, VI. 40, 48, 56, 400, VII. 316
Ecnomum, in Sicily, V1. 56

Economy, domestic, taught by Cato the Elder, 11. 390
Ecphanes, father of Mandrocleidas, x. 14
Ecprepes, ephor, cut out 2 of 9 lute-strings of Phrynis, the musician, X. 24
Ecregma, in Egypt, 1X. 142

Edessa, in Macedonia, rx. 106, 370; where Lysimachus attacked Pyr-rhus, 380
'* Editia,'' possibly at base of "' phi-ditia,'' I. 236
Edonian women, about Mt. Haemus, Vil. 228
Education, Spartan, I. 244f., 396, V 2; Athenian, IV. 8, 16; 11. 118;

Roman, I. 396; Cato the Elder's education of his son, II. 360; Aemilius Paulus' education of his children, VI. 370; of Spanish boys by Sertorius, VIII. 38; 111. 318
Egeria, goddess, consorted with Numa Pompilius, 1. 316, 332; 350; 360
Egestaeans, descendants of Trojans, aided by Athenians, III. 210; 250
Egypt, revolts against Persia with Athenian aid, II. 84; 460f.; III. 62; XI. 184; 11. 474 f.; VII. 180

Egyptians, think Lycurgus visited them and copied some features of his constitution from them, I. 214; 318; Ix. 142
' Eight,'' as first cube and double first square, represents power of Poseidon, I. 86
Eion, city on banks of Strymon, taken from Persians by Cimon and the land given Athenians, II. 422 f.
Eirens, young men at Sparta, 20 years old, 2 years out of class of boys; their duties, I. 258
Hiresione, what it is, 1. 46

'ExaropBovoy, (100 oxen), origin of term as referring to money, I. 54
Elaea, its revenue offered Phocion by Alexander, VIII. 186; II. 484
Elaeus, in Chersonese, IV. 254

Elatea, plains of, IV. 374

Elateia, surprised by Philip, VII. 42; VIII, 222
Elatus, first ephor, in reign of Theopompus, I. 224
Elea (Velia), on coast of Italy, VI. 176, 456
Eleans(Eleians), secede from Lacedaemonians, and make alliance with Athens, III. 244, IV. 36; X. 56; helped by Cleomenes, 58; have Langon restored to them by Cleomenes, 80 “ Electra,’? of Euripides (v. 167 f.), cited, IV. 272 ‘Elegies,’ of Critias (Bergk I1.

279f.), cited, IV. 96
Eleius, twin son of Cimon and woman of Arcadia, II. 450, III. 82 Elephants, VII. 296; used by Pyrrhus in Italy, 1x. 414, 428; used by Hannibal and routed, v. 508
Elephenor, son of Chalcodon, accompanied by sons of Theseus to Ilium,
I. SOf.
Eleusis, taken by Theseus from the Megarians, I. 20, 68, 70, II. 42, 246; sanctuary of mysteries at;
by whom built, 111. 40, 86 ; mysteries 379 of, profaned by Alcibiades, it is charged, Iv. 48; festal rites of, described; celebrated by Alci-biades, 98; V. 374; captured by Demetrius, [X. 80

Eleutherae, I. 68

Eleutheria, celebrated at Plataea every 4th year, II. 278 Elimiae, battle of; Hostilius repulsed by Perseus, VI. 376 Elis, detached from Spartan confederacy by Thebes, V. 396
Elpinicé, Cimon’s sister, her tomb,
II. 412; scandal about her, 414,
450; gets Pericles not to press charge of treason against Cimon, 448, III. 30; quoted, 80
Elymaeans, kings of, send ambassadors to Pompey, V. 208 Elysian Field, of which Homer sang, believed to be the Atlantic Islands,

Villee
Emathion, father of Diomedes, I. 92

Embalming, Agesilaiis' body enclosed in melted wax instead of honey, Vv. 112; 922
Embassies: III. 216, 242, 244, 250, IV. 34, 66, 144, 180, 194, 238, 248, V. 416, VI. 386, VII. 38, 40, 42, 56, TX. 406
Embezzlement, II. 220, III. 90

Empedocles, on effect of love and hate, Ix. 12
Empylus, rhetorician and housemate of M. Brutus; wrote account of Oaesar's murder called '' Brutus,"' VI. 130
Enarsphorus, son of Hippocoén, sought to carry off Helen when still a child, 1. 72
Endeis, daughter of Sciron and Chariclo, mother of Peleus and Telamon, I. 20
Endymion, story of, among Arcadians, resembles that about Numa and Egeria, I. 316
Engyium, city of Sicily, brief description and history of, v. 488
Enna, city of Sicily, v. 488

Enyalius, temple of, on Salamis, erected by Solon, I. 426
Epaminondas, his family, poverty, character, generalship, II. 212, Vv. 346 f., VI. 344f., VIII. 150; saves life of Pelopidas at Mantineia, v. 380

350; suffered by Spartans to remain in Thebes when other popular leaders were outlawed, 352; urges Theban youth to vie with Spartans in wrestling, 356; comes to aid of Theban exiles with armed following, 368; introduces Pelopidas and his companionsto Theban assembly, 370; decides to fight Cleombrotus, 388; his tactics at Leuctra, 394; as boeotarch with Pelopidas invades Peloponnesus, defeats Athenians while returning, brought to trial for prolonging command, acquitted, 396; opposed politically by Menecleidas, 400; with allies ravages Laconia, and challenges Agesilatis to battle, 84; busy in Peloponnesus, 404 ;sent to Thessaly, rescues Pelopidas and Ismenias, 414; builds Messene, repulsed by Agesilaiis before Sparta, slain at Mantineia, 94, IV. 452; buried at public expense, III. 1963 V. 78.

See also 11. 324, 394, IV. 228, xX. 260, 292, XI. 42
Quoted: I. 242, IV. 126, Vv. 76, 348, 492

Epaphroditus, freedman of Octavius Caesar, IX. 316
“ Epaphroditus,”’ official title adopted py Sulla in writing to Greeks, IV. 434
Eperatus, general of Achaeans, XI. 110
Ephesians, honour Alcibiades, IV. 26; defeat Athenians under Thrasyllus 84; made prosperous by Lysander ; headquarters of Persian generals, 238; Ix. 270
Ephesus, naval battle near it won by Lysander over Athenians under Antiochus, IV. 104, 242; X. 382; 11. 542; 650; assembly point for Antony’s navy, IX. 264
Ephetai, Draco addresses himself to them in cases of homicide, I. 454 Ephialtes (1), in trying to dethrone Council of Areiopagus, opposed by Cimon, II. 436; 444; acting for

Pericles, broke power of Council of Areiopagus, 450, II. 20; 263; II.
454; his character, career, manner of death, 30 f.
Ephialtes (2), Athenian leader whose surrender was demanded by Alexander, VII. 56

Ephialtes, put in fetters by Alexander for announcing the absconding of Harpalus, VII. 346
Ephors, established as curb upon oligarchy at Sparta 100 years after Lycurgus in reign of Theopompus, I.
224; 290; 296; bribed by Themistocles, II. 52, 244, 420; hold office for year only, V. 8, 10; how their power increased, X. 70
phorus, cited, 11. 72, 138, 440, 442,
II. 78, Iv. 94, 304, 318, Vv. 380,
Vi. 76, 78, 270
Epicharmus, comic poet of school of 7 a Salen I. 334; cited, 334, 42

Epicles, of Hermione, harpist, 11.14
Epicrates (1), of deme Acharnae, IT.
66 Epicrates (2), shield-bearer of Tima-goras, V. 418
Epicurus (1), one accusers, VIII. 232
Epicurus (2), 11. 612, V1. 206, VII. 596;
during siege of Athens maintained lives of associates by distributing beans, IX. 82, 408
Epicydes, son of Euphemides, popular leader bought off by Themistocles, 11.16
Epicydidas, br ngs Message to Agesilatis, v. 38
Epidamuus, VI. 180.

Epidaurus, besieged by Pericles, III. 102; joined Achaean league, XI. 54; taken over by Cleomenes, X. 90, 94; sacred treasures, of, used by Sulla, Iv. 362; temple of Asclepias there, V. 174
Epigethes, prominent citizen of Pellené, X1. 72
Epigonus, tyrant of Colophon, arrested by Lucullus, 11. 478
Epilycus, Tisander's father, 11r. 104

Epimenides, of Phaestus, considered by some one of 7 wise men, I. 432
Epipolae, part of city of Syracuse, III. 266, 284, VI. 58, 62
Epirus, 1. 72, 11. 64, IX, 346; Pyrrhus put on its throne by Glaucias, 352, 356; devoted to Pyrrhus, 358; plundered by Demetrius, 100, 430, X. 328; overrun by Romans, X. 332; of Phocion's

pillaged by troops of Aemilius Paulus, VI. 432
Epitadeus, ephor, introduced law permitting man to give or will his estate to whomsoever he wished, x12 Epitaph, of Abrotonon, mother of Themistocles, 11.2 ; 276; of Timon, IX. 298f.
Epitimus, Pharsalian, 111. 104

"* Epitragia,"" why a surname of Aphrodité, 1. 36
Epixyes, satrap of Upper Phrygia, plots to kill Themistocles, 11. 82 Epoptae, iv. 60.
"* Epoptic,'' term applied to secret philosophical teachings, V1. 240
Erasistratus (1), father of Phaeax, Iv. 28
Erasistratus (2), son of Phacax, cited, v. 40

Erasistratus (3), physician at court of Seleucus, 1X. 92
Eratosthenes, cited, I. 204; (On Wealth) 11. 74; Vit. 22, 74, 228, 314
Erechtheus, ancestor of The-eus on father's side, 1.6; father of Meropé, grandfather of Daedalus, 38, 72
Eresos, Phanias of, 1. 496

Eretria, Plutarch expelled from it by Phocion, VIII. 172
Ergadeis, one of 4 original tribes of Attica; why so called, I. 468
Erginus, Syrian, helped Aratus take Acrocorinthus, helped in attempt on Peiraeus, XI. 40, 76
Ergoteles, waits to seize Themistocles when he lands in Asia, I1. 68
Erianthus, Theban, IV. 272

Ericius, served under Sulla, Iv. 378, 384
Erigius, friend of Alexander in his youth, banished by Philip, VII. 248
Erinyes, shrine of, at Athens, I. 450

Eros, Anthony's slave, refuses to kill him, Ix. 310
Erycina, in Sicily, 1x. 574

Eryx, taken by Pyrrhus, Ix. 418

Esquiline hill, a city-gate of Rome upon it, IV. 354
Estate, of Demosthenes, father of the orator, VII. 8; of Aeniilius Paulus, VI. 458 Eteocles, Spartan, re Lysander, tv.

4 oe

351

Ntesian winds, VI. 48

‘‘ Ethics,’"’ book by Theophrastus, 11. 110
Etruria, pacified by Marcellus, VY. 512; its cities give C. Scipio money for war in Africa, M1. 192; vil. 106
Etymocles, friend of Agesilaiis, Vv. 70

Eva, its meaning, V. 494

Euboea, governed by tyrant Tynnondas, I. 438; siezed by Athens, IiI. 20, 56; reinvaded and subdued by Pericles, 66, 200; occupied by Archelatis, VI. 358; brought under sway of tyrants by Philip, freed by Athens, VII. 40
Euboeans, fearing abandonment, send Pelagon with large sums of money to Themistocles, 11.20; III. 64; proclaimed free by Flamininus at Isthmian games, X. 350
Eubulus, Athenian, orator merely, VIII. 160
Uuchidas, fetched fire from Delphi to Plataea in one day, 1000 furlongs, II. 276
Kucleia, who she was, II. 278

Kucleidas (1), Spartan at court of Artaxerxes II., XI. 134f.
Eucleidas (2), brother of Cleomenes, chosen as colleague in kingship by him, X. 74, 248; commanded a wing at Sellasia, 114; defeated and slain, 116, 268
Encleides (1), new alphabet used after his archonship, It. 212
Eucleides (2), sent by Timoleon to receive surrender of acropolis from Dionysius, VI. 290 Euctus, Perseus’ treasurer, slain by him, VI. 416

“ Eudaemon,”’ surname of 2nd Battus Iv. 142 .
Eudamidas (1), younger son of Archidamus, succeeded his brother Agis to throne of Sparta, x. 8
Eudamidas (2), succeeded Archidamus, succeeded by Agis as king of Sparta, x. 8
Eudamus, master of elephants under Eumenes, VIII. 128
Eudemus (1), Cyprian, urges Dion to free Sicily. On death of Eudemus Aristotle wrote dialogue ‘* On the Soul,”’ v1. 46 Eudemus (2), of Pergamum, brought will of Attalus Philometor to Rome, x. 176 Eudoxus, with Archytas, originates mechanics and uses it in geometrical problems, Vv. 470

 Euergetes,”’ surname, its origin, IV. 142
 Kuius,’’ name for Dionysus, V. 496

Euius, flute-player of Alexander, VIII. 80
Eulaeus, Perseus’ treasurer, slain by him, VI. 416
Eumelus, father of Xenagoras, VI. 394
Eumenes (1), of Cardia, his family; advanced by Philip, then by Alexander, VIII. 78; often quarrels with Alexander and Hephaestion, 80 f.; given satrapy of Cappadocia, Paphlagonia, and southern coast of Euxineas far as Trapezus, 84; helped by Perdiccas to master his satrapy, sent by Perdiccas to pacify Armenia, 88; appointed, commander of forces in Armenia and Cappadocia, defeats Neoptolemus, 90; rejects overtures of Antipater and Craterus, 92; defeats and slays them, 96f.: winters at Celaenae, 102; defeated through treachery by Antigonus at sey 104; takes refuge in Nora, Besieged by Antigonus in Nora, 110f.; takes oath of fealty to Antigonus with alteration, then flees, 114f.; receives letters from Macedonia ordering him to wage war on Antigonus, 116; prevents Antigonus with loss from crossing the river Pasitigris, 120; though sick deters Antigonus from attacking, 122; though warned of plot against his life, still fights Antigonus with partial success, -126 f.5 taken prisoner by the Silver-‘shields, his own men, and given to Antigonus, 130f., who finally has -him executed, 136; 4.

Quoted, 102, 108, 152, 134
Eumenes (2), received at Rome with extravagant honours by senate, II.
324; X. 384
Eumenes, IX. 274

Eumenides, shrine of, in Athens, 1.
62

Lumolpidae, Athenian family, 1v. 60, 96
Eumolpus, rv. 368

Euneos, Athenian, brother of Thoas and Solois, with former made president and law-giver of Pythopolis by Theseus, I. 58 f.
Lunomus (1), genealogy, relation to Lycurgus, I. 206
Eunomus (2), Thriasian,
Demosthenes, VII. 16
Kunus, runaway slave who headed

Servile war in Sicily eaten of worms, IV. 440
Euphemides, Athenian,
Epicydes, 11. 16
Euphorion, father of Solon according to Philocles, 1. 404
Euphranor, engineer, exile from Syracuse, made ladders for Aratus, XI. 12
Euphrantides, seer, advises sacrificing 3 sons of Sandaucé, II. 38, 238 :
Euphrates, crossed by Clodius, 11. 534, 546, 548, 590,; crossed by Crassus, II. 364, 372
Euphronius, teacher of Antony and Cleopatra’schildren, sent by them on embassy to Caesar Octavius, IX. 302
Eupolemus, son of Hicetas, captured and executed, VI. 338 Eupolia (1), daughter of Melesippidas wife of Archidamus, mother of Agesilatiis v. 2 zope (2), daughtcr of Agesilaiis, Vv.

9

upbraids

father of

Eupolis, cited :-—
Cities (Kock 1. 315), 11. 450
Demes (Kock I. 280), Ill. 8;
at) Iv. 28; (282), ID.
7
Maricas (Kock 1. 308), 111. 220
Euripides, died and buried at Arethusa in Macedonia; his tomb struck by lightning, 1. 302; knowledge of his poetry saved some Athenian prisoners at Syracuse, III. 308; Alexander of Pherae greatly affected by “‘ Trojan Women,” Vv. 414; some of his plays sent to Alexander, Vil. 242; ‘* Bacchae’’ being given before Hyrodes when head of Crassus is brought in, III. 420 Plays cited :—

Andromaché (587f.), 1. 392 ; (683), VII. 372
Bacchae (4f.), rx. 1145; (8), I. 4043 (260), VII. 378; (310 f.), X. 168; (1170-72), 111. 420; (1179), 422
Electra (167), 1V. 272
Epinikion (Bergk 11. 266), Iv.. 26
Epitaph (Bergk II. 265), 111. 268
See also 1V. 4, Vil. 2
Erechtheus Nauck (474), 111. 238
Hercules Furens (173 f.), VIII. 362
Iphigeneia at Aulis (445 f.), III. 224
Licymnius (Nauck 607), V. 492
Medeia (215), VI. 3383; (334), 249
Orestes (129), IV. 64
Phoenissae (68), 1X. 370; (396), 343 (517f.), 386; (524f.), II. 4343 (532 f.), IV. 332
Suppliants (653 f.), 1. 66; (863), V. 346; (1213), 68
Trojan Women (766), V. 38
Unidentified (Nauck 473), II. 414; (474), 111. 238; (652), VII. 378; (671), V. 308; (679), III, 168, V. 528, IX. 336; (68V), I. 28, 464
Eurotas river, supplied rushes for pallct-beds of Spartan boys, I. 258; Vv. 50; crossed by Thebans under Ipaminondas, V. 88, 396; 382
Eurybiades, Spartan, humoured and bribed by Themistocles at Artemis-jum, II. 20; wishes to abandon Salamis, 234; worsted in wordy encounter with Themistocles, 32; given lst prize for valour by Spartans, 48
Eurycleidas, messenger of Cleomencs,

X. 64
Eurycleides, with Micion prevents thenians from helping Aratus, XI. 94
Eurycles (1), his proposal as to treatment of the captive Athenians adopted by Syracusans, IJ. 30+
Eurycles (2), Laconian, son of Lachares, pursues Antony’s ship at Actium, Ix. 288
Eurydicé (1), sister of Phila, wife of Ptolemy, gives daughter Ptolemais in marriage to Demetrius, rx. 116
Eurydicé (2), widow of Opheltas, 383 descendant of ancient Miltiades, married by Demetrius, IX. 32; mother of Corrhagus, 134

Eurylochus, of Aegae, soldier of Alexander, VII. 346

Kurymedon, battles of, 11. 440

Eurymedon, brings Niclas money from Athens, III. 278
Eurypon, Spartan king, gave name to royal line because popular, I. 208
Eurypontids, a house of the Heracleidae, royal line at Sparta, 1. 208, Iv. 300, 318, V. 328; Agis one, X. 8
Euryptolemus, father of Isodicé, tl. 416; son of Megacles, 452; kinsman of Pericles, 111. 18; of Alcibiades, IV. 94
Eurysaces, son of Ajax, with his brother Philaeus became Athenian citizen and made over Salamis to Athens, I. 426; founder of Alcibiades’ family, IV. 2 Euterpé, Carian, wife of Neocles and mother of Themistocles according to Phanias, II. 2

Euthippus, of Anaphlystus, friend of Cimon, slain at Tanagra, II. 458
Euthydemus, colleague of Nicias, III. 278; with Menander defeated by Syracusans, 280
Euthymus, Leucadian, defeated by Gisco, VI. 334; Hicetas' master of horse, captured and executed, 338
Euthynus, Thespian according to Callisthenes, warns Agesilaiis, V. $6.
Eutychus, his name of good omen to Octavian, IX. 284
Euxine sea, expedition to, by Pericles, 111.60; northern limit of Eumenes' territory, VIII. 84; 11.482; boundary of territory of Iberians, v.°204; 206
Evalcus, Spartan, slain by Pyrrhus, Ix. 448
Evander (1) Arcadian, husband of Carmenta or Nicostrat¢é, I. 156; came to Italy, 124
Evander (2), Cretan, remains with Perseus in his flight, VI. 416
Evander's hill, near Messené, x. 308

Evangelus ()), Pericles' steward, most economical, III. 52
Evangelus (2), his ' Tactics ''* studied by Philopoemen, xX. 264
Evanthes, Samian, cited, I. 430

Exathres, brother of Dareius, admitted

334 as companion of Alexander, VII. 352

Execestides, father of Solon, descended from Solon, I. 404
 Exegetics,' work of Autocleides, I11. 292
Exhibitions, choral and gymnastic, given by Nicias to win favour, III. 214

Expedition, Sicilian, 111. 250f., Iv.
44 f.
Exports, from Athens, I. 470

Fabia, sister of Terentia, Cicero's wife, slandered by Clodius, VIII. 278
Fabii, origin of the family, 111. 118;
3 men of, sent as ambassadors to Gauls, denounced by the Fetiales, Ae f.; 300 of,slain by Tuscans, Fabius (1), founder of family of Fabii,
II. 118
Fabius (2), pontifex maximus, with the other priests and aged ex-rn refuses to leave Rome, II.
Fabius (3), great-grandfather of Fabius Cunctator, 5 times consul, served as legate under his son when latter was consul, III. 1&8 Fabius (4), son of preceding, consul, celebrated triumph, III. 188 Fabius (5), pro-praetor, sent grain from Spain to Rome, x. 210 Fabius (6), Lucullus' legate, defeated by Mithridates, I1. 584
Fabius Ambustus, see '' Ambustus, Q. Fabius."'
Fabius Buteo, dictator with Marcus
Junius after Cannae, III. 146
Fabius Fabulus, said to have slain
Galba, X1. 266
Fabius Maximus (1) Cunctator Verrucosus, his family and character, III.
118f.; in his 1st consulship triumphs over Ligurians, 120; after defeat of Romans at lake Thrasymené appointed dictator, appcints
M. Minucius master of horse, 126; follows Hannibal but avoids battle, 130f.; pens Hannibal up in district of Casilinum, 134; lets Hannibal escape, 138; denounced at Rome for his tactics, 140;
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE 'LIVES'

rausoms prisoners at his own expense, 142; has to share power of dictatorship with Minucius, 146; rescues Minucius from disaster, who resigns his equality of command, 152f.; lays down his dictatorship, 158; urges Aemilius Paulus the consul to be cautious, 160
Calms the citizens after Cannae, 170; is put in command with Claudius Marcellus, 172; consul 5 times, escapes Hannibal's trap, 174f.; believes in treating disaffection mildly, 176 f.; recaptures Tarentum, 180f.; incurs reproach of perfidy and cruclty, 184; is honoured by his son being made consul, 186; opposes Scipio and his policy, 190f.; died at about time Hannibal set sail from Italy, 196
See also I. 308, Ill. 6, V. 456, 492, 500, 506, VII. 478
Quoted : 111.134, 152, 160, 178, 184, 186, 492
Fabius Maximus (2) son of preceding, made consul, corrects his father, III. 186; died in consulship before his father, 120, 190
Fabius Maximus (3), son of Aemilius Paulus and Papiria, VI. 364, 366; seizes pass through Perrhaebia, 392; received all of his father’s estate, 458
Fabius Valens, commander of a legion under Verginius Rufus, takes oath of allegiance to Galba, XI. 226; slew Fonteius in Germany by order of Galba, 236; first to salute Vitellius as emperor, 254; in possession of Alps, 286; his character, 290 f., 294
Fabius Pictor, kinsman of Fabius Cunctator, sent to consult oracle of

Delphi after Cannae, III. 170f; follows Diocles of Peparethus in his account of Roniulus and founding of Rome, I. 96; cited, I. 96, 112, 126
Fables related: II. 50, Iv. 130, v. 102,
VII. 56, VIII. 162
Fabricius, C., explains defeat at Heraclela, 1x.400 ; heads embassy to Pyrrhus re exchange of prisovers, 406, made consul, warns Pyrrhus of plot to poison him, 410, x. 378;
II. 386; 394; quoted IX, 408
Fabulus, ’ Fabius, see ‘* Fabius Fabulus.” * Faenum habet in cornu,” origin and significance of saying, III. 334 Faith, see “* Fides,”

Falerians, with Capenates, utterly defeated by Camillus, II. 98; conquered by Camillus, 104; attacked by Romans under Camillus, make peace with Rome, 116 f., 130 Falerli, attacked by Romans on account of insult to tribune Genucius, X. 204; besieged by Camillus, 11. 116; induced to yleld by his treatment of traitorous schoolmaster, 120, 111. 122
Faliscans, see  Falerians,"’

Famine, in Citium, 11.466; in Athens,
IV.270; 366, in Rome, I. 546
Fannia, divorced from Titinnius, befriends Marius, rx. 570 Fannius, C., says Ti. Gracchus with himself first to scale wall of Carthage
X. 152, elected consul, 212; 222
Far-darter, epithet applied to Apollo,
X. 358
Fasces, what they were, I. 172; carried before Vestals in public, 342: 528
Father, his right to sellsons curtailed

by Numa, I. 366
Faunus, demi-god, once haunted Aventine, I. 158, 358; husband of Bona according to Romans, VII. 462
Fausta, twin daughter of Sulla and Metella, Iv. 434
Faustulus, servant of Amulius, exposed children of Ilia, I. 96; reared llia's twins, 102; 108; slain with Remus, 116
Faustus, twin son of Sulla and Metella, Iv. 434: thrashed by Cassius, VI. 144; married Pompey's daughter, v. 238, 326, Vi. 474; V. 224; placarded his household goods for sale, VII. 150
Favonius, Cato's friend, last to take oath to uphold Caesar's land law, VIII. 314; VII. 496; 542; elected aedile, VIII. 348; v. 274, Vu. 5243 V¥. 290, 334; on board ship acts as 385

Pompey's valet, 306; not informed of conspiracy to murder Caesar, VI. 148f.; reconciles Brutus and Cassius at Sardis, 200
Fear, temple to, at Sparta, X. 66; signs of, XI. 68
"Febrata," ancient name of day of feast of Lupercalia, 1. 156
February, means purilication, 1. 156, 870; intercalary month called Mercedinus by Romans, 366
Fees, for public services introduced by Pericles, IJI. 24; none charged by Cato the Elder, II. 304
 Felix," title adopted by Sulla, Iv. 434 Fenestella, cited, I1I. 326

Ferentine gate, I. 166

Festival, of Adonis, described, III. 256, IV. 48; of Ceres, III. 170; Corcia, VI. 118; Dionysiac, VII. 308, IX. 28; Hyacinthia, at Sparta, 11 244; Lupercalia, VII. 584; Lysandreia of Samians, IV. 280; of The Pitchers, IX. 298; Saturnalia, license of slaves then, IV. 386; Thesmophoria, V. 3523 Iv. 390
Fetiales, priests established by Numa, their duties, I. 346, II. 132
Fever-few, grew on acropolis at Athens, IV. 366
Fidenae, people of, defeated by Romulus and taken to Rome, I. 138, 164; attacked by Veii, 168; 560 f.
Fidentia, battle there between Sulla's and Marius' men, IV. 412
Fides, temple to, erected by Numa, I. 362
Fimbria, assassinated Flaccus, IV. 364, 402, 11. 490; defeated Mithridates by land, asked Sulla to cut him off by sea, 478 f. VIII. 64, X. 384; when his soldiers go over to Sulla, commits suicide, IV. 404; II. 582 1.; quoted, 480 Fines: II. 412, 414, 111. 64, 78, 102, 226, IV. 320, 406, Vv. 4, 10, 98, 204, 412, VI. 198, VII. 64, 100.
Fire, perpetual, in Greece entrusted to widows past age of marrying; how rekindled if extinguished, 1. 338fi.; in Rome entrusted to Vestals, 838; appointed by Numa to be worshipped as first cause of all things, II. 142
356

lirmum, soldiers from, under Caic the Elder at Thermopylae, HU. 338
'* Five Thousand,' at Athens, on cetting control are remiss in waging war on Sparta, IV. 74 Ilaccus, Fulvius, see Flaecus.”’

T'laccus, Hordeonius, sent by Galba to succeed Verginius Rufus, XI.
226; 244 252.
Flaccus, Valerius (1) induced Cato the Elder to enter public life, consul and censor with him, II.
310, 330, 350; made chief senator by Cato, 350
Flaccus, Valerius (2) consul with Marius in his 6th consulship, IX.
542; chosen consul (with Cinna), crossing Ionian sea against Sulla, Ivy. 390; slain by his soldiers instigated by Fimbria, 11. 582, Iv.
364, 402
Flamen Quirinalis, added as priest of Romulus by Numa Pompilius, 1.
328 I'lamens, named from their caps called pilamenai, 1. 328, V. 446 Flamininus, L. Quintius, naval commander on his brother’s expedition to Greece, X. 328; expelled from senate by Cato the Elder, 11. 350 f., Recone ds
Flamininus, T. Quintius, statue of him at Rome, his disposition, X. 322; served as military tribune under Marcellus against Hannibal; consul before 30, and assigned: to war against Philip, 324; crosses at once to Epirus and relieves Publius Villius, 328 ; learning of secret path, forces the heights held by Philip, 330f.; joined by ‘Thessaly and Achaeans, 334; joined by rest of Greece, 336; is given extension of command, 338; defeats Philip at Cynoscephalae, 340 f., IV. 364, VI.
372, X. 292; is vexed by Aetolians, X. S44; restores Macedonia to Philip on terms, 3463; proclaims freedom to the Greeks at the Isthmian games, 350 Begins war with Nabis, tyrant of Sparta, and then makes peace with him, 358, 296; jealous of Philopoe-* Fulvius men, honoured by Achaeans and given Roman prisoners sold as slaves by Hannibal, 360; spoils of war shown at Rome, 362; made lieutenant of Manius Acilius in war against Antiochus, 364; intercedes with Manius for Naupactus, Aetolians, and Chalcidians, 366; highly honoured by Chalcidians and other Greeks, 368; made censor with son of Marcellus, makes Scipio Dean of Senate, quarrels with Cato, 372 f., 11. 356; censured for as persecution of Hannibal, x.

378 f.
See also Il. 336, 386, X. 300, 306, 316
Sayings: X. 258 f., 370 f.

Flaminius, circus of, decorated by Lucullus, I. 592 Flaminius, C., routs Insubres after receiving senate’s message of recall, Vv. 442; appointed master of horse by Minucius, 446; defeated and slain by Hannibal at Thrasymené,
II. 122
Flavius (1), military tribune under Marcellus, put elephant to flight,
v. 508.
Flavius (2), tribune, deprived of office for taking royal diadems off Caesar’s statues, VII. 584
Flavius, C., Brutus’ chief of engineers, slain at Pharsalus, vi. 240 f.
Flavius Gallus, efficient officer under

Antony, worsted by Parthians, Ix. 234
Flavius Sabinus, Vespasian’s brother, made prefect of city by Nero, later by Otho, x1. 286
Flora, courtesan, her relations with Pompey, VY. 118, 252
Florus, Mestrius, shows battlefield of othe and Vitellius to Plutarch, XI. 308 f.
‘ Yodii,”’ original form of ‘ Fabii’”’ according to some, III. 118
Fonteius, slain in Germany by Valens by order of Galba, XI. 236
Fonteius Capito, see Fonteius.”’
Forgery, by Hannibal, 111. 176

Fortune, temple of, beyond Tiber in Plutarch’s time, VI. 168.
Fortune, Women’s, temple of, erected

 Capito,

by senate after Coriolanus spared city, IV. 210
Forum Romanum, originally valley of slime there, I. 144; contained Basilica Porcia, 11.356; v. 442
Fossae Oluiliae, 5 miles from Rome, Iv. 188.
“Four Hundred,” see Thousand.”” Fregellae, v. 516; conspiracy there, xX. 202
Frentanian, IX. 398

Fufidius, creature of Sulla’s, Iv. 426; governor of Baetica, routed by Sertorius, VIII. 30
Fulcinia, mother of C. Marius, Ix. 466

“ Fulvia,’’ basilica in Rome, replaced by Paulus the consul, vil. 514 Fulvia (1) reveals plot for hig murder to Cicero, VII. 120

Fulvia (2), widow of Clodius, married to Antony, IX. 160; had daughter Clodia, 180; quarrelled with L. Antonius, then with him fought Octavius and was defeated, 196, 202; 198; died at Sicyon, 204; had son Antony, 266, 330
Fulvius, tribune, opposes T. Flamininus' candidacy for consulship, xX. 324
Fulvius Flaccus, Gu., defeated and slain in Apulia by Hannibal, v. 502
Fulvius Flaccus, M., implores Ti. Gracchus to submit question of agrarian law to senate, x. 170; 186f.; questions Scipio about death of Ti. Gracchus, 196; friend of C. Gracchus, his character and deeds, attacked by Livius Drusus, suspected of death of Scipio, commissioner with C. Gracchus for distribution of public land, 218 f.; 220; urges C. Gracchus to resist consul Opimius, 226; with his partisans . seizes Aventine-hill, 230, 232; slain with his elder son, 234, 236 f.; had been consul and celebrated triumph over Gauls, 230, 238
Fulvius Flaceus, Q., consul . with Appius, reduced Capua, III. 200; v. 504 ;
Funeral rites, Greek: regulations of Solon, I. 432, 462, 524; 11.278; at Sparta, V.112% V1. 352; vit..424
Funeral rites, Roman: regulations of Numa, I. 346; origin of custom of funeral oration, 524; 564; one to be pronounced over woman’s body, Weolet<- il, 190 “Furcifer,’ origin and meaning of term, IV. 178

Furies, grove of, X. 236

Furii, first made conspicuous by Camillus, II. 96
Furius (1), consul with Flaminius, leads forces against Insubrians, recalled, v. 442
Furius (2), legate of praetor Varinus, routed by Spartacus, III. 338
Furius, L., son of Camillus, 11. 182; colleague of Camillus in war with Praenestians and Volscians, 190; 192
Furnius, ablest orator in Rome, IX.
270 Gabené, has winter-quarters of Eumenes’ men, VIII. 124
Gabii, where Romulus and Remus were educated, I. 102 Gabinian way, Brennus defeated beside It by Camillus, 11. 166 Gabinius, A. (1), military tribune under Sulla at Chaeroneia, IV. 378 Gabinius, A. (2), intimate of Pompey, proposes law giving him almost unlimited power to wage war on pirates, V. 176; consul with Piso, 240, VIII. 216; had law written out to depose Piso from consulship, v.
182; gets province of Syria with help of Clodius, v11.156; 160; takes
M. Antony as commander of the horse to Syria with him, reluctant to help Ptolemy recover Egypt, 1X. 142; ordered by Caesar to bring his troops with all speed to Macedonia, 154
Gaesatae, V. 440; defeated at Clasti-dium by Marcellus, 446 Gaesylus, Spartan, reconciles Dion and Heracleides, VI. 10-4

‘Galata,’ later name of Mt. Acrurium.
VIII. 222
Galatia, visited by Marius, 1x. 548;
taken from Tigranes by Lucullus,
11. 510, V. 202; added to Pompey’s sway by Manilian law, 190; 1x.
276
288

Galatians, baggage carriers with Lucullus, 11. 510
Galba, slain by Caesar’s mutinous soldiers, VII. 562
Galba, C. Sulpicius (1), Sulla’s legate at Chaeroneia, IV. 384
Galba, O. Sulpicius (2), cited, 1.142.

Galba, Ser. Sulpicius (1), opposed triumph of Aemilius Paulus, VI.
434, 438; impeached by Cato the Elder, 11. 344; 386
Galba, Ser. Sulpicius (2), proclaimed emperor on persuasion of Nymphidius Sabinus, xI. 208f.; his wealth and family, 210; career and popularity under Nero, 212; invited by Vindex to assume the imperial power, 214; joined by nearly all, 216; invites Verginius to join in preserving empire, 218; informed he has been proclaimed emperor by army, senate and people, 218; secretly opposed by Nymphidius, 220f.; fears Verginius, 224; comes under influence of Vinius, 228; orders fellow-conspirators of Nymphidius to be executed, 236; becoming unpopular owing to severity and greed, 236f.; censured even for reasonable measures, 242 f.; appoints Vinius and himself consuls, 250; hated by soldiers for his stinginess, 252
On learning that Vitellius had been proclaimed emperor in Germany adopts Piso as_ his successor, 256; warned by priest Umbriclus of treachery, 258; informed that Otho has been proclaimed emperor, 262; slain by soldiers, 266; buried by Argivus, a freedman, 270; recapitulation, 270; quoted, 266. See also 286

Galepsus, near Amphipolis, v1. 416

Galley, thirty-oared of Theseus, preserved till time of Demetrius Phalereus,I. 48. Seealso ‘* Ships.”
Gallia Narbonensis, VIII. 32

Galloscythians, term applied to whole rae of Cimbrl and Teutones, 1X. 4
Gallus, Annius, commands part of Otho’s forces, XI. 288; 292; 296; 304
GENERAL INDEX TO

Gallus, C. Cornelius, sent by Octavius to help take Cleopatra alive, IX. 316
Gallus, Flavius, see ‘* Flavius Gallus.”

Games: funeral games instituted by Minos, I, 30; gymnopaediae at Sparta, V. 80; 56; 252; Isthmian, Vi. 822; X. 350; ”"Nemean, parsley used for wreath, Vie-oee* 883 284; 354; XI. 64: Olympic, IV. 24: V.343 VII. 2530; Pythian, V.50; Ix. 100
Gandarites, people of India, VII. 400

Ganges, its width and depth, VII. 400

Gardens, of Lucullus, 11.598

Gargettus, has place called Araterion,

I. 80
Garland, of oak leaves given by Romans to one who saves life of citizen, IV. 122
Gates, Dipylon, Piraic, Sacred, of Athens, IV. 370
Gaugamela, means camel’s house; actual site of battle of Arbela, VII. 316
Gaul, its extent, IX. 488; given as province to Caesar for 5 years, V. 240, VII. 474; given to Caesar for 5 more years, III. 360, V. 250, VII. 494; pacified by Verginius Rufus, XI. 224
Gaul, Cisalpine, separated from Italy by Rubicon, VII. 490; invaded by Cimbri and Teutones, who rout Romans, VIII. 6; Il. 484; revolts, VT 106s 110; held by Brutus for Lepidus, Vs 152; governed by Cassius, III. 340: governed by Brutus, VI. 138; decreed province of Brutus Albinus, 168
Gaul, Transalpine, Cimbri and Tentones defeat many large Roman armies there, Ix. 490
Gauls, of Celtic stock, early migrations and settlements, I. 408, I1. 126, 404, IX. 488; attracted to Italy by love of wine, II. 126, VI. 368; besiege Clusium, II. 128; on recognizing Fabius Ambustus, Roman ambassador among their foes, march on Rome, 132, I. 348; defeat Romans at battle of Allia, 160, 11.136; sack Rome, I. 142,184, 350, II, 148, V. 440; defeated by Ardeans led by Camillus, II. 150;
ALL CLE. * LIVES"

fail to take Capitol on account of geese, 158; suffering from plague, come to agreement with besieged on Capitol, 162; cut to pleces by

Camillus, 166; in 2nd march on Rome defeated by Camillus at the Anio, 198. Clodius in his ‘An Examination of Chronology’ says ancient records lost when Gauls sacked Rome, I. 306.
Destroy Ptolemy Ceraunus and his army, IX. 416; 426; 430f.; fight Rome after Ist Punic war, V.
436, 440 f.; defeated by Flaminius, 442,111,122; 3343 11.560; 11. 392;
rise against Caesar, are subdued,
VII. 502; XI. 242
Gaza, principal city of Syria, taken by Alexander, VII. 296; 1x. 12
Gedrosia, in Persia, VII. 410 f.

Geese, sacred, give alarm on Capitol,
II. 160
Gegania, one of two first Vestals appointed by Numa, I. 340; 394
Gela, Aeschylus’ grave near, II. 430, VI. 56; repeopled after Timoleon pacified Sicily, 344
Gelae, neighbours of Albanl and Amazons, Y¥. 208
Gelanor, king of Argos, expelled by faction, Ix. 454
Geleontes, one of 4 original Attic tribes, why so called, I. 468
Gellianus, friend of Nymphidius
Sabinus, XI. 224; 230
Gellius, L., consul, crushed Germans in Spartacus’ forces, III. 340; VIII.
252; censor, V. 170; opposed Caesar’s agrarian law, VII. 146
Gellius, M., VII. 150

Gelon (1), tyrant of Syracuse, VI. 12; defeated Carthaginians at Himera 318; sends grain to Rome, IV. 154 Gelon) plots against Py rrhus, IX

56 f

Geminins (1), of Terracina, enemy of Marius, IX. 562, 568
Geminius (2), Pompey’s friend, V.118;
by his orders slays Brutus the Elder, Vv. 154
Geminius (3), Antony’s friend, Ix. 272

Genthius, king of Illyrians, VI. 376; bribed by Perseus to imprison Roman embassy, taken by L.
Anicius, 386
389

Genucius, tribune of people, insulted
by Falerians, x. 204
Geomcetricians, VI. 26; cited, 394

Geometry, studied by Archimedes, V.
470
Geradas, Spartan,
Sparta, I, 252
Geraestus, near Aulis, V. 14

Gerandas, Spartan, slain in skirmish with Thebans, v. 402
Geraneian range, in Greece, X. 92,
SE-70
Gergithus, its revenue offered Phocion by Alexander, VIII. 186
Germanicus,” title accepted by Vitellius, XI, 254
Germanicus, descended from Drusus ane Antonia, had son Caius, IX.
Germanicus Nero, see “Nero Germanicus.”’ Germans, under Ariovistus, crushed by Caesar, VII. 488 f.; 1X. 488
Germauus,’’ earlier name of Kermalus, I. 98
Germany, ravaged for 18 days by Caesar, VII. 498
Gerontes, appointed at Sparta by Lycurgus himself, afterwards elected, I. 282

Getae, Dicomes their king, 1x. 280

pees 11.406, 420, VI. 2U6, 234, VII. 606
Giants, Battle of, group of figures at Athens, 1X. 274
Gifts: Il. 432, 530, 566, 594, III. 26, 108, 316, 350, IV. 154, 436, v. 112, 230, VII. 562, IX. 146
Gigis, maidservant of Parysatis, executed by Artaxerxes, XI. 170 f.
Gisco (1), assists Hicetas and Mamercus, VI. 334; defeated by Timoleon, 340
Gisco (2), with Hannibal, 171. 162

Glabrio, M', Acilius (1), see '' Acilius Glabrio."' Glabrio, M'. Acilius (2), his wife Aemilia taken from him by Sulla and given to Pompey, IV. 432, V.
Got had province of Bithynia, vy. 90

Glaucia, helps Marius oppose Metellus, IX. 542; drives him from Rome, IV. 446
Glaucias, king of Illyrlans, befriends

39° re adultery at infant Pyrrhus, restores him to his father's throne, IX. 350 f.

Glaucippus, son of Hypereides, spoke against Phocion, VIII. 152
Glaucus (1), Corinthian, Trojans, VI. 2
Glaucus (2), Hephaestion's physician, crucified by Alexander, VII. 424
Glaucus (3), son of Polymedes, distinguishes himself under Phocion, VIII. 172

Glaucus (4), physician, warns Dellius of Cleopatra's plot against him, Ix. 272
Glycon, moves Menon the informer be given immunity from taxation, II. 90
Gnathaemion, Argive sempstress, mother of Perseus, VI. 374, X¥. 124
Goat’s Marsh, where Romulus disappeared, I. 176, 186, 308, 11. 180: 1. 184
Gobryas, father of Ariomandes, II. 440
Gold, withdrawn from currency by Lycurgus, I, 228; scarce in Rome in Camillus’ time, 11. 114
Gomphi, city of Thessaly, takcn by Caesar, VIL. 542
*‘Gouatas,’ surname of Antigonus, Nioo 72
Gongylius, reaches Syracuse from Corinth, tells of Gylippus coming; slain, II. 274 f.
Gordium, home of ancient Midas, taken by Alexander, VII. 272
Gordius, driven out of Cappadocia by Sulla, Iv. 334
Gordyaean mountains, VII. 316

Gordyené, Zarbienus, king of, II. 534, 568, 584; invaded by Parthian king, relieved by Afranius, Vv. 208
Gordyeni, some moved to Tigranocerta by Tigranes, 11. 552; join Tigranes with their hosts, 554; join Lucullus ; the reason, 568
Gorgias (1) Leontine, cited, II. 434

Gorgias (2), officer under Eumenes, VIII. 98
Gorgias (3) rhetorician, censured by Cicero, VII. 142 Gorgidas, with armed following helps Theban exiles, vV. 368, 370; bocotarch with Pelopidas, 372;

first formed sacred band, 382; 386 ally of (jorgo, Leonidas’ wife, quoted, I.

246 Corgoleon, Spartan polemarch, slain in battle with Thebans at Tegyra,
Vv. 380
Gorgon, her head lost from image of goddess, II. 30
Gorgus, sailing from Ceos, repeopled
Gela, VI. 344
“‘Gorpiaeus,’” name of month in Cyprus, I. 42
CGortynians, in Crete, aided by Areus, Ix. 436; helped in war by Philopoemen, X. 288 f.
Gouras, Tigranes’ brother, nominal defender of Nisibis, captured by Lucullus, 11. 578
Gracchus, Ti. Sempronius (1) married
Cornelia, daughter of Scipio Africanus, X. 144, 146, 152; father of Ti. and C. Gracchus, twice consul, censor, had 2 triumphs, 144; subdued many of Spaniards, but made peace with Numantines,
154; when consul named Scipio Nasica and C. Marcius his successors, then found he had made mistake in taking auspices, V. 444; died leaving wife with 12 children,
X. 146
Gracchus, Ti. Sempronlus (2) svn of Ti. Gracchus and Cornelia, daughter of Scipio, brother of O. Gracchns, X. 144; contrasted with his brother, 146f.; made augur, becomes son-in-law of Appius Claudius, 150; served with the younger Scipio in taking Carthage,
. aS quaestor served under consul C, Mancinus against Numantia, 152 f.;

why he began to agitate for his agrarian laws, 158f.; advised by Crassus, pontifex maximus, Mucius Scaevola, jurist, and Appius Claudius, 162 f.; his bill vetoed by Octavius another tribune, introduces one more severe, ordering wrongdoers to vacate without compensation illegally acquired land, 166; his life in danger, 168; illegally has Octavius removed from office, 170f.; his agrarian bill becoming law, is chosen with Appius Clandius and his brother to survey and distribute the public land, 174; proposes that money willed Rome by king Attalus be given citizens who received public land to aid them in stocking their farms, 176; defends his course in respect to Octavius, 178 f.; stands for tribune for following year, 182; warned by Fulvius Flaccus of plan to kill him, 188; slain by mob of opponents, 190; his body thrown into river, his friends banished or executed, 192. See also 198 Gracchus, C, Sempronius (1), son of elder Ti. Gracchus and Cornelia, X. 144; Quoted, 164, 180

Gracchus, C. Sepronius (2), son of elder

Ti. Gracchus and Cornelia, X. 144; 9 years younger than his brother, 150, 198; reared with brother by his mother, 146; contrasted with his brother, 6,146; while serving under Scipio against Numantia, appointed one of 3 men to administer agrarian law of Ti. Gracchus, 174; married Licinia, 194; 196; goes as quaestor with consul Orestes to Sardinia, 198 ; canvasses for tribuneship, 202; elected 4th, introduces 2 laws, Ist, that magistrate deprived of office should not be allowed to hold office again, 2nd, that magistrate banishing citizen without trial should be prosecuted, 204f.; proposes 5 laws to gratify people and overthrow senate, 206f.: becomes very powerful, his further measures and activities, 208f.; gets C. Fannius elected consul, is made tribune again, 214; outbid by colleague Livius Drusus, 214 f.; sails off to found colony at Carthage, meanwhile further undermined. by Drusus, 218; returns in 70 days, 220; changes his residence from Palatine to near forum, opposed by consul Fannius, 222; not elected tribune 3rd time, 224; many of his laws to be revoked by consul Opimius and followers, 216; distressed by murder of consul's servant Antyllius, 226; warned of danger by his wife, 232; prevented from slaying himself by 2 companions, flees, 234; slain, his body thrown into the Tiber, his property Sor

confiscated, 236; his memory honoured by the people, 238 Wrote pamphlet explaining what induced Ti. Gracchus to undertake agrarian reform, 162, quoted, 204 f.
Gracinus, one of conspirators against Sertorius, VIII. 68
Granicus, river, where Alexander defeats Persians, II. 138, VII. 2643 where Lucullus defeats Mithridates, 11. 504
Granius (1) Marius' step-son, IX. 560; accompanies Marlus in flight, 564, 574

Granius (2), magistrate of Dicaearchia, ordered strangled by Sulla, Iv. 442
Granius Petro, quaestor in Caesar's army, taken by Scipio, kills himself, v11. 480
Staats, for festivals, by Pericles, IIT.

4

Great Mother, prophesies victory for Romans against Cimbri and Teutones, IX. 508
Greece, invaded by Darius' forces under Datis, Il. 224; invaded by Xerxes, 18, 234; invaded by Antiochus the Great, 334; toured by Aemilius Paulus after Pydna, VI. 428; its sacred treasures taken by Sulla, Iv. 362; Pompey's great force there, V. 280
Greek, understood by Cato the Elder, 11.336; spoken fluently by Lucullus Il. 470
Greek culture, opposed by Cato the Elder, 11. 370
Greek words, once numerous in Latin, V. 454 Greeks, defeat Persians at Marathon, Salamis, Plataea, Mycale, Arbela, Ir. 10, 40, 138, 264, VII. 136; are medising, 11. 18, 268; saved by Themistocles, 20; pay war contribution fixed by Aristides at 460 talents, 286; under leadership of Cimon, 420; defeated by Persians in Egypt, 618; have no success against Persians after Cimon, 464; their peace disturbed by Alcibiades, IV. 32f.; despised Persians after return of 10,000, XI. 172f.; have Peace of Antalcidas dictated to them by Persian king, 176; honoured Dion, VI. 34; defeated 392

by Philip at Chaeroneia, 11. 138, Vil. 48£.; 250f.; united against Alexander by Demosthenes, 54; proclaim Alexander leader agaiust Persia, 258; crushed at Crannon by Antipater and Craterus, 68, [1. 138, VIII. 200; subjugated by Cassander and Ptolemy; aAntigonus and Demetrius attempt to free them, IX. 18f.; tempted to revolt by Ptolemy, governed by Demetrius’ son, 108f.; helped by Pyrrhus against Demetrius, 378; had little contact with Romans up to time of Flamininus, X. 326; 334, 336, proclaimed free by Flamininus at Isthmian games, 296, 350, 386; welcomed at Lucullus’ house in Rome, Il. 604; treated well by Antony, IX. 184
Greeks and their generals criticized, X. 352f., 386f.; their opinions and laws opposed to father marrying daughter, XI. 182
Greeks, Asiatic, some moved from Cilicia and Cappadocia to Mesopotamia by Tigranes, II. 536; many transplanted from Cilicia to Tigranocerta, 552; sent from Tigranocerta to their homes by Lucullus, 566
Greeks, Italian, fight battle at river Baer: VI. 420; invite Pyrrhus, 1x. 4

Greeks, Sicilian, send to Corinth for help and get Timoleon, VI. 264; freed from Carthaginians by Timoleon, 332
“‘Grypus,”’ cognomen or epithet, IX. 464
Gulf, Arabian, see ‘* Arabian Gulf.”

Gyarta, large rich tract in territory of Syracuse, VI. 80 Gylippus (1), comes from Sparta to aid Syracuse, Ill. 272, IV. 62. VI. 104; in first battle defeated by Athenians, next day defeats them, III. 276; captures Plemmyrium with large stores and moneys, 278; 2825 296; receives proposal of truce from Nicias, 300; slays or captures Athenian force, spares Niclas, 302; is refused request to be allowed to take Athenian generals captive to Sparta, 304; 111. 66; 1.298; son of
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE 'LIVES'

Cleandridas, banished for abstracting 30 talents from 1000 sent by Lysander to Sparta, III. 66, 306, IV. 274 f., VI. 460
Gylippus (2), father of Agiatis, X. 50
Gylon, father of Demosthenes' mother, banished on charge of treason, VII. 8 Gymnasium, at Athens, Theseus buried, I. 84.
Gymnopaediae, at Sparta, I. 218, V. 80 near it

Gymnosophists, said to have been consulted by Alexander, 1. 216; caused Alexander much trouble VII. 404 f.3 408
Gynaeceia, same as Roman " Bona Dea,'? mother of Midas according to Phrygians, VII. 128, 462
Gythium, Cleomeunes puts to sea from it, X.116; relieved by Philopoemen, 294
Habrotonon, Thracian, mother of Themistocles, II. 2, 8
Hades, 11. 372

Haemon, afterwards called Thermo-

don, flows past Heracleum, I. 64,

VII. 46

Hagnon (1), father of Theramenes, III. 212, Iv. 270; amends bill of Dracontides, III. 92
Hagnon (2), Teian, with Alexander, VII. 286; 3423; 382
Hagnonides, public informer, VIII. 210; denounces Phocion as traitor, 220; 222; 226; executed by Athenians, 232
Hagnothemis, cited, VII. 436

Hair, sheared on fore part of head by Theseus, Abantes, Mysians, I. 10; shaved off by Argives, worn long by Spartans, 1V. 234
Halae, burial place of Timon, Ix. 298; destroyed by Sulla, IV. 408
Haliartus, tomb of Rhadamanthus near it; Lysander routed and slain there, IV. 312, 452; Halicarnassus, in Caria, native city of Euterpé, II. 2; stormed by Alexander, VII. 268; besieged by Ptolemy, relieved by Demetrius, Ix. 18
Halimus, deme of Thucydides, U. 412
Halonnesus, speech on, by Demosthenes, VII. 24
Hamilecar, with Hasdrubal, commander of Carthaginian forces defeated by Timoleon at river Crimesus, VI. 320
Hamilcar Barcas, II. 324

Hannibal, invaded Italy, 111. 122, Vv. 456; defeats Flaminius at lake Thrasymené in Tuscany, II. 124; tries to force Fabius to fight, 132; escapes from Fabius' trap by ruse, 136, 200; spares Fabius' fields to bring odium upon him, 140; traps Minucius, retires when Fablus comes to rescue, 150f.; destroys Roman army at Cannae, 162 f.; refuses to attack Rome; how helped by Cannae, 168; defeated by Marcellus at Nola, Vv. 462 ; 464; 500; slew Gn. Fulvius the proconsu! and most of his army in Apulia, 502; fights drawn battle with Marcellus near Numistro, 502; fights battles with Marcellus near Canusium, 506f.; worn out with fighting Marcellus, afraid of Fabius, 111.174; loses Tarentum to Fabius, begins to realize insufficiency of his forces. 186; traps and slays the consuls Marcellus and Crispinus, V. 518; recalled to Carthage, defeated by Scipio, 40, 11. 398, 111. 192, x. 144, 328; stirs up Antiochus against Rome, 346 ; after defeat of Antiochus goes to Artaxas the Armenian and supervises building of city Artaxata, 11.572; flees to Prusias in Bithynia, commits suicide, x. 378 f.

See also 1. 162, II. 304, 334, III. 6, 176, V. 344, 524, 528, VIII. 4, X. 384, Quoted: III. 154, 162 f.; 186, Vv. 458, 506 f., 520, IX. 366, X. 380
Hanno, Carthaginian admiral, VI. 306

Harmony, goddess, born of Ares and Aphrodité, Vv. 386
Harmost, left in each city by Lysander, IV. 266; Callibius the Spartan in Acropolis, 274; Sphodrias, at Thespiae, V. 66; 370 Harpalus (1), banished by Philip, honoured afterwards by Alexander, VII. 250; appointed governor of Babylonia by Alexander, 332; sent books to Alexander, 242; absconded, 346; tried to _ bribe Phocion, Vill. 190, bribed Demosthenes, sent from eity,. Vit..-60; 216

Harpalus (2), served with Aemilius
Paulus against Perseus, VI. 392
Hasdrubal ‘ay See * Hamilcar.”

Hasdrubal (2), conquered in Spain by Scipio, X. 328
Heads of the Great Syrtis, V1. 54

Health, temple of, had statue in honour of Cato the Ilder, II. 356
 Hecaérgos,’? name given Apollo, X.
358 Hecalé, honoured for her hospitality
by Theseus, I. 26
Hecalesia, sacrifice to Zeus Hecalus in honour of Hecalé, I. 26
 Hecaliné,” diminutive of Hecalé, I.
26 Hecataeus (1) sophist, what Archi-damidas said about him, 1. 266
Hecataeus (2), tyrant of Cardia, urges Leonnatus to go to aid of Antipater, distrusts Eumenes, VIII. 86
Hecataeus (3) of Eretria, cited, VII.
356 Hecatombaeon, Athenian month, I.
52, 84; same as Boeotian Hippodromius, II. 138; V. 78; same as Macedonian Loiis, VII. 228 f.
Hecatombaeum, near Dymé, x. 80

aompeden, part of Syracuse, VI.
9 Hectemorioi, or Thetes, Athenians who paid a sixth of increase as rent,
I. 436
Hector, captured and _ plundered
Troezen, carried off Aethra, I. 78;
Vv. 188; Spartan youth closely resembled him, XI. 8

Hecuba, v. 414

Hedylium, mountain, Iv. 378 f.

Hegemon, accompanies Phocion to Polysperchon, VIII.224; condemned to death with Phocion, 228
Hegesias, cited, VII. 230

Hegesipylé, Thracian, wife of Miltiades, mother of Cimon, II. 412
Hegestratus, Athenian archon, I. 496

Helen, rape of, by Theseus led to war in Attica and Theseus' banishment and death, I. 66, 196; different accounts of rape of, 70; on way to Troy threw golden tripod into sea, 394 which fished up was offered as prize to wisest man, I. 412

Helenus, son of Pyrrhns and Bircenna
IX. 370, 454; found and sent back to Epeirus by Alyoneus, 460
Heliaea, in Athens, VIII. 178

Helicon (1) of Cyzicus, friend of Plato, predicted eclipse of sun, VI. 40
Helicon (2), made belt for Alexander,
VII. 322
Helicon, mountain, Iv. 318, v. 48

Helicus, X. 102

Heliopolis, Psenophis of, I. 476

Helius, adherent of Nero, executed by Galba, x1. 240
Hellas, came into closer relations with Persia after time of Themistocles, 11.80. See also "Greeks."
Hellanicus (1), cited : 1. 32, 56, 58, 60,
70, Iv. 54

Hellanicus (2), sent by Syracusans to implore help of Dion, VI. 88
Hellenes, see ‘‘ Greeks.”

Hellenic Council, 11. 274, 278

Hellespont, 11. 240, 506, III. 56; Philip driven from it by Phocion, VIII. 174 f.
Helots, made slaves by Spartans under Soiis, 1.206; tilled ground for Spartans, 278; slain by young men of ‘‘ krupteia,’? 288, 290; treated very harshly, 386; did all business, prepared and cooked meals, etc, 388; 464; revolt from Sparta at time of great earthquake, I. 292, II. 454f.; many desert from Agesilatis to enemy, V. 90; those who could pay 5 Attic minas freed by Cleomenes; 2000 armed in Macedonian fashion, x. 100
Helvetii, defeated by Caesar and forced to return home, VII. 486 Helvia, Cicero’s mother, VII. 82.

Helvidius Priscus, took up Galba’s body, XI. 270
Henioché, daughter of Pittheus, wife of Canethus, mother of Sciron, I. 56 - Hephaestion, friend of Alexander, VII. 340, 346; followed Alexander in adopting barbarian mode of life, quarrels with Craterus, 360; 382; quarrels with EKumenes, VIII. Tots. dies at Ecbatana to great grief of Alexander, splendidly buried, 82, V. 428, VII. 424
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

Heptachalcum, place at Athens, Iv. 368
Hera, statue of, at Argos, III. 4; 70; attacked by Ixion, x. 23 festival of, among Samians to be called Lysan-dreia, IV. 280; temple of, I. 482; temples of, at Samos, Argos, Lacinium, plundered by pirates, V. 174; temple of, at Corinth, seized by Aratus, XI. 54

Hera, Cithaeronian, II. 246, 266

“ Heracleia,’’ name of precincts dedicated to Herakles by Theseus, I. 80
Heracleia, taken by Demetrius, IX. 52

Heracleia, sacked by M’. Acilius, Xx. 364
Heracleia, in Pontus, ghost-oracle of, II, 422; reached by Mithridates, 508
Heracleia, in Italy, battle between Pyrrhus and Laevinus near it, IX. 394
Heracleidae, how maintained by Athenians, I. 48; included Spartan kings, 206; united with Dorians and came into Peloponnesus, but only 2 houses, Eurypontidae and Agiadae, furnished kings, IV. 300; 2343 Ix. 464
Heracleides (1), Syracusan boy, brings on sea fight, III, 292
Heracleides (2), Syracusan, Dion accused of plotting with him against Dionysius, VI. 24; returns from Peloponnesus to Syracuse; brief account of him; becomes rival of Dion, 70; though admiral, fails to prevent Dionysius sailing away, supports popular proposals, 80; elected general, 82; recalls Dion, 94; pardoned by Dion, 100; appointed admiral, renews his machinations against Dion, 102; prevented from occupying Syracuse by Dion, takes up Gaesylus the Spartan, 104; reconciled to Dion by Gaesylus, 106; again plots against Dion, who has him slain,

112 Heracleides (3), of Cymé, cited, XI.
182 Heracleides (4), Ponticus cited: I.
404, 466, 494, 496, 11. 72, 146, III.
102, VII. 298
Heracleitus; (Frag. 74, Bywater 30),

1. 182; (Frag. 105, Bywater 41),
Iv. 170; (Frag. 116, Bywater. 45), 214, 11. 136
Heracleinm, II. 38, II. 294, VI. 392,
IX. 274
Heracles (1), destroyed some powerful wicked men in Hellas, cowed others ;
after he slew Iphitus and went to Lydia, old villainies burst forth anew, but Lydia got peace and security, I. 14, 296; kinsman of Theseus, 16; sacrificed Busiris, wrestled Antaeus to death, slew Cycnus, dashed out ‘Termerus’ brains, 22; instituted Olympian games in honour of Zeus, 56; accompanied by Theseus in campaign against Amazons, 58, 544; slew Antiopé and her Amazons, 643 68; initiated into Eleusinian mysteries at instigation of Theseus, 70; 78; secured Theseus’ release from Aidoneus, 80; father of Telephus, 92; ancestor 1lth removed from Lycurgus, 206, 446; II. 2; had daughter Eucleia by Myrto, 278; 410; statue of, removed from Tarentum and set up in Capitolat Rome by Fabius Maximus, 111.1843; 210; had tendency to melancholy according to Aristotle, IV. 236; Vv. 380; said to have loved Tolaiis, 384; father of Macaria, 390; ancestor of Alexander, VII. 224; took Jlium, VIII. 2; had son Sophax by Tinga, settled Olbianians and Mycenaeans about city of Tinga, 24; had son

Anton, 1X. 146; shown in paintings with Omphalé taking away his club and lion’s skin, 336 Heracles (2), son of Alexander by Barsiné, VIII. 80
 Heracles, bow! of,’’ VII. 432

Heraea, IV. 294; city belonging to Acaaean _ league, seized . by Cleomenes, X. 64
“ Heraea,”’ Greek for ‘* Junonia,” X.
220 Heraeum, Il. 266; at Corinth, seized by Agesilatis, V.58; x. 94; 110
Heralds, at Rome, I. 354

Hercules, 1 114; became father of Ist Fabius, 111. 118; 350
Hercynii, inland limit of Cimmerians,
Ix. 490
395

Hereas, Megarian, cited, I. 40, 76, 428

Herennius, C., reluctant to witness against Marius, IX. 472; with Ee enne defeated by Pompey, V.
15
Herennius, centurion, kills Cicero, VII.
206 Herippidas, vV. 28; harmost in Thebes, executed by Spartans, 370
Hermae, of stone, dedicated by Cimon, II. 424
Hermae, mutilation of, III, 210, 254,
Iv. 48, 52
Hermaeus, priest with Mithridates’ army, II. 522
Hermagoras, rhetorician, opposed by Poseidonius at Rhodes, V. 224 Hermes, to east of Delphinium at Athens, called Hermes at Aegeus’ gate, I. 24

 Hermes of Andocides,’”? why so called, III. 254, Iv. 56
Hermes Terrestrial, 11. 280

Herminius, helped Horatius defend the bridge, 1. 544
Hermioné, joins Achaean league, XI.
78; taken by Cleomenes, X. 90;
had temple of Chthonian Earth,
Vv. 174; purple came from there,
VII. 332; Epicles of, 11. 14
Hermippus (1), comic poet, prosecutes
Aspasia for impiety, III. 92;
(Kock I. 236 f.), cited, 96
Hermippus (2), cited: 1. 218, 278, aan 418,430, Vil. 12, 26; 70, 74, Hermocrates, Syracusan, his daughter married Dionysius the Elder, VI.
6; son of Hermon, destined to cause most of Athenian reverses,
III. 210; 296; 304; his saying re
Niclas, 264
Hermolails, plots against Alexander, is executed, VII. 382
Hermon (1), father of Hermocrates,
Ill. 210
Hermon (2),slew Phrynichus, crowned by Athenians, Iv. 74 Hermotimus, Phocaean,
Milto, 111.. 72
Hermus, left by Theseus as one of governors of Pythopolis, I. 60 Hermus, on road from Athens to Eleusis, has tomb of Pythonicé,
VIII. 192
396

father of

Hero, niece of Aristotle, mother of Callisthenes, VII. 384
Herod, Jew, sends army to Antony,
IX. 276; deserts to Octavius, 300, 302
Herodes, urged by Cicero to study philosophy with Cratippus, VII. 142

Herodorus Ponticus, cited I. 658, 66, 70, 114
Herodotus (1), story about him among Bithynians resembles that about Numa and Egeria, J. 316
Herodotus (2), cited: (VIII. 3), II. 563 (5), 203; (93), 46; (1X. 46), 258; (64), 388; (85), 272
Herophytus, Samian, not so shrewd as Cimon, II. 430
Herostratus, sent into Macedonia by Brutus to win over commanders of armies there, V1. 178
Hersilia, only married Sabine woman seized, married to Hostilius or to Romulus, I. 130, 146; appealed for reconciliation between Romans and Sabines, 150
Hesiod, loved by gods for sake of Muses, I. 318; verse expunged from his poems by Peisistratus, 40; rebuked for calling some days good and others bad, 11. 136. Works and Days (309), 11. 390; (311), I. 408; (366), XI. 240; (370) quoted and ascribed to Pittheus on authority of Aristotle, I. 6; calls Minos  most royal,'' 30
Hestia, goddess, forbids Tarchetius murdering his daughter, I. 94
Hestiaea, II, 22

Hestiaeans, expelled from country by Pericles, 111.66
Hesuchia, priestess of Athena at Clazomenae, III. 254
Hexapyla, of Syracuse, cut through by Marcellus, v. 482
Hicetas, of Leontini, chosen general by Syracusans, secretly negotiates with Carthaginians, VI. 264; 276; defeats Dionysius, shuts him up in acropolis, orders Carthaginians to prevent Timoleon from landing,

280; 284; defeated by Timoleon, 288 ; continues siege of acropolis of Syracuse, tries to have Timoleon assassinated, 298; summons to his aid Mago, 302, 304; his forces in their

Syracuse defeated and driven out by Timoleon, 312; compelled to forsake cause of Carthage, demolish his citadels and live as private person at Leontini, 318 ; invades territory of Syracuse, defeated and executed, 334f.; had murdered Andromaché and Areté, 122, 340
Hidrieus, Carian, gets letter from Agesilatis, V. 36
Hiempsal, king of Numidia, Ix. 574, 576; given Iarbas’ kingdom by Pompey, V. 142
Hierapolis, 111. 366; formerly called Bambycé, given Monaeses by Antony, IX. 220
Hiero (1), tyrant of Sicily, refused Themistocles his daughter’s hand, It. 66
Hiero (2), intimate friend of Nicias, II. 224
Hiero (3), king of Syracuse, receives gifts from Romans, VY. 456; had persuaded Archimedes to make practical application of his geometry, 470
Hieronymus (1), historian, sent by Antigonus to make treaty with Eumenes, VIII. 114; left as governor of Boeotians by Demetrius, IX. 96; cited, 400, 414
Hieronymus (2), Rhodian philosopher, cited, 11.296; V. 36
Hieronymus (3), tyrant of Syracuse, dies, V. 466
Hieronymus (4), of Carrhae, urges P.

Crassus to escape to Ichnae, IIt. 394
Hill-men, at Athens, favoured democracy, 1. 434; led by Peisistratus, 486
Himera, river in Sicily where Gelon defeated Carthaginians, VI. 318
Himera, Sicilian city, pardoned by Pompey, V. 140
Himeraeus, brother of Demetrius the Phalerean, executed by <Antipater, VII. 70
Hippada Telountes, Athenians able to keep horse or getting 3v0 measures yearly, Solon’s 2nd class, I. 450
Hipparchus (1) of Cholargus, kinsman of Peisistratus, first man ostracized, Ili. 250
Hipparchus (2), father of Asclepiades, VIII. 194
Hipparchus (38), son of Theophilus, first freedman to desert Antony for Octavius, IX. 292; 304
Hipparchus (4) Spartan, father of Aristocrates the writer, I. 216, 302
Hippareté, daughter of Hipponicus, wife of Alcibiades, applied for divorce, IV. 20
Hipparinus (1), father of Aristomache, once colleague of Dionysius the Elder, VI. 6
Hipparinus (2), Dion’s son, called rags according to Timaeus, VI. 6
Hippias (1), sophist of Elis, published list of victors at Olympic games, I. 308; cited, 276
Hippias (2), one of 3 young men fleeing with infant Pyrrhus, Ix. 348
Hippias (3), mime with Antony, Ix. 158
Hippikon, distance of 4 furlongs, I. 468

Hippitas, lame friend of Cleomenes in Egypt, X. 134, 136
Hippo, tyrant of Messana, VI. 80; shelters Mamercus, caught and executed, 342
Hippobotae, wealthy class of Chalcidians, banished by Pericles, III. 66
Hippoclus, father of Pelopidas, V. 346

Hippoco6én, father of Enarsphorus, I. 2
Hippocrates (1) mathematician, engaged in trade, I. 408
Hippocrates (2), physician, consulted by Persian king, his reply, II. 372
Hippocrates (3), father of Peisistratus, I. 490
Hippocrates (4), general when 1000 Athenians lost at Delium, III. 226
Hippocrates (5), Spartan governor of Chalcedon, defeated and slain by Alcibiades, IV. 86
Hippocrates (6), commander of—Syracusans, seizes city and defies Marcellus, V. 468; his camp at Acrillae captured by Marcellus, V. 482
Hippodrome, at Rome, I. 102

Hippodromius, Boeotian month, same as Athenian Hecatombaeon, IJ. 138 397

GEMERAL INDEX TO ALL THE

Hippolyta, not Antiopé, said by Cleidemus to have been the name of the Amazon whom Theseus married, 1. 62
Hippolytus (1), or Demophoén, son of Theseus and Antiopé, I. 64
Hippolytus (2), Sicyonian, loved by Apollo, I, 318
Hippomachus, trainer, his saying, VI. 2

Hippomedon, son of Agesilaiis, urges father to support Agis, X.14; saves father, 36
Hipponicus (1), friend of Solon, I 444
Hipponicus (2), father of Callias the Rich by wife who later married Pericles, 111. 70; gave Alcibiades ts panne Hippareté to wife, Iv. 18 f.
Hipponium, city of Lucania, later called Vibo, VII 162
Hipposthenides, Theban, one of conspirators assisting Pelopidas, vV. 356
Hirtius, consul elect with Pansa, keeps Cicero at Rome to support them, VI. 452, VII. 190; with Pansa defeats Antony at Mutina but is himself slain, 198, Ix. 174
History of Rome, written by Cato the Elder for his son, 11, 362; planned _ by Cicero, VII. 186

Histories of Rutilius, Vv. 212

a a age,'' its meaning, I. 356, IV.

Homer, poems of, preserved among posterity of Creophylus in Ionia, first ae really known by Lycurgus, 1. 214; said by Timaeus to have met the elder Lycurgus, 204; "Od." XI. 631 inserted by Peisistratus, des ile oor i: inserted by Solon according to most writers, 4265 I1. 424; 111. 172; his view as to man's responsibility for his actions, IV. 196; used by _teachers, 16; always' brings his boldest and 'most valiant heroes into battle well armed, V. 342; his poetry characterized, VI. 346; Slexander considered Tliad Viaticum of military art, had Aristotle's re-cension called Iliad of the Casket, VII. 2425 298; H.said to have been 398 born at Ios, aad to have died at Smyrna, VIII. 4; IX. 420; 490; studied by Philopoemen, X. 264;

XI. 246
Tliad, (1. 188 £.) IV. 198, (238 £.)
IX. 106, (259) VI. 202, (491 f.) IX.
382, X. 128, (II. 204) IX. 320, (363)
Vv. 384, (547) I. 54, (557f.) 426,
(607) XI. 106, (111, 144) 1. 78, (172)
X. 68, (IV. 175) V. 40, (431) xX. 68,
(Vv. 340) VII. 306, (VI. 161 f.) IV. 176, (429-£)) vi. 176, (191), 176, ax, 438 f.) X. 256, (XI. 544) Vv. 302, (XT.) 248). 4k, ddo5 CRY = S628.)
436, (XV. 189) 254, (XVI. 849) VI.
178, (XIX. 15 f.) X. 280, (xx. 467)
VII. 28, (XXI. 107) 380, (XXII. 207)
V. 188, (XXIII, 296 f.) 24, (XXIV. 162)
IX. 192, (525 f.) VI. 446, (630) 260.
Odvssey (I. 47) X. 196, (IV. 230)
III, 236, (246) IV. 172, (354 f.) VII.
298, (VIII. 75f.) V.12, (TX. 299)
IV. 198, (339) IV. 196, (494) VIII.
180, (XI. 14f£.) 1X. 490, (XII. 428)
VI. 38, (XIV. 162) I. 474, (222 f.) I.
392, (XVIII. 158) IV. 196, (XIX. 179)
1, 32, IX. 106, (307) 1. 474
Verse not now in poems, IV. 196
Homoloichus, Chaeroneijan, assists
Sulla, Iv. 382, 390
Honoratus, Antonius, see ‘‘ Antonius Honoratus.”’ Honour and Virtue, temple to,- by Mareellus, V. 512
‘ Hoplias,”? former name of stream Hoplites, IV. 316
Hoplitai, one of 4 original Attic tribes, composed of warriors, I. 468 Hoplites, stream near Haliartus, or,

as some say, Coroneia, IV. 316
Horatius Cocles, helped by Herminius and Lartius, saves Rome by holding bridge, 1. 544
Horatius Flaccus, ‘‘ Epist.’’ 1. 6. 45 £., cited, II. 598
Horatius, M., elected consul to succeed Lucretius, I. 534; quarrels with Publicola about consecration of event to Jupiter Capitolinus, 53 .
Horcomosium, place. at Athens, adjoining Theseum, 1. 64
Hordeonius Vlaccus, see “* Vlaccus, Hordeonius.’  Horns,”’ place in Megara, {1.38
GENERAL INDEX TO

-lfortensius, Q. Hortatus (1) orator, brother of Valeria, IV. 436; legate of Sulla in Greece, IV. 374, 384, 386; appeared for Verres, VII. 98; surpassed Cicero at trial of Licinius Murena, 170; admirer of Cato, takes Cato’s wife Marcia, VIII.292 f£.; made her his heir, 362; II. 472 Hortensius, Q. Hortatus (2) delivered up Macedonia to Brutus, VI. 180; ordered to kill C. Antonius, and after Philippi slain on his tomb by Antony, 186, Ix. 184
Hostilius (1) Sabine, husband of Hersilia, grandfather of Hostilius who was king after Numa, fell in battle between Romans and Sabines, 1.130, 146
Hostilius (2), Tullus, king after Numa, his character and death, I. 146, 382
Hostilius Mancinus, Anlus, consul, repulsed by Perseus at Elimiae, VI. 376
Hostius, L., first parricide at Rome, 1.162 - “House of Hermes,” place in Pythopolis, I. 60

“House of Tiberius,"’ place in Rome,

XE 260

Houses, of Cato the Elder, did not have plastered walls, II. 314 Hyacinthia, festival celebrated at Sparta, 11.244
Hyacinthus, loved by Apollo, I. 318

Hybla,.in Sicily, attacked by Nicias,
III. 262
Hybreas, rebukes Antony in behalf of Asia, IX. 188
Hyccara, barbarian fastness in Sicily, overthrown by Nicias, III. 262 —
Hydaspes, river in India, VII. 394

Hydra, “cutting off its heads,’ proverbial expression, X. 244 Hydrus, Il. 444

Hyllus, father of Cleodaeus, rx. 346 -

‘* Hymenaeus,” nuptial cry of Greeks,

-I. 132

Hypates, one of Theban tyrants, slain by Pelopidas’ band of conspirators,
V. 366 f.
Hyperbatas, Theban general, x. 80

Hyperbolus, of deme Perithoedae, last man ostracised, II. 252, III. 248, IV.
28 sake J

ALL THE ‘LIVES’

Hyperboraeans,
Rome, II. 146
Hypereides, denounced Demosthenes, but admitted him to be man of mark, VII. 30,32; father of Glaucippus, VIII. 152; 160; his surrender demanded by Alexander, 182; 196; leaves Athens in advance of Antipater, 202; hissurrender demanded by Antipater, 204; executed by Antipater at Cleonae, 210, VII. 70; quoted, Vi1I. 168

Hypsaeus, Publius Plautius, with Scipio and Milo, candidate for consulship, VIII. 350; when on trial, appeals to Pompey in vain, Vv. 262
Hypsechidas, one of 5 Spartan arbiters in dispute between Athens and Megara, I. 428
Hypsicrateia, concubine of Mithridates, v. 200
 Hypsicrates,'? pet name of Hypsicrateia, V. 200
Hypsion, Plataean hero, I. 246
Hyrcania, invaded by Alexander, VII. 352; left by him in haste, v. 2063 III. 3763; 434
Hyrcanian sea, reached by Alexander, VII. 3523 II. 5903 V. 208; 214
Hyrodes (also called Arsaces, q. v.); driven from Parthia, restored, by Surena, III. 378; having divided his forces, he himself attacks Armenia to punish Artavasdes, and sends Surena to attack Crassus, 376; informed of Crassus' death, 416; becomes reconciled to Artavasdes, the Armenian king, acquainted with Greek language and literature, 420; his general Pharnapates defeated by Ventidius, IX. 210; his son Pacorus defeated and' slain - by Ventidius, 212, III. 422; strangled by his son Phraates, 422, 1X. 218 Hysiae, at foot of Mt. Cithaeron, near it temple of Eleusinian Demeter 'and Cora, II. 248 army of, captured

Taccheium, the so-called, 11.296: —

Iucchus, escorted from Athens tc
Eleusis on 2Uth of Boedromion, II.
140, IV. 98, VIII. 206
Jalysus, story of, painted by Pen togenes the Caunian ; what Apclles 399 sald of it; destroyed in fire at Rome, IX. 50 f.

Ialysus, native city of Timocreon, II.
58
Jampsas, see ‘‘ Hiempsal.”

Tapygia, VI. 52, 76

Japygian promontory, on coast of Italy, Ix. 390
Iarbas, king, confederate of Domitius, captured and his kingdom given to Hiempsal, v. 144
Iberia, visited by Lycurgus according to Aristocrates, I. 216
Iberia, triumphed over by Pompey,
Vv. 230.
Tberians (1), of Spain, used by Carthaginians in their battles, VI. 330; mixed with Ligurians, 368; mourn death of Aemilius Paulus, 456; their sons educated at Osca by Sertorius, 36; 56; some killed by Sertorius, others sold into slavery, 68; after murder of Sertorius submit to Pompey, 72
Iberians (2), neighbours of Albanians, II. 554; some as lancers in Tigranes’ army, 574; one of 2 greatest peoples about Caucasus Mts.; extent of territory, V. 204; short account of; defeated by Pompey, 206; 212; conquered by Canidius, Antony’s general, IX. 214

Iberian mountains, source of Cyrnus river, V. 206
Ibycus, calls Spartan maids "* phaino-merides,"' I. 390
Icelus, freedman, announces Nero's death to Galba, given name ae owes XI. 218f.; helped Otho, 250
Ichnae, city not far from Carrhae, espoused Roman cause, III. 394
Ichneumon, found in Asia, VII. 346

Ictinus, with Oallicrates, architect of Parthenon, III. 40
Ida, mountain, VIII. 192

Idaeus, secretary of Agesilatis, Vv. 34

Idas, with Lynceus, carried off Helen according to some, I. 70
Idomeneus, cited: 11. 214, 222, 242, Hil. 30; 102, 'Vit.. 38, 56, Viti; 152
'Iépaé, title of tyrants, 11, 22

letae, place in Sicily, v1, 334

Ignatius, with 300 horsemen reaches 400

Carrhae with news of battle, then rides on to Zeugma, III. 402
Ilia (or Rhea, or Silvia) Numitor's daughter, made Vestal virgin, de-livered of twins, imprisoned by Amulius, I. 96; said Mars father of her babes, but Amulius was real father, 98
llia, first wife of Sulla, to whom she bore a daughter, IV. 344 Jliad, see "* Homer."'

llicium, from tAews, place where Numa met Jupiter, I. 360

Ilium, taken in Thargelion according to Ephorus, Callisthenes, Damastes, and Phylarchus, 11. 138; thrice taken, VIII. 2f.; Alexander sacrifices to Athena there, VII. 262; II. 5025 506
Illyrians, conquered by Parmenio at time of Alexander's birth, VII. 230; ravage Macedonia, X. 112; Glaucias their king, 1X. 350; fight against Cleomenes at Sellasia, X.114; 268; VI. 376
Iilyricum, decreed to Caesar for 5 years, V. 240
Impeachment, of Servilius the augur by Lucullus, 11. 470
Inauguration, of Roman kings, 1. 326 f.; of Persian kings, XI. 130
India, visited by Lycurgus according to Aristocrates, I. 216; invaded by Alexander, VI. 384, VII. 384; V. 298; VI. 254
Indian, in retinue of Augustus, burned himself to death as Calanus did, VII. 418
Indian Ocean, III. 428

Indian war, of Alexander, VII. 384 f.

*'Indian's Tomb,'' at Athens in Plutarch's time, VII. 418 Indians, Macedonian troops refuse to follow Alexander against them, VII. 258
Inferno of Homer, I. 40

Ino, II. 104

Inscriptions: 11.16, 24,210; to mark battlefield of Plataea, 2723; 276; in honour of Cato the Elder, 356; 424; by Nicias on stone at Delos, MI. 218; IV. 234; V.184; VI.394; on pedestal of Demosthenes' statue, VII. 76; 268; on tomb of Cyrus, 416: on 1X.2983 432; X.358; 368; inhonour aaa XI. 32; on Otho’s tomb, Instelus, M., with M. Octavius, led cee for Antony at Actium, IX.

284 Insubrians, their race and home; call Gaesatae to their aid and wage war on Rome, v. 440; routed by Flaminius, 442; stirred up by Gaesatae, again make war on Rome, 446; submit to Rome, 452
Insurrection, Servile, III. 334 f.

See also ‘‘ Spartacus.”

‘‘ Inter duos pontes,’’ what it was and how formed, I. 520
Interest, rate of in Asia, regulated by Lucullus, 1. 532
Interregnum, description of the one after death of Romulus, I. 312 Investments, Cato the Elder’s, II. 366

Iolas, son of Antipater and his chief cupbearer; feared by Alexander,
VII. 428; believed to have poisoned
Alexander, 434
Jolaiis, said to have been beloved by Hercules, V. 384
Iolcus, villages about it furnished settlers for new city Demetrias, IX.
134
Ion (1), of Chios, poet, when youth, came from Chios to Athens, II. 430.
QOited: (Bergk II. 254) 1. 405 Il.

4183 430; 456; 111.14; 82; VII.6

Ion (2), delivers Perseus’ children to Romans, VI. 424
‘*Tonia,’” name used for Athenian territory on pillar set up by Theseus

on the Isthmus, I. 56
Tonia, II. 82 ; 11.438; almost alistirred to revolt by Alcibiades, IV. 66; VII. 60
Ionian civilization, extravagant and luxurious, I. 214
Ionian, Salamis so called in certain oracles, I. 428
Ionian sea, VI. 448, VII. 532, Ix. 390

Ionians, implored by Themistocles to help Greeks against Xerxes, II, 26; 448; III. 56
Iopé, daughter of Iphicles, married by Theseus, I. 66
Iophon, son of Peisistratus and Timonassa, II. 376
Ios, where Homer was born, VII. 4

Ioxids, colony of in Caria, founded by Ioxus and Ornytus, burns neither asparagus-thorn nor rush on account of vow made by Periguné, L158
Ioxus, son of Melanippus, grandson of Theseus and Periguné, with Ornytus led colony into Caria, 1. 18
Iphicles, father of Iopé, 1. 66

Iphicrates, Athenian, best type of mercenary soldicr, XI. 206; cuts Spartan division to pieces, V. 60; conducts unsuccessful war for Artaxerxes against Egypt because of quarrelling with Pharnabazus, XI. 184; cited, Vv. 342
Iphitus, with Lycurgus established Olympian truce, I, 204, 278; slain by Hercules, 14
Iphtha, father of Ascalis, VIII. 22

Ipsus, battle of, in which Antigonus was defeated and slain by the allied kings, IX. 80, 354
Iras, waiting woman of Cleopatra,

Ix. 274, 326
Isaeus, Demosthenes' guide in public speaking, VII. 12
Isauricus, P. Servilius, candidate for pontifex maximus, defeated by Oaesar, VII. 456; cousul with Caesar, 532
Isias, Corinthian, lands part of Timoleon's troops, VI. 312

Isidas, son of Phoebidas, brave in defence of Sparta, V. 96
Isidorus (Isodorus) naval commander of Mithridates, slain near Lemnos by Lucullus, II. 506
Isis, temple of, near Cleopatra's tomb and monument, IX. 306
"Isis, New," title given Oleopatra, 262 Islands, Atlantic, called Islands of the Blest; their character, VIII. 20
Ismenias (1), Theban, taught the flute, III. 4, IX. 4
Ismenias (2), with Androcleides led Theban democratic party to which Pelopidas belonged, hated by Spartans, V. 350; carried to Sparta and executed, 352
Ismenias (3), accompanied Pelopidas on embassy to Persian king, XI. 178; on embassy to Thessaly, V. 406; rescued by Epaminondas, 414 40!

GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE

Ismenus, sanctuary of, had oracle, Iv. 316
Isocrates, charged fee of 10 minas, too much for Demosthenes to pay, VII. 12; (Orat,.12,  De bicis,"* written for son of Alcibiades, IV. 26; criticized by Cato the Elder, It. 372
Isodicé, daughter of Euryptolemus, granddaughter of Megacles, wife of Cimon, II. 416, 452 Isodorus, see * Isidorus.”

Isomantus, stream formerly called Hoplites, IV. 316
Issorium, stronghold in Sparta where temple of Artemis stood, seized by 200 mutineers, recovered through a ruse by Agesilatis, V. 88
Issus, battle of, Alexander defeats Dareius, VII. 290, 322
Ister, ‘* A Attic History,” Bk 13, cited, T: 78, VII. 356
Isthmian games, instituted in honour of Poseidon by Theseus, I. 56; victor to receive 100 drachmas according to Solon’s regulation, 466; victor’s wreath at first of parsley, afterwards of pine, VI. $22 f.; freedom of Grecce pro-clhimed at games by Flamininus, X. 350; V. 56
Isthmus ’ of Corinth, unites Greek continent, XI. 36; wall proposed there to block Persians, II. Gnd Si Greeks assembled there vote to join Alexander against Persians, VII.258; IX.58; temple of Poseidon there, V. 174; Caesar proposed to dig through it: had put Anienus in charge, VII. 578 Isthmus between Libya and Asia, 300 furlongs in width, IX. 296
Isthmus at Rhegium, blocked by wall and ditch 300 furlongs long by Craszus, TI. 344
Italia, Themistocles’ daughter, marricd Panthoides the Chian, II. 88
Italian allies, expelled from Rome, xX.

222; strive for Roman citizenship,

VIII. 238

Italus, father of Roma by Leucaria, I.

2

Italy, separated from Cisalpine Gaul

by Rubicon, VII. 490; distracted by 402

‘LIVES’

pestilence, I. 350; first invasion of, by Gauls, 11. 126f.; invaded by Pyrrhus, 1X. 390 f.; returned to by Pyrrhus from Sicily, 424; subdued by Romans soon after Beneventum, 428; invaded by Hannibal, III. 122,
Vv. 456; overrun by Hannibal, 168, 11; 304; invaded by Cimbri and Leutones, IX. 488; mastered by Cacsarin 60 days, V. 280; entrusted to Antony, IX. 152 Ithagenes, father of Melissus the philosopher, III. 74 Ithomatas, place walled in and garrisoned like the Acrocorinthus,
xI. 114
Ithomé, stronghold of Messenians and Helots in revolt against Sparta, II.
456; peopled with Messenians by Thebans, V. 398
Itonis (Itonia) see ‘* Athena Itonis.”’

Iulis, small part of Ceos, bred good actors and poets, VII. 2 Ixion, embraced cloud instead of Hera and begat Centaurs, x. 2 Janiculum, held 2 stone coffins, one with body of Numa, the other with sacred books he had written, I.
378; occupied by Marius, Ix. 580
January, changed from llth to Ist month by Numa, I. 366; by many said to have been put iu calendar by him, 368; named from Janus, 370; nearly same as Athenian

- Poseidcon, VII. 532

January Calends, first day of Roman year, XI. 492, 590 Janus, account of; why 2 faces; -his temple at Rome, when closed, I.
372; double doors of temple opened after Numa’s death. 398 ~ Jason (1), commander of Argo, sailed about, clearing sea of pirates, I. 38; helped at Colchis by Theseus, 66,
II, 410
Jason (2), father of Thebé; friend of Pelcpidas, V. 410
Jason (3), tragic actor in retinue of Hyrodes, III. 420
Jews, stirred to revolt by Aristobulus,
Ix. 142
Journals, with particulars of Alexander’s last illness, VII. i52
June,

Jove, Olympian, rv. 380
Juba (1), king, aids Cato and Scipio in Africa, VII. 562; VIII.372; 374; his camp sacked by Caesar, VII. 566; escaped from Thapsus with few followers, VIII. 878; hidden in mountain with few men, sends letter to Cato, 384, 386 Juba (2), son of preceding, led in Caesar’s triumph; became one of most learned historians of Hellas, vil. 570; married Cleopatra, Cleopatra’s daughter, IX. 330.
Cited: 1.130, 132, 142, 330, 352,
IV. 380, V. 524
Judaea, subdued by Pompey and its king imprisoned, V. 2163 230;
pacified by Antony, Ix. 142;

balsam-producing part given to Cleopatra, 218
Jugurtha, the Numidian, bribed Opimius, X, 238; IX. 478; son-in-law of Bocchus, surrendered to Sulla, 484, IV. 328; led in triumph, died in prison, Ix. 494
Julia (1), sister of Caesar’s father, wife of Marius the Elder, mother of Marius the Younger, VII. 442, Ix.
474; Caesar delivers funeral] oration over her in forum, VII. 450 Julia (2), of house of Caesars, wife of Antonius Creticus, mother of M.
Antony, after death of A. C. married Cornelius Lentulus, Ix.
138; 180
Julia (3), daughter of Caesar, betrothed to Caepio, married to Pompey, V. 238, 298, VII. 474, VIII.
310; great love between her and Pompey, buried in Campus Martius, her death removes check on rivalry between Pompey and Caesar, V. 252, vi. 500; 570
Julia (4), daughter of Augustus, married first to Marcellus, then to Agrippa, Ix. 330 f.

Julius, censor, died, 11. 124

Julius Proculus, see ‘* Proculus, Julius.”
Julius Salinator, see ‘‘ Salinator, Julius.”’
July, named from J. Oaesar, originally called Quintilis, I. 370 derived from “ junior,’’ I. 370

* Juno’? or

ALL THE ‘LIVES’

Junia, sister of Brutus, wife of Cassius

VI. 140
Junius, governor of Asia, VII. 446
J Sori M., dictator after Cannae, III. 46
Junius Silanus, see ‘‘ Silanus, Junius.”’
Juno, temple of, in citadel of Veii, II. 106; image of, transferred to Rome, 108; temple of, on Capitoline, 160
Juno of Hierapolis, IV. 366

Juno Quiritis, her statue leans upon a spear, I. 182
Junonia, in Greek Heraea; colony founded on site of Carthage by C. Gracchus, X. 220
Jupiter, received dedication of Capitol from Tarquin, I. 144; story of his conversation with Numa, 360; garland of oak leaves sacred to him, IV. 122; 176
Jupiter Capitolinus, temple of, built by Tarquin the Proud; story of the terra cotta chariot for the roof, I. 534; history of temple, 536 f.
Jupiter Feretrius, origin of the term, I. 136 f., V. 4543 450; temple of, 454
Jupiter Stesius or Stator, origin and meaning of the term, I. 146: his temple at beginning of Sacra Via as you go up Palatine Hill, vir. 120
Jus trium liberorum, what it was, I. 342
Justice, seated beside Zeus, VII. 376; Spartan idea of, Vv. 106
Kaéécxos, its meaning, I. 240

Kannathron, what it is, V. 52

Kexaéddicéar, its meaning, I. 240

Keraton, sort of altar about which the ‘Crane’? was danced by Theseus, 1. 44

Képavvos, title of tyrants, II. 228

Kermalus, once called Germanus, place where trough containing llia's twins landed, 1. 98
Kitaris, Persian for tiara, XI. 190

Klaria, Spartan for mortgages, xX. 30

Klodones, women devoted to Orphic rites and orgies of Dionysus, VII. 226 Kothon. Laconian drinking-cup, its description, I. 230 403

GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE 'LIVES'

Krupteia, at Sparta, its nature; said by Aristotle to have been an institution of Lycurgue, I. 288
KuBepyjora, see '* Cybernesia."'

Kurbeis, what they were, I. 472, 572

Labeo, Q. Auntistius, informed of conspiracy to murder Caesar, VI. 150; Brutus' legate, slain at Pharsalus, 240
Labienus, T., Caesar's legate, crushes Tigurini at river Arar, VII. 486; deserts Caesar for Pompey, V. 282, VII. 526; commander of Pompey's cavalry, V. 292; not admitted to Cyrené, VIII. 370; quoted, VII. 180
Labienus, Q., son of preceding, Parthian commander-in-chief, IX. 196; subduing Asia from Euphrates, and Syria as far as Lydia and Ionia, 204; slain by Ventidius, 210
Labyrinth, Cretan, lair of Minotaur, I. 28; a dungeon according to Philochorus, 30; its intricate windings traversed by Theseus by means of thread given by Ariadne, 36;

scene of battle between Theseus and Deucalion, 40; dance imitating its windings still performed by Delians, 44
Laccopluti, nickname given by comic poets to descendants of Callias, 11, 226 Lacedaemonius, son of Cimon and woman of Arcadia, III, 82; sent with 10 ships to aid Corcyra, 82 Lacetanians, Spanish tribe, subdued by Cato the Elder, II. 332 Lachares (1), becomes tyrant of Athens, Ix. 80; flees when Demetrius blockades city, 82
Lachares (2), father of Hurycles, executed by Antony on charge of robbery, 290
Lachartus, Corinthian,
Cimon, II. 456
Laciadae, deme of Miltiades, II. 412;
a Cimon, 432; of Thessalus, Iv.
6 Lacinium, temple of Hera at, V. 174

Laco, Cornelius, appointed prefect of praetorian guard under Galba, XI.
230; 262; slain by Otho’s men,
268; 272
404

upbraids

Laconia, its coasts ravaged by Nicias,
III. 230; by Conon and Pharna-bazus, V. 62; most of it detached from Spartan confederacy, 396;
invaded by Demetrius, Ix. 84; by Aetolia and 50,000 slaves taken, x.
88 3 110; invaded by T. Flamininus, 30 ‘‘ Laconistes,’? nickname of Archibiades, VIII. 166
Laconizers, II. 456, 458

Lacratidas (1), public prosecutor of Pericles according to Heracleides Ponticus, III. 102
Lacratidas (2) Spartan ephor, IV. 320

Lacritus, rhetorician, teacher of Archias according to Hermippus, Vir. 70
 Lacus Curtius,'' origin of the name, 1.144, XI. 266 Ladder, so-called, road along coast of Pamphylia, VII. 272
Laelius, reproached Cicero for not opposing Caesar, VII. 220
Laelius, in army of Lepidus, Ix. 176

Laelius, C., friend of Scipio, attempted agrarian reform, xX. 160; 250
Laena, priestly mantle, derived from Greek " chlaina,'' I. 330
Laértes, "* to live life of,'' VII. 184

Laevinus, consul, defeated by Pyrrhus at Heracleia, Ix. 392 f., 398; not deposed by Romans after Heracleia, 400
Lais, courtesan, sold when girl from Hyccara and brought to Peloponnesus, III. 262, Iv. 114
Laius, Theban king, Vv. 386

Lamachus (1), Iv. 2; good soldier but lacked authority and prestige because of poverty, 58; left by Pericles to help Sinopeans against Timesileos, I11. 60; elected general with Nicias and Alcibiades for Sicilian expedition, 252, Iv. 46, 52; urges battle close to Syracuse, III. 258, 260; slain by Callicrates before Syracuse, 270
Lamachus (2), Myrinaean, wrote encomium on Kings Phillp and Alexander; effectually answered by Demosthenes, VII. 20

Lamia, in booty captured from Ptolemy by Demetrius at Salamis,
IX. 36; 44; 54; 60; exacted money
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

from Athenians on her own account, 62; anecdotes about her, 64f., 336 Lamia, Antipater besieged there by Leosthenes, VII. 66, VIIT. 86, IX. 346
Lampido, wife of Archidamus, mother of Agis, V. 2
Lampon, Athenian seer, III. 14

Lamponius, Lucanian, with Telesinus nearly overthrew Sulla at gates of Rome, IV. 418, 454
Lamprias, Plutarch’s grandfather, Ix.
198 Lampsacus, II. 80, IV. 106; with help of Storax taken by Lysander, IV.
254
Lamptrae, Aeschines of, II. 252;
Philomelus of, VIII. 220
Lanassa (1), daughter of Cleodaeus, wife of Neoptolemus and mother of Pyrrhus, IX. 346
Lanassa (2), daughter of Agathocles of Syracuse marries Pyrrhus with city of Corcyra as dowry, IX. 568; leaves Pyrrhus and marries Demetrius, 372 Langobritae, attacked by Metellus, saved by Sertorius, VIII. 34 Langon, cleared of Achaean garrison and restored to Eleians, x. 80 Language, Carian, II. 270

Laodicé, mother of Munychus by Demophodn, I. 78, II. 414
Laomedon (1), king of Troy, wronged
Heracles, III. 210, VIII. 2 Laomedon (2), Orchomenian, how he became great long-distance runner,
VII. 14

Laomedon (8), gave dinner to Cimon and others, IT. 430
Laphystius, popular leader at Syracuse, attacks Timoleon, YI. 348
Lapithae, aided by Theseus, fight Centaurs, I. 66, 70
Larentalia, festival in honour of Acca Larentia, I. 100
Larentia (1), see ‘* Acca Larentia.’’

Larentia (2), why honoured, I. 100

Largess of grain, given poor on suggestion of Cato, VIII. 296
Larissa (1), imprisons Agesilaiis’ 2 ambassadors, Xenocles and Scythes, Vv. 42; taken by Epaminondas, 404; 303; VI. 1563 Ix. 90
Larissa (2), given Monaeses by Antony, Ix. 220
Larissus river, Achaeans fight Aetolians and Eleians there, x. 272
Lars Porsena, of Clusium, attacks Rome, then withdraws, I. 542 f.: father of Aruns, 550; bronze statue of, near senate-house, 554
Lartius, helps Horatius defend the bridge, 1. 544
Lartius, T., left by the consul Cominius in charge of the siege of Corioli, Iv. 132; 138
Larymna, of Boeotia, destroyed by Sulla, 1v. 408 avretiee surname of Ptolemy, Iv.

2

Latin festival, added by vote of people, IT. 204
Latins, especially honour woodpecker, 1.98; made alliance with Romulus, 164; with Sabines wage war on Rome, are defeated, 556f.; their country devastated by Coriolanus,

Rome refusing help, IV. 186; with Volsclans and Aequians invade Roman territory, 11. 176; defeated by Camillus, 180; invited to participate in Roman franchise by
O. Gracchus, x. 214
Latinus, son of Telemachus, father of Romulus by Roma according to one account, I, 92
Latinus, T., story of his dream in which Jupiter appeared, Iv. 176 Lattamyas, with his Thessalians conquered by Boeotians at Ceressus,
II. 138
Laughter, statue of,
Lycurgus, I. 280;
Sparta, xX. 66
Laurentum, people of, slay Tatius, 1.
162f.; plague at, 166
Laureium, silver mines at, the revenue anaes among Athenians, II. 10, IIT.
21 Lauron, in Spain, captured by

. Sertorius in spite of Pompey, V. 158,

VIII. 48

Laverna, IV. 340

Lavicum, captured by Volscians under Coriolanus, IV. 186
Lavinia, mother of Aeneas, I. 92
Lavinium, I. 162; founded by Aeneas

405 erected by temple of, at Aemilia by contained sacred symbols of Roman ancestral gods, besieged by Volscians, IV. 188 Law of nations, violated by Roman ambassador, II. 132

Lebadeia, sacked by Lysander, Iv. 310; sacked and despoiled of oracle by Mithridates, 376
Lecanius, said to have slain Galba, XI. 266
Lechaeum, harbour at Corinth, seized by Aratus, XI. 54; X. 92
Lectum, in Troad, II. 480

Leges, neighbours of Albani and Amazons, V. 208 Legion, what it was; why so called, I. 122; enlarged, 150 f.
‘* Legs,’’ name of long walls of Athens, TI. 446
Leibethra, image of Orpheus there, VII. 260
‘“* Leiton,’’ means public hall, 1. 172

Lemnos, II. 298, III. 72, 743 naval battle near it between Lucullus and Mithridates, II. 506
Lentuli, the two, taken on board ship with Pompey in his flight after Pharsalus, V. 306
Lentulus, sent to Asia by Flamininus to free Bargylia, x. 354 Lentulus (Dolabelia), 3rd husband of Cicero’s daughter, VII.188. See also  Dolabella (2), P. Cornelius.’’ Lentulus Batiatus, had school of gladiators at Capua, III. 334
Lentulus, Cornelius, offers consul Paulus his horse in rout at Cannae, III. 166
Lentulus Clodianus, Gn. Cornelius, consul with Gellius, defeated by Spartacus, III. 340; censor with Gellius, V. 168
Lentulus Crus, L. Cornelius, opposes Caesar bitterly, v. 272, VII. 512,

518, 524; drives Antony from senate, Ix. 150; lands in Egypt and is slain, V. 324
Lentulus Spinther, L. Cornelius, consul, Vv. 244; with Pompey's army in Thessaly, V. 290, VII. 178, 544; falsely claimed share in murder of Caesar; executed by Antony and Octavius, 600 Lentulus Sura, P. Cornelius, his character and career, leads Catiline's 406 followers left in Rome, VII. 122, 458, VIII. 286; convicted, gives up office of praetor and is arrested, VII. 128; executed, 134, 136, 140, 158, VIII. 296, Ix. 138

a Valerius, entertains Caesar, VII. 484
Leobates, Alcmeon's son, of deme Agraulé, accused Themistocles of treason, II. 62
Leochares, moulded some of figures in hunting scene dedicated by Craterus, VII. 344
Leocrates, Athenian general, restrained by Aristides, II. 2743 III. 523 198
Leon (1), Spartan, father of Antalcidas, XI. 176
Leon (2), of Byzantium, companion of Phocion in the Academy, VIII. 176; quoted, III. 288
Leonidas (1), brother of Polydectes' widow, attacks Lycurgus, I. 212
Leonidas (2), slain at Artemisium by Xerxes' army, II. 24, V. 392, XI. 178; quoted, x. 52
Leonidas (3), son of Cleonymus, an Agiad, 8th in descent from the Pausanias who defeated Mardonius at Plataea, x. 8; becomes king, is unacceptable to people, 10; opposes Agis, 18, 22; indicted by

Lysander and deposed, 24, 28;
brought back from Tegea, pardons Cleombrotus, 36; expels ephors, plots against life of Agis, 40; slays Leonidas for attempting to restore ancient constitution, 42, Vv. 112:
x. 48
Leonidas (4), kinsman of Olympias, tutor of Alexander, VII. 236, 286, 298
Leonidas, Gorgo’s husband, quoted, 266 Leonnatus (1), sent by Alexander to reassure female relatives of Alexander, VII. 2823; 342; to help Eumenes, joined by Hecataeus, plots against Perdiccas, VIII. 84; defeated and slain by Greeks, 200 Leonnatus (2), Macedonian, saves life of Pyrrhus, Ix. 396 f.
Leontidas, with Archias and Philip persuades Phoebidas to seize Cadmeia, ¥. 350; with Archias
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

made ruler of Thebes by Spartans, 66, 352; how slain, 368
Leontini, with Egesta sends embassy to Athens to urge Sicilian expedition
IiI. 250; 260; v1.58; receives Dion kindly, 84; 264; its territory invaded by Timoleon, 338; 1x. 416;
taken by Marcellus, V. 468 Leontis, Athenian tribe, II.2; opposed to Persian centre at Marathon, 224 ego utocepaaiaws village in Asia, II.

9

Leos, of Agnus, betrayed Pallantidae to Theseus, I. 26
Leosthenes, Athenian, general merely,
VII. 214, VIII. 160; besieged Antipater in Lamia, VI. 274, vu.

66, VIII. 196 f., 220, Ix. 346
Leotychides (1), the Elder, his question about square trees, I. 242; II. 58
Leotychides (2), son of Timaea and Alcibiades, refused royal succession, IV. 64, 292, V. 6, 8, 326; father of Chilonis, 1x. 434
Lepida, married Metellus Scipio, VIII. 250
Lepidus, M. Aemilius (1), see ' Aemilius Lepidus, M."'

Lepidus, M. Aemilius (2), chosen consul with support of Pompey, tried to deprive Sulla's body of usual burial honours, driven by Pompey from Italy to Sardinia where he died, Iv. 484f., 442, v. 150 f., 154, 196, 326
Lepidus, M. Aemilius (3), when praetor, entrusted with Rome by Caesar, IX. 152; consul with Caesar in latter's 3rd consulship, 160, VII. 590, 600, VI. 168, IX. 163, 174; forms triumvirate with Octavius and Antony, VI. 186, VII. 200, Ix. 178; in command of Rome when Octavius and Antony went to fight Brutus and Cassius, 182; permitted to have Africa, 204
(Lepidus?) Paulus, Aemilius, proscribed by his brother the triumvir, Ix. 178
Leptines (1), brother of Dionysins the Elder, VI. 18; gave one of his 2 daughters to Philistus, 24; 298
Leptines (2), with Polysperchon puts Callippus to death, VI.122; tyrant of Apollonia, surrenders and is sent to Corinth by Timoleon, 318
Lerna, X. 80, XI. 90

Lernaean hydra, 1X. 406

Lesbians, offer leadership to Aristides,

II. 2843 IV. 26; 66
Lesbos, Il]. 56; captured by Paches, 226 2-V,.256
Leschai, I. 280

Lesche, place at Sparta, I. 254

Leto, U1. 58; delivered of Apollo, v. 378
Leucadia, colonized by Corinth, v1. 294; VI. 278; in league against Philip, vii. 40
Leucaria, mother of Roma by Italus, I. 92
Leucas, to be colony of Corinth and Corcyra in common, II. 64; V. 174
Leucaspides, class of troops serving Antigonus, xX. 100
Leucon, Plataean hero, II. 246

Leucothea, almost identical Mater Matuta, II. 104
Leuctra (1), battle at, Thebans defeat Spartans, Cleombrotus killed, I. 300, II. 138, Iv. 126, 280, 452, v. 40, 78, 376, 394, 400, 414, X. 48, x1. 178; plan of, has tombs of daughters of Scedasus; 2 other Leuctras, V. 390
Leuctra (2), stronghold of Megalopolis, occupied by Cleomenes, X. 60 ‘* Leuctridae,’* name given daughters of Scedasus, V. 390
Leucus river,ran through plain at Pydna, VI. 396; 410
Libitina (or Proserpina, or Venus) presides over services for dead. 1, 346 Libo, UL. Scribonius, blockading harbour of Brundisium, beaten off by Antony, Ix. 154
Library, of Lucullus, Ul. C04

Libya, 1. 216, II. 474, 111. 144, 190, 250, IV. 44, 324, 328, vi. 310, VIII.

372, Bocchus, king of, IX. 276;
separated from Asia by isthmus 300 furlongs long, 296; 306; x. 122 Libyans, used by Carthaginians in their battles, VI. 350 Libyan sea, proposed by Pyrrhus as boundary between Carthaginians and Greeks, IX. 420; cleared of pirates by Pompey, V. 182
with

Libys, Lysander’s father, x, 14

Libyssa, village, in Bithynia, x. 380

Lichas, Spartan, famous for hospitality, 11. 434
Licinia (1), daughter of P. Crassus, wife of O. Gracchus, xX. 194; deprived of her marriage portion,
236; quoted, 230
Licinia (2), vestal, her name connected with that of Crassus, III.
314
Licinius, trusty servant of C. Gracchus,
X. 148, 234
Licinius, P., first to invade Macedonia, defeated by Perseus, VI. 376
Licinius Macer, see ‘* Macer, Licinius.’’

Licinius Philonicus, Roman of humble birth, V1. 454
Licinius Stolo, see ‘* Stolo, Licinius.”’

Lictores, attended Romulus, their duties, derivation of word, I. 172; number of, VI. 362. See also  fasces.””
Licymnius, his tomb in Argos, 1X. 458

“Life of Oaecillus Metellus,’’ cited,

IX. 546
Ligarius (C. or Q.?) pardoned by aesar, VII. 182; friend of Brutus, joins conspiracy to murder Caesar,

VI. 148
Liguria, traversed by Cimbri and Teutones, IX. 302
Ligurians, defeated by Fabins
Maximus, III. 120; also called Ligustines, brief account of them, subdued by Aemilius Paulus, VI.
366 f.; 402; 458; call themselves
Ambrones by descent, defeat
Ambrones at Aquae Sextiae, IX.
514 eler Carthaginians land there,
V1. 32
Limnaeus, slain defending Alexander,
VII. 404
Limnus, Macedonian from Chalaestra, conspires against Alexander and is killed, Vil. 364 Lindus, Marcellus dedicated treasures from Syracuse there, Vv. 520 Lingones, their territory crossed by Caesar, VII. 506
Lion’s Head, village where Themistocles was to be murdered, II. 82 Liparian galleys, capture Roman envoys on way to Delphi, II. 114 408

Lirls, river, Ix. 566
Lissus, Pompeian,
Antony, IX. 154
Llsts of citizens, arranged by censors,
11. 346
Literature, loved by Lucullus, II. 472

‘* Litores,’’ original form of “‘ lictores,”’
1.172
Lituus, crooked staff used in augury, carried by Romulus; preserved on

Palatine, lost at time of Gallic invasion, found afterwards, I. 160; its use, II. 174
Livia, wife of Augustus Caesar; related to Sulpicius Galba, xI. 210; IX. 322; 330
Livius, M., lost Tarentum to Hannibal, TII. 186
Livius Drusus, see ‘‘ Drusus, Livius.”’

Livius Postumius, led Latins against Rome after Gauls left, 1. 184
Livy, of Patavium, historian, VII. 554

Cited : (V. 22) IT. 108, (XXIII. 16. 15) vy. 462, (XXVIII. 2) V. 502, (27) 520, (XXXIX. 5) X. 378, 380, (42) peeees 5645 5763 IV. 3423 VII 554; 9 pose Sp enhyet favoured Hannibal, Vv. 514
Locrians, give divine honours to Eucleia, 11, 278; proclaimed free at usthinaian games by Flamininus, X. 50

Locrians, Ozolian, III. 56

Locris, invaded by Orchomenians, V. 376; ravaged by Aratus, XI. 34
Lollius, M., colleague of Cato as quaestor, VIIT. 272
“Longimanus,’’ surname of Artaxerxes I., XI. 128
“Long Walls,’ of Athens, called “‘legs,’’ begun by Cimon at his own expense, If. 446
Lolis, Macedonian for month Hecatombaeon, VII, 228
Love, signs of, IX. 92; statue of, in Academy, dedicated by Peisistratus, I. 406
Luca, where Caesar, Pompey, and Crassus met, III. 356, V. 248, VII. 494

Lucania, VI. 176, VIT. 162, IX. 384, 394

Lucanians, Mamercus planned to bring them against Timoleon, VI.
342; those joining Pyrrhus after captured by

Heracleia are censured, Ix. 400;
inveterate foes of Rome, IV. 420 Lucerenses, one of the 3 divisions of Roman people in time of Romulus; derived from “ lucus,’’ I. 152

Lucilius, tribune, advises Pompey be made tribune and is attacked by Cato, V. 256
Lucilius, comrade of Brutus, saves him from capture at Philippi, vt.
238; becomes a friend of Antony,
1X. 294
Lucinus, Sextus, thrown down
Tarpeian rock by orders of Marius,
Ix. 590
Lucius (1), see “‘ Furius, L.”’

Lucius (2), brother of Scipio Africanus Maior, expelled from equestrian order by Cato the Elder, II. 354 Lucius (3), brother of Valens, sent away by Otho with Dolabella, x1.
286  Lucius,’’ name called out on way to sacrifice to Romulus, I. 184 Lucretia (1), wife of Numa, mother of Pompilia, 1. 376
Lucretia (2), suffered violence, committed suicide, I. 502, 534 Lucretius (1), father of Lucretia, elected consul with Publicola, died soon after, I. 534 Lucretius (2) T., chosen consul as colleague to Publicola, 1. 542; attacks and routs Sabine cavalry,

Lucretius (3), invited first to express opinion re moving to Veii, II. 170
Lucretius Ofella, urged to raise siege of the younger Marius at Praeneste, Iv. 422; candidate for consulship against Sulla’s wishes, murdered by his orders, 432; 448
Lucullea, festivals in honour of Lucullus in Asia, Il. 542
Lucullean money, used widely and for long time, II. 474
Luculli, the two, absent in Servile war, ITY. 4325 VII. 478
Lucullus, L. Licinius, his family and accomplishments, Sulla’s memoirs dedicated to him, 11. 470f., 484; wrote Greek history of Marsic war, 472; favoured and employed by Sulla, 474f.; commissioned by Sulla to collect the 20,000 talents exacted from Asia and re-coin it, 482; appointed guardian of Sulla’s son; consul with M. Cotta, gets province of Cisalpine Gaul, 484; has money sent to Pompey in Spain, 486, V. 162; with help of Praecia and Cethegus gets province of Cilicia and Mithridatic war, II. 488; advances against Mithridates, 494; comes to relief of Cyzicus, 498; cuts to pieces part of Mithridates’ forces at river Rhyndacus, another part at river Granicus, relieves Cyzicus, 504; refuses senate’s vote of 3000 talents for ships, 508; invades Mithridates’ country by way of Bithynia and Galatia, 510; leaves Murena in charge of siege of Amisus, 514; inflicts severe losses upon Mithridates, who flees, 520; found great treasure in Cabira and other places captured, 524; subdued

Chaldaeans and Tibareni, occupied Lesser Armenia, 526; takes Amisus, which is sacked and burned by the soldiers, 528; frees cities of Asia of their financial oppression, 532; gives processions, festivals, etc.
in cities of Asia, 542; leaving Sornatius as guardian of Pontus, sets out for 2nd war, crosses Euphrates, 546: crosses Tigris and enters Armenia, 548; defeats Tigranes and invests Tigranocerta, 552; utterly defeats Tigranes' great army near Tigranocerta, 149, 556f.3; takes Tigranocerta, 566; honours memory of Zarbienus, king of the Gordyeni, 568; decides to attack Parthia, but his soldiers refuse,570; plundered Armenia and marched against Artaxata, royal residence of Tigranes, 572; defeats Tigranes at the river Arsania, 574; purposes to advance farther but the troops object, 578 Begins to fail because of mutinous army, 578 f.; is also secretly undermined by P. Clodius, 582; cannot zet army to march against Tigranes or against Mithridates, who had come back into Pontus from Armenia, 584; is superseded by Pompey, meets him in Galatia, but comes to no agreement with him,
Oo 4°99

588 f., Vv. 190 f.; failed because he could not win the affection of his soldiers, 11. 590; on return to Rome is attacked by Memmius and has difficulty in getting a triumph, 592, VIII. 304; divorces Clodia, marries Servilia, sister of Cato, divorces her, 11. 594; retires from public life, 596; his extravagance and luxury, 598f., Ix. 556; threw his libraries open to all; fond of all philosophy, but favoured the Old Academy, Il. 604 f.; still supports his political friends at times and opposes Pompey, 606, VIII. 308; opposes measures of Caesar the consul, 310, 11. 608; retires even more from public life, loses his mind in old age, 376, 608; buried on his estate at Tusculum, 610

See also 11. 406, 408, 410, 111. 370, 398, Iv. 412, v. 192, 202, 216, 234, 238, 240, VII. 1541, 162, X. 384 in II. 512, 548, 562, 598,
2
Lucullus, M. Licinius, loved by his brother Lucius, elected aedile with him, II. 472f.; as Sulla's legate defeats 50 cohorts of enemy at Fidentia, Iv. 412; when praetor of Macedonia tries P. Antonius for corruption, VII. 448; absent from Servile war, III. 432; prosecuted for his acts as quaestor under Sulla, bat acquitted, 11. 592; died soon aiter his brother, 610
Lucumo, wealthy Tuscan who mrcneed his guardian Arron, II. 26
'¢ Lupa,' means both she-wolf and courtezan, and may mean latter in reference to Romulus' nurse, I. 100
Lupercalia, derivation of word; origin and nature of festival held in February, I. 156 f., 370, VII, 584; called Lycaea in Greek, 1x. 164
Luperci, what they do at the Lupercalia, I. 156, Ix. 164
Lusitanians, triumphed over by Brutus, xX. 194; organized by Sertorius, VIII, 21f.; conquered by Caesar, VII. 470
Lusius, C., serves under his uncle

Marius; slain by Trebonius, Ix.
4938
410

‘“*Tiycaea,’”’ related in meaning to Lupercalia, I. 156, VII. 584, rx. 164
Lycacum, Mt., where Cleomenes defeated Aratus, X. 58, XI. 82
Lycaonia, 11.544; added to Pompey’s sway by the Manilian law, v. 190;
Amyntas king of, Ix. 276
Lyceum, at Athens, I. 62; ravaged by Sulla, IV. 362 Lycians, refuse Brutus’ demand for money, VI. 192; forced to give 160 talents, 198
Lycomedes (1), king of Scyros, asked to restore lands to Theseus, murdered him, I. 82, 11. 428 Lycomedes (2), Athenian captain, first to capture Persian ship at Salamis, I. 44
Lycomidae, Themistocles connected with family of, II. 4 Lycon (1), Syracusan, supplies sword for murdering Dion, VI. 120
Lycon (2), of Scarpheia, actor, begs 10 talents of Alexander, VII. 310
 Lycophon,’”’ used in pallet-beds of Spartan boys in winter for warmth,
I. 258
Lycophron (1), Athenian general, slain in battle with Nicias, III. 228 Lycophron (2), brother of Hebé, helps slay Alexander of Pherae, V. 430 f, Lycortas,chosen general by Messenians to avenge death of Philopoemen, X.
314 Lycurgidae, anniversaries of death of Lycurgus, I. 302
Lycurgus (1), when he lived, I. 204; his lineage, 206; after death of Polydectes became king of Sparta for short time, 208; resigning kingship makes himself guardian of his brother’s son, the new king, 210; accused of desiring the king's death, goes abroad and studies various forms of government, 212; on returning to Sparta undertakes to change the existing order of things entirely, 216; his most important innovation was the institution of a senate or Council of Elders, 218; gets oracle from Delphi to lend sanction to his work, 220; (ephors introduced later to curb the oligarchical element), 224; as 2nd measure redistributes the land, 226;

next divides up the movable property, withdraws all gold and silver money and introduces iron currency, 228, IV. 276; banishes unnecessary arts, I. 230; introduces conimon messes, 232 Attacked by wealthy citizens and blinded in one eye by Alcander, 234; boys came to the public messes, 238; put none of his laws into writing, 240; forbade extravagance and making frequent expeditions against the same enemy, 242; carefully regulated marriages and births, 244; put public stigma upon confirmed bachelors, 248; his system of training for boys and _ youths, 256f.; examples of Spartan wit and brevity of speech, 266 f.; Spartan training in music and poetry, 270; their life in time of war, 274f£.; Lycurgus said to have been an experienced warrior, 276; training of Spartans lasted until full maturity, 278; Lycurgus trained citizens to have neither wish nor ability to live for themselves; how senators were elected, 282; regulations as to burial, 286;

travel and presence of foreigners forbidden; what the ‘ krupteia”’ was; treatment of Helots, 288 f.; bound citizens by oath to observe his laws until he returned, then consulted the oracle at Delphi and starved himself to death, 292 f.; in reign of Agis gold and silver crept into Sparta, 296; Iycurgus’ design for a civil polity adopted by Plato, Diogenes, and Zeno, 300; the place of his death, 302
See also 1. 320, 446, II. 214, 390,
IV, 234, V. 72, X. 12, 68, 244, 250
Sayings: I. 210, 266
Lycurgus (2), led Plain-men at Athens,
I. 486
Lycurgus (3) of Byzantium, with Anavilaiis and others, egreed to surrender the city to Alcibiades if it were not plundered, Ivy. 90
Lycurgus (4), Athenian orator, VIII.
160; his surrender demanded by Alexander, 182, VII. 56; VIII. 166;
X. 356; quoted, III. 424
Lycus, place to north of Greece, x.
330
Lycus river(1),in Asia Minor, 11. 514,
Ix. 118
Lycus river (2), in Sicily, VI. 340

Lydia, obtained peace and security through Heracles, I. 14; II. 432; invaded by Agesilaiis, v. 24 Lydiades, tyrant of Megalopolis, resigns, makes city a member of Achaean league, tries to rival Aratus, XI. 69, 80; attacks Cleomenes at Megalopolis and is slain, 84, X. 62 “Lydians, procession of,’’ a rite at Sparta, II. 266
Lygdamis, said by some to have led Cimmerians into Asia, Ix. 490

Lynceus (1), with Idas said to have carried off Helen, I. 70 Lynceus (2), Samian, cited, Ix. 62 £.

Lysander (1), father of Archippé, adopted Diocles, II. 86
Lysander (2), statue of him at Delphi, his appearance, lineage, training and character, IV. 234f.; put in command of fleet after Athenian disaster in Sicily, 238; visits Cyrus at Sardis to accuse Tissaphernes of slackness, and gets 10,000 darics to increase pay of his sailors 1 obol a day, 102, 240; defeats Antochius, Alcibiades' pilot, off Samos, 104,242 ; organizes oligarchic political clubs in cities of Asia, is succeeded by Callicratidas, 244; returns as vice-admiral under Aracus, 248; unscrupulous and subtle, deceives democracy of Miletus, 250; promised every assistance by Cyrus, 252 ; storms Lampsacus, 254 ; defeats Athenians at Aegospotami, 258 f.; slew 3000 prisoners including the admirals, 108, 260f.; establishes oligarchies in the cities, 266 f.; takes Athens, imposes harsh terms, 270 f.; establishes 30 rulers in Athens and 10 in the Piraeus, garrisons the acropolis, 110, 274
Annoys leading men by his ambition, 282; recalled by ephors, 284; released by ephors, sets sail to meet strong opposition, 290; persuades Agesilaiis to claim throne, 292, v. 4f.; gets Agesilatis 4il appointed general for war against barbarians, and goes along as one of 30 counsellors, 12f., Iv. 296; thrust aside by Agesilatis, 298, V. 18; sent as ambassador to Hellespont, induces Spithridates to revolt from Pharnabazus, returns to Sparta without honour, plans revolution, 20, 52, Iv. 300f.; memorizes speech written by Cleon the Halicarnassian to persuade citizens, 302; his plot spoiled by cowardice of one of his co-workers, 306; plunged Hellas into the Boeotian war, 308; took Orchomenus, 310; defeated and slain by Thebans near Haliartus, 312; his speech on the constitution discovered by Agesilaiis but not published, 318, v. 54; honoured highly after death, Iv. 320

See also 1, 298, II. 306, Iv. 112
Quoted : IV. 250, 252, 292, 300
Lysander (3), son of Libys, supports Agis in his attempted reforms, x.14; elected by help of Agis, introduces bill to relieve debtors and divide land, but the bill is defeated, 18; indicts Leonidas and has him deposed from kingship, 26 f.; indicted for violating law, 28, 30
*‘ Lysandreia,’’ name _ given their festival of Hera by Samians in honour of Lysander, IV. 280
Lysandridas, of Megalopolis, captured by Cleomenes, driven out of Messene by Philopoemen, x. 104
Lysanoridas, harmost in Thebes; being heavily fined, left Peloponnesus, V. 370
Lysias, orator, Cato the Elder’s model, say some, II. 320
Lysicles, sheep-dealer, lived with Sores after death of Pericles, III. 0

Lysidicé, daughter of Pelops and Hippodamela, sister of Pittheus, mother of Alemene, I. 16
Lysimachus (1), father of Aristides the Just, of tribe Antiochis, of deme Alopecé, II. 8, 210, 290, 418
Lysimachus (2), son of Aristides, had daughter Polycrité; given pension, IT. 296
412

Lysimachus (3), grandson of Aristides very poor, II. 296
Lysimachus (4), Acarnanian, tutor of Alexander, VII. 236; saved from death by him, 294
Lysimachus (5), king after Alexander, VII.356$; 382; IX.30; begins to wear diadem, 40; 48; 60; 64; histerritory ravaged by Demetrius, 74; father of Agathocles, marries one daughter of Ptolemy and takes another for his son, 76; deprived Demetrius of his cities in Asia, 86; 360; taken prisoner by Dromichaetes, then liberated, 98; leagued with Seleucus and Ptoleny against Demetrius, invades Macedonia from Thrace, 108, 374; divides Macedonia with Pyrrhus, 112, 378f.; attacks Pyrrhus at Edessa and gains Macedonia, 380; 116; offers Seleucus large sum to put Demetrius to death, 130; 338
Lysimachus (6), companion of Pyrrhus, IX. 442
Lysippus (1), his statues well represent Alexander, VII. 230; 268; 344
Lysippus (2), general of Achaeans, xX. 286
Macaria, daughter of Hercules, sacrificed, V. 390 Macedonia, II, 448; entered by Pelopidas, scene of war between Ptolemy and Alexander, king of Macedonia, v. 404; 1x. 106; invaded by Lvsi-machus and Pyrrhus, 108, 370; divided between Pyrrhus and Lysimachus, 112, 378; deserts Pyrrhus for Lysimachus, 380; invaded by Pyrrhus, 430; ravaged by barbarians, who are utterly defeated by Antigonus, xX. 118; invaded by Sulpicius and Villius late in season,

X. 3263; Greeks freed from it, VI.
370; returned to Philip, x. 346; invaded by P. Licinius, v1. 376; in reign of Perseus subdued by Romans, 414 f., 1X.134; being overrun by Ariarathes, IV. 358; province of, voted to Antonius, VII.110; voted to Piso, 156; delivered up to Brutus by Hcertensius, VI. 180 Macedonian garri on, attacked by Thebans, VII. 54
GENERAL

Macedonian king, lets Agesilalis pass through territory as friend, V. 42 Macedonians, I. 12; Greeks aroused against them by Demosthenes, VII.
40 f.; 398; after Cassander's death ruled by his son Philip, Ix. 86; proclaim Demetrius king, 90; 366; proclaim Pyrrhus king, 376; driven from Peloponnesus by Aratus, X.
82; expelled from Athens, XI. 78;
harried by Illyrians, call Antigonus home, X. 112; call in Antigonus, cousin of Demetrius and make him first regent and then king, VI. 372; Greeks freed from by Romans, II.
334; submit to Aemilius Paulus and are to pay 100 talents tribute, VI.
418, 428: 438
'* Macedonicus,"' surname of Metellus,
Ix. 464
Macer, Clodius, see '"* Clodius Macer."

Macer, Licinius, convicted of fraud and died, VII. 102

‘* Machaeriones,’” name given descendants of Anticrates who slew Epaminondas, V. 98
Machanidas, tyrant of Sparta, defeated and slain by Achaeans under Philopoemen, X. 280; succeeded by Nabis as tyrant of Sparta, 286
Machares, son of Mithridates, held Bosporus, asks to be Rome's friend, II. 644
Machatas, father of Charops who was leading man in Epirus and well-disposed to Romans, X. 330
Machinery, stage, referred to, IV. 302

Macrinus, cognomen or epithet, IX. 464
Maecenas, Memoirs of Caesar Augustus addressed to him and Agrippa, VII. 214, Ix. 214
Maedi, subdued by Alexander, VII. 244; their country ravaged by Sulla, Iv. 402
Maedica, force of Bisternae encamp there, VI. 382
Maelius, Spurius, slain by Servilius Ahala, VI. 126
Maeotic Lake (Lake Maeotis) II. 518, IV. 358, V. 206, IX. 488
Magaeus, brother of Pharnabazus, ordered to kill Alcibiades, Iv. 112
Magas, brother of Ptolemy Iv., x. 124

Magi, XT. 132, 138

Magnesia, given Themistocles for bread, If. 80, 82, 84; Themistocles died there, 86, 88, 90
Magnesia, Dionysius of, VII. 90

Magnesia, visited by Titus, X. 354

Magnesian lore, exposition of, heard by

Themistocles, IT. 80
Magnesians, have garrisons put over them by Alexander of Pherae, v. 418; freed by him under compulsion 430; proclaimed free at Isthmian games by Flamininus, X. 350; 364
Mago, Carthaginian, summoned for help by Hicetas, occupies Syracuse with fleet and army, VI. 302, 304; frightened, sails off to Libya, 310; commits suicide, 514
Maia, mother of Mercury, I. 370

Maimacterion, Athenian month, same as Boeotian Alalcomenius, II. 278
Malaca, plundered by Crassus, III. 326

Malchus, sends army to Alexander from Arabia, IX. 276
Malcitas, leader of ‘Thebans against Alexander of Pherae after death of Pelopidas, V. 430
Malea, cape, IV. 358, X. 20, XI. 26

Maliac gulf, 111. 56

Malli, people of India, attacked by Alexander who was __— severely wounded, VII. 402 f., 414
Mamercii, descended from Mamercus, 1. 376
Mamercus (1), son of Pythagoras, I. 334; surnamed Aemilius, founded Aemilian family according to some, VI. 358
Mamercus (2), one of Numa’s 4 sons, named after son of Pythagoras, I. 334, 376
Mamercus (3), tyrant of Catana, becomes ally of Timoleon, VI. 290; forms alliance with Carthaginians, 334; writer of poems and tragedies, 336; defeated at river Abolus, 340; tried and condemned at Syracuse and crucified, 342, 350

Mamertines, called in by some Sicilian cities owing to hatred of Pyrrhus, IX. 422, 424; barbarians about Messana, conquered by Pyrrhus, 420; harshly treated by Pompey, V. 136
Mamurius, Veterius, copied accurately the sacred shield, 1. 350; rewarded by having his name mentioned in a song of the Salii, 354
Mancinus, C., Roman consul, defeated several times in war against Numantia and forced to make truce with enemy, X. 152; to be delivered up in bonds and unarmed to Numantines, 158
Mandrocleidas (1), Spartan, sent as ambassador to Pyrrhus, IX. 436
Mandrocleidas (2), son of Ecphanes, supports Agis in his attempted reforms, X. 14, 20; indicted for violating law by proposing abolition of debts and distribution of land, persuades 2 kings to act together and disregard ephors, 28
Mandurium, in Italy, where Messapians slew Archidamus, xX. 8
 Mania,”’ surname of Demo, Ix. 64

Manilius (1), expelled from senate by Cato the Elder for embracing his wife in the presence of his daughter, II. 352
Manilius (2), tribune, proposes law giving Pompey charge of war against Mithridates, V.190; brought before Cicero a praetor on charge of fraudulent accounting ; defended by him, VII. 104
‘* Manipularis,’’ derived from Manipulus, I. 110

 Manipulus,”’ origin of the word, I. 110 Manius Curius, see ‘‘ Curius, M.”’

Manius (1), consul, after defeating Antiochus, asked Achaeans to permit exiles from Sparta to return home, X. 306; opposed considerably by Philopoemen, 316. Seealso  Acilius Glabrio, M.”’ Manius (2), tribune, opposes T. Flamiaoe candidacy for consulship, x. 24

 Manlius,”’ name common to family, IX. 464 Manlius (1), implores Ti. Gracchus to submit question of agrarian law to senate, X. 170
Manlius (2), brought into plot against Sertorius, VIII. 68, 70, 74
Manlius, C., served with distinction under Sulla, led veterans in support of Catiline, VII. 114, 118, 120 Manlius, L. (1), expert mountain-climber helps Cato the Elder at Thermopylae, It. 338 Manlius, L. (2), came from Gallia Neuere to help Metellus, VIII. 2

Manlius, T., in his consulship temple of Janus closed, I. 372
Manlius Capitolinus, M., repulses attack of Gauls on the Capitol, II. 160 f.; supports the poor, is condemned and thrown from the Capitol, 188
Manlius Maximus, Gn., defeated by the Ambrones, IX. 512
Mantineia, not received into allegiance by Demetrius, IX. 58, XI. 58; ally of Cleomenes, captured by Aratus, joins Achaean league, 82, x. 60; freed of Achaean garrison and restored to its own laws and constitution by Cleomenes, 78, XI. 90; captured by Achaeans with aid of Antigonus and its inhabitants sold into slavery, founded anew and name changed to Antigoneia, 104 f., X. 100, 256, 280

Mantineia, battle of, Thebans defeat Spartans, but Epaminondas is slain, V. 92, 98, 348; 2nd battle of, Demetrius routs Archidamus, IX. 84; 3rd battle of, Philopoemen defeats Machanidas, xX. 282
Mantineians, secede from Sparta and make alliance with Athens, III. 244, IV. 36; revolt from Thebes, helped by Spartans, V. 94
Manumission among the Romans, Xx. 362
Marathon, I. 68; named from Marathus, 74f.; Aristonicus of, VII. 70; battle of, Greeks under Miltiades defeat Persians, I. 82, II. 10, 138, 224, 226, 386, 396, 418, XI. 34
Marathonian bull, sacrificed to Delphinian Apollo by Theseus, 1. 26
Marathus, Arcadian in army of Dioscuri, gave name Marathon to township, I. 74
Marcellinus, asks Pompey and Crassus if they intend to be candidates for consulship, III. 358, V. 248
‘* Marcellus,’* means martial, V. 436; 3rd Roman name, IX. 464
Marcellus, quaestor with Cato the Younger, VIII. 276
°

Marcellus, C. Claudius (1), consul, votes Caesar be declared public enemy unless he lays down arms, V. 268, VII. 512f.; asks Pompey to prepare defence against Caesar, V. O70; 1k. 148s" Vil« 1945 had 2 daughters and 1 son by Octavia, sister of Augustus, V. 522, IX. 330; died, 206; quoted, V. 270 Marcellus, C. Claudius (2), son of C. Marcellus and Octavia, sister of Augustus, married daughter of Augustus and died during aedile-ship, V. 522; made both son and son-in-law of Augustus, Ix. 330

Marcellus, M. Claudius (1), father of the following Marcellus, Vv. 436
Marcellus, M. Claudius (2), 5 times consul, III. 174, V. 436, 522; mighty warrior, made curule aedile and augur, 438; appointed consul by the ‘“‘interreges,’’ appoints Gn. Cornelius his colleague; wishes war with Gauls continued, 446; slays Britomartus, king of Gauls, winning ‘*spolia opima,”’ 450, 1. 138; takes Mediolanum, grants Gauls equitable peace, is given triumph, Vv. 454; after Cannae takes the lead iu fighting Hannibal, 456 f., 111.172 f.; surprises Hannibal at Nola, V. 462; made consul 2nd time, defeats Hannibal near Nola, 464; consul for 3rd time, sailed to Sicily, 466; storms Leontini, 468; captures Megara and Syracuse, 482 f.; re-grets death of Archimedes, 486; humane and just in treating Sicilians, 488, II. 184; brought back beautiful works of art, 184, V. 492.
Consul 4th time, is accused by Syracusans of having treated their city with undue severity ,is acquitted, 496f.; moves against Hannibal, 500; fights several engagements with varying success, 502 f.; spends summer at Sinuessa recuperating bis soldiers, 510; consul Odth time, calms Etruria, 512; ambushed and slain with his colleague Crispinus by Hannibal, 516f., X. 324; his memorials, 520f.; compared with Pelopidas, 522 f.

Quoted: v. 450, 478

Marcellus, M. Claudius (3), son of preceding, V. 438; censor with T. Tlamininus, expels 4 men from senate, X. 372 Marcellus, M. Claudius (4),serves under Marius against Teutones, Ix. 518
Marcellus, M. Claudius (5), with 2 others comes to consul Cicero at midnight to warn of plot, vi1. 116
March, used to be first month; consecrate to Mars, I. 368; why moved by Numa, 370
Marcia, daughter of Philippus, married to Cato, then to Hortensius, VIII. 292, 326; left widow by Horitensius, again married to Cato, 362
Marcianus, see Icelus.”"

Marcii, patrician house at Rome, had inany distinguished sons, IV. 118
Marcius (1), urged Numa to accept kingship of Rome, I. 324; father of Marcius who married Pompilia, Numa’s daughter; rival of Hostilius for throne after Numa, defeated, starved himself to death, 378

Marcius (2), son of preceding, husband of Pompilia and father of Ancus Martius, 1. 378
Marcius (3), with Cethegus ordered to kill Cicero, VII. 120
Marcius (4), recently come from Rome to Pompey’s camp, quoted, VII. 180
Marcius, mountain where Romans were besieged by Latins, II. 176,

180
Marcius, Ancus, son of Marcius and Pompilia, Numa's daughter, 6 years old when Numa died, succeeded Tullus Hostilius to throne, 1. 378, IV. 118; completed wooden bridge over Tiber, I. 338
Marcius, O., consul with Scipio Nasica, not duly appointed and recalled, v. 444 Marcius, P., with Q. Marcius brought best and most abundant supply of water to Rome, Iv. 118 Marcius, Q., see preceding.

Marcius Censorinus, see '' Censorinus."' Marcius Rex, husband of Tertia, sister of Clodius, VII. 154
Marcus, brother of Valerius, see  Valerius, M.''
"* Marcus,'' name called out by people

415

GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE 'LIVES'

as they went to sacrifice to Mars, I. 184
' Marcus,'' praenomen of Camillus, II. 148
Mardian, a certain, acts as adviser and guide to Antony, IX. 230
Mardian mounted archers in Tigranes' army, II. 574
Mardion, eunuch of Cleopatra's, IX. 274
Mardonius, left behind by Xerxes to block pursuit, II. 12f., 46; left behind with 300,000, threatens Hellenes and tempts Athenians, 240; invades Attica 2nd time, 242; repulsed with help of Athenians, 252; decides to cross Asopus and attack Athenians unexpectedly,

256, 260, 264; defeated and slain at Plataea, 226, 270, X. 8; quoted, II. 240
Margianian steel, 111. 386

‘* Margltes,”’ epithet applied to Alexander by Demosthenes, VII. 54
Marian canal, Ix. 502

‘‘ Marian mule,’’ origin of the term, IX. 494
Marica, grove near Minturnae, IX. 572

 Maricas,”’ play of Eupolis, II. 220

Marius, father of the famous Marius, IX. 466
Marius, C. (1), about his name, Ix. 464; appearance, early training, family, 466; saw first service with Scipio Africanus in siege of Numantia, 468; makes his mark as tribune of the people, 470; defeated for aedile, elected praetor, 472; receives province of Farther Spain, marries Julia, aunt of J. Caesar, 474; serves with distinction in Africa under Caecilius Metellus against Jugurtha, 476; returns to Rome and is elected consul for war against Jugurtha, 480 f.; succeeds Metellus in Africa, but Sulla, his quaestor, gets Jugurtha, 484, IV. 330 Elected consul in his absence for war against Cimbri and Teutones, IX. 486, 492; celebrates triumph over Jugurtha, 492f.; drills his army and wins their respect, 494f.; elected consul 3rd time, 498; elected 4th time with Lutatius Catulus, 500; confronted 416

by Teutones and Ambrones, 502 f.;

follows the barbarians to Aquae Sextiae, 510; cuts the Ambrones to pieces, 514; utterly defeats the Teutones, 518 f.; receives news of being elected consul for 5th time, 522 ; agrees with Boeorix, king of the Cimbri, to fight on plain of Vercellae 3rd day following, 530; utterly defeats the Cimbri, 536
Elected consul 6th time through bribery, supports Saturninus in many of his misdeeds, 542; when Metellus is recalled from exile sets sail for Cappadocia and Galatia hoping for war against Mithridates, 548; on returning finds a rival in Sulla, 550; loses prestige in Social war, 552; by striving to get appointed to war against Mithridates brings on civil strife, 536 f.; gets appointed but Sulla refuses to hand over his troops and drives Marius from Rome, 560; is captured and taken to Minturnae, 568; frightens barbarian sent in to slay him, 572; is put aboard ship and sails to Africa, 574; 1s warned off by Sextilius the governor, rejoined by his son, 576; gathers a force and returns, 578f.; enters Rome with Cinna and puts many to death, 584 f.; kills Marcus Antonius the orator, 586, IX. 138; elected consul 7th time, 590; dies of pleurisy, 592, 596.
See also 11. 484, 596, III. 322, Iv. 328, 336, 344, 348, 350, 352, 354, 454, V. 140, vi. 190, VII. 442, 450, 478, VIII. 6, 10, 14, x. 384.
Quoted; III. 318, IX. 550, 554, 572, 576
Marius, O. (2), son of Julia, VII. 442; escapes to Africa, IX. 560; goes to Hiempsal to ask help, 574; escapes from him and with his father crosses to island of Cercina, 576; assumes consulship and is very cruel to his opponents, 596, VIII. 14; defeated with Norbanus by Sulla near Capua, Iv. 410; defeated at Signia, flees to Praeneste, 416; besieged at Praeneste by Ofella, 418, 422, v. 146; slew himself, 1V. 428, Ix. 598 Marius, M. (1), sent by Sertorius to Mithridates from Spain with an army, advances against Lucullus, Il. 494, VII. 66; captured and executed by Lucullus, I. 506

Marius, M. (2), slain by Catiline, IV. 430
Marius Celsus, see ‘‘ Celsus, Marius.”

Marphadates, royal host of Cato the Younger’s son in Cappadocia, VIII. 408
Marriage, among Athenians as regulated by Solon, I. 456 f.; would-be brides and bridegrooms sacrifice to Eucleia, 11. 278, 2963 libations at wedding feast at Athens, ITI. 18; why Romans called ‘ Talasius ’’ or ‘*Talasio'’ at weddings, I. 130f., VY. 124f.; marriages reviewed by censors, II. 346; laws concerning, introduced by Sulla, Iv. 450; regulations of Numa and Lycurgus compared, 1.390; marriage as regulated by Spartans, 248; penalty at Sparta for not marrying, marrying late, or marrying badly, IV. 320; marriage with one who had proved cowardly in battle considered disgrace at Sparta, V. 82, Ix. 206
Marrucinians, repulsed at Pydna, VI. 406 Mars, father of Romulus by Aemilia according to some, I. 92; field of, dedicated, 520; shrine of, burned and demolished by barbarians, kept letters of Romulus uninjured, II. 174, I1v.390. See also  Enyalius.”’ ‘‘Mars,’’ name applied to spear consecrated in the Regia, I. 182

Marsi, persuaded by Sulla to become friends and allies of Rome, IV. 330
Marsic war, Greek history of, by Lucullus, It. 472, VII. 86, VIII. 8
Marsyas (1), slain by Dionysius the Elder, VI. 20
Marsyas (2), cited, VII. 42

Martha, Syrian woman used as prophetess by Marius, IX. 506
Martialis, military tribune, Jets Otho’s men into camp, XI. 262
Martianus, gladiator, reputed father of Nymphidius Sabinus, XI. 224
Marvel, raven stunned by shouting, V. 180
Maryllus, tribune removed from office for taking diadems off Caesar’s statues, VII. 584

Masabates, eunuch of Artaxerxes, had cut off hands and head of Cyrus, tortured and executed, XI. 164 f.
Masinissa, friend of Romans, at war with Carthage, II. 380
Masistius, commander of Persian cavalry in Mardonius’ army, slain by Athenians, II. 254
Maso, of consular rank, father of Papiria who married Aemilius Paulus, VI. 364
Massalia (Marseilles), founded by Protis, a merchant, I. 408 ; people of, fence vineyards with bones of thosa slain at Aquae Sextiae, Ix. 520
Master of Horse, his powers, IX. 156

Mater Matuta, Camillus vows a temple to her; her rites almost identical with Leucothea’s, II. 104 Mathematicians, teaching as to course of sun, VIII. 148 Matronalia, festival for women, why instituted, I. 154

Mauricus, noble Roman of Galba’s time, XI. 222
Maurusians, in Africa, attack Ser-torius, VIII.18; helped by Sertorius, 22; slay some of his murderers, 74
Maxims, those of Fabius Maximus resembled those of Thucydides, III.
120
Maximus, consul in Caesar’s time, VII.
576
‘* Maximus,’’ bestowed as title upon Valerius and Fabius Rullus, v. 146
May, named from Maia, mother of Mercury, to whom it is sacred, or from ‘‘ maior,’’ I. 370 Mazaeus, Persian general in battle of Arbela, VII. 320; his son offered a second province by Alexander, 342 Mechanical contrivances, II. 500; siege works employed by Callimachus, II. 528; engines of war, 592; engine of artillery used by Marcellus, V. 470; engines used by Archimeces, 474; engines used by Demetrius, Ix. 48 f,
Mechanics, brief history of, v. 470

Medea, fled from Corinth; living with!Aegeus, tried to poison Theseus,
I. 22f.; naphtha said to be the drug she used, VII. 330
417

Medes, attacked by Perseus, H. 410; invasion of, 416; flight of, from Hellas, 418; defeated at Mycale,
VI. 4203 11. 514; join Tigranes, 554,

558; king of, sends ambassadors to Pompey, V. 208; king of, quarrels with Phraortes the Parthian, invites Antony to come to his help, 1X. 254; 276
Media, XI. 140; eastern boundary of Lucullus' conquests, II. 618; triumphed over by Pompey, V. 230
Mediolanum, captured by Marcellus, V. 4523 VII. 484
Mediterranean sea, divided by Pompey into 13 districts for war on pirates, Vv. 182
Medius (1), in retinue of Alexander, VII, 432
Medius (2), friend of Antigonus, Ix. 42
Megabacchus, serves with Crassus in Parthia, III. 390; commits suicide with P. Crassus, 396
Megabates, son of Spithridates, favourite of Agesilaiis, V. 28
Megabyzus, getsletterfrom Alexander, VII. 348
Megacles (1), persuaded Cylon and followers to stand trial and then murdered them, I. 430
Megacles (2), son of Alcmaeon, led Shore-men, I. 486; with rest of Alemaeonidae flees from Athens, 492
Megacles (3), father of Euryptolemus, who was father of Isodicé, wife of Cimon, U. 416, 452
Megacles (4), father of Deinomaché the mother of Alcibiades, IV. 2
Megacles (5), Dion's brother, VI. 60

Megacles (6), friend of Pyrrhus, slain by Dexoiis, Ix. 398 Megaleas, courtier of Philip, son of Antigonus, x1. 110
Megalophanes, of Megalopolis, made tutor of Philopoemen; his career, X. 256

Megalopolis, in Arcadia, Leuctra near it, V. 390; Chaeron of, VII. 228; 1X. 434; x. 8,10, 74, 100, 256, 288 f., XI.68; attacked by Spartans under Cleomenes, 82 f.
Megara (1), annexed to Attica by Theseus, I. 54; attacked by Corinth, 418

Il. 456; garrisoned by Cassander,! taken and freed by Demetrius, IX.' 22; seceded from Antigonus and joined Achaean league, XI. 54; besieged by Boeotians, X. 286; taken by Calenus, VI. 142, VII. 444, Megara (2), Macedonian town, IX. 348

Megara (3), in Sicily, taken by Marcellus, V. 482
Megarians, lost Eleusis to Theseus, I. 20; 64; at war with Athens over Salamis, 420, 572; how outwitted by Solon, 422f.; during quarrel between Megacles and Cylon factions recover Nisaea and Salamis, 432; bury dead facing east, 428; hard pressed by Persian cavalry, succcured by Athenians, II. 252; revolt to Spartans, III. 64; complain to Sparta that Athenians keep them from market-places and harbours over which they have control, 84; decree of Athens against, cause of Peloponnesian war, 84 f.; 88; shut up in their city and island of Minoa seized by Nicias, 228}; Iv. 90; in leagne against Philip, VII. 40; helped by Athens, VIII. 176
Megarid, Pegae in it, III. 60; razed by Pericles, 98
Megellus, with Pheristus repeoples Agrigentum, VI. 344
Megistonoiis, husband of Cratesiclela, convinced by Cleomenes that ephors must be removed and property divided to give Sparta supremacy in Greece, X. 62; stepfather of Cleomenes, places his property in the common stock, 72; 90; 94; defeated by Aratus at Orchomenus, X1. 86; 96

Meidias (1), Demosthenes against him, IV. 24, VII. 28
Meidias (2), exile, begs Sulla to spare Athens, IV. 370
Melanippus, son of Theseus and Periguné, father of Ioxus, I. 18
Melanopus, unlike Demosthenes in character, quoted, VII. 30 f.
Melanthius (1), poems of, H. 412; cited (Nauck 473), 414
Melanthius (2), choregus, quoted, VIII. 188 Melanthus, flourished in time of Philip of Macedon, his painting of spoke tyrant Aristratus saved at intercession of Nealces, XI. 28

Melas, river, in plain about Orchomenus, IV. 392; spreads out into marshes and lakes, V. 378
Meleager, helped by Theseus in slaying Calydonian boar, I. 66
Melesias, father of Thucydides, III, O25 312
Melesippidas, father of Eupolia, v. 2

Melians, attacked by Nicias, III. 430; chief blame for execution of grown men of Melos rests upon Alcibiades, IV. 42; restored to their homes by Lysander, 270
Meliboea, how treated by Alexander of Pherae, V. 412
Melicertes, games at Isthmus in honour of, at night, I. 56
Melissus, son of Ithagenes, physicist, defeated Pericles at siege of Samos and was defeated by him, II. 6, Ill. 74 f.

Melité, in Attica, residence of son of Ajax, I. 428; Themistocles had house there, II. 60; Phocion had house there, VIII. 186
Meliteia, city of, IV. 390

Mellaria, in Spain, VIII. 30

“‘ Melleirens,’’ name given oldest of boys at Sparta, I. 258
Melon, prominent Athenian exile who with Pelopidas and others takes part in expulsion of Spartans at Thebes, V. 356, 366, 368; elccted boeotarch, assaults acropolis, 370; 400; magistrate with Pelopidas, urges Sphodrias to seize the Piraeus, V. 68
Melos, see ‘* Melians.”

Nemmius, C., prosecutes M,. Lucullus and opposes giving him a triumph, then prosecutes his brother Lucius, Il. 592, Vil1. 304; forced by Cato to desist, 306; said Cato spent his entire nights drinking, 248
Memmius, L., Pompey’s brother-in-law, left as governor of Sicily by Pompey, V. 140; slain in battle with Sertorius, VIII. 54
Memnon, commander of Dareius on sea-board, dies, VII. 272; Barsiné his widow, 284
Memor,’’ surname of Artaxerxes II., XI. 128
Memphis, not visited by Lucullus, I1. 476
Menander (1), appointed colleague of Nicias for Sicilian expedition, III, 278; defeated by Syracusans, 28U; one of Athenian generals at Aegos-potaml, Iv. 106

Menander (2), companion of Alexander, executed for disobedience, VII. 386
Menander (3), in command of Antigonus' baggage, escapes, VIIi. 106
Menander (4), (Kock 240), cited, VII. 270
Menander (5), general of Mithridates, routed by Sornatius, II. 520
Menas, corsair under Sextus Pompeius, TX. 206
Mendé, IIT. 434

Mendes, in Egypt, V. 106

Menecleidas, opposes Epaminondas and Pelopidas to his own discomfiture, V. 400 f, Menecrates (1), physician, reproved by Agesilatis, Vv. 58
Menecrates (2), naval commander under Sextus Pompeius, 1X. 2U6
Menecrates (3), author of history of Bithynian city of Nicaea, cited, 1.58
Menedemus, chamberlain of Lucullus, II. 518
Menelaiis, brother of Ptolemy, defeated in Cyprus by Demetrius, Ix. 34; surrenders Salamis to Demetrius, 38
Menelaiis' Harbour, place on coast of of Libya where Agesilatis died, ¥.112
Menemachus, general of Mithridates, defeated by Adrian, II. 520
Menenius Agrippa, entreats plebs to return and tells fable of the belly and its members, IV. 130
Menesthes, grandson of Scirus of Salamis, one of victims sent to Crete with Theseus, I. 34
Menestheus (1), son of Peteos, grandson of Orneus, stirred up Athenians against Theseus, I. 72; succeeded Theseus as king, led men from

Eion against Troy and died there, 82, II. 424
Menestheus (2), Athenian general, III. 160
 Menexenus,'' work of Plato, II. 70

Meninx, island touched at by Marius, IX. 574
Menippus (1), friend of Pericles and colleague in generalship, III. 44
Menippus (2), Carian, taught Cicero oratory, VII. 90
Menoeceus, son of Creon, sacrificed in ancient times, V. 390
Menoetius, father of Myrto, I1. 278

Menon (1), assistant of Pheidias, charges him with embezzlement and is rewarded, III. 90
Menon (2), father of Theano, a priestess, IV. 60
Menon (3), Greek general with Cyrus, spared by Artaxerxes, XI. 168
Menon (4), Thessalian, led Greek cavalry when Leonnatus was defeated and slain, VIII. 200; father of Phthia, wou high repute in Lamian war, IX. 346
Mentor, friend of Eumenes, VIII. 80

Menyllus, friend of Phocion, commands Macedonian garrison in Athens, VII{. 206, 212
Mercedinus, intercalary month of 22 days inserted by Numa every other year after February, 1. 366
Mercedonius, intercalary month at Rome, VII. 580
Merchants, held in honour by Greeks, 1. 408
Mercury, son of Maia, 1. 370

 Meriones,'?' name appearing on spears and bronze helmets in temple in Engyium in Sicily, Vv. 488
Meropé, daughter of Erechtheus, mother of Daedalus, 1. 38
Mesopotamia, raided by Demetrius, Ix. 16; filled with Greeks by Tigranes, 11.536; 570; triumphed over by Pompey, V. 230; many cities in it join Crassus, HI. 364; 368; 372; IX. 196
Messala, father of Valeria, IV. 436

Messala, M. Valerius, consul with Domitius, V. 256
Messala Corvinus, M. Valerius, fought under Cassius at Philippi, v1. 216; 228; fought for Octavius at Actium, 244; reply to Augustus, 246. Cited : 214, 220, 226

Messalae, trace descent to Publicola, I. 566 Messana, saved from Athenians by

Alcibiades, IV. 58; attacked by Calippus, VI. 122; occupied by Timoleon, 308; freed of tyrant Hippo, 342; v. 136
Messapians, offer help to Pyrrhus shipwrecked, IX. 392; slay Archidamus at Manduriun, X. 8
Messené, rebuilt by Epaminondas, VY. 94, 4183; attacked by Demetrius, TX. 803 X. 102, 266; XI.112; 116f.: seized by Nabis, tyrant of Sparta, freed by Philopoemen, X. 286, 390; 306; 388; 314
Messenia, V. 330; ravaged by Aetolians, XI. 108

Messenians, I. 168; 226; rose against Sparta after great earthquake, 292, II. 456; restored by Thebans, V. 398; 100; xX. 48
Mestrius Florus, see ‘‘ Florus, Mestriis,"” Metageitnion, ful! moon of, nearly coincides with Ides of September, 1. 538; called by Boeotians Panemus, not favourable to Greeks, 11. 138 f.; called Carneius by Syracusans, III, 304; VII. 68
Metagenes, of deme Xypeté, completed sanctuary of mysteries at Eleusis, 111. 40
Metapontum, in Italy, 111. 174

Metella, wife of Sulla, had great influence, IV. 344; 366; 3963 bears twins Faustus and I’austa to Sulla, 434; approves marriage of Pompey to Aemilia, her daughter by Scanrus, V. 134s IV. 4363 VIII. 242
Metellus, IV. 228

Metellus, C., interpellates Sulla, Iv. 426
Metellus, Q., upbraids Ti. Gracchus, x. 176
Metellus Celer, Q. Caecilius, see “* Celer, Q. Caeccilius Metellus.”’ Metellus Creticus, L. Caecilius, tries to prevent Caesar from taking money from public treasury, V. 276, VII. 528
Metellus Creticus, Q. Caecilius, captures pirates in Crete, Vv. 186

Metellus Delmaticus, L. Caecilius, helps Marius get elected tribune, ordered to prison by him, IX. 468 f.; decorated temple of Castor and Pollux, v. 120.

Metellus Macedonicus, Q. Caecilius, robbed of Corinth by Mummius,
III. 4303 1X. 464
Metellus Nepos, Q. Caecilius, elected tribune with Cato, opposes Cicero, is opposed by Cato, VII. 138, VHT.
280 £.; proposes Jaw giving Pompey supreme power, 296f.; retires to Asia, 304; proconsul of Spain, visits Caesar at Luca, VII. 494; exchanges words with Cicero, 146 Metellus Numidicus, Q. Caecilius, uncle on mother’s side of Lucullus,
It. 470; IV. 4463 appointed general for Jugurthine war, takes Marius as Legate, intrigued against by him,
IX. 476f., 480, 484; feared by Marius and caused to lose election for consul, 540; through duplicity of Marius is banished, studies philosophy at Rhodes, 540 f., 582 £., VIII. 31253 recalled from exile, IX.
548; quoted 546
Metellus Pius, Q. Caecilius, son of Metellus Numidicus, 1X. 480; III.
326; IV. 418; 340; V. 1323 opposes Sertorius in Spain with indifferent success, V. 156, 196, VIII. 4, 32, 46, 50, 54, 58, 723; is pontifex maximus,
IV. 342, VII. 456; 478; 376; 488
Meteorites, fell at Aegospotami; discussion of them, IV. 262
ees seized by Cleomenes, X.
o Metilius, tribune of people, opposes Fabius Maximus, 111. 140, 144 Metoecia, festival instituted by Theseus, to be held on 10th of He-catombaeon, I. 52
Meton. astrologer, foresees disaster in Sicilian expedition, III. 256, IV. 44;
Meton, citizen of Tarentum, opposes inviting Pyrrhus, Ix. 382 Metrobius (1), public scribe in  Archilochi,’’ of Cratinus, IT. 434

Metrobius (2), actor, liked by Sulla, IV. 328, 438
Metrodorus (1), of Scepsis, incurs Mithridates' anger and is murdered, II, 538
Metrodorns (2), dancer, in Antony's train, 1x. 186
Micion (1), devastating sea-coast of Athens, defeated and slain by Ihocion, VII. 200
Micion (2), with Euryeleides prevents Athenians from helping Aratus, XI. 94
Micipsa, king in Africa, x. 200

Midas, 1.542; Gordium his home, VII. 272; son of Gynaeceia according to Phrygians, 462; x. 380
Mieza, place in Macedonia, VII. 240

 Milesiaca,'' obscene work by Aristides, 111. 418
Milesians, some quarrel with Coans over golden tripod, 1. 412: fight with Samians for Priené, HI. 68, 72 f.; their popular leaders deceived and slain by Lysander, IV. 250, 282
Milesian wool, IV. 62

Miletus, stormed by Alexander, VII, 268; 1X 116
Milo, general under Perseus, VI. 394

Milo Papianus, T. Annius, with Scipio and Hypsaeus candidate for consulship, VII. 350; tribune, proseeutes Clodius for violence, VII. 166; kills Clodius, vir. 170 Miltas, Thessalian seer, joins Dion's party, VI. 46; interprets omen of eclipse, VI. 48 f.
Miltiades, father of Cimon by Hegesipyle, 11. 412; chief of 10 Athenian generals at Marathou with Aristides next, 10 f:, 224* 383%. of deme

Laciadae, fined 50 talents, died in prison, 294, 4123 416; 426
Milto, Phocaean, daughter of Hermotimus, aecount of her, 111. 72
Mimallones, Macedonian women devoted to Orphic rites and orgies of Dionysus, VII. 226
Mimnermus, addressed in verse by Solon, 1. 566
Mina, made to consist of 100 drachmas instead of 73 by Solon, 1. 444
Minas, corsair, served under Sextus Pompeius, 1X. 206 f.
Mindarus, Spartan admiral, defeated off Abydos by Athenians with help of Alcibiades, Iv. 78; slain at Cyziecus, 82
Minerva, statue of, dedicated in the Capitol by Cicero, VIT. 162
Minoa, island seized by Nieias, Il. 228, 430
Minoa, place in Sicily, V1. 54

Minos, king of Crete, invaded Attica on account of murder of Androgeos, A2T

GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

I. 28, 30; was king and lawgiver, had Rhadamanthus, as judge under him, 32; 363; 38; 320; 1. 372
Minotaur, part bull and part man, said to have destroyed youths and maidens sent as tribute, 1.28; slain by Theseus, 36
Mint, managed by Lucullus, II. 474

Minturnae, Italian city, IX. 564; 568; its magistrates finally send Marius on his way, 572
Minucius, C., supports Brutus and advises not to give the exiled Tarquins their property, I. 508
Minucius, M., one of the first 2

quaestors appointed, I. 534
Minucius Rufus, M., made Master of Horse by Fabius Maximus, II. 126; 132; in Fabius' absence wins success over Hannibal, is given equal authority, is defeated by Hannibal, rescued by Fabius, 142 f., 202, 204; appointed dictator, then deposed on account of bad omen, V. 446; quoted, III. 154 Minucius Thermus, supports Cato his colleague against Metellus Nepos, VIII. 298 f£.
Miracles, discussion of, II. 108 f., Iv. 210 f.
Misenum, mole of, scene of meeting between Octavius, Antony, anil Sextus Pompeius, IX. 206; is a promontory, 554, x. 240
Mistletoe, used for making bird-lime, Iv, 124
Mithras, rites of, celebrated at Olympia by pirates, V. 174; XI. 134
Mithridates (1), young Persian, wounds Cyrus at Cunaxa, XI.150; rewarded by Artaxerxes, 158; executed by him, 160 f.
Mithridates (2), son of Ariobarzanes, sone line of Pontic kings, Ix.
Mithridates (3), had son Pharnaces, VII. 560; interviewed by Marius, IX. 550; had 150,000 Romans butchered in one dav, IV. 494; war with, IX. 554 f.; to be checked by Sulla, IV. 334, 342; his early successes and only slight reverses, 358 f.: ravages Boeotia, IX. 578; his general Archelatis defeated at Chaeroneia, 422

IV. 382f.; again ravages Greece 390; his terms of agreement with Sulla, 398, 400, 402; 454; virt. 10, IX. 590 f., X. 384; besieged by

Fimbria, let escape by Lucullus, II. 478, 480, 482, 488; in 2nd war with reorganized army invades Bithynia, Il. 490; makes alliance with Sertorius and receives army from Spain, 494, VIII. 62; besieges Cyzicus by land and sea, II. 496; suffers defeats at rivers Rhyndacus and Granicus at hands of Lucullus, 504; flees to Heracleia, 508; is father-in-law of Tigranes, 512; defeats Romans at Cabira, 514; is defeated and flees, 520 f.; escapes to Tigranes in Armenia, 526; demanded of Tigranes by Clodius, 536; 538; IV. 4123; 11.544; 552; with Tigranes begins to assemble fresh forces, 566 ; defeats Fabius and Triarius, 584, V. 216; defeated by Pompey near the Euphrates, 198; 204; among peoples of Bosporus, pursued by Pompey, 206, 210; documents of his found in fortress of Caenum and read by Pompey, 212; ends life, 222, 11.618; quoted, VIII. 64
Mithridates (4), cousin of Monaeses, warns Antony, IX. 244; 248
Mithridates (5), king of Commagené fights under Antony, IX. 276
Mithridates (6), of Pontus, ridicules Galba to Nymphidius Sabinus, XI. 232; executed by Galba, 236
Mithrobarzanes, general of Tigranes, defeated and slain by Lucullus, 11, 550
Mithropaustes, the Persian king’s cousin, rebukes Demaratus the Spartan, I1. 80
Mitylené, ruled by tyrant Pittacus, 1. 438; exiled Diophanes, x. 160; revolts and is subdued by Lucullus, Il. 482; freed by Pompey for sake of Theophanes, V. 224; 308; 310
Mnasitheus, helps Aratus drive Nicocles from Corinth, x1. 16

 Mnemon,’’ cognomen or epithet, Ix, 464
Mnesiphilus, Phrearrhian, teacher of Themistocles, precursor of sophists, 1106
Mnesiptolema, daughter of Themistocles, made priestess of Dindymené, 11. 82; married Archeptolis her half-brother, 88
Mnestra, woed by Cimon, IT. 416

Moeroclcs, Athenian orator, VII. 32; his surrender demanded by Alexander, 56
Molon, father of Apollonius the rhetorician, VIY. 90, 446
Molossians, had king Aidoneus, I. 72; had king Admetus, It. 64; had Pyrrhus as Ist king after the flood, Ix. 346; expel Aeacides and bring to power sons of Neoptolemus, 348; drive out Pyrrhus and put Neoptolemus on throne, 354
Molossus, succeeds Phocion in command, is captured by the enemy, Vill. 174
Molpadia, said to have slain Antiopé or Hippolyta, 1. 62
Molus, river at foot of Thurium, Iv. 382; 390
Monaeses, Parthian, fled to Antony, sent back to Phraates by him, Ix. 220, 244
Moneta, temple of, built on site of Tatius’ house, I. 152; built on site e ome Capitolinus’ house, I,
Money-lenders at Rome, their oppression, 1V. 126; greatly afflicted Bithynia, driven out by Lucullus, 11, 492; plunder Asia, 532
Monimé, Milesian, wife of Mithridates, forced by him to commit suicide,

1%. 524; her correspondence with Mithridates, Vv. 212
Month, naming and numbcring of its days by Solon, 1. 474; Sabines adopted their months from Romans, 154; Numa’s arrangements of months, 366
Moon, eclipse of, IIT. 288; shortly before battle of Arbela, VII. 316; before Pydna, VI. 398
Moon,’? surname of Cleopatra, daughter of Antony and Cleopatra, 1x. 218
Mora, military unit of Spartans, its strength, Vv. 380
Moschian Mts., on border of Iberians, v. 204
Mothakes, Helots raised with Spartans x. 64
Mother of the Gods, had shrine at Pessinus, IX. 508; 550
Mothers, goddesses of city of Engyium in Sicily Vv. 488 f.
Mothoné, seaport above Malea, XI. 26
Mt. Lycaeun, see  Lycaeum, Mt.”’

Mounychion, see ‘* Munychion.”’

Mourning at Rome, periods of, regulated by Numa, I. 346, Iv. 216
Mucia, divorced by Pompey, V. 226

Mnucianus, commander in_ Syria, friendly to Otho, x1. 284
Mucius (1), client of Ti. Gracchus, elected tribune in place of M. Antonius, x. 174, 186
Mucius (2), jurist, eaten of worms, IV. 440
Mucius (3), father-in-law of younger Marius, IX. 560
Mucius Scaevola, C., his experiences with Porsena, I. 546 f.; quoted, 548 Mucius Scaevola, P., jurist, helped Ti.

Gracchus draw up his agrarian law,
x 102 f;
Muclus Scaevola, Q., statesman and leader of senate, helped Cicero to acquaintance with law, VII. 86 Mummius, Crassus' legate, defeated by Spartacus, lr. 342 Mummius, C.,sent by Sulla to seize city-gate and walls on Esquiline hill,
Iv. 354
Mummius, L., took Corinth, had no cognomen, got surname Achaicus,
11. 430, rx. 464; x. 316
Munatius (1), defended by Cicero, shows ingratitude, vir. 144 Munatius (2), friend of Cato the Younger YVIIl. 254; 300; brings Pompey's proposal of marriage alliance to Cato, 306, 308; greatly angered by Cato's lack of trust in him, published treatise on Cato, 322 f.; in Bruttium receives under his protection Cato's younger son, 360; cited, 292, 324 f.
Munatius Plancus, L., spoke in favour of amnesty after murder of Caesar,
VI.166; joins Antony, IxX.176; flees UE aaa! tells of Antony's will,
26 Munatius Plancus Bursa, T., convicted in spite of Pompey's support, V. 262,
VIII., 352
423

Munda, battle of; sons of Pompey defeated, VII. 572
Mundus, trench about Comitium, I.
118 Munychia, in Athens, criticized by Fpimenides of Phaestus, I. 434;
entered by Macedonian garrison,
VII. 70; garrisoned by Cassander,
Ix. 18, 20; captured and _ dismantled by Demetrius, ee Sage.

78; 1V. 372
Munychion, Athenian month, I. 36;
IV. 272: VIII. 230; changed to Demetrion in honour of Demetrius,
X28
Munychus, son of Demophoén and Laodicé, legend of, 1. 78
Murcus, slew Piso, XI. 266

Murena, L. Licinius (1), serves under Sulla in Greece, Iv. 380; given left ae by Sulla at Chaeroneia, 384, 8

Murena, L. Licinius (2), left by Lucul-lus in charge of siege of Amisus, II.
5143; gives freedom to Tyrannio the grammarian, 530; 552; left in charge of siege of Tigranocerta, 556; elected consul with Silanus, VII. 116; brought to trial by Cato, defended by Cicero and Hortensius, 170, 212,
VHI. 284, 286; supports Cato, 302, Musaeus, Fragment 21 (Kinkel, Ep.
Graecs Frag.,° p.. 229), cited, IX.
564 Muses, Spartan king would sacrifice to them before battle, I. 272; credited with oracular teaching of Numa, 332; with Egeria give Numa account of bronze buckler fallen from heaven, 350
Museum, at Athens, battle with Amazons near it, I. 60; garrisoned by Demetrius, IX. 84; one near Thurium, IV. 382
Music, flute-playing held ignoble by Alcibiades, while lyre became a gentleman, IV. 6
*‘Muthos,’’ nickname of Demetrius,
IX. 64
Mutina, in Gaul, where Pompey besieged Brutus, father of the con-spirator, V. 154; where the consuls Hirtins and Pansa defeated Antony but were themselves slain,

Ix. 174
424

‘LIVES’

Mutiny of Lucullus’ troops, 11. 570,
576 f., 584
Mycalé, ‘where Greeks under Xanthip-pus defeated Persians, I. 138, III,
6, VI. 420
Mycenae, VIII. 243; XI. 66

Mygdonia, described; invaded by Tmcullus, 11. 578
Mylae, town in Sicily, V1. 350

Mylasa, city in Asia, its revenue offered Phocion by Alexander, VIII.
186
Myron (1), of Phlva, prosecuted family of Megacles, I. 432
Myron (2), general under Mithridates, defeated by Adrian, II. 520 Myronides, with Cimon and Xanthip-pus an envey to Sparta, Il. 244;
general with Aristides and Leocrates al Plataea, 274; 111.52; 198; character in ‘* Demes ’’ of Eupolis, 70 Myrtilus (1), mentions Spartan youth who closely resembled Hector, XI.
8 Myrtilus (2), cup-bearer of Pyrrhus informs him of plot against his life,
IX. 356
Myrtle, Aphrodite’s plant, v. 496

Myrto (1), daughter of Menoetius and sister of Patroclus, had daughter Eucleia by Heracles, If. 278
Myrto (2), granddaughter of Aristides, false story about her, II. 296
Mysia, X1. 284

Mystae, initiates in mysteries of Hleusis, IV. 48, 60, VIII. 208 Mysteries, Eleusinian, at Athens, when held, 11. 140, VIii. 158, 206; outrage upon, charged against Alcibiades, Iv. 48, 52, 60, VII. 316; Demetrius initiated ; the grades and times, IX. 60: celebrated by Voconius, 11. 508°
Myus, city in Asia, given Themistocles by Persian king to supply meat, II.
80 Nabataeans, V. 292

Nabis, successor of Machanidas as tyrant of Sparta, seized Messené, frightened away by Philopoemen,
X. 286, 310, 390:-at ‘war «vith
Achaeans and Romans, defeats
Philopoemen in naval battle, 292;
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

routed by Philopoemen, 294; attacked by Flamininus who soon made peace with him, 358 ; treacherously slain by Aetolians, 296
Nakedness, Roman ts. Greek custom,
II. 362
Names, Roman, of persons, discussed,
Ix. 464
Naphtha, its properties shown to Alexander; theory as to its origin,
VII. 328
Naples, Vv. 264, VII. 100

Narbo, city of Gaul, x1. 226

Narbonensis, Gallia, VIII. 32

Narnia, colonists sent to it, X. 324

‘* Narrow,’ name of a place, VI. 208

Narthacium, mountain near Pharsalus.
v. 44

Nasica, P. Cornelius Scipio, very large holder of public land, bitter hater of Ti. Gracchus xX. 174; leads mob against Ti. Gracchus, who with more than 300 others was slain, 190; interrogates Blossius, 192; hated by people; though pontifex maximus, fled from Italy and committed suicide, 194
Natural philosophy, its advantages, T1I. 14
Naucrates, persuades lLycians to revolt from Brutus, VI. 192 Naupactus, besieged by M.' Acilius, X. 364 Nauplia, Pyrrhus pitches his camp near it, IX. 450
Nausicrates, rhetorician, cited, II. 466

Nausitholis, given as pilot to Theseus, I. 34
Naxians, their account of Ariadne and Theseus, I. 42
Naxos, II.68; sea-fight off Naxos, won by Athenians, 138, VIII. 1565; III. 54; 218; 266
Nealces, friend of Aratus, tries to save picture of Aristratus, XI. 28
Neander, one of 3 young men who fled with the infant Pyrrhus, IX. 348
Neanthes, of Cyzicus, cited, 11. 2, 80

Neapolis (1), ¥. 458; Lucullus had palaces there, II. 598, 612
Neapolis (2), in territory of Agrigentum, VI. 102
Neapolis (3), a part of Syracuse, V. 484

Neapolitans, V. 264

Nearchus (1), banished by Philip, honoured afterwards by Alexander, Vil. 250; made admiral of fleet by Alexander, 410; meets Alexander at Gedrosia, 414; after sailing through ocean into Euphrates, joins Alexander, 426; 432; 434

Nearchus (2), Cretan, pleads with Antigonus for life of Eumenes, VIII, 134
Nearchus (3), Pythagorean, lodged
Cato the Elder, II. 318
Nectanabis, cousin of Tachos, revolts from him and is made king by the Egyptians, Is joined by Agesilatis, V. 104 f.; having ousted Tachos, is himself opposed by a rival from Mendes, 106; distrusts Agesilatis, retires into fortified city, routs opponents with help of Agesilatis, dismisses him with gifts,
108 f.
Neleus, of Scepsis, to whom Theo-ee bequeathed his books, Iv.
406 Nemea, where Athenians under Pericles defeated Sicyonians, III.
60; painted by Aristophon with Alcibiades in her arms, IV. 42 ; XI.14
Nemean games, see ‘‘ Games Nemean.”

‘* Nemesis,’ play of Cratinus, III. 8

Neochorus, of Wlaliartus, slew Ly-sander, IV. 316
Neocles (1), father of Themistocles,
Il. 2, 6, 214
Neocles (2), son of Themistocles, 11. 88

Neon (1), commander of Corinthians in acropolis of Syracuse, captures the Achradina, VI. 304 Neon (2), Boeotlan, remains with Porsena in his flight, VI. 416 Neoptolemus (1), son of Achilles. after time of Deucalion took possession of country of Molossians and left line Ix, 346; ancestor of Alexander on his mother‘s side, VII. 224

Neoptolemus (2), brother of Arybas and uncle of Aeacides, Ix. 348 Neoptolemus (3), made king of Molossians in place of Pyrrhus, IX.
354; shares kingdom with Pyrrhus who finally slays him, 356 f.
Neoptolemus (4), commander of Alexander's Shield-bearers, VIII.
78; 88; bid by Perdiccas to take 425 orders from EHumenes, plans treachery, is defeated by Humenes, flees to Craterus and Antipater, 90; defeated and slain by Eumenes iu personal combat, 92 f.

Neoptolemus (5), satrap of Mithridates, IX. 556; defeated off Tenedos by Lucullus, I1. 482 Nepos, see '' Metellus Nepos."'

Nepos, Cornclius, see '* Cornelius Nepos."'
"Nero,'' title given Otho by the people, XI. 278 f.
Nero Germanicus, son of Agrippina and Ahenobarbus, adopted by Claudius, became emperor, killed his mother, 5th in descent from Antony, [X. 332, XI. 206; ruined by Nymphidius Sabinus and Tigellinus, 210, 240; his relations with Otho and Poppaea, 246 f.; gave gifts to theatrical people, 238; executed Crassus and Scribonia, Piso's parents, 254; proclaimed Greeks free at Isthmian games at Corinth,
x. 358; sent Galba out as governor of Spain, Junius Vindex, general in Gaul, revolts, 212; denounced by Galba, 214; alarmed on learning of Galba's revolt, sells his property,
ae announced as dead by Icelus,

Nervii, defeated by Caesar, VII. 492

Nestor, of Homer, V. 384

News, quick transmission of, IV. 124, VI. 418, 438
Nicaea, Bithynian city, history of, by Menecrates, I. 58
Niceaa, widow of Alexander, tyrant of Corinth, married to Demetrius, loses Acrocorinthus, XI. 36 f.
Nicagoras (1), of Troezen, introduces bill to support Athenian families fleeing from Persians before battle of Salamis, II. 30
Nicagoras (2), Messenian, secret enemy of Cleomenes, arouses Ptolemy's suspicion and hate of him, x. 128
Nicanor (1), sent by Cassander to replace Menyllus in command of garrison at Athens, induced by Phocian to be mild to Athenians, VIII. 216; escapes from Athens and plans hostilities, 218 Nicanor (2), sent by Antigonus to ae Eumenes as a prisoner, VIII.

Nicarchus, great-grandfather of Plutarch, IX. 294
Nicator, title of tyrants, II. 228

Niceratus (1), father of Nicias, M11. 212, 220, Iv. 28
Niceratus (2), poet of Heracleia, given crown over Antimachus of Colophon, IV. 282
Nicias (1), son of Niceratus, becomes a leader after death of Pericles, 111, 212; sought by expenditure of money to win favour, 214f.; very pious and superstitious, had large interests in silver mines of Laurium, 218; timid and retiring, 220 f.; helped by his dependent Hiero, 224:

as general made safety his chicf aim, and so was successful for most part, 226; some of his minor suecesses, 228; discredited by Cleon's success on Sphacteria, 234; brought about the ‘“‘ Peace of Nicias’””; its terms, 240, IV. 32; fails on embassy to Sparta, I1I. 244; arranges with Alcibiades his rival to have Hyper-bolus banished, 248
Opposes expedition to Sicily,

250; after being elected Ist of 3 generals for Sicily still vainly opposes the expedition, 252, 430; after recall of Alcibiades from expedition discourages troops by inaction, 258; at end of summer sails against Syracuse and wins a success, 262 f.; winters at Naxos, 266; in spring seized Epipolae, defeated Syracusans, and nearly circumvallated the city, 268 f.; on death of Lamachus is sole general and in great hopes, 270; disregards approach of Glyippus, 272; is defeated by Glyippus, who ran a cross wall to intersect the besiegers' wall of enclosure, 276; repulses Gylippus on the water, but loses Plemmyrium, 278; is reinforced by Demosthenes, who is defeated and urges return, 280f.: is about to change base when halted by eclipse of moon, 288f.; is defeated on the water, 292; is defeated on the water again
so that he cannot retire by sea, 294 f.; delays retiring by land until
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

Syracusans block all the routes, 296 f.; conducts retreat for 8 successive days until Demosthenes and his detachment is captured, 300; is captured at river Asinarus and most of his men are slain, 302; suffers death, 306, 310

See also i111. 430, Iv. 28, 30, 46, 52
Quoted : IIT. 302
Nicias (2), friend of Agesilatis, V. 36

Nicias (3), steward of Ptolemy's household, has freedom given him by senate, VIII. 330
Nicias (4), of Engyium, induced Marcellus to spare his city, V. 490
Nicocles (1), Athenian, VIII. 182; condemned to death with Phocion, 228, 230
Nicocles (2), became tyrant of Sicyon, nearly lost city to Aetolians, XI. 8; his spies deceived by Aratus, 12; escapes from Sicyon, 20, X. 256
Nicocreon, king of Salamis, competes as choregus against Pasicrates of Soli, ViI. 308
Nicodemus (1), lame and blind man, V. 348
Nicodemus (2), Messenian, supported ray Cassander now Demetrius, VII, 2

Nicogenes, wealthiest man in Aeolia, knew and sheltered Themistocles, 11. 70, 76
Nicolaiis, philosopher, cited, VI. 240

Nicomaché, daughter of Themistocles, given in marriage by her brother to Phrasicles, 11. 88
Nicomachus (1), brother of Cebalinus, reveals plot of Limnus to Alexander, VII. 364 Nicomachus (2), his characterized, VI. 346
Nicomachus (3), of Carrhae, urges P. Crassus to escape to Ichnae, III. 394
Nicomedeia, city in Bithynia, 11. 508

Nicomedes (1), son-in-law of Themistocles, II. 88
Nicomedes (2), to receive Bithyvnia again from Mithridates, IV. 398; reconciled to Mithridates by Sulla, 404; visited by Caesar, VII. 444
Nicon (1), servant of Craterus, arrested by Peucestas, Vil. 348
Nicon (2), an elephant, 1X. 456

Nicon (3), an ass, IX. 284

paintings

Niconides, Thessalian, made wonderful siege-engines, II. 500
Nicopolis, city on Actium, Ix. 278

Nicopolis, wealthy woman, made Sulla her heir, IV. 328 ‘* Nicostraté,’” other name of Carmenta, wife of Evander, I. 156
 Niger,’’ Roman surname, IV. 142

Niger, friend of Antony, brings message from Octavia to him, IX. 256
Nigidius, P., advises Cicero to put conspirators to death, VII. 130
Niphates, VII. 316

Nisaea, taken by Megara from Athens, 1.4323 111. 228; sea-port of Megara, enclosed by wall and connected by walls with Megara, VIII. 178
Nisaean horse, IX. 374

Nisaeus, driven from Syracuse by Dionysius the Younger, VI. 262
Nisibis, city in Mygdonia, called Antioch by Greeks, taken by Lucullus, 11. 578, 592
Nola, v. 458; battle of, Marcellus defeats Hannibal, 462; defeats him again, 464; IV. 350

Nonacris, cliff there had poisonous water, VII. 436
Nones Capratine, day on which Romulus disappeared; reason for name, I. 182, 186, 308, 11. 178
Nonius (1), rival candidate for tribune ship, slain by Saturninus, IX. 542
Nonius (2), nephew of Sulla, 1v. 356

Nonnius, in Pompey’s camp, VII.

180

Nora, stronghold on confines of Lycaonia and Cappadocia, VIII. 108
Norbanus, encamped at Narrows near Symbolum, nearly captured with his army by Brutus and Cassius, VI. 208
Norbanus, C., consul, with Marius the Younger defeated by Sulla and shut up in Capua, IV. 410f., VIII. 14
Noricum, traversed by Cimbri, Ix. 502
‘* Nous,”’ term applied to Anaxagoras of Clazomenae, III. 10
‘* Novi homines,’’? what they were, II. 302
Novum Comum, colony established by Caesar in Gaul, VII. 512
Numa Pompilius, when he lived; said 427

GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

to have been friend of Pythagoras, 1. 306; of Sabine descent, 3083 nominated king by the Romans, 312; came from Cures, was son of Pompon, 314; married Tatia, was fond of country life, 316; in 40th vear invited to become king, 320; declines, 322; accepts and goes to Rome, 326; disbands the body of 300 called ‘* Celeres,’? appoints Flamen Quirinalis, 328; proceeds to make the city more gentle and just, 330; claimed the nymph Egeria loved him, 316, 332; possibly influenced by Pythagoras, 334; instituted the Pontifices, 336; credited with consecration of the Vestal virgins, 160, 338, II. 1423 their number, duties, privileges, the punishment for unchastity, 340 f.; said to have built temple of Vesta, 3144; fixed 10 months as longest period for mourning, 346, IV. 216; established the Salii, the Fetiales, and many other orders of priests, 1. 346; reason for establishing Salii, 350. Built the Regia and had another house on the Quirinal, 354; gave many precepts resembling those of Pythagoreans, 356; story of his conversation with Jupiter, 358; first to build temples to Faith and Terminus, 362; divided people into groups according to trades or arts, 364; amended law permitting fathers to sel] sons, adjusted calendar, 366, VII. 580; built temple of Janus, 372; varying accounts of his marriages and offspring, 376: succeeded by Hostilius; his obsequies, 146, 378; quoted, 322

See also 1. 154, IV. 178, V. 454, V1. 358, VIII. 152

Numantia, defeats Mancinus, makes truce owing to Ti. Gracchus, X. 154, 246; taken and destroyed by Scipio Africanus Minor, Il. 596, VI. 414, x. 468, 494, x. 158, 174 pers (1), friend of Marius, Ix. 56
Numerius (2), friend of Pompey, V.

280
Numidia, king of, captured by Scipio Africanus, 111.194; Bocchus king of, 428

Iv. 328; Hiempsal king of, Ix. 574; subdued by Pompey, V. 144
Numidians, used by Carthaginians in their armies, VI. 830; in army of Hannibal, 113.152; V. 464; 520; rout Caesar‘s cavalry, VII. 564
Numistro, city in Lucania, V. 502

Numitor, chose kingdom in preference to gold and silver, but was dispossessed by his brother Amulius ; had daughter Ilia, or Rhea, or Silvia, 1. 96; his experience with Romulus and Remus, his daughter’s children, 102 f.; died in Alba, 172
Nundinae, market-day coming every 9 days, IV. 162
Nurses, Spartan, I. 254, Iv. 2

Nussa (Nursia) Sabine city, home town of Sertorius, VIII. 4
Nymphaeum (1), sacred precinct near Apollonia; story of satyr caught there, Iv. 408
Nymphaeum (2), sacred precinct frequented by Aristotle, VII. 240
Nymphidia, daughter of Callistus and mother of Nymphidius Sabinus, XI, 224 Nymphidius Sabinus, prefect of court guard with Tigellinus; by offer of bribe gets soldiers to proclaim Galba emperor, XI. 208f.; orders Tigellinus to give up his command and aspires to imperial position, 220 f.;

says he is son of C. Caesar who succeeded Tiberius; believed to be son of Martianus a gladiator, XI.

222 f.3 tries to be made emperor and is slain, 230f.; his adherents went over to Galba, 258

Nympholepti,’’ term applied to natives of Cithaeron with oracular power, II. 246

Nymphs, Sphragitic, had cave on peak of Cithaeron, II. 246, 272 Nypsius, Neapolitan, puts into Syracuse with food and money for beleaguered garrison of Dionysius, is defeated by Syracusans, then by surprise attack takes city, is defeated bv Dion, VI. 86 f.
Nysa, citadel in India, attacked by Alexander, VII. 390
Nysaeus, see ‘* Nisaeus.”’

Nyssa, sister of Mithridates, captured by Lucullus, 11. 524
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

Oa, Attic deme, III. 26

 Oarses,’? name of Artaxerxes Mnemon at first according to Deinon,
XI. 128
Oath, Athenian, what it is, Iv. 38

Oath, the great, how taken, VI. 118

Obai, subdivisions of Spartan people made by Lycurgus, I. 220

Obolus, its original meaning, IV. 278

Ocean, nothern, IX. 488

Ochus, youngest son of Artaxerxes, rival of Dareius for throne, x1. 188; removes his two remaining rivals Ariaspes and Arsames, 200, 202; did not once come into Persia to avoid giving money to women, VII. 416
Octavia, sister of Octavius Caesar, daughter of Ancharia, married first to Q. Marcellus, on his death to Antony, Ix. 206; mother of Marcellus by O. Marcellus, dedicated library in honour of her son, ¥. 522; 1X.210; bore 2 daughters to Antony, reconciles Octavius and Antony, 214; gets 20 vessels for her brother, 1000 troops for her husband, 216; on way to Antony, is stopped at Athens by letters from him, 256; returns from Athens, lives in her husband's house, 260; ejected from Antony's house in Rome, takes all his children with her except eldest son by Fulvia, 266 f.; reared 6 of Antony's children with her own, 330; her daughters and wliom they married, 332; had book addressed to her by Athenodorus, I. 548
Octavius (1), governor of Cilicia, dies, 11. 486
Octavius (2), legate of Crassus, III 402, 408, 412; attempting to rescue Orassus, is slain, 414
Octavius (3), reputed to be of African descent, VII. 146
Octavius, C. (1), father of young Oaesar, VII. 196
Octavius, O. (2), falsely claimed to have been one of Caesar's murderers, executed by Antony and young

Oaesar, VII. 600
Octavius, Gn. (1), admiral under Aemilius Paulus, anchors off Samothrace to prevent escape of Perseus, VI. 422
Octavius Gn. (2), consul, defeats his colleague Cinna in the forum, and puts Cornelius Merula in his place, VIII. LO, 1x. 578 £.; remains in Rome on approach of Marius and is slain, 582, 1V. 364; IX. 592
Octavius, L., sent by Pompey to Crete to succ.ed Metellus in fighting pirates, Vv. 188
Octavius, M. (1), tribune of people, opposes Ti., Gracchus' agrarian law, X. 166 f.; ejected from office on proposal of Ti. Gracchus, 170; 206
Octavius, M. (2), with 2 legions encamped near Utica, asks Cato which of them is to command in province, VIII. 394; with M. Insteius commanded centre for Antony at Actium, IX. 284 Octavius Cacsar, see Caesar."'
October, called Domitianus by Domitian for short time, I. 370
Odeum, built by Pericles, III. 42

Odysseus, father of Romanus by Oircé, 1. 92; consulted shades of dead, (X. 490; II. 326; v.12
 Odyssey,'' see '*' Homer."

Oedipus, fountain of, Iv. 390

Oenanthé, had great influence in government under Ptolemy IvV., x. 124
Oenarus, priest of Dionysus, lived with Ariadne, I. 40
Oencid, Attic tribe, II. 458

Oeniadae, III. 60; their city destroyed by Aetolians, VII! 366 Oenopion, son of Theseus by Ariadne according to Ion of Chios, I. 40 Oenus, at first called Cnacion, river at Sparta, I. 222
Oetaeans, III. 56

Ofella, Lucretius, see Ofella.”’ Oil, its action, II]. 392; spring of, discovered, VII. 388
Olbianians, VIII. 24

Olbius, paeclagogue of children of Nicogenes, 17. 70
Oligarchy, II. 54, 266 f.

 Oligoi,”? conservative Athens, III. 32
Oligyrtus, its garrison expelled from Phlius by Cleomenes, xX. 110
* Augustus

* Tucretius party at

“Olive,” name of spring whcre
Apollo was born, V. 378
Olizon, opposite Artemisium, II. 22

Olocrus, mountain near Pydna, VI.
408 Olorus (1), Thracian king, father of Hegesipyle, 11. 412 Qlorus (2), father of Thucydides the historian, descended from preceding
II. 412
Olthacus, Dandarian prince, undertakes to assassinate Lucullus, but fails, 11. 518

Olympia, I. 14; 68; 316; its sacred treasures used by Sulla, Iv. 362; vi. 20
Olympiad, 176th, 11. 484

- Olympian," surname of Pericles; how acquired, 111. 22, 112
Olympias, sister of Ary mbas, married Philip of Macedon, VII. 226 ; devoted Bacchanté, kept great tame serpents, 228; spurred Alexander on to quarrel with his father, established by berson Alexanderin Epirus, 246; blamed for urging Pausanias to slay Philip, 250; 296; 340; rebels against Antipater and takes Epirus to rule, 414; put many to death, believed Iolas to have poisoned Alexander, 436; drugged Arrhidaeus and ruined his mind, 438; invited Eumenes to come and take charge of Alexander's little son, VU. 116; 1X. 50 Olympic games, instituted by Heracles in honour of Zeus, I. 56; Athenian victor got 500 drachmas by Solon's regulation, 466, II. 296. See also '* Games."
Olympic truce, said to have becn established by Lycurgus§ and Iphitus, 1. 204, 276 f.
Olympieium, in Athens, unfinlshed, I. 496; near Syracuse, III. 266
Olympiodorus, with 300 Athenians sent to aid of Megarians at Plataea, II. 254
Olympus, Cleopatra's physician, published history of her last days, IX. 320
Olympus, town where pirates offered sacrifice, V. 174
Olympus, mountain, VI. height, 394
430

386; its

Olynthus, VII. 20

Omens: II. 34, 40, 44, 106, 108, 124, 172, 174, 462, 496, 502, 548, 560, 590, Ill. 14, 100, 122, 124, 208, 218, 244, 256, 288, 294, 336, 362, 366, 372, 382, Iv. 46, 98, 174, 210, 260, 280, 340, 346, 358, 372, 410, V. 68, 78, 194, 294, 442, 464, 512, 516, VI. 50, 62, 82, 150, 156, 178, 208, 210, 234, 278, 322, 380, 398 f., 418, VII. 130, 164, 226, 230, 260, 270, 296, 300, 386, 426, 546, 554, 588, 604, VII. 208, IX. 28, 70, 210, 274, 284, 308, 362, 450, 506, 564, 570, X. 26, 144, 184, 220, 340, XI. 100, 256, 284 f, Omisus, commended by Artaxerres II., XI.134
Omphalé, house of, had Hercules as slave, 1.14; 111.70; 1X. 336
Onatius Aurelius, see ‘* Aurelius, C."

Oneian hills, x. 92

Onesicritus, philosopher of school of Diogenes the Cynic; his experiences with gymnocophists, VIS. 408; appointed chief pilot of fleet by Alexander, 410
Cited : 242, 260, 356, 394, 398

Onomarchus (1), one of party that seized Delphi and _ plundered sanctuary, VI. 334
Onomarchus (2), keeper of Eumenes for Antigonus, VIII. 134
Onomastus, freedman of Otho, XI. 258

Ophelas, ruler of Cyrené, first husband of Eurydicé, 1X. 32 Opheltas, with his subjects conducted from Thessaly to Boeotia by Peripolitas, 11. 404 ‘*Opima,’? why term was applied to  spoiia,’’ 1. 138

Opimius, L., failed to get elected consul when Fannius was supported by ©. Gracchus, X. 222; elected consul, 226; given full power to act against C. Gracchus, 228; refuses C. Gracchus’ terms of peace, 232; attacks party of Fulvius, 234; first consul to exercise power of dictator, convicted of fraud and spent his last days in infamy, 238
Oplax, Frentanian, slain by Pyrrhus, IX. 398
Oppius, C., friend of Caesar, cited, V. 138; VII. 484
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

* Optio,’’ latin for scout, XI. 258

Opuntians, surrender voluntarily to Flamininus, X. 334
Oracles, anonymous: IV. 294, 304,

| ae V. 6, VII. 46, 564, IX. 452, xX.

7

Oracle of Apollo, I. 6, 36, II. 276, IV.

| 122, VII. 44, 46, 50, 92, 228, VIII. 162
See also ‘* Delphi, oracle of.”’
Oracle from Sibylline books, VII. 44

Oracles of Ammon, Amphiaratiis, Dodona, Heracleia, Ismenus, see  Ammon, etc.”’ Oracle from Lebadeia and cave of Trophonius, It. 270, IV. 380
Oration, funeral, delivered by Publicola in honour of Brutus earlier than any among Greeks, I. 5243; by Pericles over those who fell at

Samos, III. 80; of Fabius Maximus on the death of his son preserved, 120, 190
Orations: I. 106, 322, 324, I1. 106,
236, 250, 290, 510 f., ITI. 160, 398,
412, 1V. 96, 130, 154 f., 172, 200 £.,204,
206 £., V. 498, VI. 90, 168, 388, 426,
438, 448, VII. 314, 458, VIII. 42, 66,
132, 154, IX. 282, 404, x. 38, 72, 80,
118 f., 164, 204, 230, 234
Oratory, Asiatic, characterized, IX.

140 Orchalides, hill afterwards called Alopecus; its location, IV. 318 Orchomenians, have left wing of Agesilaiis' army at Coroneia; routed by Thebans, V. 46 Orchomenians, treated severely by Thebans, V. 522; I1. 408
Orchomenus (1), secretly attacked by Aratus, X. 56; 64; Aratus dcfeated Megistonotis, stepfather of Cleo-menes there, XI, 86; surprised and plundered by Antigonus, 104, xX.
100; 110
Orchomenus (2), taken by Lysander,
Iv. 310; espoused cause of Spartans; Pelopidas attempts to surprise it, V. 376; Sulla defeated Archelatis, Mithridates' general
there, II. 480, 504, Iv. 392 f., 408 Orcynii, in Cappadocia; Antigonus defeated Eumenes there, VIII. 104 Oreites, their country traversed by Alexander in 60 days, VII. 410
Oresteion, city in Arcadia, 11. 244 Orestes, consul, took C. Gracchus as quaestor to Sardinia, x. 198
Oreus, Roman fleet off it defeated by Perseus, VI. 376
Orexartes, river crossed by Alexander
VII. 35
Orfidius, commander of legion
 Adiutrix '' for Otho, slain, XI. 304.

Oricum, VI. 434; Vv. 284; taken by Caesar, VII. 532 poe defeated by Sertorius, VIII.

Orneus, grandfather of Menestheus, I. 72
Ornis, place just outside Corinth, XI. 44
Ornytus, with Ioxus led colony into Caria, I. 18
Oroandes, Cretan, sails off leaving Perseus behind, VI. 422
Orobazus, Parthian, ambassador from king Arsaces to Sulla, executed on return, IV. 334
Oromasdes (Oromazdes) Persian god, VII. 312, x1. 200
Orontes, Persian, closely resembled ‘aap son of Amphiaraiis, XI.
Orontes, Persian, married Rhodo-guné, daughter of Artaxerxes, XI. 192
Oropus, the affair of, VII. 10; brings suit against Athens, IT. 368
Orphans, made subject to taxation by Camillus, 11. 96
Orpheus, Plato banters followers of, II. 612; image of him at Leibethra, VII. 260
Orphic rites, VIT. 226

Orsodates, rebellious barbarian shot by Alexander, VII. 386
*‘ Orthagoras,’’ name of Corinthian seer and friend of Timoleon accord-ing to Ephorus and Timaeus, VI. 270 Orthopagus, peak of hil] Thurium near Chaeroneia, IV. 382
Oryssus of Aptera in Crete, slays Ptolemy, son of Pyrrhus, 1X. 448
Osca, Spanish city where Sertorius had noble Spanish boys educated, VIII. 36, 68 Oschophoria, Athenian festival instituted by Theseus in honcur of Dionysus and Ariadne, I. 46, 48 f.

431

Ostanes, son of Dareius and Parysatis, brother of Artaxerxes, XI. 128, 136, 180
Ostia, VII. 578, Ix. 560; seized by Marius, 580
Ostracism, its nature and purpose, II, 214, 230f., 111. 28, 246, Iv. 30; Hipparchus of Cholargus, Ist man to be ostracized, 111. 250; Hyperbolus, last man, 246; 202; 226; II. 16; 62; 210; 456
Otacilius, brother of Marcellus, saved by him in battle in Sicily, V. 438
Otho, M. (1), practor, was first to give special seats to knights at spectacles, VII. 112
Otho, M. (2), married Poppaea. Galba minded to declare him his successor, XI. 246f.; first of provincial governors to go over to Galba, 248; plots against Galba and is proclaimed emperor by the soldiers, 256 f.; given titles of Caesar and Augustus, 268
His first acts as emperor, 276 f.; at first does not refuse name Nero, 278; troubled by suspicions his paid soldiers had of influential citizens, 280 f.; hears that Vitellius has assumed imperial power, 284; learning that Caecina and Valens, generals of Vitellius, are in possession of the Alps, takes the field, 286 ; stops at Brixillum and sends his army forward, 288; his general Spurina repels assault on Placentia, 290; his general Celsus defeats Oaecina near Cremona, 292; Otho comes to the camp near Cremona and holds council of war, 294; decides on early battle and returns himself to Brixillum, 298; his army defeated by that of Vitellius, 302 f.; learns of defeat and resolves to die, 310 f.; after making some dispositions falls upon his sword, 312 f.; gets modest burial, 316; his troops swear allegiance to Vitellius, 318

Otryae, place in Phrygia, IT. 496

‘* Oulamos,’’ a3 constituted by Lycur-

s, was 50 horsemen in square ormation, I. 276
Outer sea, IX. 488

Ovatio, meaning of the word, description of the thing, Vv. 494; cele-432

ALL Ta ei ese

brated by Crassus for Servile war,
III. 350
“Ovicula,’’ surname of Fabius
Maximus in childhood, III. 118 Oxathres, son of Dareius and Pary-satis, brother of Artaxerxes Mnemon, XI. 128, 136
Oxus, river in Asia, has very soft water, VII. 388
Oxyartes, son of Abuletes, slain by Alexander, VII. 388, 414
Paccianus, sent to Africa by Sulla to help Ascalis, slain by Sertorlus, VIIL. 22
Paccianus, O., taken prisoner at Carrhae, III. 416
Paccus, attendant of Cato the Elder in Spain, 11. 332
Paches, Athenian, captor of Lesbos, committed suicide, II. 294, 1II. 226
Pachynus, headland of Sicily, vI. 52

Pacorus, son of Hyrodes, marries sister of Artavasdes, IIT. 420; defeated ous slain by Ventidius, III. 422, 1x.
Paeania, deme of Demosthenes, VII.
48; of Demon, 68
Paedaretus, Spartan, rejoiced because 300 better than himself, I. 282
Paedonome, directed boys at Sparta,
I. 258
Paeon, Amathusian, cited, 1. 42

Paeonia, VY. 220

Paeonians, ruled by Autoleon, IX. 368;
VI. 402
Pagasae, fleet of Greeks wintered there after Xerxes fled, II. 54 ‘* Pagi,’’ divisions of Roman territory made by Numa, I. 362 Painting, by Protogenes the Caunian, illustrating story of lalvsus, 1x. 50;
of Hercules and Omphalé, 336; of tyrant Aristratus by Melanthus,
x1.258
Palaescepsis, city given Themistocles by Persian king for his support, II.
80
Palatine, settled by Trojan exiles
1. 90, 146, 154, 160, 552, 554, VII.
100, 120, 134, 172
Palatium, XI. 262

Palestine, triumphed over by Pompey,
V. 230
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

Palladium, in Athens, I. 62; on Athenian acropolis, dedicatory offering of Nicias, III. 214; at Delphi, dedicated by Athens, III. 254
Palladium of Troy, in temple of Vesta,
II, 144
Pallantidae, I. 8; make war on Theseus; betrayed by Ieos, are defeated, 24

Pallantium, where Aratus prevents Aristomachus joining battle with Cleomenes, X. 58, XI. 82
Pallas, had 50 sons, I. 8

Pallené, township of, why it has no intermarriage with township of Agnus, I. 26
 Palm,’? name of spring in Boeotia where Apollo was born, Y. 378 Palm, custom of giving it to victors begun by Theseus, I. 44 Palm-tree, bronze, erected on Delos by Nicias in honour of Apollo, I11.
216 f.
Palus Maeotis, ViI. 352.
 Maeotic Lake.”’ Pammenes, kept Philip as hostage in Thebes, Vv. 404 f.; quoted, 382
Pamphilus, painter, some of his works collected by Aratus and sent to Ptolemy, XT. 28
Pamphylia, II. 440, v. 312

Pan, loved Pindar and his verses,
1. 318; 11. 246
Panactum, not restored to Athens with walls intact, Ill]. 242, 1V. 32; garrisoned by Cassander, reduced by Demetrius and restored to Athens, Ix. 54
Panaetius (1), trireme, II. 38
Panaetius (2), cited, II, 212 f., 296,
416, VII. 32
Panathenaic festival, instituted by Theseus, I. 52; musical contests added by Pericles, III. 42
Pandion, adopted Theseus, I. 24

Pandosia, city in Italy, rx. 394

‘*Panemus,”? Boeotian name _ for Metageitnion, II. 138, 274
Pannonia, armies there falthful to

Otho, X1. 284
Panopé, city destroyed by hosts of Mithridates, Iv. 376
Panopeans, Lysander buried in their soil, Iv. 314
See also

commands Taenian

Panopeus, father of Aiglé, 1. 40, 66

Pans, resemble Picus and Faunus, |}. 358
Pansa, consul with Hirtius, begs Cicero to stay at Rome, agreeing to put down Antony, VII. 190; VI. 452; wages war on Antony and is slain with Hirtius, at Mutina, VII. 198, Ix. 174
Pantaleon, most influential Aetolian, XI. 74
Pantauchus, general of Demetrius, defeated in Aetolia by Pyrrhus, Lx. 100, 364 Panteus, general under Cleomenes in capture of Megalopolis, x. 102; dies with Cleomenes in Egypt, 136: his wife executed by Ptolemy, 138
Panthers, VII. 174

Panthoidas, Spartan harmost, slain at Tanagra, V. 376
Panthoides, Chian, Themistocles, II. 88
Paphlagonia, subdued by Alexander, VII. 272; VIII. 84; Iv. 398; 11. 580; triumphed over by Pompey, V. 230; ruled by Philadelphus, Ix. 276
Papiria, Maso’s daughter, first wife of Aemilius Paulus, mother of Scipio and Fabius Maximus, VI. 364
Papirius, M., slain by a Gaul, ll 148
Pappus, source of Hermippus’ story of Demosthenes’ death, VII, 74

Paraetonium, IX. 294

Paralus, son of Pericles and his first wife, Ill. 70; last of Pericles' legitimate sons to die, III. 106
Paralus, Athenian ship, escaped from Aegospotami, IV. 260
Parapotamii, Boeotian city on the river Assus, in ruins in Sulla's time, Iv. 378
 Parasitein,'' practice of eating at the public table in the townhall, regulated by Solon, I. 472
Parauaea, in Macedonia, given Pyrrhus by Alexander, IX. 360
Parilia, pastoral festival on April 21st, celebrated even before founding of Rome, 1. 120; 156
Paris, defeated by Achilles and Patroclus in Thessaly, I. 78; slew Achilles at gates, IV. 452; his lyre, VII. 62; rx. 338
son-in-law of

Pariscas, eunuch of Cyrus the Younger XI. 152
Parma, embassy from, acts as arbitrator in dispute between Marius and Catulus, IX. 536
Parmenides, natural philosopher, IIT. 10
Parmenio, conquered Illyrians at time of birth of Alexander, VII. 230; father of Philotas, 248; 264; 276; 284; 316 f.; 318 f.; 3263; 342; executed by Alexander, 366
Parnassus, IV. 374

Parrhasius, made Theseus, I. 10
Parricide, no penalty for, ordained by

Theseus, I. 162
Parsley, its use, VI. 322 f.

Parthenon, built in Pericles' time; Oallicrates and Ictinus the architects, I1I., 40, rx. 54
Parthia, invaded by Alexander, VII. 3543 11.592 3 111.370; V.3143 VI.254
ay arrows, II. 592, III. 388, 390 f. 4
Parthians, send friendly embassy to Sulla, Iv. 334; their power humbled by Tigranes, 11.536; Lucullus plans to invade their country, 570; 590; refer to Pompey settlement of territorial quarrel with Armenians, Vv. 216; Ateius, tribune of the people, tries to stop Crassus' expedition against them, III. 362; send embassy to Crassus, 368; confront Crassus; their manner of fighting, 386 f.; defeat and slay P. Crassus and his force, 390f., VII. 172; defeat Crassus' main force, Ily, 398 i... VI. 172%: —warred on by Bibulus, rx. 148; threaten Mesopotamia and Syria, 196; under Labienus subduing Asia, 204; defeated by Ventidius, 210; harass Antony's army, 232 f.3; 334; 46
Parysatis, daughter of Artaxerxes I., wife of Dareius, mother of Artaxerxes II., Cyrus, Ostanes, Oxathres, XI. 128; favours Cyrus' claim to the throne, 130; intercedes for his life, 132; blamed for revolt of Cyrus, plots death of Stateira, 138 f£.; savagely punishes Carian who killed Cyrus, 158 f.; 162; has revenge on Masabates who cut off 434

likenesses of head and hand of Cyrus, 164f.;

tries to save Greek generals, 168; poisons Stateira, 170 f.; sent off to Babylon by Artaxerxes, 172; restored to favour, causes death of Tissaphernes, approves Artaxerxes' marriage to Atossa, his own daughter, 180 f.
Pasacas, horse ridden by Cyrus at Cunaxa, XI. 146
Pasargadae, where Persian king was inducted by priests, XI. 130
Paseas, father of Abantidas, x1. 4; became tyrant of Sicyon; slain by Nicocles, 8
Pasicrates, king of Soli, choregus competing against Nicocreon, king of Salamis, VII. 308
Pasiphaé, accused of too great intimacy with Taurus, I. 36; had temple and oracle at Thalamae, xX. 20; had precinct at Sparta, 64
Pasiphon, dialogue of his cited, III. 218 .
Pasitigris river, VIII. 120

Passaro, place in Molossian land, Ix. 356
Pataecus, boasted he had Aesop's soul; cited, I. 418
Patara, city, surrenders to Brutus, VI. 198
Patareans, VI. 130

Patavium, VII. 554

"Pater patriae,'' title conferred on Cicero by the people, VII, 138
Patrae, its citizens persuaded by Alcibiades to attach their city tosea by long walls, IV. 38; IxX.223 xI.108; brought over to Rome by Cato the Elder, 11. 386; IX. 274
 Patres conscripti,'? name given by Romans to senators, I. 124 Patricians, 100 in number chosen from people by Romulus; who they were and why so called, I. 122f.; 100

Sabines elected to their numbers, 150; those of Romans and Sabines united, 152; lost much power under Romulus; suspected when he disappeared, 172, 308;
150 in number when Romulus died,
312; accuse people of driving out Coriolanus unjustly, IV. 184; for bidden to have house on Capitoline,
Il. 188; one censor a patrician, 346
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

Patrobius, adherent of Nero, executed
by Galba, x1. 240; 270
Patrocles, advises Selencus not to allow Demetrius to remain in country, IX. 118f.
Patroclus, with Achilles defeated Paris in Thessaly, I. 78; brother of Myrto, II. 278
Patron, came to Italy with Evander, I, 124 ‘‘Patronatus,’’ sapposed to be derived from ‘* Patron,’’ I. 124
Patronis, town in Greece, IV. 374

Patrons, protectors, their relation to their clients, 1, 126,.1X.472 Paulinus, Suetonius, in command of part of Otho’s forces, XI. 288; too slow at battle of Cremona, 292; lost his power to Proculus, XI. 294; 296; 304 Paulus, L. Aemilins (1), consul with Varro, III. 160; slain at Cannae,
III. 166; V1I.358; quoted, ITI. 166
Paulus, L. Aemilius (2), took over army in Macedonia, x1. 206; father of Scipio the Younger, subdued Perseus, II. 346, 362, IV. 364, XI, 124; father of Tertia, and of Scipio the Younger, II. 364. See also
 Aemilius Paulus, L.’’ No, 2.

Paulus, L. Aemilius (3), when consul bought by Caesar for 1500 talents, with which he built the Basilica in the forum, V. 268, VII. 514; brother of Lepidus the triumvir, proscribed by him, VII. 200, rx. 178
Pausanias (1), father of Pleistoanax,
I. 268, X. 8; commander of all Hellenic forces against Mardonius, joins Aristides, 11.238, 252, 256, 258, 264; at prayer before battle, 266;
defeats Mardonius at Plataea, 58, 268 f., X.8; rapacious and severe toward allies, alienates them, U, 282{.; has treasonable_ correspondence with Persians, 418; driven from Byzantium by allies, 422; makes treasonable proposals to Themistocles, discovered and put to death, 62 f.
Pausanias (2), forms juncture with Agis and Lysander before Athens,
IV. 268; frustrates Lysander's scheme to get pretext for taking Athens 2nd time, 290; sent with army against Boeotia, 310; comes to Haliartus and asks for body of Lysander, makes truce, 314; flees to Tegea where he dies, 318; was son of Pleistoanax, succeeded by his elder son Agesipolis, x. 8
Pausanias (3), slew Philip of Macedon,
VII. 250; 52
Pausanias' (4), physician, gets letter from Alexander, VII. 346 Pausanias (5), acting for Seleucus, seizes Demetrius and conducts him to the Syrian Chersonese, IX. 128 Peace, altar of, built by Athenians to commemorate Eurymedon, II. 446;

of Antalcidas, V. 62, XI. 176; between Octavius and Antony, IX.

204, 216; between Greeks, V. 98;
of Nicias, III. 240, IV. 32; between Philip and Romans, X. 346; between Sextus Pompeius, Antony, and Octavius, Ix. 206 f.; between Sulla and Archelaiis, Iv. 398; between Timoleon and the Carthaginians, VI. 340
Peculium,’’? derived from ‘* pecus,”’
I. 532
Pedalium, place in the Chersonese,
II. 544
Pedicularis morbus, IV. 438
Pedum, Latin city taken by Volscians
under Coriolanus, IV. 186
Pegae, in Megarid, III. 60, XI. 98, 100
Peiraic gate, at Athens, I. 62, IV. 370 Peirithoiis, becomes friend of The-seus, marries Deidameia, I. 68; helps Theseus carry off Helen from Sparta; is seized by Aidoneus, king of Molossians and killed, 72
Peisianacteum, later called Painted Colonnade, adorned by Polygnotus,
II, 414
Peisander (1),sent to Athens to change form of government, IV. 74 Peisander (2), put in charge of navy by Agesilaiis, v. 26; defeated off Cnidus by Pharnabazus and Conon,
Vv. 46

Eelenees expelled by Cleisthenes, Ill.
 Peisistratidae, new,’’ name given Pericles and his associates by comic poets, ITI. 50
Peisistratus, related to Solon and great friend of his at first, 1. 404, 406; of 435 township Philaidae, 428; son of Hippocrates, 490; supported Solon in war on Salamis, 422; leading the Hill-men becomes tyrant of Athens in spite of Solon’s opposition, 486 f., 572; courts Solon and retains most of his laws, made law that those maimed in war should be maintained at public expense, 494; expunged verse from Hesiod and inserted one in Inferno of Homer, 40; married Timonassa of Argolis and begot Iophon and Thessalus, II. 3763 III, 16; saying of his, II. 376

Pelagon, Euboean, II. 20

Pelasgians, said to have settled city and called it Rome, I. 90
Peleus, son of Aeacus and Endels, J. 20

*‘Peleus,’? name given Philip by Lysimachus, Alexander’s tutor, VII. 236
Pelias, father of Acastus, IV. 440

Pelignians, repulsed at Pydna, VI. 406

Pella, city of Macedonia, VI. 416

Pella, L., ex-praetor, condemned by Brutus for embezzlement, V1. 202
Pellené, x. 18; seized by Aetolians, freed by Aratus, XI. 70; stormed by Cleomenes, 90, X. 86

Pelopidae, Ix. 464

Pelopidas, his character and career, Vy. 344; his family and wealth, was friend of Epaminondas, 436 f.; saved by Epaminondas in battle with Spartans against Arcadians at Mantineia, 3848; arouses ‘Theban exiles to attempt liberation of Thebes, 354; leads band of cxiles to Thebes and slays Theban tyrants, 356 f.; elected boeotarch, drives Spartans from acropolis, 370; with Gorgias devises scheme to embroil Athens with Sparta, 372; wins distinction in battles with Spartans, especially at Tegyra, 376 f., 380, 386
First to side with MFpaminondas to give battle to Cleombrotus, 388;

before Lenctra has strange dream, 390, 392; with his band of 300 turns the tide at Leuctra, 394f.; boeo-tarch with Epaminondas invades Peloponnesus, detaches most of Spartan allies, takes many cities, ravages Spartan land, 396 f.; restored Messenia and settled Ithomé, 436

ALL THE ‘*‘LIVES'

tried for his life on return, 398 f.; goes to help Thessalians against Alexander of Pherae, 402 f.; goes to Macedonia and acts as arbiter between Ptolemy and Alexander, king of the Macedonians, brings Philip and others as hostages to Thebes, 404; goes once more to help Thessalians against Alexander of Pherae, and to deal witb Ptolemy who bad killed the king of Macedonia, 406;

is taken prisoner along with Ismenias by Alexander of Pherae, 408; visited by Thebé, wife of Alexander, 410; with Ismenias is recovered by Epaminondas and brought home, is sent on embassy to Persian king, 414, x1.178f.; highly honoured by Artaxerxes, who grants all his demands, 416; sent once more to help Thessalians against Alexander of Pherae, 420; attacks him at Cynoscephalae and is slain, 422 £.3 bitterly mourned and given splendid funeral by Thessalians, 426 £.
See also II. 212, V1. 344, XI. 34
Quoted : V. 388, 410, 422
Peloponnesian war, its canses, III, 82 f., 2023; its course, 94f., 226 f., IV. 42 fa: 238k,
Peloponnesians, their character, TI.
4i4; attack Pylos, and 400 Spartans are cut off on island of Sphacteria, III. 230; IV. 90; defeated by oe off Arginusae islands, Il].
108
Peloponnesus, I. 72, II. 26, 460, III. 563 ravaged first by Tolmides, then by Pericles, 60; ravaged by Athenians, 98; invaded by Thebans under Epaminondas and Pelopidas, V. 396;
invaded by Demetrius, IX. 58; by Pyrrhus, 434; freed from Macedon-ians by Aratus, X. $25 XI. 92; II.
474 Pelops (1), strongest of kings in Peloponnesus, ancestor of Theseus on his mother’s side, I. 6; father of Lysidicé and Pittheus by Hippodameia, 16
Pelops (2), of Byzantium, gets angry letter from Cicero, VII. 142
Pelusium, in Ngypt, taken by Antony,
IX. 142 f.; by Octavius Caesar, 306
GENERAL INDEX TO

Peneius river, in volume and speed equalled by Apsus, X. 328
Penelopé, wife of Lysimachus, IX 60

Pensions, given to descendants of Aristides by Atbens and by Demetrins, II, 296
Pentakosiomedimnoi, those with 500 measures yearly increase; highest class in Solon's scheme, I. 450, II. 210, 386
Pentapyla, part of Syracuse, VI. 62

Penteleium, won over by Cleomenes, X. 86, XI. 90
Pentheus, character in '* Baechae "' of Euripides, III. 420
 People's Flight,'? name of day on which Romulus disappeared, I. 182
Peparethus, Diocles of, 1. 96

Percoté, city given by Persian king to help support Themistocles, I1. 80
Perdiccas (1), in Thrace, II. 428

Perdiccas (2), with Alexander on his expedition, VII. 262; advanced to Hephaestion's place after his death, VIII. 78; accomplice of Roxana in murdering Stateira; in great authority after Alexander's death, Vil. 436; urged by Demades to seize Macedonia and deliver Greeks, 78; informed of designs of Leonnatus by Eumenes, makes him satrap of Cappadocia, sends him back from Cilicia to reduce Armenia to obedience, Vill. 86 f.; 90; slain in mutiny in Egypt, 100
Pergamenians, VI. 130

Pergamum, xX. 194; occupied by Mithridates, IV. 358; II. 478; home of Athenodorus; its libraries given to Cleopatra, IX. 270

Pergamus, district of, in Crete, 1. 302

Tlepit atriov ‘Pwraikov, work by Plutarch, II. 140
Periander, son of Cypselus, XI. 8; arranged joint conference and banquet for 7 wise men at Corinth, 7. 412; 432 epi Bacihstass work by Theophrastus, 1.6
Periboea, mother of Aias, married by Theseus, I. 66
Pericleidas, goes to Athens to get aid for Sparta against Helots and Messenians, 11. 454 Pericles, his family and physical deformity, 111. 6f.; had Damon as teacher in music, 8, II. 214; studied with Zeno the Eleatic and Anaxagoras the Clazomenian, III. 10; as a young man reluctant to face the people 16; joined the party of the people and shunned society, 18; excelled as an orator, 20 f.; aristocratic rather than democratic in administration, 24; opposes Cimon and the Council of the Areiopagus, 26; has Cimon recalled from banishment, 28, II. 458; made lenient to Cimon by Elpinicé, Cimon’s sister, 448, 111.30; opposed by Thucydides of Alopecé, leader of the ‘‘ Good and True,’ 32; catered to the people, sent out numerous colonies, adorned Athens with public works, 34 f.; had Pheidias as general overseer of these works, 40; has musical contest added to Panathenaic festival 42; denounced by Thuerdides for lavish expenditure, 46; with banishment of Thucydides has a free hand, 46f.; untainted by corruption; invites all Greek states to send deputies to a council at Athens to deliberate on various questions, 54 f.; led successful expedition to the Chersonesus, 58; other achievements, 60 f.; right in seeking to confine power of Athenians within lesser Greece; bribes Cleandridas to have Spartan army withdrawn from Attica, 643; subdued cities in Euboea, 66; gets decree nassed for expedition against Samians: his relations with Aspasia, 68f.; conducts war against Samians, 72 f.; receives surrender of Samians, 78

When Peloponnesian war was imminent, persuaded people to send aid to Corcyraeans in their war against Corinth, 82; accused of thus furnishing enemies pretext for war, 84; held responsible for war, 86, 240; secures acquittal of Aspasia, 92 ; refuses tolet Athenians attack invading army of Archidamus, 94f,; sends 100 ships to ravage the Peloponnesus, parcels out Acgina among the citizens, razes the Megarid, 98; blamed for 437

GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

the plague, 100, 226; fails in expedition against Epidaurus and is fined, his domestic troubles, 102 f.; recalled to conduct of affairs, 106; asks suspension of law about children born out of wedlock; what this law was, 106 f.; his dying words, 110; an appreciation of him, 112 f.
See also 1. 256, 11. 6, 286, 292, 294, 324, 444, 450, 11. 212, 214, 290,

IV. 2, VII. 22, 32, VIII. 160
Sayings: III. 24, 36, 46, 58, 89.
110, Iv. 8
[lept evyevetas, possibly work of Aristotle, II. 296
Ilepit evoeBeias, machus, IV. 264
[lepi yyuepwv, treatise by Plutarch, 11, 138
treatise by Dai-

Periguné, daughter of Sinis, bore Melanippus to Theseus, afterwards lived with Deioneus, son of Eurytus, 168 Wept prvyuatrwv, work by Diodorus the topographer, II. 88 Perinthus, attacked by Philip, saved by Athenians, VII. 40, VIII. 174; besieged by Alexander, VII. 420 Perioeci, received 30,000 lots of Laconian land in redistribution of ee ic I. 228; attack Sparta, IT.
D4

Peripatetics, older, had no wide or exact acquaintances with writings of Aristotle and Theophrastus, IV. 406 Periphemus, hero to whom Solon sacrificed, I. 424
Periphetes, Club-bearer,
Theseus, I. 16
 Periphoretus,'? surname of ihe engincer Artemon, III. 78
Ilepit wAovrov, work by Eratosthenes, Weis
Peripolitas, seer, conducted King Opheltas from Thessaly to Boeotia ;
his posterity, 11. 404
Hepi Wuxys, treatise by Heracleides
Ponticus, II. 146
IleptoxvAaxcopoi, rites performed by Greeks, I. 160
Peritas, favourite dog of Alexander,
VII.398

Ilepi Oey, treatise by Antiochus the philosopher, II. 564 438 slain by

Perithoedae, deme of Hyperbolus, 11. 248, IV. 23
Ilept tov Gevyous of Isocrates, cited IV. 26
Perpenna Vento, M., abandons Sicily to Pompey, V. 156; came to Spain to fight Metellus, is forced to join Sertorius, VIII. 38 f.; with Herennius defeated by Pompey, V. 158; defeated, captured, and executed ay Pompey, 164, VIII. 72 f£.; quoted, Perrhaebia, VI. 392; proclaimed free at Isthmian games by Flamininus, X. 350
Persaeus, philosopher, commanded Acrocorinthus for Antigonus, XI. 38; on its capture escaped . to Cenchreae; anecdote about him, 52
Persephoné, festival of; black heifer sacrificed, 11. 500
Perseus (1), his deeds against Aethiopians, Medes, Armenians, II. 410
Perseus (2), son of Philip, succeeds him to throne of Macedonia; said to have been really son of Gnathaenion, an Argive semptress, VI. 374, XI. 124; wages war on Romans, II. 362, vi. 370; his lineage and events Prior to his accession, 372 f., IX. 134; in spite of his mean and ignoble character wins successes against Romans, VI.374 f.; through avarice loses the help of the Bisternae, 382; basely betravs Genthius the Illyrian king; had 4000 cavalry and nearly 49,000 heavy-armed infantry, 386; taken in the rear by Scipio Nasica, 394; retires to Pydna and prepares for battle, ‘396; is defeated by Romans under Aemilius Paulus, 400 f.; flees from Pydna to Pella, 414f.; flees with his treasure from Pella to Amphipolis, from there to Galepsus, then sails across to Samothrace and takes refuge in temple of the Dioscuri, 416 f.; is left in the lurch by the Cretan Croandes, who sails off with his treasure, 422; surrenders to the Romans, 424, II. 3463; is led with his children in triumph of Aemilius Paulus, Vi. 442 f.; the manner of his death, 450

GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

Persians, invaded Greece, II. 404; defeated by Greeks at Marathcen Plataea, Mycalé, Arbela, 138, 224, III. 6; came into closer relatious with Greeks after time of ‘Chemistocles, 11.80; defeated by Cimon on banks of Strymon, 422; 438 f.; defeated at the Hurymedon, 442 f.; 446; 464; defeated large forces of Greeks in Egypt, 618; 620; attacked by Agesilatis, 464; send money to Demosthenes to aid in struggle against Philip, VII. 48; defeated by Alexander at river Granicus, II. 138, VII. 262; some of their women marry Alexander’s Macedonians, 418; guard their women very jealously, II. 72; XI. 154
‘Persians’? of Timotheus, opening verse, X. 284
Persis, invaded and ravaged by Alexander, VII. 334; VIII. 120
Pessinus, place in Asia Minor, VIII. 268, IX. 508
Pestilence, in Rome in time of Romulus, I. 166; swept Rome and Italy in time of Numa, 350; at Citium, II. 466; at Velitrae, Iv. 144;

at Athens, III.98f., 226 f.; at Rome, Il. 162, 206; in Demetrius' army, 1x. 118
Petelia, hill of, Hannibal slays 2500 Romans there, V. 514; mountains of, III. 346
Peteline Grove, scene of final trial of Manlius, II. 188
Peteos, father of Menestheus, I. 72

Peticius, takes Pompey, the two Lentuli, Favonius, and Deiotarus on board his ship, V. 306 f.
Petilius, praetor, read Numa's books, which were then burned in Comitium, I. 380
Petillius, supported by Cato the Elder, prosecutes Scipio the Great, Il. 344
Petinus, adherent of Nero, executed by Galba, x1. 240
Petra, in northern Greece, VI. 392

Petra, city in Arabia Petraca, Vv. 220, IX. 296
Petrachus, the so-called, near Thurium in Boeotia, IV. 382
Petro, Granius, see ‘‘ Granius Petro."

Petronius, in army of Crassus at Carrhae, III. 412; legionary tribune, pera in attempt to save Crassus,

Petronius Turpilianus, of consular rank, ordered by Galba to take his own life, XI. 236, 240
Peucestas, with Alexander on his expedition, VII. 3461.3; saves Alexander, 404; friend of Eumenes, with other satraps joins him, VIII 118; rejected by soldiers in favour of Eumenes, 120f.; 124; fought ignobly for Eumenes_ against Antigonus, 130
Phaea, the Crommyonian sow, or, as some say, a female robber called sow because of her life and manners, slain by Theseus, I. 18 f.

Phaeax (1), said to have been Theseus' look-out man on his trip to Crete, I.
Phaeax (2), father of Hrasistratus, V. 40
Phaeax (3), son of Erasistratus, able opponent of Alcibiades, IV. 28; he, not Nicias, striving with Alcibiades when MHyperbolus was_ banished according to Theophrastus, 30, III. 250; his speech "' Against Alcibiades "' cited, Iv. 28
Phaedimus, warns Eumenes of plots against his life, VIII. 128
Phaedo, archonship of, I. 82

Phaedra, wife of Theseus, met with calamities, I. 64
Phaenareté, wife of Samon, IX. 358

Phaenippus, archon eponymous in year of Marathon, II. 228
'' Phaenomerhles,'' term applied to Spartan maidens, I. 248, 390
Phaestus, Epimenides of, I. 432

Phaéthon, first king of Thesprotians and Molossians after the flood; came into Epeirus with Pelasgus, IX. 346
Phalanx, its strength and weakness, X. 3423 VI. 402, 406
Phalerum, had temple of Scirus and memorial chapels for Nausithotis and Phaeax,!. 34; haven of, II. 34; 210; had tomb of Aristides, 296
Phalinus, Zacynthian, sent by Artaxerxes after Cunaxa to parley with Greeks, X1. 156
Phallus, phantom of, in home of Tarchetius, king of Albans, I. 94
439

Phanias, Lesbian of Eresos, philosopher and historian, II. 40; cited: 1. 436, 496, II. 2, 20 f., 40, 74, 80
Phanodemus, cited: II. 38, 442, 464

Pharax, Spartan, emissary between Dionysius and Heracleides, defeats Dion at Neapolis, VI. 102, 286; 462
Pharmacusa, island near which Caesar was captured by pirates, VII. 444
Pharmuthi, Egyptian month, I. 122

Pharnabazus (1), IV. 66; assists Spartans at naval battle of Abydos, 8); defeated at Oyzicus by Alcibiades, 80f.; defeated by Thrasyllus and Alcibiades, 845; attempts to raise siege of Chalcedon, put to flight by Alcibiades, 86; makes peace with Athenian generals on conditions, 88; visited by Alcibiades in Phrygia, 110; bidden by Lysander to kill Alcibiades, 112 f., 300; denounces Lysander to Sparta, 284f.; V. 20; his province ravaged by Agesilatis, 28; has conference with him, 32f.; defeats and slays Peisander off Cnidus, 46, XI. 176; with Conon ravages coasts of Laconia, furnished money for rebuilding walls of Athens, v. 62; quarrels with Iphicrates and so conducts unsuccessful war against Egypt for Artaxerxes, XI. 184; quoted: Vv. 32 f.
Pharnabazus (2), son of Artabazus, commands foreign horse under Eumenes, VIII. 96
Pharnaces, son of Mithridates, revolts and thus drives his father to suicide, submits to Pompey and sends him gifts, V. 222; defeats Domitius and drives him from Pontus, occupies Bithynia and Cappadocia, defeated at Zela by Caesar and driven from Pontus, Vit. 560 Pharnacia, hiding place of Mithridates' women-folk, II. 524

Pharnapates, most capable general of cs slain by Ventidius, Ix. 21
Pharos, visited by Alexander and made site of Alexandria, VII. 298 f£.; 5603 IX. 296
Pharsalia, plain of, Vv. 292

Pharsalians, proud of cavalry, routed by Age: ilaiis, V. 44 440

Pharsalus, occupied by Alexander of Pherae, V. 408, 422; battle of, Caesar defeats Pompey, Vv. 292f., VI. 134, 136, vir, 180, 182, 546 f£., IX. 156
Pharygae, village of Phocis at foot of Mt. Acrurium, VIII. 222
Phaselis, Hellenic city, joins Cimon against Persians, 11. 440; VII. 272
Phasis, 11. 580; northern boundary of Lucullus' conquests, 618; river in Colchis, V. 206
Phavllus, athlete of Croton, in Median wars fitted out ship at his own expense and sailed to Salamis, honoured in remembrance by Alexander, VII. 328
Phegaca, Attic deme, Iv. 60

Pheidias, III. 4; general manager and overseer of public works under Pericles, 111.40; made golden image of Athena, became involved in scandal, 44; charged with embezzlement, dies in prison, 88; moulded Zeus of Homer according to Aemilius Paulus, VI. 428
" eeuecie surname of Demetrius, VII.

Pheneus, captured by Cleomenes, x. 86, XI. 90
Pherae (1), ruled by Alexander, Y. 402, 406
Pherae (2), Achaean city, menaced by Cleomenes, xX. 78
Pheraean, the, see ‘‘ Alexander of Pherae.”
Phereboea, married by Theseus, I. 66

Pherecles, approaches priestesses of Dodona for Lysander, Iv. 304
Phereclus, son of Amarsyas, according to Simonides was pilot of ship bearing Theseus and other victims to Crete, I. 34
Pherecydes (1), though foreigner, honoured at Sparta, xX. 24; lyric poet, eaten of worms and died, Iv. 440
Pherecydes (2), cited, I. 36, 58

Pherecydes, wise man, put to death by Spartans and his skin preserved, Vv. 390
Pherendates, commander of Persian infantry at Eurymedon according to Ephorus, II. 440 Pherenicus, outlawed from Thebes by

Spartans holding the Cadmeia, V. 352; 356
Pheristus, with Megellus, repeoples Agrigentum, VI. 544
Phersephoné, wife of Aidoneus, I. 72
Phiditia, Spartan for public mesves; etymology of the word, I. 236, V. 54
Phila, daughter of Antipater, wife first of Craterus then of Demetrius, IX. 32f., 50, 334; 64; mother of Antigonus and Stratonicé, 76f., 90, 134; had sister Eurydicé, 116;

commits suicide, 112 ‘ Philadelphus,’’ Greek surname from a special excellence, IV. 142 Philadeiphus, king of Paphlagonia,
fights under Antony, Ix. 276
Philaeus, son of Ajax, became Athenian citizen and made over Salamis to Athens, I. 426
Philagrus, teacher of Metellus Nepos,
VII. 148
Philaidae, Attic township to which Peisistratus belonged; named after Philaeus, son of Ajax, I. 428 Philargyrus, freedman of Cato the Younger, VIII. 328
Philarus, stream joined by Hoplites, in Boeotia, IV. 316
Philetas, poet, III. 4

Philides, horse-breeder, II. 14

Philinna, mother of Arrhidaeus by Philip of Macedon, VII. 436
Philip, with Archias and Leontidas persuades Phoebidas to seize Cad-meia, Vv. 350f.; polemarch at Thebes, 354; slain, 366
Philip of Macedon, his character, VII.
232, 234, VIII. 4; progenitor of Perseus, Vi. 384; brought as hostage to Thebes by Pelopidas, vy. 404f.; married Olympias, sister of Arymbas, VII. 226; took Poti-daea, 230; made Euboea submit toits tyrants, 40, VIII.170; leaving Alexander as regent, made expedition against Byzantium, VII. 244, VIII. 174; expelled from Hellespont through Phocion, 176; his successes in regard to Amphissa, Flateia, and Phocis, vil. 42; defeats Greeks at Ohaeroneia, 11. 138, VII. 48, 244, VIII. 178; proclaimed commander-in-chief of Greeks, IX. 58; marries VOL, XI.

ALL THE: “LIVES”

Cleopatra; VIT. 246; IX. 338; slain,
VII. 50, VIII. 180
See also V1. 296, VII. 30, 38, 42,
298, 236, 240, 246, 248, 250, Viti.
78. XI. 52
Quoted: III. 4, V. 386, VI. 296,
VIL. 236
Philip, companion of Alexander, made ruler of large territory in India, v1).
398 Philip, the Acharnanian, cures Alexander, VII. 276
Philip (Arrhidaeus), see Arrhidaeus.
Philip, father of Antigonus, Ix. 6
Philip, son of Antigonus and Stratonicé, younger than his brother Demetrius, died early, 1x. 6, 54 Philip, eldest son of Cassander, after latter’s death reigned over Macedonians short time, then died, leaving two brothers, Antipater and
Alexander, Ix. 86
Philip, had daughter Antigoné by Berenicé, IX. 356
Philip, successor of Antigonus Doson, sent into Peloponnesus by latter, XI. 106; supports Aratus as general of Achaeans, wins obedience of Cretans quickly, conducts vigorous campaign against Aetolians, 110:
put to death courtiers for attacking
Aratus, sets Messenians by the ears, 112; lost his fleet to Romans, ravaged territory of Messenians, 116; got Taurion to poison Aratus, 118; at war with Rome, x. 324; faces Publius Villius, 328; driven from mountains along Apsus by Fiamininus, 330; 334; meets Flamininus, but refuses his terms,

336; sends unsuccessful embassy to Rome, 338; defeated by Flamininus at Cynoscephalae, II.
350, VI. 372, X. 292, 340, 386; 344;
terms of peace with Rome, 346, 362, XI. 122; left kingdom to his eon Perseus, 124, II. 334
See also 1X. 8, X. 274, 286, 348, 388
Quoted: xX. 344 f., XI. 36
Philip, freedman of Pompey, V. 320 Philip (L. Marcius), married mother of young Caesar, negotiates with Cicero, VII. 194
Philip, the Chalcidian, cited, VII. 356
Pp 44!

Philip of Theangela, cited, VII. 356

Philippi, Iv. 402; battle of, VI. 178,
186, 208, 212
Philippics, name _ given Cicero’s speeches against Antony, VII. 142, 206
Philippides, enemy of Stratocles, Ix.
30
Philippides (Kock III. 308), rx. 30, 62 Philippus, L., moves that Pompey be sent against Sertorius, V. 118, 156 Philippus, Marcius, censor with Aemi-linus Paulus, VI. 456 Philippus, gives his daughter Marcia first to Cato, then to Hortensius, VIII. 292; consul, 330
Philistus, his language corrected by Timaeus,J1II.210; recalled from exile by Dionysius, the Younger, VI.22 f.; advises Dionysius to banish Dion, 28, 38; in wait for Dion’s fleet at Iapygia, 52; defeated and slain by Syracusans, 76; his books sent to Alexander, VII. 242.

Cited: III. 276, 306, V. 428, VI.

298

Phillidas, contrives to be appointed secretary to Archias and Philip, the polemarchs, V. 354; helps exiles killtyrants and drive Spartans from Thebes, 360
Philo, arsenal of, burned by Sulla, IV. 372
Philo, represented doctrines of Carneades, founder of New Academy, II. 606; disciple of Cleitomachus, his lectures attended by Cicero, VII. 86; 90

Philo, the Theban, cited, VII. 356

Philoboetus, hill in plains of Elatea, IV. 374
Philochorus, cited, I. 28, 30, 34, 36, 58, 68, 80, IIT. 292
Philocles, one of Athenian commanders at Aegospotami, IV. 254; executed by Lysander, 264; 454
Philocles, cited by Didymus, 1. 404

Philocrates, member of embassy of ten sent to Philip, VII. 38
Philocrates, servant of C. Gracchus, slavs his master and then himself, X. 236 Philoctetes, once ruled territory about Olizon, IT. 22 f.
442

Philoctetes, character in play of same name, I. 460
 Philoctetes,' play of uncertain authorship (Nauck 841), cited, 1. 460 Philocyprus, one of kings of Oyprus, loved Solon greatly, named new city Soli in his honour, I. 476.

Philologus, freedman of Q. Cicero, betrayed Cicero to his murderer, punished by Pomponia, VII. 206
Philombrotus, succeeded by Solon as archon, I, 436
Philomelus, Phocian, one of party that seized Delphi and plundered sanctuary, VI. 334
Philoneicus, Thessalian, offered Bucephalus to Philip for 13 talents, VII. 236
Philonicus, Licinius, see '* Licinius Philonicus."' Philopoemen, son of Craugis, reared first by Cleander, then by Ecdemus and Megalophanes, x. 256; his appearance, 258; his character, 260; youthful activities and training, 262f.; stoutly resists Cleomenes when latter seized Megalopolis at night, 264; persuades Megalopolitans to refuse Cleomenes' offer to restore their city, 104, 266; distinguishes himself in battle at Sellasia, 266; refuses service under Antigonus, 270; serves with credit in Crete, is made commander of Achaean cavalry, defeats Aetolians and Eleians at river Larissus, 272; makes Achaeans independent of foreign protectors, changes armour and drill of troops, 276; defeats Machanidas, tvrant of Sparta at Mantineia, 280; honoured = at Nemean games, 284
His life attempted by Philip of Macedon, rescues Messene from Nabis, 286; serves with distinction as general of the Gortynians in Crete, 288; saved by Achaeans from being exiled by his native city, 290; chosen general against Nabis, defeated in naval battle, 292; defeats Nabis, 294: gives secret umbrage to Flamininus, 296, and Diophanes from Sparta and brings it back again into the league, 300; as general of Achaean league, tore down walls of Sparta, annexed it to Megalopolis, and abolished constitution of Lycurgus, 302; defeats Deinocrates, who had induced Messené to revolt from Achaean league, but is taken prisoner, 310; drinks polson sent in by Deinocrates and dies, 314; his death avenged, his funeral, 314

See also 368, XT. 54
Pe ae X. 258, 290, 304, 306, 4 Philosophers, their definition of love,
I. 190; fared ill until Plato came,
III. 290; troubled Alexander in India, many hanged by him, VII.
392; assist Dio, VI. 46; 294; those at Athens treated with munificence by Pompey, V.224; how speculative philosopher differs from statesman,
IIT. 54
Philosophy, higher, influence on Pericles, III. 12; effect of its lack,
XI. 24; II. 472
Philosophy, natural, removes superstition, III. 14; Latin terms of, provided by Cicero, VII. 184
Philostephanus, cited, I. 276
Philostratus, philosopher, honoured by Cato in Sicily, VIII. 374; pardoned by Octavius, Ix. 318 Philotas, son of Parmenio and friend of Alexander, VII. 248; 254; 316; 342; suspected of plotting against Alexander, is put to death, 360 Philotas, physician of Amphissa, his anecdote about Antony, IX. 198 Philotis, or Tutula, serving-maid, proposes and carries out ruse to defeat Latins, I. 184, 11. 176 Philoxenus, son of Ptolemy, given as hostage to Pelopidas, Vv. 406 Philoxenus, dithyrambic poems of,

sent to Alexander, VII. 242 Philoxenus, commander of Alexander's forces on sea-board, VII. 284.
Phlius, attacked by Agesilatis in interests of its tyrants, ¥. 66; joins Achaean league, XI. 8&0; joins Cleomenes, X. 90, XI. 90; garrison of Oligyrtus expelled from it by Oleomenes, X. 110
Phlogidas, Spartan, opposed to gold and silver coinage, IV. 276
Phlogius, accompanied Autolycus,
II, 544
Phlya, native place of Myron, I. 432; had chapel shrine belonging to Lycomidae, which was burned by barbarians, restored by Themistocles, II. 4; had temple of Apollo the Laurel-bearer, 44 @dBos, sacrificed to by Theseus, 1. 62;
by Alexander, VII. 316. See also  Fear."'
Phocaea, [V. 242

Phocians, hid in caves near Tithora on advance of Xerxes, IV. 374; forced by Spartans to free Del-phians, II. 456; driven from sanctuary at Delphi by Spartans and Delphians, reinstated, III. 62; denounced Thebans to Alexander, VII. 254; proclaimed free at Isthmian games by Flamininus, x.
350
Phocion, his lineage, pupll of Plato, then of Xenocrates, VIII. 152; his character and power as speaker, 154, VII. 24, 34; attached himself to Chabrias, distinguished himself in sea-fight off Naxos, VIII. 156;

strove to be both orator and statesman, his policies, 160; sent with small force to Eretria to oppose Philip, 170; sent to help allies on the Hellespont, 174; expels Philip from Hellespont, brings help to Megara, 176; put in charge of Athens after Chaeroneia, opposes rejoicing at Philip’s death and opposition to Alexander, 180; persuades Alexander to turn his arms against the Barbarians and becomes his friend, 182; vexes Alexander by refusing his gift, 184,
vil. 340; his domestic life, VIII.
188; advises Athenians to accede.
to Alexander’s request for triremes, 190; resists Harpalus’ attempts to bribe him, 192; tries to restrain people when news of Alexander's death is brought, 194
Opposes Leosthenes, 194, VI. 274;

snecessfully opposes sending expedition against Boeotians, VIII. 198; defeated Micion and his Mace-443 donians, 200; as envoy persuades

Antipater not to invade Attica, 202; with other ambassadors sent to meet Antipater at Thebes, 204; induces Antipater to exempt many from exile, 210; refuses gift of money from Menyllus, 212, XI. 425 persuades Antipater not to exact moneys due from city, VIII. 214; refuses to arrest Nicanor, Cassander’s general, 218; deposed from command, 220; sets out with Deinarchus and others to meet Polysperchon, 222; taken back to Athens by Cleitus, virtually under sentence of death, 224; condemned to death by Athenian assembly, 228; drinks the hemlock, 230;

his burial, his death avenged, 252
Sayings: 154, 158, 162, 164f., L74, 17S f.,.490 4... 2125-226, 225:1.,
x. 4

Phocis, raided by Xerxes, 11. 26; 408;
111.56; 1¥.310; occupied by Philip,
VII. 42
Phocus, son of Phocion, victor as vaulting rider of horses, sent by his father to Sparta for training,
VIII. 188 f.; 212; 228; takes vengeance on LEpicurus and Demophilus for his father's death, 232 Phoebidas, seized Cadmeia in time of peace, V. 64, 350; slain at Thespiae by Thebans, 376
Phoebis, sent by Cleomenes to slay
ephors, X. 64
Phoenicia, IV. 252; with exception of Tyre, surrenders to Alexander, VII. 292; 308; its cities subdued by Tigranes, II. 534; v. 196; taken from Tigranes by Lucullus, 202; triumphed over by Pompey, 230;
een to Cleopatra by Antony, IX.
216 f.
Phoenician ships, II. 440, 444, 462,
Iv. 70, 76
Phoenicians, send ships to aid of Samians, III]. 74; routed in Sicily by Pyrrhus and their territory subdued, Ix. 418; call the cow
" thor,'' IV. 382
Phoenix, reared Achilles, x. 256

Phoenix, name which Lysimachus, tutor of Alexander, gave himself,
VII. 236
444

Phoenix, his surrender demanded of

Thebans by Alexander, VII. 252
Phoenix, of Tenedos, commands foreign horse under Humenes, VIII. 96
"'Phoenix,'" name of fount where Apollo was born, V. 378
Phorbas, father of Dexithea, I. 92; loved by Apollo, 318 Phormio, Athenian general, IV. 2

Phormio, prosecuted by Apollodorus, used speech written for him by Demosthenes, VII. 36, 216
Phraata, large city besieged by Antony, IX. 222, 226, 252
Phraates, Parthian, demands Tigranes of Pompey on plea that he is his son-in-law, and that Euphrates be adopted as boundary between his empire and that of the Romans, Vv. 204
Phraates, put his father Hyrodes to death and seized kingdom, II. 422, 1X, 215
Phraortes, Parthian, quarrels with king of the Medes, IX. 254
Phrasicles, nephew of Themistocles and husband of his daughter Nico-maché, took charge of Asia the youngest, II. 88
Phrixus, Spartan, V. 90

Phrygia, II. 432; plundered by Agesilaus, V. 22; subdued by Alexander, VII. 272; Ix. 116% Antiochus in battle there, x. 378; added to Pompey's sway by Manilian law, Vv. 190
Phrygia, Upper, has Epixyes as satrap, II. 82
Phrygians, claim Bona or Gynaeceia, and say she was mother of Midas, VII. 462
Phrynichus (1), won in tragedy, II. 16

Unidentified play cited (Kock I.

385), II]. 242, Iv. 54

Phrynichus (2), Athenian general at Samos, opposes return of Alcibiades from exile, betrayed and denounced by Alcibiades, slain by Hermon,
T¥ ert Phrynis, musician, had two of his nine lute-strings cut out by the ephor Ectrepes, xX. 24
Phthia, wife of Admetus, said to have suggested form of supplication to him, II. 66

Phthia, daughter of Menon, the Thessalian, married Aeacides and became mother of Deidameia, Troas, and Pyrrhus, IX. 346 Phthiotis, Achaeans of, have garrisone put over them by Alexander of Pherae, V. 418; freed by Thebans,
430; xX. 350
@vAda, subdivision of Spartans made by Lycurgus, I. 220 Phylacia, in battle there Bithys, general of Demetrius, defeats
Aratus, XI. 76
Phylacion, mistress of Stratocles, Ix.
26 Phylarchus, his story about Themistocles fabricated, II. 88; great admirer of Cleomenes, XT. 88
Cited: IT. 88, 138, VII. 66, IX.

438, x. 20, 60, 114, 118, x1. 88

Phylé, in Attica, IV. 290, 310, Ix. 54, 442
Phytalidae, men of race of, purified ‘Cheseus from bloodshed and feasted him, I. 22; superintended contributions toward a sacrifice to Theseus, 50

Picenum, III. 340, V. 126 f., 442

Pictae, deputation reaches there, IV. 352
Pictor, see '* Fabius Pictor."'

Picus, demi-god, once haunted Aventine, etc., 1. 358
Pierio, said by some to have composed verses sung at banquet of Alexander, VII. 368
Pigres, general, said by Eumenes to be coming against him, VIII. 94
 Pilamenai,'' connected with " flamines,'' 1. 328 Pillars of Hercules, III. 250, VI. 310, 368 Pinarii, descended from Pinus, son of Numa, I. 376
Pinarius, husband of Thalaea, I. 394

Pinarus, river, VII. 278

Pindar (in passage not extant) says son of Theseus and Antiopé called Demophoon, I. 64; he and his verses loved by Pan, 318; his descendants spared by Alexander,
VII. 254
Pyth. (2, 1 £.), V. 492, (8, 44£.) X1.2

Sulla

Frg 77 (Bergk 15. p. 414) II. 22;

Frg 131 (p. 444) 1.180; Frg 169
(p. 458) IX. 104; Frg 199 (p. 466)
I. 272; Frg 205 (p. 469) IX. 544;
Frg 206 (p. 469) 111.208; Frg 232
(p. 476) V. 516
Pindarus, freedman, slays Cassius, VI.
234, Ix. 184
Pinus, son of Numa, ancesto: ob

Pinaril, 1. 376
Piracy, ships engaged in it not collected by Lucullus, II. 478
Piraeus, equipped and connected with Athens, II. 52; tomb of Themistocles near it, 88; entered by Lysander, IV. 270; VII. 2; 68; handed over to Demetrius, Ix. 84; captured by Sulla, Iv. 360, 372, 452; unsuccessfully attacked by Aratus, guarded by Diogenes, x1.76; given up to Athenians by Diogenes, 78
Piralc gate, see ‘‘ Peiraic gate.”

Pirates, driven from Scyros by Lucullus, II. 426; attack Lucullus on way to Egypt, 476; save Mithridates, 508; Cilician pirates make bargain with Spartacus, then disappoint him, III. 342; their depredations in Pompey’s time, V. 172f.; by Gabinian law Pompey sent against them, 178f.; subdued by Pompey, 182
Pirithotis, see ‘‘ Peirithotls."’

Pisa, statue of Zeus at, III. 4

Pisandrus, Plataean hero, II. 246

Pisaurum, city near Adriatic, colonized by Antony, swallowed by chasms in earth, IX. 274
Pisis, of Thespiae, urges Boeotians to revolt, spared by Demetrius and made polemarch of Thespiae, 1X. 96
Pisidians,seeking toslay Themistocles, are captured, II. 82; overpowered by Alexander, VII. 272
Piso, O., historian, cited, I. 378, Ix. 594
Piso, O, Calpurnius, consul, interferes with Pompey in his war on pirates and comes near losing consulship,

Vv. 182; makes report on Catiline’s conspiracy, VII.126; 456
Piso, L. Calpurnius, marries his daughter to Caesar and is made consul, V. 238, 240, VII. 474, VII. 4445

306, 316; gets province of Macedonia with support of Clodius, VII. 156; advises Cicero to leave country, 160f.; urges Caesar to propose settlement with Pompey, 530
Piso Caesoninus, L. Calpurnius, supported for consul by Pompey, Y. 228; assists Curio in taking opinion of senate, 268
Piso Frugi, O. Calpurnius, Cicero’s son-in-law, goes to Pompey to beg aid for Cicero, VII.160; 188
Piso Frugi Licinianus, L. Calpurnius, son of Crassus and Scribonia, proclaimed his successor by Galba, XI. 254f.; slain, 258, 266, 270
Pissouthnes, Persian satrap, aids Samians, III. 72
Bens fortress of Mithridates, II. 47
Pittacus, tyrant of Mitylené, 1. 428

Pittheus, son of Pelops, grandfather of Theseus, founded Troezen, etc., I. 6; persuaded Aegeus to take his daughter Aethra, 8; spread report that Poseidon was father of Theseus, 12; father of Henioché, grandfather of Sciron, 56
Pityussa, island off Spain, attacked by Sertorius, V11II. 18
Pixodarus, satrap of Caria, hopes to marry his daughter to Arrhidaeus or Alexander, VII. 248 pene held by Otho’s troops, XI.

9
Plague, see ‘* Pestilence.”’

Plain-men, at Athens, favoured oligrere 1. 434; headed by Lycurgus, 6

Plancus, L. Munatius, speaks in favour of amnesty after Cacsar’s murder, VI. 166; joins Antony, IX. 176; abused by Cleopatra, deserts to Octavianus, 268
Plancus, T. Munatius, on trial, supported by Pompey, V. 262
Plataea, Daimachus of, 1.572; heroes of, II. 246; meeting place of melenle council, 11. 274, 278; Iv.
Plataea, battle of, Greeks defeat Persians, II. 46, 138, 214, 226, 238, 386, 396, x. 8; Thebans defeat Spartans, V. 376, 400
446

Plataeans, had general Arimnestus, II. 246; vote to move boundary toward Attica, rewarded by Alexander, 248, VII. 326; Il. 274; 278; denounced Thebans to Alexander, VII. 254
Plato, philosopher, adopted Lycurgus’ design for a civil polity, 1. 300; thought earth in secondary space, 844; sold oil in Egypt to make expenses, 408; says Solon abandoned work on story of lost Atlantis on account of old age, 494: began story of lost Atlantis, 496; gave performance of singing and dancing boys, II. 212, VI. 34; asked to write for Cyrene, makes oracular reply, II. 474; abused by Timaeus, III. 219; brought philosophy into good repute, 290; had tendency to melancholy according to Aristotle, IV. 236;

admired poetry of Antimachus of Colophon, 282; opposed use of mechanical illustrations to assist geometry, V. 470f.; had Dion as immediate disciple, VI. 2; how treated in Sicily by Dionysius the Elder, 8; how by Dionysius the Younger, 26; kept Dion with him in the Academy, 32; his last visit to Syracuse, 36; wrote letter to Dionysius the Younger about treatment of Dion's wife, 42; refuses to help Dion in war against Dionysius the Younger, 44; 110; censures Dion for choosing men who proved his ruin, 252; dead when Dionysius came to Corinth, 296; taught Demosthenes according to Hermippus, VII. 12; praised by Cicero, 140; VIII. 152; says great natures exhibit great vices as well as great virtues, IX. 4; 78; his advice to Xenocrates, 466; his death-bed words, 594
Alcibiades, (112) IV. 2, (1228) 1. 256
Epistles, v1. 252; Epist. Iv. (320) VI. 110, (ad fin.) IV. 152, 224, vi. 16
Epist. VII. (327) VI. 8, (328) 22, (346) 36, (349f.) 40
Gorgias (464) Ix. 200, (518f, 526) IT. 292
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE 'LIVES'

Laws (630d) I. 288, (691e) I. 218, 330, (692a) I. 224, (706b) II. 12, 292
Menexenus, III. 70

Meno (93) 11. 86

On the Soul, read by Cato just before his death, VIII. 400
Phaedrus (254a) IX. 216, (255)

1V.°335 (2704). 111.0225. (271c)
111. 48
Phaedo (68d) 1. 188

Republic (363) 11. 612, (376c) XI.
266, (426e) xX. 244, (458d) I.
248, (473d) VII. 216, (475b) S4, (487e) I. 374, (557d) Vi. 112, (562c) t1r. 20
ee (179a) V. 384, (215)

o20

Tiaisecs (87c) I. 292

Plato, comic poet, IX. 296; (Kock I.
651) 11. 90; (Kock I. 654) Il. 248,
IV. 30; (Kock 1. 655) 111. 10
Plebcians, their complaints about money-lenders, and secession, Iv.
126; unrest among them after Volscian war owing to scarcity of food and money, 144; angry when Coriolanus and other' senators oppose free distribution of grain sent by Syracuse, 154; 184: get permission to elect one of consuls from their own body, II. 202, 204;
one censor plebeian, 346
Pleistarchus, brother of Cassander, receives Cilicia after defeat of Antigonus, goes to see Seleucus,
Ix. 76
Pleistinus, brother of Faustulus, fell in battle between Romulus and Remus, I. 116
Pleistoanax, king of Sparta, son of Pausanias, father of Pausanias,
x. 8; invades Attica, but is bribed to withdraw, fined and goes into exile, 111.64; Saying, I. 268 Plemmyrium, captured from Athenians by Gylippus, III. 278 Plotius, accused Licinia the Vestal and Crassus, ITI. 314

Plutarch, Eretrian, asks help of Athens against Philip, defeated and driven from Eretria by Phocion, VIII. 170 £.
Plutarch, our, had intimate friend, Themistocles of Athens, attended schoo] of Ammonius, the philosopher, If. 90; native of Chaeroneia, VII. 443 IV. 378 f£.; visits Rome and acquires the language, VII. 4; saw marble statue of Marius at Ravenna in Gaul, IX. 466; visited scene of battle between Otho and Vitellius, xi. 308; saw tomb of Otho at Brixillum, 316
Works cited :—
Life of Aratus, X. 276; of Demosthenes and Cicero in 5th book, VI1.6; of Dion in 12th book, VI. 6; of Lysander, III. 66; of Metellns, IX. 546; of Pericles and Fabius Maximus, III. 6; of Timoleon, v1. 122
On Days, II. 138

Roman ee Ir. 140

Sayings: I. 180, 362, 376, 396, 398, 418, 460, 570, rae 110, 298, 316, 392 f., 398, 410, 490, III. 2 £., 14, 54, 112, 152, 2 202, 214, 318, "386 426, 428, 434, 436, Iv. 120, 212 252, 446 ie 450, ¥.. 106, 312, 344, VII. 44, VIII. 344, IX. 476 f., 520, 596, x. 2, 52, 168, 240, 248 f., 278 f., 352, 384f., XI. 4, 24, 106, 186 f., 196
Pluto, sacrificed to, by Publicola, 1 556
Plutus, blind and lifeless at Sparta, I. 232
Plynteria, see ‘* Athena.’’

Pnyx, at Athens, had bema, II. 54;

T6038? 1, 232
Po, river, V. 446; crossed by Marius, IX. 526; battle there between Caecina and Otho’s men, XI. 298 f.
Poets, nameless, cited, II. 222; 420; 460; 4723 506; (Kock II!. 493), 111. 432; IV.10, V. 4143 IV.326; (Nauck? 921), 454; (Bergk t11*. 622), v. 38; (Kock II. 484), 254; (Kock 11. 80. 128), VII. 22; (Nauck? 911), 150; 378 ; (Nauck? 921), rx. 318
Polemarchs, at Sparta fine Agis, I. 238; at Athens chosen by lot, III. 26; at Thebes, V. 66, 354
Polemon, strives for chief command under Eumenes, VIII. 102
Polemon, cited, I. 190

Polemon, topographer, cited, x1. 28

Polemon, king, taken prisoner by

Parthians, IX. 224; sent army from Pontus to Antony, 276
‘* Poliorketes,’’ title of tyrants, II. 228; surname of Demetrius, IX. 106
Pollichus, goes to rescue his nephew Heracleides, III. 292
Pollio, sole remaining prefect of Otho’s soldiers, orders them to swear allegiance to Vitellius, x1.318
Pollio, Asinius, see ‘* Asinius Pollio.”’

Pollis, Spartan, sold Plato as slave in Aegina, VI. 10
Pollux, see ‘Castor’’ and “ Dioscuri.”’
Polus, Aeginetan, pupil of Archias, VII. 70 Polyaenus, fought always at side of

Philopoemen, x. 282
Polyaices, ambassador from Sparta to Athens, III. 86
Polyarchus, Aeginetan, charges Athenians with fortifying their clty, 11. 52
Poivbius, son of Achaean general Lycortas, friend of Philopoemen, x. 314f.; gets Scipio's aid in securing return of Achaean exiles, Il. 3265 vr. 134
Cited: 11. 330, V. 380, 524, VI. 404, x. 152, 300
Histories (II. 47, 4f.) x1. 88, (Ii; G64, 1). X.106,. Qty. 65,-2. &. 7} 114, (XXIX) Vi. 392, 394 Polycleitus (1), made statue of Hera at Argos, III. 4
Polycleitus (2), cited, VII. 356

Polycleitus (3), adherent of Nero, executed by Galba, x1. 240
Polycrates (1), tyrant, III. 76; imitated by Lysander in his disregard for oaths, IV. 252
Polycrates (2), descendant of Aratus and friend of Plutarch, XI. 2 f.
Polycrates (3), sou of Polycrates, XE4
Polycratidas, one of embassy sent to generals of Persian king, quoted, I. 282
Polycrité, daughter of Lysimachus, voted public maintenance, II. 296
Polycritus, physician at court of Artaxerxes, XI. 176
Polydectes, half-brother of Lycurgus, I. 206; died soon after ascending throne, leaving it to Lycurgus, 448

208; had posthumous son Charilaiis, 1.210; his widow plots against Lycurgus, 212

Polydorus, king of Sparta, with his colleague ‘Theopompus inserted clause in rhetra of Lycurgus, |. 222; said to have added some lots ig wore distributed by Lycurgus, 22
Polyeuctus (1), son of Themistocies and Archippé, II. 86
Polyeuctus (2), Sphettian, contrasts Demosthenes and Phocion as speakers, VII. 24, VIII. 1543 VII. 32; counsels Athenians to go to war with Philip, vim1. 184; demanded by Alexander, VII. 56
Polygnotus, painter, with Elpinicé, 11. 414
Polygnotus, tower of, XI. 12 f.

Polyidus, Plataean hero, II. 246

Poilymachus, of Pella, executed by Alexander for rifling tomb of Cyrus, VII. 416 Polymedes: father of Glaucus, VIII. 72 his relations

Polyphron, uncle of Alexander of Pherae, slain by him, Vv. 412
Polysperchon, with Leptines, puts Callipus to death, VI. 122
Polysperchon, appointed general-in-chief by Antipatcr before dying, VIII. 216; quarrels with Cassander after death of Autipater, 114; orders Eumenes to wage war on Antigonus and take 500 talents of treasure at Quinda, 116; plots against Phocion, 216; father of Alexander, 220, 1x. 22; has Dein-archus of Corinth executed, refuses to hear Phocion, VIII. 222; good gencral according to Pyrrhus, IX. 366
Polystratus, witnesses death of

Dareius, VII. 350
Polyxenus, husband of Thesté, became enemy of Dionysius the Elder, VI. 42
Polyzelus, Rhodian, cited, 1. 446

Pomaxathres, Parthian, slew Crassus, III, 416, 422
Pomentinum, city of Italy with marshes near it, VII. 578
 Pomerium,"' its etymology, I. 118

Pompaedius Silo, leader of Latin allies in their effort to obtain Roman citizenship, VIII. 258; challenged Marius to battle, 1x. 554 Pompeia, Caesar's third wife, VII.

452; loved by Clodius, 462; divorced by Caesar, 152, 466
 Pompeii,'' name common to family, IX. 464
Pompeii, Cicero had farm near it, VII. 100
Pompeius, neighbour of Ti. Gracchus, said Eudemus of Pergamum gave Ti. QGracchus royal diadem and purple robe, X. 176
Pompeius, Aulus, tribune of people, ealled Bataces impostor and died within week, Ix. 508
Pompeius, Gnaeus, elder son of Pompey, sent to Syria by his father to raise 4 fleet, V. 278; enraged at Cieero after Pharsalus, VII. 180, Vill. 370; enamoured of Cleopatra, Ix. 192
Pompecius, Sextus, younger son of Pompey, tells Cato of Pompey's death, VIII. 370; supported by Spain, 382; holding Sicily and ravaging Italy, makes peace with

Octavius and Antony, [X. 206; attacked by Octavius, 216; driven from Sicily by him, 262
Pompeius Rufus, Q., consul with Sulla, Iv. 342; his son slain by Sulpicius' mob, escapes himself, 350
Pompeius Sextus Strabo, Guaeus, father of Pompey, ablesoldier, hated for hig greed, V. 116; arrayed against Cinna, saved from mutinous troops by his son, 122 Pompey, son of Strabo, loved by people, his character, v. 116f.; saved his father Strabo from mutinous soldiers, tried for theft of public property on his father's death, 122; wins favour with his judge, the praetor Antistius, becomes engaged to his daughter, is acquitted, 124; married Antistia, 126; when 23 raises force preparatory to joining Sulla, 128; defeats various enemies, 139; is saluted as *' Imperator'' by Sulla, sent to Gaul to help Metellus, 132; divorces Antistia and marries Acmilia, step-daughter of Sulla, 134; sent against Marians in Sicily, executes Carbo and Q.
Valerius, 136f.; sent by Sulla against Domitius in Africa, 140; defeats and slays Domitius, 142; captures Jampsas and gives his kingdom to Hiempsal, subdues Africa within 40 days, 144; on his return greeted as '*' Magnus "' by Sulla, 146; allowed to have triumph, 148
Is left out of Sulla's will, appointed general against Lepidus, 152; has Brutus, father of the Brutus who killed Caesar, slain, 154; goes to Spain to help Metellus against Sertorius, 156; fights drawn battle with him, 160; after death of Sertorius completely defeats Perpenna, 162; returning from Spain defeats remnant of Spartacus' force, 164; receives 2nd triumph and consulship, 166; In constant collision with his colleague Crassus, 168; given eommand against pirates by Gabinian law, 176f.; clears Tyrrhenian and Libyan seas and sea about Sardinia, Corsica, and Sicily in 40 days, 182; drives all piracy from the sea in less than 3 months, 186; treats Metellus in Crete unfairly, 188; given command against Mithridates by Manilian law, 190 f.; meets Lucullus in Galatia, 194; defeats Mithridates near Euphrates river, 200; invades Armenia, 202; defeats Albanians and Iberians about Caucasus mountains, 206 f.; in fortress of Caenum found and read private documeuts of Mithridates, 212; marches toward Petra, 2203; reeeives news of death of Mithridates, 222; while returning visits Athens and donates 60 talents toward its restoration, 224; divorees Mueia, disbands his army, Zeb Attempts to win Cato by marriage alliance, 228; celebrates triumph, 230; begins to lose reputation from this time, 232; refuses to help Cicero threatened with exile, 234; lends his support to Caesar the consul and marries 449

his daughter Julia, 236f.; with Caesar's help gets his enactments ratified which Lucullus contested, 238; opposed by Clodius, 240; assists in recall of Cicero and by him is reconciled to senate, 242 f.; is given direction of navigation and agriculture, 244; secures abundance of grain for the city, 246; has understanding with Caesar and Crassus at Luca, 248; elected consul with Crassus, with his help introduces laws giving Caesar his provinces for 5 more years, giving Crassus Syria and the expedition against the Parthians, and giving himself Africa, both Spains, and 4 legions, 250 Loses his wife Julia, learns of Crassus' death, 254; elected sole consul, 258; marries Cornelia, daughter of Metellus Scipio, 260; is to retain his provinces another 4 years and receive 1000 talents yearly to maintain his soldiers, 262; demands his 2 legions back from Caesar, recovers from dangerous illness, 264; receives his 2 legions from Caesar, becomes filled with confidence in his power to suppress Caesar, 266; is commanded by the consuls to levy recruits but has difficulty in securing them, 270; issues edict recognizing state of civil war and ordering al] the senators to follow him, 276; crosses from Brundisium to Dyrrhachium, 278; gathers great force and has irresistible navy, 280; refuses Caesar's offer of peace, routs his army but fails to take advantage of the victory, 284; pursues Caesar, 288; is forced by his friends to offer battle to Caesar, 290; is defeated by Caesar at Pharsalus, 292f.; flees from the field of battle, 304; is joined by his wife Cornelia, 310; sails to Pelusium in Egypt, 316; is murdered by Ptolemy’s agents, 322; his death avenged by Caesar, 324

See also 11. 140, 472, 484 f., 582,
88'f., 694.1., G06, 111,325 £.,.348 £,
428 f., IV. 418, 430 £., 442, 448, VI.
132,136, 190, 19S. 252, VilatO2 4.
450

114, 124, 158, 160, 166, 170, 176 f., 194, 468, 472 f., 478, 494, 500f., 510, 514 f., 524, 528, 538 f., 548 f., VIII. 4, 32, 48f., 58, 72, 140, 264,
306 f., 332 £., 340, 344 f., 352, 366 f., 382, IX. 148, 152, 160, 180
Quoted : I1. 600, Vv. 120, 136, 164, 192, 304, 310

Pompilia, only daughter of Numa and eae I. 376; married Marcius,
ie

Pompon (1), father of Numa Pompilius, 1. 314
Pompon (2), son of Numa, ancestor of Pomponii, I. 376 Pomponia, wife of Q. Cicero, inflicts terrible punishment upon Philologus, VII. 208
Pomponii, descended from Pompon, son of Numa, I. 376 Pomponius (1), praetor, announces defeat at Thrasymené, III. 126
Pomponius (2), companion of C.
Gracchus, Killed at wooden bridge,
X. 234
Pomponius (3), spared by Mithridates, 11.514
Pontic kings, line of, founded by aa rides ended by Romans, IX.
2
Pontifex Maximus, his duties, I. 338,
342 f.; Antony, IX. 208; Caesar,
VII. 456; P. Licinius Crassus Dives,
II. 192; P. L. Crassus Dives
Mucianus, X. 162; Metellus Pius,

IV. 342, VII. 456; Nasica, x. 194
Pontifices, ascribed to Numa, why so called, 1.336; their duties, 346
Pontius, his servant gives inspired message to Sulla, 1v. 412
Pontius Cominius, see ‘* Cominius, Pontius.’’
 Pontius Glaucus,’’ poem by Cicero when a boy, VII. 84
Pontus, 11. 294; held by son of Mithridates, Iv. 358; 11.494; 508; ravaged by Lucullus, 510; invaded by Lucullus again, 542; men sent from Rome to regulate its affairs, 586; invaded by Pompey, VII. 106; triumpbed over by Pompey, Vv. 230; freed of Romans by Pharnaces, freed of Pharnaces by Caesar, VIT. 560
Popilius, O., defeated by Caesar ag candidate for military tribuneship, VII. 450 Popilius Laenas, alarms Brutus and Cassius by his words, v1. 158

Popillius, as praetor had banished friends of Ti. Gracchus, flees from Italy, x. 206
Popillius, military tribune, once when charged with parricide defended by Cicero, is one of his assassins, VII. 204 f.
Poppaea, wife of Crispinus, her acts, XI. 246 f.
“* Poppaea,’’ name given Sporus by Nymphidius Sabinus, x1. 224
 Populus,’’ name given to those not in the legions, I. 122
Porcia (1), sister of Cato the Younger, wife of Lucius Domitius, VIII. 236, 332 Porcia (2), daughter of Cato the Younger and wife of Bibulus, to whom she bore 2 sons, VIII. 292; mother of Bibulus, VI. 176; cousin and wife of Brutus, insists upon sharing his secret, 152, VIII. 410; V1. 158; manner and time of her death, 246

“ Porcius,’’ derived from ‘‘ porcus,’’
I. 532
Porsena, Lars, declares war on Rome when she refuses to restore Tarquin to throne, I. 542; checked at bridge by Horatius and his 2 companions, 544; releases Mucius, who tried to kill him, 546 f.; makes peace with Rome on conditions, 550; honours Cloelia, 552; in retiring left his supplies behind for Romans, 554, 574; bronze statue of him near senate-house, 554
Porsena’s goods cried first, 1. 554

Porus, Indian king, defeated and captured by Alexander, restored to his kingdom and given title of satrap, VII. 394f.; quoted, 398 Poseideon, Athenian month, corresponds nearly to January, VII. 532 Poseidon, patron god of Troezen, reputed father of Theseus, I. 12;
Isthmian games in his honour instituted by Theseus, 56; honoured on 8th day of every month, 84;
called Securer and LEarth-stayer, 86; contends with Athena for Athens, II. 54; Vv. 8; temples of,
at the Isthmus, at Taenarum, at Calauria, plundered by pirates,
174; VII.70; xX. 36
Poseidonius, tells of his discourse at Rhodes before Pompey against Hermagoras the rhetorician, Vv. 224; wrote history of Perseus in several books, excuses king for retiring from battle of Pydna, VI. 404f.; taught Cicero philosophy, VII. 90

Cited: V. 436, 458, 488 f., 520,

VI. 128, 412, IX. 464, 592 f.

Posidonia, Astyphilus of, 11. 460

Postuma, daughter of Sulla and Valeria, why the name, Iv. 442 Postumius, soothsayer, tells Sulla the omens are good, IV. 352 Postumius, Livius, led Latin army against Rome, I. 184
Postumius, Spurius,
Gracchus, X. 162
Postumius Tubertus (1), made consul along with M. Valerius, I. 554 Postumius Tubertus (2), as dictator fought Aequians and Volscians, II.
96 Postumus, surname of child born after father's death, IV. 142 Potamon, lLeshian, according to Sotion told of Alexander founding city in memory of his dog Peritas,
VII. 398
Potamus, place in Attica, II. 298

Potheinus, eunuch, managed Ptolemy's affairs, called council of influential] men to decide on fate of Pompey, Vv. 316, VII. 556; drove out Cleopatra, plotted against Caesar, 556;
put to death by Caesar, 558, Vv. 324
Potheinus, official under Cleopatra,
IX. 274
Potidaea, colony of Corinth, revolts from Athens, III. 84; campaign against, IV. 18; taken by Philip at time of Alexander's birth, VII.
230 Potitus, Valerius, sent to consult oracle at Delphi about Alban lake, 11. 102
Praecia, controls Cethegus and thus secures Cilicia for Lucullus, II. 488

Praeneste, IV. 416; younger Marius besieged there, 418; its inhabitants slaughtered by Sulla, 428, Ix. 598 451 rival of Ti.

GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE

Pracnestines, with Vol-cians make war on Rome, II. 190
Praesii, thelr kings said to be waiting for Alexander on banks of Ganges with large forces, revere altars lett by him, vil. 400
Praetor, in Macedonia in time of Lucullus, but Greece had none yet, II. 408; usually granted accused 10 days in which to make defence, VII. 104
Praetors: ©. Antonius, 1X. 170; Antistius, V. 124; Brutus and Cassius, VII. 574; Brutus and Servilius, IV. 350; O. Caesar, VII. 138, 462, VIII. 298; Cato the Younger, 340; Cicero, VII. 102; Clodius, III. 336; Didius, in Spain, VII. 6; Cornelius Lentulus 2nd time, VII. 122, 126; Lepidus, Ix. 152; M. Lucullus, of Macedonia, VII.448; Marius, 1x.472; M. Otho, Vil. 112; Aemilins Paulus with 12 lictors, VI. 362; Petilius, I. 380; Pomponius, 111. 126; Rubrius, VII.

254; Salonius, 11. 384; Sulla, Iv. 334; (©. Sulpicius, vil. 126; P. Varinus, III. 338; Vatinlus, v. 250; O. Vergilius, VII. 164; Verres, 98; Vetus, in Spain, 452
Pranichus, poet, VII. 368

Praxagoras, advises Neapolitans to offer sacrifices for Pompey’s re-covery, V. 264

Praxiergidae, celebrate the rites of the Plynteria of Athene, [v. 98 Prayer, Pythagoreans do not allow men to offer it cursorily, I. 354; after praying Roman turned to right, 11. 106
Priapus, Artemis of, 11. 510

Prices yf I7,. 610, 1V.. 366, 1X, 242, x.
148, 360 f., XI. 184
Priené, bone of contention between Samians and Milesians, II. 72; assigned by Antony as place for dramatic artists to dwell in, 1x.
266
Priestess, Pythian, Iv. 304

Prima, daughter of Hersilia and Romulus, I. 130 “Principla,”” Roman word for gcneral’s quarters, XI. 228
* Priscus,’’ original cognemen of Cato the Elder, If. 392
452 fLIVES”

Priscus, Helvidius, see ‘‘ Helvidius Priscus.’’ Prisoners, exchange of, between Fabius and Hannibal, II. 140
Proauga, daughter of Agesilatis, V. 52

Procles, Spartan king, son of Aristodemus and father of Sotis, v. 52
Proconnesus, Aristeas of, 1. 178

Procrustes, slain by Theseus, 1. 188

Proculeius, bidden by Octavius to get Cieopatra alive, does so by ruse
Ix. 314
Proculus, prefect of guards sent by Otho to army with full authority, XI. 294; leads troops out of Bedriacum for battle, 300; 304

 Proculus,’’ surname of child born in absence of father from home, IV. 142....
Proculus, Julius, by his story of seeing Yomulus ascending to heaven quicts people, I. 176, 310; favourite of Romans, sent to invite Numa to accept the throne, 320
Prodigies: I. 166, 176f., 180, 308, 534, IT. 98, 126, 168, 452, 460f., 496, 500, 548, I1I. 14, 100, 122 f., 244, 254, 288, 372 f., IV. 48, 210, 260 f., 340, 344, V. 180, 420, 442, 612, 516, VI. 48f., 82, 210 £., 234, 276 f., 290, 398, 418, VII. 130, 164, 204, 260, 300 f., 324, 386 f., 588 f., GOL f., VIII. 208, IX. 274, 308, 450, 508, 572, x. 140, 184f., 220, 352, x1. 100
 Prodikoi,’? name given by Spartans to guardians of fatherless kings, L 210
Promachus, won prize by drinking 4 pitchers of wine, VII. 418
 Promsanteia,’’? meaning of word, secured for Athenians by Pericles, III. 64
Promathion, compiler of history of Italy, cited, I. 96
Property, II. 204, 218, 316, Iv. 12, 280, V. 50, 120
Frophantus, brother of Cleinias, x1. 6

Propontis, to be guarded by Cotta, II. 480
Propylaea, of acropolis, Mnesicles its architect, III. 42 f.
Proscription, ITI. 330, Iv. 426 f.

Proseoea, temple of Artemis, IT. 24

Proserpina, possibly same as Libitina,

1. 346; vi. 118; 276. See also ‘Cora’’ and ‘ Persephoné,’’ Prosper, see ‘* Eutychus.”’

Ilpds tots eéxaipous,
Andocides, II. 88
Protagoras, in discussion with Pericles, 111.104; exiled, 290
Proteas, boon companion, forgiven by Alexander, VII. 340
Prothoiis, opposes expedition against Thebes, Vv. 78
Prothytes, her surrender demanded of Thebans by Alexander, VII. 252
Protis, merchant, popular with Gauls, founded Marscilles, 1. 408
Protogenes, Caunian, made painting for Rhodians illustrating story of Ialysus, captured by Demetrius, IX. 6
Protus, Dion’s pilot, v1. 52

Proverbs: I. 66, II. 540, 111. 238, 246, IV. 64, 286, 448, V. 318, VI. 322, 416, Vil. 6, 318, ITI. 102, %. 110, 244, XI. 2, 160, 194, 208
Provinces, extravagance of governors, 11. 320; 484; 488
Proxenus, Macedonian, uncovers spring of olly liquid near rlver Oxus, VII. 386 f.
Prusias, in Bithynia, harboured Hannibal, asked by Flamininus to give him up, X. 378
Prytaneium, 1. 456; in Plutarch’s time preserved some of Solon’s tables of law, 1. 472; VII. 76
Prytanes, I. 456

Prytanis, father of Lycurgus and Eunomus, I. 206
Psammon, philosopher, heard by Alexander in Egypt, VII. 304

Psenophis, of Heliopolis, learned Egyptian priest with whom Solon studied, I. 476 Psiltucis (or Scillustis) island in Indian ocean marking limit of Alexander’s expedition, VII. 410 sh hes wife of Marphadates, VIII. 4
Psylli, Libyan people who charmed snakes, VIII. 372
Psyttaleia, small island in front of Salamis, 11. 238 Ptoeodorus, Megarian, visited by Dion, V1. 34 speech of

HCAS SELVES

Ptolemacus (1), eunuch of Mithridates Il. O22
Ptolemueus (2), encourages Otho by his prediction, X1. 256
Vtolemais, daughier of Ptolemy and Eurydicé, married to Demetrius, IX. 78, 116; mother of ruler of Cyrené, 134
Ptolemy (1), at war with Alexander, king of Macedonia, slew him and succeeded to throne, made peace with Pelopidas, Vv. 404 f.
Ptolemy (2), nephew of Antigonus, given as hostage to KEumenes, VIII. 108 f.
Ptolemy (3), son of Pyrrhus and Antigoné, IX. 360, 368; repulsed by Acrotatus, 440; slain in battle by Oryssus, 446 f.
Ptolemy (4), son of Chrysermns. friend of King Ptolemy but treacherous toward Cleorienes, X. 130; slain by Cleomenes, 1384
Ptolemy (5), in charge of Alexandria under King Ptolemy, slain by Cleomenes, X. 134
Ptolemy (6), king of Cyprus, opposed

BF Cato, slew himself, VI. 130, VIII. 22

Ptolemy (7), son of Antony and Cleopatra, given Phoenicia, Syria, and Cilicia, rx. 262
Ptolemy Auletes, flees from Egypt, seeks Roman aid, V. 244f.; receives kindness from Pompey, 314; disregards Cato's advice not to go to Rome, VIII.320; bribes Gabinius to help him recover Egypt, 1x. 142; prevented by Antony from putting people of Pelusium to death, 144
Ptolemy Ceraunus, with army peri-hed at hands of Gauls, Ix. 416
Ptolemy Dionysius, indebted to Pompev, V. 314; makes war on his sister at Pelusium, 316; defeated by Caesar, disappears, 324
Ptolemy Euergetes, x. 16; made ally of Achaeans, XJ. 54; sent Aratus 6 talents a year, 96, X. 92; 98f.; receives Cleomenes kindly, gives him pension of 24 talents, dies before sending him back to Sparta, 122; 274
Ptolemy Lathyrus, gives royal welcome to Lucullus, but out of fear 453 of Mithridates abandons alliance with Rome, II. 476; Iv. 142 Ptolemy Philadelphus, to help Aratus get back to Sicyon, XI. 10; receives paintings from him, 28; gives Aratus 150 talents for Sicyon, 30, 32:f.

Ptolemy Philometor (?) xX. 146

Ptolemy Philopator, his character and treatment of Cleomenes, xX. 124 f.; 128; has Cleomenes imprisoned,

130; 132; has mother and children of Cleomenes executed, 136; 140; 290; built a ship with 40 banks of oars, Ix. 108
Ptolemy Soter, son of Lagus, companion of Alexander, banished from Macedonia by Philip, vi. 250; received Apama, sister of Barsiné, from Alexander, VIII. 80; threatened with attack by Perdiccas, 90; defeated Demetrius in Syria near Gaza, his general Cilles defeated by Demetrius, Ix. 12 f.; had more than one wife, 338; besieged Halicarnassus, with Cassander had subdued all Greece, 18; defeated by Demetrius in Cyprus, 36 f., 336; given title of king, 40, VII. 336; unsuccessfully attacked by Antigonus and Demetrius, Ix. 42; 60; marries one daughter to Lysimachus and one to the latter's son Agathocles, 76; marries his daughter Ptolemals to Demetrius and makes peace with him, 78, 116, 354; marries his daughter Antlgoné to Pyrrhus, his hostage, 356; sends 150 ships to assist Athenians against Demetrius, 82, 360; takes Cyprus, excepting Salamis, from Demetrius, 86; 360; leagued with Seleucus and Lysimachus against Demetrius, sails to solicit Greek cities to revolt, 108 f., 374
Cited : VII. 356

Ptoiim, mountain near temple of Apollo Tegyraeus, V. 378
Publicius Bibulus, tribune of the plebs, impeaches Marcellus but fails, V. 510
Public land, allotment of, by Pericles, Ill. 24
Publicola, L. Gellius, with Antony had right wing at Actium, IX. 284 f.

Pablicola, P. Valerius, his lineage, his eloquence and wealth, I. 502; disappointed at not being elected as one of first two consuls, withdraws from public life, 504; takes oath not to submit to Tarquins, 506; brings to justice two sons of Brutus, the consul, for conspiracy to restore Tarquins, 508f.; protects Vindicius, who revealed the plot to him, 516; elected consul, has Vindicius rewarded, 518; oz2lebrates triumph over Tuscans, first consul to drive into city on a four-horse chariot, 138, 524; takes measures to remove his unpopularity with the people, 526 f.; uses his sole authority to have various important measures passed, 530 f.; has first Lucretius, then M. Horatius as his colleague in consulship, 534; is anxious to dedicate new temple of Jupiter Capitolinus, 536 Chosen consul 2nd time with T. Lucretius as his colleague to resist Lars Porsena, 542; is wounded in battle with Porsena, proposes honour for MHoratius Cocles, 544; consul 3rd time, defeats Tuscan army, 546; makes Porsena arbitrator in dispute with Tarquin and concludes peace with him, 548 f.; sends Cloelia and the other maidens back to Porsena, 550; advises and assists consuls in repelling attack of Sabines, 554; consul 4th time, induces Appius Clausus, a Sabine to move with many friends to Rome, 556f.; defeats Sabines, 560; celebrates triumph and dies, 562, IV. 200

Quoted: I. 558

Publicolae, trace descent to Valerius
Publicola, I. 566
Publius, stole Mithridates' sword-belt, punished by Pharnaces, V. 224
Publius Silo, see '* Pompaedius Silo."'

Pulytion, played part of Torch-bearer when Alcibiades profaned mysteries,
Iv. 48, 60
Punishment, II. 282, 516 f., 532, III.
342
Puteoli, see '* Dicaearchia.''

EesneDs lon: month of, I. 46, 84, VI.
70, 76
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE 'LIVES'

Pydna, II. 68, VI. 396; battle of, 398 f.

Pylades, minstrel] at Ncmean games,
X. 284
Pylagorae, delegates to Amphictyonic conventions, II. 56
Pylius, adopted Hercules, I. 78

Pylos, fortified by Demosthenes, attacked by Peloponnesians, III.
230, 232; Spartans captured there,
234, 238, 244, Iv. 32
Pyramia, in district of Thyreatis; near it Danatis first landed in country,
IX. 454
Pyrenees, II. 126

Pyrilampes, comrade of Hercules, II.
44
Pyrrha, wife of Deucalion, Ix. 346

Pyrrhidae, line of kings descended from Neoptolemus, IX. 346
'* Pyrrhus,'' surname of Neoptolemus,
IX. 346
Pyrrhus, son of Neoptolemua and

Lanassa, IX. 346
Pyrrhus, son of Aeacides and Phthia, his lineage, Ix. 346f.; as infant given asylum by Glaucias, king of Tllyrians, 348f.; when 12 years old restored to throne of Epeirus by Glaucias, when 17 driven from throne, joins Demetrius, fights at Ipsus, 352f.; goes to Egypt as hostage for Demetrius, 354; marries Antigoné, daughter of Berenicé, returns to Epeirus, 356; _ slays Neoptolemus, who shared throne, adds to his territory, 360; quarrels with Demetrius, 362; defeats his genera] Pantauchus, 100f., 364; his ranking as a general, 102, 366, X. 382; marries several wives after death of Antigoné, IX. 368; overran Macedonia, 370; makes agreement with Demetrius, 372; takes Beroea, 110,374; proclaimed king of Macedonia, 112, 376; enters Athens, 378; driven from Macedonia by Lysimachus, 380
Invited to Italy by Tarentines,

384; sends Cineas ahead to Tarentum with 3000 soldiers, then crosses himself, 388; defeats the Romans at Heracleia, 394f.; sends Cineas to Rome with proposals of peace, 402; tries to corrupt Fabricius, 406; warned by Fabricius of danger from poison, 410; sends Cineas again to negotiate peace, defeats Romans at Asculum, 412f.; invited to Sicily, defeats Carthaginians, 418; puts to death Thoenon, a Syracusan who had invited him to Sicily and incurs bitter hatred, 422; returns tc Italy, 424; defeated by Romans at Beneventum, 426
Returns to Epeirus and defeats

Antigonus in Macedonia, 430; invited by Cleonymus to attack Sparta, 434f.; repulsed | from Sparta, 436f.; loses his son Ptolemy, 448; enters Argos by night, is slain in street fighting, 450 f.
See also, 1¥. 306, rx. 58, 74, 86, 98, 106, xX. 380
Sayings: IX. 370; 374; 386f.; 394, X. 334; 1X.396; 416; 424; 432; 436
Pythagoras (1), Olympic victor, said to have helped Numa arrange government of Rome, I. 306
Pythagoras (2), said to have been intimate friend of Numa, sald to have lived 5 generations after him, 1. 306; why supposed to have influenced Numa, marvels told of him, 332; said first principle of being beyond sense or feeling, said to have been Roman citizen, 334; his statue in forum at Rome, 336; 380; educator of Numa and father of Mamercus, VI. 358
Pythagoras (3), seer, questioned by Alexander, VII. 426
Pythagorean philosophers, in Sicily, invite Plato, VI. 22
Pythagoreans, place element fire in centre of universe and call it Vesta and Unit, 1. 344; their precepts enumerated and compared with Numa’s, 354f.; why they do not entrust their precepts to writing, 380
Pytheas, verbal encounter with Demosthenes, VII. 18, 210; Athenian orator, joins party of Antipater, 663; VIII. 190
Pythian games, list of victors at, by Aristotle, 1.428; IV.282; conducted by Demetrius at Athens, Ix. 100 455

Pythian priestess,
Lysander, IV. 304
Pythium, VI. 392 f.

Pythocleides, Pericles' music teacher,
III. 10
Pythocles (1), condemned to death with Phocion, VIIJ. 228
Pythocles (2), son of Polycrates, XI. 4

Pythodorus (1), waiting to seize Themistocles, II. 68
Pythodorus (2), torch-bearer, opposes initiating Demetrius into mysteries irregularly, IX. 60 Pytholatis, Phebe's brother, helps slay Alexander of Pherae, v. 430 Python, story of, associated with birth of Apollo near temple of Apollo Tegyraeus, V. 378
Python, of Byzantium, answered by Demosthenes, VII. 20
Python, with Seleucus sent to temple of Serapis to ask whether Alexander should be brought thither, VII. 434 Python, flute-player, IX. 366

Pythonicé, mistress of Harpalus, her tomb built by Charicles, VIII. 192 Pythopolis, founded by Theseus where Pee his friend, was drowned, I.
6 approached by

Quadrans, to be contributed by each citizen toward expense of Pub-licola's funeral, 1. 562; smallest copper coin, VII. 154
Seo nickname of Clodia, VII.

ot

Quadrants, of Archimedes, V. 486

Quaestors, introduced by Publicola,
I. 552, 568
Cato the Elder, 11. 310; Cato the Younger, VIII. 268; Cicero, Vil. 82,94; -Ti Gracchus,: X. 152:
Granius Petro, VII. 480; Cornelius Lentulus, 122; M. Lollius, vit.
272; Marcellus, 276; Sertorius,
8; Sulla, 1V. 3285 ‘Titius, Tx. 254:
Pes and M. Minucius, 1.
5)
Quinda, treasure there, VIII. 116, IX. 76

Quinsy, VII. 62

Quintilis, original name of July, I.
be Pas VS geen Gress Geer 8 Be Sunt, peednen of Cato the Elder,
) 6 ars
456

TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

Quintius, L., see ‘* Flamininus, L.
Quintius.”’ Quintus, officer of Crassus, defeated by Spartacus, Ill. 346 Quintus, L., popular leader, quieted by Lucullus, 11. 486; when praetor attacks Lucullus, 580 Quirinalis, hill at Rome, named after Quirinus, I. 182; site of Numa’s palace, 354
Quirinus, name of Romulus deified,
I. 178, 182, 310; temple of, II.
144 * Quiris,’’ ancient word for spear or spear-head, I. 182
 Quirites,’’ derived from ‘* Cures,”
I. 150, 314
“* Quiritis,’’ epithet applied to Juno,
1. 182
Quotations, anonymcus: I. 483; 76;

783-238: 2405-2462 418.268" 2708
272: 284: 290: 374; 460: 11. 12;
126; 2203; 260; 280; 304; 460; 472;
Til.203. 84 1.2 12251962202 soe
428; IV. 10, V. 414; Iv. 643; 84;
280; 288; 326; 454; Vv. 102; 340;
430; VI. 144; 354; VII. 62; 150;
VIII. 188; 1X. 5923 X1.2
Rain shower,
xX. 228
Ramnenses, named from Romulus, one of 3 Roman tribes, I. 152
Ransom, 280 drachmas per man, III.
142
Rapax, legion of Vitellius, XI. 302

Rations, Cato the Elder took 3 Attic bushels per month for himself and retinue, II. 318
Ratumena, gate of Rome, I. 536

Ravenna, in Gaul, has marble statue of Marius, IX. 466 Records, of Athens, II. 226; of Sparta, v. 52
Recreation, of Cato the Elder, II. 378

Red Sea, II. 618, V. 214, IX. 296

Regia, I. 146, 182; built by Numa near temple of Vesta, I. 354 Regillus, lake, battle of, Iv. 122

cera burial place of Remus, I.
11 Remonium, afterwards called Rignarium, precinct on Aventine, laid out by Remus, f. 114
dissolves assembly,

Remus, account of his birth and early life, I. 102 f.; handed over to Numi-tor, believed to be child of Faustulus and Larentia, 106; Iaid out precinct on Aventine, first called Remonium, afterwards Rignarium, 114; slain by Romulus, or by Celer, 116, 194; with his foster-fathers buried in the Remonia, 118

Rent, of public land, forced up by Cato the Elder when censor, U. 356
Revenue, Athenian, from silver mines at Laureium, If. 10; embezzlement of, by Themistocles and others shown by Aristides, U0. 220 f.; revenues from campaign given Athens by Cimon, 432; how farmers of, were held up by Alcibiades once, Iv. 14; great revenue required on account of Rome's wars, Ii. 96; public revenues at Rome, 50,000,000 drachmas from taxes, 89,000,000 more added by Pompey, V. 230
Revolt, of Thasians from Athens, 0. 446; of Helots, 454
Rex, Marcius, had Tertia, sister of Clodius to wife, VII. 154
Rhadamanthus, judge under Minos, 1. 32; believed to have once dwelt near Haliartus; husband of Alcmené after death of Amphitryon, Ty. 312
Rhamnus, Micion lands there, VII. 200; captured by Demetrius, Ix. 80; IM. 226
Rharonus, freedman of Antony, takes oath to slay his master if asked, IX. 248
Rhea (1), see ‘‘ Tia.”’

Rhea (2), mother of Sertorius, greatly loved by him, VIII. 6, 62 f.
Rhegium, in Italy, taken by Alclbiades, IV. 52; helps Timoleon outwit Carthaginians, VI. 282; 306; its garrison ordered by Fabius to overrun Bruttium and take Cau-

lonia by storm, II. 182
Rheneia, island very near Delos, II. 216
Rhetoric, value of, exemplified by Pericles, 03. 48 f.; taught by Aeschines in Rhodes and Ionia, VU. 60
Rhetra, meaning of term, I. 220, 244; 224; 240; 242; Vv. 72
Rhine, vit. 490; bridged and cros:ed by Caesar, 498
Rhipaean mountains, Gauls, 1. 126
Rhodes, Ul. 56; Aeschines taught Rhetoric there, VU. 60; gave Alexander belt made by Helicon, VI. 322; ally of Ptolemy, warred on by Demetrius, IX. 48; makes terins with Demetrius, 52; gave Lucullus ships, 1. 478; visited by Caesar for study, VU. 446; visited by Pompey, V. 224; visited by Cicero, VII. 90, 174; lost its fleet, 178; taken by Cassius, VI. 192
Rhodoguné, daughter of Artaxerxes, married to Orontes, XI. 192
Rbhoemctalces, Thracian, words regarding him, 1. 140
Rhocsaces (1), story cf his experience with Cimon, 0. 436
Rhoesaces (2), Persian commander, slain by Alexander, VI. 266
Rhoeteium, X. 102

Rhomboid, in Megara, 1. 64

Rhone, canal run along its mouth by Marius, IX. 500
‘* Rhopoperperethras,’’? name given Demosthenes by one of Comic poets, VI. 22
Rhosus, scene of meeting between Seleucus and Demetrius, IX. 76
Rhus, in Megara, I. 64

Rhyndacus, river, defeat of part of Mithridates’ forces by Lucullus

there, 11. 504
Rhyntaces, a little Persian bird, XI.
170 Riddle, many owls sleeping under tiling, TV.<276
Right, of selling children restricted by Numa, I. 366; of appeal by defendant to people introduced by Publi-cola, of appeal by defendant to jurors introduced by Solon, 568; of three children, see  Jus trium liberorum.’’
Rignarium, see ‘‘ Remonium.’’

Rites, at Sparta in commemoration of incident at Plataea, I. 266; performed by Athenians in month Anthesterion in commemoration of the deluge, IV. 372; Orphic, practised by Macedonian women, VI.
226f.; of Mithras, celebrated at 457 crossed by

Caesar’s

Olympia by pirates, V. 174; care with which Romans performed sacred rites, Iv. 180; mysterious rites at Rome in month of Novem-ver, V. 442. See also ‘* Funeral rites ’’ and ‘‘ Marriage.’’ Roads, built by O. Gracchus, X. 212; of Italy, all end at gilded column in Forum, XI. 260
Roma (1), woman who gave her name to city, I. 90; married Latinus, son of Telemachus, and bore him Romulus, 92
Roma (2), daughter of Italus and Leucaria, or of Telephus, son of Heracles, married Aeneas, or Ascanius, and gave her name to city, I, 92

Roma Quadrata, built by Romulus, I. 114
Romans, why they honour second Larentia, 1. 100; waged war on Sabines, 132; style of armour adopted from Sabines, 154; feared by neighbours, 168; nominated the Sabine, Numa Pompilius, as king, 312; distracted by pestilence, 350; increased in power after forsaking institutions of Numa, 398; conquered Tarquins and Latins, VI. 420; afflicted by famine, I. 546; defeat Sabines and Latins, 556 f.; could not by its vote enact a law without a previous decree of Senate, Iv. 188; agree to pay 1000 Ibs. of gold to get rid of Gauls, 0. 164; wish to move to Veii, but finally decide tostay where they are, 170f.; at war with Tarentum, IX. 382; under Laevinus defeated by Pyrrhus near Heracleia, 394f.; refuse to make peace with Pyrrhus, 412; lose 6000 men at Asculum according to Hieronymus, 414; after Beneventum get control of Italy and Sicily, 428; wage war on Ligurians, II. 120; wage war on Gauls, V. 440; bury alive 2 Greeks and 2 Gauls in Forum, 442; send bowl to Delphi to celebrate victory over Gauls, 456; refuse to ransom prisoners after Cannae, and banish those who fled to Sicily, 466f.; with Achaeans wage war on Nabis, X. 292; defeat Antiochus, then give closer attention to affairs of Greece, VI. 362, X. 302, 364; character changed by conquests, I. 314; at war with
458

Philip V., xX. 324; wage war with Perseus, subdue Macedonia, VI. 370, IX, 1384; VI. 452; registered by Aemilius Paulus and Marcius Philippus, the censors, 454; how they punished those who accepted terms from the enemy, X. 156f.; how they treated the land question, 158f.; had army under Caepio destroyed by Cimbri, 0. 140; summon Marius to take command against Cimbri and Teutones, Ix. 492; 150,000 massacred by Mithridates in one day, Iv. 404; defeated at river Lycus by Mithridates, I. 514; under Lucullus conquer Tigranes and the Armenians, I. 140; end line of Pontic kings, Ix. 12; divided into 3 powerful parties, II. 334; ready for revolution, v1. 108; defeated by Parthians, 172; defeat Pacorus, son of Hyrodes, or Arsaces, WI. 422; subject to many dire events after death of Nero, xI. 206 Romanus, son of Odysseus and Circe,

colonized Rome, I. 92

Rome, various theories as to origin of name,1I.90; founded by Romulus on April 21st, I. 4, 120, 122, 314; a sanctuary for fugitives, called sanctuary of God of Asylum, made in it by Romulus and Remus, 1. 114; how marked out, 118; grew because she incorporated with herself those she conquered, I. 136; plague and dread portents at, 166; receives grain, part bought in Italy, part sent as gift from Syracuse, Iv. 154; menaced by Volscians under Ooriolanus, 188; 7 large cities captured from it by Volscians under Coriolanus, 192; again menaced by Coriolanus and Volscians, 194; how saved by Volumnia, mother of Coriolanus, Iv. 200 f.; captured by Gauls, then attacked by Latins under Livius Postumius and saved by strategy of Philotis, or Tutola, I. 184f., 306, M1. 146f., v. 440; delivered by Camillus, ll. 164 f.; rebuilt within year, 174; struggle there between Sullan and Marian factions concerning Mithridatic war, Iv, 348, LX. 558; great changes in government of, introduced by Sulla, Iv. 434; captured twice by Sulla, Iv. 452; occupied by Caesar, Ix. 152; entrusted to Lepidus by the triumvirs, IX. 182; outshone by Athens in great public works, temples, etc. down to time of Caezars, III, 204; required monarchy to heal its ills, V1. 250; history of, planned by Cicero, VU. 186

GENERAL INDEX TO

Romis, tyrant of Latins, drove out Tuscans and founded Rome, I. 92
Romulus, varying accounts of his lineage, I. 92 f.; twin son of Ilia, Rhea, or Silvia, 96; exposed near river, 98; reared by Faustulus, swineherd of Amulius, 102; with his brother Remus, attacks and slays Amulius, 112; builds Roma Quadrata, 114; slays his brother Remus, as some say, 116; buries Remus in the Remonia, marks out the city, 118; founded Rome on April 21st, 120; divides men of military age into companies, each consisting of 3000 footmen and 300 horsemen, 122; appointed 100 of most eminent to be councillors, calling the individuals ‘‘ patricians’’ and their body a “senate’’; called nobles ‘‘ patrons *’ and commonalty clients,’’ rape of Sabine women, 126; origin of nuptial cry ‘‘ Talasius,’’ 132; slew Acron, king of the Caeninenses, routed his army, and took his city, 134 f., V. 454; meaning of “‘ spolia opima,’’ I. 138 Attacked by Sabines under Ta-tius, who is admitted to citadel by Tarpeia, 140; fights Sabines with varying fortune, 144 f.; led to make peace by the ravished daughters of the Sabines, 146f.; Sabines to dwell with Romans and Tatius to be king with Romulus, 150; 100 Sabines added by election to the patricians and legions enlarged to 6000 footmen and 600 horsemen, people arranged in three bodies,

Rammenses, Tatienses, Lucerenses, 152; Romulus adopted oblong shields of Sabines, 154; said to ALG THE LIVGs:

have introduced consecration of fire and to have appointed holy virgins, called Vestals, to guard it, was a diviner, enacted law concerning divorce, 160; buried Tatius, who was slain by friends of murdered ambassadors, but makes no attempt to bring murderers to justice, 162 f., 322; took Fidenae and made it colony of Rome, 164; captured Cameria, transferred half of survivors to Rome and sent colonists to Cameria, 166; defeats Veientes in two battles, 168; celebrates triumph, becomes haughty in bearing, had about him young men called Celeres, and Lictores, 170 f.; of his own motion divided territory acquired in war among his soldiers, and gave back their hostages to Veientes without consent of patricians, disappeared unaccountably short time after, conjectures as to manner of his death, 174 f., 308,

I. 180, Vv. 178; Julius Proculus, a patrician, said he saw Romulus as a deity and received a meassge for the Romans from him, the people pray to him under name Quirinus,
I. 178; died 54 years of age and in 38th year of his reign, 186 Romus (1), sent from ‘Troy by Diomedes, son of Emathion, founded Rome, I. 92
Romus (2), brought to Italy with his brother Romulus, I. 92; named from ‘‘ ruma,’’a teat, 102. See also 64 Remus.’’ Roscii, two brothers with Crassus at Carrhae, II. 414.
Roscius, comedian, had influence on Sulla in his latter days, Iv. 438;
imitated by Cicero, VI. 94 Roscius, attacks Chrysogonus and is accused by him of murder, defended by Cicero and acquitted, Vu. 88 Roscius, had Milesiaca’’ of Aristides in his baggage at battle of Carrhae,
mm. 418
Roscius Otho, L., opposes Gabinian law, V. 180; introduced law giving knights separate seats at spectacles,
vi. 112
Roxana, married by Alexander, VU.
358; mother of Alexander, Ix. 354;
459

murders Stateira and her sister, VII, 436 Roxana, sister of Mithridates, put te death at his orders, IT. 524 Roxanes, chiliarch, his angry words to Themistocles, I. 78

Rubicon, separates Italy from Cisalpine Gaul, VII. 490; crossed by Caesar, 522, Vv. 272
Rubrius, tribune, brings in bill for colony on site of Carthage, X. 218
Rubrius, praetor in Macedonia, had Cato the Younger under him, VIII. 254
Rubrius, M., with Cato at Utica, VII. 386
Rufinus, ancestor of Sulla, was consul, expelled from senate, IV. 324
 Rufus,'' concerning the name, IV. 142
Rufus, L., gave Ti. Gracchus second blow, xX. 190
Rufus, Virginius, see '* Virginius Rufs:?" Rullus, Fabius, received title Maximus for expelling descendants of freedmen from senate, y. 148, I. 118
'*Ruma,"® ancient Roman name for teat, I. 98
Rumilia, goddess who presided over rearing of voung children, I. 98
 Ruminalis,'' name of fig-tree near which twins of Ilia grounded; etymology of word, I. 98
Rutilius Rufus, P., legate of Caecilius Metellus in Africa, Ix. 484; accused falsely by Theophanes; his histories, V. 212; cited, Ix. 540 f.
Sabaco, Cassius, friend of Marius, expelled from senate, IX. 472
Sabbas, induced by Gymnosophists to revolt from Alexander, vu. 404 f.
Sabines, attacked by Romulus wantonly, I. 126f.; their daughters seized by Romans, 128; wage war on Romans, 132; Lacedaemonian colonists, lived in unwalled villages, 134, 308; under Tatius march on Rome, treacherously admitted into citadel by Tarpeia, 140; challenged to battle by Romulus, 144; repulsed to Regia and temple of Vesta, 146; 460

make peace, adopt Roman months, 154; quarrel with Romans as to appointment of king on death of Romulus, 310; waged war on Tar-quin, son of Demaratus, 536; invaded Roman territory, 554; with Latins wage war on Rome and are defeated, 556 f.; campaign against them undertaken on understanding that creditors would deal gently with debtors, IV. 126 Sabine women, rape of, was act of necessity, I. 112; when and why carried out, 126 f.; rape took place on August 18th, 134; separate combatants and bring peace, 146 f.; quoted, 148 f.; terms of peace, 150;
ao nee concessions from Romans, 52

Sabinus, friend of Cicero, prosecuted by Munatius, Vi. 144
Sabinus, Calvisius, Roman general,
XI. 228
Sabinus, Nymphidius, see ‘‘ Nymphidius Sabinus.’’ Sacred band of Thebans, account of it, V. 382
Sacred gate, at Athens, Iv. 370

Sacred mount, where plebeians seceded to, beside river Anio, IV. 128 Sacrifice, of hair to god at Delphi by youth in Theseus’ time, I. 10; human sacrifice by Greeks before Salamis, 0. 38 f.; sacrifice by Aean-tid tribe of Athens to Sphragitic nymphs, 272; vowed by Fabius Maximus, I. 130; human sacrifice,
v. 390 f.; 11 heifers sacrificed to the moon, 20 oxen to Hercules, by

Aemilius Paulus, VI. 400
Saculio, buffoon, executed after Philippi, V1. 228 f.
Sadalas, king of Thrace, with Antony at Actium, IX. 276
Sagra river, battle of, fought by Italian Greeks, VI. 420
Saguntum, battle in the plains of, between Sertorius and Metellus, VIII. 54
Sats, learned men of, gave Solon story of lost Atlantis, I. 494; Sonchis of, 476
Salaminian state-galley, for special occasions, I. 20; sent to bring Alcibiades home, Iv. 58
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

Salamis, bone of contention between Athens and Megara, I. 420; recovered from Athens by Megara, 432; received ashes of Solon, 498; 572; scene of defeat of Xerxes by Athenians, I. 12, 28, 38, 138, 242, 388, 396, 416, 418; overrun by Lysander, IV. 252; plundered by Aratus, XI. 54; given up to Athenians by Diogenes, XI. 78
Salamis, in Cyprus, Nicocreon, king of, vil. 308; where Demetrius defeated Ptolemy in sea-fight, IX. 36 f.; motherand children of Demetrius besieged there by Ptolemy, 86
 Salamis,’’ title of poem by Solon, I, 422
Salii, priests established by Numa, I. 346; to guard bronze buckler that fell from heaven, 350
Salinae, town in Italy, D1. 338

Salinator, Julius, sent with 6000 men by Sertorius to bar passage of Pyrenees, killed by Calpurnius Lanarius, VII. 18
Salius, from Samothrace or Mantinea,

did not give his name to Salii, 1. 352
Sallust, cited, M1. 504; 580; Iv. 450

Salonius, married his young daughter to Cato the Elder in latter's old age, I. 376
Salonius, son of Cato the Elder and grandson of Salonius, 0. 376; son of Cato by 2nd wife, had son Marcus, died in praetorship, 384
Salvenius, legionary 'soldier, brings Sulla oracle about affairs in Italy, tv. 380
Salvius, commanded Pelignians at Pydna, VI. 406
Salvius, centurion, helps murder Pompey, V. 318, 322
Samaena, species of war-ship, II. 76

Sambuca, of Marcellus, described, VY. 470; crushed by Archimedes' engines, 474, 478
Samians, attacked by Athens for not desisting from war against Mile-ians, m1.68; fighting Milesians for Priene, defeated by Pericles, who set up democracy, 72; defeated by Pericles off island of Tragia, defeat Athenians, 74; their general Melissus defeated by Pericles, 76, I. 6; surrender to Pericles after 8 months II, 78; driven out and their cities handed over to men they had banished, Iv. 268: vote that their festival be called Lysandreia, 280; addressed in letter by Brutus, VI. 130
Samnites, joining Pyrrhus after Heracleia, are censured, IX. 400; worsted by Romans, invite Pyrrhus back from Sicily, 422; discouraged by many defeats at hands of Romans, do not join Pyrrhus in large numbers, 426; their ambassadors found

Manius Curius in his cottage cooking turnips, 0. 306; their cities which had revolted, taken by Marcellus, Vv. 502; spared Roman generals, x. 158; inveterate foes of Rome, Iv. 420
Samon, husband of Phaenareté, IX. 358
Samos, siege of, Il. 6, I. 68, 200; Athenian fleet there, Iv. 70, 74, 104, 242; siege of, V. 344; attacked by Lucullus, H. 478; temple of Hera there, V. 174; festivities held there by Antony and Cleopatra, IX. 264 f.
Samosata, in Svria, besieged by Ventidius, Ix. 212
Samothrace, ¥. 520; Perseus takes refuge there after Pydna, VI. 418; 422; 0.508; plundered by pirates, v. 174
Samothracian images, in temple of Vesta, brought to Trov by Dardanus, carried to Italy by Aeneas, Ti. 144
Sandaucé, sister of Xerxes, wife of Artayctus, her three sons sacrificed to Dionysius Carnivorous by the Greeks, I. 58, 238
Sandon, father of Athenodorus, I. 548

Sapha, place in Asia where Amphicrates is buried, Il. 542
 Sapiens,'' its meaning, x. 160

'* Sardians for sale,'' called by herald at Rome in celebrating victory, I. 170
Sardinia, x. 198 f.; province of Cato the Elder, 1. 318; v. 154
Sardis, 1. 170; visited by Solon, 478; 1.80; 82f.; burned by Athenians, 224; Oyrus meets Lysander there, Iv. 240; 252; submits to Alexander, VU. 262 f.; taken by Demetrius, IX. 116; meeting-place of Brutus and Cassius, Vi, 200
451

Sarmentus, favourite of Octavius Caesar, IX. 272
Sarpedon, tutor of Cato the Younger, VI. 238; 242
Satibarzanes, eunuch of Artaxerxes dic XE 102
Satiphernes, friend of Cyrus, slain by Artaxerxes at Cunaxa, XI. 148
Satricum, captured by Tuscans, recaptured by Camillus, I. 192
Saturn, temple of, made public treasury by Publicola, 1. 532, x. 168
Saturnalia, slaves then feasted with masters as Numa ordained, I. 386, Tv. 386; the time fixed for carrying out Lentulus' plot, vil. 124
Saturnian age, when there was neither slave nor master, 1. 386
Saturninus, L., tribune of people, supports Marius for fourth consulship, Ix. 498 f.; slew Nonius, rival for tribuneship, introduced agrarian law with clause requiring senators to take oath not to oppose what people voted, Ix. 542; gets all senators to take oath except Marius, helps Marius oppose Metellus, 544, Iv. 446; pitted against nobles by Marius, IX. 548 Satyreius, P., gave Ti. Gracchus the first blow, x. 190 ee resemble Picus and Faunus, I, 35
Satyrus, seer who helped slay Timophanes according to Theopompus, VI. 270
Satyrus, actor, points out Demosthenes' weahnesses to him, VII. 16.
Saviour-gods,'' honorary title given Antigonus and Demetrius by Athenians, IX. 26

Savings, anonymous, Il. 502; IV. 386; V. 86; VI. 384
Scaeva, Cassius, see ‘‘ Cassius Scaeva.”

“* Scaevola,’’ means left-handed, I. 548

Scaevola, Mucius, see  Mucius Scaevola, C.”’ Scalae Caci, beside dwelling of Romulus, near descent into Circus Maximus from Palatine, I. 152 Bee onldaes deme of Alcibiades, Iv.

Scandeia, Il. 434

Scarpheia, Lycon of, VII. 310

Scaurus, illustrious Roman name, VI. 82
Scaurus, M. Aemilius, father of Aemilia by Metella, Iv. 432, v. 134 Scedasus, slays himself when his daughters are ravished, V. 390
Scellius, companion of Antony in flight from Actium, IX. 288
Scepsis, Metrodorus of, DO. 538 f.; Neleus of, IV. 406
 Schinocephalus,’’? name applied to Pericles by Comic poets, I. 8
* Schinus,’’ name for squill at times, Ir. 8 Schoolmaster of Falerii, punished by Camillus, H. 118
Sciathus, II. 20

Scillustis, island in Indian ocean reached by Alexander, Vil. 410
Scionaeans, restored to their homes by Lysander, Iv. 270
Scipio, Gnaeus Cornelius, son of P.

Cornelius Nasica, father-in-law of Pompey, sent to Syria with his father to raise fleet, V. 278
Scipio Asiaticus, L. Cornelius (1), II.
388; conquered Antiochus, 504, HI.
398; ambassador with Flamininus to Prusias to demand death of Hannibal, X. 386; brother of Scipio the Great, condemned to pay fine, Il, 344; expelled from equestrian order by Cato, 354
Scipio Asiaticus, L. Cornelius (2), outwitted by Sulla, loses all his men to him, Iv. 414, v. 130 vu. 14 Scipio, P. Cornelius, made master of horse by Camillus, II. 104 Scipio Africanus, P. Cornelius, son of Africanus Major, adopted younger son of Aemilius Paulus and Papiria,
VI. 366
Scipio Africanus Major, P. Cornelius, opposed by Cato the Elder, his quaestor, for extravagance on his campaign in Africa, 0. 310 f.; conquered Carthaginians in Spain, made consul in spite of Fabius Maximus' opposition, crossed to Africa and defeated Hannibal, II.
190 f., 202, VII. 2, xX. 144, 328;
382; surnamed Africanus, IX. 464; succeeded Cato the Elder in Spain,

outwitted by him, 1. 332; opposed politically by Cato the Elder, 346, 386, 398; made princeps senatus by Flamininus, X. 372; because of attacks turned back upon people, 11. 376; his brother Lucius expelled from senate by Cato, I. 354; had Aemilia to wife, VI. 358; his son adopted the son of Aemilius Paulus and gave him the name Scipio, 366;
father-in-law of Scipio Nasica Cor-culum, 392; inferior to Caesar as general, VU. 478; second only to Pyrrhus as general in opinion of Hannibal, Ix. 366

Scipio Aemilianus Africanus Minor, P. Cornelius, son of Aemilius Paulus, grandson of Scipio the Great by adoption, contemporary of Cato the Elder, i. 346, 364, VI. 264, 366, 446, 458; asked Cato the Elder's aid in behalf of the Achaean exiles, If. 326; consul contrary to the laws, IX. 492; 0. 384; at Pydna, took Carthage and Numantia, 596, VI. 412 f.; reproached with aristocratic leaning of his father Aemilius Paulus, VI. 452; supported by common people for censorship, 454; destroyed Carthage, VIII. 2; besieged Nnmantia, Ix. 468, 494 f.; married daughter of Ti. Gracchus the Elder and Cornelia, x. 146, 152; most influential man at Rome, blamed for not saving Mancinus, was waging war on Numantia when Ti. Gracchus began to agitate for agrarian laws, 158; had C. Gracchus under him when besieging Numantia, 174; nearly lost popularity by expressing disapproval of Ti. Gracchus and his measures, 194f.; had friend Laelius, VII. 252, x. 160; died undersuspicious circumstances, 1. 174, X. 218 f.
Scipio Nasica, P. Cornelius (Scipio Metellus) with two others came to Cicero at midnight to warn of plot, vu. 116; father-in-law of Pompey, saved from trial by him, Vv. 260, 326; with Hypsaeus and Milo candidates for consulship, VUI. 350; chosen by Pompey as his colleague in consulship, V. 262; opposes compromise with Caesar, VU. 516 f.; with his son Gnaeus sent to Syria to raise fleet, V. 278; 288; in Macedonia, to be attacked by Caesar, Vit. 549; disputed with Domitius and Spinther over Caesar's office of Pontifex Maximus, Vil. 544; v. 290; said to have hid away greater part of treasure he brought from Asia, 336; commanded centre at Pharsalus for Pompey, opposed to Lucius Calvinus, Vv. 294, Vl. 548; VII. 250; vit. 480; quarrels with Varus, well received by Juba, takes command of forces as proconsul, VIII. 372; VI. 138; escapes from Thapsus with few followers, VII. 374 f., VIL. 562, 570; VIL. 384 f£.

Scipio Nasica Corculum, son-in-law of Scipio Africanus, given task of seizing pass through Perrhaebia, VI. 392; at battle of Pydna, 394, 398, 402; 424; says 80 Romans slain at Pydna, 412; consul, with C. Marcius, laid down oflice on account of mistake in auspices, Vv. 444; opposed destruction of Carthage, 0. 382
Scipio Nasica Serapio, large holder of public land, opposed Ti. Gracchus bitterly, x. 174; leads attack against Ti. Gracchus, 188 f.; hated by people; though pontifex maximus, fled from Italy and committed suicide, 194
Scipio Sallustio, of family of Africani, put in forefront of battles in Africa by Caesar, VIL. 564
Sciradium, promontory of Salamis, I. 4°26
Sciraphidas, declared Spartans should not receive gold and silver coinage, Iv. 276
Sciron, son-in-law of Cychreus, father-in-law of Aeacus, grandfather of Peleus and Telamon, slain by Theseus; disagreement as to his character, I. 20, 188; son of Canethus and Henioché, daughter of Pittheus;

Isthmian games in his honour
according to some, 56; father of Alycus, 76
Scirophorion, Athenian month, Y.
78 Scirus, of Salamis, according to Philochorus furnished pilot and look-out 463 man to Theseus; temple to him at Phalerum, I. 34

Scopadae, wealth of, I. 434

Scopas, Thessalian, his remark about happiness, Ul. 354
Scorpion, engine devised by Archimedes for short-range work, V. 476 Scotussa, town in Thessaly, I. 64;
how treated by Alexander of Pherae,
v. 412; where Flamininus defeated
PHD OVE. O12, ks sony Ve odes Nile 546 Scribonia, wife of Crassus, mother of Piso, executed by Nero, XI. 254 Scrophas, quaestor under Crassus, defeated by Crassus, II. 346
Seyros, isle of, I. 80; inhabited by Dolopians, ruled by Lycomedes, 82;
seized by Cimon, settled by Athenians, U. 426; has grave of Theseus, 428
Scytalé (1), described, Iv. 284f.; 112

Scytalé (2), fabled serpent, U1. 418

Seythes, ambassador of Agesilaiis, imprisoned in Larissa, V. 42
Scythes, servant of Pompey, V. 320

Scythia, V. 220; 298

Scythia, Pontic, neighbour of Gaul,

Ix. 488
Scythians, how they wear their hair, OI. 586; shoot as they flee even betier than Parthians, 388; twang their bows in midst of their drinking, Ix. 44; mingle with Gauls from Pontic Scythia eastward, 488; routed by Alexander, VII. 356
Sea, Ionian, boundary between Octavius and Antony, Ix. 204
Sea, outer, 1x. 488

Secundus, rhetorician, Otho's secretary, XI. 296
Sedition, at Athens, I. 436; 486; at Sparta, V. 88; of Messenians, XI. 1123; at Rome, first to end in bloodshed since expulsion of Kings, x. 190; 234; caused by Cinna, IX. 578; caused by Marius, Iv. 344
Seers, lI. 370.

"* Seisactheia,'' term applied to cancellation of debts under Solon, I. 442, 448
*"' Seismatias,'' name of tomb cf Spartan youth crushed in earthquake, I. 454 Seleucia, on the Tigris, 1, 540; always 464 hostile to Parthians, M1. 366; 368; 374; captured for Hyrodes by Surena, 378; 418

 Seleucid,'' name of a costly kind of bowl, VI. 442
Seleucus, rumoured to have surrendered Pelusium with consent of Cleopatra, IX. 306; steward of Cleopatra, 522
Seleucus Nicator, helped by Alexander, VII. 348; 400; 454; expelled from Babylonia by Antigonus, recovered it and set out on expedition to India and Mount Caucasus, IX. 16; begins to wear diadem, 40; 60; defeats Antigonus and Demetrius, 70; had son Antiochus by Apama, the Persian, marries Stratonicé, daughter of Demetrius and Phila, 76; makes friendship between Demetrius and Ptolemy, demands Cilicia of Demetrius, and on being refused that, Tyre and Sidon, had domain from India to Syrian sea, 78; leagues with Ptolemy and Lysimachus against Demetrius, 108; arranged engagement between Demetrius and Ptolemais, 116; marches into Cilicia with large force, 118; repulsed by Demetrius, 120; 122; seizes Demetrius and banishes him to Syrian Chersonese, 126; X. 16; most of his former dominions won back by Antiochus the Great, Il. 334

Sellasia, x. 20; 102; Cleomenes defeated there, 112, XI. 106; passes and heights there occupied by Spartans, X. 266
Selymbria, captured by Alcibiades, Iv. pa)
Sempronius Densus, see ‘° Densus, Sempronius.’’ Sempronius, Tiberius, consul, assisted by Cato the Elder in subduing regions in Thrace and ou Danube, Tl 334; see also “‘Gracchus, Ti. Sempronius (1).”’
Senate at Athens, created new by Solon, I. 568; its number increased from 500 to 600, Ix, 26
Senate, at Rome, iustituted by Romulus, means council of elders, I. 1243 150 in number, 150, 312; that of Romans and Sabines united, 152;

accused of changing government to oligarchy on death of Romulus, 312; had 164 new members added by Publicola, 530, 568; sent ambassy to Delphi to consult oracle about Alban lake, 1. 102; Iv. 126; its decree necessary before people could enact law, 188; 190; permits plebeians to elect one consul from their number, Ol. 204; likened by Cineas to council of kings, Ix. 406; X. 338; sent 10 commissioners to Flamininus in Greece, X. 348; I. 324; 332; insults Ti. Gracchus, X. 174; 194; 198; Iv. 350; Ix. 584; I. 594; ¥.. 2583. 282; VI; 1683 1723 184; Voi; 1183: 1203; 26; 68; 198; 494; x.148 f.; 156 f.; 168; 172 f.; 272 Senate, at Sparta, instituted by Lycurgus, manner of election, I. 218, 282; why number was fixed at 28,

Senate, of 300 Romans at Utica, won in speech by Oato, VIII. 378 f.; distrusted by Cato, refuses to oppose Caesar, 386
Senate, of Sertorius, VI 60

Senatusconsulta ultima, VO. 118; x. 228
Seneca, persuades Nero to send Otho out as governor of Lusitania, x1. 248
Senecio, Socius (or Sosius), friend of Plutarch, I. 2, VI. 2, VI. 2, 78
Senones, neighbours of Gauls, I. 126

Senses, how different from arts, IX. 2

Sentius, praetor of Macedonia, Iv. 360

September, Ides of, nearly coincide with full moon of Attic Metageitnion, I. 538; called Germanicus for a short time by Domitian, 370
Septempagium, a territory of Veii surrendered to Rome, I. 170

Septimius (1), once tribune of Pompey's, helps murder him, V. 318 f.
Septimius (2), defends Nymphidius Sabinus, XI. 234
Septimuleius, brought head of O, Gracchus to Opimius, X. 236
Sequani, capture kings of Teutones in Alps, Ix. 528; have Caesar's forces among them for winter, VU. 490; remain faithful to Roine, 506
Serapion, given gifts by Alexander, Vu. 340
Serapis, said by Dionysius to have freed him from chains and bid him sit on Alexander's throne, VII. 428
Serbonian marshes, called blasts of Typhon by Egyptians, appear to be residual arm of Red Sea, IX. 142
Sergius, a mime, had great influence with Antony, fx. 158
Seriphian, the, his encounter with Themistocles, I. 50
Serpent, why associated with heroes, X. 140; omen of it, 144
Serranus, father of Atilia, VI. 250

Sertorius, Q., subduer of Spain, had no cognomen, IX. 464; one-eyed, belonged to family of some prominence in Sabine city of Nussa, vu. 4; reared by his widowed mother Rhea, served against Cimbri and Teutones under Caepio and then Marius, sent out as military tribune to Spain by Didius the praetor, 6; saves Roman soldiers in Castulo, appointed quaestor of Cisalpine Gaul, 8; opposed by Sulla in election for tribuneship, joins Cinna, 10; disapproved of the severity of Marius and Cinna, had Marius' body-guardsslain, 14; goesto Spain and wins over the Barbarians, 16; sent Julius Salinator with 6000 men to bar passage of Pyrenees, crossed to Africa and returned, 18; returned to Maurusia in Africa to fight against Ascalis, defeated Ascalis and Paccianus, 22 Invited by Lusitanians to be their leader, 24; organizes them and subdues neighbouring parts of Spain, 26; uses white doe to impress Spaniards, 28; defeats all Roman generals sent against him including Metellus, 30f.; introduces Roman arms, signals, and formations, educates Spanish boys of highest birth at Osca, 36 f.; joined by Perpenna with 53 cohorts, 40; forces the surrender of the Characitani, 42; opposed by Pompey, 46; takes Lauron in spite of Pompey, 48; fights drawn battle with Pompey, 52; defeated by Metellus but gets new forces, 56;

gave name of senate to senators 405 who fled from Rome to him, 60;

makes treaty with Mithridates, 665 plotted against hy Perpenna and others, 68; murdered by Antonius and others, 72
See also I. 486; 488; 494; VY.
146; 1563; Ix. 590
Quoted: V—I.12; 42; 48; 52; 64
Servii, Galba one of, x1. 210

Servile war (War of Spartacus), MI.
334 f., V. 164, VIM. 252
Servile war, in Sicily, I. 342, Iv. 440

Servile war at Sparta, I. 292, Il. 456

Servilia (1), mother of Brutus, descended from Servilius Ahala, VI.

126; half-sister of Cato the Younger, daughter of his mother, 128, VII. 236; wife of Silanus, 284;
had intrigue with Caesar, 290, VI.
134 f.; received ashes of Brutus, 246
Servilia (2), sister of Cato, divorced by Lucullus, If. 594, VII. 292, 304:
with her young son by Lucullus taken to Asia by Cato, attacked by Caesar on this score, 366 Servilii, Marcus Brutus one on his mother's side, VII. 586 Servilius, meets Pompey with fleet at river Phasis at head of fleet with which he guarded Euxine, ¥. 206 Servilius, C., augur, accused L. Lucullus of peculation, impeached by the son
L. Lucuillus, Il. 470 Servilius, M., supports granting of triumph to Aemilius Paulus, VI. 436 Servilius, praetor, sent to forbid Sulla advancing, IV. 350
Servilius Vatia Isauricus, P. (1), general of Sulla, enjoys successes,
Iv. 418; Vv. 150
Servilius Vatia Isauricus, P. (2), see
'* Tsauricus, P. Servilius."' Servius (1), added 2 more Vestals to first 4, 1. 340
Servius (2), Sulla's candidate, rejected by people, Iv. 356
Servius Galba, see '' Galba, Ser. Sulpicius (1)."'
Sessorium, place of execution, XI. 270

Sestius, P., given province of Cilicia, accompanied by M. Brutus, Vi. 132 Sestos, many barbarian prisoners captured there by Athenians and thcir allies, I. 430; Iv. 106f.; 254; taken from Athenians by Lysander 466 and divided among his boatswains and pilots, 268

Setia, VIL. 578

Seuthas, servant of Aratus, x1. 10

Sextilius, legate of Lucullus, attacked by Mithrobarzanes, whom he defeats, Il. 550; attacks and routs Arabs, 552
Sextilius, praetor, with lictors seized by pirates, V. 176
Sextilius, P., governor of Africa, orders Marius not to set foot in Africa, Ix. 574
Sextilis, former name of month August, I. 134, 370, IX. 534
Sextius (Sextus), Lucius, first plebeian elected consul, Il. 206
Sextius, P., retained Cicero as an advocate, VI. 148
Sextius Sulla, Carthaginian, contemporary of Plutarch, his explanation of origin of nuptial cry ‘‘ Talasius,”’ I. 132
Sextus, nephew of Pompey, VII. 242

She-wolf, suckled children of Ilia, considered sacred to Mars, 1. 98
Ships, number at Salamis, Il. 40; M1. 76; size of those built by Demetrius and Ptolemy Philopator, Lx. 108
Shore-men at Athens, favoured compromise, I. 434; led by Megacles, son of Alemaeon, 486
Sibyl, oracle of, quoted, I. 54

Sibylline books, I. 556; U1. 128; V. 442; VI. 44; 122; 580
Sibyrtius, palaestra of, Iv. 8

Sibyrtius, governor of Arachosia, ordered to wear out the Silver-shields, VOI. 136
Sicels, negotiate with Nicias, I. 266

Sicilian grease, TI. 208

Sicilians, honoured Gylippus, I. 298; came to hate Pyrrhus, Ix. 422 Sicily, U1. 430; I. 62; Athenian expedition to, M1. 250f., Iv. 44f.; state of, after death of Dion and before expedition of Timoleon, VI.
262; Timoleon's expedition to,
284f.; receives colonists from Corinth and other places, 316, 344; wealthy, populous, and in faction
after departure of Agathocles, Ix.
386; Pyrrhus' expedition to, 416;
subdued by Romans soon after
GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE 'LIVES'

Beneventum, 428; its conquest attempted by Carthaginians, opposed by Marcellus, V. 466; secured for Sulla by Pompey, 136; 182; Cicero quaestor of, VII. 94; allotted to Cato as province, VIII. 362; taken from Sextus Pompeius by Octavius, LX. 262
Sicinius Vellutus, with Junius Brutus, leader in secession, with him one of first 2 tribunes of the plebs, Iv.
130; opposes plan of colony at Velitrae and of new war with Volsci, opposed by Coriolanus, 146; 160 f.
Sicinnius, said Crassus had hay on his horn, It. 334
Sicinnus, Persian slave of Themistocles and paedagogue of his children, takes message from him to Xerxes,
I. 36
Sicyon, X. 84; bit of its history, X1.
4; freed of tyrant Nicocles by Aratus, X. 256, XI. 14; though Dorian attached to Achaean league by Aratus, 20; its best paintings in time of Aratus, 28; almost captured by Cleomenes, 90; its territory ravaged by Cleomenes, X. 92;

freed by Demetrius, IX, 58
Sicyonians, defeated by Pericles at Nemea, WI. 60; bury Aratus in their city, XI. 120f.; persuaded to move their city by Demetrius, who gave it new name Jemetrius, IX. 58; pronounced judgment against Athenians in their suit with people of Oropus, IZ. 368
Sidon, demanded of Demetrius by Seleucus, IX. 78; 254
Siege-engines, of Niconides the Thessalian, 1.500; employed by Pericles in Samian war, DI. 78; those of Athenians set on fire, 270; those of Sulla called for operation of 10,000 pairs of mules, IV. 360
Sigliuria, built by Publicola, 1. 542

Signia, younger Marius defeated there by Sulla, iv. 414 f.
Silanio, made likenesses of Theseus, 1.10
Silanus, Decimus Junius, vu. 116; husband of Servilia, Cato’s sister, vil. 284; reports what Cethegus was heard to say, Vil. 126; urges putting conspirators to death, 130; Vill. 286; recanted and said he meant imprisonment, 288, VI. 132
Silanus, M., friend of Antony, driven off by Cleopatra’s flatterers, IX. 272
Silenus, claimed to be child of Apollo and woman jin Pontus, was to be used by Lysander in his scheme for changing succession at Sparta, IV. 306
Silicius, P., proscribed, VI. 186

Sillaces, sent against Crassus, II. 376; casts head of Crassus into Parthian banqueting hall, 420
Bath Pompaedius, see  Pompaedius

(0 pee

Silvia, see ‘* Ilfa.”’

Silvium, where Sulla was met by servant of Pontus, Iv. 412
Simaetha, female character in Aristophanes’ Acharnians, II. 88
Simmias (1), public prosecutor of Pericles according to Theophrastus, In. 102
Simmias (2), fought always by side of Philopoemen, X, 282
Simonides, of Ceos, says Lycurgus not son of Eunomus but that both were sons of Prytanis, I. 206; that Themistocles had chapel of Lycomidae at Phlya restored at his own expense, I. 45 16; V. 23 VI. 348; XI. 106.
Cited: (Frg. 193, Bergk) I. 20; (Frg. 54, Bergk 413) 34; (Bergk mm‘, p. 423) . 44; (Bergk m4, p. 516) Vv. 342; (Bergk Il‘, p. 412) VIZ
Simylus, poet, cited, I. 142

Sinis, the Pine-bender, father of Periguné, slain on Isthmus by Theseus, I. 16, 66, 188; son of Canethus and Henioché; Isthmian games in his honour according to some, 56
Sinnaca, hilly country, refuge for Octavius and about 5000 men, OI. 408
Sinopé, founded by Autolycus, I. 542; taken from Syrians by him, 544; 600 Athenian colonists sent there by Pericles, MI. 62; besieged and captured by Lucullus, I. 5642; Mithridates’ body sent there, V. 222; Diogenes of, VIL. 258
Sinoy.é, daughter of Asopis, mother of Syrus, I. 544 467

Sinopians, assisted against Timesileos by Pericles, II. 60
Sinora, place where Mithridates had money and treasures, V. 200
Sinuessa, Marcellus recuperates his soldiers there, V. 510; country seat of Tigellinus there, X1. 278
Sippius, celebrated for luxury and effeminacy, VIII. 244
Siren, v. 480

Siris, river in Italy, Ix. 394

Sisenna, historian, Il. 472

Sisimithres, his citadel captured by Alexander, VU. 388
Skapté Hylé, in Thrace, Thucydides murdered there, IT. 412
Slaves, treated kindly by Romans of Ooriolanus' time, 1V. 176 f.; brought in by rich to till land in Italy, x. 160; how treated by Cato the Elder, Il. 316, 364; Ix. 584; 1, 484; VIE. 386; how treated by Spartans, 1. 288 f., x. 100; 1. 5363 M1. 108
Smyrna, Vi. 188; where Homer died, Vill. 4
Socles, Paeanian, at battle of Salamis, I. 42
Socrates, the sage, not poor according to Demetrius of Phalerum, Il. 214; falsely said to have lived in wedlock with Myrto, 296; said he heard Pericles introduce measure regarding the long wall, I. 42; with his disciples came to hear Aspasia, 68; his favour contributed to reputation of Alcibiades, IV. 2; his love for Alcibiades and influence upon him, 8 f., 14; saves Alcibiades' life at Potidaea, defended by Alcibiades in rout at Delium, 18; disapproved of Sicilian expedition, 44, Il. 256; had tendency to melancholy according to Aristotle, IV. 236; lost his life for philosophy, It. 290; his fate like that of Phocion, VWI. 232; II.

320; 360; Cato the Elder's opinion of him, 370; had ardent disciple Apollodorus of Phalerum, VII. 346; work on him by Demetrius of Phalerum, UH. 210; by Panaetius, 296
 Socrates,'? work by ~ Demetrius of Phalerum, II. 210
"'Socrates,'' work by Panactius, 11, 296

Soli (1), new city of Philocyprus, named in honour of Solon, I. 478;

Pasicrates king of, VI. 308
Soli (2), city in Cilicia, besleged by Demetrius, IX. 48; devastated by Tigranes, king of Armenia, restored by Pompey and ex-pirates settled there, Vv. 186
Solo!s, friend of Theseus, in love with Antiopé, in despair drowned himself, I. 58 Solois, river in Bithynia, named in memory of Theseus' friend, I. 60 Solon, son of Execestides and a cousin of mother of Peisistratus, I. 404; when young man embarked in commerce and travelled, 406; composed poetry at first with no serious end in view, in philosophy studied chiefly political ethics, in physics is simple and antiquated, 410; met the other wise men at Delphi and again at Corinth, 412; meets Anacharsisand Thales, 414f.; wrests island of Salamis from Megarians, 420 f.:

successfully supports the claim of Athens to Salamis before board of 5 arbiters, 426 f.; arouses Athenians to support Delphians against people of Cirrha, 428; brings peace between the descendants of followers of Cylon and those of Megacles, 430 Chosen archon and made mediator between rich and poor, 436; rejected position of tyrant but yet showed firmness, 440; cancelled all debts and forbade lending money on person of borrower, 442; pleased neither party by this arrangement, yet appointed to reform constitution and make new laws, repealed laws of Draco, 448; divided people into 4 classes according to property, 450; gave every citizen privilege of entering suit in behalf of one who had suffered wrong, 452; after establishing council of the Areiopagus, if it did not exist in Draco's time, he set up council of 400, 454; made law disfranchising man who in time of faction took neither side; laws regarding marriage, 456 f.; forbade speaking ill of dead, or of living in temples, courts-of-law, public offices, and at festivals, 460; permitted man having no children

GENERAL INDEX TO

to will property to whom he pleased, regulated public appearances of women, their mourning and festivals, 462; enacted law that no son not taught a trade should be compelled to support his father, ordered council of Areiopagus to chastise the idle, 464; his laws concerning women absurd, 466; made laws concerning public wells, planting of trees, digging of trenches, setting out hives of bees, exporting products of soil, concerning naturalized citizens, 468 f.; regulated practice of eating at public table in town hall, 472

All his laws were to have force for 100 years, 472; arranged calendar of the month, 474; sailed to Egypt, then to Cyprus, 476; interviewed Croesus, 478 f.; met Aesop at his court, 484; returned to Athens, endeavoured to reconcile opposing factions, 486; tricd toturn Peisistratus from his design of becoming tyrant, reproved Thespis for telling lies in his play, 488; opposed Peisistratus, 490; became Peisistratus' counsellor, began work on story of lost Atlantis, then abandoned it, 494; died in archonship of Hegestratus, 496
See also Vii. 160.

Quoted: (Frg. 1, Beggk 0.) 1. 422: (Erg. 5) 452; (Fre. 6) 570; (Frg. 7) 476; (Frg. 9) 410; (Fre. 11. vv. 1-4) 492; (Frg. 11. vv. 7, 5, & 6) 490; (Frg. 12) 410; (Fre. 13. vv. 7f.) 408, 566; (Fre. 15) 408: (Frg. 18) 406, 496; (Fre. 19) 478; (Frg. 21) 566; (Frg. 24) 406; (Frg. 26) 496; (Fre. 28) 476; Freg. 31) 410; (Frg. 32) 440; (Fre. 33) 440; (Frg. 34, vv. 4f.) 448; (Fre. 36. 4f.) 444; (Fre. 36. vv. 9-1%) 444; (Frg. 36. v. 14) 442.
See also 1. 438; 454; 484; 488; 490; 492; 494.
Solon, of Plataea, joins party of Athenians going to Polysperchon, VIM. 222
Solonium, farmstead of Marius, Ix. 560

Sonchis, of Sais, learned Egyptian priest with whom Solon studied, I.

Soothsayers, always about Otho, MI. 256
Sophanes, rivalled Aristides for 2nd place at Plataea, 11. 388; Deceleian, opposes crown for Miltiades, 426
Sophax, son of Hercules and Tinga, became king of country about Tingis, had son Diodorus, VI. 24
Sophené, II. 548; its people join Lucullus, 568; taken from Tigranes by Lucullus, v. 202
 Sophia,’’ meant simply cleverness in politics and practical sagacity, 11. 6
 Sophists,’’ origin ofterm, 11.6; none visited Sparta, I. 230
Sophocles, in his first plays defeated Aeschylus, Cimon and his fellow-generals being judges, I. 428; general with Pericles on naval expedition, IN. 24; general with Nicias, 262; had friendship of Aesculapius, and when dead another deity procured fitting burial for him, I. 320; his tragedies sent to Alexander, VII. 242
Antigone (563 f.), quoted, VII. 144
Oedipus Coloneus (1 f.) Ix. 118
Oedipus Rex (4) 1X. 186
Trachiniae (441 f.) I. 404
Tympanistae (Nauck, p. 270), VI. 260
(Fre. 788, Nauck) 1. 392; (Nauck, p. 249) X. 2; (Nauck, Pa 015), Vile. 240, 3x, 2 te x: 196; (Nauck, p. 316) V. 320, VI. 344
Sophrosyné, daughter of Diony-ius the Elder and Aristomache, married Dionysius the Younger, Vi. 12
Sorex, archmime, had great influence with Sulla in his latter days, IV. 438

Sornatius, routs Menander, general of Mithridates, 0. 620; left as guardian of Pontus, 544 f.; 570; 584
Sosibius (1), cited, I. 280
Sosibius (2), most influential of Pto~ lemy’s followers, X. 124; Ptolemy’s prime minister, fears Cleomenes, 126; plots against him, 130
Sosigenes, companion of Demetrius, pa Sig ef
Sosis, fails in attempt to bring odium upon Dion and is put to death, VI. 72
Sosistratus, prominent Syracusan, one 469 of first to invite Pyrrhus to Sicily, Ix, 422

Sosius, see ‘‘ Senecio, Socius (or Sosius).”” Soso, sister of Abantidas and wife of Prophantus, befriends Aratus, XI. 6
Sossius, Antony’s general, effected much in Syria, Ix. 214 ‘‘ Soter,”? name given for exploit, IV. 142
Soteria, sacrifice to celebrate freeing of Sicyon from its tyrants, XI. 122
Sotion, cited, VII. 398

Sotis, his genealogy, did not give his name to Spartan royal line, under him Spartans made Helots their slaves and conquered land from Arcadians, outwitted Cleitorians, I. 206 f.
Sousamithras, uncle of Pharnabazus, ordered to kill Alcibiades, Iv. 112 Spain, cleared of Carthaginians by O. Scipio and won over to Rome, MI. 190; pacified by Aemilius Paulus, VI. 362 f.; invaded by Cimbri and Teutones, IX. 496; occupied by Sertorius, VI. 16; seat of war between Rome and Sertorius, I. 486; subdued by Sertorius, TX. 464; Vv. 214; allotted to Caesar as province, VI. 466; allotted to Pompey, I. 360; VU. 512; gone over to younger Pompey, VII. 382 ;

Spain, Farther, allotted to Marius, who cleared out the robbers, Ix. 474
Spain, Hither, allotted to Cato the Elder, who subdues Lacetanians, is succeeded by Scipio the Great, 1. £30°4, Spaniards, M1. 140; thelr horsemen desert to Marcellus, V. 464; treated well by Sertorius, VMI. 16; love Sertorius, their children of noblest birth educated by Sertorius at Osca, 36 f.; these children slain or sold into slavery by Sertorius, 68
Spanish wars, VI. 362; VIL. 6; 30, I. 486; VII. 530
Spanus, plebeian living in Spain, gave Sertorius white doe, VII. 28
Sparamizes, chief eunuch of Parysatis, traps Mithridates, x1. 160 ;
Sparta, I. 72; toit Aethra was carried off, 78; suffered long time from lawlessness and confusion, 208; 470

‘LIVES’

rules for its assembly laid down by Lycurgus, 222; its land redistributed by Lycurgus, 226; movable property distributed by Lycurgus, 228; useless arts banished from it by Lycurgus, 230; 234; sons there not regarded as property of father but of state, 252; observed laws of Lycurgus for 500 years down to time of Agis when gold and silver money came in, 296: visited by Themistocles, If. 52; 240; lost her prestige owing to Pausanias, 420; shaken by earthquake, 452; Greeks meet there to arrange peace, V. 76 f.; after Leuctra, 80; repulses Epaminondas, 96; near it Demetrius wins battle, Ix. 84; unsuccessfully attacked by Pyrrhus, 436; degenerated down to time of Agis and Cleomenes, X. 8, 12; sends Agis with army to aid Achaeans, 30 f.; mistress of Peloponnesus, 244; her laws and constitution restored by Antigonus, 118; forced and persuaded into Achaean league, 296 f.; her walls torn down and constitution destroyed by Philopoemen, 388; her gates closed by Philopoemen against Diophanes and Flaminius, 390; offered his soldiers for plunder by Brutus, VI. 230; why she fell according to Plutarch, v. 92; heregovernment a mixture of democracy and royalty, VI. 112; had temples of Death, Laughter, and Fear, xX. 66 Spartacus, Thracian, chosen one of 3 leaders by escaped gladiators, his exploits and death, ID. 336 f.

Spartacus, war of, see ‘‘ Servile war.”

Spartan records, V. 52

Spartans, I. 74; 278, Vv. 74; knew how to obey, I. 298; on forsaking precepts of Lycurgus sank from highest to lowest place, 398; arbiters in dispute between Athenians and Megarians, 426; 11. 18; 240; send 5000 men by night to assistance of Athenians, 244; at battle of Plataea, 264; quarrel with Athenians over meed of valour after Plataea, 274; stopped sending out generals after snub to Pausanias, 286; dislike Themistocles and favour Cimon, 56, 452; attacked by Perioeci, Helots and Messenians, send to Athens for aid which Cimon brings, 454 f.; free Delphians from Phocians, defeat Athenians at Tanagra, 456, Hl. 28; annoyed at increasing power of Athenians, 54; oppose Panhellenic congress proposed by Pericles, 56; restore sanctuary to Delphians, 62; under Pleistoanax invade Attica, 64; make peace with Athens for 30 years, 68; receive complaints about Athens from Corinth, Megara, and Aegina, 84; send embassy to Athens to arrange Megarian matter, 86; under Archidamus invade Attica, 94; routed by Nicias when he ravaged coasts of Laconia, 230; have some men captured by Cleon on island of Sphacteria, 234, iv. 32; send ambassadors to Athens to treat all issues, Il. 242; defeat Argives, Mantineans, and Eleans at Mantinea, IV. 36, V. 92; help Chians in revolt from Athens, IV. 66; defeated by Athenians off Abydos, 78; accuse Tissaphernes to Persian king, defeated by Alcibiades at Oyzicus and lose town, 80f.; defeat Athenians at Ephesus, 104; defeat Athenians at Aegospotami, 254; appoint Lysander to take command upon the sea, 238; under Callicratidas defeated at Arginusae, appoint Aracus admiral and Lysander vice-admiral with real power, 248; reverse arrangement of Lysander concerning Sestos and restore Sestians, 268; decree that Athenians tear down Peiraeus and long walls, 270; 284; 308 Order Clearchus to help Oyrus,

XI. 138 f.; wage war on Persians, 172 f.; send Lysander, then Pausanias against Thebans, Iv. 310; defeated by Iphicrates, Vv. 60; defeated at Cnidus and driven off the sea by Artaxerxes, accept peace of Antalcidas, 62, x1. 174 f.; deprive Phoebidas of his command and yet hold Cadmeia, V. 66, 352; 370; defeated for first time in pitched battle by Thebans under Pelopidas at Tegyra, 76, 344, 376, 382; under Cleombrotus invade Boeotia, 66,
372, 388; under Oleombrotus defeated by Thebans at Leuctra, 78,
XI. 178; V. 84; defeat Arcadians in tearless battle, 92; defeated by Thebans at Mantinea, 94, 350; send generals and governorsto ald Dionysius, tyrant in Sicily, 420, vi. 34;
defeated by Thebans at Mantinea, Vv. 94, 350; 98; under Agis crushed by Alexander, Vi. 58; their debts cancelled by Agis, X. 30; 56; lost
2000 at Philippi, VI. 218
See also, 1. 206; 396; Iv. 62;
aoe 1X, 45x, 723300: 302: -xT.
Sparto, Boeotian, defeated Athenians and slew Tolmides, their general, Ill. 58, V. 50
Sparton, of Rhodes, his release secured on Alexander by Phocion, VIU.
6

Spercheius, 1. 78

Speusippus, most intimate friend of Dion at Athens, VI. 34; urges Dion to free Sicily, 44; 76
Sphacteria, island on which 400 Spartans were cut off, M1. 230, Iv. 32
Sphaerus, of Borysthenis, disciple of Zeno, taught philosophy to Cleomenes, X. 523 assisted Cleomenes in restoring ancient discipline, 72;

cited, I. 220
Sphines, see ‘* Calanus.”’

Sphodrias, harmost of Thespiae, attempts to seize the Peiraeus, acquitted by help of Agesilalis, v. 66 f., 326, 372
Sphragitic nymphs, see ‘* Nymphs, Sphragitic.’’ Spiculus, gladiator of Nero’s, slain in forum, XI. 222
Spinning, to be only task of Roman matrons, I. 132, 150
Spinther (1), see ‘* Lentulus Spinther, L. Cornelius.”’ Spinther (2), P. Cornelius Lentulus, accused of engineering Pompey’s appointment as “‘ praefectus annonae,”’ V. 2443 290; 306
Spithridates (1), induced by Lysander to revolt from Pharnabazus, IV. 300, v. 20; father of Megabates, seizes camp of Pharnabazus; offended, goes off to Sardis, V. 28
471

GENERAL INDEX TO

Spithridates (2), Persian commander, slain by Cleitus, VIL. 266, 370
Spolia opima, to whom granted, 1. 138, v. 454
Sporus, Nero’s favourite, taken by Nymphidius Sabinus, x1. 224 Springs, flowing, theories as to source of their water, VI. 390
Spurina, in command of part of Otho’s forces, XI. 288, 292
Stageira, native city of Aristotle, restored by Philip, who had destroyed it, VII. 240
Staphylus, son of Ariadne by Theseus according to some, 1. 40; according to others, son of Dionysus and one of 2 Ariadnes, 42

Stasicrates, artist, popular with Alexander, VI. 424
Stasinus, of Cyprus (Kinkel, £p. Graec. Frag. I. p. 30) X. 68
Stateira (1), wife of Artaxerxes II., XI. 136; induces Artaxerxes to put Greek generals to death, therefore plotted against and poisoned by Parysatis, 138 f., 166, 168, 170 f.
Stateira (2), sister and wife of Darelus, captured by Alexander, dies in child-birth, VI. 310 f.
Stateira (3), daughter of Dareius, married to Alexander, vu. 418; murdered by Roxana, 436
Stateira (4), unmarried sister of Mithridates, at his order takes poison, I, 624
Statianus, left in guard of wagons by Antony, surrounded and slain by Parthians, Ix. 222
Statilius, Epicurean, not informed of plot to murder Caesar, VI. 148
Statues, DI. 184; 216; Iv. 234; VI. 126; 1543 318; x. 322
Statyllius, hater of Caesar, remained with Cato, VIII. 394 f.; served under ee slaln at Philippi, 410, VI.
Stenography, introduced by Cicero, VIII. 290
Stephanus (1), prosecuted by Apollodorus, his speech written by Demosthenes, VU. 36
Stephanus (2), graceful singer, badly burned by naphtha, VII. 330 Steps of Fair Shore, see ‘‘ Scalae Caci.”’

Stertinlus, sent by Flamininus to Thrace to deliver cities and islands there from Philip’s garrisons, X. 354

Stesilaiis, of Ceos, loved by both Aristides and Themistocles, H. 8, 216
Stesimbrotus, Thasian, nearly contemporary with Cimon, IT. 412
Cited: 11.63; 123; 66; 414; 448; 450; 452; 11.24; 44 f.; 74; 104
Sthenis (1), founder of Sinopé, made statue of Autolycus, I. 542
Sthenis (2), of Himera, intercedes for city, V.. 138
Stilbides, freed Nicias from many of his superstitions, II. 290
Stilpon, philosopher of Megara, brusque with Demetrius, Lx. 22
Steiris, Thrasybulus of, Iv. 76

Stiris, in Phocis, I. 406 f.

Stoics, followed by Antiochus of Ascalon, VIL. 90
Stolo, Licinius, leads dcmand that one consul be plebeian, 0. 194; made master of horse to dictator, his law passed, fined himself for having too much land, 196
Stone, hcrald's, at Athens, I. 472; certain one when rubbed gave off colour and odour of saffron, O. 24: one of vast size fell at Aegospotami, IV. 262
Btorax-shrub, Cretan, IV. 312

Strabo, philosopher, his '' Historical Commentaries'' cited, I. 564; VI. 588; cited, IV. 408
Strabo, Pompeius, see '* Pompeius Sextus Strabo, Gnaeus.'' Strato, present at death of Brutus, fights at Actium for Octavius, VI. 244 Stratocles, invented extravagant honours for Antigonus and Demetrius, account of him, Ix. 26f.; 56 £.; proposes temporarily changing names of months to permit

peeing Demetrius into mysteries, 6 e
Stratonicé (1), daughter of Corrhagus, wife of Antigonus, mother of Demetrius and Philip, Ix. 6
Stratonicé (2), daughter of Demetrius and Phila, wife of Seleucus, Lx. 76; when already mother of boy by Seleucus, became wife of Antiochus, son of Seleucus, 92; 128 f.3 sister of Antigonus, 134

Stratonicé, concubine of Mithridates, Vv. 210 ee his jest about Sparta, I. 29
Stroebus, told Aristotle about Callisthenes' experience with Alexander, Vil. 380
Strymon, river in Thrace with city Eion on its banks, I. 422 f.
Stymphaea, in Macedonia, given Pyrrhus by Alexander, IX. 360
Sucro, Spanish river, where Pompey and Sertorius fight drawn battle, Y. 158, Vii7. 50 Suetonius Paulinus, see '' Paulinus, Suetonius."' Suevi, V. 246; Vi. 498

Sugambri, shelter remnants of Usipites and Tencteri, VII. 496
'* Suillius,'' Roman surname, I. 532

"'Sulla,'? a cognomen or epithet, IX. 464 Sulla, L. Cornelius, his family, early life, personal appearance, IV. 324 f.; when quaestor under Marius gets Jugurtha from Bocchus, 328 f.; wins other successes under Marius and arouses his envy, 330 f.; ran for city praetorship, defeated, 332; elected praetor, after praetorship drove out Gordius and restored Ariobarzanes as king of Cappadocia,

334; quarrels with Marius again,
336; did good service in Social war, 338; consul with Q. Pompeius, married Caecilia, daughter of Metel-lus, the Pontifex Maximus, 342; contends with Marius to be appointed to the Mithridatic war, 344; pursued to house of Marius, forced to rescind decree for suspension of public business, escapes to the army, begins march against Rome, 350;
bursts into Rome, summons senate, and has sentence of death passed on Marius, Sulpicius, and a few others, 354; sets out against Mithridates, 358; besieges and captures Athens, 360f., 344; captures the Peiraeus, 372; transfers his army from Athens to Bocotia, is joined by Hortensius, 374; defeats Arche-laiis at Chaeroneia, 382 f.; defeats him at Orchomenus, 392 f.; meets Archelaiis near Delium and arranges
VOL, XI.

TOPALL This * LIVis*

terms of peace with Mithridates, 396; receives ambassadors from Mithridates, who objects to some of the terms, 400; meets Mithridates at Dardanus, makes him accept the terms, reconciles him with Ariobarzanes and Nicomedes, wins over Fimbria’s soldiers, 404;
lays fine of 20,000 talents upon Asia, at Athens seizes the library of Apellicon, 406; takes the hot waters at Aedepsus, prepares to cross to Brundisium, 408 Lands at Tarentum, 410; defeats Norbanus, 412; wins the troops of Scipio the consul from him, 414;

defeats Marius, 416; defeats Telesinus the Samnite, 418; had 6000 people of Antemnae massacred in the circus, 422; busies himself with slaughter, 424f.; executed 12,000 at Praeneste, 428; proclaims himself dictator, bestows gifts on low favourites, 430; celebrates costly triumph and recounts his achievements to the people, 432; consecrates tenth of all his substance to Hercules and feasts peopie sumptuously, loses his wife Metella, 436; marries Valeria, 438; eaten of worms, dies, 440 f.; is honourably buried, 442
See also 1. 540; 1. 470; 474; 480; 482; 484; 528; 610; 1.316; 326; 330; V.126; 180f.; 144f£.: VO. S6f.; 106 f.; 114; 122; 442; $465 478%: Vini-4: 10s 14s 18 242; IX. 138; 484; 552; 558 f.; 578; 590 f.; 598; x. 384
Quoted: I. 328; Iv. 368; 394; 398; 400; 402; 420; 434; 450; Vv. 150
His ‘‘Memoirs’’ dedicated to Lucullus, 0. 484; cited: 544; Iv. 340; 368; 870; 380; 400; 412; 440; IX. 530; 534
Sulla, Sextius, see ‘‘ Sextius Sulla.’’
Sulpicius, C., praetor, found huge store of weapons in house of Cethegus, VI. 126
Sulpicius, Q., deposed from priesthood Vv. 446 Sulpicius Galba, 0., see “‘ Galba, C. Sulpicius.’’ Sulpicius Galba, P., invaded Mace- Q 473

donia late in season and wasted time, X. 326

Sulpicius Galba, Servius, see ‘‘ Galba, Ser. Sulpicius.’’ Sulpicius Longus, Q., military tribune, met Brennus and agreed that Romans pay 1000 lbs. gold to get rid of Gauls, I. 164
Sulpicius Rufus, P., allied with Marius, deposed Pompeius and transferred Mithridatic expedition from Sulla to Marius, IV. 348 f., IX. 554, 558; slain, IV. 356
Sulpicius Rufus, Servius, interrex, declares Pompey sole consul, V. 258; rival with Cato the Younger for consulship, VIll. 354
“‘Sun,’’ surname of Alexander, son of Antony and Cleopatra, IX. 218
Sun, its course according to the mathematicians, VII. 148
Sun-dial, set up in Syracuse by Dionysius the Younger, VI. 62
Sunium, given up to Athenians by Diogenes, XI. 78
Superstitions: X. 140; XI. 74

Supplication, method of, Ul. 66, fv. 172, Ix. 350
“ Sura,’’ Latin word for leg, surname of Cornelius Lentulus, how he got it, VU. 122 Sura, Bruttius, see ‘* Bruttius Sura.”’

Sura, P. Cor. Lentulus, see ‘* Lentulus Sura, P. Cor;”’ Surena, early career, sent against Romans, I. 376f.; deceives Romans, 384 f.; personal appearance, 386; defeats Crassus at Carrhae, 388 f.; gets Crassus into his power by treachery, 404; sends head and hand of Crassus to Hyrodes in Armenia, 416; put to death by Hyrodes, 422; quoted, 410; 414
Surgery: V. 74; 1X. 476

Surnames, among Greeks and Romans, whence derived, I. 532, IV. 142
Susa, V. 38; 416; VI. 34; entered by Alexander, 332; 418; x1. 140
Svocira, instituted by Lycurgus, 1. 232; details concerning, 236
Sutrium, besieged by Tuscans, 11. 176; lost and recovered in one day, 182 f.
Sybaris, in Italy, its site colonized by Athenians and named Thurii, I. 34; 418; Vv. 340
474

Sybaris,° daughter of Themistocles, married Nicomedes the Athenian, II. 88
Sycophants, etymology of word, I. 470; set upon Rhoesaces, Il. 436; their influence upon Nicias, OH. 222
Symbolum, city, VI. 208

Synalus, Carthaginian, welcomes Dion at Minoa, VI. 54
Syracusans, wronged allies of Athens, Iv. 44; It. 210; defeated by Nicias, 264; burn Athenian camp _ at Catana, 266; 270; despair of their city, 274; 282; defeat Athenians in great sea fight, 292f.; sent Gylippus away on account of his greed, VI. 460, I. 304 f.; maltreat first wife of Dionysius the Elder, VI. 6; from country join Dion, 58; make Dion and Megacles generals with absolute power, 60f.; with Dion's help repel attack by Dionysius the Younger from the acropolis, 64f.; reward Dion's mercenaries, 68; defeat and slay Philistus, 76; 80; elect Heracleides and 24 others generals, 82; attack Dion but are easily routed, 84; 86; summon Dion, who saves them, 88 f.; discharge fleet, 106; put themselves under protection of Hicetas of Leon-tini, 264; put wives, daughters, and friends of Hicetas to death, 340; put Mamercus to death, 342; reward Timoleon, 346, 350; besieged by Marcellus, v. 474 f.; taken with great booty, 484f.; accuse Marcellus before senate at Rome, become reconciled to him, 496 f.

Syracuse, IV. 62; siege of, Il. 268 £.; 290; II, 212; seized by Callippus, Il. 260; VI. 120; its state before expedition of Timoleon, 262; its acropolis surrendered to Timoleon, 290, 298; freed by Timoleon, 310 f.; its citadel destroyed by Timoleon, given new colonists by him, 312 f.; its territory invaded by Hicetas, 336; base for Agathocles in attacking Carthage, 1x. 388; 416; in confusion after death of tyrant Hieronymus, V. 466; besieged and captured by Marcellus, 468 f.
Syria, VI. 370; taken from Tigranes by Lucullus, ¥. 202; 214; declared
GENERAL INDEX

Roman province by Pompey, 216; triumphed over by Pompey, 230; 278; the province of, voted to Gabinius with support of Clodius, Vil. 156; governed by Dolabella, 190; allotted to Crassus, II. 360; 366; threatened by Parthians, Ix. 196; 214
Syrians, those who lost Sinopé descended from Syrus, son of Apollo, and Sinopé, daughter of Asopis, Ll. 544
Syrmus, king of Triballi, defeated by Alexander, VII. 252
Syrtis, Great, VI. 54

Syrus, son of Apollo and Sinopé, I. 544
Tachos, Egyptian, gets services of Agesilatis, V. 100 f.; sails against Egyptians, 104; deserted by Agesilatis for Nectanabis, flees, 106

Tacita, Muse especially honoured by
Numa, I. 332
 Tactics,'' of Evangelus, studied by Philopoemen, X. 264
Taenarum, V. 174; VOI. 210; Ix. 290

Taenarus, X. 98

Tagonius, river in Spain, VII. 42

Talasius, or Talasio, explanation of use of word in marriage ceremony,
I, 130 £., V. 124
Talaura, reached by Lucullus, I. 526

Tamynae, in Eretria, VI. 170

Tanagra, battle between Athenians and Spartans, I. 458, Mr. 28; Thebans defeat Spartans, v. 376
Tanusius, cited, VII. 496

Taphosiris, where Antony and Cleopatra played, Ix. 338
Tarantines, in army of Achaeans, x.
280. See '* Tarentines."' Tarchetius, story of how Romulus and Remus were born of his daughter's maid, I. 94
Tarcondemus, king of Upper Cilicia, fights under Antony, Lx. 276 Tarentines, invite Pyrrhus to come to their help against Romans, Ix. 384; invite him back from Sicily, 422;
many of them slain and 30,000 sold into slavery, I. 184
Tarentum, IX, 382; 392; garrisoned by Pyrrhus before he left for Sicily, LO. ALC ALHE. LIVES'

418; entered by Pyrrhus once more with 20,000 foot and 3000 horse,

426; VY. 506; lost by treachery, recovered by Fabius Maximus, Il. 178 f., 200; governed by T. Flamininus, X. 324; UW. 342; x. 214; Iv. 410; where Octavius and Antony make peaceful agreement, IX, 216; station of Octavius' fleet, 278
Tarpeia (1), one of first Vestals appointed by Numa, I. 340
Tarpeia (2), daughter of Tarpeius, betrayed citadel to Sabines, crushed by shields piled upon her, I. 140; wrongly called daughter of Tatius, 142; buried on Capitol, 144
" Tarpeian Hill,' name of Capitol in Numa's time, I. 328. See also  Tarpeius.'' Tarpeian Rock, cliff on Capitol from which malefactors were hurled, I. 144; IV. 324; Ix, 590
Tarpeius, captain of guard on Capitol, had daughter Tarpeia, I. 140; convicted of treason by Romulus, 142
 Tarpeius,'? former name of Capitol, named from Tarpeia, I. 144
Tarquin, son of Demaratus, first to ride in chariot in his triumphal procession, I. 138; vowed temple of Jupiter Capitolinus, I. 144, 536 Tarquin, the Proud, son or grandson of Tarquin who vowed to build temple of Jupiter Capitolinus, 1. 536; acted as tyrant, 502, 530; built temple of Jupiter Capitolinus, had Tuscan craftsmen place chariot of terra-cotta on roof, 534f., 540; driven out by Brutus, 504; sent envoys with letters to Rome to make overtures, 506; property of his family confiscated and a field dedicated to Mars, 518 f.; helped by Tuscans, attacks Rome and is defeated, 522: assisted by Lars Porsena of Clusium, attacks Rome but withdraws without capturing it, 542; helped by Latins but defeated, IV. 122, VI. 420 Tarquinia, Vestal, devoted a field and honoured by permission to marry,

I. 520
Tarquinius Collatinus, elected as Brutus’ colleague, I. 504; advocated giving banished Tarquins their 475 moneys and effects, denounced by Brutus, 506; uncle of the Aquillii and Vitellii, 508; 516; withdraws from city, 518

Tarquins, opposed by Junius Brutus,
VI. 126
Tarracina, see ‘* Terracina.’’

Tarrutius, made second Larentia his wife, I. 102
Tarsus, under Seleucus, Ix. 118; Antipater of, xX. 162
Tarutius, philosopher and mathematician, companion of Varro, calculated exact time of Romulus’ birth, Tez
Yatia, daughter of Tatius, wife of Numa, preferred quiet life, died 15 years after marriage, 1.316; mother of Pompilia, 376
Tatienses, one of 3 divisions of Roman people, named from Tatius, I. 152
Tatius, made general of Sabines, I.
140; accepts Romulus’ challenge to battle, 144; to be joint king and general with Romulus, 150; at first sat apart with his 100 councillors, dwelt near site of temple of Moneta, 152; gave his daughter Tatia in marriage to Numa, 316;
his death, 162, 166
Taureas, struck by Alcibiades, Iv. 42

Yaurion, officer and friend of Philip, poisons Aratus, XI. 118 f.
Tauromenium, in Sicily, ruled by Andromachus, welcomes Timoleon's expedition, VI. 284
Taurus, chief general of Minos, victor in first funeral games in honour of Androgeos, treated Athenian youth cruelly, I. 30; worsted by Theseus, 36
Taurus, Statilius, commanded Octavius' land forces at Actium, IX. 284
Taurus, mountain range, Il. 548; 552; battle of, 556; 572; 578; citadels of pirates near, V. 184; VI. 370
Taxes, those levied by Aristides, 11. 286; orphans taxed by Camillus, 96; those on wealth increased by Cato the Elder, 354; nospecial ones at Rome until consulship of Hirtius and Pansa, VI. 452; inhabitants of Asia have one-third remitted by Caesar, VI. 554; amount levied for war with Antony, Ix. 268
470

Tax-gatherers, greatly afflict Asia, checked by Lucullus, I. 492; 532
Taxiles (1), ruled realm in India larger than Egypt, wins friendship of Alexander, VI. 390; 408
Taxiles (2), general of Mithridates, comes from Thrace and Macedonia, summons Archelatis to join him, Iv. 372; 388; Il. 554; quoted, 558
Taygetus, shaken by earthquake, 1. 452; V. 416; x.18
Technon, servant of Aratus, XI. 10; 16; 42
Tectosages, Copillus their chieftain, IV. 330
Tecea, 1.725 IV818. V.9d2-x 28: 36; 56; taken by Antigonus, 100
Tegeans, dispute with Athenians about position in line at Plataea, I. 248;

272
Tegyra, where Thebans defeat Spartans in pitched battle for first time, V. 76, 376, 382, 386
Teireos, eunuch, tells Dareios of death of his wife, VII. 31
Telamon, son of Endeis the daughter of Sciron and Chariclo, 1. 20
Telamon, in ‘Tyrrhenia, landing-place of Marius, IX. 578 Telecleides (1), Comic poet, cited eee 1. p.:219): I. 2202 (p. 220)
5
’
Telecleides (2}, urges Timoleon to be brave, VI. 276
Telemachus, sent by Timoleon to receive surrender of acropolis of Syracuse, VI. 290
Telephus, son of Hercules, father of Roma, I. 92
Teles, mentioned in verse of Hermippus, M1. 96
Telesides, sent by Syracusans to implore help of Dion, VI. 88
Telesinus, Samnite, nearly overthrew Sulla at gates of Rome, IV. 418; 454
Telesippa, free-born woman with army of Alexander, VII. 346
Telestus, his dithyrambic poems sent to Alexander, VII. 242
Teleutias, half-brother of Agesilatis on his mother’s side, appointed admiral, seizes ships and dockyards of Corinthians, v. 56
Tellus, quoted by Solon as happier than Croesus, I. 480, 564

Tellus, temple of, IV. 354; VI. 166

Telmessus, Aristander of, VII. 226

Tementid gate, of Syracuse, VI. 60

Tempe, vale of, occupied by army led by Themistocles, 0. 18; V. 306; compared with valley of Apsus river, X. 328
Tencteri, see ‘‘ Tenteritae.”’

Tenedos, near it naval battle between Lucullus and Neoptolemus, I. 480
Tenian trireme, deserts from Persians to Greeks, 1. 38

Tensa, sacred chariot, Iv. 180

Tenteritae (Tencteri), defeated by Oaesar, VII. 496
Teratius, ordered by Tarchetius to destroy twins born to handmaid, leaves them at river-side, I. 94
Terentia, wife of Cicero, VU. 100, VII. 280; her character, takes message of Vestal virgins to Cicero, VO. 130; hates Clodius, is jealous of Clodia, 154; divorced by Cicero, 186
Terentius, soldier, said to have slain Galba, XI. 266
Terentins, L., tentmate of Pompey, bribed to kill him, v. 122
Terentius Culeo, see ‘‘ Quleo, Terentius.”’ Terentius Varro, see “* Varro, Terentius.”’
Teribazus, father of Arpates, XI. 202; courtier of Artaxerxes, 1363; advises Artaxerxes to fight at once, 140; gives him new mount at Cunaxa, 148; saves him from Cadusians, 184f.; angry at Artaxerxes, sceks to embitter Dareius against him, 192 f.3 slain, 198
Termerian mischief,’’ named from Termerus, who killed opponents by dashing his skull against theirs, I. 22
Termerus, slain by Herakles, I. 22

Terminus, Roman god, temple to him by Numa, I. 362
Terpander, though foreigner honoured at Sparta, X. 24; cited, I. 272
Terracina, VO. 578; 1X. 562; 568

Tertia (1), daughter of Aemilius Paulus and sister of younger Scipio, married non of Cato the Elder, Ul. 364, VI. 78

Tertia (2), sister of Clodius, wife of

Marcius Rex, VU. 15-4

TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

*‘ Tesserarius,’’ Latin for messenger, XT. 258
Testudo, military, described, Ix. 240, 250
Tethys, in Tuscany, oracle of; its message to Tarchetius, I. 94
Tetrapolis, in Attica, relieved of Marathonian bull by Theseus, I. 26
Teucer, informer against Alcibiades, Iv. 54
Teutamus, commander of Silver-shields, envious of Eumenes, who works on his superstition, vim. 116: with Antigenes plots against life of Eumenes, 126, plots to surrender Eumenes to Antigonus, 130
Teutones, invade Gaul and _ rout Romans, VI. 6; with Cimbri invade Italy; details about them, Ix. 488; flow into Spain, 496; separating from Cimbri, march through Liguria against Marius, 502; defeated by Marius at Aquae Sextiae, 510; their kings captured by Sequani among Alps, 528
Thais, Athenian, mistress of Ptolemy, proposes to Alexander burning house of Xerxes, VII. 336

Thalaea, wife of Pinarius, first woman to quarrel with her mother-in-law Gegania in reign of Tarquin the Proud, I. 394
Thalamae, had temple of Pasiphaé, xX. 20
Thales (1), lyric poet of Crete, persuaded by Lycurgus to go to Sparta on a mission, I. 212; though foreigner honoured at Sparta, x. 24
Thales (2), engaged in trade, I. 408; only wise man who carried his speculations beyond realm of practical, 410; declined golden tripod, 412; proves desirability of bachelordom to Solon, 416; adopted Cybi:-thus, his sister's son, 418; foresaw where market-place of Miletus would be and asked to be buried there, 434
Thallus, son of Cineas, distinguishes himself under Phocion, VIL. 172
Thapsacus, vessels of every sort built for Alexander there, VII. 414
Thapsus (1), near Syracuse, I. 266

Thapsus (2), battle of, VIL. 566, VIII. 378
477

GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE 'LIVES'

Thargelia, her political influence, I. 68
Thargelion, month of, 11. 138; Iv. 98

Tharrhypas, father of Alcetas, introduced Greek customs and letters in Epeirus, IX. 346
Thasian marble, VIII. 258

Thasian sea, VI. 208

Thasians, in revolt from Athens, conquered by Cimon, their lands and gold mines given Athens, 1. 446

Thasos, Stesimbrotus of, II. 46

Theagenes, brother of Timocleia, fell at Chaeroneia, VII. 256
Theano, priestess, daughter of Menon, refused to curse Alcibiades, Iv. 60
Thearidas, citizen of Megalopolis, captured by Cleomenes, xX. 104, 264 f.
Thearides, brother of Dionysius the Elder, married Areté, VI. 12
Theatre, Pompey's, opened by him, V. 252; of Marcellus, dedicated by his mother Octavia, 522; one built by Cleomenes in territory of Megalopolis and contest instituted for prize of 40 minas, xX. 74
Thebans, not defeated by Theseus but persuaded to a truce, I. 68; retained in Amphictyonic Council through Themistocles, 0. 56; give information to Mardonius, 260; did most of fighting for medizing Greeks, routed by Athenians at Plataea, 270; suspected by Spartans after Mantineia, V. 350; pass decree permitting Athenians to go through Boeotia to expel tyrants at Athens, 354; slay Lysander and repulse Spartans before Haliartus, Iv. 362; engaged in Boeotian war, 308; rout Orchomenians at Coroneia, V. 46; enslaved by Archias and Leontidas, 352; defeat Spartans for first time in pitched battle under Epaminondas at Tegyra, 76; defeat Spartans at Plataea, Thespiae, Tanagra, and Tegyra, 374 f., 380; under Epaminondas defeat Spartans at Leuctra, 78; ravage Laconia, 84f.; defeat Athenians at Cenchreae, 398; send army to free Pelopidas from Alexander of Pherae, 408; treat Orchomenians severely, 522; send Pelopidas as ambassador to Persian king,

414; send Pelopidas to assist cities 478

of Thessaly against Alexander of Pherae, 420; send expedition under Malcitas and Diogeiton to avenge death of Pelopidas and impose severe terms upon Alexander, 430; fight battle of Mantinea, 96; brought into league against Philip, vi. 40 f.; attack Macedonian garrison, 54; given ancient form of government by Demetrius, Ix. 114; in sympathy with Macedonians through Brachy}-las but won over by Flamininus, xX. 336; deprived of half their territory by Sulla, Iv. 390
Thebé, daughter of Jason, wife of Alexander of Pherae, visits Pelopidas in prison and conceives great hatred for her husband, v. 410; 420; has her husband slain, 430
Thebes, I. 68; V. 42; 350; 66; 354; mother-city of Agesilaus' royal line, 330; taken and razed by Alexander, -1. 140, VI. 56, 252; Iv. 390
Themis, seated beside Zeus, VII. 376

Themiscyra, near river Thermodon, iu. 510
Themistocles, son of Neocles, of. obscure family, H. 23 his character while yet a boy, 4; his teachers, 6; early interested in public life, always opponent of Aristides, 8; even as young man very ambitious, proposes that revenue from silver mines at Laurium be used for triremes, 10; made Athenians sailors instead of soldiers, 12; very ambitious, 14; made general when Persian invasion threatened, 16; his preparatory measures, 18; surrenders his command to Eurybiades to secure harmony, 20; writes on stones appeals to Ionians with Xerxes' forces, 24; induces people to abandon Athens and trust to their ships, 28; speaks against Eurybiades' proposal to sail to the Isthmus, 32; by a ruse forces Greeks to remain at Salamis, 36; sacrifices 3 royal prisoners, 38;

at the battle of Salamis, 40; sounds Aristides, 44; by a ruse gets Xerxes toreturn to Asia, 463; highly honoured for his services, 48 Rebuilds and fortifies Athens, keeps Spartans from preventing the work, equips the Piraeus, 52; increases privileges of common people, 54; opposes Spartan proposal to exclude from Amphictyonic Alliance all cities which had not taken part in fighting against the Mede, wins hatred of allies by trying to exact money from them, 56; assailed by Timocreon, the lyric poet of Rhodes, 58; offends his fellow-citizens, 60;

GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE

ostracized, indicted for treason, 62; crossed to Coreyra, then fled to Epirus, 64; fled to Aegae, sent on his way by Nicogenes, 70; interviews Persian king, 72 f.3; wins favour with him, 73; three cities given him for bread, wine, and meat, 80; escapes from treacherous attacks on his life, 82; lived in honour at Magnesia, 84; committed suicide in his sixty-fifth year, left 3 sons, 86; had splendid tomb in market-place of Magnesia, 88
See aso Tl. 2141.3 216 1.; 222 £.3
230; 234f.; 280; 288; 2921.5
324; 386.3; 398; 416f.; 426;
430; 436+ 462: i. 183. 4305 ¥.
392; Vo. 152; X. 380.
Quoted': 3, 146 1. 63" 10%. 165

32: $4: 44 f.: SO f.; S61. 60;
74£.5 80; 216; 236; 322
Themistocles, of Athens, descendant of famous Themistocles, Plutarch's intimate friend, 0. 90
Theocritus, seer, points out victim to Pelopidas, V. 394
Theodectas, citizen of Phaselis, his memory honoured by Alexander, Vil. 272
Theodorus (1), played part of herald in profanation of Eleusinian mysteries, IV. 48, 60
Theodorus (2), Athenian high priest, Iv. 96
Theodorus (3), of Tarentum, contemporary of Alexander, VII. 28+
Theodorus (4), the Atheist, quoted, VIII. 232
Theodorus (5), tutor of Antyllus, crucified, Ix. 319
Theodotes, with whom Dion was accused of plotting to overthrow government, VI. 24; uncle of Heracleides, 94; pardoned by Dion, 98
Theodotus (1), seer, prevents Pyrrhus taking oath, Ix. 362
'LIVES'

Theodotus (2), of Chios, teacher oi rhetoric, advises Pompey's death, ¥. 316; shows Pompey's head to Caesar, VII. 554; escapes Caesar's vengeance, put to death by M. 3rutus, V. 324
Theogeiton, Magarian, speaks in Hellenic council, 1. 274
Theomnestus, Academic, his lectures attended by Brutus at Athens, VI. 176 Theophanes, Lesbian, V. 224; prefect of engineers in Pompey's camp, VII. 178; said to have persuaded Ptolemy to abandon Egypt, V. 246; thinks Egypt a better refuge than

Parthia for Pompey, 314, 318;
cited, 212
Theophilus (1), made Alexander a helmet, VII. 322
Theophilus (2), father of Hipparchus,
Antony’s steward in Corinth, IX. 292 Theophrastus (1), bequeathed his books to Neleus of Scepsis, his treatises in library of Apellicon the Teian, Iv. 406; praised by Cicero, VL. 140 Cited ¢- 1.2325 4142 494. (On Royalty) 1. 68; 288 £.; 101.. 66;
102; (Ethics) 110; 240; 250; Iv.
24° 266". 204% Vids LOZ VE.
24: 40; 232; vill. 84; 324; x. 4
Theophrastus (2), officer of Antigonus, slain by Aratus, XI. 52 Theopompus (1), king of Sparta, in his reign first ephors appointed, I.
224 Theopompus (2), king of Sparta, said by Messenians to have been slain in battle by Aristomenes, X. 48
Theopompus (3), comic poet, cited,
IV. 268
Theopompus (4), Theban associated with Pelopidas in expulsion of Spartans at Thebes, V. 356 Theopompus (5), Spartan polemarch, slain at Tegyra, V. 380
Theopompus (6), cited: I. 224; 11.
Bo Get Ole IV, Sie Vibe: olk*
V.267 60 G0- 51,00 270%" Fil.
83.30: 345 42: 50, 62:
Theopompus (7), collector of fables, shown favour by Caesar, VI.
554 Theopompus, king of Sparta, with king

Polydorus inserted clause in a rhetra, I. 222; quoted, 268; 298

Theoris, priestess, her death brought about by Demosthenes, VI. J6 Theorus, ridiculed by Aristophanes, Iv. 4
Theramenes, one of 3 best citizens of Athens, flouted as alien from Ceos and dubbed ‘‘ Cothurnus,”’ Ill. 212; Iv. 2; helped Alcibiades defeat Byzantians, 90; advises acceptance of Spartan decree, 270
Thermodon, river, later called Haemon, I. 64; U. 510; in country of Amazons, V. 208; discussion as to what it is as mentioned in oracle, vo. 46
Thermopylae, death of Leonidas there,

Il. 24; defeat of Antiochus the Great by Romans there, 336 f., 388, X. 364; V. 46; VI. 252; IX. 52
Thermus, Minucius, see ‘‘ Minucius Thermus.”” Thersippus, Athenian, contemporary of Solon, I. 494

Therycion, sent by Cleomenes to slay

ephors, X. 64;
118 f.
commits suicide,

Therycleian bowls, VI. 442; xX. 278
Thesaurus, subterranean chamber at Messene, X. 310

Theseia, place at Delphi said to be named after Theseus, I. 10

Theseia, precincts at Athens renamed

Heracleia by Theseus, I. 80

Theseid, author of, wrote ‘‘ Insurrection of the Amazons,’’ which is pure fable, I. 64
Theseis, tonsure named after Theseus, 1.10
Theseum, I. 64
Theseus,
compared with Romulus, founded Athens, I. 4; his lineage, 6; son of Aegeus and Aethra, 8; reared by Pittheus, visited Delphi on coming of age, 10; vigorous, brave, and intelligent as a young man, told truth about his birth, decides to go to Athens by land, 12; is kinsman of Heracles, whom he greatly admired, slew Periphetes and Sinis, 16 f.; begot Melanippus by Periguné, slew Crommyonian sow, 18; slew Sciron, 20; killed Cercyon and Procrustes, arrived at Athens, 22; acknowledged as his son by Aegeus, 24; slew party of Pallantidae in ambush, mastered Marathonian bull, 263; volunteers to go to Crete as one of the tribute of youths, 32; on reaching Crete got from Ariadne the thread which guided him through the labyrinth, slew the Minotaur, sailed off with Ariadne, 36; other stories about Theseus and Ariadne, 38f.; forgot to hoist white sail as he drew near Attica, 44; buries his father, 46 Instituted festival of Oschophoria, 48; settled residents of Attica in one city, named it Athens, instituted the Metoecia, 52; invited

new settlers, classified them, coined money, 54; attached Megara to Attica, set up pillar on the Isthmus, instituted games there, 56; voyaged into Euxine with Heracles against Amazons, received Antiopé as reward of his valour, 58; waged war with Amazons at Athens, 60 f.; makes treaty of peace with them, 62; after death of Antiopé married Phaedra, 64; other stories of his marriages, said to have aided Lapithae against Centaurs, 66; became friend of Peirithotis, invited to latter's wedding, 68; took part in rape of Helen, 70; imprisoned by Aidoneus, 72; warred on by Tyndaridae, 74 f.; released by Aidoneus at intercession of Heracles, finding Athens unfriendly, sailed off to Scyros, 80; slain by king Lycoinedes, afterwards honoured by Athenians as demigod, 82; his body brought to Athens by Cimon and buried near gymnasium of Ptolemy, 84, 1. 428 Thesmophoria, festival of, V. 352; Vi. 76
Thesmophoroi, VI. 118

Thesmothetai, took oath to keep statues of Solon, I. 472; I. 26
Thespiae, had Spartan harmost Sphodrias, V. 66; 372; 374; Thebans defeat Spartans there and slay Phoebidas, 376; IX. 96
Thespis, develops tragedy and acts in his own plays, reproved by Solon, I, 488

Thesprotians, had Phaéthon as first king after the flood, IX. 346
Thessalian cavalry, of Pyrrhus, Ix. 400

Thessalian cities, a number destroyed by Alexander of Pherae, Vv. 418
Thessalian merchants, robbed by Dolopians of Scyros, Il. 426
Thessalians, conquered at Ceressus by Boeotians, WH. 138; took no part in fighting against the Mede, 56; 448; I. 56; their country ravaged by Agesilaiis, v. 42; freed from tyranny of Alexander of Pherae by Pelopidas, 462; 406; give splendid funeral to Pelopidas, 424; receive back from Alexander the cities taken away, 430; proclaimed free at Isthmian games by Flamininus, X. 350; given their freedom by Caesar, VI. 554
Thessalonica, VI. 230; VIII. 258

Thessalonicé, murdered by her son Antipater, Ix. 86, 360
Thessalus, son of Peisistratus and Timonassa, II. 376
Thessalus, son of Cimon, Wl. 452; IU. 2; brings charge of profanation of mysteries against Alcibiades, Iv. 50, 60
Thessalus, tragic actor, sent to Pixodarus in Caria by Alexander, VII. 248; assigned as actor to Nicocreon, defeated by Athenodorus, 308
Thessaly, 1. 64; medizes, 11.18; traversed by Xerxes, 234; 240; 404; ruled 10 months by Alexander of Pherae, XI. 208; mastered by Demetrius, IX. 96; overrun by Pyrrhus, 98, 362; 380; Philip crushed there, VI. 370; X. 334; entered by Flamininus, 338; Iv. 360; V. 286
Theste, how treated by her brother Dionysius the Elder, v1. 42 f.
Thetes, or Hectemorioi, tilled lands for rich, paying one-sixth of increase, or pledged their persons for debt, I. 436; lowest property class at Athens, 450; supported Peisis-tratus, 486

Thetis, temple of, Vv. 422

Thimbron, Spartan general in command against Persians, XI. 174 Thirty tyrants, set up in Athens by Lysander, Iv. 110f., 274; overthrown by Athenians from Phyle, Ty. 290
Thoas, one of 3 brothers on expedition with Theseus, I. 58 Thoenon, prominent Syracusan, one of first to invite Pyrrhus to Sicily, executed by him, Ix. 422
Thonis, courtezan, 1X. 66

'Thor,'' Phoenician word for cow, Iv.
382 Thoranius, sent out by Metellus, slain
by Sertorius, VIII. 30
Thorax (1), helps Lysander storm Lampsacus, IV. 254; executed for having money in his private possession, 284
Thorax (2), remains by dead body of Antigonus, IX. 72
Thoth, month in Egyptian calendar,
I, 122
Thrace, gold mines of, Il. 412; Persians driven out of it by Cimon, 422; 1000 settlers sent there by Pericles, M1. 34; 56; 228; regions
there subdued by Ti. Sempronius, HO. 334; being overrun by Aria-rathes, IV. 353; Sadalas, king of,
IX. 276
Thracia,
498 Thracians, checked in their inroads into Chersoncsus, Il. 58; Iv. 106;
in army of Aemilius Paulus, VI. 392; 400; in army of Lucullus, 1. 560;
VL. 228

Thrasea, authority for story about Marcia and Cato, VIII. 292: chiefiy followed Munatius' treatise on Cato, 324
Thraso, father of Thrasybulus, Iv. 104

Thrasybulus, son of Thraso, denounces Alcibiades at Athens, Iv. 104
Thrasybulus, son of Lycus, Iv. 2; helps Alcibiades at Samos, 76; occupied Phyle, assisted by Thebans, 310; sallied from Thebes and overthrew tyrants at Athens, V. 354, 370, XI. 34; assisted Thebans against Spartans, Iv. 314
Thrasydaeus, sent by Philip on embassy to Thebes, VU. 42
Thrasyvllus, repulsed at Ephesus, with Alcibiades' aid defeats Pharnabazus, Iv. 84 Thrasymené, lake in Tuscany, where village near Cyzicus, I.

Hannibal defeated Flaminius, M1. 124
" Threskeuein,'' means celebrating extravagant and superstitious ceremonies, VII. 228
"'Thriambus,'' name for Dionysus, V. 496
Thriasian gates, Dipylum, 01. 86
Thriasian plain, 0. 42; Vv. 68; 356; x1,.76
Thucydides, son of Melesias, leader of the '* Good and True,'' for long time opponent of Pericles, Il. 22, 32, 212; ostracized, 16, 46, 202, 248; saying about Pericles, 22
Thucydides, historian, son of Olorus,

how connected with family of Cimon, had gold mines in Thrace, died in Skapté Hylé, u. 412; served as model in oratory for Cato the Elder, 308; WI. 78; his power as a writer, 208; 210; Iv. 54; VI.
32
Cited: (1. 18. 3) vO. 14; (1. 127.

1) m. 94; (1. 137) 1. 68, 72; (I.
O9s.1) 3 288s Ce 65.8) TT, 250:
(t. 65. 9) 24; (Iv. 80) I. 290; (Vv.
45) Iv. 220; (Vv. 64-75) V. 925; (VI.
15. 4) Iv. 16; (VI. 16. 2) 24; (vu.
36-41) I. 280; (Vu. 50. 4) 218;
(vil. 86. 2) 306; (VU. 73. 3) IV.
28; (VI. 76. 4) M1. 82; Il. 276 Thudippus, condemned to death with Phocion, VIII. 228
Thurii, settled by Athenian colonists on site of Sybaris, 1. 34; founded by Dionysius Chaleus, 2245 Iv. 58; its people attack Bruttians, VI. 298;
vil. 70
Thurium, conical-shaped hill, later called Orthopagus, in Boeotia, Iv.
382; 384; 390
Thuro, mother of Chaeron, IV. 382

Thyateira, IV. 404

Thyestes, VIL. 94

Thymoetadae, township of, where part of Theseus' fleet was built, I. 38
Thyrea, captured from Aeginetans, II.
230 afterwards called

Thyreatis, IX. 454

Thyrsus, freedman of Octavius, flogged by Antony, Ix. 304
Tibareni, desert of, 0.510; 514; subdued by Lucullus, 526

Tiber, river, 1.90; 0. 136; island in, XI. 286
Tiberius, see ‘‘ Brutus, Ti. Junius.”’

Tidius Sextius, joins Pompey in Macedonia, V. 282 era mountain in Campania, Iv. 4]
Tigellinus, with Nymphidius Sabinus by offer of bribe gets soldiers to proclaim Galba emperor, XI. 208 f.; 220; 230; tutor and teacher of Nero, bribes Vinius and escapes vengeance, 240f.; 244; his adherents went over to Galba, 258; cuts his throat, 278
Tigranes, king of Armenia, I. 498; son-in-law of Mithridates, his power, 512; asked to surrender Mithridates, 526; 534; his character and career, 536; 538; 590; attacked by Lucullus, 542; 544; warred on by Lucullus, 546f.; defeated at Tigranocerta, 550 f.; 562f.; asked by king of Parthians to give Mesopotamia as price of alliance, 570; attacked by Lucullus again, 572; defeated by him, 574 f.; 584; 140, Til, 398, Iv. 412; V. 202; ravaged Cappadocia, Il. 586; v. 186; offers. 100 talents for person of Mithridates, receives diadem back from Pompey on condition that he pay aun talents, 202, I. 618; quoted, 5

Tigranes, the Younger, in revolt from his father, invites Pompey to invade Armenia, V. 202; dissatisfied with Pompey’s offer of Sophené, put in chains for triumph, demanded back by Phraates, 204; led in Pompey's triumph, 230; taken from Pompey by Clodius, 240

Tigranocerta, its inhabitants, besieged by Lucullus, 0. 552; captured and its transplanted inhabitants sent to their own cities, 566; 592 Tigris, Seleucia on it, Il. 540; 548

es defeated by Lucullus, vo.
484 f.
Tilphossium, skirmish near it between Sulla and Dorylatis, IV. 392
Timaea, wife of Agis, Spartan king, corrupted by Alcibiades, IV. 64, 292, Wicd.
Timaeus (1), historian, son of Andro-

Timagoras,

Timandra,

Timanthes, friend of Aratus,

Timesitheus,

Timolaiis,

Timoleon, Corinthian, VI. 262;

machus, ruler of Tauromenium, VI.
284; criticized for slandering Philis-tus, 78; hoped to surpass Thucydides but failed, Im. 208 f.
Cited: I. 204; 302;
274; 306; VI. 12; 28;
270; 344; 460
Timaeus (2), advises Andocides, his fellow-prisoner, to turn State's evidence in matter of Hermae, IV. 56
Im. 210;
68; 76;
Timagenes, introduced Alexas to Antony, IX. 302; cited, Vv. 244 f.

Athenian ambassador, bribed by Artaxerxes, executed by Athenians, V. 418, XI. 180
courtezan, buried Alci-biades, Iv. 112
XI. 26;
painted battle between Achaeans and Aetolians, 74
Timesileos, tyrant of Sinopé, driven out with aid of Athenians, DI. 60 f.

general of lLiparians, secures release of Roman envoys, honoured by Rome, U. 116 Timocleia, sister of Theagenes, spared

by Alexander, VII. 254 f.
Timocleides, chosen chief magistrate of Sicyon, died, x1. 4 Timocrates (1), Rhodian, sent by Artaxerxes to bribe influentia
Greeks, x1. 174
Timocrates (2), friend of Dionysius the Younger, given Areté as wife, VI.
42; 56; deserted by Leontines and Campanians, 58; flees from Syracuse, 60
Timocrates, speech against, written by Demosthenes for another to deliver,
VO. 36
Timocreon, lyric poet of Rhodes, his attack on Themistocles quoted, sent into exile on charge of medizing,

It. 58
Timodemus, father of Timoleon, VI.

266, 354
guest-friend of Philopoemen, X. 298 family and character, 266 f.; rescues his brother Timophanes in battle, 268; causes his death for being tyrant, 270; gave up all public life, 272;

lived retired nearly 20 years, 274;
nominated general for expedition to
ALL THE ‘LIVES’

Syracuse, 276; sets sail, 278; escapes Carthaginians at Hhegium by a ruse, 282; puts in at Tauromenium in Sicily, 284; welcomed by none except people of Adranum, 286; defeats Hicetas before Adranum, 288; joined by other cities, receives surrender of Dionysius, 2903 receives reinforcements from Corinth, 298; escapes assassination, 300; sends grain to Syracuse from Catana, 304; occupies Messana, then marches against Syracuse, 308 ; ‘drives Hicetas from Syracuse, 312; invites new settlers to Syracuse,
. 314; divides land among them, proceeds to free other cities, "318:
marches to river Crimesus against Carthaginians, 322; defeats them,
324f.; returns to Syracuse, 332 Defeats Hicetas, 336f.; takes Hicetas prisoner, 338; defeats Ma-mercus near river Abolus, 340;
receives surrender of Mamercus, 342; assists new colonists, 344;
ascribes all his successes to fortune, 346; attacked by two popular leaders at Syracuse, 348; loses his sight, 350; dies, 352; quoted, 348
See also 1223; 11. 138.
Timolonteum, gymnasium in honour of ‘Timoleon,.VI. 354 Timon, misanthrope, his words to Alcibiades, Iv. 42; account of him,
IX. 296 f.
Timon, Phliasian :
103; (Silt) VI. 34
Timonassa, of Argolis, married Peisis-

tratus, I. 376
“ Timoneum,?? name of Antony’s dwelling on Pharos, Ix. 300
Timonides, Leucadian, urges Dion to free Sicily, VI. 46; put in command of mercenaries by Dion, 66; cited, 68; 76
Timophanes, brother of Timoleon, slain at his instigation, VI. 268 f.
Timotheus (1), son of Conon, his saying about fortune, banished, Iv. 338; right in his criticism of Chares, v. 344; VI. 344; prosecuted for debt by Apollodorus, VII. 36
Timotheus (2), X. 24; cited: (Bergk In*. Pp. 622) ¥.008,, Ps. L045 (Persians, opening verse) X. 284 cited, 1. 332; IM.

Timotheus (3), Macedonian soldier, VI. 286
Timoxenus, X. 94; chosen general by Achaean league in place of Aratus, XI. 86; 108
Tinga, wife of Antaeus, bore Sophax to Heracles, VI. 24
Tingis, city, sheltered Ascalis, forced to surrender, VII. 24
Tiribazus, approached by Antalcidas regarding peace, V. 62
Tiro, Cicero’s freedman, cited, VI. 186; 208
Tisamenus, prophesies to Pausanias and the Hellenic army, 0. 244
Tisander, son of Epilycus, father of wife of Xanthippus, I. 104
Tisaphernes, see ‘‘ Tissaphernes.

Tisias, plaintiff against Alcibiades in ‘* De Bigis ’’ of Isocrates, Iv. 28 Tiriphonus, brother of Phebé, helped

slay Alexander of Pherae, v. 430
Tissaphernes, satrap, IV. 64; advised by Alcibiades to give little help to Spartans, IV. 68; 76; imprisons Alcibiades at Sardis, 80; accused to Oyrus by Lysander, 240; reveals plot of Cyrus against Artaxerxes, XI. 132, 138; seizes Clearchus and the other Greek generals, 166; makes treaty with Agesilatis, in which he promised to make Greek cities free and independent of the King, then declares war, V. 20f.; defeated by Agesilatis, executed by Tithraustes, 24 f., XI. 180
Tithora, fortress near Parnassus, IV.374

Tithraustes, commander of Persian fleet at Eurymedon according to Ephorus, Ol. 440; sent by Persian king, beheads Tissaphernes, V. 26
Titianus, sent to armies with apparent authority, XI. 294; 306
Titinius, sent by Cassius to reconnoitre, slays himself, VI. 222 f.
Titinnius, divorced Fannia, Ix. 570

Titius, Q., brought Sulla message from Trophonius, Iv. 380
Titius, M., quaestor, IX. 234; friend of Antony, flees to Octavius, 268 Titus, son of Brutus, see '* Brutus, T. Junius."' Titus, of Croton, intercepted with letters from Lentulus to Catiline, VItL2G
39

Titus Lartius, see '' Lartius, T."'

Titus Latinus, see '* Latinus. T."'

Tityus, giant, story of, associated with birth of Apollo near temple of Apollo Tegyraeus, V. 378
Toga, why sole garment of candidates for consulship, Iv. 148
Toga praetexta, to be worn by children of Sabine women, I. 152
Tolerium, Latin city, captured by Volscians under Coriolanus, IV. 186
Tolmaeus, father of Tolmides, MI. 58

Tolmides, son of Tolmaeus, ravaged seashore of Peloponnesus, III. 60; against Pericles' advice leads expedition into Boeotia and is slain, 58, 204: 198
Tolumnius, Tuscan, slain and despoiled by Cornelius Cossus, I. 138, V. 454 Tomb, of Publicola, within city near Velia, I. 564
' Torquatus,'? cognomen or epithet,

IX. 464
Torquatus, IV. 420
Torquatus, M., inflicted death upon his son for disobedience, II. 146

Torture, of the boats, its nature, XI. 162 f.
Toruné, in Epirus, seized by Octavius, IX.:278
rachis, 3.70

Trade, that of Ephesus revived by Lysander, IV. 238
Tragedy, developed by Thespis at Athens, I. 488; Themi-tocles won as choregus with it, 0. 14; 28; closes with farce, I. 422; actor who takes part of messenger or servant is in high repute, Iv. 296; v. 58; VII. 508
Tragia, in battle off it Pericles defeats

Samians, WI. 74
Tragic actor, dress of, 1V. 92

Tragic contest, judges of, appointed by lot, but once Cimon and fellow-generals appointed by the Archon gave decision to Sophocles against Aeschylus, II. 428
Tragiscus, Cretan, slays tyrant Aristippus, XI. 66
Tralies, Jason of, WI. 420; Caesar's statue in temple of Victory there, VII. 554 Trallians, demand pay for passage of Agesilalis' army and are routed, V. 42

Translations, literal from Greek among Cato the Elder's maxims and proverbs, II. 308
Trapezus, limit of Eumenes' territory, VIII. 84
Trasimenus, see '' Thrasymene.''

Treasury, of Confederacy of Delos, moved to Athens, I. 34f.; that at Rome reccived 20,000 talents from Pompey, V. 230 Treaties: 1. 550; I. 120; 380f.; 444: 460; 482; 11.28; 68; 240f.; 4V,.525: 00, (86 1:5 1805: 220 :: 305; Vegas eer (62%. %6°..98 1,7. 206% 372 £.; 406; 416; VI. 340; 368f.; vit. 40; 54
Treatment, of sick, Cato the Elder's, Ir. 372
Trebatius Testa, C., companion of Oaesar, writes Cicero, VW. 176
Trebellius, L., advises Antony to oppose law for cancellation of debts, Ix. 156
Trebia, river, battle of, Hannibal victorious, II. 122 f.

Trebonius (1), slew ©. Lusius, Ix. 498
Trebonius (2), slew Clodius Macer in Africa by order of Galba, XI. 236
Trebonius, C., tribune, proposes laws for assignment of provinces to triumvirate, gets it passed in spite of Cato, V. 250, VIM. 338; in conspiracy against Caesar, Ix. 166, VI. 162; given province of Asia, 168 Trees, Persians' love for, XI. 186 f.

Trial, of Chaeroneians for murder of Roman soldiers, 1. 408; of Cimon for sparing Macedonia, 448
Triarius, defeated by Mithridates, 1. 584, V. 216
Triballi, defeated by Alexander, VII. 252
Tribes, three at Rome, I. 152; two at Rome, 310, 364; thirty-five at Rome, X. 172; four at Athens, I. 468
Tribunate, Coriolanus charged with trying to take it from people, Ivy. 166; overthrown by Sulla, restored by Pompey, V. 166 f.
Tribunes, military, preferred by people to consuls, I. 94; Camillus one 2nd time, 98; Camillus appointed with o others, 116; Sertorius one, VIII. 6
Tribunes, of people, 5 in number to be appointed to protect those needing succour, Junius Brutus and Sicinius Vellutus first to be chosen, IV. 130; enjoy immunity of person and remain in power when dictator is appointed, Il. 146, Ix. 156; Iv. 156; 166; urge bill for division of people, I. 110, 116; 580.
Antony, one, VO. 204, Ix. 148, 152; L. Antonius, 170; Aquillius, vi. 338; Publicius Bibulus, V. 510; Junius Brutus & Sicinius Vellutus, ist tribunes, IV. 130; Canidius, V.

244; Cato the Younger, VI. 138;
P. Olodius, Vv. 234, vo. 156, 476, Vill. 3163; Curio, vil. 514; Dolabella, Ix. 156; Livius Drusus & C.
Gracchus, X. 214; Flavius & Maryl-lus, VII. 584; Fulvius & Manius, xX.
324; Genucius, 204; C. Gracchus,
204, 2nd time, 214; Ti. Gracchus, 160; Lucilius, V. 256; Marius, Ix.
468; Metellus & Bestia, vi. 138;
Metellus, V. 276, VII. 530, VOI. 296;
Metilius, MI. 146; Annius Milo, VIL.
166; Minucius Thermus, VOI. 298;
Mucius, X. 174; M. Octavius, 166;
Aulus Pompeius, Ix. 508; Rubrius & Livius Jdrusus, X. 218; L. Saturninus, Ix. 498, 542; P. Satyreius,
X. 190; Suipicius, IV. 348, Ix. 554;
Terentius Culeo, x. 372; Trebonius,
V. 250; Virginius, Iv. 358
“Tribunus,’’ derived from ‘“tres’’ because of 3 divisions of people at Rome, I. 152
Tribus, each had 10 phratries, I. 152.
See also *‘ Tribes.”’
*‘ Tribus,’’ derived from “ tres,”

Tribute, I. 28 f.; VI. 430

Triopium, If, 440

Tripod, of Seven wise men, I, 412

Tripods, choregic, on tempie dedicated by Nicias in precinct of Dionysus, 111. 214
Tripylus, friend of Cleomenes, x1. 96

Triremes, Athenian, their design improved by Cimon, I. 440
Tritaea, city of Achaean ieague, X.
84, XI. 24
Tritymallus, Messenian, x. 92

Triumph, origin of, 1. 136; expiana-tion of difference between major and minor, V. 494; of Aemilius Paulus over Perseus, VI. 440; of Antonius, vy. 176; of Caesar over Egypt, Pontus, Africa, VI. 570; over sons of Pompey, 572; of Camillus, II. 94, 110, 184; of Cato the Elder, 334; of Catulus with Marius, IX. 538; voted Cicero by senate, VI. 1743 of Fabius Maximus over Ligurians, II. 120; after recapture of Tarentum, 186; of great-grandfather of Fabius, 188; of grandfather of Fabius, 188; of Flaminius, X. 362; of Flaminius, V. 444; of Lucullus, 0. 592; of Marcellus, V. 452, 494; first of Marius, IX. 492; of Octavius Caesar, IX. 328; of Pompey, V. 150, 166, 230, II. 350, 352, 428; of Publicola, I. 524, 562; of Romulus, 136, 170; of L. Scipio, 0. 354; of Surena, Im. 416; of Sulla, Iv. 432; of M. Valerius, brother of Publicola, I. 554; of Ventidius, Ix. 214 Triumvirate, of Caesar, Pompey, and Crassus, 1. 354, VII. 494, VMI. 332; of Antony, Octavius, and Lepidus, Vil. 200, 1X. 180; they divide the world, 204

Troad, I. 480; 506

Troas (1), mother of Aeacides by Arybas, IX. 346
Troas (2), daughter of Aeacides and Phthia, Ix. 348
Troezen, founded by Pittheus, I. 6; home of Theseus, 188; II. 28; VI. 64; joined Achaean league, XI. 54; taken over by Cleomenes, X. 90

Troglodytes, their language understood by Cleopatra, Ix. 196
 Troja,’’ sacred equestrian game, VIII. 242
Trojan women, painted by Polygnotus iu Peisanacteum, I. 414
“Trojan women,”’ of Euripides, witnessed by Alexander of Pherae, V. 414
Trophonius, oracle of, 11. 270; IV. 380

Trophy, of Romulus, I. 136; D1. 228

Troy, founded by Dardanus, HU. 144; taken on 24th of Thargelion, 138; 424; destroyed by Heracles on account of wrong done him by Laomedon, It. 210 486

Tubero, Stoic, called Lucullus Xerxes in a toga, Il. 598
Tubero, Q. Aelius, see ‘* Aelius ‘Tubero.’’ Tubertus, Postumius, see ‘‘ Postumius Tubertus,”’ Tuder, Umbrian city, captured by Crassus, II. 8328; Ix. 508
Tuditanus, cited, X. 362

Tullia, daughter of Cicero, dies at home of Lentulus, her 2nd husband, vu. 188
Tullius Cimber, took part in murder of Cicero, VI. 162; given province of Bithynia, 168
Tullus, friend of Cicero, Vit. 154

Tullus, L. Voleatius, reproaches Pompey, V. 274
Tullus Amfidius, see ‘* Amfidius, Tullus,”’ Tullus Attius, king of Volscians, waged war on Romans, said to be ancestor of Cicero, VI. 82. See also “‘ Tullus Amfidius.”’ Tullus Hostilius, see “* Hostilius, Tullus.

Turia, battle near it by Sertorius against Pompey and Metellus, VII. 50
Turpilianus, Petronius, see ‘‘ Petronius Turpilianus.”’ Turpillius, guest-friend of Metellus, executed on false charge of treachery, Ix. 478 .
Tuscans, passed from Thessaly into

Lydia, and thence into Italy, driven from Latium by Romis, I. 92;

colonists from Sardis, 170; driven by Gauls from country stretching from Alps to both seas, O. 128, Ix.

483; defeated with great slaughter

by Romulus at Fidenae, I. 168;

defeated while assisting Tarquinius

Superbus in his attempt to regain throne, 522; routed by Publicola,

046; cut to pieces 300 of Fabii,

Il. 136; besiege Sutrium, 176; capture Satricum, expelled same day

by Camillus, 192

Tuscan sea,’’ name of southern sea,

Il, 128; VI. 368. See also ‘‘ Tyrrhenian sea,.”’

Tuscan wise men, claimed there were 8 ages in all, IV. 346
Tuscany, I. 90; men from, prescribed religious details regarding building of Rome, 118; Veii bulwark of, I.

96; ancient Tuscany described,
128; I. 62; ravaged by Hannibal, 122; its dearth of free inhabitants and great number of barbarian slaves, X. 162
Tusculum, people of, planning revolt, cowed by Camillus, receive rights of Roman citizenship, 1. 192; Cato the Elder’s family from there, 302;
598; 610; V. 290, VII. 542; 184
Tutula, see ‘‘ Philotis.’’

‘*Tyche,’’ name of part of Syracuse,
V. 484
“‘Tycho,’? name given his spear by Alexander of Pherae, Vv. 412 Tydeus, Athenian general, defeated by Lysander at Aegospotami, Iv. 106, 256 Tyndareus, father of Helen, entrusted her to Theseus, I. 70 Tyndaridae, why called ‘* Anakes,”’ I.
78. See also ‘* Dioscuri.”’ rere, tyrant of Euboea, I.
438
 Typhon, blasts of,’ Egyptian name fon Serbonian marshes, Lx. 142; Vv.
9

Tyrannio, grammarian, arranged books in Apellicon’s library and gave copies to Andronicus the Rhodian, Iv. 406; given by Lucullus to Murena, who freed him, I. 530

Tyrants, some titles of, HW 228

Tyre, besieged by Alexander for 7 months and finally taken, VI. 292; demanded of Demetrius by Seleucus, IX. 78
Tyrrhenia, see ‘* Tuscany.”’ Tyrrhenians, dispossessed of best part of Italy by Gauls, Ix. 488. See also  Tuscans.”’ Tyrrhenian sea, cleared of pirates by Pompey, V. 182. See also ‘‘ Tuscan sea,”” Tyrtaeus, X. 52; cited, 1. 224

Uliades, Samian, I. 284

Ulysses, same as Odysseus, V. 488

Umbria, WI. 328

Umbricius, priest, XI. 258

Usipes, or Usipites, defeated by Caesar, VIZ. 496
Utica, V. 140; 144; held by Cato, vm. 568° its people give Cato splendid burial, VOI. 406
Vaccaci, have Pompey wintering among them, VII. 58
 Vae victis,’’ said by Brennus, 1. 164

Vaga, large city in Africa in charge of Turpillius, entered by Jugurtha, Ix. 478
Vagises, Parthian envoy, his words to Crassus, HI. 368
Valens, Fabius, see ‘‘ Fabius Valens.”

Valentia, where Pompey defeated Herennius and Perpenna, V. 158 Valeria, sister of Publicola, beseeches Volumnia, mother of Coriolanus to appeet to him to save Rome, IV. 00

Valeria, daughter of Publicola, one of 10 maidens sent as hostages to Lars Porsena, escapes, I. 550 f.3; said by some to be represented by equestrian statue, 552
Valeria, sister of Hortensius the orator and daughter of Messala, married Sulla, Iv. 436; gave birth to daughter Postuma, 442
Valerii, trace descent from Publicola, I. 566
Valerius, made Romans and Sabines one people, ancestor of P. Valerius Publicola, I. 502
Valerius, Q., executed by Pompey, V. 138
Valerius Antias, see ‘‘ Antias, Valerius.”’ Valerius Flaccus, see ‘‘ Flaccus, Vale-Els.” Valerius Leo, see ‘‘ Leo, Valerius.”

Valerius Maximus (1), M., brother of Publicola, seized letters of Tarquin’s conspirators, I. 512; 538; made consul with Tubertus, won 2 battles, got triumphs and home on Palatine, 554; on vote of senate is to guarantee that wealthy creditors will deal gently with debtors, Iv. 126; received title Maximus for reconciling people with senate, Vv. 146
Valerius Maximus (2), cited, V. 520; VI. 246
Valerius Potitus, see ‘‘ Potitus, Valerius.”” 487

GENERAL INDEX TO ALL THE ‘LIVES’

Valerius Publicola, see ‘‘ Publicola, P. Valerius.”’

Varguntius, legate of Crassus, slain by Parthians, Im. 404
Varinus, P., praetor, defeated repeatedly by Spartacus, D1. 338
Varius Cotylon, friend of Antony, left with 6 legions to guard Gaul, Ix. 178
Varro, C. Terentius, elected consul, his character, 11. 158; defeated at Cannae, 160 f.; welcomed at Rome after Cannae by all, 172
Varro, M. Terentius, Roman philosopher and historian, gave Tarutius task of calculating precise time of Romulus' birth, 1. 120; Pompey's legate in Spain, loses his forces to Caesar, VII. 530; cited, 1. 138
Varro, Cingonius, composed speech for Nymphidius Sabinus, XI. 234; ordered executed by Galba, 236
Varus, Alfenus, general of Vitellius, XI. 304
Varus, Attius, see '* Attius Varus."'

Vatinius, P., proclaimed praetor instead of Cato, v. 250; vi. 102; sought reconciliation with Cicero, VO. 146; in Epidamnus and Apollonia, VI. 180
Vedius, slain by people of Picenum for attacking Pompey, V. 128
 Veientani,'' name for people of Veii, II. 96
Veii, Tuscan city, begins war with Rome by demanding Fidenae, is defeated and makes treaty of friendship for 100 years, I. 170; how induced to give up _ terra-cotta chariot, 536; siege of, 0.96 f.; man of, seized and forced to reveal secret oracles concerning city, 100 f.; capture and sack of, 104; shelters fugitives from battle of Allia, 136
Velabrum, spot where one Larentia is buried and the other disappeared;

two etymologies of word, I. 102
Velesus, with Proculus announces to Numa that Romans invite him to be their king, I. 320
Velia (1), on Palatine, held mansion of Publicola, I, 526; Publicola buried near it, 564
Velia (2), in Italy, VI. 344; 456

Velitrae, people of, offer city to 488

Romans, IV. 144; captured by Camillus, 11. 202
Vellutus, Sicinius, see ‘‘ Sicinius Vellutus.”?
Ventidii, two brothers ordered out of Auximum by Pompey, V. 128
Ventidius Bassus, P., defeats Parthians, slays Labienus and Pharnapates, routs and slays Pacorus, besieges city of Samosata, LX. 208 f.; enjoys triumph over Parthians, 214
Vento, see ‘‘ Perpenna Vento, M.’’

Venus, identified with Libitina, I. 346; regarded by some as natural cause which supplies from moisture seeds of everything, M. 366; Iv. 390;
Venus Victrix, ancestress of Caesar’s race, V. 292; Vil. 248; of Paphos, e203 1X. 192
Venusia, refuge of Varro after Cannae, Ii. 166; V. 514
Verania, wife of Piso, XI. 270

Vercellae, battle of, Lx. 630

Vercingetorix, see ‘* Vergentorix.”’

Verenia, one of first two Vestals appointed by Numa, I. 340 Vergentorix, leads revolt against Caesar, VII. 504; surrenders to

Caesar, 510
Vergilia, taken by Volumnia to camp of Volscians, IV. 202
Vergilio, Attilius, overthrows statue of Galba, XI. 264
Vergilius, C., praetor of Sicily, writes to Cicero to keep away, VI. 164
Verginius, tribune of the people, appointed by Cinna to impeach Sulla, IV. 358
Verginius Rufus, in Gaul, does not join Galba, XI. 216f.; gets his troops to swear allegiance to Galba, 224 f.; his army, 244; made consul by Otho, 2763-318
 Verres,'' its meaning in Latin, VU.

Verres, prosecuted by Cicero, convicted, VII. 98 f.
 Verrucosus,'' surname of Fabius Maximus from wart on lip, I. 118
Vecpasian, built 3rd temple of Jupiter Capitolinus, I. 540; commander in Judaea, friendly to Otho, XI. 284; tried to scize supreme power, 286
Vesta, temple of, I. 146; why built, circular by Numa, name given by
GENERAL INDEX TO

Pythagoreans to fire at centre of universe, 344; temple of, near Regia, 354; fire of, its nature; temple of, said to contain Palladium of Troy, Il. 142 f.
Vestals, law ordained death for one guilty of unchastity, I. 96; introduced by Romulus to guard sacred fire, 160; consecrated by Numa, account of them, 338; get holy water from spot where shield fell, 350; in flight from Gauls carry off sacred fire, I, 142 f.; 362; 01.172; 5 A eo
Veto, of tribune, prevails over his colleagues, X. 166

Vettius (1), friend of O. Gracchus, ably defended at court by him, X. 198
Vettius (2), accused of plotting against life of Pompey at instigation of Lucullus, I. 608
Vettius, Spurius, interrex, put acceptance of Numa Pompilius as king to vote of people, I. 326
Veturius, deserted to Otho, X1. 258

Veturius, C., condemned to death for refusing to make way for tribune in forum, X. 204
Veturius, P., one of first two quaestors, I. 534
Veturius Mamurius, see '* Mamurius, Veturius.'' Vetus, praetor in Spain, VI. 452

Via Nova, 0. 126

Via Sacra, I. 552; VI. 134

Vibius, Sicilian, made prefect of engineers by Cicero, will not receive him in his house, V. 162
Vibius Paciacus, helps young Crassus in his concealment, II. 322 f, Vibo, city of Lucania, previously called Hipponium, V1. 162
Vibullius, friend of Pompey, sent by Caesar to Pompey with peace proposals, V. 284
Vica Pota, temple of, stands where Publicola had his house built, I. 528
 Vici,'' name given villages surrounding Rome, I. 594 Victory, goddess, IV. 390; VI. 278

Villius, C., supporter of Ti. Gracchus, put to death, x. 192
Villius, P., invaded Macedonia late in season and wasted time, X. 326;

encamped over ayainst Philip, 328; sailed to confer with Antiochus about freedom of Greeks under his sway, 354
Vindex, Junius, general in Gaul, revolts from Nero and asks Galba to become emperor, XI. 212f., 242, 270; defeated by Verginius, commits suicide, 218; 252
Vindicius, slave, learns of conspiracy of Vitellii and Aquillii and reveals it to Publicola, I. 510; rewarded for revealing plot, 518
* Vindicta,'? derived from '"* Vindicius,'' I. 518
Vinius, T., captain of Galba's praetorian guard, urges him to revolt against Nero, XI. 214; reports to Galba decrees of senate, 220; jealous of Verginius Rufus, 226; persuades Galba to make use of Nero's riches, his character, his acts ruin Galba, 228, 272, 230, 240 f.; 250; 262; party to conspiracy against Galba, also slain, 266; 268
Vipsanian portico, XI. 262

Virginius, see '* Verginius."'

Virtue and Honour, temple to, by Marcellus, Y. 512
'* Virtus,'' its meaning, Iv. 120

Vitellii, corrupted by Tarquin's envoys, won over two of Brutus' sons to join plot to bring back Tarquins, I, 508
Vitellius, A., proclaimed emperor in Germany, XI. 252 f.; put to death 120 who claimed part in death of Galba and his adherents, 268; corresponds with Otho, 284; his wife and mother cared for by Otho, 286; joined by Otho's troops, 308; 312;

I, 540
Vitellius, L., brother of the emperor,
XI, 286
‘* Vixerunt,’’ word used of those dead,
Vu. 134
Voconius, sent by Lucullus with fleet to intercept Mithridates, is too late,
Ir. 508
Voconius, had three very ugly daughters, VI. 150
Vol-cians, defeated and Corioli captured, IV. 132; 2nd war against them planned, 146; send embassy to Rome demanding back captured 489 territory and cities, 180; through Coriolanus demand restitution of cities and territories torn from them and equal civic rights, 190; withdraw from before Rome, 210; after death of Coriolanus quarrel with Aequians, defeated in battle by Romans, become her _ subjects,

216 f.; defeated by the dictator Postumius Tubertus, Tl. 96; with Aequians and Latinsinvade Roman territory, 176; defeated by Camillus, 180; 182; make war on Rome, 190; had king Tullus Attius, vn.
82 Volumnia, greatly loved by her son Coriolanus, IV. 126; persuades him to spare Rome, 200f.; quoted,
202 f.
Volumnius, actor, put to death after Philippi, vI. 228
Volumnius, P., philosopher, with Brutus at Philippi, 234, 240 f.
Vopiscus,’’ surname of surviving twin, IV. 142
Votive olferings, MI. 210

Vows, bv Fabius Maximus, DI. 130

Vulcan, temple of, I. 166; 174; contained bronze statue of Horatius, 046
Vultures, why used chiefly by Romans for auguries, why liked by Hercules, 1.114
Vulturnus, river in district of Casilinum, Il. 134
Wages, paid by Lysander and Alcibiades respectively, IV. 102, 240 f.
Waggons, four-wheeled, used by Persians in conveying their women folk, I. 70 f.

Wall, long, at Athens, measure for, introduced by Pericles, TH. 42; at Argos, built on advice of Alcibiades, IV. 38; UO. 248; at Rome, course of, how marked out, I. 118
Wars: between Achaeans and Aetolians, XI. 70 f.; between Achaeans and Eleians, X. 58; between Agesilaiis and Persia, I. 464f., V. 22; of Antony and Caesar against Brutus and Cassius, IX. 182 f.; between Antony and Octavius, VI. 452, Vil. 198; of Asiatic cities against 490

Persia, IV. 296; between Athens and Aegina, Il. 10f., vI. 10; between Athens and Philip, vm. 178f.; between Athens and Samos, HI. 68, 72 f.; Boeotian war (usually called Corinthian) Iv. 308 f.; of Caesar in Egypt, VII. 556; between Carthage and Masinissa, Il. 380; between Carthage and Rome, 382; between Corcyraeans and Corinthians, OL 82; between Demetrius and Rhodians, Ix. 48; between Egypt and Persia, 0. 84f.; XI. 184: between Eumenes and Antigonus, VI. 102 f.; between Greeks and Persians under Xerxes, I, 16; Hellenic wars, stopped by Themistocles, 18; Jugurthine, Iv. 328; Lamian, Vi. 66, VI. 194, IX. 346; between Machanidas and Achaeans, X. 280; Marsic or Social, I. 474, Iv. 336 f., VOL. 86, Vill. 8, IX. 552; between Megalopolis and Nabis, tyrant of Sparta, X. 288; between Octavius and Antony, EX. 264f.; Parthian, I. 364 f.; Ix. 190, 218f.; Peloponnesian, Il. 212, M1. 82 f., 240, 244 f., Iv. 238, X. 112; Phocian, vi. 28, 42; against pirates, conducted by Pompey, V. 180f.; between Pompey and Caesar, VU. 520f.; between Achaeans and Romans, X. 292; between Romans und Aequians, Volscians, Latins, and Tuscans, 1. 176 f.; of Rome in Africa, 310 f.; of Rome with Antiochus the Great, 334, 388, VI. 362, X. 302, 362 f.; of Rome with Carthage, Il. 382; of Rome with Cimbri and Teutones, vill. 6; between Romans and Carthaginians for Sicily, Vv. 436, 440; of Rome with Falerians and Capenates, Il. 98; between Romans and Faliscans, 116; between Romans and Gauls, 198 f.; of Rome with Hannibal, 398, Ml. 120f., v. 436; of Rome with Ligurians, M1. 120; of Rome against Mithridates, I. 474, 488, Iv. 344 f., 358, v. 196 f., Ix. 554; of Rome against Numantia, X. 152 f.5 of Rome with Perseus, VI. 370f.; with Philip, 370, x. 324 f.; with Praenestines and Volscians, 0. 190; with Sabines and Latins, I. 556; with Spaniards, x.

GENERAL INDEX TO

154; with Tarentum, IX. 382; with Tigranes, 0. 542, 546 f.; with Vol-scians, 1V. 132, 170 f.; with Veii,

TW. 96f.; Sacred war, WI. 62 f.; Sertorian, HW. 486, V. 156 f.; Sicilian,
IX. 280; Social war in Greece, VII.
40; Spanish (Hither Spain) I.
330 f., 388; between Sparta and Persia, V. 12f.; between Sparta and other Greeks, 38; between Sparta and Thebes, 58 f., 372 f.; of Spartacus, I. 334 f.
Wasps, bred in putrefying horses, X.
14
Weer caer. in bronze, at Sardis,

I. 84

Water supply, of Rome, private tapping stopped, i. 356 Way, Appian, Caesar as curator spent large sums of his own money on it,
Vi. 452
Wealth, Roman, consisted in flocks and herds chiefly, I. 532; that of Veii great, 0. 96 f.; much gold and silver imported from Athens to Sparta by Lysander, IV. 236
Weapons, H. 560; Ix. 530

“White day,’’ origin of expression,
HI. 78
White village, little place between Berytus and Sidon, Ix. 254 Widows, at Rome, penalty for early remarriage, 1. 346; Ii. 96; not permitted to remarry until husband had been dead 10 months, Ix. 206
Wills, Solon’s law concerning, I. 460;
Iv. 20; Roman soldiers made un_ written ones just before battle, 136; will of Caesar, VI. 168; of Antony, 1X, 268 f.
Wine, how introduced to Gauls, 1.
126 Women, regulations of Lycurgus and Numa concerning them compared,

I. 390 f.; Roman women, character and customs, 392; regulations of Solon concerning them, 462; 522; 556; 564f.; 0.52; Persian women watched very carefully by their husbands, 70; Roman women rewarded by being given eulogy at their funerals, 114; 178; 296 f.; their power in Rome, 322; Cato the Elder's opinion of man who struck wife or child, 360; 364; 414; ALL THE. * LIVES:

4165. TU. 25° 378s. 4185 Ty. 205 how honoured at Rome when Coriolanus' mother saved city, 210; holy women of Germans, Vil. 488; VIII. 292; Ix. 338; Roman woman had no pracnomen, 464; Spartan women ruled their husbands, possessed greater part of wealth in time of Agis, x. 18
Women's Fortune, temple of, erected at Rome, Iv. 210 Woodpecker, especially honoured by yauns, considered sacred to Mars, 1,9
Wool, Milesian, Iv. 62

Xanthians, ignore M. Brutus, meet with disaster, VI. 130
Xanthippides, archon in year of Mardonius' defeat, If. 226
Aanthippus (1), father of Pericles and Ariphron, IV. 2; gave burial to dog that followed him to Salamis, I. 30, 318; 58; with Cimon and Myronides envoy to Sparta, 244; father of Pericles by Agaristé, conquered Persians at Mycalé, OI. 6
Xanthippus (2), son of Pericles and his Ist wife, 01. 70; eldest son of Pericles, had feud with his father, died during plague, 104
Xanthus, city in Lycia, VI. 270;

besieged by Brutus and destroyed, VI. 194
Xanthus, flute-player, Lx. 186

Xenagoras, son of Eumelus, measured height of Mt. Olympus, VI. 394
Xenarchus, author, Il. 208

Xenares, friend of Cleomenes, does not encourage him to copy Agis, X. 54
Xenocles (1) of deme Cholargus, set on high lantern over shrine of sanc-wae of mysteries at Eleusis, MI. 4
Xenocles (2) ambassador of Agesilatis, imprisoned in Larissa, V. 42
Xenocles (3) exile from Sicyon, helps Aratus in plot to return, XI. 10
Xenocles (4) of Adramyttium, taught Cicero oratory, VII. 90
Xenocrates, If. 612; received gift of 50 talents from Alexander, VI, 244; had Phocion as pupil in the Aca- 491

demy, VUI. 152; philosopher, as ambassador not successful with Antipater, 204; paid resident alien tax, 212; morose in disposition, advised by Plato to sacrifice to Muses, IX. 466; anecdote about him, v. 356
Xenodochus, of Cardia, with Alex-ander, VII. 370
Xenophantus, celebrated flute-player, xX. 132
Xenophilus (1), father of victorious choregus named Aristides, 1. 212
Xenophilus (2), robber captain, hires out a few soldiers to Aratus, X1. 12
Xenophon (1), Athenian, defeated by Chalcidians in Thrace, Il. 226

Xenophon (2), fought on side of Agesilalis at Coroneia, V. 46; philosopher, in train of Agesilaiis, ordered to rear his sons at Sparta, 52; with Ten Thousand marched from sea to Babylon and back, V. 22, Ix. 242; Iv. 94; V. 330; XI. 142
Ages. (VI. 4) V. 8

Anab. (I. 6-11) XI. 132; (1. 8. 26) 146; (1. 1. 7-23) 156
Cyrop. (Iv. 1. 3) V. 528

Hell. (I. 4. 17) ¥. 492; (Vil. 5. 12-14) 96
Reip. Lac. (X. 8) I. 206

Symp. referred to, IV. 2743; (1. 1) Vv. 80
See also x1. 154.
Xerxes, father of Artaxerxes, X1. 128; had sister Sandaucé, OH. 238; marched through Thessaly and Boeotia against Attica, 234; forces pass of Thermopylae, 24; induced to fight by message from Themistocles, 36; defeated by Greeks at Salamis, 12, 38; induced to retreat to Asia by ruse of Themistocles, 44f., 240; left Mardonius behind to obstruct pursuit, 12, 240; set 200 talents upon head of Themistocles, 70; met him, 74f.; 86; 396; defeated by Cimon at Eurymedon, 438 f.; made treaty with Greeks after Eurymedon, 444; Iv, 374; V.42; statue of him left lying by Alexander, VII. 334; XI. 130; quoted, Il. 76
Xypeté, Attic deme, Metagenes of, 1. 40 492

Year, how computed by early Romans, Greeks, Egyptians, and others, 1.

366 f.; method of designating, changed at Athens, IX, 26; great year, IV. 346 Zacynthians, actual assassins of Dion, 578 (a sl se 2
Zacynthus, island of, rendezvous of Dicn's supporters, MI. 290, VI. 46; S510
Zaleucus, had frequent audiences of Deity, 1. 320
Zarbienus, king of Gordyeni, secretly arranged alliance with Lucullus through Clodius, betrayed and executed, Il. 534, 568
Zarctra, fortress in Muboea, occupied by Phocion, vm. 172
Zela, battle of, VII. 560

Zeleia, Arthmius of, 11.18

Zeno (1), Eleatic, teacher of Pericles in natural philosophy and eristic, I. 10; defended Pericles against charge of conceit, 14
Zeno (2) of Citium, adopted Lycurgus' design for a civil polity, 1. 300; followed by Sphaerus, X. 52; quoted, Vill, 154; XI. 52
Zeno (3) Cretan, teacher of dancing, XI. 176
Zenodotia, in Mesopotamia, taken by Crassus, II. 364 Zenodotus, of Troezen, clted, I. 130

Zeugitae, class at Athens with yearly increase of 200 measures, I. 450, 1. 386
Zeugma, place where Crassus crossed Euphrates, M1. 372; 404
Zeus, Olympian games in honour of, instituted by Hercules, I. 56; I. 246; 280; statue of, at Pisa, OI. 4; procession in honour of, at Athens, VIII. 230
Zeus Areius, sacrificed to at Passaro,

IX. 356
Zeus, Dodonaean, oracle of, I. 76

Zeus Eleutherios, UW. 272, 274, 276, 278
Zeus Hecalus, named from Hecalé who entertained Theseus, I. 26
Zeus, Olympian, II. 260, Iv. 390

Zeus, Soter, I. 246, VU. 68, XI. 122

Zeus, Syllanius, I, 220

GENERAL INDEX

Zeuxidamus, father of Archidamus, I. 452, V.2
Zeuxis, quoted, 1. 40

Zoilus, put coats of mail made by him to severe test, Ix. 50
Zopyrus, slave, tutor of Alcibiades, 1. 256, IV. 2
TO ALL

THE ‘LIVES’

Zopyrus, soldier of Antigonus, slew Pyrrhus, 1X. 458 Zoroaster, had frequent audience with Deity, I. 320) Zosimé, wife of Tigranes, led in Pompey''s triumph, V. 230